The Senate was not in session.

House.—A resolution for a select committee of nine to consider all questions relating to woman's rights was adopted—yeas, 115; nays, 85. The post-office appropriation bill was reported from the Committee of the Whole and passed.

Monday, Feb., 27th.

Both Houses spent the day in attendance upon the Garfield ceremonies in the hall of the House. The eulogy was delivered by the Hon. James G. Blaine, in the presence of both Houses, the President and his Cabinet the Supreme Judges, the diplomatic corpse and other distinguished persons.

Tuesday, Feb. 28th.

Senate.—A resolution was adopted providing for the investigation of the obstraction of certain documents from the Department of State. The usual post route bill was passed. Mr. Miller addressed the Senate on Chinese immigration.

House.—The Committee on Elections submitted a resolution declaring that neither Cannon nor Campbell were entitled to sit as delegates from Utah. The military academy appropriation bill was passed. A bill was introduced authorizing the construction of the National Labor League Railway from New York to Chicago and other Western cities, and providing for liberal aid to the enterprise by the Government.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.
Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of Experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE Producing affections of the blood, skin or bones, treated with success, on scientific principles, without using Mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.

YOUNG MEN and those of middle age who are suffering from organic weakness that unfits its victims for business or marriage, permanently cured, at moderate expense.

PATIENTS TREATED by Mail and Express but where possible personal consultation is preferred, which is FREE and invited. List of questions to be answered by patients desiring treatment mailed free to any address on application.

Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.

Communications strictly confidential, and should be addressed
DR. BUTTS, 12 North 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Something New under the Sun.

THE HOUSEHOLD GROCERY PACKAGE

Will please every household which tries it. Your Grocer will show it to you! examine it. Nothing in it but just what you want. The goods would cost you double the money, bought in the retail way If your dealer does not keep the "Household Package," order from us a Circular and a Sample of the Goods, sent free by mail.

HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
CHICAGO.

ANOTHER NEW DEPARTURE.

THE HOUSEHOLD MEDICINE CHEST.

Is just what you want! Your druggist will show it to you. Every household needs it; you will pay twice the money and get less, somewhere else. The Chest will please you. Circular with full description of contents mailed free to any address if your Druggist does not have it on hand.

HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
CHICAGO.

In Memory of Garfield.

Blaine's Eulogy on the Life, Character and Services of the Dead.

WASHINGTON.

Prior to 10 o'clock this morning, admission to the Capitol was refused to all save members of the two houses of Congress and their employes, but at that hour the doors were thrown open to persons holding tickets to the memorial services of the late James A. Garfield, and soon the galleries of the House were filled to their utmost capacity. A large majority of the spectators were ladies, who, out of respect to the occasion, had, for the most part, discarded bright colors, and somber black was the prevailing hue. There were no signs of mourning in the hall. A full length portrait of the late President was hung just back of the chairs of the presiding officers, being itself undraped, the members of the House early in attendance all being arrayed in black. In the lobby, back of the Spaker's desk, the Marine Band was stationed, and at intervals from 10 o'clock until noon discoursed solemn music.

Among the distinguished guests first to arrive were Judge Bancroft, Cyrus W. Field and Admiral Worden, who took seats directly in front of the Clerk desk. Among the guests who at an early hour occupied seats upon the floor, were General Schenck and Governors Hoyt, of Pennsylvania, Foster, of Ohio, and Hamilton, of Maryland, and Bigelow, of Connecticut. At 11:30 Generals Sherman, Sheridan, Hancock, Howard and Meigs, and Admirals Ammen, Rogers and Rodgers entered, and were assigned seats to the left of the speaker's desk, and a few moments later the members of the Diplomatic Corps, in full regalia, were ushered in, headed by the Hawaiian Minister as the Dean of corps. Their brilliant costumes only served to throw into stronger relief the dark attire of the members of Congress, who sat immediately behind them. The members of the Supreme Court of the District headed by Marshal Henry, were the next arrivals. Dr. Bliss was also in attendance. Mrs. Blaine occupied a front seat in the gallery reserved for the friends of the President.

THE ADDRESS.

MR. PRESIDENT: For the second time in this generation the great departments of the Government of the United States are assembled in the Hall of Representatives to do honor to the memory of a murdered President. Lincoln fell at the close of a mighty struggle, in which the passions of men had been deeply stirred. The tragical termination of his great life added but another to the lengthened succession of horrors which had marked so many lintels with the blood of the firstborn. Garfield was slain in a day of peace, when brother had been reconciled to brother, and when anger and hate had been banished from the land. "Whoever shall hereafter draw THE PORTRAIT OF MURDER, if he will show it as it has been exhibited, where such example was least to have been looked for, let him not give the grim visage of Molock, the brow knitted by revenge, the face black with settled hate. Let him draw rather a decorous, smooth-faced, bloodless demon, not so much an example of human nature in its depravity and in its paroxysms of crime, as an infernal being, a fiend in the ordinary display and development of his character."

FROM THE LANDING OF THE PILGRIMS at Plymouth till the uprising against Charles I., about 20,000 emigrants came from Old England to New England. As they came in pursuit of intellectual freedom and ecclesiastical independence rather than for wordly honor and profit, the emigration naturally ceased when the contest for religious liberty began in earnest at home. The man who struck his most effective blow for freedom of conscience by sailing for the colonies in 1620, would have been accounted a deserter to leave after 1640. The opportunity had then come on the soil of England for that great contest which established the authority of Parliament, gave religious freedom to the people, SENT CHARLES TO THE BLOCK and committed to the hands of Oliver Cromwell the supreme executive authority of England. The English emigration was never renewed, and from these 20,000 men, with a small emigration from Scotland and from France, are descended the vast numbers who have New England blood in their viens. In 1765 the revocation of the Edict of Nantes by Louis XIV., scattered to other countries 400,000 Protestants, who were among the most intelligent and enterprising of French subjects. Merchants of capital, skilled manufacturers and handicrafts—men superior at the time to all others in Europe. A considerable number of these Huguenot French came to America. A few landed in New England and became HONORABLY PROMINENT IN ITS HISTORY. Their names have in large part become Anglicized, or have disappeared, but their blood is traceable in many of the most reputable families, and their fame is perpetuated in honorable memorials and useful institutions. From these two sources—the English Puritan and the French Huguenot—came the late President, his father, Abram Garfield, being descended from the one, and his mother, Eliza Ballou, from the other. It was GOOD STOCK ON BOTH SIDES—none better, none braver, none truer. There was in it an inheritance of courage, of manliness, of imperishable love of liberty, of undying adherence to principle. Garfield was proud of his blood, and, with as much satisfaction as if he were a British nobleman reading his stately ancestral record in Burke's Peerage, he spoke of himself as ninth in descent from those who would not endure the oppression of the Stuarts, and seventh in descent from the brave French Protestants who refused to submit to tyranny even from the Grand Monarque. General Garfield delighted to dwell on these traits, and during his only visit to England he busied himself in discovering EVERY TRACE OF HIS FOREFATHERS in parish registries and on ancient army roles. Sitting with a friend in the gallery of the House of Commons one night after a long day's labor in this field of research, he said with evident elation, that in every war in which for there centuries patriots of English blood had struck sturdy blows for constitutional government and human liberty his family had been represented. They were at Marston Moor, at Naseby and Preston; they were at Bunker Hill, at Saratoga, and at Monmouth, and his own person had battled for the same great cause in the war which preserved the Union of States. Losing his father before he was two years old THE EARLY LIFE OF GRTFIELD was one of privation, but its poverty has been made indelicately and unjustly prominent. Thousand of readers have imagined him as the ragged, starving child, whose reality too often greets the eye in the squalid sections of our great cities. General Garfield's infancy and youth had none of their destitution, none of the pitiful features appealing to the tender heart and to the open hand of charity. He was a poor boy in the same sense in which Henry Clay was a poor boy; in which Andrew Jackson was a poor boy; in which Daniel Webster was a poor boy; in the same sense in which a large majority of the eminent men of America in all generations have been poor boys. BEFORE A GREAT MULTITUDE of men, in a public speech, Mr. Webster bore this testimony: "It did not happen to me to be born in a log-cabin, but my elder brothers and sisters were born in a log-cabin, raised amid the snowdrifts of New Hampshire at a period so early that when the smoke rose first from its crude chimney and curled over the frozen hills there was no similar evidence of a white man's habitation between it and these settlements on the rivers of Canada. It remains still. I make to it an annual visit. I carry my children to it to teach them the hardships endured by the generations which have gone before them. I love to dwell on the tender recollections, the kindred ties, the early affections, and touching narratives and incidents which mingle wtih all."

I know of this primitive family abode, with the requisite change of scene, the same words would aptly portray THE EARLY DAYS OF GARFIELD. The poverty of the frontier, where all engaged in a common struggle, and where a common sympathy and hearty co-operation lighten the burdens of each, is a very different poverty—different in kind, different in influence and effect from that concious and humiliating indigence which is every day forced to contrast itself with neighboring wealth, on which it feels a sense of grinding dependence. The poverty of the frontier is indeed no poverty. It is but the beginning of wealth, and has the boundless possibilities of the future always opening before it. No man ever grew up in the agricultural regions of the West where a house raising or even a corn husking is a matter of common interest and helpfulness, with another feeling than that of BROAD MINDED, GENEROUS INDEPENDENCE. This honorable independence marked the youth of Garfield, as it marks the youth of millions of the best blood and brain now training for the future citizenship and future government of the Republic. Garfield was born heir to land, to the title of freeholder, which has been the patent and passport of self-respect with the Anglo-Saxon race ever since Hengist and Horsa landed on the shores of England. His adventure on the canal, an alternative between that and the deck of a Lake Erie schooner, was A FARMER BOY'S DEVICE for earning money, just as the New England lad begins a possible great career by sailing before the mast on a coasting vessel, or on a merchantman bound to the farther India, or to the China seas. No man feels anything of shame in looking back to early struggles with adverse circumstances, and no man feels a worthier pride than when he has conquered the obstacles to his progress. But no one of noble mould desires to be looked upon as having occupied a menial position, as having been repressed by a feeling of inferiority, or as having suffered the evils of poverty until relief was found at the hand of charity. General Garfield's youth presented no hardships which family love and family energy did not overcome, subjected him to no privations which he did not cheerfully accept, and let no memories save those which were recalled with delight and transmitted with profit and with pride. GARFIELD'S EARLY OPPORTUNITIES for securing an education were extremely limited, and yet were sufficient to develop in him an intense desire to learn. He could read at three years of age, and each winter he had the advantage of the district school. He read all the books he found within the circle of his acquaintance. Some of them he got by heart. While yet in childhood he was a constant student of the Bible, and became familiar with its liturature. The dignity and earnestness of his speech in his maturer life gave evidence of this early training. AT EIGHTEEN YEARS OF AGE he was able to teach school, and thenceforward his ambition was to obtain a college education. To this end he bent all his efforts, working in the harvest field, at the carpenter's bench, and in the winter season teaching the common schools of the neighborhood.

While thus laboriously occupied, he found time to prosecute his studies, and was so successful that at twenty-two he was able to enter the Junior class at Williams College, then under the Presidency of the venerable and honored Mark Hopkins, who, in the fullness of his powers, survives the eminent pupil to whom he was of inestimable service.

The history of Garfield's life to this period presents no novel features. He had undoubtedly shown perseverance, self-reliance, self-sacrifice and ambition—qualities which, be it said for the honor of our country, are everywhere to be found among the young men of America. But from HIS GRADUATING AT WILLIAMS, onward to the hour of his tragical death, Garfield's career was eminent and exceptional. Slowly working through his educational period, receiving his diploma when twenty-four years of age, he seemed at one bound to spring into conspicuous and brilliant success. Within six years he was successively President of a college, State Senator of Ohio, Major General of the army of the United States and Representative to the National Congress. A combination of honors so varied, so elevated, within a period so brief, and to a man so young, is without precedent or parallel in the history of the country. GARFIELD'S ARMY LIFE was begun with no other military knowledge than such as he had hastily gained from books in the few months preceding his march to the field. Stepping from civil life to the head of a regiment, the first order he received when ready to cross the Ohio was to assume command of a brigade, and to operate as an independent force in Eastern Kentucky. His immediate duty was to check the advance of Humphery Marshall, who was marching down the Big Sandy with the intention of occupying, in connection with other Confederate forces, the entire territory of Kentucky, and of precipitating the State into secession. This was at the close of the year 1861. Seldom if ever has a young college professor been thrown into a more EMBARRASSING AND DISCOURAGING POSITION. He knew just enough of military science, as he expressed it himself, to measure the extent of his ignorance, and with a handful of men he was marching in rough winter weather into a strange country, among a hostile population, to confront a largely superior force under the command of a distinguished graduate of West Point, who had seen active and important service in two preceding wars. The result of the campaign is matter of history. The skill, the endurance, the extraordinary energy shown by Garfield, the courage he imparted to his men, raw and untried as himself; the measures he adopted to increase his force and to create in the enemy's mind exaggerated estimates of his numbers, bore perfect fruit in THE ROUTING OF MARSHALL, the capture of his camp, the dispersion of his force, and the emancipation of an important territory from the control of the rebels. Coming at the close of the long series of disasters to the Union arms, Garfield's victory had an unusual and extraneous importance, and in the popular judgment elevated the young commander to the rank of amilitary hero. With less than 2,000 men in his entire command, with a mobilized force of only 1,100, without cannon, he had met an army of 5,000, and defeated them, driving Marshall's forces successfully from two strongholds of their own selection, fortified with abundant artillery. Major General Buell, commanding the department of the Ohio, an experienced and able soldier of the regular army, published an order of thanks and congratulations on the brilliant result of the Big Sandy campaign, which would have turned the head of a less cool and sensible man than Garfield. Buell declared that his services had called into action the HIGHEST QUALITIES OF A SOLDIER, and President Lincoln supplemented these words of praise by the more substantial reward of a Brigadier General's commission, to bear date from the day of his decisive victory over Marshall.

The subsequent military career of Garfield fully sustained its brilliant beginning. With his new commission he was assigned to the command of a brigade in the Army of Ohio, and took part in the second and decisive day's fight in the great battle of Shiloh.

The remainder of the year 1862 was not especially eventful to Garfield, as it was not to the armies with which he was serving. His practical sense was called into exercise in contemplating the task assigned him by General Buell of reconstructing bridges and re-establishing lines of railway communication for the army. His occupation in this useful, but not brilliant field, was varied by service on courts-martial of importance, in which department of duty he won a valuable reputation, attracting the notice and securing the approval of the able and eminent Judge Advocate General of the army. That of itself was a warrant to honorable fame, for among the great men who in those trying days gave themselves, with entire devotion to the service of their country, one who brought to that service the respect, learning, the most fervid eloquence, the most varied attainments, who in the day of triumph sat reserved, and silent and grateful "as Francis Deak in the hour of Hungary's deliverance," was Joseph Holt, of Kentucky, and in his honorable retirement enjoys the respect and veneration of all who love the union of the States.

Early in 1863 Garfield was assigned to the highly important and RESPONSIBLE POST of Chief of Staff to General Rosecrans, then at the head of the Army of the Cumberland. Perhaps in a great military campaign no subordinate officer requires sounder judgment and quicker knowledge of men than the chief of staff to the commanding General. An indiscreet man in such a position can sow more discord, breed more jealousy and disseminate more strife than any other officer in the entire organization. When General Garfield assumed his new duties he found various troubles already well-developed, and seriously affecting the value and efficiency of the Army of the Cumberland. The energy, the impartiality, and the tact with which he sought to allay these dissensions and to discharge the duties of his new and trying position will always remain one of the most striking proofs of his great versitility. His military duties closed on THE MEMORABLE FIELD OF CHICKAMAUGA, a field which, however disastrous to the Union arms, gave to him the occasion of winning imperishable laurels. The very rare distinction was accorded him of a great promotion for his bravery on a field that was lost. President Lincoln appointed him a Major General in the army of the United States "for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Chickamauga." The Army of the Cumberland was reorganized under the command of General Thomas, who promptly offered Garfield one of its divisions. He was extremely desirous to accept the position, but was embarrassed by the fact that he had a year before been elected to Congress, and the time when he must take his seat was drawing near. He preferred to remain in the military service, and had within his own breast the largest confidence of success in the wider field which his new rank opened to him. Balancing the arguments on the one side and the other, anxious to determine what was for the best, desirous above all things to do his patriotic duty, he was decisively influenced by THE ADVICE OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN and Secretary Stanton both of whom assured him that he could at that time be of special value in the House of Representatives. He resigned his commission of Major General on the 5th day of December, 1863, and took his seat in the House of Representatives on the 17th. He had served two years and four months in the army, and had just completed his 32d year.

THE THIRTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS is entitled in history to the designation of the War Congress. It was elected while the war was flagrant, and every member was chosen upon the issues involved in the continuance of the struggle. The Thirty-seventh Congress had indeed legislated to a large extent on war measures; but it was chosen before any one believed that secession of the States would be actually attempted. The magnitude of the work which fell upon its successor was unprecedented both in respect to the vast sum of money raised for support of the army and navy, and to the new and extraordinary powers of legislation which it was forced to exercise. Only twenty-four States were represented, and 182 were upon its rolls. Among these were DISTINGUISHED PARTY LEADERS, on both sides—veterans in the public service, with established reputations for ability, and with that skill which comes only from parlimentary experience. Into this assemblage of men Garfield entered, without special preparation, and, it might almost be said, unexpectedly. The question of taking command of a division of troops under General Thomas or taking his seat in Congress was kept open till the last moment—so late, indeed, that the resignation of his military commission and his appearance in the House were almost contemporaneous. He wore the uniform of a Major General of the United States army on Saturday, and on Monday in civilian's dress he answered to the roll-call as a Representative in Congress from the State of Ohip.

HE WAS ESPECIALLY FORTUNATE in the constituency which elected him. Descended almost entirely from New England stock, the men of the Ashtabula district were intensely radical on all questions relating to human rights, well educated, thrifty, thoroughly intelligent in affairs, acutely discerning of character, not quick to bestow confidence, and slow to withdraw it, they were at once the MOST HELPFUL AND MOST EXACTING OF SUPPORTERS. Their tenacious trust in men in whom they have once confided is illustrated by the unparalleled fact that Elisha Whittlesey, Joshua R. Giddings, and James A. Garfield represented the district for fifty-four years. There is no test of a man's ability in any department of public life more severe than service in the House of Representatives; there is no place where so little deference is paid to reputation previously acquired, or to eminence won outside; no place where so little consideration is shown for the feelings or failures of beginners. What a man gains in the House he gains by SHEER FORCE OF HIS OWN CHARACTER, and, if he loses and falls back, he must expect no mercy and will receive no sympathy. It is a field in which the survival of the strongest is the recognized rule, and where no pretense can deceived and no glamour can mislead. The real man is discovered, his worth is impartially weighed, his rank is irrevocably decided. With possibly a single exception, Garfield was the youngest member in the House when he entered, and was but seven years from his college graduation: but he had not been in his seat sixty days before HIS ABILITY WAS RECOGNIZED and his place conceded. He stepped to the front with the confidence of one who belonged there; the House was crowded with strong men of both parties; nineteen of them have since been transferred to the Senate, and many of them have served with distinction in the Gubernatorial chairs of their respective States, and on foreign missions of great consequence. But among all, none grew so rapidly, none so firmly, as Garfield. As is said by Tevelyan of his parlimentary hero, Garfield succeeded because all the world in concert could not have kept him in the background, and because, when once in the front, he played his part with a prompt intrepidity and a commanding ease that were but the outward symptoms of THE IMMENSE RESERVES OF ENERGY on which it was in his power to draw. Indeed, the apparently reserved force which Garfield possessed was one of his great characteristics. He never did so well but that it seemed he could easily have done better. He never expended so much strength but that he seemed to be holding additional power at call. This is one of the happiest and rarest distinctions of an effective leader, and often counts for as much in persuading an assembly as eloquent and elaborate argument.

HIS MILITARY LIFE, illustrated by honorable performance, and rich in promise, was, as he himself felt, prematurely terminated and necessarily incomplete. Speculation as to what he might have done in a field where the great prizes are so few cannot be profitable. It is sufficient to say that as a soldier he did his duty bravely, he did it intelligently, he won an enviable fame, and retired from the service without blot or breath against him. As a lawyer, though admirably equipped for the profession, he can scarcely be said to have entered on its practice. THE FEW EFFORTS MADE AT THE BAR were distinguished by the same high order of talent which he exhibited on every field where he was put to test, and, if a man may be accepted as competent judge of his own capacities and adaptations, the law was the profession to which Garfield should have devoted himself. But fate ordained otherwise, and his reputation in history

[Continued on Seventh Page.]

GREAT GERM DESTROYER.

DARBY'S

Prphylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great

DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER

PREPARED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

REED'S

TRADE MARK

GILT EDGE

TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE

Prof. Harris' Radical Cure

TradeMark

FOR

NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE

A Valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, via: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoro'ly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had epilepsy from weakness, for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 10th, '79.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 28, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box [No. 2] for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

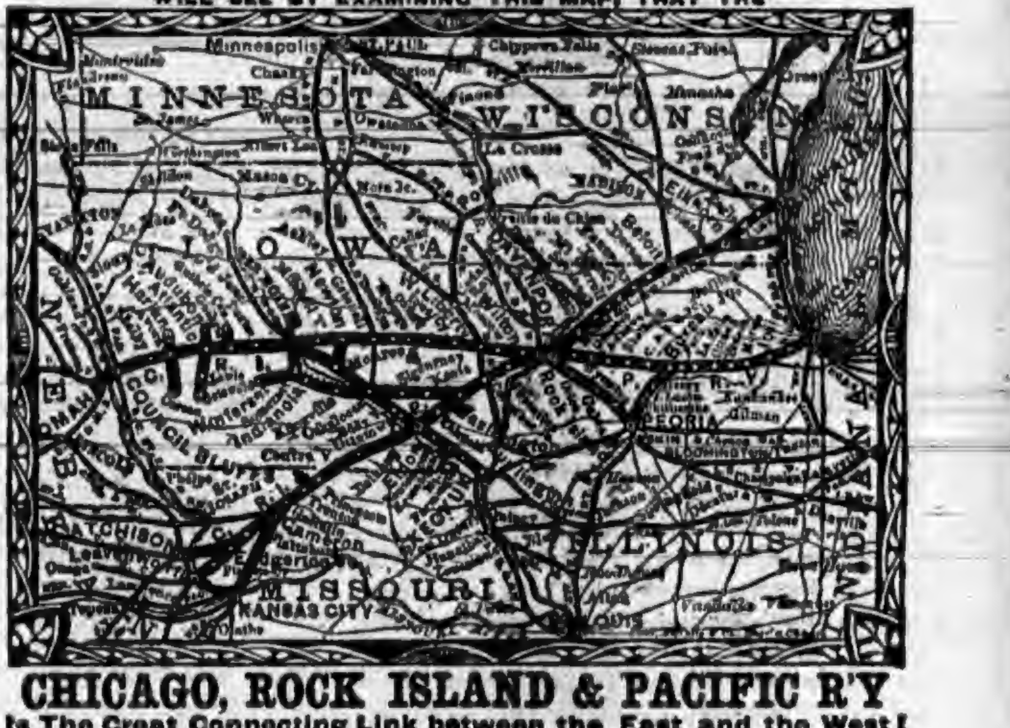
Missouri, June 27.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2, '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way, and wish one No. 3 box.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE



CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C. B. and Q. R. Rds.
At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab. St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.
At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.
At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.
At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

For information not obtainable at your home office, address,

R. R. CABLE,
Vice President and General Manager.

E. ST. JOHN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., MARCH 9, 1882

Conkling has declined the Judgeship, as many believed from the first that he would.

Scoville claims to have new evidence of Guiteau's insanity and will make it a reason for asking a new trial.

They are having great mass meetings of the Anti-Chinese politicians and others, in San Francisco, just at present.

The Apache Indians are again on the war path in Colorado and New Mexico. Two or three of the settlers have been killed.

And now they talk of starting a new paper in the City of New York, to be an Arthur organ, Arthur begins to hanker for an organ.

It has been decided to call a meeting of the democratic congressional committee of this district. It will be at Kendallville, March 21, at 2 o'clock p. m.

The pay car of the Wabash road was run onto a side track at Peoria last Friday by a number of employes of the company who demanded two months back pay.

They have a "Tall Man's Club" in New York city. At a recent dinner of the club, there were present seventy-three men, not one of whom was less than six feet two inches in height.

It will soon be a year since the prosecution of the star route swindlers has begun, and they are still unpunished. In fact Dorsey is still secretary of the republican national committee.

The floods in various parts of the country are still raging. In Arkansas and Mississippi, it is estimated that not less than thirty-five thousand people have been driven from their homes.

A recent statement seems to prove that Vanderbilt is the richest man in the whole world. He is said to be worth anywhere from two hundred millions to three hundred millions.

We publish on our first page a clipping from the New York Tribune, to show what that paper thinks of Conkling. We hope that some of our contemporaries will give it a careful perusal

Still more frauds have been discovered in the returns of the last November election in Philadelphia. The democrats have secured a warrant for the arrest of the republican judge and inspectors, but these worthies have escaped, and cannot be found.

The Indianians, of the republican persuasion, at Washington, will give a grand banquet and ball this week. Among those whom they intend to honor in this way, we find the name of Thomas J. Brady, one of the leading star routers. When such men are honored and toadied, is there any wonder that public thieving is popular.

Some one has defaced the monument which Cyrus W. Field erected to the memory of Major Andre. It is difficult to say who is more to blame, the fellows that defaced the monument, or the man who erected it to the memory of a man who was caught while assisting Benedict Arnold to deliver up his country bodily to the enemy. It shows bad taste on the part of both.

Queen Victoria was shot at on Thursday evening, as she was leaving the train at Windsor. Just as she was stepping into the carriage, a rough looking man, rushed up and fired a revolver close to her but fortunately without hitting her. He was immediately arrested and taken to jail. He gave his name as Roderick McLean. Great excitement prevailed all over the Kingdom.

It now appears that Roderick McLean, the crank who shot at Queen Victoria last week has been an inmate of at least three lunatic asylums. He claims that his motive for shooting at her, was not to kill her, but to draw public attention to his own destitute circumstances. Although not more than thirty paces distant he missed the entire carriage. This may be partly accounted for by the fact that the carriage had started and was moving away when he fired. The bullet was found lying on the ground some distance away.

Conkling's nomination was confirmed by the senate last Thursday, by a vote of 39 yeas to 12 nays. Four republicans and eight democrats voted in the negative. It has been the custom in the senate to confirm almost unanimously any of its former members who may receive a nomination from the president for any federal office. In this case however, a number of republicans voted against him from personal motives, while the democrats among other reasons did not wish to confirm him because they believed he would not accept, and that the president did not expect him to do, so nominated him merely as a compliment.

A Mystery.

Boston, March 2—A Marlboro, N. H., special says: Tuesday the help in the card room of the Monadnock Blanket Mills were taken suddenly with vomiting. A new set of hands were put in, and they were taken sick, and help in the other rooms were soon taken in the same way. Wednesday nearly the whole were out sick, and at noon so many were ill that the mills shut down. What is the cause of the sickness is a mystery, but probably it is something in the rags.

Blaine's eulogy of Garfield is too long to publish entire, but we give the following extract, in regard to the first week of Garfield's administration: "In the beginning of his Presidential life Garfield's experience did not yield him pleasure or satisfaction. The duties that engross so large a portoin of the President's time were distasteful to him, and were unfavorably contrasted with his legislative work.

"I have been dealing all these years with ideas," he impatiently exclamed one day, "and here I am dealing only with persons. I have been heretofore treating with the fundamental principals of the government, and here I am considering all day whether A or B shall be appointed to this or that office."

He was earnestly seeking some practical way of correcting the evils arising from the distribution of over-grown and unwieldy patronage—evils always appreciated and often discussed by him, but whose magnitude had been more deeply impressed upon his mind since his accession to the Presidency. Had he lived, a comprehensive improvement in the mode of appointment and in the tenure of office would have been proposed by him, and, with the aid of Congress, no doubt perfected. But while many of the Executive duties were not grateful to him, he was assiduous and conscientious in their discharge. From the very outset he exhibited admistrative talent of a high order. He grasped the helm of office with the hand of a master. In this, indeed, he constantly surprised many who were not most intimately associated with him in the Government, and especialty those who feared he might be lacking in the executive faculty. His disposition of business was orderly and rapid; his power of analysis and his skill in classification, enabled him to dispatch a vast mass of detail with singular promptness and ease; his cabinet meetings were admirably conducted; his clear presentations of official subjects, his well-considered suggestions of topics on which discussion was invited, his quick decision when all had heard, combined to show a thoroughness of mental training as rare as his natural ability and his facile adaptation to a new and enlarged field of labor."

The high water on the Mississippi continues. In many sections the people are fleeing for their lives. Several lives have been lost. No such flood has been known for years.

Office of the Pekin (Ill.) Daily Times.

One of the choicest toilet articles of the day is "Bromodyne" It is just the thing for tender skin and chapped hands. It makes the skin soft and smooth, and in all cutaneous irritations imparts immediate comfort. It is fragrant, antiseptic and emollient and is prepared only by the Bromo-Chemical Company, 24, Liberty street New York.

A $20.00 Biblical Reward.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly in the prize puzzle department of their monthly for March offer the following easy way for someone to make $20.00:

To the person telling us the longest verse in the New Testament Scriptures (not the New Revision) by March 10th, 1882, we will give $20.00 in gold as a prize. Should two or more correct answers be received the prize will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner March 15th, 1882. Those who try for the prize must send 20 cts. in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answers, for which they will receive the April number of the Monthly, in which will be published the name address of the winner of the prize, with the correct answer thereto. Cut this out; it may be worth $20.00 to you. Address, Rutledge Publishing Cmpany, Easton, Pa. 9-2t.

—For the delicate and complicated difficulties peculiar to the female constitution, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the sovereign remedy. It aims at the cause, and produces lasting results. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for pamphlets. 9-4w.

Monroe, Mich., Sept. 25, 1875.

Sirs-I have been taking Hop Bitters for inflamation of kidneys and Bladder It has done for me what four doctors failed to do. The effect of Hop Bitters seemed like magic to me.

9-2w W. L. Carter.

—Anderson Bros. will give prices that will astonish you. Single buggies, $70; top carriages go from $90 upwards. We use second growth hickory throughout, and all work guaranteed satisfactory. We sell on time per agreement.

10-4w. Anderson Bros., Waterloo.

—We have a complete line of dress goods, dress trimmings, laces, and ribbons at prices way down.

9-3t. Schaab & Beugnot

Neighborhood Notes.

Kendallville News: Pliny Taber, by mistake, took a large quanity of aqua ammonia last week, which gave him serious inconvenience, and for a time his life was almost despaired of. He, however, is now much improved and will probably be a little more cautious in the future, and pick up the right bottle of medicine. There has been several deaths throughout the country, recently, caused by such mistakes, and people cannot be too careful.

Kendallville News: While stopping at the Harmon House, in Fort Wayne, on Thursday night of last week, a man came down the stairs and informed the clerk that he could not sleep in his room, owing to a bad smell. The clerk asked him if he turned off the gas or blew it out. He replied: "I blew it out." The clerk hastened up to the room, and found the gas thick enough to ignite. The acute smell of the stranger probably saved him his life.

Vidette: Henry Hageman served on a jury here on an average of twice a year for 32 years previous to 1874, and then the fact received attention of the judge and jury-drawers and they resolved to give him a rest, which was done, and this might have been continued, but the jury commissioners under the new law were unadvised upon the subject and have put him on again.

Columbia City Commercial: To our citizens who take active interest in road improvements, we take pleasure in stating that we have recently examined a plan of road construction, which bears strong evidence of embracing all the essential principles necessary in securing a good, cheap and permanent system of roads, streets and sidewalks. The inventor and patentee of the aforesaid system throughfares is William B. Henning a farmer and resident of DeKalb county.

Vidette: On our Main street Monday last a lady passing was assaulted in a reckless, violent and threatening manner with an open pocket knife with stabbing motions, by a boy not more than five or six years old, and so persistent was he in his effort to alarm or injure her that the only way she could get by him safely was to sieze his arms and take the knife away. And this she did, but gave it back when she had talked with him until she thought it safe. She knew not who he was, nor would he tell, and no one was near by whom the question could be answered, but whoever has a boy of such age on the street with such a knife, would do well to instruct him better than to use it in a threatening way. The lady thinks if she had not shrunk back and caught his arm he would have stabbed her.

Bluffton Banner: On Friday night our neighboring little city, Decatur, was shocked over a wild rumor that ex-Sheriff David King was killed in John Tonelier's saloon; but further investigation proved that Mr. King was not dead, but fatally injured. The facts of the case, as near as we could gather them, are as follows; It appears that Mr. King went into the saloon, and while there took several drinks, then left, and when on the outside discovered that he had lost a $5 gold piece. Going back in search of his money he got into an altercation with the proprietor, when the younger Tonelier struck King with a billiard cue, almost killing him. Medical aid was immediately summoned and the injury pronounced fatal.

Later.—As we go to press news reached us that ex-Sheriff King died Monday evening.

—W. C. Carmer, has our thanks for substantial favors.

—A. W. Bair, and George Ling of Fairfield, were among those who called on us this week.

—Mrs. W. L. Braun, Mrs. Sam'l. Pommert and Mrs. Charlie Pommert called on the Courier yesterday and renewed old acquaintances.

Notice.—All persons indebted to McQuiston & Ralston on book account or otherwise, are requested to call and settle by March 10, 1882. We desire to have our accounts closed by that time.

9-3w. McQuiston & Ralston.

—It is often said that you can't get "something for nothing." This rule does not hold good with subscribers to Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal, a musical and literary publication, printed on fine tinted paper, illustrated and containing over $20 worth of music, while every subscriber may receive large Cash Prizes. See adv. of "Music—Money in another column. 1t.

—John Koons, of Waterloo, was brought to Auburn last week on charge of violating the Sunday laws. He sold a boy one cigar, as was shown in court. He was fined one dollar, and that and costs amounted to $17.00. Pretty high priced cigar. J. A. Denison of the same place was hauled up on a similar charge. Both were evidently the result of malice, as it is well known that every one in town who has cigars on sale, sells them on Sundays or at any other time. While we would be pleased to see the Sunday laws properly enforced, this kind of discrimination savors more of malice than of morality.

Obituary.

Henry Alvin Gaerte was born August 12, 1872, and died March 3, 1882, aged 9 years, 6 months and 19 days.

Gathered 'round a narrow coffin,
  Stood a mourning funeral train,
While for him redeemed thus early,
  Tears are falling now like rain.

Hopes are crushed and hearts are bleeding,
  Drear the fireside now, and lone,
He, the best loved and the dearest,
  Far away to heaven has flown.

Long, long will they miss thee, Henry,
  Long, long days for thee they weep,
And through many nights of sorrow,
  Memory will his vigils keep.

The Way To Go West.

This is frequently a very perplexing question to those who contemplate moving their families to the great West, the land of cheap farms and rich gold and silver mines. It can hardly be expeced that the farmer, mechanic or merchant can keep themselves fully posted on matters of transportation, so as to be able to select the cheapest, most comfortable, and at the same time the most direct line to the West, with the fewest changes of cars.

Frequent changes of cars means frequent connections to be made; to miss one of these connections causes a delay of many hours, and, of course, additional expense and trouble.

When a person once lets it become known that he contemplates moving his family West, he is astonished at the amount of interest that some people take in his prospective trip. They proffer advice freely, and tell of the wonderful rates they can procure if you will put yourself in their hands for consignment. Do they take all of this interest in your affairs for nothing, out of pure kindness to you? Oh, no; they are probably land agents, and will sell you out to some inferior line at so much per head. They will then write to the railroad company upon whose line you locate, and get a commission from them upon all the land you may purchase, which, of course, comes out of your pocket.

To all who contemplate going West, either to settle or for a pleasure trip, deal directly with the authorized agents of a railroad company, where you can always do better than any one can do for you.

The Great Baltimore & Ohio runs their entire trains through to Chicago without change, making sure connections, and has fewer changes of cars than any other route. This old reliable through route would not permit one of its agents to deceive you, or to take any undue advantage of you. Their agents have instructions to always sell tickets via the most direct lines, and at the lowest rates. They have in their employ, as traveling agents, such men as John T. Lane, at Columbus, and J. A. Webb, at Tiffin, who will furnish you, free of charge, all information you may desire as to routes, rates, &c. Anything that these gentlemen may represent to you can be depended upon as being perfectly reliable, and we would advise all contemplating a trip West to write to them. They will reply by letter, or will call upon you in person. 9-2t.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northeast quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of said section eleven and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north, thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said section, thence west on the south boundary line of said section to the place of beginning.

TERMS—One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Defered payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

McQUISTON &
RALSTON'S

CLOSING OUT SALE

50 boys' vests	50 and 75c. each
100 men's vests from	60c, to $1.00 each
100 men's coats from	$1.50 to $5.00 "
25 men's fine coats from	$4.00 to $8.00 "
50 prs. men's Cassimere pants	$3.00 to $4.00
40 prs. white blankets from	$2.00 to $3.40
worth from	$2.50 to $4.00

BARGAINS IN

JEANS,
SKIRTS,
SHAWLS,
HATS,
CAPS,
FLANNELS,
ETC., ETC.

We are offering special bargains in

CARPETS

LACE CURTAINS,

BLACK SILKS.

It will pay to anticipate your wants and buy now. This opportunity will not last long.

McQUISTON & RALSTON.

Being the only

EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE

in Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of

TAPESTRY,
BODY BRUSSELS,
AND WOOL CARPETS

At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of

HOUSE FURFISHING GOODS!

MODERWELL AND STUDOR,

Successors to

S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO

FT. WAYNE, IND.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE!

J. C. BOYER,

Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc, etc.

My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and Large, and for the NEXT 60 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of

HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS,
GLOVES, MITTENS,
NOTIONS,
ETC.

At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying, for you can save money by buying of me.

All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.

J. C. BOYER,
WATERLOO, IND.

SORE EYES.

Dr. E. C. Yetter,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 133. 2-tf.

SEED.

THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD

CORN AND WATERMELONS.

CORN. Our "GIANT" Corn is a new and distinct variety, and is withal the best that any farmer ever grew. The grains are as large as the average size chestnut; the finest white dent ever grown; full, rich in starch, perfect hardy, and never failing to grow a strong and vigorous stalk, with firm, deep roots. The ears are uniform and of very large size. It will yield more than any other variety that can be raised, averaging from THREE to SIX EARS to the stalk. It is taking the place of all other varieties upon its first trial. It is matured, and can be gathered in TEN WEEKS, and grows as successfully in the North as the South.

WATERMELONS. Our "MIXON" Watermelons are the largest and finest in the World in every instance, and grow in any section of the country. Their average weight is from 75 to 125 POUNDS. The flesh is of a blood red, very solid, luscious, crisp and sugary—far surpassing all other varieties, and, although a melon of such an enormous weight, there is barely half an inch rind. They are pronounced the finest shipping melon in the World. It will pay any farmer to try a sample package.

Corn—sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00, and $5.00 per bushel. Watermelons—Sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00. Address all orders to the

1-tf. ACME IMPORTING CO.: Athens Ga.

MUSIC MONEY

$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00.

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $25 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide S

2 CARD COLLECTORS. BOYS send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

SMALL POX

Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria

Prevented and cured by the use of

BROMO CHLORALUM

Used in Hospitals of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago, New Orleans, and other cities.

Patients should be sponged with it, according to directions, several times a day. The virus of the disease is by this means neutralized, and contagion is prevented; pit marks are also prevented. One bottle diluted with water will make twelve pints of proper strength for use.

PRICE 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

Sold by druggists. Send for pamphlet.

BROMO CHEMICAL COMPANY.

24 Liberty St. New York City.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,
Clocks, Clocks,
Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons,
Forks, Forks,
Knives, Knives,
Chains, Cnains,
Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED

The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed!"

Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of

BEAUTIFUL STYLES

—OF—

SPRING CLOTHING,

Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

THE BURCH PLOW.

SPECIAL REASONS WHY THE BURCH PLOW IS DEMONSTRATED TO BE THE BEST PLOW IN THE MARKET.

1st. No other plow will do the same work and do it as well with the same draft.

2nd. No other plow will work as well, both in soft and hard ground, working well in hard ground where other plows will not work at all.

3rd. No other plow holds as easy, runs as steadily or cleans the furrows out as nicely.

4th. No other plow is as cheap, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. Our steel plows are made of the best quality of cast steel, the most costly steel put into plows, possessing the best scouring qualities and wearing from two to three times as long as common steel plows. Also have the same plow in chilled mettal. Call and see the Burch Plow.

W. H. KIBLINGER,
Auburn, Ind.

The White Mountains Excursions.

In the Detroit Evening News of March 3rd, an advance announcement is made of the sixth season of excursions "From Detroit to the Sea." They will be three in number and leave Detroit on the morning of July 5th, 20th and 27th, and tickets will be good to return any time before Sept. 4th. The route is to be via. the Grand Trunk R. R. and St. Lawrence River steamers, through the Thousand Islands and famous Rapids to Montreal, thence to the White Mountains and sea shore at Portland, Maine, (near Boston). On the return trip, Quebec Niagara Falls and Buffalo are to be included, making altogether a trip of over 2,000 miles for $20. Each of the excursions will be conducted by W. H. Brearley, who has taken seven parties over the same route in former years and who last year successfully managed three excursions. The trains are "special" trains of Pullman Palace cars, and upon the St. Lawrence river a special steamer will be used. A handsome guide book giving full descriptions and illustrations of this route, may be obtained for 30 cents by writing to Mr. Brearley, office Detroit Evening News. Over 40 maps have been engraved for this edition and the title page is an exact copy, in colors, of an oil painting of Glen Ellis Falls, near the Glen House, in the White Mountains.

* * *

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The annual meeting of the members of this church and society was held in the audience room of the church Monday evening last. The report of the trustees showed the church to be in a very healthy financial condition. During the year the salary of Rev. Henry Johnson was increased from $1500 to $1700 and the report of the treasurer shows a balance in the treasurer of $800. The trustees recommended that steps be immediately taken to increase the seating capacity of the church.—Grand Haven News Journal.

Rev. Johnson was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place and his many friends here will be glad to learn that he has been installed as the pastor of that church where his talent and ability as a minister of the gospel are duly appreciated.

* * *

—Last Friday evening a very pleasant party of friends gathered at the residence of James E. Rose. Among those present, who are not residents of this place, were Judge Best and wife of Waterloo, W. S. Best and wife of Minneapolis, and Mrs. McNagny of Columbia city, whom our people will remember as Miss Effie Wunderlich, sister of Mrs. Theo. Reed. Mr. and Mrs. Rose are pleasant entertainers, and their guests will remember them for the privilege of passing a few hours in their cosy home.

* * *

—I desire to inform all those who wish to purchase a buggy, that I have the largest and best assortment in this part of the state, and at prices to suit the times. I will not be undersold by any one. Open buggies for $75.00; top buggies $100.00. Not Cincinnati buggies, but made at my own works. Call and see me before you purchase.

CHARLES ECKHART,
9-2t Prop. Eckhart Carriage Works.

LOST.—Three weeks ago some "dog jumper" took a black, Newfoundland pup from town that belongs to an employe of the COURIER. The owner has a collar and tag ready for him and would like very much to get a hold on his dog—and the fellow, too.

* * *

—Don't fail to see Andersen Bros. before you buy your carriages. All those holding orders for the varnishing of their buggies will come to Waterloo.
10-4w. ANDERSON BROS., Waterloo.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Plant trees.

—Plant maple trees.

—Old Mr. Raut has started an ashery.

—No new cases of small-pox up to date.

—The Burch plow! The BURCH PLOW!! 10-4t

—The hacks run to the Junction again.

—Miss Hattie Baker is quite sick with fever.

—Work will begin on the school house shortly.

—The Burch plow is in steel or chilled metal. 10-4t.

—Cool's wagon shop has a new paint scaffold.

—No other plow holds as easy as the Burch plow. 10-4t

—We noticed Harry Stamets on the streets Tuesday.

—Look at the Burch plow before buying. It is boss. 10-4t

—E. R. Shoemaker, of Smithfield, was in town this week.

—The Burch plows are for sale by W. H. Kiblinger, Auburn, Ind.

—Billy Rainier will move his family to Denver, Col., in a few weeks.

—Edward Orr, of Corunna, is acting as a juryman on the Cook case.

—J. W. Zimmerman, of Waterloo made us a friendly call last Saturday.

—Our friend John Harvey dropped in to see us a few minutes last Friday.

—Miss Josie Rush has finished her school at Sedan, and is at home once more.

—Two days of the Cook trial have been occupied on a complaint of Mr. Watt.

—It is rumored that M. F. Long will purchase an interest in McQuiston's store.

—Frank Zimmerman is going to indulge in the very sensible luxury of a new porch.

—Mr. Myers will sell agricultural machinery for W. H. Kiblinger the coming summer.

—Miss Thompson, of Columbia City, is visiting in the family of W. A. Clark this week.

—It looks natural to see Judge Best in the court room again, even if he does not stay long.

—We learn that Mrs. John Rush will reside in Auburn after her school at Pleasant Lake closes.

—H. H. Keep, of Pleasant Lake, called on us last week. He is still principal of the school at that place.

—New lettuce in abundance at the green house of Mr. Fleming, next lot south of the Presbyterian church.

—There will be a farmers' institute at Crawfordsville, March 22 and 23. These meetings are becoming popular.

—People began to make up their gardens last week and dig about generally. We fear they are getting too rash.

—Mrs. McNagny of Columbia city, formerly Miss Effie Wunderlich is visiting her sister Mrs. Theodore Reed.

—Allmanritter, the Waterloo man who stole Shoner's hides, has been sentenced to one year in the state prison.

—Schaab & Beugnot have the neatest, nobbiest, line of hats just received Boys come and see them. We can suit you, 9-3t.

—Wilmington township Democrats will hold their caucus for the nomination of township officers, a Butler, on Saturday, March 25, at one o'clock p. m.
COMMITTEE.

—Hon. Freeman Kelley made us a brief call Tuesday. Think the special jury had something to do with his visit to the county seat.

—John Duncan, Willard Kee, Cyrus Kelley, Ab. Kelley and Cyrus Bowman, of Waterloo, are among those who put in an appearance at court last week.

—An extra number of jurymen were gathered in this week to assist in the Cook trial. But three of the regular panel remained when the trial began on Tuesday.

—The boy who is just now the subject of the greatest amount of discussion, is the small-pox patient. He has passed the crisis of the disease and is in a fair way to a speedy recovery.

—George Hazzard, whom many of our citizens may remember, was last week arrested in Chicago. We did not learn the exact nature of the charge against him but presume it is about the usual thing—a fraud of some kind.

—Rev. Henry Johnson made a short call at our office on Tuesday. He has been staying here a few days with his family, after which he returns to his charge at Grand Haven. He always meets with a hearty welcome from our people.

—The Burch plow.

—The Burch plow runs light 10-4t

—W. H. Kiblinger sells the Burch plow. 10-4t

—Grand jury adjourned Tuesday, after a busy session.

—Wm. Tyndall, of Spencerville, is in town serving on the jury.

—The largest stock of carriages in DeKalb county, is at Anderson Bros., Waterloo.

—Mrs. Abright and her daughter Maud are visiting friends in Warsaw this week.

—We learn that Mrs. Robert McDougall is quite ill from the effects of vaccination.

—H. Hood of Smithfield, was in town Saturday.

—The Burch plow is warranted in every particular. 10-4t

—For a fine shoe or boot made to order, some thing neat & nice, go to the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—Men's heavy boots & ladies' heavy shoes at your own prices, for 30 days, at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—See Moderwell & Studor's advertisement in to-day's paper. Carpets of all kinds for sale at bottom prices.

—The great carpet store at Ft. Wayne puts forth its prospectus this spring with greater inducements than ever before.

—Ladies' kid button shoes all prices from $1,75 to $3,00. Children's shoes all styles & prices at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—Parties wishing a large stock from which to select carpets, should call on Moderwell & Studor, in Ft. Wayne.

—James Culbertson has gone to Albion for a week or two to assist J. J. Martin in putting his new hardware store in running order. Mr. C. knows how to do it.

—Mrs. Espy who has been for some time visiting in the family of A. O. Espy of this place, has returned to her home in St. Louis.

—See our stock of carpets, and compare prices with other houses. We will not be undersold.

9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

—The M. E. social will be entertained at the lecture room of the church, Wednesday afternoon & evening March the 15th.

By order of Secy.

—We would call special attention to to our new stock of clothing. Prices to suit everyone. Come and see for yourselves.

9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

—We call attention to the advertisement of Root & Co. in this number. Their stock of carpets, curtains and other goods for the spring trade is unsurpassed by any stock in this section of the country.

—H. G. Zimmerman Esq., who is holding court this term, is highly spoken of by the legal fraternity for his impartiality and the industry and ability with which he keeps things moving.

NOTICE.—I am going to move away from Auburn and locate in Quincy, Michigan. Will go about the 15th of March, 1882. All parties having accounts with me will please call and settle them.

9-2w. DR. C. S. SEARS.

—We learn that Harvey Mills, a young married man living at the Junction, has resigned his position as the head of a family and left for parts unknown. The letter he left behind him stated that he had gone "forever and aye" and they need not look for him to return.

—Miss Ada Spangler was on our streets last week but is still in poor health. Her father, however, expresses himself as very hopeful, as her improvement has been so great that he believes she will fully recover. This will be good news to her many friends.

—The Bank of Butler has failed. We learn that a number of the citizens of that place are sufferers by the collapse. It seems that the firm had no capital on which to start a bank and had been running it on the faith people had in them. Not a very good capital for business of that kind.

—A. F. Fleming, the gardener, who is located just south of the Presbyterian church, has quite a nice establishment. In his green house he keeps flowers of all kinds, and has them at all times for sale. He also has early plants, such as cabbage, tomatoes, &c., large enough to plant at the present time. Those wishing anything in his line should not fail to give him a call.

—From our sanctum window yesterday morning we gazed upon the jovial, smiling countenance of T. C. Mays, esq., now located at Hot Springs, Ark. In a brief call from the Colonel we learn he will move his family to the above place the coming Monday. The COURIER, with their many friends, regrets to sever the social tie which has so long glided us down the stream of life together. May their new home be pleasant with a happy financial ending.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Miss Jennie McClellan is home for a few days.

Judge Best has been at home for a short vacation.

J. D. McAnally is giving his residence a coat of paint.

E. T. Bryaland visited Chicago and Indianapolis last week.

Mrs. Hamil is visiting friends in Fort Wayne this week.

Mrs. B. F. Kennedy made a business trip to Auburn last week.

A. L. Fausett is busy this week painting H. Leib's barn and house.

Many of our citizens went over to court to be present at the Cooke trial.

Mrs. H. Leib and her daughter Jennie spent Sunday in Hillsdale with Miss Ola.

Miss Kate Woodhull, of Angola, was the guest of Miss Carrie Morell Tuesday.

Those who missed hearing G. Paul Smith Tuesday evening, missed a rare treat.

Erston Bigler, of Goshen, was in town last Thursday calling on his friends.

R. J. Ettinger, of Angola, was in town Saturday visiting his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Kennedy.

Dr. Shepherd, formerly of this place, but now of Warren, Ohio, is in town calling on his friends.

Wallace Webester and family, of Minneapolis, Minn., are visiting with Mrs. W's. sister. Mrs. J. I. Best.

Isaiah Likens, who has been suffering with dropsy for several weeks, died Tuesday and was buried Wednesday.

Our musical people are enjoying a treat this week in a musical convention conducted by Prof. W. J. Harrington, of Chicago.

W. S. Best and family, who have been spending the winter with friends in this county, start for their home in Minneapolis to-day.

Pete Fisher and Ed. Long were at Auburn last week. The latter has a memorandum book that may prove as serviceable as that of Oakes Ames.

Wesley Zimmerman and John Campbell are making things move in the blacksmithing and wagon making line. The wood work department of the business is under the management of Mr. Klotz, who is highly spoken of as a mechanic.

Dr. Stough is about to remark to Detective McDonald, "You are another" or something to that effect. McDonald had Stough arrested for taking illegal fees in pension cases, and now the doctor is about to prove that McDonald has fallen hopelessly from virtue under the influence of the seductive smiles of a Waterloo widow. These things are very "too, too."

SPENCERVILLE.

Miss Lena Olds has returned.

Mr. S. Kelley has returned to the country.

Miss Ella Emanuel is soon expected to return.

Geo. Patterson, of Warsaw, was in town last week.

Our "glee club" was out serenading Saturday evening.

Sol. Barney and family spent Sunday in the village.

Mr. Stoffer and family will return to Spencerville this spring.

Mr. B. Zimmerman entertained the social Saturday evening.

Wm. Tyndall has been attending court at Auburn this week.

Misses Laura and Eva Shutt will soon leave to attend school at Valpariso.

A number of our young folks attended the concert at St. Joe Friday evening.

Rev. Baker commenced a series of meetings at the Lutheran church last Sunday evening.

The missionary society of the M. E. church was entertained by Mrs. Dr. Houghton last Friday afternoon.

School closes Friday. We are sorry to loose Mr. Wiley from our midst, as he has been a faithful teacher, and then, too, the proprietor of the Palmer will miss his society.

Gerry Emanuel has retired to private life, and Ed. Bishop now occupies the position formerly taken by himself, as his "sole" cannot stand the notoriety given by the Spencerville correspondents.

RUSTIC.

CONCORD.

John H. Gill deals only in high priced houses.

New goods and low prices. H. Garret has returned.

James Farwell's youngest child is quite sick with lung fever.

Mrs. F. Buchanan was visiting friends in Auburn last week.

Mr. G. W. Reed and wife were the guests of G. W. Draggoo last Sunday.

J. K. and H. R. Culbertson were here last Tuesday shaking hands with their many friends.

A great many of our young folks attended the exhibition at St. Joe last Friday evening.

Mrs. Wm. Draggoo was suddenly called home by the serious illness of her daughter Jennie.

It is rumored that one of our bachelors will soon sail out into the sea of matrimony. Success to H.

John D. Smith has moved back and purchased another farm adjoining his old one, and thinks Indiana is as good as Ohio.

Samuel Morr, who has been suffering from a stroke of paralysis for the last six weeks, is slowly recovering the use of his limbs and also his speech.

DEAN.

SEDAN.

Samuel Seydel spent Sunday in Butler.

Examine the dog law in Husselman's store.

R. M. Lockhart was in town last week looking after his lumber business.

Some of our boys had a severe attack of the spring fever for a few days back.

Adam Husselman is selling off his goods at auction. Dan Blucher does the talking for him. Dan is good at business.

Candidates for township offices are very quiet around here. It is time for them to give us the friendly shake, and inquire how the folks are.

James Jones spent the winter visiting his relatives and old acquaintances around Sedan. He returned to his home in Kansas Wednesday.

Mrs. Burnham, of Saginaw, Mich., and Mrs. Hine, of Milan, Ohio, who have been visiting their brother, Mr. Hine, of this place, returned home last week.

J. A. M.

FAIRFIELD.

Business is brisk, and our new merchant reports sales increasing.

Mr. Leslie Ash was suddenly called home last week to the bedside of his dying mother.

Prof. M. A. Boughman has returned from his old camping ground. He likes Indiana best yet.

George Gonser is negotiating for property in Sedan, intending to make that place his future home.

Miss Belle Galehouse, of Doylestown, Wayne county, Ohio, is visiting with Dr. O. F. Rudolph's family.

Harry Smith, whose limb was amputated some time ago, has entirely recovered, and is able to walk about with the aid of crutches.

DIED.—Charley A., son of Conrad and Harriet Snellenberger, on the 28th ult., of acute rheumatic fever, aged 7 years, 7 months and 19 days.

QUILL.

* * *

—Mr. Lewis Johnson, who for several years has held the position of local agent for the Wabash St. L. & P. R. R. Co. at this place, we regret to say, has been compelled on account of ill health to resign his position. His ill health being partially induced by too close attention to office duties. Mr. J. has made for himself and the company he represents many friends, and proved himself to be active, efficient and gentlemanly in the discharge. We anticipate it will be some time before the company will be successful in replacing a man in his late position who will give such general satisfaction. We hope that wherever Mr. Johnson may go, if he should conclude to leave, he will find as many friends as we know he leaves here.

Persons contemplating a trip to Chicago, should not miss the opportunity of visiting Haverly's new theater. This popular place of amusement is the finest in the city, and is the only one that does not keep open doors on Sunday. It contains twenty-seven private boxes finely furnished. All the employes are dressed in fine uniform, and will show visitors every attention necessary to their comfort and convenience.

—We see by the Fort Wayne papers that Mrs. Vesta M. Swartz, wife of Dr. Swartz of this place, graduated at the Fort Wayne Medical College last Wednesday. We believe she is the first lady of this county to graduate in any professional school. She expects to practice in connection with her husband and we predict for her a successful career.

—We have just received the largest and choicest stock of spring clothing, and the nobbiest line of hats ever brought to this market, with prices to defy competition.

9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

—You can save twenty per cent. at Anderson Bros., Waterloo. 10-4w.

—Good school shoes for spring wear cheap, at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

FARMERS— bring in your old dry bones. I will pay you $5.00 pr ton.

S. U. Terney.

—Men's fine boots, $2.50 to $2,75
10-3t. W. J. AUSTIN. & CO.

—The Burch plow, the king of the field. 10-4t

THE BALL OPENED.

In our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

ROOT &
COMPANY

Have now opened up, and are displaying their entire spring purchase of

CARPETINGS,
CURTAIN GOODS, AND
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS,

Comprising large and choice assortments of

AXMINSTER CARPETS,
BODY BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRY CARPETS,
Extra SUPER INGRAINS,

SUPER ALL WOOL CARPETS,
DOUBLE COTTON CHAINS,
IRISH BRUSSELS,
FINE RAG CARPETS,
HEMP CARPETS,

COTTAGE CARPETS,
OFFICE CARPETS,
TURKISH RUGS,
SMYRNA RUGS,
COCOA AND
CHINA MATTINGS.

LACE CURTAINS,
NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS,
ANTIQUE CURTAINS,
SILK TAPESTRIES,
HOLLANDS, SHADES,

FIXTURES,
CRETONNES,
STAIR RODS,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
POLES, ETC., ETC.

HOUSEKEEPERS

About refurnishing their homes, are cordially invited to examine our stock of above goods before purchasing, as we are prepared to convince them that

OUR PRICES: Are Low.
STYLES: The Choicest.
QUALITY: The Best

Offered in this section of the State

ROOT AND COMPANY.
46 and 48 Calhoun St.
FT. WAYNE.............INDIANA

IF WE KNEW.

If we knew the woe and heartache
Waiting for us down the road;
If our lips could taste the wormwood,
If our backs could feel the load;
Would we waste the day in wishing
For a time that ne'er can be?
Would we wait with such impatience
For our ships to come from sea?

If we knew the baby fingers,
Pressed against the window-pane,
Would be cold and stiff to-morrow—
Never trouble us again—
Would the bright eyes of our darling
Catch the frown upon our brow?
Would the print of rosy fingers
Vex us then as they do now?

Ah! these quiet, ice-cold fingers,
How they point our memories back
To the hasty words and actions
Strewn along our backward track!
How these little hands remind us,
As in snowy grace they lie,
Not to scatter thorns, but roses,
For our reaping bye and bye.

Strange! we never prize the music
Till the sweet-voiced bird is flown;
Strange! that we should slight the violet
Till the lovely flowers are gone!
Strange! that Summer skies and sunshine
Never seem one-half so fair,
As when Winter's snowy pinions
Shake the white down in the air.

Lips, from which the seal of silence
None but God can roll away,
Never blossomed in such beauty
As adorns the mouth to-day;
And sweet words that freight our memory
With their beautiful perfume,
Come to us with sweetest accents
Through the portals of the tomb.

Let us gather up the sunbeams
Lying all around our path:
Let us keep the wheat and roses,
Casting out the thorns and chaff;
Let us find our sweetest comfort
In the blessings of to-day,
With the patient hand removing
All the briers from our way.

THAT PUMPKIN PIE FESTIVAL

"Come Cindy, hurry up them pies, and for mercy's sake don't keep that oven door open so long! A pusson would think you was one of them city gals by the way you go 'but doin' things. Hain't I larned you over and over again how to bake pumpkin pies? Hain't I 'stilled into your mind, Cindy the ups and downs of cookin'? I rather guess your par will begin to think he'd oughter have followed my 'vice and thought twice afore he'd let you go a-gallivantin off to that boardin school to the city."

She was a jolly-faced, ample-waisted matron, the speaker; and she unburdened herself of the forgoing with a considerable degree of short breath, jerky gestures, and frequent peeps over the steel-bowed spectacles. It was one of those story-and-a-half New England farm-houses, surrounded by a well-kept garden; and Cindy, the busy little body who flitted from the apple-paring pan to the stove, was a rosy-cheeked lass, with nut-brown hair, pretty dimpled chin, and a nose slightly of the piquant, turn-up order.

Cindy Brown's years numbered only seventeen, and the few short years reaching back when the new sunshine came to the little farm house had been filled with the pure calms which reach about and encircle a lovely girl in their fragrant meshes. No storm of passion had ever approached to stir the pool of her lot. All was joy in Cindy's life, and her goodhearted mother prayed to God nightly to temper the child's future with peace and content.

This was the seventeenth anniversary of Cindy's birthday, and it was the occasion of a fête; not such fetes as commonly arise from such occasions in the city—balls, gay parties and the like. Ah, no! Cindy's fete was a jolly, substantial, good, old-fashioned pumpkin-pie festival

A store of luscious yellow moons were put away on the pantry shelves, and a score or so more were in prospective ere the wonted amount was acquired. The long stretch of landscape, reaching afar off toward the west, was tinted with the bronzes and yellows of autumn; and the woods, too, had begun to put on their mantle of golden hue, and dot the undulatig plain here and there like gigantic money pieces.

A step on the gravel walk startled Cindy from her kneeling position by the stove; Mrs. Brown, too, was startled, for she dropped a couple of stitches as she peered over her spectacles at the intruder.

It was only a little, round-faced neighboring lad, with straw hat surmounting a freckled brow and a shock of yellow curls. His gingham shirt, open at the throat, disclosed the line of weather tan upon his neck. He pulled off his hat and nervously nibbled at its rim while he stuttered forth;

"M-M iss B-B-rown, them folks o-o-over in the—the big house sent—sent me to tell you if—if you would let—let 'em fetch some—some city folks w-w-with 'em to—to—to-night."

Before Cindy could reply, her mother laid down her knitting, and exclaimed:

Ikey Bruce, do you know what I'd do if you was my boy?"

"N-no; would you—you—you give me a p-piece of p-p-pie?" returned the youngster.

"I'd take a strap to you young man! That's what I'd do!"

"W-w-what f-for?"

"I'd strap you up so slick, young man, that you'd talk straight forever after," said Mrs. Brown.

She picked up her work again, and the needles recommenced their musical clicking.

Ike's eyes opened very wide, and he bit an entire piece out of the rim of his hat ere he replied:—

"M-ma s done it, but—but she hain't fo-fotched her y-yet."

"Never mind, Ikey; you'll get over it some day," broke in Cindy.

She cut a good sized piece from one of the pies and handed it to him, saying at the same time:

"You may tell the folks at the big house that I would like very much to have them bring their friends. Now run back, Ikey, and say what I have told you."

"Th-thank you, mum. G-good-bye, M-m-misses Brown."

"Good-bye to you, Ikey; don't let your tongue trip up your feet," returned Mrs. Brown, after Ikey's hurrying form.

The fragrant aroma of roses filled the low-ceiled kitchen, floated out of the doorway and greeted the nostrils of more than one passer-by.

"There, ma, the pies are all done," said Cindy, taking the last one from the oven and depositing it alongside the others in the pantry.

"Have you got the napkins all sorted out, Cindy? I don't think them white ones will be half as 'propriate as the yaller damask."

"Yes, ma, I have got them all arranged," said Cindy, as she dried her hands with the towel.

"What is it getting to be?" inquired Mrs. Brown.

"Half-past-five."

"Land sakes alive, child! You must fly about and get the house to rights. Cindy, it's getting late; half-past five! Girl, you don't seem to have no notion of the value of them minits that go speedin' along. If you was to get married now, why then some minits would be shorter than seconds. Cindy —Cindy Brown! What are you blushing for? I only mentioned about minits and marryin'—but, land sakes alive, g r', don't let them pop the wits clean out of your silly head and send the red o your face. Your time will come, darter, so don't let it bother you now."

Cindy did blush, though, and deeply, too. She blushed even deeper as she stood before the looking-glass arranging her hair.

What a pretty face it was, and how faithfully that glass reflected all the charming outlines and colorings! She was a plain little maid, yet she knew that the face smiling at her with sparkling eyes, rosy cheeks, and soft lips with twin rows of pearls between them, was a pretty one.

wonder if any man had ever yet told her that she was handsome? Pshaw! such a question does no credit to the writer; flattery comes soon enough without tempting it; and he asks pardon for his silly question.

There they come, Cindy's friends; flocking over the close cropped pastures, strolling along the roads; some singly, some in groups of two, three, and four.

The invitations had been sent out a week ago; it was the main subject of conversation for a week past, and now the dear little maid's friends were gathering to help her celebrate the dawning of a new year just about to enter upon Cindy's life.

The small parlor was comfortably filled with the merry laughing crowd. The sitting-room was filled, and even the kitchen was brought into use.

In the sitting-room they were spinning the platter. Cindy sprang to catch it in response to her name, sung out by a very red-faced, awkward country lad. Too late! The platter began to lag and it wobbled over on its side ere Cindy could catch it.

"Forfeit, forfeit, Cindy! Let me be your judge!" exclaimed Myra Jinks, Cindy's bosom friend.

"Very well, Myra, you can be my judge.

"All right. Bow to the wittiest, kneel to the prettiest, and kiss the one you love best!"

"O my! Not that, Myra!"

"Yes, you've got to do it, and blindfolded, too," returned the merciless judge.

"Why, how can I bow to the wittiest, kneel to the prettiest, and kiss the one I love best, if I cannot see either of them?"

"Oh, guess at it, Cind; it will be such fun," exclaimed one of the boys; and he drew the back of his hand across his lips as if he'd fain be, without urging, the recipient of the "kiss the one you love best."

"Well, blindfold me, then."

Cindy's eyes were securely blindfolded with a hankerchief and she was placed in the middle of the room, turned thrice about, and then launched forth upon her interesting mission.

"The folks at the big house," whispered the boys and girls, as two young ladies in white, accompanied by two strange gentleman, came into the room.

Cindy, being blindfoldeded, was all unconscious of the new addition to her guests. The four stood in one corner, interested spectators of the merry scene. Arranged around the room were the country boys and, and there in the middle of the room was Cindy, blindfolded.

She reached out her hands—pretty little hands, by the way, though a trifle red. She walked a few yards forward and bowed.

A titter ran around the circle, for Zed Ludkins, the dullest fellow in the village, blushed even to the roots of his carroty hair as the girl bowed to him. Then she turned, walked straight in the opposite direction, and knelt upon one knee.

A loud peal of laughter, then "Oh, I'm sorry!" from many lips, greeted Cindy's second task.

Little Jane Bruce was a poor deformed girl of 14; her face was disfigured by a hair-lip, her features distorted by a blood-red birth-mark upon one cheek. She blushed painfully when Cindy knelt before her and, though she knew it was not meant for a stigma, still her face plainly showed the pain at her heart.

Then Cindy arose, turned anxiously about, and in her heart hoped that the recipient of her next favor would be some for whom she cared not a straw. It must have been fate that led her, for she walked straight to the corner where the "folks from the big house" stood with their city friends. She paused in front of the youngest of the latter, and lifted up her lovely face. The young man's face was a puzzle. Should he accept the invitation and kiss that rosebud mouth poised so very temptingly to him? Should he say "Not for me, pretty maid; I am a stranger?" He accepted the first proposition, bent his face and pressed a kiss upon the girl's lips.

She started back, and a warm flush suffused her face. Whom had she kissed? Could it be a stranger? Oh! her heart beat rapidly. Some one who had a mustache! And not any of her country friends gathered here to-night were possessors of such an affair.

She pulled the handkerchief from her eyes and a pair of very roguish ones, a frank face, looked down upon her blushing countenance.

"I'm so ashamed—I—I did not know—"

"No apologies, Cindy, are necessary," interrupted one of the young ladies.

Then followed the introduction to the two young gentleman, And after the peculiar incident as given was over, the affair glided along smoothly.

The pies were cut; napkins, plates and forks were provided. The rattle of the dishes and forks tended to drown conversation. However, the young city fellow who had kissed Cidny managed to get in a word now and then, the last remark on his part being:

"Miss Brown, who made these admirable pies?"

"Why, I—I made them," returned Cindy.

"By Jove! pumpkin pies are out of my city bill of fare. If you will permit me—just a small quarter, please."

"Our quarters are of a size, sir," returned the girl, and she took his plate into the pantry, returning with another—the third for him—quarter.

A short period of dancing, a great many kisses, a great many "good-nights," and Cindy Brown's pumpkin pie birthday anniversary had come to an end.

Friend reader, do you wish me to take you through a host of perplexities? Do you wish me to tell you of love spats, jealousies, and all that? I don't think it would be right—certainly not true—for Cindy married the young gentleman after a certain lapse of time. There was no jealousy, no vexation, no anything to mar their love passage.

Hence we will leave them as they now are, two middle-aged people, one writing about, the other tel ing the two children how, their mother, blind-fo ded, chose and "kissed the one s e lo ed best."

◆

Hugo's Joyous Faith.

Victor Hugo.

I feel in myself the future life. I am like the forest that has been more than once cut down. The new shoots are stronger than ever. I am rising, I know, toward the sky. The sunshine is on my head. The earth gives me its generous sap, but Heaven lights me with the reflection of unknown worlds. You say the soul is nothing but the resultant of bodily powers. Why, then, is my soul the more luminous when my bodily powers begin to fail? Winter is on my head and eternal Spring is on my heart. Then I breathe, at this hour, the fragrance of the lilacs, the violets and the roses as at twenty years. The nearer I approach the end the plainer I hear around me the symphonies of the worlds which invite me. It is marvelous yet simple. It is a fairy tale, and it is history. For half a century I have been writing my thoughts in prose, verse, history, philosophy, drama, romance, tradition satire, ode, song—I have tried all. But I feel that I have not said the thousandth part of what is in me. When I go down to the grave I can say, like so many others, "I have finished my day's work;" but I can not say, I have finished my life." My days were will begin again the next morning. The tomb is not a blind alley; it is a thoroughfare. It closes in the twilight to open with the dawn. I improve every hour because I love this world as my fatherland, because the truth compels me as it did Voltaire, that human divinity. My work is only a beginning. My monument is hardly above its foundation. I would be glad to see it mounting and mounting forever. The thirst for the infinite proves infinity.

Opera-Going Christians.

Bro. Barnes' Sermon in Louisville.

Many slack-twisted Christians are in the habit of calling things by their wrong names. The devil comes in and says, what is the meaning of opera? he calls it an æsthetical thing; tells you that God has given you an æsthetical taste, and that He wants you to go to the opera. The devil tells you that there will be music in heaven, and that here the opera affords the finest specimen of music. Oh, you dear heavenly minded Christians, what sweet-scented creatures you are. Oh, yes, you are æsthetic followers of the devil, that's what you are. Jesus Christ never told one of His chilren to go to the opera. I don't blame any you for going, but don't lay it on the the Lord; for it is the devil that tel's you to go. Dancing, that's another æsthetic performance; it is such good exercise for the limbs; but the devil never tells you how weary and jaded you will be next morning and the danger there is of your having dyspepsia. No, the devil says God has provided this æsthetic recreation for his creatures. You are a liar Mr. Devil. Am I scolding you? No. I know that away down in the bottom of your hearts you love Jesus. Jesus don't scold you; He calls thing by their right names, and then says if you love me keep my commandments. Poor children, you will have to find out all this for yourselves, but, not now for you have got the devil in you.

◆

Helping a Constable.

Detroit Free Press.

One day a Michigan constable, who had long been trying to collect a claim of $40 against a sharp citizen, went to a worthy burgher and said:

"See here, Jones, I've got a plan to collect $40 of that sharper, Perkins. All I want is a little help from you, and if you'll grant it I won't forget the favor."

"I'm willing— what's your plan?" replied Jones.

"Why, I want you to bet him $20 that he doesn't weigh 120 pounds. If you'll do that I can fix the rest."

"Oh I'll do anything to help you out," said Jones, and they walked around to the grocery where Perkins was known to hang out. After a little talk, the constable keeping in the shade, Jones began bluffing, and when he stated his fiendish desire to bet $20 that Perkins wouldn't tip the beam at 120 pounds, his greenbacks were covered before a mule could kick three times. As the money was put up the constable slipped out for a garnishee, and was back in time to serve it on the stakeholder eventually paid a claim against him; but it has never been made plain to Jones how he made anything out of it. It has always seemed to him that he was $20 out, and for fifteen long years he has refused to walk on the same side of the street with that constable.

A Long Outlook for the Heir.

From the Montreal Witness.

An old farmer living about twelve miles west of Guelph died recently, leaving a will of which the substance is as follows: The son works the farm till his stepmother's death, at the end of which time he has to commence paying installments on $3,000 to the rest of the family at a yearly rate of $50 a year, and when he gets all paid off he will get the farm in his own possession. It will be seen that after the stepmother's death it will be sixty years before the son gets the farm, and as the woman is yet in the prime of life and healthy, it is calculated she may live another forty years. The son is now 30 years of age, and when he can claim the farm, by this reckoning, he will be 130 years old. The old man must either have thought life much longer than it is, or else he was afraid his boy might turn a spendthrift if allowed to get the property sooner.

NEW YEAR AMONG THE UTES.

How the Customs of Calling Were Observed by the Red Men and Women.

Bill Nye's Boomerang.

New Year's day was pretty generally observed among the children of the forest at the Fort Thornburg reservation, as well as at the old White River headquarters.

Mrs Veni Vidi Vici Colorow, with her three charming daughters, received at the parental tepee from 1 p m. until further orders. Mrs. Colorow was dressed in plain ashes of sage brush, gunny sack cut a la robe de sleeping c ır, with ear ornaments of copper rive s and bracelets of mother of clamshell, strung on strips of brocaded buckskin.

Miss Cleopatra-Union-Forever-One-and-Inseparable Colorow wore a grossgrain army tent, with brass overcoat buttons and hand-painted, with the device "U. S." in Roman characters on the back. Her hair was frescoed with antelope tallow and bangles of grizzly bear toe-nails, held in place with tarred rope.

Miss Walk-Around-the-Block Colorow wore a husk door mat, put decollette, with embroidery across the shoulder blade, forming the letters "Welcome."

Miss Knock-Down-and-Drag-Out Colorow wore a pair of agency suspenders and a hectic flush. She was the only lady at the Colorow tepee in full evening dress. Refreshments were served here, consisting of cottonwood sandwiches and Mumm's Extra Dry Rat and Roach Destroyer.

Mrs. Shavano and several others received at the magnificent Shavano dugout, on Fine Cut avenue.

Mrs. Shavano wore a cavalry blouse and ear ornaments.

Mrs. Sighing-Mountain-Pine wore a plug hat and Queen Elizabeth bed-quilt held in place with a Roman safety pin, rescued from the ruins of White River agency.

Refreshments were served here, consisting of prairie dog pie with variations and a symphony in sage hen salad, with dressing a la Chinaman. No liquor was served here, the ladies in an unguarded moment having surrounded the supply.

At the palatial buffalo wallow of Chief Antelope the ladies were not receiving, but gentlemen callers were cordially invited to stop at the front door and kick the large and hospitable aggregation of yaller dogs in honor of the day.

Colorow, in a spike-tail coat and a pair of high-cut gum boots led the list of callers.

The Son-in-law-of the-Nebraska-blizzard was with him, and wore a cotton umbrella and a headache. He was very sociable, being on the borders of delirium tremens, so that his odd fancies and facetious attempts to scalp his hostess several times made him a welcome guest wherever he went.

Toward evening the gentleman callers became very frolicsome and mirth provoking, pulling over several royal edifices where the ladies were receiving calls, and in one instance tipping over a bed-room where The-Daughter-of-the-Wailing-Wind was paring a pet corn.

Everything passed of pleasently until a young chief, who had become excited by contact with the flowing bowl, attacked an old Ute on Fine Cut avenue with a three-year-old club and killed him because he was making calls in a state of beastly sobriety.

Of course the young man saw on the following day that he had, perhaps been too hasty, and said that, if he had to do it over again, he thought he would do it quite differently; but, in the hurry and confusion, he did not have time to consider what the result might be.

The most attractive street costume was that worn by a son of Colorow, who was dressed in a gray army shirt held in place by a broad band of Wamsutta muslin. He wore beaded moccasins without socks and hair ornaments of tar roofing and selections from a feather bed. He also wore a necklace made of the back teeth of the friendly whites, strung on the E string of a violin.

The most gorgeous costume noticed among the ladies was that of Mrs. Brazos DeSoto-Nom-de-Plume, a half-breed squaw, whose pedigree runs back into some of the best Spanish and Ute families. She had disguised herself by washing her face unbeknown to even her most intimate friends. Still, a few recognized her, she being the only Ute lady receiving calls who weighed over 350 pounds.

She wore two soldier overcoats, one buttoned in front and one laced down the back with a clothes line. She wore her hair negligently in the form of a rat's nest, the deception being perfect and the effect very much heightened by use of maple syrup as a bandoline.

The following day was characterized by the usual amount of unavailing remorse and several post mortem examinations.

◆

Justice to the Hog.

A recent number of the Ohio Farmer contained the following, which will commend itself to all breeders who believe cleanliness is next to Godliness, and who desire to see American pork produce freed from European restraint:

"At present I have time and space to notice only one vile slander continually hurled at the hog. Away back in the days of unadulterated cussedness, some conscienceless sinner used the expression "that dirty hog." and ever since too-unutterable-too people have said it over and over again—"that dirty hog." The truth of the matter is that a hog is a cleanly and well-disposed animal, and when he is given a chance, will keep himself ready to answer the front door bell at all hours. And this fact is all the more to the praise of the hog, because he keeps clean from principle and pure love for cleanliness, and not from policy and hope of prolonging his days in the land of his birth. He does not know hygiene from a temperance tract. If you were to talk to him on the evil likely to result from closed pores, he would probably think you were a returned missionary and wanted a chew of tobacco. It is not from any such base consideration, nor of such an earthly nature as health and long life that he is clean, but from an inordinate principle implanted in his soul, a virtue as bright as the inside of a brass kettle. When a hog is kept in a close sty and compelled to eat, sleep and wallow in its own manure, it can not keep clean, however hard it may try to mantain a presentable appearance I know that a hog will wallow. He likes it. He loves to bathe. And if you give him clean water to bathe in he will come out of a bath as clean as a new pin. He does not ask for hot and cold water reservoirs; for an intricate arrangements of tubes and faucets; for towels and flesh-brushes. All he wants is water, clean water, in which to perform his ablutions, and he will be content. More than this, the hog is the only large domestic animal that will build himself a bed and keep it clean. When a hog can get the materials, he will always make a warm nest, and no matter how cold the nights may be, never deposit and manure therin. More than this, it is always careful to deposit both solid and liquid droppings away from the place where it eats and this is a virtuous trait is possessed by very few animals. The hog is as cleanly about himself as either the horse or the ox, if not more so, and if as much care and straw were used in bedding him, as much labor in removing manure from his quarters or in rubbing it from his body, as are expended upon the horses and cattle' the expression "that dirty hog," would never be truthfully used.

A Gypsy's Funeral.

San Francisco Call.

"Singing, I plod
By wayward fancy led;
Trusting in God
Who the sparrows still hath fed."

A curious crowd of children and grown people filled the narrow limits of Grand avenue yesterday morning, opposite the vacant lots where the gypsy camp is located. A couple of police officers in ceaseless monotone ordered the crowd to "keep away from that fence." The body of the dead gypsy lay in one of the tents in a handsome and rich casket. His family and friends filled the tent, mourning their lost. They were none of them dressed in mourning, as it is understood by other Caucasians, but all were carefully dressed, and some even richly, in fabric and color.

Noticing the reporter's surprise at this, the man who rents lots to the gypsies said: "They are rich, some of them very rich. They pay a good rent in gold and in advance for the ground they occupy. There is one man who lives in yonder tent who is probably worth $100,000. Hard to believe? Well, the men carry on an extensive horse-trading and the women earn a great deal more money than is generally supposed telling fortunes. They live cheaply, but not meanly, and save much."

Shortly after 11 o'clock six young men of the tribe bore the casket from the tent to the hearse, waiting with a dozen carriages in the little street. The news that that was a gypsy funeral had quickly spread, and the police had some difficulty in making a passage way to the hearse for the pall bearers.

At the Odd Fellows' Cemetery, where the burial took place, the simple services of the Lutheran Church were read by the Rev. J. M. Buehler. During the services the mourning tribe stood silent; at its conclusion the young people formed a line around the grave and waited until the grave-diggers hastily filled in the earth Then three girls of the tribe each planted a bunch of flowers at the head, foot and middle of the soft earth. That was their only ceremony. Everything that had ever been used by or upon the dead man before or after death his family burned. Even the undertaker's appliances, the pall, stools and shaving tools were purchased and burned after their return from the grave. "Some of the things they burned I can not replace this side of New York, but they would not let me take them away," the undertaker said. In the morning early, before the funeral, a robe, 1 a-ness, some wearing apparel, a watch and other jewelry which had belonged to the dead gypsy, were burned by his sisters. A number of gypsies from Oakland camps came over to the funeral.

◆

Vanderbilt's New House.

Gath.

Nobody knows how much Vanderbilt's house has cost, into which he has moved, and which he showed last night to private friends. It does not make the appearance of Mrs. Stewart's fine house, nearly a mile below, but seems more cheery and comfortable—in fact, reveals the difference between the warm Dutch temperment of the Vanderbilts and the severe Greek of a North Irish linen draper. Vanderbilt's house is made of the warm brown stone current in New York, elaborately dressed, as if a great belt of vines had turned into stone; and considerable bronze appears in the parapets, etc. There being two houses almost exactly alike, connected with each other by a covered gallery, the whole taking up the front of one block; the further idea of family harmony is conveyed; and it is said that all Vanderbilt's married daughters are to live with their husbands in one of these houses. There are three families of such. Six hundred men were employed in these houses a year and a half in making these decorations, one-tenth of them foreign carvers and sculptors, whose passage were paid both ways, and their pay 260 a week.

◆

Snow.

From the New Haven Register.

Scientifically: Water solidified in stellate crystals, veriously modified and floating in the atmosphere.

Esthetically: Beautiful. Covering the earth with infinite purity, filling the air with utterly consummate beauty.

Practically: a heavy, damp, cold mass reposing in tantalizing drifts upon sidewalks, in the deep cuts of railroads, and piled up in front of barn doors. A delayer of travel and traffic and a complete developer of the shoveling muscles.

Socially: Formed and spread about for the express purpose of taking your best girl on a sleigh ride, when the jingle of the bells adds a piquancy to the charming conversation appropriate to such a delightful occasion.

Scientifically, an interesting study; esthetically, a feast for the eyes, when properly shaded with smoked glasses; practically, a dead weight upon business; socially, the enlivener of Winter society.

◆

Hope is like the sun, which, as we journey towards it, casts the shadows of our burden behind us.

JOCOSITIES.

If one dog can be placed on a scent, how may dogs can be placed on a trade dollar.

Why are seeds, when sown, like gate posts? Because they are planted in earth to propagate.

Philadelphia Chronicle-Herald: "The baby elephant isn't an æsthetic but its front legs are two and its hind legs two too."

Le Duc used to believe that it was possible to raise bald-headed cocoanuts, and thereby avoid the trouble of husking them.

Kept her word—"If thought I was going to become gray, I know I should die!" exclaimed Miss Springle. When she turned gray, she did dye, sure enough.

An old sailor was observed to always hanging about the door of a church when a marriage was to take place. He explained that he might see the tide going out.

The young woman with red gloves has given her hand to the young man with the scarlet necktie. It is easy to imagine what color the town will be painted when the wedding comes off.

Bridget (looking over the mantelpiece)—"What's thim, mam?" Mrs. Dotonart—Those are cherubs, Bridget." Bridget—"Cheerups, is it? Mary Ann says as how they was bats, and I says twins, barrin' the wings."

A wretch's thrust: "Everything is as regular as clockwork about my house," said Brown, who was showing the splendors of his new residence to some of his friends. "Yes," said Fogg, "it is tick, tick all the time, I suppose."

Redundancy: A druggist at Belton Falls, Va., has been sent to prison for sixty days "for selling liquor as a beverage." Wonder what they would have done with him if he had sold it as a liver-pad or a wash for removing freckles?

Extract from a census paper sent in at Paris by the head of a household who is in favor of rigid accuracy in all statements: 4. Are married? Yes; but I wish I wasn't. 5. How many children have you? None. My wife has three.

A Philadelphia firm, a few days ago, drew their check for $6,767,766 75. It is supposed the parties published a newspaper, and wished to pay their editors two weeks' back salary. They must have cut down their force since last pay-day.

A Brooklyn policeman rescued six children from a burning building. He had been only two weeks on the force. By the time he has been there two years he will learn to come out of a burning house with a new overcoat on and the spoons in his pocket.

Said the man as he lay crushed under the fallen wall: "For heaven's sake, get me out of here!" "Are you suffering much pain?" they asked. "Yes," he replied, but I don't mind about that! it's the row my wife will make about my coming home so late, that worries me."

Her mistake: "Why do you suppose Rev. Johnson Reed is always driving over to Smithville?' asked one Austin gentleman of another. "His wife says he goes over to admire the beauty of the place," was the reply. "Yes, but does his wife know the beauty of the place is a young widow?"

Translated from the Omnibus: "Sixteen years married, and still happy!" cried a hen-pecked husband, incredulous. "Sixteen years married, and today happier than ever," answered the happy married man. "You set me in astonishment! Without reason. My wife ran six months after the wedding with another man away."

Couldn't see the fun: A Bucks county man, at a church fair, thought it would be a good joke to put up a leather medal to be voted to the most unpopular man in the ward at ten cents a vote. But he wasn't so tickled with the notion when he was unanimously elected to take it. He could not see anything funny in the result.

A young man who was "left out" of a Cleveland surprise party, invited the young lady who was to be surprised to go with him to the theatre that evening. She did so, and the company which called on her, after waiting around well nigh unto Sunday morning, when the young lady came back with him from the theater, understood exactly what had become of that "surprise" when the two walked in together.

Baptist Weekly: Tommy was a little rogue, whom his mother had hard work to manage. Their house in the country was raised a few feet from the ground, and Tommy, to escape a well-deserved whipping, ran from his mother and crept under the house. Presently the father came home, and hearing where the boy had taken refuge, crept under to bring him out. As he approached on his hands and knees, Tommy asked: "Is she after you, too."

◆

No Apologies for Dinner.

Lippincott's Magazine.

Apologies for poor dinners are generally out of place. But when a lady has a forgetful husband, who, without warning, brings home a dozen guests to sit down to a plain family dinner for three or four, it is not in human nature to keep absolute silence. What to say and how to say it form the problem. Mrs. Tucker, the wife of Judge Tucker, of Williamsburg, solved this problem years ago. She was the daughtr or niece (I am uncertain which) of Sir Peyton Skipworth, and celebrated for her beauty, wit, ease, and grace of manner. Her temper and tact were put to the proof one court day, when the Judge brought with him the accustomed half score or more of lawyers, for whom not the slightest preparation had been made, the Judge having quite forgotten to remind his wife that it was court-day, and she herself, strange to tell, having overlooked the fact.

The dinner was served with elegance, and Mrs. Tucker made herself very charming. Upon rising to leave the guests to their wine she said:

"Gentlemen, you have dined to-day with Judge Tucker; promise me that you will all dine to-morrow with me."

This was all her apology, whereupon the gentleman all swore that such a wife was beyond price. The Judge then explained the situation, and the next day there was a noble banquet,

Moral: Never worry a guest with apologies.

IN MEMORY OF GARFIELD.

[Continued from Third Page.]

will rest largely upon his service in the House of Representatives. That service was exceptionally long. He was nine times consecutive Congressman to the House an honor enjoyed by not more than six other Representives of the more than 1,000 who have been elected from the organization of the Government to this hour

AS A PARLIAMENTARY ORATOR, as a debater on an issue squarely joined, where the position had been chosen and the ground laid out, Garfield must be assigned a very high rank—higher perhaps than any man with whom he was associated in public life. He gave careful and systematic study to public questions, and he came to every discussion in which he took part with elaborate and complete preparations. He was a steady and indefatigable worker. Those who imagine that talent or genius can supply the place or achieve the results of labor will find no encouragement in Garfield's life. In preliminary work he was apt, rapid and skillful. He possessed in a high degree THE POWER OF READILY ABSORBING IDEAS and facts, and, like Dr. Johnson, had the art of getting from a book all that was of value in it by a reading apparently so quick and cursory that it seemed like a mere glance at the table of contents. He was pre eminently fair and candid man; in debate he took no petty advantage, stooped to no unworthy methods, avoided personal allusion, rarely appealed to prejudice, did not seek to inflame passion. He had a quicker eye for the strong point of his adversary than for his weak point, and on his own side he so marshaled his weighty arguments as to make his hearers forget any possible lack in the complete strength of his position. He had a habit of stating his opponent's side with SUCH AMPLITUDE OF FAIRNESS, and such liberality of concession, that his followers often complained that he was giving his case away. But never in his prolonged participation in the proceedings of the House did he give his case away, or fail, in the judgment of competent and impartial listeners, to gain the mastery. These characteristics which marked Garfield as a great debater did not, however, make him a great parliamentary leader. A parliamentary leader, as that term is understood wherever free representative government exists, is necessarily and very strictly the organ of his party. An ardent American defined the instinctive warmth of patriotism when he offered the toast, "Our country, always right, but, right or wrong, our country."

THE PARLIAMENTARY LEADER who has a body of followers that will do, and dare, and die for the cause is one who believes his party always right, but, right or wrong, is for his party. No more important or exacting duty devolved upon him than the selection of the field and the time for contest. He must know not merely how to strike, but where to strike and when to strike. He often skillfully avoids the strength of his opponent's position and scatters confusion in his ranks by attacking an exposed point, when really THE RIGHTEOUSNESS OF THE CAUSE and the strength of the logical intrenchment are against him. He conquers often both against the right and the heavy battalions, as when young Charles Fox, in the days of his Toryism, carried the House of Commons against justice, against immemorial rights, against his own convictions—if, indeed, at that period Fox had convictions, and in the interest of a corrupt administration, in obedience to a tyrannical sovereign, drove Wilkes from the seat to which the electors of Middlesex had chosen him, and installed Luttrell, in defiance not merely of law but of public decency. For an achievement of that kind, Garfield was disqualified—disqualified by the texture of his mind, by THE HONESTY OF HIS HEART, by his conscience, and by every instinct and aspiration of his nature. The three most distinguished parliamentary leaders hitherto developed in this country are Mr. Clay, Mr. Douglas and Thaddeus Stevens. Each was a man of consummate ability, of great earnestness, of intense personality, differing widely each from the others, and yet with a signal trait in common—the power to command. In the give and take of daily discussions; in the art of controlling and consolidating reluctant and refractory followers; in the skill to overcome all forms of opposition and to meet with competency and courage the varying phases of unlooked for assault or unsuspected defection, it would be difficult to rank with these a fourth name in all our Congressional history. But of these Mr. Clay was the greatest. It would, perhaps, be impossible to find in THE PARLIAMENTARY ANNALS OF THE WORLD a parallel to Mr. Clay in 1841, when at [illegible] years of age he took the control of the Whig party from the President who had received their suffrages, against the power of Webster in the Cabinet, against the eloquence of Choate in the Senate, against the herculean efforts of Caleb Cushing and Henry A. Wise in the House. In unshared leadership, in the pride and plentitude of power, he hurled against John Tyler, with deepest scorn, the mass of that conquering column which had swept over the land in 1840, and drove his Administration to seek shelter behind the lines of his political foes. Mr. Douglas achieved a victory scarcely less wonderful when, in 1854, against the secret desires of a strong Administration, against the wise counsel of the older chiefs, against the conservative instincts and even the moral sense of the country, he FORCED A RELUCTANT CONGRESS into a repeal of the Missouri compromise. Mr. Thaddeus Stevens, in his contest from 1865 to 1866, actually advanced his parliamentary leadership until Congress tied the hands of the President and governed the country by its own will, leaving only prefunctory duties to be discharged by the Executive. With two hundred millions of patronage in his hands at the opening of the contest, aided by the active force of Seward in the Cabinet, and the moral power of Chase on the bench, Andrew Johnson could not command the support of one-third in either house against the parliamentary uprising of which Thaddeus Stevens was the animating spirit and the unquestioned leader. From these three great men GARFIELD DIFFERED RADICALLY—differed in the quality of his mind, in temperhment, in the form and phase of ambition. He could not do what they did, but he could do what they could not, and in the breadth of his Congressional work he left that which will long exert a potential influence among men and which, measured by the severe test of posthumous criticism, will secure a more enduring and more enviable fame. Those unfamiliar with GARFIELD'S INDUSTRY, and ignorant of the details of his work may, in some degree, measure them by the annals of Congress. No one of the generation of public men to which he belonged, has contributed so much that will be valuable for future reference. His speeches are numerous, many of them brilliant, all of them well-studied, carefully phrased and exhaustive of the subject under consideration. Collected from the scattered pages of ninety royal octavo volumes of Congressional records, they would present an invaluable compendium of the political history of the most important era through which the national government has ever passed. When the history of this period shall be impartially written, when war, legislation, measures of reconstruction PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS, amendments to the Constitution, maintenance of public credit, steps towards specie resumption, true theories of revenue may be reviewed unsurrounded by prejudice and disconnected from partisanship—the speeches of Garfield will be estimated at their true value, and will be found to comprise a vast magazine of fact and argument, of clear analysis and sound conclusion. Indeed, if no other authority were accessible, his speeches in the House of Representatives from December, 1862, to June, 1880, would give a well-connected history and complete self defense of the important legislation of the seventeen eventful years that constitute HIS PARLIAMENTARY LIFE. Far beyond that, his speeches would be found to forecast many great measures yet to be completed—measures which he knew were beyond the public opinion of the hour, but which he confidently believed would secure popular approval within the period of his own lifetime, and by the aid of his own efforts. Differing, as Garfield did, from the brilliant parliamentary leaders, it is not easy to find his counterpart anywhere in the record of American public life. He perhaps more nearly resembled Mr. Seward in his supreme faith in the all conquering power of principle. He had THE LOVE OF LEARNING and the patient industry of investigation to which John Quincy Adams owed his prominence and his Presidency. He had some of those ponderous elements of mind which distinguished Mr. Webster and which indeed in all our public life have left the great Massachusetts Senator without an intellectual peer. In English parliamentary history, as in our own, the leaders in the House of Commons present points of essential difference from Garfield. But some of his methods recall the best features in the strong, independent course of Sir Robert Peel, and striking resemblances are discernible in that most promising of modern Conservatives, who died too early for his country and his fame, Lord George Bentick. He had all of BURKE'S LOVE OF THE SUBLIME and the beautiful, with possibly something of his superabundance, and in his faith and in his magnanimity, in his power of statement, in his subtle analysis, in his faultless logic, in his love of literature, in his wealth and world of illustration, one is reminded of that great English statesmen of today, who, confronted with obstacles that would daunt any but the dauntless, reviled by those whose supposed rights he is forced to invade, still labors with serene courage for the amelioration of Ireland and for the honor of the English name.

GARFIELD'S NOMINATION TO THE PRESIDENCY, while not predicted or anticipated, was not a surprise to the country. His prominence in Congress, his solid qualities, his wide reputation, strengthened by his then recent election as Senator from Ohio, kept him in the public eye as a man occupying the very highest range among those entitled to be called statetmen. It was not mere chance that brought him this high honor. "We must," says Mr. Emerson, "reckon success a constitutional trait. If Eric is in robust health and has slept well, and is at the top of his condition and 30 years old at his departure from Greenland, he will steer west, and his ship will reach Newfoundland. But take out Eric and put in a stronger and bolder man, and the ships will sail 600, 1,000, 1,500 miles farther and reach Labrador and New England. There is no chance in results."

AS A CANDIDATE

Garfield steadily grew in popular favor. He was met with a storm of detraction at the very hour of his nomination, and it continued with increasing volume and momentum until the close of his victorious campaign:

No might nor greatness in mortality
Can censure 'scape, backwounding calumny
The whitest virtue strikes. What king so strong
Can tie the gall up in the slanderous tongue.

Under it all he was CALM AND STRONG AND CONFIDENT, never lost his self possession, did no unwise act, spoke no hasty or ill-considered word. Indeed, nothing in his whole life is more remarkable or more creditable than his bearing through those five full months of vituperation—a prolonged agony of trial to a sensitive man, a constant and cruel draft upon the powers of moral endurance. The great mass of these unjust imputations passed unnoticed, and, with the general debris of the campaign, fell into oblivion. But in a few instances the iron entered his soul, and he DIED WITH THE INJURY UNFORGOTTEN if not unforgiven. One aspect of Garfield's candidacy was unprecedented. Never before in the history of partisan contests in this country had a successful Presidential candidate spoken freely on passing events and current issues. To attempt anything of the kind seemed novel, rash, and even desperate. The older class of voters recalled the unfortunate Alabama letter, in which Mr. Clay was supposed to have signed his political death-warrant. They remembered also the hot-tempered effusion by which General Scott lost a large share of his popularity before his nomination, and the unfortunate speeches which rapidly consumed the remainder. The younger voters had seen Mr. Greeley in a series of vigorous and original addresses preparing the pathway for his own defeat. Unmindful of these warnings, unheeding the advice of friends, Garfield spoke to large crowds, as he journeyed to and from New York in August, to a great multitude in that city, to delegations and deputations of every kind that called at Mentor, during the Summer and Autumn. With innumerable critics watchful and eager to catch a phrase that might be turned into odium or ridicule, or a sentence that might be distorted to his own or his party's injury.

GARFIELD DID NOT TRIP OR HALT in any one of his seventy speeches. This seems all the more remarkable when it is remembered that he did not write what he said, and yet spoke with such logical consecutiveness of thought and such admirable precision of praise as to defy the accident of misreports and the malignity of misrepresentation. IN THE BEGINNING OF HIS PRESIDENTIAL LIFE Garfield's experience did not yield him pleasure or satisfaction. The duties that engross so large a portion of the President's time were distasteful to him, and were unfarvorabley contracted with legislative work.

"I have been dealing all these years with ideas," he impatiently exclaimed one day "and here I'm dealing only with persons. I have been heretofore treating of the fundamental principles of Government, and here I am considering all day whether A or B shall be appointed to this or that office.

He was earnestly seeking some practical way of correcting the evils arising from the distribution of overgrown and unwieldy patronage—evils always appreciated and often discussed by him, but whose magnitude had been more deeply impressed upon his mind since his accession to the Presidency. Had he lived, a comprehensive improvement in the mode of appointment and in the tenure of office would have been proposed by him, and, with the aid of Congress, no doubt perfected. But while many of the Executive duties were not grateful to him, he was assiduous and conscientious in their discharge. From the very outset he exhibited administrative talent of a high order. He grasped the helm of office with the hand of a master. In this respect, indeed, he constantly surprised many who were not most intimately associated with him in the Government, and especially those who feared he might be lacking in the executive faculty. His disposition of business was orderly and rapid; his power of analysis and his skill in classification enabled him to dispatch a vast mass of detail with singular promptness and ease; his Cabinet meetings were admirably conducted; his clear presentation of official subjects, his well considered suggestions of topics on which discussion was invited, his quick decision when he had heard, combined to show a thoroughness of mental training as rare as his natural ability and his facile adapttion to a new and enlarged field of labor.

WITH PERFECT COMPREHENSION of all the inheritances of the war, with a cool calculation of the obstacles in the way, impelled always by a generous enthusiasm, Garfield conceived that much might be done by his Administration towards restoring harmony between the different sections of the Union. He was anxious to go South and speak to the people. As early as April he had ineffectually endeavored to arrange for a trip to Nashville, whither he had been cordially invited, and he was again disappointed a few weeks after to find he could not go to South Carolina to attend the the centennial commemoration of the victory of Cowpens; but for the Autumn, he definitely counted on being present at three memorable assemblies in the South—the celebration at Yorktown, the opening of the Cotton Exposition at Atlanta, and the meeting of the Army of the Cumberland at Chattanooga. He was already turning over in his mind his address for each occasion, and the three taken together, he said to a friend, gave him the exact scope and verge he needed. At Yorktown he would have before him THE ASSOCIATIONS OF A HUNDRED YEARS that bound the South and the North in the sacred memory of a common danger and a common victory; at Atlanta he would present the material interests and the industrial development which appealed to the thrift and independence of every household, and which should unite the two sections by the instinct of self-interest and self-defense. At Chattanooga he would revive memories of the war only to show that, after all its disaster and all its suffering, the country was stronger and greater, the Union rendered indissoluble, and the future, through the agony and blood of one generation, made brighter and better for all. Garfield's ambition for THE SUCCESS OF HIS ADMINISTRATION was high. With strong caution and conservatism in his nature, he was in no danger of attempting rash experiments or of resorting to the empiricism of statesmanship; but he believed that renewed and closer attention should be given to questions affecting the material interests and commercial prosperity of 50,000,000 people. He believed that our continental relations, extensive and undeveloped as they are, involved responsibility, and could be cultivated in profitable friendship, or be abandoned to harmful indifference or lasting enmity. He believed with equal confidence that an essential forerunner to a new era of national progress must be a feeling of contentment in every section of the Union, and a general belief that THE BENEFITS AND BURDENS OF GOVERNMENT would be common to all. Himself a conspicious illustration of what ability and ambition may do under Republican institutions, he loved his country with a passion of patriotic devotion, and every waking thought was given to her advancement. He was an American in all his aspirations, and he looked to the destiny and influence of the United States with the philosophical composure of Jefferson and the demonstrative confidence of John Adams.

DISTURBING POLITICAL ELEMENTS.

The political events which disturbed the President's serenity for many weeks before that fateful day in July form an important chapter in his career, and in his own judgment involved matters of principle and of right which are virtually essential to the constitutional administration of Federal Government. It would be out of place here and now to speak the language of controversy, but the events referred to, however they may continue to be the source of contention with others, have become, so far as Garfield is concerned, as much a matter of history as his heroism at Chickamauga or his illustrious service in the House. Detail is not needed full and personal. Antagonism shall not be rekindled by any word uttered to-day.

THE MOTIVES OF THOSE OPPOSING HIM are not to be here adversely interpreted nor their course harshly characterized, but of the dead President this is to be said, and said because his own speech is not heard except through the fidelity and the love of surviving friends. From the beginning to the end of the controversy he so much deplored, the President was never for one moment actuated by moves of gain to himself or loss to others. Least of all did he harbor revenge; rarely did he ever show resentment; and malice was not in his nature. He was congenially employed only in the exchange of good offices and the doing of kindly deeds. There was not an hour from the beginning of the trouble until the fatal shot entered his body when the President would not gladly, FOR THE SAKE OF RESTORING HARMONY, have retraced any step he had taken, if such retracing had merely involved consequences personal to himself. The pride of consistency, or any supposed sense of humiliation that might result from surrendering his position, had not a feather's weight with him. No man was less subject to such influences, from within or without; but after most anxious deliberation, and the coolest survey of all circumstances, he solemnly believed that the true prerogatives of the Executive were involved in the issue which had been raised, and that he would be unfaithful to his supreme obligation if he failed to maintain in all their vigor the constitutional rights and dignities of the great office. He believed this in all convictions of conscience, when in sound and vigorous health, and he believed it in his suffering and prostration, in the last conscious thought which his wearied mind bestowed on the transitory struggles of life. More than this need not be said; less than this could not be said.

JUSTICE TO THE DEAD, the highest obligation that devolves upon the living, demands the declaration that in all the bearings of the subject, actual or possible, the President was content in his mind, justified in his conscience, immovable in his conclusions.

The religious element in Garfield's character was deep and earnest. In his youth he espoused the faith of the Disciples, a sect of that great Baptist communion which in ecclesiastical establishments is so numerous and so influential throughout all parts of the United States; but the broadening tendency of his mind and his active spirit of inquiry were early apparent, and carried him beyond the dogmas of sect and the restraints of association. In selecting a college in which to continue his education he rejected Bethany, though presided over by Alexander Campbell, the greatest preacher of his church. His reasons were characteristic; First, that Bethany leaned too heavily toward slavery; and, second, that being himself a Disciple and the son of Disciple parents, he had little acquaintance with people of other beliefs, and he THOUGHT IT WOULD MAKE HIM MORE LIBERAL, quoting his own words, both in his religious and general views, to go into a new circle and be under new influences. The liberal tendency which he anticipated as the result of wider culture was fully realized. He was emancipated from mere sectarian belief, and with eager interest pushed his investigation in the direction of modern progressive thought. He followed with quickening steps in the paths of exploration and speculation so fearlessly trodden by Darwin, by Huxley, by Tyndall, and by other living scientists of the radical and advanced type. His own church, binding its disciples by no formulated creed, but accepting the Old and New Testaments as the Word of God, with unbiased liberty of private interpretation, favored if it did not stimulate the spirit of investigation. Its members profess with sincerity, and profess only, to be of one mind and one faith, with those who followed the Master and who were FIRST CALLED CHRISTIANS AT ANTIOCH.

But however high Garfield reasoned of "fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute," he was never separated from the Church of the Disciples in his affections and in his associations. For him it held the Ark of the Covenant; to him was the gate of heaven. The world of religious belief is full of solecisms and contradictions. A philosophic observer declares that men by the thousands will die in defense of a creed whose doctrines they do not comprehend and whose tenets they habitually violate. It is equally true that men by the thousands will cling to church organizations with instinctive and undying fidelity when their belief in mature years is radically different from that which inspired them as neophytes. But after this range of speculation and this latitude of doubt, Garfield came back always with freshness and delight to SIMPLER INSTINCTS OF RELIGIOUS FAITH which, earliest implanted, longest survive. Not many weeks before his assassination, walking on the banks of the Potomac with a friend, and conversing on these topics of personal religion, concerning which noble natures have an unconquerable reserve, he said that he found the Lord's prayer and the simple petition learned in infancy infinitely restful to him, not merely in their stated repetition, but in their casual and frequent recall as he went about the daily duties of life. Certain texts of Scripture had a very strong hold on his memory and heart. He heard, while in Edinburgh some years ago, AN EMINENT SCOTCH PREACHER, who prefaced his sermon with reading the eighth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans, which book had been the subject of careful study with Garfield during all his religious life. He was greatly impressed by the elocution of the preacher, and declared that it had imparted a new and deeper meaning to the majestic utterances of St. Paul. He referred often in after years to that memorable service, and dwelt with exaltation of feeling upon the radiant promise and the assured hope with which the great apostle of the Gentiles was persuaded that "neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor death, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." The crowning characteristic of GENERAL GARFIELD'S RELIGIOUS OPINIONS, as indeed of all his opinions, was his liberality. In all things he had charity. Tolerance was of his nature. He respected in others the qualities which he possessed himself, sincerity of conviction and frankness of expression. With him the inquiry was not so much what a man believes, but does he believe it? The lines of his friendship and his confidence encircled men of every creed, and men of no creed, and to the end of his life, on his ever-lengthening list of friends were to be found the names of a pious Catholic priest and an honest-minded and generous free-thinker. On the morning of Saturday, July 2, the President was A CONTENTED AND HAPPY MAN, not in an ordinary degree, but joyfully, almost boyishly happy. On his way to the railroad station, to which he drove slowly, in conscious enjoyment of the beautiful morning, with an unwonted sense of pleasure, his talk was all in the grateful and gratulatory vein. He felt that after four months of trial, his Administration was strong in his grasp of affairs, strong in popular favor, and destined to grow stronger; that grave difficulties confronting him at his inauguration have been safely passed; that trouble lay behind him, and not before him, that he was soon to meet THE WIFE WHOM HE LOVED, now recovering from an illness which had but lately disquieted and at times almost unnerved; that he was going to his alma mater to renew the most cherished associations of his young manhood, and to exchange greetings with those whose deepening interest had followed every step of his upward progress from the day he entered upon his college course until he had attained the loftiest position in the gift of his countrymen. Surely, if happiness can ever come from the honors or triumphs of this world, on that quiet July morning James A. Garfield may well have been a happy man.

NO FOREBODING OF EVIL HAUNTED HIM; not the slightest premonition of danger clouded his sky—his terrible fate was upon him in an instant. One moment he stood erect, strong, confident of the years stretching peacefully out before him. The next he lay wounded, bleeding, helpless, doomed to weary weeks of torture, to silence and the grave. Great in life, he was surpassingly great in death. For no cause, in the very frenzy of wantonness and wickedness, by the red hand of murder, he was thrust from the full tide of this world's interest, from its hopes, its aspirations, its victories, into the visible presence of Death; and HE DID NOT QUAIL, not alone for the one short moment in which, stunned and dazed, he could give up life, hardly aware of its relinquishment; but through days of deadly languor, through weeks of agony that was not less agony because silently borne with clear sight and calm courage, he looked into his open grave. What blight and ruin met his anguished eyes? Whose lips may tell what brilliant broken plans, what baffled high ambitions, what sundering of strong, warm manhood friendships, what bitter rending of sweet household ties! Behind him a proud, expectant nation, a great host of sustaining friends, a cherished and happy mother, wearing the full, rich honors of her early toil and tears; the wife of his youth, whose whole life lay in his; the little boys not yet emerged from childhood's day of frolic; the fair young daughter; the sturdy sons just springing into closest companionship, claiming every day, and every day rewarding,

A FATHER'S LOVE AND CARE, and in his heart the eager, rejoicing power to meet all demand! Before him desolation and great darkness, and his soul was not shaken, his countrymen were thrilled with an instant, profound and universal sympathy. Masterful in his mortal weakness, he became the center of a nation's love, enshrined in the prayers of a world, but all the love and all the sympathy could not share with him his suffering. He trod the wine-press alone. With unfaltering front he faced death. With unfailing tenderness he took leave of life. Above THE DEMONIAC HISS OF THE ASSASSIN'S BULLET, he heard the voice of God. With simple resignation he bowed to the Divine decree. As the end drew near, his early craving for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the weary hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from its prison walls, from its oppressive, stifling air, from its homelessness and its hopelessness. Gently, silently, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed-for healing of the sea, to live or die as God should will. Within sight of its heaving billows, within sound of its manifold voices,

WITH WAN, FEVERED FACE tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders, on its fair sails whitening in the morning light, on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noonday sun, on the red clouds of evening reaching low to the horizon, on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world, he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore, and felt already upon his brow the breath of the eternal morning.

IT is announced by authority that Dr. Hawn, Secretary of State, will not be a candidate for re-election. He finds the cares of office uncongenial and desires to return to the practice of his profession and the active over-sight of his private affairs.

◆

A person often repents of talking too much, but seldom of saying too little.

THE STATE.

A man by the name of Gilbert, of Dudley township, Henry county, while moving, was struck by a chain that broke, had his leg broken in two places, and was badly mangled.

J. H. Ballard, colored, for ten years school teacher at Jeffersonville, has been appointed, through Senator Harrison, mail agent on the J., M. and I. road, between Madison and Indianapolis.

Elijah Whitten, for thirty years a deputy sheriff and bailiff of Floyd county, was found dead in a gutter on Main street, into which he had fallen the previous night while intoxicated, and drowned.

Word has been received of the suicide of Samuel Miller, formerly an aged and respected citizen of Adams county, but lately of Topeka, Kansas. Bodily infirmity had weakened his mind. He was a man of considerable wealth.

A man hailing from Indianapolis has been levying a tax of one dollar on each of the saloons of Warsaw for the alleged purpose of taking a test case to the Supreme court, in the hope that the law requiring licenses to be paid may be declared void.

Robert Pierson, the party who took arsenic with suicidal intent at Shelbyville, died at seven o'clock the same night. From the first he resisted all efforts to render him any assistance, being anxious as he expressed it, "to die and be done with it."

Mrs. General Wm. McKee Dunn, of Washington city, has given Hanover college $100 for the purchase of physical apparatus for the science department of the college. Now a long felt want is a good magic lantern, and a set of the representative rocks of the world to the natural science department.

Argus Dean, the Madison peach grower, predicts that the peach blooms will be unusually full, and the only danger is from spring frosts. From the fact that two crops have been gathered in succession, the yield will be less in quantity and poor in quality, unless wise care has been taken of the trees. The prospect for all stone fruits is quite as good as for peaches.

Alex Arnold has just been sent to the penitentary for two years from Terre Haute for horse stealing. He confessed to stealing thirty-four horses since last June, and fifteen of them have been returned to their owners through his confession. A young man named Owens, who had been indicted and was almost sure to be sent to the penitentiary was found to be innocent and was released through Arnold's confession and the restoration of the stolen animals.

The stone to be placed over the grave of the late Governor Williams by James S. McCoy, one of the executors, is to be a shaft of Barre granite, a dark bluish gray stone, susceptible to very fine polish, twenty-eight feet nine inches in height, and the foundation will be seven feet square, and will be of limestone. The apex of the monument will be surmounted by an ornamental cap, and the sub-base bearing the tablet for the inscription will be very ornamental. The contractor is also to enclose the bodies of the deceased governor and wife by walls of stone at the sides of the coffins, and to cover them with a slab of stone ten inches in thickness. The work is to be done in June, and costs $2,000.

The grand jury of Wayne county have finished their investigation into the Smith murder case. The indictment returned against each of the murderers was, "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The news has been received with much satisfaction. They were indicted separately, and, of course, there will be three separate trials. A contribution has been raised throughout the county, and a prominent criminal lawyer, retained to assist the prosecution. It is stated that the trial will begin in about two weeks. Mrs. Smith still seems sanguine as to the result, and she thinks that in a short time she will be at her old home again.

Notre Dame university is the fortunate possessor of probably the only original Van Dyke in this country. The painting was brought from England many years ago and presented to Very Rev. Father Sorin. It was supposed to be the work of of the masters, but which one could never be determined. When Signor Gregori came to Notre Dame from Rome, where he had charge of restoring many pictures in the Vatican, and was the highest authority in Rome on the genuineness of old painting, he took charge of the painting and restored it, and found it to be a genuine Van Dyke. The picture, if placed on sale in New York or any of the art centers of the old world, would bring anywhere from $20,000 to $30,000, but of course it will never be sold, but remain the most prominent of the art treasures of Notre Dame.

THERE are two hundred drinkeries in Fort Wayne.

IT appears that Mr. George B. Williams, of Lafayette, is deeply interested in the passage by Congress of the Japanese indemnity bill, which has passed the Senate. Mr. W. went to Japan and organized the internal revenue system of that country on the American plan, and if the bill above named passes will receive $300,000 for his services in that connection.

HON. T. J. FOSTER, of Ft. Wayne, ex-Senator and Representative of Allen county, is reported missing. He had been drinking heavily, and declared he was going away never to return, and at the present writing it is not known whether he has vamoosed, committed suicide or gone to visit his parents in the country. Meantime, Dr. McDowell, another notorious ex-Representative of that county, was recently put under bond on charges of criminal practice.

New Meat Market

opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers. He has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.

Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. 41tf

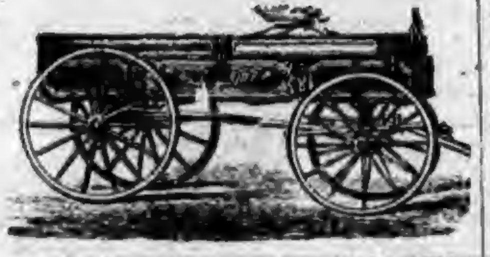
W. L. BRAUN.

J. W SHAFFER & CO.

Manufacturers of the

Best and Lightest-Running

Wagon



NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on South Main street, Auburn, Ind. 31 tf

HOP BITTERS.

(A Medicine, not a Drink,)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION.

AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and especially Female Complaints.

$1000 IN GOLD.

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and try them before you sleep. Take no Other.

D. I. C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkeness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

All above sold by druggists.
Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y., & Toronto, Ont.

TRADE KIDNEY-WORT MARK

THE ONLY MEDICINE

IN EITHER LIQUID OR DRY FORM

That Acts at the same time on

THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, AND THE KIDNEYS.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

Because we allow these great organs to become clogged or torpid, and poisonous humors are therefore forced into the blood that should be expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT

WILL SURELY CURE

KIDNEY DISEASES,
LIVER COMPLAINTS,
PILES, CONSTIPATION, URINARY DISEASES, FEMALE WEAKNESSES, AND NERVOUS DISORDERS,

by causing free action of these organs and restoring their power to throw off disease.

Why suffer Bilious pains and aches!
Why tormented with Piles, Constipation!
Why frightened over disordered Kidneys!
Why endure nervous or sick headaches!

Use KIDNEY-WORT and rejoice in health.

It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form, in tin cans one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

☞ It acts with equal efficiency in either form.

GET IT OF YOUR DRUGGIST. PRICE, $1.00

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Prop's,
(Will send the dry post-paid.) BURLINGTON, VT.

FREE! RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

A PLACE FOR YOUR DICTIONARY,
A PLACE FOR YOUR NEWSPAPERS,
A PLACE FOR YOUR PERIODICALS,
And an ornament for your house, all in one,
THE NOYES DICTIONARY HOLDER.

Delays in Congress.

The systematic delays in the work in congress known as filibustering are this described: To the inexperianced observer the manner in which the average Congressman conducts himself on certain occasions makes his conduct appear very much like that of a boy, and a very bad dispositioned boy at that. The way in which members of the House may, and sometimes do, delay legislation, often for seeming trifles, is quite surprising to the person who is not familiar with the ways of great men. Does a member make a motion in favor of some pet measure and find himself in a minority on the viva voce vote, he may immediately demand a rising vote.

This granted, if he finds himself still in a minority, he may demand "tellers."

A rising vote is then taken on the demand, and a few of his party rallying to his support the demand is granted; he and a member from the opposite side are appointed "tellers;" they advance to the front of the Speaker's desk, and the members rising from their seats pass between them and are counted. Then, when the result is announced, the defeated party may demand the "ayes and noes," and if one-fifth of the members rise and vote to support him in the demand the vote must be taken by calling the roll.

Does the Chair decide that not a sufficient number have arisen to demand the ayes and noes, the member may demand "tellers" on the question whether the "ayes and noes" shall be taken, and the vote on this question be taken in that way. Does he obtain the necessary number (one-fifth), the roll must be called, each member's name being called distinctly with the prefix "Mr.," and the way each man voted be announced by the Clerk to his Assistant, who notes the fact. Then the names of those who failed to answer are called again, and those answering noted.

Then the names of those who are "paired" are announced by the Clerk, and, unless omitted on notice, the names of those voting in the affirmative and those in the negative are announced by the Clerk, and also the result of the vote. Even then the fight is not always at an end; for if it appears from the total number of votes cast that a quorum is not present, that point of order may be made, and a "call of the House" ordered. To bring about this state of affairs—the lack of a quorum—it is only necessary for one side to refrain from answering to their names when they are called and the cry of "no quorum" may be success fully raised.

Then can be demanded the "call of the House," in which the members' names are called and the names of the absentees noted, the doors locked, and the Sergeant-at Arms sent out after the absentees, leaving the House to sit inactive until a quorum is obtained, or until an adjournment can be had if the point of the quorum is still insisted upon.

When it is considered that there are about 300 members, and that it requires over a half hour to make a roll call alone, the amount of time that may be consumed in "filibustering" by a determined minority is quite surprising to the inexperianced observer. And the amount that is so consumed is also quite surprsing.

Soda For Burns.

For several years soda has been recommended for burns and scalds not only by the medical profession but much has been said about the remedy by newspapers. A solution of soda in water is undoubtly the best application known for these accidents, and the mode of its use ought to be understood by all. The March number of the Popular Science Monthly contains an article on this subject by Dr. F. Peppercorn, from which we make the following extract:

It is now many years ago that the author of this paper was fortunate enough to discover that a saline lotion, or saturated solution of the bicarbonated soda in either plain water or camphorated water, if applied speedily, or as soon as possible, to a burned or scalded part, was most effectual in immediately relieving the acute burning pain; and when the burn was only superficial, and not severe, removing all pain in the course of a very short time; having also the very great advantage of clealiness, and, if applied at once, of preventing the usual consequences—a blistering of the skin, separation of the epidermis, and perhaps of more or less suppuration.

For this purpose all that is necessary is to cut a piece of lint, or old soft rag, or even thick blotting paper, of a size sufficient to cover the burned or scalded parts, and to keep it constantly well wetted with the sodaic lotion so as to prevent its drying. By this means, it usually happens that all pain ceases in from a quarter to half an hour, or even much less time.

When the main part of a limb, such as the hand and fore-arm or the foot and leg, has been burned, it is best when practicable, to plunge the part at once into a jug, or pail, or other convenient vessle filled with the soda lotion, and keep it there until the pain subsides; or the limb may be swathed or encircled with a surgeon's cotton bandage previously soaked in the saturated solution, and kept constantly wetted with it the relief being usually immediate, provided the solution be saturated and cold.

What is now usually sold as bicarbonate of soda is what I have commonly used and recommended; alhough this is well known to vary much in quality according to where it is manufactured—but it will be found to answer the purpose, although probably Howard's is most to be depended on.

A Prairie "Schooner."

Did we not know a great deal better we might be induced to think that Tom. Phelps is trying to discourage emigration to Dakota. From the story he tells of Bob Sweetzer's experience in locating his dwelling on a prairie town site, there is some uncertainty as to whether a house will remain where you put it for twenty four hours, especially if it is not anchored on a firm foundation. Mr. Sweetzer built his house before the town lots were marked off to the owners, and fearing that he might not be on his own ground, underpinned the building with rollers—in other words, "put the house on wheels"—that he might be able to move it with ease if he found he was not on the right ground. 'Twas a good scheme, he thought, but the first night he retired, he was impressed with the notion that the wind blew harder than he had ever known it to before, but the rocking of the house soon lulled him into a gentle sleep, and he pleasantly dreamed of his loved ones far away in the East. In an occasional wakeful moment he dwelt upon the good time coming when they, too, would share with him the joys of their new home. The night passed, and long after Sol had flooded the east with his golden rays, friend Sweetzer awoke. He woke to enter upon the enticing duties of another day in his bright home, and stepped forth from his new dwelling a proud and happy man. Taking a view of his surroundings he was suddenly startled by the strange appearance of the location. It all looked new to him. No house, no town, no lots were visible. His surprise was sudden, startling, and was soon succeeded with fear. He hastily left his abode and started on a tour of observation. After wandering about for nearly an entire day he finally got his proper bearings. It is easier to imagine than to describe his feelings when he found that his building had blown out into the prairie a distance of six miles, and the gentle rocking by which he had been lulled to sleep the night before, was the gliding over the smooth prairie of his dwelling on wheels. He is now waiting for the wind to shift and blow his domicile back to town, when he will purchase a forty ton anchor to throw out on retiring at night.—[Wabash Plain Dealer.

A Talk With Captain Eads Concerning the Mississippi River.

The House Committee on the Improvement of the Mississippi River, gave a further hearing to-day to Captain James B. Eads, who occupied an hour in defense and explanation of the jetty system at the mouth of the Mississippi River, by which, as he claims, the depth of water through the south pass has been increased from eight feet (the average depth before the work was commenced) to twenty-six and thirty feet at the present time. He laid great stress upon the importance of gradually closing up or lessening the discharge of the Mississippi River through Atchafalaya, a few miles below the mouth of the river, and predicted that otherwise the whole volume of the Mississippi River would, in the course of time, take that route to the sea. Captain Eads was asked by a member of the Committee whether he had any confident theory of a plan that would prevent such disastrous overflows as the present are, and he stated in reply, if the gaps in levees were repaired, which could be done at an expense of $2,000,000, such overflows would not occur, and low water navigation of the Mississippi, from Cairo down, would be greatly improved.—[Sentinel.

A Young Lady Who Read the Presidents Message.

"Have you read the president's message yet?" asked Erastus, as he gazed fondly and lovingly into the eyes of her through whom he hoped, at some time in the future, to capture a good bank account.

"Yes, dearest," replied she, "I completed it only a few days ago.

"And what do you think of it?"

"Oh, I think it is just too awfully splendid for anything."

"Yes, as a literary production it is very good."

"And wasn't it just too lovely to think that they got married at last, in spite of all the fuss."

Then followed a pause, and the young man's mind wandered out into the front yard of the future, and he asked himself what kind of a woman that would be to bring up and educate the family of which he hoped to be the father.—Oil City Derrick.

SCHOOL REPORT.

Dist. No 4, Keyser township, names of pupils neither absent nor tardy during the month ending February 24: Dora Jackson, John Lobdell, Clyde Fortner, Charles Kelham Harvey Embry, Harry Bloomfield. Names of pupils enrolled on Roll of Honor, Dora Jackson, Hattie Leeson, Frederic Hall, Clyde Fortner, Warren Hall, Charles Kelham, Bertie Steckoy, Samie Clark, Melissa Rakestraw, Cloe Probst, May Clark, Jane Bell, Joseph Leeson, John Lobdell, George Probst, Harry Bloomfield, Otho Fengler. No. of pupils enrolled 29, average attendance 25½.

M. J. WELLER, Teacher.

Prominent Generals in Council.

Generals Sherman, Sheridan and Hancock were invited by the House Military Committee to attend its meeting recently, for the purpose of giving their opinions upon several bills now under consideration, affecting the interests of the Army. The talk of the Generals was entirely informal. They all favored a compulsory retirement bill, and were unanimous in representing the evils resulting from an almost entire stagnation of promotion in the lower grades of officers. They favored Mr. Maginnis' bill, which gives increased pay to such officers below the rank of Major as have served in one grade for fifteen consecutive years, as affording a measure of relief. General Hancock, in private conversation with members of the Committee, said for the first time since the War he saw Army matters discussed by politicians in Congress upon the merits of each question and apart from political complication. He was pleased to find there was no longer prejudice in the minds of men from any section against the Army, and Democrats and Republicans were evidently actuated by a desire to benefit the soldiers of the Republic. He had had more satisfaction in visiting Washington this time than for many years.—[Sentinel.

The Sea Serpent.

The sea serpent has again made his first annual appearance this year at Long Branch. While Mr. Frank M. Taylor and several other well known residents, whose names are not given, were strolling by the iron pier on Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock, a monster about forty feet long rose above the water. The peculiarity about this serpent was the head. It had horns about four feet high and about six feet apart. Its mouth was of the same alarming dimensions. Mr. Taylor and the well known residents declare these were the first "horns" that they had seen during the day. The eyes were peaceful and had a sad, far-away look. Its color was slightly green and shone with a phosphorescent light. Mr. Taylor and the other well known residents became very much frightened and ran up the beach. At last, after gazing around for five minutes, the alleged monster sank slowly and disappeared. The iron pier is still standing.—[New York World.

—We ask you to read the advertisement of Darby's Prophylactic Fluid, which appears in our issue of to-day. It is a wonderful healing remedy, a most powerful disinfectant, and a positive germ destroyer, and is perfectly safe to use even in the hands of the most inexperienced. It is highly recommended by eminent physicians and chemists, and endorsed by hundreds of others who have used it and know its valuable properties. It costs but a trifle, and will save much suffering, time and money. Darby's fluid has long been recognized as a household article for universal family use. Prepared by J. H. Zeilin & Co, Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors 9-3t.

The offer to send for 25 cents, in money or stamps, a Box of Vegetable Seeds containing one packet each of Sure-head Cabbage, Egyptian Turnip Beet, Trophy Tomato, Butter Lettuce, French Breakfast Radish, Excelsior Watermelon, Model Cucumber, White Egg Turnip, for trial, should be taken advantage of by every person who has a garden. The 8 varieties are put up in a neat box, and each packet is full size. This offer is made introduce our Seeds to new customers. Guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money returned. Illustrated Catalogue Sent Free.

S. Y. HAINES & CO.
41 North Front St. Philadelphia, Pa.

"MY TORMENTED BACK."

is the exclamation of more than one poor, hard-working man and woman. Do you know how it aches? It is because your kidneys are over-tasked and need strengthing, and your system needs to be cleansed of bad humors. Kidney-Wort is the medicine you need. "It acts like a charm." says a well known physician, "I never knew it to fail." Liquid or dry sold by Druggists.—Boston Post.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speed and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for general Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. The recipe with full particulars, directions for preparation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be received by your return mail, free of charge by addressing with stamp or stamped selfaddressed envelope to

DR. M. E. BELL,
16 N. Calvert St. Baltimore, Md. 9tf

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad
SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 188¹.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	3 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 30	7 58	....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	....
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 40	11 50am
Detroit	9 30	7 00	4 05pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	6 21
Jackson Lv	7 10am	12 40 m	7 00
Hanover	7 50	12 33pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 13	9 28
Reading	8 42	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 53	1 43	10 25
Fremont	9 12	2 10	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 25
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 02	2 52	12 25am
Auburn	10 13	3 03	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 25	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 30
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55	....	6 25
Louisville	10 15	7 25am	7 30
St. Louis	....	8 40	....
Washington	....	9 05pm	....
Baltimore	....	10 15	....

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am	....	8 10pm
Washington	10 20	....	9 27
St. Louis	6 40pm	....	7 50am
Louisville	....	6 00am	....
Cincinnati	9 00	7 25am	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00	....
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 10pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 45pm	6 00	3 10
Auburn	12 48	6 05	3 15
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 03	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 23pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07	....	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 35	8 20	....
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	....
Bay City	9 20	11 55am	....

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 30 a m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 26 p. m.; west—12 45, 8 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p m. M. C. A. L west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J L. & S, 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 8 35 a m., 12 30, 6 50 p m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 3 52 a. m. 2 36 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 50, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m.; west 2 15 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 27 p m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 2:48 p. m. west—11:36 am. m., 7:34 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 40 a m., 2 10, 7 55 p m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 3 50 & 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W leave 6 15 a. m. 2,00 p. m.; ar. 3 00, 7 15 p m. P., Ft. W. & C, east 5 40 a. m., 3 35, 5 10, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 30, 6 20, a. m., 12 40, 3 40, 6 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r. Agent

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N Y. Ex.	At Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm	1 00am	7 00am
Elkhart	1 20pm	10 10	5 25	12 10pm
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	6 35
Corunna	2 58		7 06	2 00
Sedan
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 21	12 10am	8 20	3 40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Chi Ex.	Pac Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	6 20
Chicago	8 00	6 29

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 3:06 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

—o—

CHICAGO DIVISION.

—o—

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 31, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
CHICAGO lv	5 30pm	9 10am	8 45am
Walkerton Junction		12 06am	12 07pm
Milford Junction		1 24	1 25
Syracuse		1 36	1 26
Cromwell		1 52	1 55
Albion		2 12	2 20
Avilla		2 31	2 48
Garrett	10 35	2 55	3 30
Auburn Junction	10 42	3 04	3 40
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	4 24
Defiance	11 52	4 25	5 12
Deshler	12 45am	5 22	6 15
Fostoria	1 29	6 20	7 18
Tiffin	2 02	6 46	7 48
CHICAGO JUNCTION ar.	3 00	9 10	9 49

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
CHICAGO JUNCTION lv	9 30pm	6 10pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 25	7 48	9 10
Fostoria	10 54	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville		11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 35
Avilla		12 36	1 52
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 20	2 45
Syracuse		1 36	3 02
Milford Junction		1 45	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 05	4 30
CHICAGO ar	8 55	6 10	7 38

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect December 12, 1881.

SOUTHWARD. No 3 Express	SOUTHWARD. No. 1 Mail.	STATIONS.	NORTHWARD. No 2 Mail	NORTHWARD. No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 30am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	10 0am
6 47	11 30	Bluffton	4 10	8 53
7 43	12 28	Hartford	3 12	7 47
8 40	1 35pm	Muncie	2 17	6 50
9 25 m	6 25pm	Cincinnati	6 12a	4 55pm
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL, General Ticket Agt.

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv	9 20am	5 20pm	6 30pm	9 2?p
Ft. Wayne	3 35pm	9 15	11 58	5 12a
Crestline	9 00	12 40am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield
Pittsburgh Ar.	6 00am	6 57	1 10pm	6 5?p
STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	8 45pm	10 50p
Mansfield
Crestline Lv.	7 15pm	2 05pm	3 00am	7 20a
Ft. Wayne	12 35am	5 55	6 40	1 00p
Chicago Ar.	6 50	10 30	11 00	7 30p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:45 am.; Warsaw, 9:50 a. m., Columbia, 9:45 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:40 p.m.; Plymouth, 6 45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

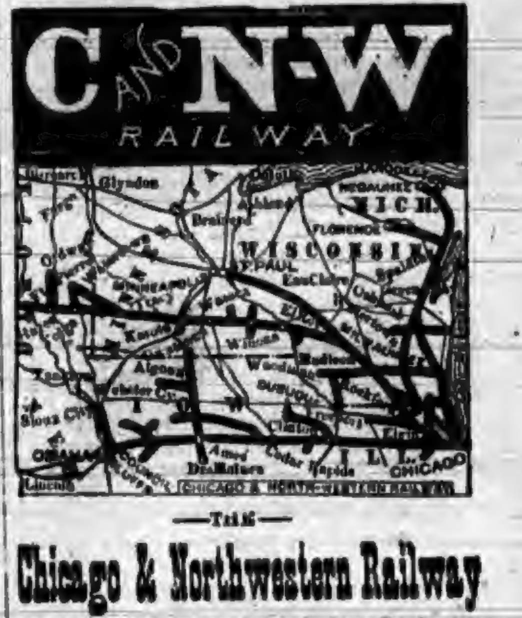
TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager,
H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent,
St. Louis.



—THE—

Chicago & Northwestern Railway

Is the oldest, Best Constructed, Best Equipped and hence the Leading Railway

—OF THE—

WEST AND NORTHWEST.

It is the short and best route between Chicago and all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, California, Oregon, Arizona, Utah, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and fo

Council Bluffs, Omaha, Denver, Leadville, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Deadwood Sioux City,

Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Columbus, and all points in the territories, and the west. Also for Milwaukee, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Marquette, Fond du Lac, Watertown Houghton, Neenah, Menasha, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Huron, Volga, Fargo, Bismarck, Winona, LaCrosse, Owatonna, and all points in Minnesota, Dakota, Wisconsin and the Nort west.

At Council Bluffs the trains of the Chicago & Northwestern and the U. P. Railways depart from, arrive at and use the same joint Union depot.

At Chicago close connections are made with the Lake Shore, Michigan Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Ft. Wayne and Pennsylvania, and Chicago and Grand Trunk railways, and the Kankakee and Pan Handle routes.

Close connections at Junction po

It is the only line running

Pullman Hotel Dining Cars

Between

Chicago & Council Bluffs

Pullman Sleepers on all night trains.

Insist upon ticket agents selling you tickets via this road. Examine your tickets and refuse to buy if they do not read over the Chicago and Northwestern railway

If you wish the best traveling accommodations you will buy your tickets by this route ☞ AND WILL TAKE NO OTHER.

All ticket agents sell tickets by this line.
Marvin Hughitt, 2d V. P. & Gen'l Manager Chicago.

Record

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, MARCH 16. 1882. Number 11.

Auburn Courier.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY BY
JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

Neighborhood Notes.

Ft. Wayne News: Down at Oberlin, O., a tidal wave of morality has set in, which is likely to sprout wings on the entire community. The Congregational church will not permit Beecher to lecture from its pulpit, and the college faculty has broken up a chess club among the students. This is too, too.

Goshen Democrat: On account of the Cedar Beach association, for stockholders, commencing at once, in behalf of the general public, commencing April 15th, 1882, the C. W. & M. road will sell round trip tickets to Milford Junction, not good after the 20th, for 45 cents. Return tickets must be countersigned at the club house by T. B. Wigthman.

A Dallas grocery firm has acquired an immense custom by adopting the very simple rule of ostentatiously ringing a bell and delivering the groceries at the front door, where the envious neighbors can not help seeing them, and in sending the collector to the back gate, where nobody could see him, to collect the bill on the first of the month. By adopting this simple rule any grocery firm can become very popular. But to deliver the groceries at the back gate and have the collector pounding on the front door with a fist full of bills is commercial suicide.—Milwaukee Sun.

Ft. Wayne News: Mr. New, of Indiana, enjoyed whatever advantages attach to the publication of an organ. He secures an office, but this long-hoped for fulfillment is not his only profit. As publisher of the Journal, at Indianapolis, he exacted from the state committee and received thirty cents a square for the publication of all matter desired by the committee, except local notices. For those he was paid thirty cents a line. The committee also paid the telegraph tolls on all specials concerning meetings, speeches, and so forth, and, in addition, paid for their publication at agreed rates. He himself was a member of the committee, and good republicans who poured money into Indiana will have the satisfaction of knowing that it was spent partly in spreading the news for the benefit of the party and J. C.

The above is an editorial in the Chicago Times, and seems to be a matter of some surprise to the innocent Chicago editor. It don't surprise Indiana republicans much though, and the Times would not have to seek any further than Fort Wayne for a parallel instance.

In your paper of yesterday (Sunday) you state that Mr. De La'Matyr "exhausted all his rhetoric in attempting to show why national banks should be done away with, and unlimited greenbacks issued." Three great oaths would scarce make that be believed. Every man, woman and child in that large and preeminently intelligent audience knows this assertion to be an able-bodied falsehood. No greenback speaker, platform or paper advocates "unlimited" greenbacks. Weaver and De La'Matyr told the people that the position of the national party is that "all money should be issued by the government," gold, silver and paper, and in amounts of a reasonable per capita sufficient to transact on a cash basis the business of the country. If the one great republican party be reduced to the extremity of defending itself by misrepresentations, then we might as well exclaim, "how hath the mighty fallen!" Yours,

CHRISTIAN ORFF.

* * *

—We ask you to read the advertisment of Darby's Prophylactic Fluid, which appears in our issue of to-day. It is a wonderful healing remedy, a most powerful disinfectant, and a positive germ destroyer, and is perfectly safe to use even in the hands of the most inexperienced. It is highly recommended by eminent physicians and chemists, and endorsed by hundreds of others who have used it and know its valuable properties. It costs but a trifle, and will save much suffering, time and money. Darby's fluid has long been recognized as a household article for universal family use. Prepared by J. H. Zeilin & Co, Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors 9-3t.

Capturing Whales.

TWO MONSTERS OF THE DEEP KILLED NEAR SAVANNAH.

[Times-Star.]

SAVANNAH, GA., March 8.—The whale which has been seen in these waters several times lately, has been captured and killed by the whaling schooner Lotta Cook, and now lies in deep water near Daufuskie Beach. It is estimated that she will produce about ninety barrels of oil. Her calf is near the same vicinity, and occasionally approaches its dead mother, and the whalers are confident of capturing it.

The calf is of large size, and it is estimated will produce about fifteen barrels of oil. The presence of these "Jonah swallowers" in our waters, promises to prove a bonanza to some cruisers, as it is estimated that the oil from an average size one will yield about $3,600. Another of these leviathans of the deep was recently captured near this port, which will yield fully 100 barrels of oil.

The method employed in dispatching these monsters now is more rapid and attended with less danger than formerly. A harpoon is driven into the body with a small torpedo attached, which explodes inside, making a fearful wound that quickly produces death. The lifeless body is then hauled to the side of the vessel, when ropes are tied around it near the head and tail and secured to the masts. The carcass is cut in large pieces with a sharp instrument shaped like a spade. These pieces are hauled upon deck with a block and tackle, and the flesh boiled down to oil.

Current Notes on Education.

[New York Tribune.]

THE QUINCY SYSTEM.—In response to repeated inquiries from teachers in various parts of the country for some account of the Quincy System of teaching, the following is condensed from various pamphlets and papers placed at our disposal.

The object of the Quincy System is to transform the public schools from machines to living organisms, to make growth take the place of drill, to put life and soul into routine, and make the school-room a pleasure house rather than a weary prison. "When a child leaves the Quincy grammar school, he should be able to read well and understandingly at sight ordinary reading, speak the English language correctly, write a letter in a neat, rapid and legible hand, perform any arithmetical problem he would be likely to meet in practical life, and be able to think and reason."

The methods by which this most desirable result is obtained can not be given in full here, but they may be suggested. The recitation in history is thus conducted: Each pupil writes in the form of a letter to a friend, all he knows concerning a certain topic, as for instance, the settlement of Virginia. This is not only an exercise in composition, but in penmanship, orthography, punctuation, capitalizing and letter writing. The mistakes are afterward pointed out and corrected, and the pupil, if apt, soon learns to write page after page correctly at first draft. The pen is used as freely by the student as the tongue in ordinary schools.

The recitations in geography in the grammar schools are sometimes thus conducted: A miniature wagon containing sand is wheeled before the class and the subject of the lesson practically illustrated by what may be called world-building. Suppose the subject is Africa. Teacher and pupils outline the continent, heap up mountains in one place, scoop out valleys in another, draw the lines of water-courses, locate cities, deserts, capes, until the real Africa seems to lie in little before them. They search with Livingston the sources of the Nile, they push their way with Stanley across the dark continent.

The knowledge of the pupil as to the significance of words is aided by "learning at least four lines of choice poetry each week." This exercise is seen to improve the pupil in reading and in use of language in a marked degree. It is also an excellent practice for the cultivation of the memory and a source of much pleasure to the pupil.

In nearly all the Quincy schools the children sing fifteen minutes each day. This furnishes a pleasant means of recreation, improves the voice, materially aids the instructor in the teaching of reading, and what is of far greater importance, is beneficial as an aid in securing to the children health.

* * *

—We have a complete line of dress goods, dress trimmings, laces, and ribbons at prices way down.
9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT

B. & O. in Olden Days.

Speaking of the B. & O. gives opportunity to present the views of an editor of fifty years ago on that road. The National Intelligencer of October, 1831, contains a description of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad by Mr. Gales, editor of the Intelligencer. The article makes curious reading as showing how impossible it is, even to a man of superior intelligence, to forecast the possibilities of a great invention. It seems that the Washington editor made a trip to Ellicott's Mills in company with Dr. Gwynn, editor of the Baltimore Gazette, and Geo. L. Brown, an officer of the railroad company, and in recounting his experience, confesses that "for celerity of transportation of persons the railroad possesses advantages over every other mode," though he is at the same time careful to warn the "general reader" that "as a great highway of commerce" the canal is beyond comparison. Says Mr. Gales:

"We experienced in a very slight degree the jarring which we have heard spoken of, in the motion of the cars. It will require, to be sure, care to guard against accidents. For ourselves, we met with with no accident of any sort. One of the cows, indeed, which we overtook strolling or grazing along the edge of the road cast a suspicious glance towards it as the car rapidly passed her, which filled us with a momentary alarm lest she should attempt to cross our path. But, luckily, she forewith took a direction from the road.'

The Washington editor was unable to conceive that any rational mortal would wish to exceed a speed of thirteen miles an hour, especially at night He says;

"We traveled in a large car drawn by one horse, carrying eight or ten persons, and capable we suppose, of carrying thirty or forty. Indeed, the car was drawn with so much ease that we do not believe that had it been so loaded its progress would have been at all retarded by the additional weight of the load. In the distance between Baltimore and Ellicott's Mills the horse was changed once, going and coming. In going we did not accurately reckon the time, but in returning the whole distance of thirteen miles was performed in 59 minutes—the limit to the speed being the capacity of the horse in trotting rather than the labor he was tasked to perform. The locomotive steam machine, in the train of which cars loaded with persons are occasionally drawn, as well as those loaded with materials of commerce, is propelled at about the same rate, and might be propelled much more rapidly if it were desirable. But for our own part we have no desire ever to be carried by any mode of conveyance more rapidly than at the rate of thirteen miles an hour.

* * *

EXCURSION TO CALIFORNIA.—Arrangements have been perfected for a great and popular excursion to California. The party will be composed of ministers, educators, scientists business men, health and pleasure seekers. They will leave Chicago May the 8th, by a special train of Pullman palace cars, via the Chicago Burlington & Quincy railroad to Kansas City; from there the route will be via the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railways to San Francisco, returning via the great Central and Union Pacific roads to Omaha, thence to Chicago via the great trunk line, the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. The party will visit, among other points of interest, the mines of NewMexico and Arizona, the city of Santa Fe, the Los Vegas Angeles, San Diego, the ghastly, gurgling geysers, the stately "sequois" or big trees. Yosemite Valley, San Francisco and Salt Lake City. At San Francisco the party will disband and return home at pleasure within the limit of the ticket, ninety days. On the outward bound trip a daily paper will be published, a union church organization with a pastor and choir, a school of science established, and each day, at 11 a. m., in the "Temple Car" prepared for the occasion, able papers will be read, lectures delivered; followed by discussion. The details for this, the greatest event in the history of American travels, will be perfect, and everything first-class. Hotel rates and prices of detours will be greatly reduced. The price of a round trip ticket from Chicago will be $150. Those wishing to join the party should address at once, with stamp, "Manager of California Excursion," lock box 119, Minneapolis, Minn., and receive in due time full particulars.

* * *

FARMERS— bring in your old dry bones. I will pay you $5.00 pr ton.
S. U. Tarney.

Rain Drops.

[Written for the COURIER.]

The careless rain drops fall
  Through all the hours of night;
My waking eyes behold
  Gray mists for morning light.

Sweet songsters of the air
  Have fled in haste away,
Where golden sunbeams rest
  On leafy boughs to stay.

Another day has gone,
  And night comes on apace;
About her storm clouds whirl;
  The stars are hid in space.

My weary eyelids close
  To seek refreshing sleep;
In troubled dreams I see
  That all the angels weep.

The old clock sounds alarm;
  I waken with delight;
Through ritted rose clouds come
  Aurora's streets of white.

MRS. L. S. KILBOURNE,
Greencastle, Indiana.

A Fight with Car Thieves.

CLEVELAND March 3—Between 9 and 10 o' clock last night a conductor of the west bound Lake Shore freight train, which had just left Erie, discovered that two men had broken into a freight car loaded with valuable freight. He succeeded in fastening the door and at the first opportunity telegraphed to Ashtabula for officers to be at the station. Arrived at Ashtabula, the officers and train hands found that the men in the car had sawed the door and were preparing to escape. Seeing the demonstration to arrest them, the men in the car suddenly drew two revolvers each and began to shoot rapidly. The fire was returned, and some twenty shots were exchanged. The officers managed to secure one of the thieves and speedily hand-cuffed him. The other escaped and fled to the woods, dropping one revolver. The handcuffed man, when taken into the station made a sudden dash for liberty, jumping through a window carrying the sash along. He was immediately recaptured. The other robber went to Saybrook, a small village a few miles distant, and inquired for a doctor to dress his wounds. There being no doctor in the place, a telegram was sent to Ashtabula for a surgeon. The robber, however, bought a ticket for Cleveland, and took the first train. The freight officers at Ashtabula, suspecting from the telegram that the man was the escaped thief, and would be along, watched the train, and on its arrival surrounded the caboose and prepared for a repetition of the desperate fight. But the man surrendered and begged that he be not roughly handled, saying that he was wounded. Examination showed he had bullets in his right side, in one arm and in the neck, though neither wound was necessarily fatal. None of the officers or train hands seriously injured.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speed and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for general Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. The recipe with full particulars, directions for preperation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be received by your return mail, free of charge by addressing with stamp or stamped self-addressed envelope to

DR. M. E. BELL,
N. Calvert St. Baltimore, Md. 9tw

* * *

The offer to send for 25 cents, in money or stamps, a Box of Vegetable Seeds containing one packet each of Sure-head Cabbage, Egyptian Turnip Beet, Trophy Tomato, Butter Lettuce, French Breakfast Radish, Excelsior Watermelon, Model Cucumber, White Egg Turnip, for trial, should be taken advantage of by every person who has a garden. The 8 varieties are put up in a neat box, and each packet is full size. This offer is made introduce our Seeds to new customers. Guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money returned.

Illustrated Catalogue Sent Free.

S. Y. HAINES & CO.
41 North Front St. Philadelphia, Pa.

* * *

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

* * *

NOTICE.—I will be in my office, at my residence, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. S. J. BRANDON,
Oct. 11-tf. Trustee Jackson tp

* * *

—The Burch plow, the king of the field. 10-4t

Being the only

EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE

in Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of

TAPESTRY,
BODY BRUSSELS,
AND WOOL CARPETS

At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS!

MODERWELL AND STUDOR,

Successors to

S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO

FT. WAYNE, IND.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free Communications promptly responded to, Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

(SPECTACLES)

Dr. E. C, YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 123. 3-tf.

STILL AT THE FRONT!

FULL AGAIN!

—THE—

POPULAR STORE!

—OF—

ISAAC OCHS!

Has an IMMENSE STOCK of all kinds of

DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

SAMPLE PRICES:

GOOD PRINTS . . . 5 cents
BEST SHIRTING . . . 10 cents
GOOD MUSLIN . . . 6 cents

Everything else in proportion.

Big line of Ladies' Cloaks, Dolmans, Shawls, etc.—Elegant Styles and Terrible Cheap. Men's, Boys' and Children's Overcoats and Suits. Immense Stock, and Nobody can

UNDERSELL ME!

Big line of Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps—CHEAP. Boots and Shoes Regardless of Cost. THEY MUST GO.

GROCERES--I'VE GOT THEM!

SAMPLE PRICES:

Granulated Sugar	11c. per lb	Best Japan Tea	45c. per lb
Coffee A Sugar	10c per lb.	Choice Japan Tea Dust	22c. perlb
Coffee C Sugar	9c. per lb.	Extra Choice Gunpowder	65c. perlb
Good Brown Sugar	8c. per lb.	Good Smoking Tobacco	30c. perlb
Best Syrup	65c. a gal.	Choice Fine Cut	50c. per lb
Best Rio Coffee 18c. per lb. 6 for	$1.00	Best Plug	70c. per lb
Good Rio Coffee 15c, per lb. 7 for	$1.00	Carolina Rice	8c. per lb
Arbuckle's Ariosa	18c. per lb.	Best Crackers	8c. per lb
Best Saleratus	7c. per lb.	Corn Starch	9c. per lb

Silver Gloss Starch 9c. per pound.
Everything Else in proportion.

Pay Highest Prices for Produce at the Popular Store
ISAAC OCHS.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
54 S. MERDIAN ST, INDIANAPOLIS.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

VANDERBILT gave a ball recently which cost him $20,000.

TENNESSEE negroes are still going to Arkansas in large numbers.

IMPORTED silk stockings cost people in this country $424,000 in 1881.

THE public debt was reduced $9,783,511 during the month of February.

THE Virginia House of Delegates has passed a local option liquor bill.

OVER $2,000,000 in gold was exported last week from New York to Europe.

THE net earnings of the Pennsylvania Railroad during the year 1881 were $15,902,166.

BROTHER-IN-LAW SCOVILLE proposes to go into politics as a Reformer, in the independent line.

SISTER SCOVILLE, in the name of the wretch, protests against the confirmation of Mr. Conkling.

HATS charged with dynamite are among the lastest finds in the custom house of Moscow, Russia.

THE game of billiards is said to be all the rage among New York ladies who have nothing else to do.

AN ordinance has been introduced in the City Council of Chicago, fixing the saloon license at $300 a year.

A MANITOBA immigration company is offering free tickets from any point in Canada to persons purchasing their lands.

IT is said that the German army will adopt the new revolving rifle which is used by many French regiments.

MRS. GARFIELD has received a message of condolence from the Queen of Spain, coveyed verbally by Minister Fairchild.

THE total losses by fire in the United States last year aggregated $81,280,900, of which the insurance companies paid $44,641,900.

A GIRL died the other night in a ball room at Georgetown, Colorado, from tight lacing, resulting from wearing her slenderer sister's dress.

GEN. BIDWELL has shipped 10,000,000 pounds of fruit during the last six months to the Eastern States, from his orchards around Chico, California.

THE young farmer in England who "ran most rapidly through his property," wore a red shirt which had attracted the attention of a cross bull.

SECRETARY FOLGER has placed all the appointing business in the hands of his Assistant, Col. New, and the latter is one of the busiest men in the United States.

IT is said that children in the Orphan Asylum at Buffalo, New York, are punished by letting the sash of a heavy window down upon their hands, and thus torturing and confining them for hours.

A SUMMING up of the recent anti-Jewish outrages in Russia shows 201 women violated, 56 killed and 70 wounded, 20,000 people made homeless, and $80,000,000 worth of property destroyed.

THE Grand Jury of the United States District Court for New York, has indicted General Curtis, special treasury agent, for requesting money for political purposes.

A GANG of scoundrels broke down and destroyed twenty-five grave stones in a Connecticut cemetery, the other night, causing a damage loss to the amount of one thousand dollars.

FEARFUL floods are causing loss of life, great destruction of property and terrible distress, among the people in various parts of the country, and especially in Arkansas and along the Mississippi river below Cairo.

IT is said that a movement has been organized by the liquor interest throughout the country to break down prohibition in Kansas, on the theory that disaster to the principle there will check and destroy its power and growth in all other States.

THE vote in the Senate on Mr. Conkling's confirmation as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court was: Yeas, 39; nays, 12. Four of the "nays" were Republican votes. A number of Senators were paired, and others present refrained from voting.

MRS. GARFIELD has purchased Miss Ransom's portrait of the President, painted at the age of thirty-one, in uniform, with the colors of the Forty-second O. V. I. draped behind him. It is the only portrait for which the President ever gave sittings.

MR. MCPHERSON'S bill, now pending in Congress, provides for the indefinite extension of any national banking association organized under the various national banking laws, unless the association is sooner dissolved by the shareholders owning two-thirds of the stock, or unless its franchise becomes forfeited by some violation of law.

THE transit of Venus this year will be visible throughout the Western hemisphere, and the planet will occupy over six hours in making the solar passage. Astronomers have been preparing for it for a quarter of a century, during which period there have been many valuable mechanical inventions which will be of a great value and assistance to the observers.

THE Superintendent of Construction of the new State Capitol edifice at Albany, New York, states that it will require about $8,000,000 more to finish the stupendous structure in two years. This State House, which was originally to have been built for about $4,000,000, will cost, when completed, with the land around it, not less than $26,000,000.

WHEN Jasper Jones enlisted for the war in a Maine regiment, he was by mistake paid the bounty of $350 twice over. When he was recently on his death-bed, eighteen years afterward, he confessed his fault in keeping the money, and died bewailing his inability to refund it. The loss had not fallen on the town of Wells, Maine, as he supposed, but on the Rev. W. P. Merrill, who had acted as the town's agent in filling the quota.

PROFESSOR R. A. PROCTOR, the English astronomer, who was recently credited with the prediction that "somewhere about the year 1897, this earth will be dissolved by fervent heat," desires that "those newspapers which have spread the news of my supposed prediction would explain that I believe the world is more likely to last 15,000,000 of years than to be destroyed in fifteen." Those timid persons who have been unnecessarily alarmed by the alleged prediction of the eminent astronomer will now, no doubt, breathe easier.

THE best strawberries recently in the New York market were raised in Hackensack, N. J. The gardeners have immense hot houses, and thousands of plants in all stages of growth, some in bloom and some with ripened berries. The fruit sells readily in December at nine dollars a quart, the price being gradually reduced from that time until March, when the competition of Florida berries brings it down to $3. Raising strawberries under glass is so expensive that the profits are not so enormous as the prices would indicate.

ONE hundred and thirty-two million dollars is the lowest estimate of the cost of the proposed inter-oceanic ship canal across the isthmus of Panama. These are De Lesseps' figures. The Paris Convention put the cost at $250,000,000; the De Lesseps Technical Commission at $168,600,000; Major McAlpine, a distinguished civil engineer, at $500,000,000; Colonel G. M. Tallen, contractor of the Panama Railroad, at $400,000,000. Striking an average, we get about $300,000,000, and, this, perhaps, is not far from the sum required to construct the Panama canal.

THE convict camps of Keutucky have been described as places of barbarous torture. A committee of the Legislature is making an investigation. The testimony thus far taken seems to bear out the worst of charges. In one camp, only thirteen out of fifty convicts survived a year of excessive labor at lumbering, with insufficient food, scant clothing, and entire absence of medical attention. Suicides have been common among the prisoners, and deliberate murders by the keepers, under the plea of enforcing discipline, have come to light. In a coal mining camp, when the men protested against going into a dangerous tunnel, the keeper drove them in at the mouth of a cocked revolver. Three hours afterward, a fall of earth killed eleven of them. The lash and the thumbscrew have been in use.

"A PITCHED battle is certain to be fought very speedily," says the London Times, "over the revised version of the New Testament. Already a respectable organ of Conservative opinion has sounded the war cry against its new readings with as much feeling as if it thought Mr. Gladstone had been among the revisers. Vituperation and taunts will not arbitrate finally between contending scholars. If at the end of the wordy warfare the public be able to perceive what is the actual amount of questionable matter, something will have been gained. The high probability is that a majority of persons who speak the English language will be content to regard the uncertainties as still uncertain, provided they may keep so much as remains behind admitted."

THE bill reported by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate of Congress to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy, provides that whenever any person without fraud shall become involved in debts and liabilities beyond the means of payment, amounting to $500 and upwards, he may apply, by petition in equity, to the United States District Court, setting forth the cause of his insolvency and giving a schedule of liabilities and assets, and may surrender his estate for the benefit of creditors, except such as may be exempt from execution, and, if good cause appear, the court shall adjudge him bankrupt, and appoint a receiver, and serve notice to all interested persons, and distribute the estate according to the rules of equity, and if there was no fraud, the petitioner shall be discharged as a bankrupt. That when a person runs away, or absents or conceals himself, or makes a fraudulent transfer of his property, or otherwise attempts to defraud his creditors, the latter may file a petition for bankrupt proceedings against him. Insolvency shall exist only when the debtor's liabilities exceed the value of his property. Powers to extend the time or to stay proceedings are conferred upon the court. Any conveyance, transfer or payment made and received in view of the bankruptcy, may be set aside if found to be contrary to the just right, of other creditors, but the money obtained and used in good faith, though unsuccessfully, to to avert an impending bankruptcy, or to save a threatened sacrifice of property, or for sickness or for other like necessity, may be preferred in payment or security by the court. If it appears that any creditor has oppressively sought to force a debtor into bankruptcy, or to obtain any fraudulent advantage over other creditors, the court may deny such creditor participation in the estate. District Courts shall be considered as always open for the consideration of bankrupt business, and all regular bankrupt business shall have precedence.

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Minister Sargent will not sail until May.

Chicago lumber dealers have advanced prices.

Crop reports for the West and Northwest are unanimously good.

Bartley Campbell, the playwright, won $7,500 on Hazael the walkist.

Butter is being imported into this country, in large quantities, from Holstein.

During the month of February there were 108 deaths from smallpox in Chicago.

The liquor dealers of Kansas are organizing for an attack upon the prohibitory law.

The price of salt, at Saginaw, Mich., has been reduced from $1.15 to seventy cents per barrel.

David King's barn, near Somerset, O., was fired by lightning on Sunday night, and burned.

Mrs. J. W. Dickinson and Mrs. Sturgis, of Battle Creek, Mich., were killed by lightning on Monday.

Dead Shot, Dandy Jim and Skippy, three Indian scouts, were hanged at Fort Grant, A. T. Friday.

By a vote of 68 to 49, the Wisconsin Assembly refused to order to engrossment a prohibitive resolution.

The court house at Guthrie Center, Guthrie county, Iowa, was destroyed by fire Friday. Loss, $20,000.

A child with two feet on its head has been born near Elkhart, Ind. Its mother is a girl 14 years of age.

Secretary Lincoln reports that 654 Indians are held as prisoners under the orders of the War Department.

There is universal disbelief at Maysville, Ky., of all the recent stories about new confessions made by Ellis.

The coinage executed at the mints during February was $9,959,870, of which $2,800,000 was in standard dollars.

The Grand Jury at Washington Wednesday found true bills against a large number of star-route conspirators.

The Associate Justiceship of the Supreme Bench has been offered to Senator Edmunds, and he also has declined.

The Mormon Legislature of Utah has called a convention for April 10th to organize a State government in the Territory.

Bob Sarver, colored, was lynched at Franklin, Ky., Monday night for an attempt to rape a white girl, sixteen years old named Ruly.

It is asserted in Washington that Mr. Hoar's bitter personal attack on Conkling will cost him his seat in the Senate at the next election.

"The effects of the floods," says a Helena, Ark., correspondent, "will be to throw the country back financially for five years or longer."

Hazael won the six days go-as-you-please walking mach in New York city, making 600 miles. The gate money amounts to $30,000.

As Mrs. Harriet Bell, of Boston, was entering her house Tuesday morning a well dressed man ran up and cut her throat. She lived but two minutes.

A special from El Paso, Texas, reports a political emeute at Chihuahua, Mexico. Troops have been ordered thither from San Jose 140 miles south.

Secretary Frelinghuysen sent a congratulatory message to Minister Lowell at London, on behalf of the President and the people of the United States.

Joshua R. Surface, a lawyer and politician, of Easton, Pa., has been arrested for unlawfully procuring the vote of a colored man in the last Presidential election.

A great anti-Chinese demonstration, held in San Francisco Saturday, was attended by 30,000 people, who passed resolutions declaring that the Chinaman must go.

The Committee on Territories will report favorably a bill for the admission of Washington Territory as a State. The population of the State in 1880 was 75,116.

A joint resolution has passed the Senate authorizing the Secretary of War to use army tents for giving temporary shelter to the sufferers by the Mississippi overflow.

Attorney General Brewster believes that evidence is at the command of the government that will secure the conviction of many if not all of the star route conspirators.

The Dutch Reformed Church of Holland, Mich., will secede from the Reformed Protestant Church of America because that communion does not oppose secret societies.

The Congressional Committee on Commerce is considering a bill for a proposed bridge across the Missouri river between Omaha, Neb., and Bismarck, D. T., to cost $1,500,000.

The banking house of Charles Sweet & Co., of Boston, has suspended. Liabilities between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. The firm will probably wind up, paying dollar for dollar.

The Illinois Legislature will meet in special session on the 23d to consider measures for the relief of the people in the southern portion of the State made destitute by the floods.

An old and blind soldier, named Culbertson Coombs, drew his pension the other day at Columbus, Ohio, and was soon after robbed by two men at a point nearly opposite the court house.

Mr. J. H. McVicker, the well-known theatrical manager, has challenged the Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson to a public discussion regarding the morality of the play as given at McVicker's Theater.

The Baltimore Board of Trade wants the people of the United States to assist them in pushing the bill before Congres for the construction of a canal to connect the Chesapeake and Delaware Bays.

Two men charged with stealing cattle and imprisoned at Del Norte, Col., were taken from the jail by a band of 100 men and shot while attempting to escape. One was mortally wounded and the other killed outright.

Appeals for aid are being received by the Secretary of War from the sufferers from floods in Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas. In Pulaski county, Ill., it is said 4,000 persons are in need of assistance.

Great excitement prevails in San Francisco over the report that, anticipating a stringent anti-Chinese emigration bill, there would be an enormous influx of Chinese to this country within the next few weeks. A raid on the Chinese quarter is feared.

Gen. John C. Fremont has filed a petition in the Senate asking that the Court of Claims adjudicate his claim to Bird Island, in the Bay of San Francisco, which he claims to have purchased in 1847, and which the government afterward unlawfully squatted upon.

Justice Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, has affirmed the decision of Judge McCrary against the express company monopoly, and holds that no railroad can lawfully carry the freight of one express company to the exclusion of others.

Scoville says he will withdraw from the case of Guiteau as soon as he completes the record and files the bill of exceptions. He believed that Mr. Reed would also withdraw, and that John W. Guiteau and the prisoner were trying to secure the services of General B. F. Butler to argue the bill.

At a recent funeral in Iowa, a parrot which belonged to the deceased, and had been taught to repeat passages from Shakespeare, repeated, during an impressive pause in the services, the words, "To be or not to be," in such a manner as to cause a pecu impression upon the assemblage.

Captain McGarigle, Chief of the Chicago Police, interviewed by the Inter Ocean reporter, declared that it was his intention to carry out the Mayor's order prohibiting gambling to the letter, even if he had to detail men to stand in front of each gambling house.

Mr. Trescott, the Minister appointed by Mr. Blaine to negotiate peace between Chili and Peru, has made an important step in that direction by drawing up a protocol to serve as a treaty of peace. Chili will agree to sign it if Trescott can find a Peruvian government who will sign it within ninety days.

Lieutenant Danehower, of the Jeannette survivors, in a letter to his father at Washington, dated November 9, 1881, describes the terrible hardships endured by himself and party in their journey over 700 miles, from the scene of the wreck to the mouth of the River Lena. Christmas Day was spent in Yakoutsk.

Last Sunday some scoundrels got into the basement of the Shiloh (colored) Baptist church, at Columbus, Ohio, and removed the underpinning. The result was that when the congregation assembled for the evening service the floor began to give away and a panic was created. The congregation got out of the church, however, without any one being injured. Had the floor given way as the miscreants evidently planned it should, the loss of life would no doubt have been very great.

Foreign.

Prince Milan will soon be declared King of Servia.

Strong earthquake shocks occurred Saturday, around Bellonsavo, Italy.

A shaft, in a mine near Teplitz, Hungary, fell in, and forty persons were killed.

The attempt to assassinate the Queen caused a great sensation throughout British America.

A dispatch from the Cape of Good Hope says war is imminent between the colonists and Basutos.

Bismarck's tobacco monopoly bill is receiving the hearty opposition of the Prussian Economical Council.

On Saturday, the Austrians lost 200 men in an unsuccessful effort to force the Herzegovinians from the river Drin.

A new bank is proposed in Paris to represent the defunct Union Generale. It will have a capital of 80,000,000 francs.

Bradlaugh was again elected M. P. for Nottingham, by a vote of 3,798 against 3,687 received by Corbett, his opponent.

During a recent hurricane off the Shetland Islands, 300 whales were driven into the shallow water and all captured.

Bolivia is said to be awaiting the evacuation of the Districts of Tacna and Arica by the Chilian forces to wrest them from Peru.

Hessie Helfmann, the Nihilist, who received a respite from execution for the murder of the Czar, died in childbirth at St. Petersburg.

MacLain, the assassin, is a "crank" of the craziest type. It has been proved beyond a doubt, that he had been an inmate of several insane asylums.

Colonel Brim, of the British Royal Engineers, attempted to cross the channel in a balloon with a man named Simmons, but they fell into the sea near Dover.

A Port au Prince, W. I., dispatch states that small pox is raging there so severely that schools and churches have been closed. There were 197 deaths in four days.

The German newspapers assert that General Skobeleff's pro-Slavic speech was inspired by the Imperial court of Russia, and that his brother-in-law is continuing the same agitation in Paris.

The Nihilist prisoners recently sentenced to death, it is reported, have had their sentences commuted to penal servitude. They seem to have had a fair trial, and were ably defended by counsel.

A Panama dispatch states that Lima advices dated February 16th, report a battle between Chilian and Peruvian forces at Pucara, in which the Peruvians were defeated with considerable loss.

A deputation of persons representing thousands of unemployed Londoners waited upon the Lord Mayor, to ask his aid and advice relative to emigration. He referred them to Mr. Galt, the Canadian Commissioner of Emigration.

A special agent of the Jewish Alliance, who made an effort to secure the return of 1,300 Jews to their homes in Russia, reports that the attempt would subject them to great danger, and the sum of 100,000 florins will, therefore, be appropriated to defray the cost of their emigration to America.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, March 1st.

SENATE.—The Chinese immigration bill was further discussed.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed to make Denver a port of entry. A number of bills were reported from committees. The Indian appropriation bill was considered without action in Committee of the Whole.

THURSDAY, March, 2nd.

SENATE.—Several bills were reported favorably and placed upon the calendar. The Chinnese immigration bill was further considered. The nomination of Roscoe Conkling as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court was confirmed yeas—39, nays 12.

HOUSE.—The contested election case of McDonald versus George, of Oregon, was dismissed. The consular and diplomatic appropation bil was considered without action, committee of the whole.

FRIDAY, March, 3d.

SENATE.—Bills were passed, authorizing the compilation and publishing of the naval history of the late war; to reduce the charges for licenses to pilots, etc., on steam vessels and making Denver a port of delivery. The Chinese bill was further considered. Adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed reducing the rice of license to pilots, masters, etc,, on steam vessels.

SATURDAY, March, 4th.

HOUSE.—The conference report on the immedidate deficiency bill was agreed too. It increasees the appropriation $256,000. The contested election case of Smith vs Robertson, Sixth district of Lonisana, was dismissed. A bill was reported and placed on the calendar, to prevent the introduction in the United States of foreign adulterated food and drugs. The diplomatic appropropiation bill was considered in committee of the whole, reported to the House and the previous question on it ordered.

MONDAY, March, 6th.

SENATE.—A number of bills were reported from committees, among which was a bill for a bankruptcy act, and the House bill giving Mrs. Garfield a pension of $5,000 a year, with an amenment giving the same amount to Mrs. Polk and Mrs. Tyler. The alcoholic liquor commission bill was read the second time. The Chinese immigration bill was further discussed.

HOUSE.—The counsular and diplomatic appropriation bill was passed. Night sessions for the consideration of pension matters were ordered for Fridays. A motion to suspend the rules and pass a bill permitting tobacco producers to sell their leaf tobacco to any purchaser evoked a long discussion, but the motion was not agreed to.

TUESDAY, March 7th.

SENATE.—A number of bills were reported from committees. The Chinese Immigration Bill was further discussed.

HOUSE.—The Senate bill appropriating $20,000 for a statue to Chief Justice Marshal was passed. The tariff commission bill was considered in the Committee of the Whole, and by parliamentary strategy placed unprivileged in its place on the calendar. The agricultural appropriation bill was discussed in Committee of the Whole. It appropriates $396,880.

A Shark of a Lawyer.

A San Francisco jury gave Catherine McKeever a verdict of $7,144 damages against the Market street railway company for the death of her husband by a collision of his coal cart with one of the defendant's engines about a year ago. Her attorney in the case was E. P. Cole, to whom the money was paid. It appears that the killing of her husband drove Mrs. McKeever crazy, and she is an inmate of the insane asylum. Her children being without means for their support, counsel was brought into court last week on an order to show cause why he should not surrender the amount of the Judgement. He claimed that he should be allowed to retain one-half, but the court awarded only $2,500

THE Irish Land League has a secured reserve fund of $287,000.

TABLE TALK.

Yokes on night gowns are going out of vogue.

"Where there's a will there's apt to be a contest."

Voile is the term this season for nun's veiling.

A woman caught stealing turnips at Quincy, Florida, pleaded insanity.

Twenty Michigan men, well armed with axes, ran away from one bear.

West Virginia makes twenty-one per cent. of all the nails in the United States.

It is possible for a man to be so very shrewd that in the long run he cheats himself.

Senator George F. Edmunds, of Vermont, has continuously held his office since 1866.

Dr. Brown-Sequard has received the prize of 10,000 francs, for the best work on physiology.

An enormous rat, that a dog or cat would not tackle, was quickly killed by a New York game cock.

A philanthropic barber in Davis City, La., clips and combs gratis the hair of poor boys who will agree to attend school regularly.

Portland, Me., claims to have more telephones in proportion than any other city in the world. There is one to every sixty persons.

Trinity college, Dublin, has strange to say, nearly 800 English undergraduates. This is largely due to its special classes for the Indian service

A Texas judge knocked six months off a ninety-nine years' sentence in order to show the prisoner's friends that he was willing to give him a chance.

Surgeon General Woodward, whose health was impaired during his attendance on President Garfield, has been granted an eight months' leave of absence,

The Canadian town of Belleville possesses a lady who has just buried her pet dog in her husband's grave. The little carcass was laid away in a handsome coffin.

Mr. Hubert Jerningham, the only English Roman Catholic in the house of commons, was among those who declined to vote on Mr. Bradlaugh's claim to his seat.

Three thousand children of deceased wives' sisters are presently to assemble at Exeter hall, London, and clamor for the repeal of the law which makes them illegitimate.

The Priedang is en route to visit this country. He is one of the thirty half brothers of the king of Siam. He comes on diplomatic business, and also to inspect our national guard system.

Admiration—"By Shimminy, how dot poy studies grammar," was the remark of a German when his son called him a "knock-kneed, pigeon-toed, seven-sided, glass-eyed son of a saw horse."

This winter's fogs have revived linkboys in London, and they have run about to light people on their way as they did a hundred years ago. The torches are generally made of tarred rope ends.

In a breach of promise case recently tried at Dublin, the first love letter read by the plaintiff began as follows: "If any one reads this except Miss Helen McNulty I hold him accountable before God and the Justice."

"Pride's fall. "Yes," said Clara, "your Maltese cat is pretty enough, but he can never come up to my bird." That was all she knew about it. That kitty did come up to her bird that very day, and it was all day with the bird.

Translated from the Omnibus: Judge —"You are accused, by the Mr. Zwittlinger, while he bathed, one watch, of the value of 150 marks, and one vest, stolen to have." Prisoner—"Pardon, Mr. Judge—only the vest! How can I help it that a so dear watch therein stuck is?"

"Previous good character" counts in Texas. A man who was on trial for arson brought forward witnesses to prove that he had neglected two good chances to steal horses, and the Jury decided that no such man could be guilty of burning a barn.

The rope with which a convict descended from the window of his cell and escaped at Jackson, Mich., was made of small pieces of tarred twine, taken from bundles of staves in the cooper shop. To gather the material and form the rope required months of aly hard work.

Captain Percival, a Cape Cod mariner of the old school, was once awakened in his bunk by a shipmate with the announcement that the vessel was going to eternity. "Well," replied the captain, "I've got ten friends over there to one in this world; let her go." And he turned over and went to sleep again.

Since the murder of Mr. Gold by Lefroy in an English railway carriage last June, the facility for committing theft or murder under similar circumstances has been made more manifest to the criminal classes, and railway crime is increasing in that country. The use of American cars would put a stop to such lawlessness.

He was a young country fellow, a little awkward, and bashful, but of sterling worth of character. She was a Cincinnati belle, and had sense enough to appreciate his worth, despite his awkwardness and bashfulness, and was his fiancee. On a gloomy Sunday evening last winter they were standing in front of the window in the parlor of her home on East Walnut Hills, watching the snowflakes rapidly falling outside. He was not up in society small talk, and being hard up for something to say, remarked, as he watched the snow falling: "This will be hard on the old man's calves and sheep." "Never mind, dear," said she, slipping her arm around him, "I will take care of one of them."

A Thief's Curious Death.

[Hopkinsville South Kentuckian.]

A gentleman in the Newstead neighborhood had killed some hogs, and they were gambrelled and left hanging on a pole in the yard. During the night a negro stole one of the hogs and walked off with it. In attempting to pitch the hog over the fence, some distance from the house, the thief hung the gambrel stick over his head and broke his neck. He was found the following morning on one side of the fence and the pork on the other, hanging by his head.

Miss Dickens, the daughter of the novelist, has spent the past year in compiling a "Charles Dickens Birthday Book."

FROM THE WIRES.

A London dispatch says:

6:20 p. m.—The Press Association says Queen Victoria was fired at at Windsor Railway Station to-day. She escaped unhurt.

As the Queen was entering her carriage this evening, a man in the station yard deliberately fired a pistol at her. The man, who was a miserable looking object, was immediately seized by several policemen and taken to the Windsor Police Station. No one was hurt.

The miscreant was followed to the police station by a large crowd of people.

The newspaper hawkers are now crying the news on the London streets. It has caused a great sensation.

The man who fired at the Queen gives his name as Roderick MacLean. The miscreant gives his name as Roderick MacLean. He was with difficulty rescued from the crowd. The Queen arrived at Windsor about 5:25. She had been in London since Tuesay, where she gave a drawing-room party Wednesday in honor of Princess Helena, of Waldeck, who is to marry Prince Leopold. A crowd assembled at Buckingham Palace in hopes to see the Queen drive out. The demeanor of the people was as cordial as usual.

7:30 p. m.—The Queen drove off to the castle immediately after she was fired at.

From later accounts it appears that MacLean fired the shot after the carriage was in motion. Princess Beatrice and John Brown saw him point the pistol at the carriage. He was exactly thirty paces distant when he fired. Two of the four loaded chambers of the revolver contained blank cartridges.

MacLean walked from Portsmouth to London a week ago. Upon his person was found a purse containing a penny and three farthings, and a pocketbook containing the following entries:

Fourth path. A novel, by MacLean and Reynolds. Newspaper give as correct an idea of the wide difference that divides people of England as any newspaper in world. I venerate free and outspoken principles and an unbiased thinker.

MacLean was charged at the police station with shooting at the Queen, with intent to do grievous bodily harm. He asked whether any one was hurt, but the police refused to give him any information.

The Times says: "If no more can be said for MacLean, the would-be assassin of the Queen, than could be said for Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, or Lefroy, the murderer of Gold, he can as little expect to escape punishment."

The following is a copy of the telegram sent by the Secretary of State to Minister Lowell:

Washington, March 3.—To Lowell, Minister, London: The President and people of the United States congratulate Her Majesty on having been providentially protected from the assassin. Remembering the sympathy of Her Majesty and the British people in our recent national bereavement, the feeling of indignation and thankfulness for the Queen's safety is deep and universal.

FRELINGHUYSEN.

Syracuse dispatch says:

A passenger and and a freight train, on the Syracuse, Chenango and New York Railroad, collided last night, near Earlville. George Collins, the engineer, John Sullivan, the fireman of the north-bound tran, and John Blumenkrow, the fireman of the south-bound train, were all killed. Byron Atwood, the baggageman, was injured severely. The accident was caused by a mis'nterpretation of orders.

A Boston dispatch:

The banking house of Charles A. Sweet & Co. suspended Monday morning, causing considerable excitement in financial circles. The house has been advancing money, it is stated, to the Massachusetts Central Railroad, taking its bonds and placing them in the market. The road is a new one. Its bonds have shrunk in value, and the banks which have been carrying the bonds called on Sweet & Co. for additional funds. To this call the firm has been unable to respond. It is stated that C. A. Sweet & Co. borrowed about $2,000,000 from Boston banks on collateral recently, and that they hold $700,000 of Massachusetts Central bonds. A member of the firm states that they hope to pay in full.

Tuesday morning as Mrs. Harriet Bell was walking on Kirkland street, near her home, a well-dressed man ran up behind her, spoke to her, and then cut her throat. She lived but two minutes. She was heard to say to the man, just before the cutting: "I don't know you." The assassin has not been arrested.

There are many unfavorable comments on the inactivity of the police who allowed the man who murdered Mrs. Bell to walk away under their eyes, without stopping to inquire regarding the trouble at Mrs. Bell's residence. The murderer is still at large. Suspicion points to an ex-police officer of this city.

A Detroit dispatch says:

Tuesday evening Mrs. Thomas Gillem, wife of a farmer at Baker's Corner, four miles from Armada, was shot and almost instantly killed by her son Charles B., about 17 years old. The ball passed through her lungs. Mrs Gillem has been in poor health, and very irritable for some years past. At the time of the tragedy she was sitting up in bed, quarreling with her son who went to a closet, got a revolver and shot her through the body. When arrested, he said he was glad he had done it, because now there would be peace in the house.

A Marquette, Mich., dispatch:

The Lake Superior Powder Company's packing-house blew up at 9 o'clock Monday, killing four men—Peter Doyle, Charles Hatch, Herman Eckstrom, and one other, name not known.

A Cincinnati dispatch:

Charles Murray was killed in Hamden, Ohio, Saturday night, during a quarrel in a saloon with David Sands. They had begun with a fist fight, but when Murray had thrown Sands down, the latter drew a knife and stabbed him twice, causing death in twenty minutes. Sands gave himself up.

From a Memphis dispatch:

A fight occurred this morning between two young colored bootblacks, which resultedd in Henry Craig, aged 14, being stabbed to the heart with a penknife, dying instantly.

Captain Ed Postal, of the steamer Hard Cash, which arrived this morning, reports that the backwater from the Mississippi river extends up White river to Clarendon, Ark., a distance of 136 miles from the mouth. The entire country intervening is under water, which is two feet higher than was ever known before. Great loss of stock and damage to farming interests have occurred throughout the White river bottoms.

John Small, while attempting to board a freight train at Glendale Station, on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, fell beneath the cars, and both legs were almost severed from his body near the thighs, he died in a few hours after. In the jar, recieved in passing over the body, the train was thrown from the track and six cars went over the trestle work and now lie in the ditch.

From a Little Rock, Ark., pispatch:

The Gazette's special from Arkansas City, via Tripp Station, says the water has fallen in all fifteen inches, caused by the weakening of the levees in the Mississippi river, opposite and above Riverton, Watch, Clay, Baggett and Williams bayous, and other points. All of Bolivar county, Miss., is under water, and most of Washington county, including Greenville. There is much suffering and want on both sides now. Families are huddled togther in such houses as they think safest. The government aid expected will reach us in good time. Many a heart is made happy by the approach of bread and meat for the hungry ones, who would otherwise starve. In this city the water has receded from many houses, which are being washed out, ready to receive the inhabitants from the garrets.

Terre Haute, Ind., telegram:

Tuesday morning blood, a piece of a human skull and brains were found on the grade through the river bottoms west of this city. Evidences of a struggle were visible from the top of the grade down to the water's ede. The police are unable to find the body, and are busy trying to connect the case. It is feared there has been foul play.

New York dispatch says:

The Times demands the publication of Conkling's letter to the President declining the Supreme Court Judgeship. It says: "Considering the time which has been devoted to its preparation, it must be one of his great efforts, and would undoubtedly prove a highly characteristic if not a decidedly valuable, contribution to the political literature of the time. There is some danger that the entire transaction will be regarded with unseemly levity by a public keenly perceptive of the farcical aspects of this very solemn pantomine. That can only be averted by the production of what we must assume to be the the stately and ponderous letter of declination before whose sesquipedalian verbiage and awe-inspiring periods the most irreverent of readers will forget to smile. A play which has required the aid of so many heavy characters, from Senator David Davis downward, to develop its somewhat obscure plot, ought not to be shorn of its epilogue."

At the approaching consistery the Pope will create seven new Cardinals, including the most Rev. Dr. McCabe, Archbishop of Dublin. It is understood that this expresses the Pope's approval of the efforts that Archbishop McCabe has made in behalf of the cause of law and order in Ireland.

A dispatch from Salem, Va., says John Murphy beat his wife nearly to death with a boot-jack, and then chopped his own right hand off.

THE township assessors chosen at the pending April election will be elected to serve four years, or until their successors are elected and qualified. They can qualify and enter upon the discharge of their duties within ten days after their election, and they are limited to sixty days of paid service in each year.

JOCOSITIES.

A cat when pursued by a ferocious og may not be feeling quite as well as usual, but nevertheless she presents a fur-straight appearance.

Mr. Milo says his church is to be the church of the future, and then he tells us in the same breath that there is no future. What is he giving us?

"Now, then, what's your papa's name Freddy?" "Dunno." "Don't know your papa's name! Why, what does your mamma call him?" "Brute."

"You will go down in history," said the impatient Spiffkins, "as the lowest of all mortals." Said Mrs. Spiffkins, gently, "I thought history was in the past."

A Murray Hill belle has ordered a pair of golden garter buckles, with diamond attachments. The New York crossings will be watched pretty closely this year.

"Do not marry a widower," said the old lady; "a ready-made family is like a plate of cold potatoes." "Oh, I'll soon warm them over," replied the damsel; and she did.

A wife who was somewhat exercised about hasty burials, said to her husband: "You attempt to bury me as soon as the breath is out of me, and you will hear from me."

"Is it true," she writes, "that all the funny men are sad?" Heaven bless you, Annie, no, they are not. But the people who read their funny pieces, Annie, they are sad. Ah, yes; theirs is the sorrow that mocks at sympathy.

"I don't mind the pi-anner much," said a fond but perplexed mother recently, "but when Marier gets to sailin' around in front of the lookin'-glass and disputin' in French with her own shadder, it makes me right nervous."

"There is nothing like settling down," said the retired merchant confidently to his neighbor. "When I gave up business I settled down and found I had quite a comfortable fortune. If I had settled up I should not have a cent."

A canary bird had begun to twitter a little after moulting, but was unable to sing its entire tune. A little four-year-old, after listening to the bird's vain attempts to master his tune, said very composedly: "Mamma, birdie only sang half a verse."

Retranslated from the Omnibus: "Mary, why hast thou to the gentleman there above a kisshand to thrown?" "I have to him only that which he to me thrown has, back given, therewith he himself no false hopes may entertain."

A little Austin boy, whose impecunious parents are always moving from one house to another, was asked by the Sunday school teacher: "Why did the Israelites move out of Egypt?" "Because they couldn't pay their rent, I reckon," was the reply.

"I say, ma'am," said a man on a country road, "did you see a bicycle pass here just now?" "No I didn't see any kind ot a sicle, mister, but just now I seed a a wagon wheel running away with a pair of legs and a linen collar. You kin believe it or not. I wouldn't if I hadn't seed it myself.

A boy's composition on girls: "Girls are the only folks that have their own way every time. Girls is of several thousand kinds, and sometimes one can be like several thousand girls if she wants anything. This all I know about girls, and father says the less I know about them the better off I am."

Yesterday the wife of one of our friends returning home, rang at her own door. Nobody coming she rang again. Still nobody. Finally at a louder, louder ring, the valet concluded to show himself. "Pray are you deaf?" said the lady. "I beg pardon, madam, said the velet, tranquilly, but I only heard the third ring."

Once upon a time a woman died, and as the mourners were carrying her to the grave they tripped against a stump and let the coffin fall. She revived, having been in a deep trance. Two years after she really died, and as they were carrying her down the same road and neared the same stump the disconsolate widower sobbed: "Steady, boys!" Steady there! Be very, very careful!"

A reasonable offer: Together they were looking over the paper. "Oh, my, how funny," she said. "What is it?" he said. "Why, here's an advertisement that says: 'No reasonable offer refused.'" "What's so odd about that?" "Nothing, nothing," she replied, trying to blush, "only those are exactly my sentiments." If that young man hadn't taken the hint and proposed right then and there she would have hated him.

What "Wife" Means.

Says Ruskin: "What do you think the beautiful word 'wife' comes from?" It is the great word in which the English and Latin languages conquered the French and Greek. I hope the French will some day get a word for it instead of that femme, but what do you think it comes from? The great value of Saxon words is that they mean something. Wife means 'a weaver.' You must either be house-wives or house-moths, remember that. In the deep sense, you must either weave men's fortunes and embroider them, or feed upon and bring them to decay. Wherever a true wife comes, home is always around her. The stars may be over her head, the glow-worm in the night's cold grass may be the fire at her feet, but home is where she is, and for a noble woman it stretches far around her, better than houses ceiled with cedar or painted with vermilion, shedding its quiet light for those who else are homeless. This, I believe, is the woman's true place and power."

How They Vote in Greece.

London Times.

The voting is literally by ballot, each candidate having a ballot-box marked with his name and divided into two chambers, with a tube large enough for the hand to be introduced through it, opening in such a way that the ball employed in voting may be thrown to the right or left—yes or no—without its being preceptible to the spectator which of the destinations it has taken. Behind or in front of each box stands the personal representative of the candidate, whose duty it is to present the ball to the voter and call out the name of the candidate, but no indication or persuasion as to the vote is permitted. The voters are registered and the registers printed, copies being furnished to the persons who represent the candidates or any other who may desire them, and the votes are cast, not in the districts where the voters reside, but according to an alphabetical arrangement, the voters whose names begin with A, B or C having their appropriate voting place, generally a church or a school house, the election taking place on Sunday. The voter presents himself at his quarter, gives his name, which is checked off on the printed catalogue and written down in a register by officials appointed by the tribunals, after which scrutiny the voter goes to the row of ballot-boxes, and votes at all in succession. If he is a man who has found it difficult to say "no" to the solicitation of the candidates, he may have promised to vote affirmatively for everybody, and keep his promise so that his vote is entirely thrown away. The election lasts one day, and with the safeguards I have described leaves slight room for fraud—the only form available being that of impersonation, presenting oneself in the place of another voter before he has voted and casting a vote in his name; but this is too dangerous to be often attempted. In case of any ballot-box contianing more balls than are accounted for by the register, the surplus votes are deducted from the affirmative vote for the candidate. The possibility of casting two votes in the same box is guarded against, as far as possible, by the Government furnishing the balls, which are given out one by one at the moment of voting. It is possible with collusion to commit frauds by casting two negative votes for a candidate, as the extra vote would then be deducted from the affirmative vote; but as each candidate has a friend who watches every vote cast, this possibility is reduced to a minimum.

A Flying Snake.

Los Angeles Times.

One of the most startling snake stories that has been told in these parts for some time was related by the engineer and fireman who came in last night on the Southern Pacific express, and was corroborated by the passengers. It seems that just after the train had passed Dos Palms, the engineer noticed, about half a mile ahead, what looked like a column of sand moving very slowly from east to west. At that time it was only a short distance from the track, and moving at such a pace that it was evident that train and column would come together. When the two monsters were but a short distance apart it was discovered that the column was not sand, but an animal of some kind. It was moving in almost a perpendicular position, the tail dragging on the ground, and propelled by two large wings near the head. The bird, snake, or whatever it was, seemed to be about thirty feet long and twelve feet in diameter. By this time everybody, almost, on the train, had put their heads out of the windows, and were hanging on the platform to get a look at the monster snake. The train and snake came together, but the snake's tail was not where it should have been, and a portion of his lower extremities was clipped off. This seemed to put this flying snake on his mettle, and he prepared for war. He wheeled around and gave chase to the flying train. The motion of the animal seemed to change in an instant, and he seemed to fly through the air two miles faster than chain lightning. In a few moments he, she or it, overtook the train, and began war after the latest snake style. The angry animal kept over the train and gave the train a lively thrashing, rearing like a cow in distress all the time. After breaking several windows and frightening the women and children almost to death, the monster sailed off, followed by a shower of leads from the pistols of the passengers, which seemed to have no effect at all, if any of the bullets hit him. This is vouched for by every one who was on the train, and is given for what it is worth.

Wit and Wisdom of Aunt Chloe.

"What we wants is, words what is got some nourishment in 'em; kwishins on mules' footr done gone out 'o fashin'."

"Women folks is like niggahs; can't have deir way much in dis yere world; gits along easier ef dey change deir minds."

"Nothin' sets wuss dan sour grapes [grapes unreachable]."

"Dar's no cure fur an empty head like an empty puss."

"Mule can't live on his own kickin'."

"Smart dog allays allow he can't bear sheep-meat."

"A husban's a mighty handy thing to have roun' a house, an' mighty comfo'ting for a body as has sense."

"Goes roun' a smirkin' like a niggah dat's stole a sheep an' got somebody else in jail fur it."

"D'aint nothin' so mean 'bout dem Yankees. Ef dey was mean, why didn't dey take us fur dar own niggahs, 'stead o' givin' us our freedom?"

"De Lawd ain't never in a hurry to shoot, but He's mighty sartin to hit."

"Grasshopper mus' be mighty drunk when he go roun' by hen-house."

"Crow an' corn don' grow in same fiel'."

"Chick'n nebber so wicked but he thinks grasshopper sent by de Lawd."

The Pointer's Joke.

New York Times.

The dog had pointed at snakes without ever once making a mistake for three years, when one day last September he accompanied his master on a walk through a particularly stony field where snakes were known to be plentiful. Suddenly the dog, who was walking just in front of the huntsman, stopped and pointed so earnestly that it was evident he had almost stepped on a snake. The huntsman sprang backward with immense celerity—for he was a very nervous man—and in so doing fell with a tremenduous crash. The dog merely glanced around to see what was the matter, resumed his point until his master had picked himself up, calmed his mind, and resolved to kill the snake. Advancing with that direful purpose, he discovered, not a snake, but a cast off snake's skin, at which the dog had pointed. The moment the man discovered the trick the dog threw himself on his back, rolled over in an uncontrollable fit of laughter, and finally, sitting down on his haunches, laughed until the tears rolled down his cheeks. He knew a snake's skin from a live snake perfectly well, and his purpose in pointing at the snake was simply to give his master a good fright.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER,

DARBY'S

Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great

DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER

PREPARED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

Manufactoring Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

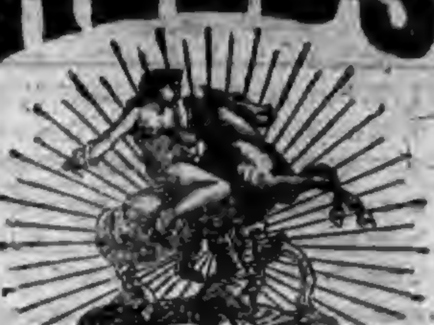
No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, billiousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

☞ Sold by all Druggists. ☜

REED'S



GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE

Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
TradeMark

FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had epilepsy from weakness, for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 10th, '79.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 28, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box (No. 2) for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 2.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2, '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way and wish one No. 2 box.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

Minneapolis
St. Paul
Chippewa Falls
MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
La Crosse
IOWA
Davenport
Council Bluffs
Peoria
ILLINOIS
Atchison
Leavenworth
MISSOURI
Kansas City

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C. B. and Q. R. Rds.
At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.
At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.
At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.
At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

For information not obtainable at your home office, address,

R. R. CABLE,
Vice President and General Manager.

E. ST. JOHN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., MARCH 16, 1882

Announcement.

With this issue of the COURIER Mr. F. P. Blair severs his connection with it, transferring his interest to the senior partner who will assume its entire management from this date. It is to be hoped that this change which is mutually satisfactory to us, will also be satisfactory to our patrons, and that the COURIER will continue to receive the same favorable consideration that it has had under our joint management.

JAMES A. BARNS.
F. P. BLAIR.

The above announcement is made in conformity to an agreement made by us. The feelings engendered by our brief business connection have been and still are of the most friendly character. Mr. Blair retires with the best wishes of every one connected with the COURIER and has our heartiest hopes for his future success.

◆

ONE of the signal service observers in this state is a lady.

◆

NEARLY all of the employes in the telegraph offices in London, Eng., are ladies.

◆

THE whisky manufacturers are thronging to Washington to lobby a bill for the reduction of the tax on whisky.

◆

BOTH the democratic and republican members of congress, are making up their congressional campaign committees.

◆

THE straits of Mackinaw are reported clear of ice, and vessels are freely passing through there on their spring trips.

◆

The Chilians now have entire control of the coast of Peru, and seem determined to make the most of their successful war.

◆

ARTHUR has six kinds of wine at his public dinners, and at his table may be found enjoying these things, scores of men who have for years railed at the democracy as the "whisky party."

◆

THE Secretary of War, has decided that the bridge across the St. Joseph near the town of that name in Michigan, is an obstruction to the free navigation of the river. But he cannot find out by whose authority it was built.

◆

IF the president can't find any one to take the vacant judgeship, let him cast his eyes this way. We have several very promising lawyers in this county who wouldn't object. And we have no doubt they are as well suited to the place, as those who are likely to get it. More so, perhaps.

◆

SERGEANT Mason, the soldier who shot at Guiteau, has been sentenced by the court martial that tried him, to lose all the pay now due him, be discharged from service and to serve at hard labor in prison for eight years. It is hoped however, that the president will reduce the severity of the sentence in some way.

◆

CHICAGO is now importing potatoes from Scotland and cabbage from Germany. But farmers are too intelligent to demand a tariff that will make these articles higher than they already are. The glass men and iron men, and manufacturers generally would begin to howl at once, for a tariff of about 100 per cent, Of course this would not make the article any plentier, but it would increase its price to the consumer. Just as any other protective high tariff will do.

◆

AN effort is being made in congress to have the lands of Indian reservation, surveyed, and given to the Indians separately, so each can own his land in the same way as the white people do. The essence of the bill is: that in all cases where any tribe or band of Indians has been, or shall hereafter be, located upon any reservation created for their use, either by treaty stipulations or by virtue of an act of congress or executive order, setting apart land for their use the president is authorized, whenever in his opinion any reservations of such Indians is advantageous for agricultural purposes, to cause said reservation to be surveyed and resurveyed, if necessary, and to allot the land on said reservation in severalty to the Indians located thereon, in quantities as follows: To each head of a family, one quarter of a section: to each single person over 18 years of age, one-eight of a section: to each orphan child under 18 years of age one-eight of a section: and to each other person under 18 years of age, now living, or may be born prior to the date of the order of the President directing an allotment of the lands embraced in any reservation, one-sixteenth of a section.

COURT.

Court has been dragging somewhat during the week, but has a more lively appearance this morning. The criminal docket is about cleared up. The following cases were disposed of since our last issue.

Frank Swarts, who was charged with receiving stolen goods, was acquitted, and went home in high glee.

Pete Stutz, connected with a "gin mill" at the Junction, was fined $10 and costs in two cases, for selling liquor to minors.

Geo. Weamer, innocent George, who is the big one at the Butler temperance billiard hall, was hauled up before his Honor for allowing a minor to play temperance billiards, and raised the school fund about $40.

Wm. Shoemaker, of Butler, got on a "high-low" and the court relieved his financial box of two dollars besides the extra costs. It takes money to get drunk, William.

Alfred Shell, dealer in "pizen," etc., at St. Joe, did'nt conduct his every day ways according to Indiana laws and the "Boss" thought he had better leave $25 and enough extra change to pay off the boys who looked after the matter. Alfred put up.

Charlie Rainier got on a "wave," and placed $2 and costs in the till.

James Campbell invested too much in the "rosy," and put up $2 like a little man.

Shearer & Wilson vs. old Mr. Servoe, will try the Allen county courts in settling a building contract.

◆

Fiftieth Birthday.

A pleasant surprise awaited Squire Walborn Tuesday evening, as he was getting ready to retire on the eve of of his fiftieth birthday. He had just divested himself of his boots, and was tinkering the vaccination on his ankle, when the door suddenly opened, and a score or more of his friends walked into his cosy mansion. The Squire was utterly bewildered, but hastily arranging his disordered toilet, and stammering out a few incoherent excuses, he made his vistors welcome in his usual hearty style. A few hours were passed very pleasantly, and among its enlivening incidents was the presentation of a nice reclining chair. Rev. Mr. Kelso, made the presentation, speech which was very appropriate, sensible and touching. Mr. Walborn replied in a few brief remarks thanking the donors for their gift, but more especially for their friendship, which their gift was intended to show. The following gentlemen and their wives represent the donors on this pleasant occasion. Dr. Sebring, Mr. Espy, J. E Shilling, Frank Culbertson, Jerry Walborn, John Rice, J. H. Weaver, John Lessure, Geo. Apple, Capt. Sivers, Dr. Ford, Guy Plumb, Wm. McIntyre, W. E. Rush, L. Bowers, Rev. Kelso, Rev. Norris, D. Y. Husselman, C. C. Shaffer, and J. A. Barns.

◆

Insure with G. B. Zimmerman.

—The Burch plow, the king of the field. 10-4t

FARMERS— bring in your old dry bones. I will pay you $5.00 pr ton.
S. U. Tarney.

—The Burch plow is in steel or chilled metal. 10-4t.

—No other plow holds as easy as the Burch plow. 10-4t

—Look at the Burch plow before buying. It is boss. 10-4t

—Little Walter Baker, at the Junction, has been quite ill.

—The Burch plows are for sale by W.H. Kiblinger, Auburn, Ind.

Special bargians, houses and lots for sale cheap, enquire of Zimmerman & Sprott.

Ab. Kelly, of Waterloo, has a car load of seed potatoes, early rose, for sale.

—J. J. Martin, reports a booming business in Albion, since the opening of his new hardware store.

—We have a complete line of dress goods, dress trimmings, laces, and ribbons at prices way down.
9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT

—Quite a heavy snow storm fell Tuesday night, and had the roads been solid Vennor's prediction for sleighing would have been true.

—Our enterprising dentist, Elson, has been investing in a $150 dental-chair. Now I guess we can have our teeth repaired or extracted without pain—to the dentist.

—We would call special attention to to our new stock of clothing. Prices to suit everyone. Come and see for yourselves.
9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

—There will be a free lecture at Odd Fellows Hall on Friday evening, March 24, by Rev. H. J. Norris, subject: "Friendship, Love and Truth." Professor Gordon will enliven the occasion with some of his music.

—Parties are here this week investigating the pension business brought out by the arrest of Dr. Stough, of Waterloo, a short time ago. They propose to go to the bottom of the matter and if they find parties receiving pensions that are too high, or that they are not entitled to at all, will at once set the matter right.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

◆

"MY TORMENTED BACK."

is the exclamation of more than one poor, hard-working man and woman. Do you know how it aches? It is because your kidneys are over-tasked and need strengthing, and your system needs to be cleansed of bad humors. Kidney-Wort is the medicine you need. "It acts like a charm," says a well known physician, "I never knew it to fail." Liquid or dry sold by Druggists.—Boston Post.

Personal Mention.

—Frank Leas is at home.

—Lew. Roth is on the streets.

—T. C. Elson walks lame on one side.

—W. H. Dills is among the list of sick.

—Joe. Rainier boasts of a new girl baby.

—We noticed J. A. McKay on the streets.

—Hank Altenburg was home over Sunday.

—Hon. S. S. Shutt was on the streets Monday.

—Edward Baker's little child has been quite sick.

—Mrs. Spencer Dills, of Butler, is visiting in town.

—S. P. Stroll, of Waterloo, called on us yesterday.

—Dr. Bowman, of Newville, was in town Monday.

—Tom. Sprott made a trip to Fort Wayne Monday.

—W. L. Blair, of Butler, called on us the other day.

—P. V. Hoffman took a trip to Huntington last Monday.

—Joe. Rothenberger is disabled with rheumatism.

—Mr. Edward Baker, living across the creek, is sick.

—Miss Millie Sechler, of Newville, gave us a call Monday.

—Cal. Husselman has been laid up with a vaccinated arm.

—Geo. Grund and wife left Monday for a visit at Bryan, Ohio.

—Enos Kuhlman has again taken his position n Isaac Och's store.

—Horace Greely Griswold cut his foot badly with an axe.

—Ed. and Frank Long, of Waterloo, were about town this week.

—Lawyer Tefft, of Auburn, was in town Tuesday.—Buter Record.

—Mrs. C. P. Houser has been quite sick, caused from vaccination.

—Doc. Ryan went to Waterloo Saturday. She had just stepped out.

William Sheffer's little daughter died yesterday morning of scarlet fever.

—Mother Rainier is said to be quite sick, with but little hope of recovery.

—Morris Widney can renew old acquaintances now. The "Helm is safe."

—Frank Altenburg has been vaccinated. We can tell by the way he walks.

—The little child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schaab has been having the scarlet fever.

—Mrs. Sadie Cobb, daughter of Sherman Hollister, is at home on a visit to her parents.

—Mrs. Philip Fluke is lying in a critical condition at her residence on West Seventh street.

—It gives us pleasure to announce that Mrs. Wm. Lowry is gradually gaining health and strength.

—Jeff. Meyers, at one time a type slinger in this office, was in town Saturday. Jeff. is a hard pill.

—Mrs. B. Harris, now of Chicago, nee Annie Rainier, is in town, called by the sickness of her mother.

—Mrs. B. L. Williams and her two little daughters are suffering terribly, the result of vaccination.

—S. U. Tarney is in Detroit this week. It must be a business trip, as his cousin lives in Fort Wayne.

—We see by the Columbia City papers, that Rev. W. H. Daniels, has come into possession of a nice girl baby.

—Mrs Jones, of the fancy store, and Miss Hattie Baker, have been visiting friends at Elkhart, this week.

—Willis Randall, of Indianapolis, a favorite among the COURIER boys, stopped with us a day or two last week.

—Two gentlemen, relatives of Isaac Ochs, from Wisconsin, purchased some fine horses here for shipping, last week.

—Mrs. Frank Barclay was taken suddenly with bleeding at the lungs Tuesday evening, and at present is lying quite low.

—J. F. Kline, of Butte, Montana, sent us a neat specimen of typographical art in the shape of a pamphlet, called the Holliday Miner

—Billy Little, the Newville shoemaker, came over Saturday evening and will return this morning, being detained by the death of his grandmother, Mrs. McDowel

—O. J. Powell, of the Garrett Herald, called in to see us on Tuesday. We are glad to note the Heral's prosperity under the management of Mr. Powell.

—J. B. Scott has moved to Appleton City, Missouri. Mr. S. is a wide-a-wake young man, and we hope he will be received well at his new home.

—Byron Rainier is night clerk in the Crosby House at Defiance. This hotel is managed by Jno. Casebeer, and is a pleasant place to drop your baggage.

—Mr. Barhite removes his family to Kendallville, this week. Though his stay with us has been brief, he has made many friends, and we regret to lose him.

—James Culbertson, who has been assisting Jay Martin in arranging his hardware at Albion, Sundayed at home. He says Jay has an elegantly selected stock.

—A. J. Little, Jr., formerly foreman of the COURIER, and now of the Toledo Telegram, has been passing several days in town with friends. He returned to Toledo to-day.

—We are pleased to see the smiling countenance of Samuel Puffenberger on the streets again. Sam. has been to Texas, and came home to attend the minstrel show Monday evening.

—Christopher Baker and Dr. Greenwalt, of the Junction, gave us a call Tuesday. The doctor is permantly located at the above place and we bespeak for him a share of the general patronage.

—Phil. Plum, night yard master of the Lake Shore at Butler, made the COURIER folks a brief call on Tuesday. We learn by a recent visit to that town that Phil. is making friends there, as he does wherever he goes.

—Clark Long, formely of Waterloo, but now with Story and Camp, dealers in musical instruments in Chicago, was in town this week. He sold one of his fine organs to W. H. McIntosh. He will be in this county about two weeks, and will be pleased to receive orders for his instruments at any time.

—We clip the following personal matter from the Garrett Herald: W. L. Meese, of Auburn, was in Garrett yesterday. Mr. Myers, principal of the Auburn public schools, was in town Tuesday last, and visited our schools. Miss Nellie Potter, of Auburn, who was here visiting her aunt, Mrs. Potter, for several days, returned home Tuesday last. Miss Eliza Stahl, of Auburn, who was in Garrett visiting her aunt, Mrs. Carr, several days, returned home Tuesday last.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary McDowell was born at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, January 8, 1802, and died March 13, 1882, being 80 years, 2 months and 5 days old at the time of her decease. She was married to Robert McDowell in the year 1821, and spent her early life in Marietta, Pennsylvania. She afterwards moved to Williamsport, in the same state, and about the year 1844 united with the Presbyterian church at that place. After the death of her husband she removed to Fort Wayne, Indiana, and made her home with Mrs. Amanda Little, her eldest daughter. Some time afterward she moved to Auburn, and lived with her daughter Celinda Eldridge, until her death. She was the mother of seven children, four of whom survive her.

Next to her blessed Redeemer, the happiness and comfort of her children was her chief aim and end, for which she labored until her steps faltered and her eyes grew dim and finally closed in an eternal sleep.

She went down to her grave like a shock of corn, fully ripe, cheered with the blessed hope of a glorious immortality beyond the tomb.

Additional Local.

—The Burch plow.

—The Burch plow runs light 10-4t

—Men's fine boots, $2.50 to $2.75
10-3t. W. J. AUSTIN, & Co.

—The Burch plow! The BURCH PLOW!! 10-4t

—W. H. Kiblinger sells the Burch plow. 10-4t

—You can save twenty per cent. at Anderson Bros., Waterloo. 10-4w.

—Good school shoes for spring wear cheap, at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—The largest stock of carriages in DeKalb county, is at Anderson Bros, Waterloo.

—Men's heavy boots & ladies' heavy shoes at your own prices, for 30 days, at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—See our stock of carpets, and compare prices with other houses. We will not be undersold.
9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

—Schaab & Beugnot have the neatest, nobbiest, line of hats just received Boys come and see them. We can suit you. 9-3t.

—Ladies' kid button shoes all prices from $1,75 to $3,00. Children's shoes all styles & prices at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—Don't fail to see Anderson Bros. before you buy your carriages. All those holding orders for the varnishing of their buggies will come to Waterloo.
10-4w. ANDERSON BROS., Waterloo.

—We have just received the largest and choicest stock of spring clothing, and the nobbiest line of hats ever brought to this market, with prices to defy competition.
9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

NOTICE.—All persons indebted to McQuiston & Ralston on book account or otherwise, are requested to call and settle by March 10, 1882. We desire to have our accounts closed by that time.
9-3w. McQuiston & Ralston.

—Anderson Bros. will give prices that will astonish you. Single buggies, $70; top carriages go from $90 upwards. We use second growth hickory throughout, and all work guaranteed satisfactory. We sell on time per agreement.
10-4w. ANDERSON BROS., Waterloo.

—Get down the rake and prepare to clean up the rubbish about your dooryards. There is nothing that speaks so well for the head of the family (that's generally the wife) as to have the premises present a neat, clean appearance.

◆

Township Caucuses.

The democrats and all others opposed to the republican party and its corrupt practices, are requested to meet in caucus at the school-house at Smithfield Center, on Saturday, March 25, 1882, at seven o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating township officers for the ensuing two years.

F. C. WATERMAN, Committee.

Wilmington township Democrats will hold their caucus for the nomination of township officers, at Butler, on Saturday, March 25, at one o'clock p. m.

COMMITTEE.

The democrats of Jackson township will hold a caucus at Center school house, March 25, 1 p. m.

◆

—For a fine shoe or boot made to order, some thing neat & nice, go to the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

◆

Sheep-Breeders' Association.

The Wool-Growers' and Sheep-Breeders association met in convention in Butler, March 3, 1882, in accordance to a previous call, and organized by all present signing the constitution, and ratifying the election of officers as follows: President, W. H. Madden; vice-president, Ward Kenedy; treasurer, George Swarts; secretary, A. D. Moore. The following named gentlemen were chosen as the board of directors: W. L. Blair, J. S. Ridge, Ed. Treeman, Luther Knisley and John Willard. The meeting then adjourned to meet on Friday, March 17, 1882, at one o'clock p. m. A cordial invitation is given to all who feel interested in the growing of wool and the breeding of sheep, to meet with us on that day at Butler. Come one, come all, and old DeKalb will lead the state in well bred stock.

A. D. MOORE, Sec'y.

—The Burch plow is warranted in every particular. 10-4t

◆

—The Press, of last week, gives the county superintendent, unintentionally no doubt, quite a compliment when it speaks of the former scarcity of teachers, and the present supply. While admitting that the present superintendent has labored persistently to educate the teachers up to the required standard of excellence, and in this has been most ably assisted by the teachers of the county, we do not consider it an act of justice to take from his predecessor all the praise for the part he had in the work, as is done by the Press, nor to bestow all praise on the present incumbent. The facts are, and anyone who is well informed is aware of this, that there has never been the scarcity of which he complains, nor is there at the present time the abundant supply he supposes. In fact, there are not, at the present writing, teachers enough to fill the schools, and many heavy drafts are being made on the list of those who taught during the winter, and who usually follow some other business for the rest of the year. We feel it our duty, in justice to all concerned, to make this statement, and would at the same time suggest, that perhaps the multiplication table in use in the Press office, is out of gear. It should show: "Once one is one;" and not, "Once one is two."

CORRESPONDENCE.

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

Schools No. one, two and six have closed with good success.

Schools No. three and four have a term of four months. No. three closes the seventh of April, and No. four about the first of April. They are progressing finely.

The trustee reports that the schools of this township, have met with good success so far.

The trustee is taking the numeration of this township. He thinks there will be more persons between the age of six and twenty-one than there were of last year's numeration.

The majority of the people of this township, are looking after the interest of health, and are nearly all vaccinated.

The St. Johns cornet band is still alive and are improving very fast under the direction of their leader Theron Hogue.

Adelbert Quinoe was home during last Sabbath as lively as ever. He says his school is progressing finely. They will have a concert soon after school is out.

There is a considerable discussion who shall be our next township officers. Let us be awake and vote, for the best men.

They say the Dr. is a candidate for justice of the peace,

There seems to be a greater interest in the coming election than usual.

We hear Phillip Noel and Jacob Miller's names spoken of, for road superintendent.

It is the custom for the people of this vicinity to have social gatherings and enjoy themselves. The last social was held at John Wildison's, which ended in good glee, especially by the ladies.

A BUD.

SEDAN.

School closed Friday.

Miss Nellie Hine is on the sick list.

Sam Beck's man made his regular trip gathering up the eggs Saturday, in spite of the roads. Nothing stops Sam.

W. H. Crane and Dan Blucher made a quick trip to Kendallville last week Ask the boys why they came back so soon.

Mr. C. H. Bangs, of Summit, spent Sunday with his parents. Charley is in the grocery business at that place.

The reform club held their regular meeting Saturday night. Quite a number of new members were secured to the pledge.

Mr. George Gonser has bought the old homestead house and lot of Mr. Hine and is going to locate here as soon as the roads are passable.

Lish Gutheni went back on the Hoosier girls by going to Mich. and getting married except our best wishes Lish.

J. A. M.

WATERLOO.

Rev. F. F. Christine went to Auburn on Monday.

We see by the South Bend papers that Mrs. N. Buckland has been called to the bedside of a sick sister, Mrs. Stone, in Ithaca, New York.

Mrs. Webster, who has been visiting in the family of Judge Best, has gone over to Auburn to see her sister, Mrs. J. E. Rose.

Jerry Boyer is making things move in his new store.

Butt's hotel was full from top to bottom last Thursday night, and there was no extra rush, either.

The two firms who had to pay a fine for selling cigars on Sunday, are not feeling in very good humor about it. They properly object to the discrimination that was made: Take all or none.

Thad. and Lizzie Clark spent a few days visiting friends at Angola last week.

Carson Edge and Ed. Till started on their trip west Monday.

Mr. Charles Cullen, of Delta, Ohio, has been spending a few days visiting in the family of O. T. Clark. He returned to his home Thursday.

Clark Long is back from Chicago for a week or two, and will pass the time while here selling organs for Story & Camp, for whom he has been agent several years.

The concert last Friday evening given by Prof. Harrington, and class was a success musically, the singing being a credit to the teacher and pupils alike. The Prof. has done a good work and we hope to have him with us again sometime in the near future.

Mrs. Cochran, and little son of Wolcottville, are visiting with Mrs. C. sister of Mrs. B. F. Kennedy.

Geo. Morell, returned last Saturday from the west where he has been since last November.

Mrs. Rose, of Auburn, was visiting with her sister Mrs. Best, last Friday and Saturday.

Had Darby, is here spending his vacation with his father Dr. Darby.

Ab. Kelly, has a fresh car load of early rose seed potatoes, for sale at reasonable prices.

James Till's wife died Tuesday morning and was buried next day.

THE BURCH PLOW.

SPECIAL REASONS WHY THE BURCH PLOW IS DEMONSTRATED TO BE THE BEST PLOW IN THE MARKET.

1st. No other plow will do the same work and do it as well with the same draft.

2nd. No other plow will work as well, both in soft and hard ground, working well in hard ground where other plows will not work at all.

3rd. No other plow holds as easy, runs as steadily or cleans the furrows out as nicely.

4th. No other plow is as cheap, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. Our steel plows are made of the best quality of cast steel, the most costly steel put into plows, possessing the best scouring qualities and wearing from two to three times as long as common steel plows. Also have the same plow in chilled mettal. Call and see the Burch Plow.

W. H. KIBLINGER,
Auburn, Ind.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Amos Britton, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

LEWIS D. BRITTON, Administrator.
February 28, 1882. 9-3w.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

ANNA SIMON, Adm'x.
James E. Rose, Att'y for estate.
Auburn, March 11, 1882.

Administratrix's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, will offer for sale at public outcry, at the late residence of the decedent, in Butler township, DeKalb county, Indiana, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the personal property of the decedent, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, farming implements, household furniture and various other articles Sale to begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

TERMS: Sums of five dollars and under, cash; over five dollars, a credit of six months will be given, the purchaser giving his note, at interest, waiving benefit of valuation, with good security.

ANN SIMON, Adm'x.

Administrator's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Bell, deceased, will offer at public sale, on the premises, on April 1, 1882, the following described land: A parcel of land, containing forty acres, off the east side of a tract of land containing one hundred acres, off the west side of the south-east quarter of section seven (7), township thirty-three (33), range twelve (12) east, in DeKalb county, Indiana. Terms:—One-third cash, the residue in two equal payments, at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at six per cent, and to be secured by mortgage on the land and personal security. Sale to begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

JOHN HARVEY, Administrator.
March 1, 1882.

New Meat Market

Opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers. He has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.

Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. tf

W. L. BRAUN.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED

The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed!"

Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of

BEAUTIFUL STYLES

—OF—

SPRING CLOTHING,

Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—No smallpox now.

—The weather brightens.

—Tom, scrape the streets.

—Talk up your favorite candidate.

—The maple sugar crop is a failure.

—"Smallpox." Yes, it was very small.

—The court-house "waiters" are busy.

—The oyster season will soon be gone.

—Untagged dogs, thy days are numbered.

—Township elections will be held April 3d.

—The beautiful came down rapidly Saturday.

—The "old hens" should get ready for Easter.

—The hog pound is in a dilapidated condition.

—Bab. Lewis has made some improvements.

—Save money for your first installment of taxes.

—The Herald says there is no smallpox in Garrett.

—The "smallpox" flags wave to the breeze no more.

—The chirp of the robin gives music to the ear.

—The mail is carried to and from the Junction by hand.

—Dave Hampton and Dave Cochran have a good orchestra.

—Snyder & Culbertson's new "dead wagon" looks attractive.

—The doctors are all "sick"—when they have a country call.

—Remember and call at the Courier office for election tickets.

—George Carter again slings the "rosy" at St. Locke's place.

—Bill Groscop will make a business of cutting wood for a while.

—The "collary infantum" will be among the dogs April first.

—Sam Weaver has a sewing machine wagon that takes the "scale."

—Tracy Little quit rattling bones for several days. Vaccination.

—Road superintendents will be satisfied with one term, no doubt.

—W. P. Harter is moderately breaking out with the base ball fever.

—The justice's courts are quiet. Plenty of plain drunks, however.

—The construction train on the Wabash will be set in motion next week.

—There are some prospects for the Auburn brass band to organize again.

—E. D. Hartman and lady gave a party to several couples Saturday evening.

—Vennor, Tice and the ground-hog all should crawl into one hole—a bung hole.

—The weather for the past two weeks has been like Butler bank stock—no good.

—Don't forget the bargains at McQuiston & Ralston's. This is the last month.

—Men are still at work making additional improvements to the Wabash elevators.

—George Weamer purchased the pool table at the Cabin and moved it to Butler.

—A horse belonging to Sam Fretz hurt its pastern joint and is in a bad condition.

—The young people of Butler are engaged in getting up a dramatic entertainment.

—J. W. Shaffer & Son have some nice finished wagons standing in front of their shop.

—T. D. Gross received a new license last week, to deal out the "rosy" for another year.

—Last year everybody wanted the marshalship, and this spring no one seems anxious.

—Select good men for the coming town election; men of good moral habits and "level heads."

—This is a good time to set out spring advertisements. The Courier is a sure fertilizer.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian social gave the first "taffy" festival of the season last week.

—For fear some of our readers have forgotten the fact, we will state that Guiteau will be hung.

—The fish business must be a paying investment, as no less than a half dozen dealers are engaged therein.

—It is rumored about town that Mrs. Helms, at the north end "pest house," has just recovered from a case of varioloid.

—The Methodist people will lose the main support of their church choir by the removal of Mrs. Mays to Hot Springs.

—Mr. Henry Gordon is here, preparatory to conducting a singing school. Our young folks seem to like him as an instructor.

—Sim. Tarney wants to buy all of the farmers' dry bones. We don't think any one has a right to sell the bones of the farmer.

—Court still in session.

—"Shake."—Candidate.

—Singing "skule" again.

—"Oh, do take care the bee!"

—Secure pasture for your stock.

—Soon be stovepipe time again.

—When shall we hold the caucus?

—This is the time of year to sow clover seed.

—Vegetation begins to show a green appearance.

—There are several cases of scarlet fever in town.

—Doc. Cowan has a Newfoundland dog. He "raised" it.

—The early gardener is beginning to scratch about the lot.

—The young ladies are looking up their summer schools.

—Judge Picker has forgotten all about the marshalship.

—The lands held for delinquent taxes were sold last week.

—Where is that sleighing that Vennor promised us in March?

—March came in like a lamb. Look out for her when she goes out.

—The republicans are beginning to organize and talk convention.

—We had about a dozen different kinds of weather last Saturday.

—The great dog massacre can be recorded in history April 1, 1882.

—This wouldn't be a bad time to agitate the gravel road question.

—We hear that Wm. Hyler talks of moving his shoe shop to St. Joe.

—E. D. Hartman is acting as judge during a part of this term of court.

—A large number of our older citizens are afflicted with rheumatism this winter.

—W. L. Penfield and wife entertained a party of friends last Saturday evening.

—When a couple make up their mind to get married it may be called a tie vote.

—The serenaders are beginning to "pull down their vests, wipe off their chins, etc."

—Every mother's son, from the wealthiest down to the meanest, is gathering bones.

—The country people are enjoying a splendid rest from the organ and sewing machine agents.

—Last week's Republican says, "The hum of the mosquito is heard in the land." That's immense.

—A pleasant dance party shook the fantastic toe at the residence of D. D. Snyder last Friday evening.

—The "smallpox watchers" were set free Saturday, and they capered around town with comfort and relief.

—The show next Monday evening will probably be the last of the season. Take your lady, young fellow.

—The Eagle Mills delivery wagon, with Doc. Beard on the seat, keeps moving despite the bad roads.

—Samuel Buss is now employed by Snyder & Culbertson. Sam. is among the best workmen in the state.

—D. D. Snyder will finish improving the surroundings of his residence and erect a brick barn this summer.

—The factories that need timber to keep their machinery running have shut down for want of material.

—Work on the Hebel building will begin next week. The contract for the brick work has not been let yet.

—The emigration fever is prevailing to an alarming extent among the boys. Of course they are all going west.

—Everything looks favorable for a large fruit crop the coming season, unless a late frost should blight our expectations.

—The supreme court has decided that dogs are not recognized in law as property, and a charge of theft cannot be maintained.

—The funeral of Mrs. McDowell was held at the residence of Edward Eldridge, where she has made her home for a number of years.

—Sam. Pommert has invested in a hound dog that measures two feet across the ears. Hounds are fashionable in canine society now.

—The roads have been in a terrible condition the past week, and the teamsters' language is not exactly in accordance with the new revision.

—Old Mr. Watt will not be likely to deal with sharpers in the future. The farmer is generally selected as the victim for this class of dealers.

—Butler has a temperance billiard hall. Who ever heard of any other kind of a billiard hall? How can a fellow play when he is drunk?

—There is an abundance of hay in the country. The mild, open winter has furnished so much grazing that farmers had no use for their feed.

—The agricultural men are at work setting their machinery in order, and are jubilant over the fact that a large demand of this traffic awaits them.

—T. C. Mays received a telegram Saturday, requesting him to return immediately to Hot Springs, on business appertaining to his office affairs. He is consequently undecided when he will move his family.

—The trees are budding.

—The Georgia minstrels.

—Spring fashions are out.

—County order buyers are on the wing.

—Navigation will open on the lakes next week.

—Take in the minstrel show. They have a big reputation.

—There is a vacancy, at Newville, for an experienced lady teacher.

—The Kosciusko county fair will be held at Columbia City September 19, 20, 21 and 22 this year.

—The first tag that we have noticed in the canine family, dangles from the neck of J. C. Henry's dog.

—James Wantz will have a public auction next Saturday, at the building opposite the Auburn House.

—Our job printer has just turned out some very attractive blank mortgages. Those wanting them can be supplied.

—Cooke, whose case has been on the criminal docket two or three times, was on last Thursday sentenced to two years in the states prison.

—The Newfoundland pup that belongs to this office is harbored five or six miles east of town. There'll be trouble out east if he is not soon returned.

—Now is the time to clear away the debris which has collected during the winter. It not only makes home look more pleasant, but adds to health and comfort.

—G. S. McCord has some choice young evergreen trees that he raised himself, which he will set out and insure to grow. See him for further particulars.

—Joseph Abright deserves the praise of every citizen living south of Eleventh street. He has kept the crossing at his corner free from mud and snow all winter.

—The winter wheat throughout the country is in a flourishing condition, instead of having been injured by the open winter as current reports would have it.

—The family of Germans, composed of several boys and three or four girls, who came over the water the fore part of the winter, are what we might term Americanized already.

—Thrifty farmers are clearing up old work, fixing up their machinery and preparing for spring plowing. The industrious, go-a-head farmer is the one who lays away the lucre.

—M. T. Mathews has again taken the local responsibility of the Kendallville Standard. We are sorry to learn that H. J. Long, the proprietor, is badly afflicted with rheumatism.

—There was a dance party in the new room on Eighth street, recently erected by I. Cool, last Friday evening. A full attendance was present, and they all seemed to enjoy the sport very much.

—Tom Mays didn't want to move all of his goods, and accordingly last Saturday afternoon he mounted a store-box and auctioned off one jack-plane, a crock of soft soap and a delinquent subscription.

—Notwithstanding the "smallpox" scare, the Auburn merchants did a big trade last Saturday, and as soon as the roads get in good condition, we anticipate a larger business than was ever known here before.

—About this time of the year the average store clerk begins to lay away one dollar a week to pay his expenses while at a summer resort, and lets his salary of six dollars a week rest a limited length of time.

—The flock of English sparrows that had their winter quarters along the cornice of the Courier rooms have begun to build their nests. This signifies that there will be more little sparrows in the bye and bye.

—Sunday was a very unacceptable day for strolling. The air was bracing, although the day was dotted with sunshine, and the chirping of the robin and blue bird kept fresh in the mind that the springtime had come.

—The proper authorities should look after the interest of pedestranis, and have property holders repair their sidewalks. No one should be allowed to place a board over a hole or crack in a walk. It's hard on copper toes and also the proboscis.

—The oldest, and at one time the popular hotel of Auburn, was used to confine those said to be exposed to "small-pox." The building has recently been used as a boarding house, but under the circumstances the weary traveler will likely give it the go-by.

—Next month Auburn will begin to make substantial improvements Hebel's new block will be erected, Culbertson's brick dwelling, the new school house and a number of other structures. With a few more manufacturing enterprises we could put on city airs.

—Remember the state law, and not a town ordinance, requires that all stock, horses, cattle, swine, etc., be kept up after the first of April. Some of our citizens will remember the experience Uncle Ed. Baker gave them last summer.

—Parties wanting horse bills should call at the Courier office. We have several fine cuts, of draft and Norman horses, and we will guarantee a neat and tasty job.

—Yesterday the bright rays of old Sol shone down upon us in a spring-like way, giving new life and vigor to one and all. If there ever was a time when spring was anxiously looked for it is now.

—Once a week the young folks have a singing exercise at the Lutheran church. It is said to be pleasant and instructive. Auburn has a good octette of male singers—oh, yes, and of females, too.

—The particulars of the Cook land-swindle is another warning to farmers. Shun all propositions offered by strangers and deal exclusively with home traders. Read the Courier and live a happy life.

—We learn that our democratic friends in Butler township think of running D. D. Rowley for justice and A. M. Harkey for constable. J. Quince, who served the township so satisfactorily as trustee, will no doubt be the nominee for that office.

—Ira T. Eaton, once a residence of this place, is now engaged in selling school furniture for the Union School Furniture Company, of Battle Creek, Michigan. Mr. Eaton is an energetic business man, and our people will unite in wishing him success.

—The Courier will be found more interesting this week upon the inside pages. This part of the paper was monopolized last week with Blaine's eulogy on the life and character of President Garfield, deceased. The reading was appropriate and acceptable, yet it was long and tiresome.

—Many things in the provision line that have heretofore been considered indispensable articles in the daily diet are now only enjoyed by the poor and middle classes as luxuries. Never before have all table articles commanded such extraordinary high prices.

—The social connected with the Presbyterian church will be entertained in the basement of the church on next Wednesday afternoon, by Mrs. A. W. Allen, Mrs. S. W. Ralston, Mrs. S. C. Swineford and Mrs. A. J. Ralston. All are cordially invited. Sec'y.

—You may talk of unpolluted joy and all-wool bliss a yard wide, but its hard to lay over the keen, cool calm of the boy who rattles four mutton bones together and sings the latest negro melody, while he sits on a store box and swings his toes out carelessly to the sunlight.

—The excellent paper published in this city, and called the Sanitary Engineer, might add to its title that of the Practical Philanthropist, for such it proves itself to be, in its constant and clear exposure of the wrongs and dangers of many of our domestic and municipal arrangements.—[Harper's Weekly.

—A man who had been in the employ of Geo. Clark this winter got bounced, got drunk, got another man's overcoat at the Central House and got out of town. When he sobered up he thought the coat was too much of a "dandy" for him, and he returned it. This act of honesty saved landlord Jenner considerable trouble.

—Geo. P. Rowell, the advertising man, says that the witty papers are most hankered after by the general advertiser. Wisdom goes a begging while wit is at a premium. Benjaman Franklin's ghost should make a note of this statement. The man of proverbs, were he now alive, would either have to become a wit or forsake his calling.

—Master Frank Fanning is certainly the most gallant youth of Butler. Though but eight years old, he has his sweetheart, and like the little man that he is, he escorts her to and from church and public entertainments with much dignity and seeming pleasure.—Butler Review.

Hold on, Harry. Auburn is always ahead, you know. We have a young man here, who is but a little older, that escorts a grass widow to entertainments occasionally, and is the la-da-dah of the burg among the girls. He is called Hardy Mays.

—We give on our eighth page an account of the closing exercises of school No. 8, Concord township. It is one of the many evidences of the fact that our people are fully interested in the welfare of the schools. Social school gatherings like these are at all times a pleasure and an encouragement to teacher and to pupils, and serve to render our schools pleasant and attractive. We wish friend Dermott and his school a continuance of prosperity, and, while we regret our inability to be with them, we can say to parents, teacher and pupils, well done.

—The following is the way the press speaks of the troupe which plays at Ensley's hall next Monday evening:

"By all odds the finest house of the season thus far greeted the initial performance of the Georgia Minstrels at the Tabor Opera House last evening. Every available seat was filled, and standing room was at a decided premium. The performance was good, and in many particulars reached real excellence, while in no place was it tiresome or did it drag, and the troupe fully sustained its reputation as being composed of first-class artists. A little nonsense now and then is said to benefit the best of mortals, and no one will regret spending a couple of hours in listening to the Georgians.

—The democrats of Franklin township will hold a caucus for the nomination of township officers, on Saturday, March 25, at Center school house, 1 p. m.

—The scarlet fever is among the children in this place. Parents cannot be too cautious with their little ones. This disease is more to be feared than small pox, and is said to be difficult to overcome, unless taken in its first stages. According to the statistics more persons die from this disease than any other, and it is to the interests of all to be observing.

—The winter has past and gone and with it we have all had our hardships and misfortunes. The ones who seem to have suffered the most, are those that were dependent upon their teams for a livlihood. Many of this class had a hard time to "pull through," owing to the bad condition of the roads. We hope our people will favor these more unfortunate ones when the time for labor opens up.

—Rev. H. J. Norris, who has been engaged as minister at the M. E. church for three years, will deliver his valedictory sermon in a couple of weeks. Mr. Norris is said to be a splendid dispenser of the gospel, and is also quite a worker in the ranks of the republican "army," consequently his removal will be much regretted by this portion of our citizens, as well as his many friends and acquaintances throughout the town and vicinity.

—The latest reports from Richland is, that they have been having "music" in the church at Corunna. The chorister at the M. E. church sent in her "slip," and now an effort is being made to purchase an organ and organize a choir at the United Brethren church. Thirty or forty dollars have been raised by subscription, and the ladies of the church have arranged to entertain a sewing society to furnish the remaining amount. "Sisters should dwell, etc."

—Every democrat in the county should make it a point to subscribe for the Courier now. A lively campaign is opening and all believers in democracy should take the organ that upholds and defends the rights of the party to promote the interests of all. Not only this alone but we give the county and local news. We have a lively and able corps of correspondents and are enabled to chronicle all matters of interest. Heads of families should have it for their children as a home paper improves their taste for reading. Let every friend of the paper lend a helping hand to extend its circulation, and the sound of true democratic doctrine ring loud within the borders of old DeKalb.

—The spring time has come, gentle Annie; and we are very thankful to Ann. While we are pondering on this thought we wish to inform all of Annie's followers (sorry, of course) that we cannot make room for any effusions on the Courier staff, as we have more poets than we can comfortably manage. Everyone connected with the paper writes verse naturally, from the chief editor down to the devil, and the latter possesses the sweetest key and gets off the lovliest notes extant. If any of our rural poets can rival the devil, we will give them a big position, and furnish a young man of culture and refinement, who will sonnet the soft amethystine ripples of their hair, every rip.

—If you have goods to sell, advertise the fact. Hire a man with a lampblack kettle and a brush to paint your name on all the railroad fences. The cars go whizzing by so fast no one can read them to be sure, but perhaps the conductor will be obliging enough to stop the train for inquisitive passengers. Remember the fences by the road side as well.—Nothing is so attractive to the passer by as a well painted sign: "Mullington's Medical Mixture for Mumps." Have your card on the hotel register, by all means. Strangers stopping at the hotel for the night generally buy a cigar before leaving town, and they may need some inspiring literary food besides. If an advertising agent wants to advertise your business in a fancy frame at the depot, pay him about two hundred per cent, more than it is worth and let him put it there. When a man has three-quarters of a second in which to catch a train he invariably stops to read depot advertisements, and your card might take his eye. Of course the street thermometer dodge is excellent. When a man's fingers and ears are freezing or he is puffing and "phewing" at the heat, is the time above all others when he reads a thermometer advertisement. Print, in the blackest ink, a great sprawling card on all your wrapping paper. Ladies returning from shopping tours like to be walking bulletins, and if the ink rubs off and spoils some of their finery, no matter. Don't fail to advertise in every show program. Of course, nobody cares anything about the show, it's your advertisement they are after. Look to your interests, business men, and advertise in the Courier, the paper with the largest circulation in the county.

THE BALL OPENED

In our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

ROOT & COMPANY

Have now opened up, and are displaying their entire spring purchase of

CARPETINGS,
CURTAIN GOODS, AND
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Comprising large and choice assortments of

AXMINSTER CARPETS,
BODY BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRY CARPETS,
Extra SUPER INGRAINS,

SUPER ALL WOOL CARPETS,
DOUBLE COTTON CHAINS,
IRISH BRUSSELS,
FINE RAG CARPETS,
HEMP CARPETS,

COTTAGE CARPETS,
OFFICE CARPETS,
TURKISH RUGS,
SMYRNA RUGS,
COCOA AND
CHINA MATTINGS.

LACE CURTAINS,
NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS,
ANTIQUE CURTAINS,
SILK TAPESTRIES,
HOLLANDS, SHADES,

FIXTURES,
CRETONNES,
STAIR RODS,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
POLES, ETC., ETC.

HOUSEKEEPERS

About refurnishing their homes, are cordially invited to examine our stock of above goods before purchasing, as we are prepared to convince them that

OUR PRICES: Are Low.
STYLES: The Choicest,
QUALITY: The Best

Offered in this section of the State.

ROOT AND COMPANY.

46 and 48 Calhoun St.
FT. WAYNE,..............INDIANA

MARCH.

Ah, passing few are they who speak,
Wild, stormy month! in praise of thee;
Yet, though thy winds are loud and bleak,
Thou art a welcome month to me.

For thou, to Northern lands again,
The glad and glorious sun dost bring,
And thou hast joined the gentle rain
And wear'st the gentle name of Spring.

And in the reign of blast and storm,
Smiles many a long, bright, sunny day,
When the changed winds are soft and warm,
And heaven puts on the blue of May.

Then sing aloud the gushing rills
And the full springs, from frost set free,
That, brightly leaping down the hills,
Are just set out to meet the sea.

Thou bring'st the hope of those calm skies,
And that soft time of sunny showers,
When the wide bloom on earth that lies,
Seem of a brighter world than ours.
—Bryant.

A LESSON IN LOVE.

This is the way it happened: Constant Everton had paid very earnest and devoted attention to Elsie Rivers: and Elsie, admiring him, believing him the most splendid speciment of humanity she had ever seen, thinking all his devotion very true and real, imagined that she loved him most desperately.

Constant (I am sorry that I could not give him a name more suitable, he being so terrible a flirt that the girls declared he had a new ladylove every three months) loved Elsie as much as he ever did any one, but that was not a very great deal.

When Elsie found that his loverlike attentions were abating in their ardor, she felt very unhappy and said to herself:

"I never can love any one else, and if he cease to care for me I shall be quite broken hearted."

With a very fair prospect of becoming brokenhearted, Constant grew less and less attentive, she still went into society and seemed to enjoy its pleasures.

Possibly she went to the parties hoping to meet him, but, nevertheless, if he was not there, she danced with great apparent enjoyment; and although she sighed many times when by herself, and I think shed some tears, yet when in company she was certainly a very gay little creature

At one of the parties of the season she met Frank Stone, was introduced and danced with him several times. She met him twice more; she danced so often that I lost the count.

She liked him, oh, yes; but could never, never love him; was not all her heart given to Constant? So she said to herself, priding herself on her constancy, for he had neglected her for a month.

Did Frank like Elsie! Yes; but I do not believe a thought of her ever crossed his mind after he had said good night in the drawingroom. She was like all other girls to him—plesant, that was all; he was not thinking of any one particularly.

One day in January Elsie went skating; she looked decidedly pretty in her skating suit, and seeing her prettiness reflected in the glass, she wished she might meet Constant. She had a vague hope stowed away some place in her heart that some day she would meet him, and she would look so sweet and pretty that his love (I doubt if he had ever felt any) would come back, and he would make her the happiest girl alive by confessing his passion and asking her to be his wife. She forgot that he had seen her in her very prettiest times; for if a girl does not look well when dressed with the very best care in her most becoming robe, with the sparkle of anticipated pleasure shining in her eyes, when will she?

Well, she reached the pond, and was enjoying herself, notwithstanding she had not met Constant, when coming to a thin place, the ice broke, and she found herself going into the water. Just then, of course, just then, or I would not be writing this story, she saw Frank Stone's tall and erect form at some little distance. With all her strength she called:

"Oh, Frank, Frank, save me!"

When she had been weeping the tears over the inconsistency of Constant, she sometimes wished she was dead; but, with a girl's inconsistency, when the opportunity for dying arrived she wanted to be saved. Perhaps the coolness of the style was her objection.

Frank, hearing his name called so earnestly, looked up, saw a figure disappearing under the ice, and, with his most rapid skating, arrived in time to see her come up; but before he could do anything, for the ice was breaking all around, she went down again. By the time she came up again, he was ready with his scarf. Fortunately for Elsie, she caught it, and by slow degrees he drew her toward a spot where the ice was firmer, reached over, caught her hands, and safely landed her upon solid ice by the time five or six gallant gentlemen arrived to know what was the matter. Like the inconsiderateness of the feminine tribe, she was no sooner placed on a substantial base than she fainted.

"Who is she?" said one gentleman, looking at Frank.

Frank twirled his mustache and replied:

"Really, we did not have time for an introduction."

He did not recognize her, how should he? When he had seen her she was in party costume, fixed up with a multitude of little curls and flowers, a bright color glowing in her cheeks; now she lay in her short skating suit, looking almost a child in size, her face whiter than the ice and almost as frozen.

"We will have to carry her to a hotel," said gentleman number two.

"I will carry her myself," Frank answered; and stooping down took in his arms the wet and insensible form and skated away as rapidly as his burden permitted, the others following. Of course his arms ached when he reached the hotel, but somehow he felt a pleasure which repaid him for the ache. She was deposited upon a bed and Frank withdrew, while the ladies of the house undertook her restoration. He was soon informed that she was coming to; and finally, when an hour had passed, was told that he might go in to see her.

He found her perched on a very high sofa, by a bright fire; but when he came to her she stood up and extended both her hands. Then with a sudden stream of tears said:

"Oh, Frank, I cannot thank you, but I will kiss you!"

And, drawing his face to her with her hands, this impulsive maiden kissed him first upon one cheek then upon the other.

Frank declared afterward that although he had kissed many a pretty girl he never felt as he did while this small specimen was so demurely kissing him, the tears streaming down her cheeks the while. He was actually embrassed! he felt himself blushing! When she was through he looked down at her, and suddenly recognizing her, cried out:

"It is Elsie Rivers!"

She opened wide her pretty brown eyes as she said:

"Did you not know me until now?"

"Truly, I did not," replied Frank.

Then it was Elsie's turn to blush, and as he looked at her Frank wondered that he had never before discovered how pretty she was.

Then they talked the matter over; and Elsie declared her intention of remaining where she was until her clothes were thoroughly dried, for she did not wish her mother to know of the accident, as she would certainly put her to bed for a week, as a precaution against taking cold; that she was none the worse for her ducking and wanted to go to a party the next night, and if put to bed of course could not go.

Frank considered himself in duty bound to remain with her to see her safely home.

Upon discovering that he was invited to the same party, he went. Elsie was charmingly dressed, and looked at him so bewitchingly, while she put her hand on her pretty mouth as a signal for silence on yesterday's adventure, that he wanted to pick her up and carry her over again. I believe he whispered something to that effect for she blushed very vividly.

He danced with her many times that night, and went home to dream of shipwrecked maidens and kisses, and many more delightful and visionary things.

The next evening he went to see her, and found her as bright as ever.

She called him Mr. Stone at first; but he told her that if she ever said anything but Frank again he would let her drown the next time she went through the ice.

When bidding her good-night, he took her hands and said he wanted to be thanked all over again, that he did not think she had been grateful enough that two kisses were nothing like sufficient payment, and much more to the same effect

He must have succeeded in persuading her to increase his reward, for, whereas he had formely been particular about having his supper at precisely 6:30 p. m. once or twice a week, it soon became a regular thing, and Sundays he was never at home to supper any more.

He must also have convinced her that she could marry him and not be broken-hearted for Constant Everton, for she is now Mrs. Frank Stone, and I am her sister-in-law.

Constant is still flirting, so his name suits him in one respect.

If any maiden becomes as dismally inclined to call in the undertaker and sexton as Elsie was at one time on account of Constance or any other inconstant swain, let her select a small pond, when the water is very cold, and depend upon it, when she feels the chill, she will call out lustily for help.

A Stage Struck Dog.

When Haverly's new Mastodons were exhibiting at Atchison, Kansas, about ten months ago, a large and handsome bird dog followed the troupe away and traveled with the company several months. He seemed to be very much attached to all the members of the party, and was always the first on the train upon leaving, and the first at the hotel upon arriving at a city. Besides he proved an excellent worker in the field, as several sportsmen among the troupe had tried him, and so "Dick" became a favorite with the company. Nearly a year ago the company stopped at Grand Rapids, where the dog got lost by getting off at the wrong depot. The most diligent search was made, but the minstrel boys were obliged to depart without their canine friend. His loss was much regretted by the entire party as they had become very much attached to him. A few weeks ago the Mastodons again appeared at Grand Rapids and what was their surprise to find "Dick," the dog, sitting on the depot platform wagging his tail to welcome his old comrades upon their return to the city. He accompanied them to the hotel, followed them to the depot, jumped on the train with them, and is now with the company at their hotel. He led their parade to-day, and manager Clarke says that "Dick" is registered as a permanent member of the company.

Dear Old Mother.

Honor the dear old mother. Time has scattered the snowflakes on her brow, plowed deep furrows on her cheeks, but is she not sweet and beautiful now? the lips are thin and sunken, but those are the lips that have kissed many a hot tear from childish cheeks, and they are the sweetest lips in all the world. The eye is dim, yet it ever glows in the soft radiance of holy love which can never fade. Ah, yes, she is a dear old mother. The sands of life are nearly run out, but feeble as she is she will go further and reach down lower than any other upon earth. You can not walk into a midnight where she can not see you; you can not enter a Prison whose bars will keep her out; you can not mount a scaffold too high for her to reach, that she may kiss and bless you in evidence of her deathless love. When the world shall despise and forsake, when it leaves you by the wayside to die unnoticed the dear old mother will gather you in her feeble arms and carry you home and tell you all your virtues until you almost forget your soul is disfigured by vice. Love her tenderly and cheer her declining years with holy devotion.

Wanted Her Kept Going.

A Deadwood evangelist was called to help revive a Sunday-school that had been closed for two weeks. He perorated as follows: "When this yer Sunday-school closed, I wa'n't here, or I should a-bucked ag'in it. I believe there is a place in that ar Bible as says if a fellow is a fool and a wayfarin' man he kin understand some on, if he'll read it at all, and I am in favor startin' her up ag'in, superintender or no superintender, Christians or no Christians, and a-keepin' her runnin' the track hull year round; and that's the kind of a cat I am." There was a unanimous vote to "start her up agin."

Vaccenia a Prophylactic Against Variola.

BY DR. L. M. HANNA, GREENCASTLE INDIANA.

The origin of small-pox is involved in obscurity. The earliest authentic account we have of this disease is A.D. 544 at Pelusium, in Egypt from whence it spread to Constantinople, as shown by the writing of Procopius, who lived in the middle of the sixth century.

Medical writers usually date the beginning of this disease in the year of the birth of Mahomet A. D. 569.

In that year the Abyssinian Army appeared before Mecca, and was unexpectedly compeled to raise the seige. It is pretty well settled that the army was broken and disbanded on account of an out break of the small-pox, and the dreadful mortality attending it.

Small-pox stands at the head of contagious and infectious diseases; both in the case with which it may be communicated from one person to another, and its Cathsomeness, and fatality. At times it becomes epidemic, and exceedingly virulent and depopulates whole villages and large districts of country—and strikes terror into those who have not yet fallen victims to its ravages, a great number of those who have it and escape death are disfigured for life.

This is especially true of the dark skinned races, whole tribes of Indians and Africans having been destroyed by small-pox.

Medical writers make two varieties of this disease for the sake of description, discreta mild and confluent or Black small-pox. The distinction being mainly in the violence of the constitutional symptoms, and the number of pustules which make their appearance on the patient. The death rate betwen the two kinds is also marked. Several other varieties are spoken of, but they may all be considered as belonging to one or the other of the two classes, viz, mild or malignant.

It is thought by many men that small-pox had an early existence, certain it is from the date above given it has been known. It first appeared in Mexico A. D. 1527. In the city of Mexico alone it is said to have destroyed three and one-half millions of people in a short period of time. During the 18th century one tenth of the population of the globe died, and one-tenth more were disfigured by its ravages. In Europe 400,000 persons die annually from this cause alone. In England during 17th and 18th centuries seven to nine of all the deaths were from small-pox. In Berlin, from 1783 to 1797, one-half of the total mortality according to Casper was due to small-pox. In the 18th century 30,000 died annually from the disease in France alone.

A proverb in the middle ages attests its wide spread prevalence and fatality' from small-pox and love but few remain free.

This disease has been a terrible scourge to our races making all mankind shudder at times, at the ghostly spectacle produced, at the grim outlines of the hecatomes of the slain.

The malignant confluent and epidemic varieties kill about fifty per cent of the victims; while all varieties combined give a death rate of over thirty-three.

In the presence of figures so appalling, if some one would bring a remedy to motigte its severity, or banish it from the earth, he would be a benefactor. He, who relieves his fellow men of pain and distress, and gives in its stead health and happiness, approaches most nearly the God, was the motto of an ancient philosopher.

Whatever we may think of the germ theory as applied to typhoid fever, cholera, etc. If observation can establish any thing, there is a something emanating from persons sick with or dead on account of this disease which communicates this malady to others who have a susceptibility to it. That mysterious something innate in persons called the determinate cause, the susceptibility is very generally present in those, who have not had it burned up by an attack of this disease. The exceptions are so rare that all persons may be considered as liable. So tenacious of life is the contagion, so general is the innate susceptibility that neither race, country, age, sex, or constitutional vigor, or hygenic surrounding can claim exemption. This malady like, "impartial fate with equal pace, knocks at the palace and the cottage gate." Such a picture is enough to make the bravest hesitate.

It is only necessary to turn back the hands on the horologue of time one century to look it in the face and note its hideous deformity.

At this puncture when experience in its management philosophy, and rationals were alike impotnt to controls this pestilence which walked at noonday, an accidental discovery was made. The immortal Jenner in the year 1798 lifted up his voice and proclaimed, after he had exprimented sufficiently to satisfy himself twenty years that an attack of cow-pox would afford the same protection against small-pox itself would. Furthur more, that cow-pox is an exceedingly mild affection devoid of danger to the persons having it, and not communicable except by inoculation.

It is not strange that this doctrine of Jenner required time and confirmation by repeated experiments before it could be adopted as an article of faith and practice.

On first notice is seemes monstrous to assert, with the expectation that it would be accepted and acted upon, that by taking into your blood a brute disease, you would be exempt from the liability to a disease which is human. Actually take a lancet and force under the skin and into capillary blood vessels in a human being, the lymph from a pock on a cows teat. And tell him, submitting to this operation, that it will make a vesicle at the point where inserted similar to the one on the cow from which the lymph is taken, that he will be a little feverish, have some head-ache for three or four days; yes, and the sore will itch a little then he is as much protected as though he had had and recovered from veritable small-pox. It seems so foreign from any thing known or heard of hitherto, that it really appears to be incredible. It was only by observation and actual trial, accidental at first, that it came to be believed. The facts were treasured up and at length the doctrine was formulated.

So that this truth does not have for its basis preconceived and fanciful prejudices of a pleasurable character—does not rest on credulity gone to seed, neither in its origin or present matured proportions

But it has fought its way against its enemies, (mans priori reasoning and his feelings), which tried to strangle it at birth, and contested hotly every inch of ground—ceasless and merciless has been the warfare. It is to-day better established than ever before, and continues to confer its benificence upon all who will accept. The greatest discovery of modern times!

These sweeping statements sound well, but are they true?

Since a priori reasoning cannot lead us to the truth, let us turn to recorded experience. Since the crucible of actual trial is the highest test to which any proposition can be submitted as well as the most satisfactory, look at it. In the first place there are elements of uncertainty as touching a few propositions which it is important to know in this investigation, before we can certainly know just the kind and amount of protection afforded by vaccination against this disease.

1st. What per cent. of a given number of persons are insusceptible to small pox?

2nd. What per cent. are liable to a second and third attack of variola?

3d What per cent. of vaccinated persons are liable to modified small pox after vaccination, and what per cent. are exempt from any manifestation, protected completely?

With reference to the first question I have not found observations sufficiently extended to settle this question numerically.

It is held, furthermore, to vary some as the degree in which a person may be exposed to the infection and also as to the presence or absence of epidemic influences.

Certain it is that persons have been exposed one or more times and escaped, and then on exposure at a later time contract the disease.

In private practice some accidental circumstances have given data as to a limited number of persons, tending to show the degree of susceptibility in those unprotected by a single exposure to this contagion, members of families living, eating and sleeping in the same room, and the same bed sometimes, with infected cases. The result of such an inquiry by Mr. Cross, of Norwich, was that of 215 unprotected members of such families, 200 contracted the disease and 4.6 died.

A rather more extensive inquiry has been made by Marshall, of Chelsea, into the facts connected with 757 persons in infected families. He found that of 231 who had been vaccinated, 27 had contracted small-pox during an epidemic which had just subsided, and of those not vaccinated, 512, every one had the disease except seven. These classes taken during different epidemics, show an exemption varying from one to seven, making an average of a little over three of insusceptible persons in a single exposure.

With reference to the second and third questions we have some very precise data. The records of the Royal Military Asylum at Chelsea, show that 5,774 boys were admitted into that place during forty-eight years, ending Dec. 1857, of whom 1,950 had an admission mark of small-pox, and 3,824 had good vaccination scars or were vaccinated on admission.

Of those who had had small-pox, 6.15 out of every thousand contracted the disease a second time; of the vaccinated, 7.6 per thousand.

An inquiry by the Epidemological society of England, with reference to medical men submitted to a high degree and frequent exposures, reveals the following: that of 347 who had been vaccinated, 44 or 12.16 contracted the disease, generally in its most modified form. Some of these had no cicatrix of their vaccination, in others the scars were indifferent or were only one or two, but of 57 who had three or more good scars, only two had small-pox. Of 82 medical men who had had variola, most of them by inoculation in infancy, three contracted variola in later life.

The statistics of most value are those collected by Mr. Marson during thirty years in a small-pox hospital.

In this hospital 15,000 cases have been under his personal care. It has been found that the unvaccinated have died at the rate of 35 per cent. and vaccinated at the rate of only 6.5 per cent.

The history of these 15,000 cases shows that those persons who have been vaccinated, if they do not escape the disease entirely, it is so modified and so mild that the death rate is only one-sixth of what it is in those who have not had cow-pox.

A practical question, and one very important, is disclosed as to the manner of vaccination and the proportion protected by having it done in a certain manner.

Facts appear to show that the number of true vaccine vesicles has a decided influence in lessening the death rate from small-pox.

Simon collected and analyzed nearly 6,000 cases of small-pox contracted after vaccination.

The ratio of deaths among those who stated that they had been vaccinated, but upon whom no scar could be found was 21½ per cent; among those who had two scars, 4½ per cent.; among those who had three scars, 1¾ per cent.; among those who had four scars the death rate was only three-fourths per cent.

It follows from this that in a primary vaccination four or more vesicles should be produced.

It appears from our statistics that two or three persons of every hundred unvaccinated will not contract small-pox by a single exposure.

Further, that of those who have had one attack of this disease, six of every thousand are liable to a second attack. Of those who have once been well vaccinated about seven of every thousand will have small-pox, and that of every hundred and thirty-three having it, being vaccinated in the best manner with four scars or more, one will die.

It seems then, from the foregoing, that if vaccination is performed under favorable circumstances and in the best manner, that the death rate may be lowered in this disease from 33, per hundred persons unprotected, to one in 19,000 persons having the greatest protection which can be given by vaccination.

This calculation assumes that all of the 5,774 boys admitted into the asylum at Chelsea during the forty-eight years were exposed to small-pox.

Our authority does not so state it, it is quoted to show that the liability is almost as great to have small-pox a second time as it is to have it at all if properly vaccinated.

But to make that deduction we must suppose that an equal number of both were classes equally exposed. If this applies to all who were in the Institution, well; but if the figures do not bleer out my calculation, neither do they settle the other point beyond question, but being mingled in the Institution promiscuously at the same time as they were, their history tends to establish the first proposition more strongly than the second, i. e., it almost proves the doctrine of Jenner, "that vaccination properly done is as much protection against small-pox as small-pox itself is."

Let us take the figures of those vaccinated, and frequently exposed: Out of the 347 medical men, 12.6 have contracted the disease, generally in its mildest form.

According to this, of every hundred vaccinated persons, 12.6 may have small-pox by repeated exposure, and of every 133 who have the disease so contracted.

The death rate by vaccination may be reduced from 1 in 2 or 3 at most, to 1 of 1,050. But the analysis of the cases of the medical men show that of 57 of them who had 3 or more good scars, only 2 or 3 and 5 per cent. had the disease at all.

Now from this, if vaccination is performed in the best manner, 3 or more scars of a high degree and repeated exposure, of every hundred of such persons, so exposed, 3½ will have small-pox and for every hundred so having it, three-fourths 1 per cent. will die. That is to say of 3,800 persons so vaccinated, 133 will have modified small-pox, or as we say in America, varioloid, and of that 133 one will be sick enough and will die. That is, vaccination can reduce the death rate from 1 in 3 as it is in small-pox without vaccination; to 1 in 1,800 persons.

It would seem from these figures, and they are trustworthy, they are a recitation of cold facts—a statement of things which have come to pass, that it would be a good thing to vaccinate well, to vaccinate early and often.

These figures are not for the elect only, but it is to be proclaimed to the whole world, that the protective power of vaccination against small-pox extends to every race of mankind, and is seen in every climate and in every part of the habitable globe. Wherever small-pox has been known to occur, exemption from attacks has been the rule among the vaccinated, and the exception among the unvaccinated.

Then, why not vaccinate? In no recorded case of which I have heard or read, well authenticated, has vaccination either destroyed life or limb. With humanized virus the danger of communitating diseases from one person to another, human in kind, such as syphilis, scrofula, etc., is exceedingly small and need not occur at all if care is taken, and healthy persons selected to vaccinate from. If bovine virus is used this infinitesimal possibility may be avoided.

Since all do not and have not made four scars in primary vaccination which our figures show afford the greatest protection,

How soon may a primary vaccination wear out and the person loose wholly, or partly, the protection which it affords?

These questions are sub judice. It is pretty generally believed, however, that a good vaccination never entirely looses its power, though it may do so in part, especially if the person was young when the operation was preformed, sufficiently so at least, as to render the person liable to an attack of varioloid on exposure.

Every person should be vaccinated in infancy and immediately (in one or two months) revaccinated, and then revaccinated when grown. This will render a person reasonably safe.

But the greatest protection can be given to vaccinate as above indicated, and then revaccinate every time there is an exposure or probability of exposure.

This is found to be true that the susceptibility to small-pox, whatever it is—the meat on which this great Cæsar feeds—is reproduced in the systems of a certain per cent. of individuals, after having had small pox as well as after having been vaccinated. Who these persons are no one can tell, cannot even guess with any degree of probability. Revaccination or exposure to small-pox is the only indicator.

If well vaccinated, i. e., as to manner and virus, and it does not take, and it will not if no susceptibility is present, neither will the persons if soon after exposed, contract small-pox nor varioloid, except in a wondrously small per cent. of instances.

It would appear then with a remedy at hand of such easy application, of so small a cost, producing no inconvenience except where actually necessary, and but little if any time, affording such a complete protection against such a fearful malady, that those who refuse to avail themselves of its benefits, both as to themselves and all with whom they may come in contact, under such circumstances, I say either to refuse or neglect it, deserve the censure of the Gods.

Newspaper Scandalists.

Washington letter in Baltimore Sun.

But true as this is, it is none the less true that Soteldo was simply receiving a dose of the same medicine which he had ruthlessly and habitually forced upon others. He was of that class of journalists to whose criticisms he excepted. There are many men and many families in this city whose peace has been destroyed and whose lives have been made miserable through this class. They, with others, hope that some good may come out of what has happened; that it may have a tendency to check the wide-spread and deplorable habit of pandering to the lower and baser instincts of the public by dragging to light the private faults and frailties, the peccadillos, the weaknesses of men. In the last ten years the custom has grown so that there is the most active rivalry and competition among the class referred to as to who shall dig deeper into the mire of personal scandal and gossip, and allegations of the most serious character, affecting the integrity of men and the honor and virtue of women, founded perhaps upon no more than a breath, are scattered broadcast. Every little detail of private life and movement is seized upon, if it can only be tortured into enough spice to whet the demoralized taste of scandal-lovers. In the discussion of public affairs, unbridled license is given, and there is no hesitation in charging men with crimes and felonies on the most insufficient foundation, or upon no foundation at all.

Mississippi has 1,738 Indians.

Farm and Workshop Notes.

Ordinary stable manure contains upward of 80 per cent. of water.

Connecticut established the first agricultural experiment station in America.

Poland China pigs are being sent from Illinois to Germany for breeding purposes.

Hoof and horn shavings contain more than twenty-five times as much nitrogen as is contained in average stable manure.

Onions will soon be "the first on the ground," closely followed by green peas. Now is a good time to sort out and select seeds.

Sheep fed on dry feed are frequently troubled with sore lips. An application of sulphur and lard once or twice will generally effect a cure.

It is stated that goats among the sheep afford them protection against dogs. The goat being pugnacious, attacks the dogs while the sheep escape.

The roads at this season are liable to be in bad condition. The horses' feet need watching, and the owner should be careful to see that they are properly shod.

For turning under a heavy sod there is nothing to equal a pair of good oxen. They may be a little slow at their work, but it will be well done if they are managed by a good driver.

Old newspapers can be used to good advantage in poultry houses, stables, etc., by being pasted (double thickness) on the walls to keep out draughts. They can easily be removed afterwards.

On the last two days of July, 1880, the rainfall over an area of 2,500 miles in the central part of England was three inches. A single inch in such an area amounts to 100,000,000,000 gallons.

An easy method of salting stock is to place a large lump of rock salt at different locations, to which the stock can resort whenever desired. It can also be placed in the troughs of the of the stable to good advantage.

If good clover or mixed hay is cut into half-inch lengths and steeped in hot water it makes an excellent, cheap and healthy food for fowls in winter, and, as with cattle, a little linseed meal sprinkled on it adds to its virtue.

As the influence of male animals is more strongly impressed on the offspring than that of the female, it is important that due care be exercised in the selection of males for improvement. One with a doubtful lineage should be avoided.

Cats on the farm do much damage in destroying useful birds, and they often play with the chickens when the master is at home, but they do not forget to appropriate a young one or two occasionally when not observed. They understand how to act much better than may be supposed.

Be careful about permitting cattle to drink from ditches or from pools in which their droppings are deposited. Such impure water is not only liable to injure the health of stock, but is also a fruitful cause of malarial and typhoid fever among those who use milk product from cows thus watered.

Manure heaps that are thickly covered with snow will get a leaching when the thaw comes. Those farmers who have gone to a little expense to protect their manure heaps will possess twice the amount of fertilizing properties as compared with those who have been careless in that respect.

It is as necessary to use precaution in cutting off limbs from trees as amputating the leg or arm of an individual, and it can only be done safely when the tree has sufficient strength to bear the shock. Trimming of trees should be done gradually, instead of cutting off all the diseased limbs at once.

The following is another of the many cures that have been recommended for chicken cholera: Charcoal, one pound; sulphur, one pound; copperas, half pound; calomel, ten grains; salicylic acid, one drachm. Grind to a fine powder and give a teaspoonful in moist meal to a dozen fowls once a day.

Dr. Lyon Playfair, who has made several visits to this country, states, in an article in an English magazine, that American mechanics are more honest and efficient than foreign, and that it is impossible not to foresee that the United States is about to become the great manufacturing country of the world.

Many dairymen practice milking their cows steadily without allowing the animals to go dry. They feed heavily on cornmeal and oil cake until the milk fails, when the cow is replaced by a fresh one. A dairyman who keeps 150 cows says such a practice is more profitable than to lose the time between their going dry and coming in.

Alsike clover (Trifolium Hybridia) in appearance, as well as in nature, occupies a position about midway between the white and red clover. The blossom is whitish and tinged with pink. It is a strong, rank grower, furnishes excellent pasture fully equaling, if not excelling, red clover in all which the farmers deem most valuable, and at the same time yields a large supply of delicious honey. The seed being only about half the size of red clover it requires but half the quantity of seed per acre,, viz., about six pounds. It is best adapted to a heavy, moist clay soil, where it will outlive any other clover, but if sown on dry, sandy soils it seldom outlives the second season. It will repay cultivation, not only for honey but for feeding stock.

Jesse Meharry's Namesake.

[Crawfordsville Journal.]

It will be remembered that the late honored Jesse Meharry, who was the wealthiest man on Shawnee prairie, and who died heirless, stipulated in his will that from and until one year after said will was probated $25 would be given to the parents of every child given his name, providing that the family was of good moral character. Our Shawnee representative informs us that this offer has been taken advantage of by Thomas Bluejacket, an Indian of the Indian Territory, who has just named his new-born daughter Jesse Meharry. Thomas Bluejacket belongs to the Shawnee tribe, now of Indian Territory, and his father once lived on the Langlois Reserve, adjoining Shawnee Mound, originally purchased by Mark Manlove, and was driven West about sixty-five years ago with the Shawnees. In asking the executors of the will for the $25 gift, Bluejacket says he will buy a cow with the money, and turn the proceeds over to his daughter when she arrives at her twenty-first birthday.

FROM WASHINGTON

There is said to be trouble brewing between President Arthur and the Stalwarts, the latter being dissatified with Conkling's appointment to the Supreme Bench instead of the Cabinet. It is believed by some Stalwarts that Arthur is exhibiting too much independence of them.

William Lewis died of smallpox. He had had a bad case of smallpox two years ago, but contracted it again while working at the smallpox hospital.

The signal service is being extended over the seas by making vessel masters signal officers, to take meteorological observations each day, and keep a record for the department.

Mr. Vest introduced a bill in the Senate this afternoon to deprive all national banks of power to issue circulation after July 1 of this year. He said he knew the Finance Committee was opposed to this legislation, and, therefore, he would beg it not to bury his bill, but to give him and the Senate a chance to vote upon it, even though they should report adversely.

General Wright's approval of the plan of the army engineer for the reclamation of the Potomac flats, together with certain developments in Congress, leads to the belief that this malaria-generator, which has been Washington's only drawback, will be removed. The outside limit of the cost is $2,500,000.

The fire department here is about to adopt the use of bows and arrows for carrying life-lines into the windows of burning buildings.

The absurd story afloat that Attorney General Brewster wears a white velvet coat at dinner parties is as untrue as it is ridiculous.

The glucose manufacturers of Peoria and Buffalo are to have a hearing before the Committee on Ways and Means in opposition to the law to tax its manufacture. Nevertheless the tax is likely to pass.

The party of Mississippians who have been here some days asking a general overturning of the officers in that State, and the appointment of Stalwarts, visited the President yesterday and were set back several notches by the President, who informed them that he did not propose to foster party factions.

The bill to retire Alfred Pleasonton, late Major General, on full pay, is intended as a set-off to the Grant retirement scheme, and was introduced to test the sincerity of Congress regarding the subject. Senator Ingalls intends to push it, but t will hardly go through.

It is probable that the sentence of the Court Marshal, dismissing Lieutenant Flipper from the army, will be modified by the Secretary of War and the President.

Sergeant Mason has been returned to his cell, which has been materially improved in his absence. He will remain there until General Hancock acts on the verdict. It is generally believed in army circles that Mason will get three or four years in the military prison at Fort Leavenworth.

The report of the minority in the Utah case is nearly completed. It declares Cannon eligible under the laws.

There has been considerable opposition worked up in the House to the bill to retire General Grant, and appearances are that the Democrats will ultimately oppose it. There is a good deal of talk of some Republican opposition, but it is thought in some quarters that the course of Democrats in taking stand against it, as if to make it a party measure, will have the effect of uniting the Republicans in its favor. Its passage, however, will be strongly resisted.

The indications are that the Chinese bill will pass the Senate, and probably the House also. The Democrats have indicated a determination to vote almost solidly for it, and many Republicans support it. Both parties are afraid to oppose it because of the power of the Pacific coast in the next Presidential election, and in the organization of the next Congress.

Mr. Scoville, who has withdrawn from the Guiteau case, expects to leave Wednesday, going to New York, and stopping at several places en route to Chicago to lecture. He places little confidence in the talk about new evidence, and says the court in banc wouldn't consider it any way. It will only consider errors in the rulings. This is equivalent to an admission of no hope for Guiteau. Judge Cox's errors, if any, were in favor of the prisoner. Scoville says there has been a conspiracy to hang Guiteau from the first, and it is bound to be carried out. He says the officials saw that Guiteau was breaking down mentally, when denied visitors after the trial, and so allowed them against Scoville's orders, hoping to keep him up until they could hang him. Guiteau has improved in condition of late. His complexion is better, and he bears the impression of being healthful. He still drives a good trade in selling his photographs and autographs, claiming his receipts to be $25 to $30 per day, which is probably an exaggeration. He has, however, ample money to buy newspapers and fruit, both of which he devours with great relish. Doubtless he is in easier circumstances now than ever before. He wears dark clothes and fresh linen, and declares himself comfortable and happy, wi no apprehensions regarding here or hereafter.

The President has received from ex-Senator Conkling his declination of the Associate Judgeship.

The Committee on Rules also had under consideration Mr. Reed's amendment to the rules, and the discussion was spirited. Blackburn and Randall, Democratic members of the committee, took the position that the proposed amendments would deprive the minority of the House of its rightful privileges, and tie its hands so as to make it powerless. The Democratic members generally take much the same view of these amendments as that expressed by Mr. Blackburn, and declare they will resist their adoption by all means in their power. They say the object of the majority is to render the minority comparatively powerless, and to push through election cases unseating Democrats and seating Republicans in their places; also to put through the bills to admit Dakota and to retire General Grant, and other measures which the Democrats are opposed to. It is now expected that these amendments will come up in the House next Tuesday, and the indications point to a lively struggle.

Mr. Blaine's statement that but six others had enjoyed as long a term in the House as General Garfield is criticised as somewhat "off," the number being about double the figure mentioned. The average term of a Congressman is about four years.

John C. Fremont has petitioned the House to allow him something for Bird Island, in San Francisco harbor, which, he says he purchased when Governor of California, and of which the Government has since taken possession.

The Republican members are responding promptly to-day to yesterday's calls for the return of the vote on the proposed change of the House rules. It is expected that the fight will be pretty vigorous, and the Democrats will take every possible effort to defeat it. It is expected that the the new rules will admit Dakota and Washington Territories as States.

The Postmaster General's reply to the House resolution regarding the appointments by ex-Postmaster General James, shows one appointment at the request of Mrs. Logan, one for Mrs. Mahone, one for Conkling, one for Garfield and four for Blaine.

The Ways and Means Committee will report a bill reducing the whisky tax to 50 cents per gallon, and removing the bank and patent medicine taxes, thereby reducing the internal revenue receipts $200,000 a day.

The Supreme Court yesterday upset Judge Lawrence, of Ohio, the remarkably smart First Comptroller of the Treasury. He had made a decision against Commissioner Raum and the Secretary of the Treasury, and the court reversed his decision.

Cononel Corkill is still at work on Scoville's bill of exceptions, and expects to complete his examination by the end of the present week. Nothing has been recived to indicate that General Butler will enter the case as counsel for the assassin. Warden Crocker says positively that Guiteau has no information either that Butler or Merrick will come to his assistance.

Telegrams continue to flow in calling for aid for the sufferers of the Mississippi valley. The Appropriation Committee will investigate, and probably recommend an additional appropriation.

Mr. Kassan, at 1:15, made a motion to go into Committee of the Whole, the object being to consider the Tariff Commission bill, and in a moment the Democrats were up in arms, ready to throw everything in the way. Mr. Valentine, of Nebraska, also opposed, on the ground that the Agricultural Appropriation bill was more important. The motion was carried, however, and the House finally went into Committee of the Whole.

It is stated quite positively to-day that the President has tendered the Supreme Judge appointment to Senator Edmunds, and that the latter declined it. Mr. Edmunds said to several Senators, in conversation yesterday morning, when it was suggested that he might be offered this appointment, that he would not accept it. It is stated on good authority that soon after receiving Conkling's declination the President decided to offer the appointment to Edmunds, and desired to send his name to the Senate immediately; and that the offer of the appointment was made to Edmunds yesterday afternoon or evening and promptly declined.

A prominent Senator, in speaking of this matter, said he believed that Edmunds would have accepted it if the appointment had been originally tendered him.

The impression now seems to be that Judge Blatchford, of New York, will be appointed.

It is whispered that Conkling's declination may lead to a rupture between himself and Arthur, as it is believed he urged in his letter of declination the appointment of Clarence Seward, but that the President determined not to appoint him.

A bill has been reported by the committee for the appropriation of a quarter of a million of dollars for aid to the Mississippi valley sufferers, who now number nearly 75,000 people. It will pass very promptly.

A letter received by W. W. Danenhower, of Washington, from his son, details the experience of the exploring party after leaving the Jeannette. They traveled 700 miles over the ice to reach Lena, and were at one time five days and four nights without sleep. The trip from the mouth of the Lena to Yakoutsk took a month. They found three log stations on the way, in the best one of which were twenty people around a dead horse thawing it out to cut up for food. The Governor ats Yakoutsk entertained the party Christmas Eve.

The memorials of the Iowa Legislature for $7,000,000 for improvements for the Missouri river have been presented to the Senate.

The rumor that Assistant Postmaster General Hatton is to succeed Postmaster General Howe, and that the latter is to succeed Secretary of the Interior Kirkwood, is revived.

There is to be a probability of unseating Shelley, Democrat, from the Fourth Alabama District, by the committee, and the seating of Smith, Republican.

There is a sharp fight in progress between the proprietors of Domestic mineral-waters and the owners and agents of Apollinaris water. Attorney General MacVeagh decided that Apollinaris is an artificial water, and therefore dutiable. Secretary Folger recently reversed this decision, and decided that Apollinaris was entitled to enter this country without payment of customs duty. A resolution is pending in Congress directing the Secretary of the Treasury not to take any steps toward carrying out his decision until there can be a thorough investigation of the question as to whether Apollinaris is entitled to be placed on the free list or not. Able legal talent has been employed on both sides. Ex-Senator Conkling is said to be counsel for the Apollinaris interests, and to have received a cash fee of $50,000.

Senator Saunders, of Nebraska, has submitted a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States that will allow the people to elect all the Postmasters, Internal Revenue Officers, United States Marshals, and District Attorneys. Senator Saunders is a member of the committee on civil service reform, and he says that after studying this subject carefully, he is satisfied that his resolution embodies reform in its most practical shape. He claims that to make these officers elective by the people would relieve the President of much of the annoyance and vexation that now attaches to his office, and would also be a great relief to members of Congress.

The President has urged Senator Edmunds to reconsider his declination of the Supreme Judgeship, and has refrained from making another appointment, thinking he could persuade Mr. Edmunds to accept, but the friends of the latter who enjoy his confidence say he will not consent, under any circumstances to accept. Senator Davis, of Illinois, is very anxious to have Mr. Edmunds appointed to the Supreme bench, and it is said the request was made through him to Edmunds to reconsider. It is evident that Mr. Edmunds is firm in declining, and the President is now satisfied of this fact.

THE STATE.

Jerry Alwood, of Union township, St. Joseph county, while drinking from a bucket at a well, lost his balance and plunged head foremost into the water, forty-three feet below. He was found dead an hour or so later. He leaves a wife and five children.

Mrs. Smith, charged in connection with her sons, Jake and Dan, with the murder of her husband, in Wayne county, has been granted a change of venue to Randolph county. There is little doubt of the guilt of Jake and none at all of that of the mother and Dan.

A number of citizens of Hancock county have determined to resist the enforced compulsory vaccination law and are organizing for that purpose. Many have declared that they will suffer imprisonment before they will comply with the order of the board of health.

At New Albany, early on Saturday morning, James Joice, coming home drunk, attempted to enter a house occupied by a man named Bluss, mistaking it for his boarding house. Bluss tried to prevent him and finally shot him, inflicting two very dangerous wounds.

Ninety-six orchardists of this state have answered the request made by the secretary of the Indiana horticultural society by naming the variety of apples best suited for home use and market: Maiden Blush, Early Harvest, Ben Davis, Rambo, Winesap, and Rome Beauty.

The success of the project of creating a summer resort at Bloomingdale Glen is shown in the fact that the summer warblers refuse to leave there evenn winter, and robin redbreast, blue birds, singing sparrows, meadow larks, turtle doves, and all spring birds, besides the jay, woodpeck, and the crow are all there in force.

John Dunn, aged seventy-one, residing in Hanover, a brother of General William McKee Dunn, of Washidgton, D. C., was found dead in his cow-stable where he had gone to milk. It is thought death was the result of heart disease. He died within a hundred yards of the where he was born and where he lived all his life.

Deputy Sheriff, Joseph Cox, of Evansville, arrested some thieves in the act of robbing the corn crib of Harry Parker, of Union township. The owner of the crib discovered the thieves about the same time, and not knowing that the sheriff had them in custody, blazed away, shooting Cox, and inflicting a dangerous wound. The thieves escaped.

Nathan Lewis, of Columbia township, Fayette county, sleeps almost constantly. It is difficult to arouse him, and when aroused, he again falls asleep in a minute or two. Physicians who have investigated the case are generaly of the opinion that Mr. Lewis's trouble arises from softening of the brain, brought on, it is thought, by using poke root to cure rheumatism.

The Rev. George H. Austin went to the bank at madison, Ind., and asked for $280 on his own note. The cashier explained as delicately as possible so as not to wound the reverend gentleman's feelings, that an endorsement by some person of property was required. Mr. Austin inquired if the signatures of John and Perry Cotton would do, and was told that they would. After an hour's absence he returned, with their names forged on the note, got the $280, and absconded.

It is proposed that a convention of the County Commissioners of the State be held at Indianapolis, for the purpose of considering the best method of securing the most desirable uniform system for the management of county affairs.

A COLORADO HORSE RACE.

A Wild Ride for $95,000 in Gold, Followed by a Hideous Orgie.

The wildest horse race ever known, says the Denver News, took place on the Denver track on September 10th, 1860. The horses were "Border Ruffian" and Rocky Mountain Chief, the purse $95,000 in gold. Ruffian was backed by Tom Hunt, his owner, and Jim Harrison, notorious gamblers. Shortly before, Hunt had murdered a prominent Mormon, and after a brief trial he was condemned to hang for his crime. The scaffold was erected on the outskirts of Salt Lake, near the overland road, and the murderer was to swing amidst all the pomp of legal execution. In the excitement attending the preparations on the morning of the expected hanging, Harrison entered the Ruffian's stable unobserved, and spirited the racer away. Mounted on another horse and leading Ruffian, Harrison rode to the gallows unsuspected, slipping two six-shooters into Hunt's hands, and before the officials or multitude had recovered from their surprise the outlaws were charging down the Webber canyon trail at a speed which defied capture. One of a number of parting shots killed Harrison's horse, and it became necessary for Ruffian to carry both men. The Mormons pursued the desperadoes night and day, but were powerless to overtake them, so wonderful was the speed and endurance of the stolen bay. Not till 100 miles had been covered did did men or beast eat or rest, and on the morning of the tenth day they arrived at Denver, 600 miles from the Mormon capital. These facts once circulated, Ruffian became the hero of the hour.

In the Denver race, the Geer boys, who owned Chief, backed him. Thousands of men and women flocked to the track. There was long delay, but at last, amidst frenzied cheers, the horses got a start, Ruffian forging from the stand. Chief flew the track, went over a steep embankment, and before he could recover, the first heat was practically decided in Ruffian's lead. A yell of disappointment went up from the multitude, and a rush was made to lynch the man who started Chief. He succeeded in escaping unharmed, however. More than $100,000 changed hands on the heat.

An even start was obtained in the second heat, the two horses passing into the quarter stretch neck and neck. at the half pole, Ruffian, in response to hard whipping, slowly took the lead. All this time Chief had been given a free rein, but had been spared the lash. Charles Hamilton, a desperado, who had all his earthly possessions staked on Chief, stood at the back-stretch pole as the horses approached, a navy revolver in either hand. "Lay the whip to that horse or I'll drop you from the saddle," he shouted to Eugene Teats, Chief's rider, sighting both of his weapons. Teats knew that Hamilton would make good his word unless the order was obeyed, and, although he was confident that Chief would win the second heat without urging, he lost no time in applying the whip. He drew blood at every stroke, and Chief went under the wire a winner of the heat by 100 feet in 1:42.

Then commenced a riot and turmoil the like of which was never before or since witnessed on a race course. Men pulled their six shooters and fired madly, indiscriminately, and gold dust, in the quarrel for stakes, was scattered recklessly in the sand. Ruffian was completely boken down after this heat and the gamblers, appreciating that they were beaten, became frantic with rage. Con Oram and Charles Switz, who afterwar became noted prizefighters, stood at the door of the stand, and held the mob at bay until the judges made their decision. Chief was ordered on the track, and after making the half-mile, was declared winner of the race. The judges had to be escorted from the track to town by an armed escort composed of volunteers from the winning side.

Mounted on broncho ponies, with pistols and bowie-knives drawn, the Greer brothers and party of friends made their way to the $65,000 nugget, and cut it to the ground. It was loaded into a wagon and taken to town, a guard accompanying the precious freight. There were a large number of people stabbed and shot in the melee, but fortunately none died from their wonds. That night Denver was one blazing revelry, one gorgeous orgie. The immense nugget was cut up into smaller and more commercial commodities. Teats was presented with $5,000 worth of these. The balance of the winings was equally divided among the brothers, and in less than forty five hours they had squandered it all.

A Notable Country Residence.

American Agricultural Association Journal.

At Ringwood, in the Wyanockie Valley, is the residence of the Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, containing 1,000 acres, about equally divided between bottom land and mountain pasturage. The narrow valley in which it lies is fertile and beautiful. The mansion occupied by Mr. Hewett stands on an elevation in the midst of a beautiful park of elms and maples, and is further adorned by fine shurbbery and by a number of acres in a well-kept lawn. Here are also a valuable grapery and hot house and a large number of fruit trees and choice plants, the verandas, which are very spacious, being filled with rare plants and flowers. The house itself is built of wood, in the architecture of the Elizabethan period, and is recognized as one of the finest country residences in the United States. There are doubtless residences in the country built of stone that have cost more money, but none can present a more beautiful architectural picture or be more perfect in its interior arrangements. The main hall resembles that of Warwick Castle England. It is 28 by 40 feet, finished in hard wood. The walls are ornamented with specimens of nearly ever description of arms used in the late war. On the left is a capacious open fire-place, with antique andirons, cushioned settees here and there, unique chairs, tables, and other adornments. A staircase of marvellous beauty and elegance leads from the rear of the hall to the upper floors. Opening from the hall, on the right, is an elegant dining room. The music room, billiard room, sitting room, school room, and library adjoin. On the left are drawing rooms and Mr. Hewett's study, filled with a great collection of practical and scientific books. The rooms are furnished with every possible article for use and luxury, and the walls of every room in the house are adorned with pictures, steel plates, water colors, or oil paintings. On the first floor are fifteen rooms, the second nineteen, and in the attic eight. The older portion of the house is more than a century old. A hundred yards distant from it is a small brick building, still in a perfect state of preservation which during the Revolution was used by Washington as a blacksmith shop, and is still used for that purpose. The grounds surrounding the house are adorned by several small lakes.

Mr. Hewitt owns some carriage and saddle horses of thoroughbred stock, but his chief pride is in his Jersey and Holstein cattle. Of the former he has twenty-four cows, and of the latter four, one Jersey bull and one Holstein bull. The Holstein cows are very handsome, and were purchased from Judge Fullerton's stock. The dairy is a pretty building of the Swiss chalet style, and is one of the finest in the country. It is supplied with a large stream of running water drawn from a lake above, entering the building on the second floor and descending to the basement, after supplying power for a water wheel which does the work of the establishment, including the churning. The walls are stone, with a cement floor, tiled sides, and hardwood ceilings; the room measures 22 by 20 feet. Adjoining is the ice house, by means of which the temperature is kept at the proper point.

The principal production of the farm is butter, of which most is made in the winter months, when 575 to 600 pounds of butter are produced each week, and of so excellent a quality that a market has readily been found for it during the past ten years at the rate of ninety cents per pound. The dairy and all its appointments are perfect for the uses for which they are designed, the dairy room being absolutely clean. The cows are kept with the most scrupulous care, being fed with corn and meal in the summer, and in winter with meal and chopped hay, steamed. In this dairy the cream is set about twenty-four hours; and, if it sours, the milk and cream are churned together to prevent loss of cream. The churning is done at 50 degrees in the summer and 60 in the winter. The dairy is managed by Mrs. Hewitt, who is a daughter of Mr. Peter Cooper, and who justly takes great pride in her work, particularly as her mother and her mother's sister were expert butter makers before her. The practical work is done by an experienced Scotch dairy woman, whose husband, Mr. James Monnigan, a thoroughly experienced farmer, has the immediate management of the farm.

Mr. Hewitt, it is appropriate to state, is the largest individual employer of labor in the United States, having four hundred families on his estate at Ringwood, and employing three thousand hands at his different manufactories, and during the hard times from 1873 to 1870 he never discharged a man on the ground of "no work," although for three years he sunk in his business $100,000 per annum. He kept them employed, when necessary, by building stone walls and tearing them down again, and he is therefore esteemed by his employes as a most generous-hearted man. His firm, Cooper, Hewitt & Company, own between 20,000 and 22,000 acres of land in the neighborhood.

Vaccine Virus Points.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean records the presence, in that city, of Dr. Griffin, and says the prime object of the doctor's visit to Chicago was to purchase two car-loads of heifers for use in the manufacture of vaccine points. He selected ninety-one beautiful young animals, Short-horns and Devons, and with these he will vaccinate the other 916 he has already. A statement has been published that the same heifers were revaccinated many times. This is a mistake. The animal having once been vaccinated is impervious to the influence, like a human subject. The Fond du Lac farm is one of the oldest and most extensive for the purpose in the world. To show the production it is only necessary to state that Dr. Griffin has disposed of between 60,000 and and 70,000 points within the last three days. The whole Northwest, he says, is feverish with the small-pox excitement, and the disease seems to be the worst in Dakota, parts of Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin, probably originally introduced by emigrants. The number of vaccine points to be obtained from one animal varies greatly; sometimes but 50 points can be obtained; in other cases over 1,000. The cattle used are from three months to four years of age. Young new milch cows are the most susceptible and productive. The light red color is the best, and black the most objectionable. The innoculation is always with the cow-pox, never by small-pox as is stated by ignorant physicians and others opposed to vaccination. The sooner the points are used after preparation the better. The Fond du Lac farm sends its products to Turkey, China, Africa, and, in fact, to all quarters of the globe. The farm comprises but five or six acres, but is finely supplied were stables. The feed given is of the very best hay and oats. The very best stock are purchased—the calves bought yesterday came from New York State. It is impossible to get a good crop from a scrawny subject. The cattle are uninjured by the process, and can be used for any purpose after serving the farm. Dr. Griffin buys his cattle in Chicago because there he has his pick of many, and can buy cheaper than in Wisconsin, where the roads are practically impassible at present.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.
This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.
Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhoea, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.
Sold by F. E. Davenport,

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!
We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.
It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free, Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

USE
KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.
Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.
THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of Experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.
INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE Producing affections of the blood, skin or bones, treated with success, on scientific principles, without using Mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.
YOUNG MEN and those of middle age who are suffering from organic weakness that unfits its victims for business or marriage, permanently cured, at moderate expense.
PATIENTS TREATED by Mail and Express but where possible personal consultation is preferred, which is FREE and invited. List of questions to be answered by patients desiring treatment mailed free to any address on application.
Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.
Communications strictly confidential, and should be addressed
DR. BUTTS, 12 North 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.

BOERHAAVE'S RECTAL REMEDY.
$1.00 A BOX.
The knife and Ligature are the last resort for Protruding. Bleeding Piles. All Ointments and Liniments Fail. Boerhaave's Rectal Remedy makes the knife the ligature and the cantery unnecessary. It returns the Bowel, holds and heals it. The worst case of Piles will be relieved in Ten minutes.
Send us by mail, ONE DOLLAR and we will mail you a box; after using half of it, if it fails to answer the recommendation, return the other half, by mail, and your dollar will be returned at once.
No one with Rectal Troubles should be without the Rectal Remedy.
HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
Agents for the U. S., Chicago

BOERHAAVE'S KIDNEY CURE.
$1 00 A BOTTLE.
"Fifty Years and upwards" seldom fail to induce various Kidney Troubles, Urinary Disturbances, and Inflammation of the Bladder, &c., leading—how often—to "Brights Disease." It will cost One Dollar, sent by mail, to try a bottle of "BOERHAAVE'S KIDNEY CURE." Relief is warranted in every case. After using half the bottle, if you think it is not adapted to your Disease, mail to us the half which is left, in the original Package, and your money will be returned at once.
It has done wonders during more than fifty years of use. Bougie, Catheter and Syringe are discarded as harsh and useless. Try Boerhaave's Kidney Cure.
HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
Agents for the U. S. Chicago

NEW DRY GOODS STORE !

J. C. BOYER,

Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc., etc.

My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and Large, and for the NEXT 60 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of

HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS,
GLOVES, MITTENS,
NOTIONS,
ETC.

At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying, for you can save money by buying of me.

☞ All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.

J. C. BOYER,
WATERLOO, IND.

J. W SHAFFER & CO.,

Manufacturers of the

Best and Lightest-Running

Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on South Main street, Auburn, Ind. 21 tf

---

HOP BITTERS.

(A Medicine, not a Drink,)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION.

AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and especially Female Complaints.

$1000 IN GOLD.

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and try them before you sleep. Take no Other.

D. I. C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

All above sold by druggists.
Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y., & Toronto, Ont.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.

OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED BY DR BRINKERHOFF IN FOUR YEARS

CURE WARRANTED

FISTULA, RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

COME BEFORE TOO LATE

A PLACE FOR YOUR DICTIONARY,
A PLACE FOR YOUR NEWSPAPERS,
A PLACE FOR YOUR PERIODICALS,
And an ornament for your home, all in one,
THE NOYES DICTIONARY HOLDER.

A Pleasant Gathering.

March 7, 1882, came, and with it over one hundred persons assembled at Adam Hay's former residence, in Concord township, to bid them good-bys. Mr. Hay has long been a resident of this place, and he and companion have ever proven themselves models of the society in which they have been permitted to live. They will move in a short time to their new home in Michigan. While we regret the loss of all as citizens, neighbors and their church fellowship, what is our loss will be the gain of others. The old people on the occasion were presented with two very handsome chairs worth eighteen dollars, and sixty quilt blocks. The presentation speech was made by Robert Culbertson, which, in substance, was as follows: "Adam and Tena, in behalf of the people assembled, and others who are not present, I present to you these beautiful chairs and these sixty beautiful quilt blocks as tokens of our friendship to you for your kindness to us in ways too numerable to mention, hoping they will be received with as grateful hearts as given." Mr. and Mrs. Hay responded in very brief speeches, in which they expressed their gratitude for the highly prized tokens of friendship. The ladies now prepared a sumptuous dinner for all, a description of which I forebear. Below we give the names of those present:

James Baker and wife, Daniel Welch and wife, James Weeks, Isaac Hornberger, Joseph Wingard and wife, Thomas Krise and wife, P. Grines and wife, S. M. Brown and wife, John Hornberger and wife, James Sherwood and wife, John Lutz and wife, Myrtle Hornberger, Nannie Hornberger, Minnie Hornberger, Stephen Lutz and wife, Mrs. Sidney Brown, Mrs. Mary Siberts, Wm. Krise and wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Lurendia Johnson, Joseph Koch and wife, Robert Culbertson, G. W. Evans, Mathew George, Charles Grim and wife, Anthony Swineford and wife, Mrs. Ann Evans, Lizzie Evans, Mrs. Jennie Batt, Mrs. Erehart, Libbie Erehart, Mrs. Jennie Nisewinter, Mrs. Caroline Culler, Mrs. Louisa Bradley, Mrs. Elizabeth Owens, Valentine Hay and wife, Samuel Morr and wife, Mrs. Mary Siberts jr., Mrs. Emeline Metcalf, Mrs. Mary Hogland, James Coleman and wife, Mrs. Kimer, Mrs. Elizabeth Krise, Mrs. Sarah Sanders, Eva Evans, Mary George, Mrs. Florence Siberts, Mrs. R. J. Morr, Mrs. Levina Johnson, Aerilla Kimer, Alice Kimer, Mrs. Delila Draggoo, Mrs. R. A. Smith, Mrs. Ellen Baker, Mrs. Sarah Sherck, Mrs. Nancy Wyatt, Mrs. Catherine Likens, Mrs. Fannie Shaffer, Mrs. Catherine Sherck, Maggie Kook, Elza Speer and wife, Frank Hay, Laura Hay, Lottie Hay, Mrs. Catherine Jenkins Cassie Click, C. P. Coleman, Pauline Ricketts, Mrs. Lydia Ricketts and Mr. Calvin Brown and wife.

And now, Mr. and Mrs. Hay, before we close let us say: Your lives, your labors and your examples have been impressed upon this community, and on the side of religion, morals, education and charity in the society in which you have so long lived, and we to-day reaping the benefits of that religion, that education and that example. We have been, a part of us, the play and schoolmates of your children; we have seen you around the communion table with our parents; you have administered to the dying wants of our loved ones, and you have mourned and mingled your tears with ours for departed dead; you have thus become a part of our community and our society. All those who are here to-day, and those for whom I speak, have received your hospitalities. Therefore we come to bid you a sorrowful good-bye, and may the blessing of that kind Providence which has been your friend still continue the same, is our best wish.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Closing Exercises.

BLAIR, IND., March 4, 1882.

EDITOR COURIER: I would like a space in the columns of your valuable paper to return my thanks to the parents of district number 8, Concord township, for their aid and encouragement, and also for their surprise dinner given on the last day of school. Arrangements had been made by parents to give scholars and teacher a surprise dinner. At 12 o'clock the parents arrived, bringing the dinner; and it was the very best the land could afford. They arranged three tables lengthwise of the school-house. First table, scholars and teacher; second table, visitors, among whom were Mr. Frank Scholes and wife. Space will not allow other names to be mentioned. Third table, parents. I must say it was the merriest dinner and surprise party that I ever met. Every one tried to outdo his neighbor in kindness and cheerfulness. Programme for the afternoon was as follows:

Dinner, one hour; ball play and social, one hour; reading, one hour; declamations, rehearsals, dialogues, singing and distribution of presents, one hour and a quarter.

This is my fifth winter, spent in the school-room at this place, and to receive such a grand display of good-will at the close, I feel it my duty to return my sincerest thanks to the parents of this place. It will be one of the happiest recollections of my life. When a school receives such aid and kindness from the parents, it would be one of the seven wonders if it did not prosper.

REPORT OF FIRST MONTH.

Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy: George Abel, Merton Abel, Lula Abel, Cadmus Shull, Henry Shull, Harry Milliman, Willie Williams, Edith Dermott, Effie Hart, Clarence Hart, Ernest Furlong, Orla Benjamin and Clayton Benjamin. No. enrolled, 37; average daily attendance, 35.

SECOND MONTH.

Names of pupils neither tardy nor absent: George Abel, Merton Abel, Herbert Abel, Lula Abel Willie Shull, Kepler Shull, Harry Milliman, Edith Dermott, Effie Hart, Frank Hart, Clarence Hart, Adrian Hart, Amanda Beam, Ernest Furlong, Orla Benjamin Clayton Benjamin. No. pupils enrolled, 37; average daily attendance, 35½.

THIRD MONTH.

Names of pupils neither tardy nor absent: George Abel, Merton Abel, Herbert Abel, Willie Shull, Kepler Shull, Clement Shull, Willie Williams, Harry Milliman, Effie Hart, Myra Hart, Frank Hart, Adrian Hart, Clarence Hart, Orla Benjamin, Clayton Benjamin and Ernest furlong. No. pupils enrolled, 34; average daily attendance, 33⅓.

FOURTH MONTH.

Pupils neither tardy nor absent: Geo Abel, Merton Abel, Herbert Able, Henry Shull, Kepler Shull, Willie Shull, Willie Williams, Harry Milliman, Edith Dermott, Frank Hart, Effie Hart, Myra Hart, Adrian Hart, Clarence Hart, Amanda Beam, Ernest Furlong and Otis Coburn. No. enrolled, 30; average daily attendance, 29½.

J. E. DERMOTT, Teacher.

School Reports

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

Report of school No. 1 for the month ending March 1st. Average attendance 31.15. Names of those neither absent nor tardy, Clark Hemstreet, Ellis McClish, Emma Rogers, Willie Work, Frank Austett, Ira Work, John Gettz, Jennie Gettz, Charlie Work, Sherman Austett, Frank McGlish. Absent on account of sickness: Joseph Zonker. Whole number enrolled during the term, 39; average number enrolled, 37; average daily attendance, 31.

LIBBIE BEVIER, Teacher.

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

Report of school district number 11 for the term ending March 3rd: Number enrolled 52; average daily attendance, 49; branches taught and number of pupils in each: Orthography, 52 reading, 53; arithmetic, 49; penmanship, 50; geography, 25; grammar, 20; composition, 20; declamation, 52; history, 6; physiology, 2.

FRANK SEILER, Teacher.

KEYSER TOWNSHIP.

Report of school number 2 for the month ending February 24, 1882: Number of scholars enrolled 31; average attendance 27; scholars neither absent nor tardy: Wm. Myers, Curtis Draggoo, Cora Barnes, Sarah Mixer, Nancy Mixer, Mary Barnes, Chas. Myers, Sarah Myers, Emma Bolander, David Barnes, Lydie Long, Jackson Long, Addie Olinger, Oliver Hinman.

ANNICE COWAN.

FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.

Report of school district number 4 for the month ending March 3, 1882: Number of pupils enrolled 24; number attending 21; average attendance 16; names of pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy during the month: Lorinda Lowe, Mahala Rohrbaugh, Loeza Mark, Stella Kepler, Samuel Haverstock, Marshal Lowe, John Lowe. Names of those who have been neither absent nor tardy during the term: Lorinda Lowe, Loeza Mark, Stella Kepler, Marshal Lowe.

IRENE CAMPBELL, Teacher.

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.

Report of district number 3, for the month ending March 3, 1882. Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy: Luella Reed, Nellie Britton, Mattie Franks, Gertie Griffith, Isaac Shippy, Manon Shippy, Birdie Miller, Perry Ailing, Augustus Harding, Blanche Britton, Nettie Franks, number enrolled 55, average 48. Term reprot, number enrolled 55, average 47. Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy: Nettie Franks, Mattie Franks, Nellie Britton, Blanche Britton, Gertie Griffith.

WILL Franks, Teacher.

"MY TORMENTED BACK."

is the exclamation of more than one poor, hard-working man and woman. Do you know how it aches? It is because your kidneys are over-tasked and need strengthing and your system needs to be cleansed of bad humors. Kidney-Wort is the medicine you need. "It acts like a charm," says a well known physician, "I never knew it to fail." Liquid or dry sold by Druggists.—Boston Post.

—We would call special attention to to our new stock of clothing. Prices to suit everyone. Come and see for yourselves.

9-3t. SCHAAB & BEUGNOT.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

D. D. MOODY.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. Auburn, Indiana. Office over Schaab & Beugnot's Store.

F. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will practice in all the state courts, and in the United States courts. Office on west side of Main street over Ed. Eldridge's.

WM. H. LEAS,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 ly

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first door. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. R. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. Y. A. HUMPHREY, M.D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.

T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.

June 14, 1882.

$1,000 Reward.

for any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DEBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 913 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. $1. Sold by Davenport the druggist.

Money to Loan.

REAL ESTATE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

Those wishing to borrow or let Money on good security will do well to see me. Office at Kiblinger's store. M. E. BARNHITE.
3-3m

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Amos Britton, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

LEWIS D. BRITTON, Administrator.

February 28, 1882. 9-3w.

Administrator's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I will sell at public auction on March 25, 1882, at the residence of Amos Britton, late of DeKalb county deceased, all his personal property (not taken by the widow) consisting of horses, cattle, hogs, farming utensils, carpenter tools, and other articles too numerous to mention. A credit of eight months will be given on all sums over three dollars, the purchaser giving his note with approved security, with interest at six per cent. waiving valuation and appraisement laws.

LEWIS D. BRITTON, Administrator.

Feb. 28, 1882. 9-3w.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the north east quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of said section eleven and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north, thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said section, thence west on the south boundary line of said section to the place of beginning.

TERMS—One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Defered payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

MUSIC MONEY

$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

2 CARD COLLECTORS. Send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO. BOYS send a 10-13w.

SEED.

THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD

CORN AND WATERMELONS

CORN. Our "GIANT" Corn is a new and distinct variety, and is withal the best that any farmer ever grew. The grains are as large as the average size chestnut; the finest white dent ever grown; full, rich in starch, perfect hardy and never failing to grow a strong and vigorous stalk with firm, deep roots. The ears are uniform and of very large size. It will yield more than any other variety that can be raised, averaging from THREE to SIX EARS to the stalk. It is taking the place of all other varieties upon its merits. It is matured, and can be gathered in TEN WEEKS, and grows as successfully in the North as the South.

WATERMELONS. Our "MIXON" Watermelons are the largest and finest in the World in every instance, and grow in any section of the country. Their average weight is from 75 to 125 POUNDS. The flesh is of a blood red, very solid, luscious, crisp and sugary—far surpassing all other varieties and, although a melon of such an enormous weight, there is barely half an inch rind. They are pronounced the finest shipping melon in the World. It will pay any farmer to try a sample package.

Corn—sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00, and $5.00 per bushel. Watermelons—sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00. Address all orders to the
ACME IMPORTING CO.
17 Athens Ga.

SMALL POX
Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria

Prevented and cured by the use of

BROMO CHLORALUM

Used in Hospitals of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago, New Orleans, and other cities.

Patients should be sponged with it, according to directions, several times a day. The virus of the disease is by this means neutralized, and contagion is prevented; pit marks are also prevented. One bottle diluted with water will make twelve pints of proper strength for use.

PRICE 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

Sold by druggists. Send for pamphlet.

BROMO-CHEMICAL COMPANY,
24 Liberty St. New York City.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad
SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R. R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 1881.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'n.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	.....
Saginaw	6 30	7 58	.....
Lansing	9 25	10 35	.....
Grand Rapids	10 20	4 40	11 50am
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	5 32
JacksonLv.	7 15am	12 00 m	7 10
Hanover	7 50	12 35pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 18	9 28
Reading	8 42	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 55	1 43	10 25
Fremont	9 12	2 03	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 24
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 02	2 52	12 25am
Auburn	10 13	3 03	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 25	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 30	9 30
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55		6 25
Louisville	10 15	7 23am	7 30
St. Louis		8 40
Washington		9 05pm
Baltimore		0 15

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'n.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am		8 10pm
Washington	10 20		9 27
St. Louis	8 40pm		7 50am
Louisville		8 00am
Cincinnati	9 00	7 35am	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 45pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 03	3 05
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 03	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 23pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07		10 24
Detroit	6 20	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 20	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 25	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	10 55
Bay City	9 20	11 55am

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5.00, 7 15, 9 30 a. m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 8 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 8 35 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 38 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 59, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m.; west 2 15 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7 31 a. m. 3:15 p. m. west—11:06 am m., 7:31 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m. 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 55 p. m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 6 15 a. m. 2,00 p. m.; ar. 3 00, 7 15 p m. P., Ft. W. & C. east, 5 30 a. m., 3 30, 5 10, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 30, 6 20, a. m., 12 40, 3 40, 5 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr't. & Pass'r. Agent

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect December 12, 1881.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 30am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	10 05am
6 47	11 30	..Bluffton..	4 10	8 53
7 47	12 28	..Hartford..	3 12	7 47
8 40	1 55pm	..Muncie..	2 17	6 50
9 25 m	2 25pm	..Cincinnati..	8 12a	4 55pm
10 55pm	6 05	..Indianapolis..	11 05	4,35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. H. CAMPBELL General Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipmental Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N Y. Ex.	A. Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 20pm	10 10	1 00am	7.00am
Kendallville	3 05	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	3 28		6 35
Sedan			7 05	2 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	3 40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Chi Ex.	Pac Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 30pm	2 20	4 00pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 20
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 30	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:45 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG, Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 22, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
Chicago lv	5 30pm	9 10am	8 45am
Walkerton Junction		12 06am	12 07pm
Milford Junction		1 24	1 25
Syracuse		1 36	1 38
Cromwell		1 52	1 56
Albion		2 12	2 20
Avilla		2 34	2 48
Garrett	10 35	2 55	3 20
Auburn Junction	10 44	3 06	3 40
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	4 24
Defiance	11 52	4 25	5 12
Deshler	12 46am	5 23	6 15
Fostoria	1 39	6 20	7 18
Tiffin	2 02	6 46	7 48
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 10	9 00

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 30pm	6 10pm	8 00am
Tiffin	10 25	7 46	9 19
Fostoria	10 51	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 50am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville		11 42	12 28pm
St Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 10am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 35
Avilla		12 36	1 52
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 20	2 45
Syracuse		1 36	3 02
Milford Junction		1 45	3 10
Walkerton Junction		2 05	4 30
Chicago ar	6 55	6 10	7 35

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec. 18, 1881.

STATIONS	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv	9 20am	3 20pm	8 30pm	9 20p
Ft Wayne	3 35pm	8 15	11 55	5 15a
Crestline	9 00	12 40am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield
Pittsburgh Ar.	6 00am	6 57	1 10pm	6 50p

STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	8 45pm	10 50p
Mansfield
Crestline Lv	7 15pm	2 00pm	3 00am	7 25a
Ft Wayne	12 50am	5 55	6 40	1 00p
Chicago Ar	6 50	10 20	11 00	7 30p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:45 am.; Warsaw, 8:55 a. m., Columbia, 9:45 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:30 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:40 p.m.; Plymouth, 6.45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
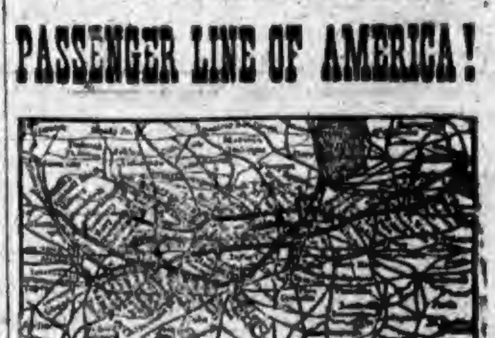
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen. Manager. Gen. Passenger Agent.
St. Louis.

Recorder's

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, MARCH 23, 1882. Number 12.

Auburn Courier.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY BY
JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

D. D. MOODY.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Schaab & Beugnot's Store.

F. V. HOFFMAN.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will practice in all the state courts, and in the United States courts. Office on west side of Main street over Ed. Eldridge's.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates, municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 25 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

$1,000 Reward.

for any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DEBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 915 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. $1. Sold by Davenport, the druggist.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

ANNA SIMON, Adm'x.

James E. Rose, Att'y for estate.
Auburn, March 11, 1882.

Administratrix's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, will offer for sale at public outcry, at the late residence of the decedent, in Butler township, DeKalb county, Indiana, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the personal property of the decedent, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, farming implements, household furniture and various other articles. Sale to begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

TERMS: Sums of five dollars and under, cash; over five dollars, a credit of six months will be given, the purchaser giving his note, at interest, waiving benefit of valuation, with good security. ANN SIMON, Adm'x.

Administrator's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Bell, deceased, will offer at public sale, on the premises, on April 1, 1882, the following described land: A parcel of land, containing forty acres, off the east side of a tract of land containing one hundred acres, off the west side of the south-east quarter of section seven (7), township thirty-three (33), range twelve (12) east, in DeKalb county, Indiana. Terms:—One-third cash, the residue in two equal payments, at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at six per cent, and to be secured by mortgage on the land and personal security. Sale to begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

JOHN HARVEY, Administrator.
March 1, 1882.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the north east quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of said section eleven and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north, thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said section, thence west on the south boundary line of said section to the place of beginning.

TERMS - One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Deferred payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

Dorsey & Co.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

Dorsey, the man who carried Indiana, will now be required to walk up to the Captain's office and settle. Not long ago—less than two years—ex-Senator Dorsey, in all the pomp and pride and circumstances of political warfare, had his headquarters in this city. He was the observed of all observers. He had come to Indiana to carry the state for Porter and Garfield. He not only had money, but a wealth of resources that eclipsed all the home bosses. He promptly saw the importance of importing voters from Illinois and tried to arrange a conspiracy with one S. P. Conner to carry out the project. He saw with great prescience the importance of voting double tickets, and an accomplished professor was at once employed and lessons given in the rooms of the republican central committee. The election came off, Indiana was carried, and honors, rich and abundant, were showered upon Dorsey. He retired from the field of his grand exploits with all the insignia of triumph. From Indianapolis he went to New York, the great metropolis of the continent. A banquet was ordered at Delmonico's. Dorsey was the central figure. Around him clustered such illustrious men as U. S. Grant, "Me Too" Platt, George Bliss, General Tom Brady, Tom Murphy, Emory A. Storrs, Whitelaw Reed, William B. Astor, Henry Ward Beecher, W. H. Robinson, Chancey M. Depew, and last but not least, his Excellency Chester A. Arthur. All lands had been brought under contribution to make the Dorsey banquet recherche. The viands were such as to satisfy the palate of the most renowned epicure. The wines were choice, rosy and ruby. Every tongue was unlimbered and wit and mirth ruled the hour. The banquet was designed to be a monumental affair, to live forever in the memory as a thing of beauty and a joy forever. When the time came for Chester A. Arthur to speak, he said:

"Indiana was really, I suppose, a democratic state. It had been put down on the books as a state that might be carried by close and perfect organization and a great deal of—(Laughter.) I see the reporters are present, therefore I will simply say that everybody showed a great deal of interest in the occasion, and distributed tracts and political documents all through the state. The gentlemen in New York stood nobly behind the national committee and responded actively and enthusiastically, but Mr. Dorsey, with his power for organization, his tireless energy, his wonderful courage and his cool head, was able to accomplish the result which he did in Indiana; and that result saved more than anything else, New York to the republican party."

And thus it went forth to the country that ex-Senator Dorsey had "carried Indiana." Things have changed since then. Dorsey stands indicted as a thief; Brady is under bonds as a thief; Chester A. Arthur, having drawn the first prize in the lottery of assassination, is in Garfield's place; Conkling no longer startles the country with the "best efforts of his life;" Blaine is out of office browsing around among thorns and thistles, in fields where there are no spoils, and Dorsey, though still secretary of the national republican committee, is living under the shadow of crimes he was perpetrating when he was carrying Indiana. By all the gods of the Greeks, was there ever such a procession of living, breathing, shivering representatives of any political party since the morning stars sang together?

* * *

Tariff Absurdities.

The Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, in a recent interview with a reporter of the New York Herald, furnishing some very sensible and incisive views in regard to our present tariff system. Mr. Hewitt among other things said:

I have interests in the manufacture of steel rails upon which there is a duty of $28 per ton. When it was imposed English steel rails were quoted at $15 per ton, and the duty was, therefore, about twenty per cent. The English rails are now $32 per ton, and hence the duty now amounts to about ninety per cent. Last year the demand was in excess of the supply, so that the American manufacturers could demand and receive about the entire protective duty of ninety per cent.; but with the inevitable domestic competition the cost of the home article will rapidly fall, until, as I am convinced, after the lapse of twelve months the increased price will be only $15 per ton, or forty per cent. duty. I had intended offering a bill reducing the duty, as the duty was reduced on quinine without reference to other features of the tariff, but frankly as I told you, the effect of domestic competition will practically be to reduce the price on rails within a year to the point at which my bill would bring it. I am, however, quite ready to advocate and to vote for a bill reducing the duty on steel rails to $14 a ton. This reduction would not interfere in the slightest degree with the growth of this manufacture. One mill for the manufacture of steel rails in this country, with a capital of $2,000,000, made a profit in one year of $5,000,000.

If there is anything more absurd than this eternal howl for "protection to American industry," we have yet to hear of it; and the fact stated by Mr. Hewitt, that "one mill" engaged in the manufacture of "steele rails," protected by a duty of ninety per cent. "with a capital of two millions, made a profit in one year, of five millions of dollars !" is conclusive evidence of the fraud which marks the whole system.

* * *

How Does He Sleep?

One of the most important things to know about any man upon whom you are going to place any dependence, is how he sleeps. Sleeplessness may sometimes be involuntary. There may have been some shock to the man's nerves which has made him insomnolent; but sleeplessness is more frequently voluntary. Men choose to push their studies or their work into those hours when they should sleep. It does not matter for what cause any man may do this, the mere fact of not sleeping spoils the case. He may spend his nights in the theater, in the study, or in the "protracted meeting." It will make no difference; the result to the body will be the same. The sleep was not had, and for that the man must pay.

One man may do with a little less sleep than another; but, as a general rule, if you want a clerk, a lieutenant, a lawyer, a physician, a legislator, a judge, a president or a pastor, do not trust your interests to any man that does not take eight good, solid hours of sleep out of twenty-four. Whatever may be his reason for it, if he does not give himself that, he will snap sometime just when you want him to be strong.

The intellectural and moral connections of sleeping have, I think, not been sufficiently appreciated. Men and boys have been praised for "burning the midnight oil." Now this "midnight oil" is a delusion and a snare. The student who is fast asleep at eleven o'clock every night and wide awake every morning at seven o'clock is going to surpass another student of the same intellectural ability who goes to bed after twelve and rises before five. In sleep, the plate on which the picture is to be taken is receiving its chemical preparation, and it is plain that which is the best prepared will take the best picture.

Men who are the fastest asleep when they are asleep are the widest awake when they are awake.

Great workers must be great resters.

Every man who has clerks in his employ ought to know what their sleeping habits are. The young man who is up till two, three and four o'clock in the morning, and must put in his appearance at the bank or store by nine or ten o'clock and work all day, cannot repeat this process many days without a certain shakiness coming into his system, which he will endevor to steady by some delusive stimulus. It is this way that many a young man begins his course to ruin. He need not necessarily have been in bad company. He has lost his sleep; and losing sleep is losing strength and grace.—Rev. Dr. Deems.

* * *

The Sanitary Engineer.

The recognized authority on all matters relating to public health, food and drug adulteration, drainage and water supply, steam and hot water heating, plumbing and gas fitting, gas and electric lighting, heating and ventilation.

Questions on any of these subjects will be answered in the columns of The Sanitary Engineer, free of charge. The opinions of this journal upon all technical subjects are either prepared or revised by specialists. For sale by all newsdealers in the United States and Canada. Single copies 7 cents. Terms three dollars per year, in advance, postage paid. Published every Thursday at 140 William Street, New York.

* * *

—The Burch plow is in steel or chilled metal. 10-4t

Good Advice for Everybody.

1. Never, under any circumstances, assume a responsibility that you can avoid consistently with your duty to yourself and others.

2. Base all your actions upon a principle of right; preserve your integrity of character, and in doing this never reckon on the cost.

3. Remember that self-interest is much more likely to wrap your judgment than all other circumstances combined; therefore look well to your duty when your interest is concerned.

4. Never make money at the expense of your reputation.

5. Be neither lavish nor niggardly. Of the two, avoid the latter. A mean man is universally despised, but public favor is a stepping stone to preferment; therefore generous feelings should be cultivated.

6. Say but little, think much and do more.

7. Let your expenses be such as to leave a balance in your pocket. Ready money is a friend in need.

8. Avoid borrowing and lending.

9. Wine drinking and cigar smoking are bad habits. They impair the health and pocket, and lead to waste of time.

10. Never relate your misfortunes, and never grieve over what you cannot prevent.

11. Cultivate promptness in deciding upon matters that come before you. There are few objects more disagreeable than an undecided, vacillating man. Consider thoughtfully, but decide promptly.

12. Never break a business engagement of any kind, if it be possible to meet it. Let nothing cause you to become careless of business etiquette, integrity and promptitude.

13. Let truth and unwavering faith in God underlie all your motives and actions.

* * *

In Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska there have been lately introduced so-called "prairie stoves." But few people ever saw one or know anything about them. Many settlers stick to the old way, going fifteen or twenty miles for half a cord of wood, which costs $2.20, hauling it home, sawing, splitting, carrying it into the house, and burning it; then, in two or three weeks doing the same thing over again. The hauling of the wood is worth more than the price of it.—Then, too, there is danger of being caught in a blizzard. The truth is, farmers might just as well throw away their sewing machines and and cling to the old needle as to continue to use the old wood stove. Even if the wood and hauling of it cost nothing, farmers had then better burn hay; for it makes a better fire with less attention, and will heat up a much larger space. A prairie stove must be set so as to have a good draft a stack of straw or worthless hay be placed near the door instead of a wood pile, and six cylinders made of sheet iron, two feet long and fifteen inches in diameter, and then sprung so as to be thirteen inches one way and seventeen the other, in order to more nearly correspond with the shape of the fire box in the hay stove These cylinders can be filled with hay as easily as an arm full of wood can be picked up and put into a wood stove. One cylinder of hay, put into my stove at 6 o'clock last night, lasted four hours and warmed two rooms; but when cooking is being done, about two cylinders of hay will be needed per hour. Nice, choice hay will burn and make a good fire but it is not necessary to burn hay fit for stock. Straw will make a hot fire. Even steam thrashers are run by burning straw. Old dried prairie grass, which can be cut now, will make an excellent fire. On December 5, I went out and found three acres of grass which had been cut in September, but having been rained upon, was left to rot on the ground. In five hours I had this raked up and hauled to the house, making fully three tons, which is the best of fire-wood. Now, how could one man in five hours saw and split three cords of wood? Hence I conclude that any man burning wood is throwing away his money. I am pleased to be in a country where there is wood, water and hay in abundance—hay being wood. Any man down east, owning a farm which produces hay without limit, would think he had an everlasting fortune.—Appleton Gazette.

* * *

NOTICE.—I will be in my office, at my residence, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. S. J. BRANDON,
Oct. 11-tf. Trustee Jackson tp

* * *

—The Burch plows are for sale by W. H. Kiblinger, Auburn, Ind.

A Remarkable Race of Men.

[Popular Science.]

The Monakees, or inhabitants of the Western Moon mountains, appear to be unlike any other race of the known world. In mechanical arts advanced far beyond their neighbors, they are at the same time addicted to most preposterous habits and superstitions. With the aid of an interpreter, and his knowledge of the Fant-Arabian dialects, the Hakim interviewed their priests and medicine-men, inspected their dwellings, caves and temples, and visited many of their outlying villages, and continued his investigations even after his official duties had recalled him to Khundabad. For the Khandi chieftain, in the meanwhile, has ascertained the whereabouts of the captive traders, and finally effected their release, and after the end of the next rainy season the Tripolitans returned to Darfoor, where the Hakim took charge of the sick, and employed his leisure in writing the chronicle of his discovery. This chronicle addressed to his kinsman, the Mollah of Tripoli, gives a circumstantial description of the Monakee race, their habits, physical peculiarities and singular superstitions—interspersed with an account of his personal adventures and of the reflections which occured to him while traveling through their country. "The work abounds with incidents and graphic descriptions," says the reviewer of the first German translation, "as well as with scientific disclosures that throw a suggestive light of the origin of the customs and vices of civilized life." Besides his first professional trips across the frontier, the Hakim seems to have spent nearly eight months among the Monakees, collecting information on all possible topics, interviewing the just and watching the wicked, traveling from village to village, often at the risk of his life, but always sustained by the conviction that "Allah had appointed him to perform this work," and the hope that the world would recognize its importance.

* * *

You, reader, who are blessed with a comfortable home—who are well fed and warmly clad and sheltered—you can hardly realize to what straits and make-shifts many a poor mortal is reduced to live honestly, or even live at all. Women there are, delicate, cultured, refined and all unused to physical labor—women nursed often in the lap of luxury, but thrown suddenly and helplessly upon the world by some social or domestic volcano that engulfed home and friends and left them stranded and alone to struggle with the hard conditions of cruel and relentless poverty. We have seen them thinly and poorly clad, with pinched faces from lack of nourishing food, boarding themselves in cheerless rooms, and eking out a bare pittance honestly earned with needle or pen—patient, often and hopeful in their sad and lonely lot. Let their more fortunate sisters, born to affluence and comfort, with every luxury within their reach, imagine themselves suddenly reduced to such extremities, and can they wonder that many a tempted one is led into a gilded life of sin? Truly, society is out of joint, and there is need for a larger measure of charity in the world. We wonder if the favored ones of arth eare aware that there is but little virtue in the goodness of one who has never been sorely tempted.

* * *

Business Locals.

—The Burch plow.

—Men's fine boots, $2.50 to $2.75 10-3t. W. J. AUSTIN. & Co.

—The Burch plow! The BURCH PLOW!! 10-4t

—W. H. Kiblinger sells the Burch plow. 10-4t

—The Burch plow, the king of the field. 10-4t

—No other plow holds as easy as the Burch plow. 10-4t

—Look at the Burch plow before buying. It is boss. 10-4t

—The Burch plow is warranted in every particular. 10-4t

—You can save twenty per cent. at Anderson Bros., Waterloo. 10-4w.

FARMERS— bring in your old dry bones. I will pay you $5.00 pr ton. S. U. Tarney.

Ab. Kelly, of Waterloo, has a car load of seed potatoes, early rose, for sale.

—The largest stock of carriages in DeKalb county, is at Anderson Bros., Waterloo.

—Men's heavy boots & ladies' heavy shoes at your own prices, for 30 days, at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—For a fine shoe or boot made to order, some thing neat & nice, go to the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—Ladies' kid button shoes all prices from $1.75 to $3.00. Children's shoes all styles & prices at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

—Don't fail to see Anderson Bros. before you buy your carriages. All those holding orders for the varnishing of their buggies will come to Waterloo.
10-4w. ANDERSON BROS, Waterloo.

—Anderson Bros. will give prices that will astonish you. Single buggies, $70; top carriages go from $90 upwards. We use second growth hickory throughout, and all work guaranteed satisfactory. We sell on time per agreement.
10-4w. ANDERSON BROS., Waterloo.

THE BALL OPENED.

In our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

ROOT & COMPANY

Have now opened up, and are displaying their entire spring purchase of

CARPETINGS,
CURTAIN GOODS, AND
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS,

Comprising large and choice assortments of

AXMINSTER CARPETS,
BODY BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRY CARPETS,
Extra SUPER INGRAINS,

SUPER ALL WOOL CARPETS,
DOUBLE COTTON CHAINS,
IRISH BRUSSELS,
FINE RAG CARPETS,
HEMP CARPETS,

COTTAGE CARPETS,
OFFICE CARPETS,
TURKISH RUGS,
SMYRNA RUGS,
COCOA AND
CHINA MATTINGS.

LACE CURTAINS,
NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS,
ANTIQUE CURTAINS,
SILK TAPESTRIES,
HOLLANDS, SHADES,

FIXTURES,
CRETONNES,
STAIR RODS,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
POLES, ETC., ETC.

HOUSEKEEPERS

About refurnishing their homes, are cordially invited to examine our stock of above goods before purchasing, as we are prepared to convince them that,

OUR PRICES: Are Low.

STYLES: The Choicest.

QUALITY: The Best

Offered in this section of the State

ROOT AND COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.

FT. WAYNE.............INDIANA

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

GEN. TOM BRADY gives bail on Star Route indictments to the amount of $20,000.

IT is estimated that the expenses of the Guiteau trial will amount to about $15,000.

WESTERN TEXAS had a heavy and very unusual snow-storm the other day.

DURING the last five months of 1881, 1,500 converts to Mormonism were made in England.

FORTY-NINE million dollars worth of hogs, cattle and sheep, were marketed in Illinois in 1881.

INDICTMENTS have been found against nearly all of the city officials of Newark, New Jersey.

ACCORDING to the latest German census, the female population of the Empire exceeds the male by 863,165.

THE Michigan Legislature has appropriated $265,000 for the relief of the sufferers by the fires in that State last fall.

A DEPUTY sheriff was killed at Jacksonville, Oregon, the other night, by a party of lynchers, while defending a murderer under his charge.

A KENTUCKY lecturer maintains that the Garden of Eden was the Mississippi Valley, and that Noah's ark started on its voyage from Manhattan Island.

THE surprising statement is "goin the rounds" that there are 100 per cent. more divorces granted yearly in Philadelphia than in any other city of the Union.

THE appointment of Judge Blatchford, of New York, as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, is generally regarded as an excellent settlement of the matter.

THE leaders of the labor-riot and strike in Omaha have been arrested, and are found to be a lawyer with an unsavory reputation, and the keeper of a low whisky den.

MISS ARMANDO, a St. Louis bycicilist, made one hundred miles in seven hours and forty-seven minutes, the other day, making a total of 416 miles in four days.

THE trotting stallion Piedmont, was purchased the other day by ex-Governor Stanford, of California. The price paid was $30,000. The horse has a record of 2:17¼.

A STATEMENT just prepared by the War Department, shows that the service of 20,000 men has been required for the past few years to watch the Indiana, with a total cost of $200,000,000.

Two car loads of scrap iron, loaded at Peoria, Ill., were found to consist entirely of things stolen from the railroad company over whose line the audacious thieves proposed to ship it to a market

A YOUNG and handsome girl has just returned to her home in Clinton, Ill., having served a term in the Joliet penitentiary. In the eighteen bright and busy years of her life, she has managed to steal sixteen horses.

THE next International Exhibition is to be held in the city of Amsterdam, Holland, in 1883. The capitalists, merchants and manufacturers of that country are already engaged in making extensive preparations for the event.

THE town of "Tin Cup," in Garrison county, Colorado, might have hung quietely suspended on a nail of the Rockies for ages, unhonored and unsung, but a genius came there and hung the "Garfield Banner" on the outer wall of journalism, and now "Tin Cup" is famous.

A LETTER has been received by D. C. Birdsall, of New York, from Patrick Egan, Ireland, in which he states that the trustees of the Land League have received from America $530,000 for general purposes, and that nearly $300,000 was contributed to the relief of distress in Ireland in 1880.

THE Senate amendments to the post-office appropriation bill increases the appropriation $1,090,000, of which amount $150,000 may be used for post-office clerks and $180,000 for route agents. The addition is, doubtless, necessary on account of the rapid increase of postal business in postoffices, and on mail routes.

WHEAT cultivation is the most important agricultural industry in France, occupying as it does one-fourth of the total cultivated land, and yielding a crop whose annual value exceeds two milliards of francs, or about one-third of the total agricultural production. The total yield has about doubled since 1820. From 1820 to 1864, the yield of wheat in France increased.

MR. JOHN D. CUNNINGHAM, Jr., drives leisurely around his gigantic peach orchard of 50,000 bearing trees near Griffin, Ga., and observes with satisfaction that the buds are not too precocious and complacently remarks: "I reckon this is my year." He says hat his is the biggest peach orchard in the world, but, lest some jealous grower should presume to dispute the assertion, he intends to set 200 more acres next fall. "This is the only region in the world," adds Mr. Cunningham, "where a perfect peach can be raised."

THE Governor of the Gold Coast says that nobody there has heard a word as to the King of Ashantee killing 200 girls to use their blood for mortar, and that such a proceeding would have been impossible for him. Mr. Bannerman, son of an Ashantee princess, told the Governor that "the King has no more power to kill 200, or even two, girls under such circumstances and for such purposes as those alleged than the Governor has himself, and that the whole story is a fabrication exported from Cape Coast.

THE Emperor of Brazil has been systematically visiting and examining the factories and workshops of Rio and its vicinity, with the object of judging, by personal investigation, and by hearing the views of the proprietors and of experts, of the claims put forward by the manufacturers for higher protective taxation of foreign products of a similar kind, and of a reduction of the import taxes on substances employed in the Brazilian manufactures.

THE combined Barnum and London circuses and menageries made a grand street parade Saturday night in New York city. There were in line thirty-three golded chariots, twenty-two elephants, twenty camels, ten giraffes, sixteen open dens of wild animals, two hundred mounted horsemen, and seventy cages of all kinds of birds, reptiles, etc. Along the line were scattered 1,200 men with torches, besides calcium and other lights.

A MAN rented a pew in a Canada church and then slept and snored so as to disturb the people. The congregation brought an action at law to compel him either to abate the nuisance of snoring or to stay away. After protracted litigation, the court has now decided that the man has a right to use his pew just as he would use a berth in a sleep-car. He may remain awake and listen to what is going on, or he may take his ease in slumber. Snoring is held to be an involuntary act, consequent on slumbering and involving no malicious intention of disturbing a congregation. The decision has created much astonishment.

A CURIOUS fact is made public for the first time in connection with the recent death of the widow of Daniel Webster. After the death of Mr. Webster, when it was ascertained that he left no estate for the support of his family, some of his devoted friends raised a fund of $60,000, the interest of which was applied as an annuity for the maintenance of his widow. Now that she is dead, the principal will revert to the surviving donors and the heirs of those who are not living. The profession of statesmanship which entails poverty of this sort upon its most distinguished practitioners does not hold out tempting allurement to young minds, however ambitious.

THE New York Sun touches a question that is bound to become important in the near future, as follows: "A remarkable feature of our public school system was developed at the last meeting of the Board of Education. It appeared that in some cases the primary departments are filled to overflowing so that pupils are turned away, while school rooms and teachers in the same buildings are unoccupied. The cause of this state of affairs is that the various departments are separate, and the system will not permit the teachers or the rooms set apart for grammar departments to be used for the primaries. It would be a sensible thing if the Board should disband the so-called Free College, and meet the unsupplied demand for primary schools."

THE Chinese immigration bill, as passed by the Senate of Congress, provides that from and after the expiration of ninety days after the passage of the act, and until the expiration of twenty years after its passage, the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States shall be suspended and prescribes a penalty of imprisonment not exceeding one year, and a fine of not more than $500 against the master of any vessel who brings any Chinese laborer to this country during that period. It further provides that classes of Chinese exempt by treaty from such prohibition, such as merchants, teachers, students, travelers and diplomatic agents, and Chinese laborers who were in the United States on the 17th of November, 1880, shall be required as a condition for their admission to produce passports from the government of China personally identifying them and showing that they individually belong to one of permitted class, which passport must be indorsed by the diplomatic representative of the United States in China, or by the United States Consul at the port of departure. It also provides elaborate machinery for carrying out the purposes of the act; and additional sections prohibit the admission of Chinese to citizenship by the United States or State courts, and construes the words "Chinese laborers" to mean both skilled and unskilled laborers and Chinese laboring men.

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Chattanooga, Tenn., is undergoing a smallpox scare.

A RECIPROCITY treaty between Mexico and the United States is suggested.

The country overflowed in Southern Kentucky and Tennessee, supports 50,000 people.

For the eight months ending February 28, 375,091 immigrants arrived in the country.

At Maple Park, near Geneva, Ill., a lad aged 16 has married his sister-in-law, a woman of 40.

The Memphis and Little Rock Railroad will be damaged from $500,000 to $750,000 by the floods.

The bill for the improvement of the Mississippi favors the appropriation of $6,313,000 for that object.

The Rhode Island Supreme Court decides that the A. and W. Sprague property shall be sold by aution.

Mormon missionaries in Canton county, N. C., have been successful in proselyting sixty members of a Baptist church.

A young child of Ho Ken Kua, late Chinese Professor at Harvard, died at Cheyenne on Monday, while the family were en route to China.

It is not probable that a caucus will be called by Republican members of the House to consider amendments to the rules of the House.

The military officers delegated to report on the condition of the flooded regions, give a terrible account thereof. The worst is not reached yet.

Captain Benham has telegraphed the Secretary of War from Columbia, Ky., that 500 people are in need there. The Secretary will send 10,000 rations.

A number of western farmers will make an attempt to use the Scotch potatoes now being imported into this country for seed for the coming season.

Lord George Francis Montagu, an attache of the British Embassy at Washinton, died Sunday of diptheria after an illness of three days. He was born in 1855.

Guiteau is more taciturn and is only interested in the sale of his photographs, etc. He is actively engaged in correcting the proofs for the new edition of "Truth."

The Omaha strike troubles are about ended. The Coroner's Jury in the case of the man Armstrong, decided that he was killed by the soldiers in the faithful discharge of their duties.

Active preparations are being made to remove the Division headquarters of the Wabash Railroad from Ft. Wayne and Lafayette to Antioch, Ind. The new yard is said to be the finest in the West.

General Rosecrans says he believes there are other letters yet to come of the Garfield-Chase sample, recently published, and that when they have appeared he will be prepared to justify his military record.

Jumbo, (the elephant) Barnum's recent purchase from the zoological gardens in London, has been got into his cage for transfer to the steamer on which he will be brought to America.

A TRAVELING show fat-boy named David Navarro, died of small-pox at Pittsburg, the other day. The boy was 21 years of age, and weighed 720 pounds.

The Western Union Telegraph Company last year reported a gross revenue of $16,868,396. Their expenses were $9,489,269, and their net profits $7,379,127.

The sub-Committee on Internal Revenue at Washington, have agreed to a bill which lowers the tax on whisky to 50 cents a gallon, and by that and other reductions, will reduce the internal revenue about $60,000,000.

Gerhart, a railway postal clerk on the Lake Shore railroad, between Chicago and Cleveland, was arrested at South Bend, Ind., for stealing registered letters. He is an ex-soldier of good record, and respectably connected.

Austin, Miss., a town on the Mississippi river, between Helena, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn., is being submerged by the flood, which is twenty-five feet deep around the principal buildings.

Negotiations for a copyright convention between Great Britain and the United States are suspended, President Arthur and Secretary of State Frelinghuysen not sharing General Garfield's views on the subject.

On Sunday afternoon, fourteen miles south of Liscon, Ill., Gordon Lord, a farmer, shot twice and killed a boy named Zerah Hall, working for him. Lord then cut his own throat and hanged himself. He is believed to have been temporarily insane.

Information reaches St. Paul, Minn., that the Manitoba Colonization Company, of London, has secured 2,000,000 acres of land in the northwest territory, and will bring 25,000 settlers. The Canadian government will defray a portion of the expenses of settlement.

The official report to the chamber of commerce shows that last season Cincinnati packed fewer hogs by 187,547 than during the season preceeding, with a decrease in aggregate gross weight of 36,728,647 pounds. Decrease in the yield of lard 6,455,576 pounds. Average cost per 100 pounds of gross weight of hogs, $6.38.94; an increase over the preceeding season of $1.62.

Foreign.

The Bank of England has reduced its discount rate to 4 per cent.

The Porte is seeking an alliance with Austria, in view of a possible war with Russia.

It is rumored that General Skobeleff has been arrested, and is confined in the fortress at Wilna.

A Panama dispatch states that the accounts of the Costa Rica earthquake are greatly exaggerated.

MacLean, the assassin, prowled around Windsor Castle last summer and acted suspiciously.

The Italian Consul General complains that the French cannot protect life and property in Tunis.

The Arabs have murdered nine European traders, and renewed the fighting around Kaiwan.

At Berlin 15,000 persons attended at six mass meetings, to protest against the tobacco monopoly bill.

Ali Kalifa, leader of the Arab-Tunisian insurgents, has been proclaimed Bey of Tunis by his followers.

It is rumored that Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, has abdicated in favor of his ten-year-old son.

His Boer countrymen will not allow President Brand to accept a decoration from the British Government.

Thirty Jews, possessing an aggregate capital of 36,000 roubles, have just left Kieff for Palestine to engage in farming.

In the recent engagement between the rebels and the Austrians near Jankow, Herzegovina, the latter lost 200 men.

At Feacle, County Clare, Ireland, a farmer named Connell and his wife, were fired at by patriots. It is expected they will die.

An important discovery of relics of the ancient lake dwellers in Switzerland has been made at Steckhorne, Canton Thurgan.

A Killarney correspondent writes that affairs in Ireland are improving, and tenants are availing themselves largely of the land act.

Crivosie, Herzegovina, has been occupied by the Austrian forces. The complete pacification of the province will speedily follow.

Queen Victoria has expressed her gratitude to the people for the outburst of loyalty and devotion, which resulted from the recent attempt on her life.

The St. Petersburg Golos (the most influential journal in Russia) makes an earnest protest against war, induced by the efforts of the Pan-Slavists.

For his kindly reference to the Queen in his recent pastoral, the Most Rev. Archbishop McCabe, of Dublin, has been thanked by her Majesty and Mr. Gladstone.

The French Senate has refused to indorse Jules Simon's proposition that all school masters be required to teach their pupils their duty to God and their country.

It is stated that United States Minister Lowell will shortly visit Manchester to inquire into the allegations of cotton spinners regarding cotton adulteration.

POKER playing is the fashionable vice of aristocratic society in London, and the play is becoming so high that much alarm is expressed about its effects.

An American company, supported by General Walace, United States Minister, is endeavoring to obtain the concession for a railway in the Province of Bagdad.

A St. Perersburg dispatch to the London Times states that Skobeleff's famous speech was a put-up job between him and General Ignatieff for the benefit of the latter.

At Costa Rica, South America, four towns are reported to have been destroyed by an earthquake. Thousands of persons were killed, and the survivors are destitute and homeless.

That Ashantee story telegraphed from London some time ago, that the King had massacred 200 maidens to mix their blood with the mortar for his new palace, is denied by his son.

The Earl of Crawford and Balcarras has engaged four spiritualists who are now at Danecht House, in Scotland, endeavoring by clairvoyance to detect the violators of the tomb of his father.

The Russian Nihilists in Switzerland, have issued a decaration that they will avenge their brethern condemned to death in St. Petersburg, if the sentence against them is executed.

A Prussian spy has been arrested at Broteaux, the suburb of Lyons. A number of maps and plans of the defensive works were found in his luggage. He stated that he was a Captain in the German army.

King Milan, the new monarch of Servia, has issued a proclamation thanking the European powers for their friendship, and promising, by way of platform, that his energies will be devoted to the dissemination of virtue and enlightenment.

One of the three men arrested at Brussels for complicity in the Hatton Garden (London) post office robbery is thought to be the pretended American Colonel Gaston. Another is thought to be his accomplice, in connection with whom he recently robbed a Paris jeweler of $280,000 worth of goods.

Sir Henry Halford calls upon the foremost shots among British volunteers to practice with special reference to participating in the international shooting match, and adds that nothing short of the best work of the best men the country can produce will insure success for the British at Creedmoor.

An immense metorite fell Saturday night, about fifty miles southeast of Fort Assinaboine, its glare lighting up the country for many miles around. Four minutes after striking the earth, the report was heard in Assinaboine, sounding like the discharge of a heavy gun, and the earth was perceptibly shaken. The shock was also felt at Fort Benton, nearly one hundred miles south.

THE British Lord Chancellor's bill defining married women's property has been printed. It makes married women liable to the parish for the relief of their husbands, and renders the wife liable also to criminal proceedings in the event of her committing any unlawful act against the property of her husband. It limits the liability of husbands in respect of debts incurred by their wives prior to marriage, and it strictly arranges the conditions under which a married woman can hold, acquire, and dispose of property.

FROM the Turkish province of Epirus the Christain (though not Greek) inhabitants have of late been emigrating in large numbers. Unable to endure, on the one hand, the depredations of the robber bands still infesting the country, and, on the other hand, the hardly less cruel treatment of their Mohammedan fellow subjects, the natives in question have for some time past been unobtrusively, and generally at night, abandoning their farms and villages, and crossing the frontier into the new Greek province of Thessaly for the purpose of taking up there their permanent residence.

THE STATE.

The "mangled remains" found on the railroad near Terre Haute, proved to be those of a dog.

Indications are that there will be more fruit of all kinds, and wheat, grown in Jackson county for 1882 than any other season for ten years.

Mrs. Walton, implicated in the St. Omer tragedy, where her husband was killed by the negro Frazier, has been denied bail and must remain in jail to await her trial.

A youthful tobacco chewer of Millville, Henry county, has been fined $13 and in default of bail was sent to jail ten days, for spitting tobacco juice upon the carpet in a church.

Major Trimble, formerly a prominent temperance and political orator, died on Monday night, a convict in the Jeffersonville prison, where he was serving a two years' sentence.

Wm. Evans and Edward Hunt, supposed to have been operating in the footpad buisness in Indianapolis, have been sent to the penitentiary for four years from Terre Haute, on a plea of guilty of robbery.

Hon. T. J. Foster, whose disappearance from Fort Wayne was noticed last week, has returned and taken control of his paper, the Journal. He has been at a hospital at Crestline, Ohio, recovering from the effects of drink.

John Fulton purchased of Ithamar Davison, at Shelbyville, his big steer for John Robinson's show. The price paid was $250. Although very thin in flesh he drew down the beam at 2,095 pounds. He is only five years old, and stands seven feet and four inches high.

Prof. John M. Coulter of Wabash college, who has made several trips to the Yellowstone park and is thoroughly familiar with it, would like to conduct a party there this summer. Here is a chance for a fine trip if any are disposed to visit this wonderful region.

The wife of Isaac Houghland, a prominent business man of Folsomville, six miles north of Boonville, committed suicide at her residence Tuesday night by shooting herself with a revolver. The ball entered her mouth angling back, and lodging near the occipital protuberance. What caused her to end her life is a mystery.

The quakers are holding revival meetings through the country, and one under the management of Elwood Scott, of Marion, has just closed at Richmond, at which there were one hundred and fifty conversions. The excitement ran so high in consequence of his millenial teaching, that Miss Maggie Kendall became insane, and will be sent to the asylum.

A young man named Lesner, residing in Rush county, while engaged at chopping cordwood, about one mile from home, accidentally cut his foot so severely that he was unable to walk. Being alone in the woods, he attempted to crawl home, and after traversing about one-half the distance, fell exhausted. He was not found until night. He was so weakened by loss of blood and exposure that he died before morning.

Making Newspapers.

Philadelphia Herald

"There in nothing in the paper," said a young friend, dashing it to the floor. "No news at all; its miserably stupid." Look again, my dear friend, at the carefully printed columns, the different headings, foreign, home and domestic news, the wit and humor. Think, for a moment, when you gaze at it, how the editor has tried to please you. There is probably no men more overworked than these, no labor more wearing than mental labor. It is so easy to cry out: "Nothing in the paper," for those who know little of the drudgery, the pains-taking, the hours of mental weariness, the tedious compositions. It is a common thing when a person is not exactly suited, to exclaim, "There is nothing in the paper." In a railroad car I once observed two gentlemen purchase of the same edition of a paper. One soon handed his to a neighbor, exclaiming, "Here, Sam, have the morning paper. There is nothing in it to-day; it is hardly worth reading." The other gentlemen continued to be absorbed. Presently the man by his side asked him what interested him. "Everything; the paper is well gotten up this morning; the editorials are especially fine." This proves that what pleases one does not suit the other. Be assured it is no child's play to edit and conduct a newspaper; it is a very tedious, important, responsible position, and the man who manages a well-circulated, satisfactory newspaper has almost the wisdom of a Solomon. Let those who doubt take the editor's place for a while; nothing more is needed for a grumbler. Our friend, when he is tempted to such silly remarks, had better pause to consider whether the fault be in the paper or his head.

Colonel John Miller, of Sharpsburg, Washington county, Md., was born and has slept in the same house and in the same room for ninety-seven years, and is still hale and hearty. He gained the title of colonel in the war of 1812.

A play bill dropped from the gallery of the Volk's theater, Copenhagen, took fire from a gas jet in its fall, and alighting on a lady's head, burned off her bonnet and nearly all her hair before the flames could be extinguished.

TABLE TALK.

The cat is the great American prima donna.

Last words of Webster: "Zythepsary sythum."

The Dakota boom is begining early this year.

"Going to Europe to study cookery" is the latest.

Florida has ten lodges of colored Good Templars.

There are 1,000 Indians in the everglades of Florida.

Prejudice makes an insincere friend and a weak critic.

Samarkand, in Central Asia, has the telephone in operation.

A new postoffice in Madison county, Ala., is named Too Toe.

Selling a vicious cow as "gentle" has cost a Wisconsinite $240.

Gladstone has been known to walk forty miles on a mild day.

Three hundred and fifty homœpathic physicians in New York State.

A flat-iron heated sizzing hot by chemicals is a Detroit invention.

Cyrus Field's new building at the Battery will be sixteen stories high.

Sixty thousand dollars has been subscribed in aid of an exposition at Denver.

The governor of Virginia caught rheumatism in chasing the oyster pirates.

The island of Elba, Napoleon I.'s old home, is being strongly fortified by Italy.

An English thief, on a stolen horse, was captured by a policeman on a bicycle.

Sullivan is said to have had three offers of marriage since he pummelled Ryan.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor sometimes clusters $260,000 worth of gems on her person.

Two hundred and fifty thousand cans of clams are put up in Maine yearly.

A Massachusetts baby has been born without eyeballs. Its other bawls are healthy.

The Union Pacific railroad will establish in Denver a hospital for maimed employes.

A clothing firm in New York distributed $4,000 worth of illuminated cards in one day.

The motto seems to be, never buy a gingham umbrella when you can borrow a silk one.

Dividends paid by Lake Superior copper mines so far this year represent a round $1,000,000.

It is not lucky to swallow a horse-shoe nail. A Pennsylvanian who tried it is on the sick list.

The secret of the snake charmers of India is said to be sewing up the mouths of their snakes.

Shakespeare seldom speaks of a stick in a cup of sack, but he says: "There's daggers in men's smiles."

Major Eaton, of Lowell, Mass., has for thirty years made $30,000 a year in popping and selling corn.

Virginians cook the roots of the common blue thistle and pronounce them a very palatable dish.

The wild horses pasturing in the pampas of the Argentine republic are estimated to number 2,300,000.

Two marriage notices in a recent number of a Philadelphia paper were "Brich-Twiggs" and "Price-Given."

Statistics of the German recruiting years 1876 80 show that the tallest men in the army come from Schleswig-Holstein.

In London is a "Directory of Directors." There are of directors 8,500, and in two years there has been an increase of 2,500.

A San Francisco burglar has been exposed by a button which was torn from his vest as he escaped from a window.

Newark is cleaned out of money and seems likely to stay so for awhile, and it is in that town that the office seeks the man.

A lady in Rochester, who is five feet four inches in height, has light brown hair which measures six feet six inches in length.

In Gold Hill, Nevada, houses and lots which a few years ago were valued at from $2,000 to $5,000 each are being raffled off.

Father Blair, the oldest minister in Pennsylvania, has just died at Indiana, where he preached forty-four years. He was aged 97.

A cow at Vicksburg ran her tongue through a lattice work, when an unneighborly mule made a snap and bit off four inches of it.

Andrew Paxton, of the citizens' league, says that there are 10,000 boys and girls in Chicago made homeless by rum-drinking parents.

The Greek Testament in the ancient tongue is now, by order of the Greek government, read in its 1,200 schools, which have 86,000 pupils.

"Is he good German scholar?" they asked of the Washington belle concerning her lover. "Splendid!" she replied. "He holds a lady beautifully, and knows all the figures."

The spot whereon President Garfield fell in the railway station at Washington, is marked not only by a little silver star, but by the regretful veneration of the passer-by. As they hurry to their trains, it is said that each steps aside lest a disrespectful foot should desecrate the spot.

A city home: Inquirer—"Are you the gentleman that owns this house and lot?" Citizen—"No, I don't own this house and lot. I only live here and pay the taxes on 'em."

Rochester, N. Y., whose greatest building boast has been "Power's block," is to have a new $500,000 hotel to be erected at the corner of West Main and North Fitzhugh streets.

The Puritan religion, according to an English writer, had a great effect on the manufactures of the United States, by producing an honest and efficient workmanship everywhere throughout the union.

An Irish servant-girl, a year over, was given macaroni by her mistress to prepare for the table. Noticing her surprise, the lady said: "Didn't you cook macaroni at your last place?" Cook it? We used them things to light the gas with."

FROM WASHINGTON

Dispatches from Commander Meade to the Secretary of the Navy showing that work on De Lesseps' Panama Canal is being really pushed, occasions a good deal of flutter among the promoters of the various subidy schemes. They had strong hopes of getting Government aid for the Tehuantepec Canal or Eads' road, but if the other is to go on, it is doubtful about getting aid for these.

The National Health Board and the Illinois Congressmen are earnestly co-operating with Messrs. DeWolfe, Camp and Gurney, of Chicago, regarding the prevention of the importation of small-pox. A bill will be formulated and presented to Congress covering the grounds.

The suit of G. W. C. Lee against Strong and Kaufman is before the Supreme Court. In the suit is involved the Arlington estate, worth about $300,000. Strong was in command of the fortifications, and Kaufman, Superintendent of the cemetery, when suit was instituted, and the question is, Can a suit in ejectment be maintained against officers of the United States who occupy the premises simply as said officers, and when the title involved is claimed by the United States.

A petition is being signed by the Illinois delegation to promote Colonel Carr, brother of Postmaster Carr, at Galesburg, to a Brigadier Generalship.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, says he has examined the bill for creating a United States District Court in Iowa, to the passage of which he objected, and finds that it is very objectionable. It fixes eight places for holding the United States Court, and gives thirty-two terms of court, while Illinois has but three, as have Ohio, and many other States. He will oppose it vigorously.

General Rosecrans declines to say anything in reply to the letter published, purporting to have been written by General Garfield in 1868. He says he is taking steps to ascertain whether or not the letter is genuine, and will await the result of these inquiries before saying anything upon the subject. General Rosecrans adds: "As the letletier gravely affects the character of General Garfield for truth and veracity, I deem it due to him to first ascertain if it is genuine."

The reports that Grant has lost heavily in New York stock speculations, are severely commented upon by Grant's enemies as a dodge to push the bill for retiring him.

Another call of bonds, probably for $20,000,000, will be made in a few days.

President Arthur attended Secretary Frelinghuysen's reception—the first time he has been out in society since he became President, except to attend the Corcoran reception.

The six months of mourning which the President fixed for observance for Garfield's death has nearly expired, and in a few days the heavy black bordered paper upon which all official communications have been written at the White House, and the other public tokens of the mourning, will disappear from public view.

Never before has there been such a pressure brought upon a Congress for the Mississippi river improvement. Delegations are here constantly urging action.

Applications for relief of the sufferers from the floods continue to pour in. It is believed that fully 100,000 persons are in need of relief.

M. Roustan, the newly appointed representative of France to this country, will not leave Paris for this city be'ore the middle of May. M. Outrey, the present Minister here, will remain until then.

Cobell and Miner gave bail in $5,000 each in the Star Route cases. Colonel Ingersoll came into court with his client, ex-Senator S. W. Dorsey. Colonel Bliss, counsel for the government, asked that the bail for the appearance of S. W. Dorsey and John W. Dorsey be fixed at $10,000 in each case. In the case of Rirdell, the government would ask for $5,000 surety. Ex-Senator Dorsey then offered J. W. Pumphrey as his bondsman, and he was accepted. On the name of John W. Dorsey being called, Colonel Ingersoll told the court that Dorsey was on his way here from New Mexico to furnish bail. The court granted a delay. The bail in the case of Rirdell was then fixed at $5,000. Ex-Assistant Postmaster General T. J. Brady offered N. W. Fitzgerald as surety, and Fitzgerald justified in the sum of $20,000 as bondsman for the appearance of Brady.

The Post (Democratic) publishes this a communication bitterly attacking and denouncing the late President Garfield. The Post editorially says the communication was written by a prominent Republican, and a delegate to the Chicago convention. The communication denounces Garfield as a "treacherous, hypocritical and professional office-seeker." The Post announces that it has the name of the author, and will give it to the friends of the late President, if they desire it.

The following is related by a prominent ex-Union General as a piece of unwritten history, in connection with the revival of the Rosecrans-Garfield letter. It brings to the surface a hitherto-forgotten fact, which will tend to strengthen the well-known friendship and affection, which existed between the two. It will be remembered that General Garfield was a delegate from Ohio, in 1864, to the Baltimore Convention, and nominated President Lincoln for his second term. After Lincoln had been nominated, Garfield telegraphed to Rosecrans, then in St. Louis, as follows:

Vice Presidency going a begging. Will you accept?

General Rosecrans, after consultation with a well known General, now in Washington, consented, and sent an answer to General Garfield, which, it is said, was suppressed by Stanton in the War Department, through whose hands all telegrams at that time went. As a consequence Andrew Johnson received the nomination which General Rosecrans would unquestionably have secured, and the following event of Lincoln's death would have placed him in the Presidential chair, which subsequently was filled by Johnson.

The system of espionage in the War Department at that time brought the train of disasters which followed under the Johnson regime, and which might happily have been averted in the placing of Garfield's friend Rosecrans in the Presidential chair.

The President has nominated Samuel Blatchford, of New York, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Also, John Russell Young, New York, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to China.

A petition to the President to pardon Sergeant Mason will be signed by some of the members of the court-martial. The President will probably do nothing until after Guiteau's execution. Mason takes his sentence coolly. He says his greatest sorrow is leaving his wife and child.

Guiteau, the assassin, is pleased with the sentence, and says the law was made to apply to just such rascals, and should be carried out. Guiteau is allowed no visitors now. He gives most of his time to reading the proofs of his book, and to religious reading and thought.

Bill Jones, the other avenger, is still out on bail, and probably will not be tried before Fall.

Senator Hill is improving. He was able to go down stairs to dinner yesterday.

A bill was introduced in the House by Mr. Robinson, of New York, to-day, to exclude the words "white" and "Colored" from the District of Columbia school laws.

The summer exodus to Europe promises to exceed anything ever known. Already nearly all the berths in the steamers sailing during May are taken.

The reports from South Carolina say that no lack of labor was caused by last winter's exodus.

It is said that General Rosecrans has withdrawn from the contest for the Chairmanship of the Democratic Congressional Committee, and that Mr. Flower, the New York banker and member of Congress will get it.

Secretary of War Lincoln has telegraphed Governor Cullom, of Illinois, that Congressman Townsend has advices regarding the sufferings by the overflow at Shawneetown, and that if the Governor will appoint a Commissioner and say what is needed, the Secretary will send aid. The reports from Mound City show that there is a good deal of suffering there, and relief has been sent. Major Suter has been ordered to begin the distribution of supplies by Government steamers.

General Rosecrans was asked this afternoon if he had prepared anything for public delivery with regard to the Garfield-Chase letter. He replied that he had considered the matter carefully, and had concluded not to say a word or write a word about it.

The Republicans, after half an hour's struggle this morning, gracefully yielded to the minority's demand for the right to debate the anti-Polygamy bill, Burrows, of Michigan, and Kasson, of Iowa, leading the break on the Republican side, saying when the Republicans were in the minority they always demanded the right to discuss and offer amendments to any measure. Amendments are now being offered by the Democrats. Under the agreement, the right to amend must be submitted within an hour.

Much interest was manifested in the House debate on the polygamy question to-day, and the galleries were well filled at an early hour. The ladies especially displayed a lively interest, the ladies' gallery and the Members' gallery being better filled than at almost any time since the session began. Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, is generally commended on both sides for his manly course in taking the lead to give the minority the same right always demanded by the Republicans, when in the minority—that of offering amendments.

Cannon, the Utah delegate, characterizes the attempt to pass the Anti-Polygamy bill, while he is kept out of his seat as unjust and unmanly. He says the church won't give up its doctrines. If the law is enforced they will have to accept the punishments, as other martyrs have done. He thinks the bill, if passed, will be tested in the Supreme Court.

Ex-Senator Cilley, aged 91, is lying at the point of death at his home in Maine. He is the oldest ex-Senator living, and is a brother of Jonathan Cilley, the Congressman, killed in a duel by Graves, the Kentucky member, in 1838.

The Secretary of the Treasury issued his call for $15,000,000 of bonds to-day. They are continued 6's.

Petitions for the pardon of Mason are coming in from every direction—probably none larger than that of Chicago.

Congressman Martin's resolution to abolish the Marine Corps causes much excitement among that class. Martin says the marines are useless under the present system of naval warfare.

Great sorrow and indignation is felt in the Internal Revenue Department over the assassination of Davis by the Tennessee moonshiners. No effort will be spared to punish the perpetrators.

The prospects for a fast mail on the Baltimore and Ohio, under the appropriation for mails, is reported good. President Garrett is interesting himself, and pushing for this service. Senator Gorman is aiding in the work. If successful it will make the time from Washington to Cincinnati in 18 hours, to Louisville 24, to Chicago 28, and to St. Louis 30.

Illinois took quite a prominent part in the Polygamy bill debate to-day. Mr. Townsend, though a Democrat, was the first man to speak, under the previous question, in favor of the bill, saying he could not agree with his side of the house, that the provisions of the bill were unconstitutional. Mr. Springer said he favored the suppression of polygamy, but could not think the provisions of the bill constitutional. Mr. Singleton raised a laugh by objecting to Springer's remarks being admitted in the half-hour allotted to the opposition, as he did not speak against it. Mr. Cannon sat in his seat all day during the discussion, having access to the floor by reason of his former membership of the House.

Colonel Moulton, of Cincinnati, brother-in-law of Senator Sherman, makes a sweeping denial of the charges of Smith, Pitney and others regarding "crookedness" in Sherman's campaign.

The business of the Patent office this year is nearly 25 per cent. greater than ever before.

Hon. Simon Cameron arrived to-day from the South, where he has been spending the Winter, and called on the President. He is hale and hearty, considering his advanced age.

This morning, Jacob R. Shipherd, accompanied by his wife, appeared at the rooms of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, investigating the Peruvian affairs, and was sworn. The Chairman inquired in relation to the four missing letters, and asked if he wrote such letters, describing them as indexed at the State Department, to the Secretary of State. Shipherd answered—"It is my recollection that I did." Witness stated that he had expected to prepare copies of the letters alluded to, but was unable to complete them before leaving New York. He had copies of the missing letters in his letter-books, and of all letters sent and received, and could prepare copies, but as some of the letters were quite lengthy, and he would naturally wish to look over and compare the copies he might have made, he would require some further time. The Chairman made several inquiries in relation to the letters, and asked if his subpœna did not require him to produce his books and papers. Shipherd replied: "I was not aware it did." Witness produced the subpœna and read from it. It required him to produce copies of all the letters written by him to Secretary Blaine under specified dates; for copies of all letters written to Secretary Evarts and James G. Blaine between June 1, 1879, and February 1, 1882; also copies of letters written to any Minister, Consul or official of the United States referring to the affairs of Peru, Bolivia or Chili, or on any matters of property or business in which he was interested in these states; also all letters received by him from either the Secretary of State or from any Minister, Consul or other United States official. Shipherd stated, as he understood the subpœna, it would take his Secretary at least two weeks to make copies of all correspondence called for.

The committee in secret session adopted an order to the effect that Shipherd be required to furnish the committee with copies of all correspondence addressed to any United States Minister or officials of the State Department, touching the subject matter of inquiry; also, of all letters addressed to the witness by such officers and relating thereto, and all correspondence and copies of correspondence passing between the aforesaid which will throw light on the subject matter of inquiry; also, all other correspondence and copies of correspondence in his possession which may tend to show any relation of such officers to the business transactions referred to in the resolution of the House, under which the investigation is being made. Further investigation has been postponed until Saturday. Shipherd will return to New York this afternoon to arrange the papers, in accordance with the decision of the committee.

The President has been notified that Judge Blatchford accepts the Associate Justiceship.

FLORIDA ALLIGATORS.

Their Food, Their Habits and Their Commercial Value.

Buffalo Courier.

The alligators are mostly of the red-eyed species, which are noted for their size and ferocity, and, when met on land, are not much disposed to turn out of their course for anything, so that not many people care to meet them in their rambles. An immense fellow who lay about 200 feet from the shore, allowed us to paddle within 200 feet of him, so I had a fine view of his vicious eyes and general ugliness. It was fully two feet from his nostrils to his eyes, and he must have been nearly, if not quite twelve feet long. As we approached nearer he settled slowly out of sight, sinking so easily as to not cause a ripple upon the almost glassy surface of the waters, as he disappeared. It seems that these strange creatures are almost as much at home on land as in the water and, contrary to my previous understanding of their habits, they are frequently found a mile from any body of water, especially at night, when they wander about from one pool or lake to another. They are very destructive of stock, and are, especially fond of hogs, and, as all stock runs at large in this country, they catch great numbers of them. Calves and yearlings are also a favorite diet of these monsters, and even full grown cows and steers are frequently pulled into the lake by them and devoured. Whenever you see a bob-tailed cow in Florida, which is not infrequently the case near the numerous lakes and ponds, it is safe to presume that she had been wrestling with an alligator, and would, if she could, "a tale unfold." A gentleman living about two miles from Lochloosa lake, told me that on one occasion he was driving a lot of cattle across a stream that empties into it, when all at once they began running and bellowing. Running forward, he saw an immense alligator had seized a fine yearling, not by the tail, but by the body, being so large that he had actually grasped the yearling's body in his mouth, as a pig would an ear of corn. And although he could not, of course, raise it from the ground he did by his weight and the strength of his huge jaws crush it to the earth. The owner of the cattle tried to make the 'gator let go his hold by striking him over the head with his cow whip. Failing in this, he rode rapidly back for his gun and was followed on his return by his dog. By this time the alligator had released his hold, and the yearling lay in the road nearly dead. Riding up within twenty feet, the gentleman discharged a heavy load of buckshot at the alligator's head, which only served to infuriate the brute, and he at once made a rush at the dog. Thereupon the gentleman approached until he could almost touch the 'gator with the muzzle of his gun and discharged the barrel at a point just back of the shoulder, causing the animal to retreat into the bushes, and he was found next morning on the shore of lake stiff and dead. He measured fifteen feet in length.

Alligators are being hunted very extensively of late for their teeth and hides. Their teeth are mounted with gold and made into ear-rings, necklaces, watch-charms, etc., and are worth from $1 to $5 per pound. The hides are worth $1 to $1.50 each, green. Over 400 have been killed in Lochloosa Lake alone. Firehunting at night is the most successful mode of capturing them, if not the safest. Two men and a boat are required. One paddles, while the other has an immense bull's-eye lantern fastened on top of his head, the light of which attracts the 'gators to the surface and blinds them, so that the boat can be run right against them. Then the man with the light thrusts the muzzle of a heavy caliber rifle within six inches of the creature's head and fires, immediately proceeding to haul him aboard, to which effort the 'gator lends what strength he may have left; his great desire on being mortally hurt is to get out of the water. And if he once feels the boat after being shot, he will attempt to climb in himself, if not entirely dead. A native alligator hunter whom I met on the shore of the lake yesterday, told me that he had seen as many as eighty 'gators at one time during one of these night hunts, and that he could hear and feel their noses "plump" against his boat as they swam rapidly toward the light, their eyes being too much dazzled to distinguish the boat until they ran against it. On coming so abruptly in contact with the boat's sides they would back off a little distance to investigate.

Nearly Killed by Cigarettes.

[Richmond Whig.]

The Whig published several days ago a telegram from Knoxville, stating that Cadet Parham Adams, of the academy at that place, was at the point of death in consequence of absorbing the poison of forty cigarettes which he had, on a wager, smoked one after another. The case turns out to be a most remarkable one. Adams died, as everybody supposed, at 8 o'clock Monday morning. The body was prepared for burial and a coffin purchased. Three hours after his supposed decease, and in the midst of active preparations for the entombment of the body, a bystander observed a peculiar spasmodic movement of one of the limbs. A doctor was quickly summoned; other evidences of vitality were discovered. In time, by the prompt and vigorous application of the proper restoratives, the supposed corpse was revived. His condition was, however still very precarious, but he continued to improve, and at last accounts strong hopes were entertained for his complete recovery. Cadet Adams will probably foreswear cigarettes after this. Coming so near being the cause of his burial alive, one would think the very sight or smell of a cigarette would send a cold shudder through his frame.

A large and valuable hen on the Bowers place, near West Rome, N. Y. was unable to eat and its crop became swollen to an enormous size. The crop was cut open and a large matted bunch of hog's bristles was removed. The crop was then sewed up and at the last accounts the hen was doing well.

Mr. W. J. Fowler, Henrietta, N. Y., realizes last year from his quince crop at the rate of $500 per acre.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER.

DARBY'S

Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great

DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER

PREPARED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

DR. BUTTS DISPENSARY.

Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of Experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE Producing affections of the blood, skin or bones, treated with success, on scientific principles, without using Mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.

YOUNG MEN and those of middle age who are suffering from organic weakness that unfits its victims for business or marriage, permanently cured, at moderate expense.

PATIENTS TREATED by Mail and Express but where possible personal consultation is preferred, which is FREE and invited. List of questions to be answered by patients desiring treatment mailed free to any address on application.

(Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.) Communications strictly confidential, and should be addressed DR. BUTTS, 12 North 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.

USE KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!

Every Style & Price.

Guaranteed Unequaled FOR

OPERATION, ECONOMY, DURABILITY and WORKMANSHIP.

Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.

Always Reliable.

POPULAR EVERYWHERE.

For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS

And the BEST MACHINERY in the WORLD for BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!

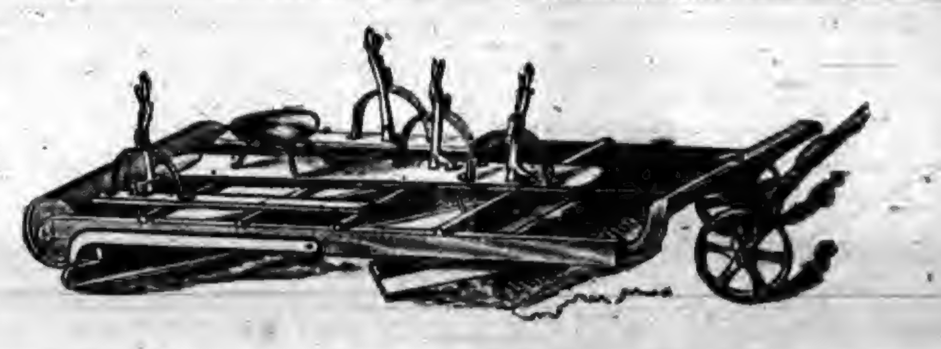
BOOK FREE. Address LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

NEVER FAILS

FREE! RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.



THE UNITED STATES MAIL BRINGS A SEED STORE

LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS

Founded 1784.

To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

Minneapolis
ST. PAUL
MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
IOWA
ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
KANSAS CITY
ATCHISON
LEAVENWORTH
OMAHA
COUNCIL BLUFFS
PEORIA

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C. B. and Q. R. Rds.
At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.
At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.
At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb. and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.
At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

For information not obtainable at your home office, address,

R. R. CABLE, Vice President and General Manager.
E. ST. JOHN, General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., MARCH 23, 1882

STEUBEN county has lost an aged citizen, J. C. Hawk, who was a soldier under the First Napoleon in the wars between France and Russia. He was ninety-two years old at his death, and was born in Germany.

UNDER the new apportionment bill Vermont will have but one representative in congress. At one time it had six, but each time the ratio of representation as raised, the number of members from that state decreased, as their population has been at a stand still or worse.

ONLY about 250 or 300 of the Seminole Indians now remain in Florida, but they have the same wild, half savage habits they had when the great bulk of them were removed from the state in 1836. The only improvment seems to be in a better style of huts for homes, but they like whisky as well as ever.

COOKE, one of the assistant prosecuting attorneys in the star route cases, has resigned and quit. He claims that the others engaged in the prosecutions did not seem in a hurry to push things, and that Arthur himself does not seem to care about it. In short he says they evidently wished to freeze him out.

SCOVILLE is going to retire from all part in managing Guiteau's case immediately after the bill exceptions is filed. He is evidently of the opinion that he has done all that can be expected of him to do for his unworthy brother in-law, and will let the other lawyers who are associated with him in the case try what they can do.

THERE is likely to be trouble in the Indian Territory, especially with the Cherokees. They are greatly excited about the intentions of congress to grant the right of way through their lands, to certain railroads. They lay a great part of the blame to some of their own people who are in Washington, and who are giving the railroads encouragement.

A good minister at Kokomo preached a sermon on peace-making and aimed at two of the deacons of his church who had long been at sword's points, and such was his eloquence and earnestness that directly after the benediction was pronounced, one of the deacons went over to the other and remarked with tears in his eyes, "Brother Stiggins, after such a sermon there must be peace between us. Now I can,t give in, so you must."

THE congressional committee to which was referred the matter of making a special appropriation to pay the expense of the Garfield funeral, are having some trouble. They are all willing to have the government pay the car fare of the members of congress who composed the train, but a part of them refuse to allow the bill for wine and other soothing drinks consumed by the mourning members. If this bill is allowed, there should be invented a new tipple, a regular mourning beverage, that will be cheap enough to enable the poor congressman to pay for his own drunks.

"A FREE ballot" has been the cry of republicans for a while past, and to show the hollowness of these professions we take the following from one of our exchanges. "In republican Rhode Island foreignborn citizen can not vote unless he has been in this country twenty-one years and is the owner of real estate to the value of $134. This so-called republicanism as it really is. And in republican New Hampshire no person is eligible to any office however small, unless he be of the Protestant religion. Catholics, disbelievers and doubters are all proscribed and debarred from equal rights as citizens for the time of free thought. Verily what a progressive equal rights party this republican party is."

THE suffering in the flooded districts along the Mississippi and its lower tributaries is still increasing although it is now thought that it has reached its highest point, and is going down. Still it will be weeks at the very best before the waters subside so as to enable the people to return to their homes. And when they do return they will find every thing destroyed. Hundreds of families are still living on rafts eating the bodies of such dead animals as the waters bring within their reach. Steamboats and other craft are taking them away as fast as possible, but the great extent of the flooded districts makes it a doubtful question whether all can be reached in time to save them from starving. The War department is issuing tents and rations to those who can be reached, and the more fortunate people are helping their neighbors in every possible way.

AN exchange has the following: The old saying "Vengence is sweet" was illustrated recently in a singular manner. A party of young folks was assembled, one evening, at a private residence, and a general good time indulged in. When the hour to go home came, only one of the young gentlemen escorted a lady, the rest of the boys being ungallant enough to let the young ladies go home alone. Last Saturday night the same company assembled at another residence. Merriment ruled supreme. The boys were unusually jolly, in blissful ignorance of the plot about to be sprung upon them. Promptly at 10 o'clock there was a knock at the door and a little urchin appeared and asked for his sister, saying he had, come to take her home. She went. A few minutes later another lad arrived, also to escort his sister, and thus it continued until every young lady was gone—gone home with her brother. When the door had closed on the last feminine form, the outwitted boys formed a sad-looking procession, and marched home to slow music. It was a cruel joke on the boys.

Additional Local.

—Drummers are numerous.

—Court adjourned last week.

—Four-horse teams are a common thing.

—The butchers complain of the scarcity of stock.

The north end "pest house" will be renovated next week.

—Dr. Swartz and family will move to Butler in a short time.

—We notice that our merchants are receiving spring goods.

—Mrs. A. J. Little is receiving her spring stock of millinery goods.

—Ezra Ensley and wife returned from their visit in Smithfield Tuesday.

—Dr. Littlefield, city physician, waits upon the scarlet fever sufferers.

—Hank Shull turned himself into a milk wagon, and moved from one to another of his customers through the cold and mud, this week.

—J. J. Martin and family will probably take up their quarters in Albion this week. He will furnish a room in which to have a temporary home until a more suitable dwelling can be had.

That poor bedridden, invalid wife, sister, mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health by a few bottles of Hop Bitters. Will you let them suffer? when so easily cured.

—The assessors will meet in the office of Auditor Robbins March 31, at 10 o'clock a. m., to arrange for a uniform rate of assessment, and to consult about such other matters as are of interest to them.

—An Elkhart lady used flake white to beautify (?) her face and arms. She now suffers for her fashionable folly, as she was terribly poisoned. You girls that paint should take great care in selecting your "pizen."

The township trustees will meet to settle with the commissioners, April 10. They will also make their report of enumeration of school children, at the same time in the office of the county superintendent.

—We are indebted to R. D. Lamson, of York Nebraska for late numbers of the papers published there. Judging from these, we should say York is a lively place, with plenty of good business men.

—Our enterprising teachers have been spending part of their vacation in visiting the graded schools in the other towns in this county. This is as it should be. Teachers get a great deal of valuable information by comparing the work of others with their own.

—When a subscriber gets a good paper, one that is anxiously looked for each week, what a pleasant expression and a look of willingness they show in paying for it when the time expires. At least this is the experience with our patrons.

A law passed by the last Indiana legislature provides that any woman, married or single, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, and possessing the qualifications prescribed for men, shall be eligible to any office under the general or special laws of this State.

—Holders of DeKalb county orders are hereby notified that all orders registered prior to August 1st, 1880, will be redeemed if presented at the treasurers office in said county. No interest will be paid on said orders after the date of publication of this notice. L. J. MILLER, Treasurer.

A very large and unique present was given a Huntertown girl Tuesday evening by a well-known ex-railroad official. It consisted of twenty-four sections of Sidel's best ginger bread. A verbal message accompined the little token of regard to the effect the actions speak louder than words.—Sunday Mail.

—This is a boy's composition on girls: "Girls are the only folks that have their own way every time. Girls is of several thousand kinds. And sometimes one girl can be like several thousand girls if she wants anything. This is all I know about girls, and father says the less I know about them the better off I am."

—We are under obligations to G. W. Downs for specimens of the papers published at his present home Clay Center, Kansas. Enclosed we also found a pair Jack rabbit ears, a sort of appendage that adorns the ears of a porton of the inhabitants of that famous state. Thanks G. W., we will keep them as a constant reminder of the editor with whom we had our last quarrel.

—J. P. Ensley closed his school at the Junction Friday last. A great many visitors were present and many of the people of the district. The closing exercises were speeches, declamations, and the reading of two school papers, one by Miss Valleau and the other by Wm. Link. Both were creditable productions, and were well received. By a letter from J. J. Martin, the money remaining on hand from the festival of last Christmas, was expended in candy for the little ones. This was distributed at the close of the school, after which Mr. Ensley gave each of his pupils a fine chromo card.

An Enthusiastic Endorsement.

GORHAM, N. H., July 14, 1879.

Gents—Whoever you are I don't know; but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in this world of adulteration of medicines there is one compound that proves and does all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of palsy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change; another did so change my nerves that they are now as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. Now, if you continue to manufacture as honest and good an article as you do, you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind.

2t. TIM BURCH.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

J. A. Boozer and Mr Spear have a nice new line fence.

Mrs. Sanders expects to move to her new home near Angola, in a short time.

Freeman Kelley, is reported to be quite sick, and fears are entertained as to his recovery.

The telegraph offices at the L. S. & M. S. and J. & F. W. are now connected by wire.

Geo. Morell has returned to Marion Iowa, after a pleasand visit with his parents and friends.

Miss Lou Patterson has returned from Ohio, where she has been spending the winter.

Miss Judd of Chicago, and Miss Low of Wolcotville, are visiting with Mrs. Uriah Zerkle this week.

R. M. Lockhart has sold his land near Summit, after deriving a fair profit from a part of the timber.

J. H. Moore, has secured a position in a mill at Goshen, and will remove his family there in a few weeks.

J. S. Bowers has sold his residence on south Wayne street, to Mr. Bowlby of Smithfield township consideration $1,000

R. M. Lockhart is about to make various improvements on his residence among which we learn will be a new slate roof.

John Leas, together with his two sons, Jacob and Obe, have gone to Canada to buy horses. They expect to return with some fine stock.

Mrs. L. M. Ensley, of Smithfield, has sold her farm and expects soon to move into town. She thinks some of buying Mr. Reiner's property.

Brand and Duncan have the thanks of the COURIER for a nice lot of apples. They evidently understood of the COURIER folks about this time of the year.

Rev. M. Baldwin, of the U. B. church is here on a visit, accompined by his wife, who is connected with the Woman's Board of Missions of that church.

Mr. Mergy found it hard sailing against the wind with a wheelbarrow loaded with brooms. All this happened Tuesday, but Mergy conquered as he generally does.

Fred Haskins says it rained Monday. If we did not know Fred to be a man of truth and veracity, we could hardly forgive him for trying to impose on our innocence.

Mrs. Keester of Dayton Ohio, editress of the Woman's Evangel, lectured in the U. B. church Sunday evening, in the interest of the Womens Board of Missions, of the U. B. church, organized a society with Mrs. Isaac Speer, as president.

J. D. Campbell, wishes to have it understood that he is not the Campbell, mentioned in last weeks COURIER as having been fined for getting drunk. The COURIER hastens to correct any impressions of this kind, as, our Mr. Campbell is not a drinking man, and never has been known to be drunk.

ST. JOE.

Richard Culbertson will move to Butler in a short time.

Joseph Lounbery and lady Sundayed in Hicksville.

A little child of J. A. Conrad is dangerously sick with brain fever.

As the time approaches for the spring election, the fire waxeth hot.

Shade tree planting has been the order of the day for the past week.

James Malone and daughter, who have been dangerously sick for some time, are slowly recovering.

M. E. O. would like to trade his share in a certain mule for sombody's farm. Don't all come at once.

Phi. Smith, of Newville, was in town last Saturday. By-the-way, we learn that our friend Philander has purchased a farm near Newville, and will henceforth devote his time to agriculture.

While out on a prospecting tour a few days ago, we chanced to pass the farm of C. C. Walters and found him busily engaged in the manufacture of maple sugar. Cy. is one of those whole-souled fellows, and always has plenty of company.

Lemuel Flint, one of DeKalb's oldest pioneers, has passed away. Uncle Flint, as he was familiarly called, has gone to reap his reward. He has been almost helpless for the past fifteen years, and in all that time was never heard to complain, but bore his affliction with true christian fortitude. He leaves four children, many grand-children and an army of friends to mourn his loss; but their loss is his gain. Peace to his ashes.

CONCORD.

Eliza Spears is whiling away a few days in Michigan.

Lewis Howy spent last week in Waterloo visiting friends.

John Jenkins sold one of his farms to Wm. Krise for $1,500.

Little Harvey Farwell is slowly recovering from lung fever.

Miss Josie Smith is home spending a few days with her ma.

Preaching at the church Friday evening and continues over Sunday.

H. Garrett is selling goods at reduced prices to make room for spring stock.

Mr. A. Johnson and family, of Spencerville, visited Miss Millie Morr last sabbath.

Mrs. E. Widney and Mrs. L. Bradley visited their sister at Auburn last Thursday.

Mrs. Bowman, of Butler, was the guest of Mrs. Jacob Baker last Saturday and Sunday.

The mud blockade and flour famine compelled the farmers to hitch up four-horse teams.

J. H. St. Clair and wife have relinquished their claims on school-rooms and settled on their farm.

Daniel and Jacoo Baker have made some nice improvements on their farms. If some of the other farmers would do likewise, their farms would not have such a dilapidated appearance.

TRUSTEES.—According to a recent discussion, trustees who are candidates for re-election cannot serve as inspectors at the township elections. An inspector may be appointed on the morning of the election, in the manner provided by law.

Township Caucuses.

Wilmington township Democrats will hold their caucus for the nomination of township officers, at Butler, on Saturday, March 25, at one o'clock p. m.
COMMITTEE.

The democrats of Jackson township will hold a caucus at Center school house, March 25, 1 p. m.

Union township democrats will hold their caucus for the nomination of township officers at Auburn on Wednesday March 29th, one p. m. COM.

The democrats of Butler township will hold their caucus, at the school house No. 2, Butler Center, on Saturday April 1, 1882, at 2 p. m. COM.

The democrats greenbackers, and all others who are willing to unite with them to secure an honest administration of public affairs, are requested to meet in caucus at Smithfield Center, school house on Friday March 14, 1882, at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of nominating township officers for the ensuing two years. COM.

The democrats of Richland township will meet at the school house one mile south of Corunna, on Monday March 27th, 1882, at 2 o'clock p. m. to nominate candidates for township officers and other business. COM.

The democrats of Concord township will hold their caucus at the school-house in St. Joe, April 1, 1882, at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating township officers. COM.

The democrats of Franklin township will hold a caucus for the nomination of township officers, on Saturday, March 25, at Center school house, 1 p. m.

THE bill for the admission of Dakota now before the senate, and which they think will pass; provides that a census of the population of southern Dakota shall be taken during the coming summer, and if its population is sufficient to entitle that part of the territory to a representative in congress it shall be admitted as a state, the present territorial government to continue, and the territory remaining to be called North Dakota.

—The Burch plow! The BURCH PLOW!! 10-4t

THE BURCH PLOW.

SPECIAL REASONS WHY THE BURCH PLOW IS DEMONSTRATED TO BE THE BEST PLOW IN THE MARKET.

1st. No other plow will do the same work and do it as well with the same draft.

2nd. No other plow will work as well, both in soft and hard ground, working well in hard ground where other plows will not work at all.

3rd. No other plow holds as easy, runs as steadily or cleans the furrows out as nicely.

4th. No other plow is as cheap, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. Our steel plows are made of the best quality of cast steel, the most costly steel put into plows, possessing the best scouring qualities and wearing from two to three times as long as common steel plows. Also have the same plow in chilled metal. Call and see the Burch Plow.

W. H. KIBLINGER,
Auburn, Ind.

Ditch Views.

The following are dates for viewers to meet at surveyor's office to make final reports on the following named drains:

Boren drain April 10, 1882.
Maxwell " " 11, "
Beinig " " 17, "
Barlet " " 20, "
Comesky " May 10, "
Smith " " 11, "
Sawvel " " 12, "

The following times set for making reviews with names of reviewers:

Peters drain, Keyser township, April 10, 1882. Reviewers, G. W. Hanes, Clark Parker and John Boyle.

Coyle drain, Fairfield township, May 9, 1882. Reviewers, Freeman Kelley, William Kennedy and Reuben Daniels.

The following new petitions were presented, viewers appointed and time set for making view:

Wilmington township—Viewers, Wm. Blair, Clark Parker and John Wilson, March 16, 1882.

Wilmington township—Viewers, Wm. Blair, G. W. Hanes and John Boyle, March 14, 1882.

Jackson township—Viewers, Silas Brandon, C. Sheets and Wm. Carr, March 20, 1882.

Jackson township—Viewers, Silas Brandon, C. Sheets and Wm. Carr, March 23, 1882.

Smithfield township—Viewers, William Kennedy, R. Daniels and J. R. Walker, March 27, 1882.

Richland and Union townships—Viewers, R. N. Crooks, R. S. S. Reed and J. J. Latson, March 30, 1882.

Ginder drain, Wilmington township—Viewers, Joseph Wilson, Henry Dinkerhoff and D. Bordner, April 4, 1882.

Baker drain, Concord township—Viewers, Wm. Blair, G. W. Hanes and John Boyle, April 7, 1882.

Fulk drain, Union township—Viewers, J. J. Latson, C. Sheets and Wm. Carr, April 10, 1882.

Baughman drain, Union township—Viewers, J. J. Latson, C. Sheets and Wm. Carr, April 12, 1882.

J. S. Barnes drain, Keyser township—Viewers, J. R. Moody, R. N. Crooks and R. S. S. Reed, April 24, 1882.

L. Hewit drain, Richland township—Viewers, J. R. Moody, R. N. Crooks and R. S. S. Reed, April 29, 1882.

The following meet at Auburn: Fulk, Rectenwalt and Boughman drains. The Barnes drain meets at Garrett, and all others at site.
A. P. FOLTZ, Surveyor.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county—In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1882.
Mary Hennessey and James Hennessey, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to declare a lien, by Lewis R. Wasson, administrator of the estate of Phebe Monroe, deceased; and that the same will be heard and determined on the second juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 15, 1882.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 21st day of March, 1882.

JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
W. H. Dills, Attorney. 12-3w.

STILL AT THE FRONT!

-THE-

POPULAR STORE!

-OF-

ISAAC OCHS!

Has an IMMENSE STOCK of all kinds of

DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

SAMPLE PRICES:

GOOD PRINTS - - - - - 5 cents
BEST SHIRTING - - - - - 10 cents
GOOD MUSLIN - - - - - 6 cents

Everything else in proportion.

Big line of Ladies' Cloaks, Dolmans, Shawls, etc.—Elegant Styles and Terribl Cheap. Men's, Boys' and Children's Overcoats and Suits. Immense Stock, and Nobody can

UNDERSELL ME!

Big line of Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps—CHEAP. Boots and Shoes Regardless of Cost. THEY MUST GO.

GROCERES--I'VE GOT THEM!

SAMPLE PRICES:

Granulated Sugar	11c. per lb	Best Japan Tea	45c. per lb
Coffee A Sugar	10c per lb.	Choice Japan Tea Dust	22c. perlb
Coffee C Sugar	9c. per lb.	Extra Choice Gunpowder	65c. perlb
Good Brown Sugar	8c. per lb.	Good Smoking Tobacco	30c. perlb
Best Syrup	65c. a gal.	Choice Fine Cut	50c. per lb
Best Rio Coffee 18c. per lb. 6 for	$1.00	Best Plug	70c. per lb
Good Rio Coffee 15c. per lb.	7 for $1.00	Carolina Rice	8c. per lb
Arbuckle's Ariosa	18c. per lb.	Best Crackers	8c. per lb
Best Saleratus	7c. per lb.	Corn Starch	9c. per lb

Silver Gloss Starch 9c. per pound.
Everything Else in proportion.

Pay Highest Prices for Produce at the Popular Store
ISAAC OCHS.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED

The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed!"

Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of

BEAUTIFUL STYLES
—OF—
SPRING CLOTHING,

Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,
Clocks, Clocks,
Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons,
Forks, Forks,
Knives, Knives,
Chains, Cnains,
Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Job work, cash.

—The jail is unoccupied.

—Shut up thoes porkers.

—Trim up the shade trees.

—A rainy night for the show.

—Joe Beugnot has "shed off."

—Days about twelve hours long.

—The new nickels, 1882, are out.

—It rains on the just and unjust.

—Save up the hen fruit for Easter.

—The building boom will soon begin.

—The B. & O. road runs a night mail.

—Joe Raimer has bought Rev. Norris' horse.

—Nice fish are being caught in Cedar Creek.

—We will soon March out of this month.

—George Baldock works with Knoder.

—We are entirely free from smallpox or varioloid.

—The road superintendent is good for two years.

—If you don't collar your dog, the constable will.

—The stallions receive extraordinary attention now.

—A number of our citizens are out of wood and feed.

—Has the weather been lingering in the lap of spring?

—The treasurer reports a good deal of taxes coming in.

—Will the court square have a new fence this summer?

—The custom of having a party every evening is dying away.

—The foundry, in the south end, is in a flourishing condition.

—There is talk of a knitting factory locating at Bristol, Indiana.

—Trade was dull last Saturday. It was a disagreeable, rainy day.

—Mr. Gordon will give a concert at the close of the singing school.

—Last Sunday was a beautiful day and every one was out walking.

—The Central House seems to be the favorite among show companies.

—Some of our tobacco dealers refused to sell the weed last Sunday.

—The grass in the court-house yard begins to show a green appearance.

—"They say" rain is good for crops. We ought to have good crops, sure.

—Guess the ground-hog was about right. We have had six weeks, sure.

—The census of Auburn shows a population of 1,706. Soon be a city, eh?

—Johnnie Hebel will move his little store by the side of Pommert's barber shop.

—An effort is being made through the supreme court to give Cooke a new trial.

—Some new iron fencing was unloaded at D. D. Snyder's residence this week.

—Milo Gunsenhouser, of the Republican, has moved to west Ninth street.

—The construction train on the Wabash is expected to be put on the road this week.

—But a few teams were in Saturday. A number of farmers came in on foot, however.

-A stock of organs has been put into the room recently vacated by Miss Cleveland.

—It will be no part of our next Assessor's duty to make any assessment of real estate.

—Fatty Umber has a patent on carrying babies. It must be seen to be appreciated.

—Don't forget the Courier when you want horse bills. Come up and see our cuts.

—And now they have an Oscar Wilde collar for "gentlemen." "I should slobber to smile."

—Several drunks in town Saturday. Thought it was against the law to get "over stocked."

—The auction Saturday had a large crowd. There's nothing like advertising thoroughly.

—We have neglected to state that Toad Latson has become a shaver—barber, we mean.

—The name of R. H. Rerick swings at the head of the Lagrange Standard as assistant editor.

—Watch the columns of the Courier closely. Spring advertisements will soon spring up.

—We have some prohibition temperance men. Dont know whether there is an office in it or not.

—We need more dwelling houses. Nearly every day we hear some one asking for a vacant house.

—The country schools are closing, judging from the number of pedagogues on the streets daily.

—We couldn't supply the demand for the Courier last week, although we worked off a number of extas.

—Did it ever rain fast enough or freeze hard enough to keep the young ladies at home on Saturday afternoon?

—They had an old fashioned spelling school at the Junction last Friday evening. We did not learn who came out ahead.

—The fireman at the hub and spoke factory got "bounced" for thrashing the foreman. He ought to have kept down his "steam."

—Look out for a big business boom in a few weeks. Prepare your advertisements and give the people an invitation to call on you.

—George Foster is not very particular where he tarries, and took up quarters in the "cooler." He paid $12 for his night's lodging.

—Billy Murphy has engaged a painter and will begin work in earnest now. Billy is a boss dauber, and one ob de best whitewasher in de land.'

—We hope the friends of temperance will encourage the movement of those who are now interesting themselves in organizing a temperance union.

—The stave factory, hub and spoke factory and scythe-snath factory, alike with our saw mills, have been shut down for two weeks for want of material.

—The parties who took two volumes of Medical Jurisprudence, either from the court house or office, will oblige Dr. J. A. Cowan by returning the same.

—Old Sol has stepped over the line, and we can now console ourselves with the fact that better weather will greet us. Vennor can have vacation now.

—Chris. Baldock has a young bull dog (untagged) which he takes considerable pride in. The owner can have the same by making the facts known.

—Kendallville is said to have a case of smallpox. If it does no more harm than the "case" we had, it will have but little weight upon the trade of the town.

—Mrs. Helen Beck, the wife of a prominent Methodist preacher at Fort Wayne, jumped the country with a postal clerk named J. C. Brackenridge last week.

—The livery men have had a big expense on their hands this winter. This is the campaign year, however, and business will be brisk during the summer and fall.

—There is a young married couple, in the north end, that should not deal so extensively in "taffy" in open daylight. The boys down town have a big laugh at their expense.

—Some reckless fellow distributed a deck of cards over Houston's sidewalk. It was a mean trick, as all the pious people in the west end walk up and down Seventh street.

—The force of men who manage the pile-driver on the Wabash road have been making Auburn their headquarters for a couple of weeks. The engine is a curiousity indeed.

—The singing school now going on at the Lutheran church is under a successful motion. We get our information from Ora Shaffer, who relishes a musical treat as well as he does a boiled dinner.

—Constable Smith has ordered a couple of cannons, and if you want to see the carcass of your "purp" lie moldering in the grave, just let him loose after the first of April without a collar and tag on.

—F. E. Davenport is tearing out the partition in his drug store, making one room the length of the building. We thought Frank was going to build a brick, but like some other "great men" we were mistaken.

—We learned that little Sammy Ralston entertained her young friends very courteously, one evening last week. Sammy is a bright little girl, full of mirth and life, and is an entertainer of some note for one so tender in years.

—The attorney general says that road superintendents to be elected this spring must live outside of any incorporated town in the township, and that people living in corporations cannot participate in their selection.

—T. D. Gross is papering, painting and otherwise fixing up his room for the convenience of his customers. Tom is full of life and enterprise and will not be outdone by his competitors. He is a good landlord and buys choice stock.

—Hod. Kircher, the barber over Tarney's meat market, it is rumored, has received a legacy of $5,000 from his father's estate. We opine that Hod. will gradually draw away from the razor and strap, lay back on his oars and put on "stile."

—The trial between Serfice vs. Shearer & Wilson, at Fort Wayne, seems to be of considerable interest. Auburn contractors are said to have gone back on each other, and loud talk is indulged in by the workmen who were employed on the job. J. E. Rose appeared for the defendants this week, assisted by Mr. Zollars, of Fort Wayne.

—Now while our patrons are paying their first installment of taxes, we hope they will not forget the little amount due the Courier. Many would pay more promptly if they came to Auburn oftener, and as each one has to come twice a year it would be a splendid time to settle. Printing offices experience a dull period through the summer months and the money that is due us would be very acceptable.

Growing Less.

There have been no new cases of scarlet fever reported up to this writing and the prospects are that we will soon be entirely free from the plague. Thus far it has all been confined to the citizens of the north end, and through their carefulness the disease will in no sense become epidemic.

Not Necessary.

The has been some talk of dismissing the schools on account of the scarlet fever. We don't see any necessity for this movement, as it is claimed by our best medical men that the disease is in the air, and some children who have had it were never exposed in anyway whatever. The worst has past now and but little fears of its spreading are entertained, there only being one case reported, and there has only been one death.

Burglary.

McQuiston & Ralston's dry goods and grocery store was entered by burglars last week, who relieved the safe of $113 and the show-case of four silk handkerchiefs. They gained an entrance at the rear door, and everything connected with the theft shows plainly that they had looked about the store previous to entering. We have been troubled so little with professional theives that this transaction created quite an excitement.

Wake up, Boys.

Is Charley Smith the only candidate for marshal? Must this old man, with wrinkled brow and silvery hair, march into the broad political field alone and unarmed? Will not some one "buck" against him at the caucus, just to try his strength, you know. However, Charley will make a good, faithful officer, and after a little taming and training by the b'hoys who have been under the Scott administration, he will be a general favorite among both democrats and republicans.

Gradually Leaving.

It is a noticable fact that we have been having an unusual number of deaths within the past few weeks, and the majority seem to be among those who are well along in years. What are all regrets compared with the anguish of having parted from a friend with unkind and cruel words? It may have been those words were uttered carelessly, lightly, as the wild and wanton breeze sweeps by; but they leave a pain, as the breeze leaves some scattered rose-leaves to mark its track. Be kind and respectful to the old.

Good-bye, John.

With an aching breast and a tear on our pencil, we are called upon to write a temporary obituary for our fellow citizen John Bunch. He has engaged himself for the summer to a show company who will exhibit him under a canvas for his peculiar make-up. He will be dressed in tights and his "knowledge box" adorned with the latest styled plug hat. John will look too awfully too too. He is about seven feet long, proportioned like a kite string and draws the scales at nearly 200 pounds. We hope he will find the show business pleasant, and leave a record that his children may look up to with dignity and pride.

Better Stop.

We hear of parties every week given to the little folks by their parents for amusement and to advance their social attainments. It is well enough for boys and girls to gather together and pass a pleasant evening in the way of a party; but just now, while the scarlet fever plague is among us, we do not think it prudent to allow children to indulge in entertainments of this character. Some of them may be unknowingly exposed, while on the other hand they may not have been, yet it is the better and safer way, for one and all, to abandon these socials until some future time when contageous diseases are not among us.

Accident.

Harry Henry shot himself through the hand while fooling with a loaded gun. He is not badly hurt, but the chances were only one out of a dozen that he didn't blow his hand entirely off. There are a number of young boys from ten to sixteen years old, who are shooting guns and pistols in a reckless manner every day, and if such things are not soon stopped by the parents, they will witness their "darling" coming home on a shutter some day. Last sabbath our attention was called to some boys who were firing off a gun, an act which the law of Indiana strictly forbids, and we hope to have the matter looked after by their overseers.

The Courier.

It would be pleasant for us to add a large number of names to the Courier list in the next month or two. We have so arranged our inside pages that we can give more reading matter than heretofore and of a better class, more interesting and instructive, and it is now just the paper that is wanted by the sturdy tiller of the soil. After they have labored hard all day, they can rest themselves in the evening by looking over the paper and learn what has happened during the week in the county and state. Many little items of interest each week will meet their gaze which will fully repay for the subscription price of the paper.

On the Road.

The tramp printer, from city offices, is now looking over the rural districts and taking a rest from the noise and "pleasures" of fast life. We have had no less than half a dozen strike us for a square meal in the past two weeks. Printers, however, are not like the ordinary tramp—they always ask for work first and "grub" last. If they miss a freight train by throwing in a "handful" they don't ask the editor to furnish them the wherewith to purchase a first-class ticket, but throw out their shanks and walk to the next station like a little soldier. Tramp printers are "solid" in sunshine or rain, but it is very seldom that we get a "fat take" in any of them.

A Little Slow.

It is not often that Judge Picker is behind time in anything, as he generally paces 'round with the rapidity of a Saginaw freight train—up grade. Last week Judge was on a jury, and taking a little too much time at noon to stow away hash, he came in after court had been called. Your Honor looked at him and said: "Why this tardiness, Mr. Picker?" "Well, yer honor" said Judge, "I got 'alf way 'ere and 'ad to go back again." "What did you have to back for?" questioned the court. "I forgot somethink," said Judge. "What did you forget?" demanded the Boss. "I forgot to kiss the hole woman, han I knew I wood feel bad hall afternoon, so I went back for the sake hov my 'own feelinks." He was excused.

Crossed the River.

Mrs. E. S. Lowrey, whose protracted illness has been mentioned in this paper several times, died last sabbath morning. Mrs Lowrey was a christian lady, a kind, affectionate and devoted mother to her children. Her husband died several years ago, and the family yet remaining is two sons and two daughters. She was 54 years and 11 months old. The funeral was preached by Rev. H. J. Norris on last Tuesday afternoon.

Farewell, mother, with bosoms aching
 We lay thee in the silent tomb;
And turn away, with wrung hearts breaking
 To home, and loneliness, and gloom.

The wintry winds will sigh above thee,
 And spring wreath flowers o'er thy bed;
But never more to those who loved thee,
 Can time restore the loved one dead.

Sudden Death.

Last Saturday morning old Mr. Bartles, whom many of our citizens are acquainted with, was found dead in the outhouse at Chas. Schnell's residence, on north Main street, where he came to visit for a few days. Mr. B. was an old gentleman with strictly temperate habits, and his sudden demise is attributed to heart disease, being apparently in good health a few hours before his death. He made his home with his son in Jackson township and was an industrious, hard working farmer.

INQUEST:

I, James J. Latson, coroner of De-Kalb county, hereby certify that I have made diligent inquiry as to the cause of the sudden decease of John Bartels at the residence of Charles Schnell, in Auburn, March 1882, and am satisfied that his death was not occasioned by violence or casualtty, but from natural cause, and thereupon the examination and professional opinion of Drs. J. H. Ford, J. A. Cowan and D. J. Swarts.

Near Death's Door.

We hear that Fred. Davis had quite a miraculous escape a few days since. The story goes that he was sleeping in the third story of a hotel, in Illinois, when the building took fire. The flames spread so rapidly that it was impossible for Fred. to escape, other than to jump from a window or slide down a lightning rod. He attempted the latter method and reached the ground in safety. A very wealthy man was in the same condition, but there were no lightning rods handy, and he offered the crowd below $5000 if they would arrange a ladder and save him from the wild flames which were then encircling him. The ladder got to him and he also was saved, and when he reached the ground the money was handed over. We give the rumor for what it is worth, but are a little afraid there is too much fire, too much lightning rod and too much money for us to swallow at one dose.

Temperance Meeting.

Last Thursday evening a man named J. W. Williams, of Fort Wayne, was billed to lecture on temperance at the Baptist church. Quite a crowd gathered but John didn't put in appearance—perhaps he couldn't reach the railroad fare. There were several reverend gentlemen present and each one was called upon to make a short speech. They excused themselves, however, saying that they had come there "without a thought on the subject and would not like to attempt a lecture without first collecting their thoughts." The time was then occupied in a business manner, selecting a committee to investigate each lecturer who offers to defend the rights of temperance—find out where he came from, what his former occupation was, etc. W. L. Meese was chosen chairman, and the committee consists of E. D. Hartman, Jacob Walborn, James Griswold and J. W. Baxter. Their object is to organize a temperance union and stand by the side of the prohibition movement, which will be a prominent feature before our next legislature.

About People.

Hank Leah has returned from his vacation trip.

H. C. Miller is troubled with neuralgia in the head.

Mrs. Ochs has had some lady friends visiting with her.

Nicholas Ensley's little son is quite sick with lung fever.

Miss Al. Bigelow, now of Garrett, was in town over Sunday.

F. D. Ryan, esq., is assisting treasurer Miller in his office.

Miss Nettie Baker, of the Junction, visited up town Sunday.

Mr. Cowick, the painter, has recovered from an attack of diphtheria.

It was talked on the streets yesterday that old Mr. Baker was dead.

John Treesh, not a candidate, has been sorely afflicted with boils.

R. H. Weamer, of the Butler Review made us a flying visit Monday.

Henry Maxwell, of Blair, brightened our money department, last week.

"Little Dick" B[illegible]ison, of Garrett, brought over the returns Sunday.

—Miss Jennie Cowan will teach the summer term of the Junction school.

David McNabb, one of the reliable Fairfield folks, was in town last week.

A young man named Cruse, living in the north end, is sick with scarlet fever.

Sim. Tarney has returned home, and says his trip was pleasant and profitable.

Mrs. Etta Casebeer, was visiting in Auburn, Ind., this week.—Edgerton Herald.

Milas Rhodes, of Newville, came upstairs, last Friday, and gave us a financial lift.

Charley Shepherd, insurance agent, now at Hicksville, was on the streets Monday.

We have neglected to mention that Jacob Thomas is again a resident of this place.

Wm. Merica and his son, T. S. Merica, of Garrett, were in town Friday laying in supplies.

Uncle Johnnie Brandon has not been down town this winter. He is getting well along in years.

Mrs. Balsley, of Illinois, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. A. W. Allen, is visiting her parents and friends in town.

Mrs. W. L. Penfield and Mrs. J. K. Culbertson brightened the Courier office with a brief call Tuesday.

A. F. Martin, of Columbia City, was in town last Saturday visiting his son J. J. Martin and other relatives.

W. H. Dills is round again. It's hard for a lawyer to "buck" against a sick case but William gained the day.

S. M. High, of Jackson, called around and subscribed for a reliable paper, last week. We welcome him to our list.

H. G. Zimmerman, esq., of Albion, who has been holding court here this term made us a pleasant call last week.

Seme Rainier and wife, of Ohio, have been in town several days. They came home to attend a funeral in the family.

Wm. A. Goodrich, of Morenci, Mich., called in to see us last week. He likes his new home, but hankers after old DeKalb now and then.

Mrs. G. C. Ralston is engaged in "dishing up" soft food, soup and slob. Coop has had his ivories jerked out, preparatory to the erection of a new outfit.

J. F. Winter, of Heidelberg College, Tiffin, O., called on us Saturday. He is now preaching at the Reform church and will probably take the charge permantly.

Miss Maggie Dolan and Miss Emma Mills, teachers in the Garrett schools, were in town visiting the schools here. They also made a visit to the Butler schools. This shows the right spirit.

David McEntarfer, trackmaster of the Jackson road, was in town Monday. The road has no officer more pleasant and efficient than is Mr. McEntarfer, and what is of value to the company is that he understands his work.

Charley Yandes, son of ex-postmaster Yandes, was in town last week. His mother and Stella are living at Indianapolis, and Otie is with a show company at Cincinnati. Kate has received a divorce from her man, and that once happy family, who spent their more fortunate days in Auburn, are now scattered here and there to the mercies of strangers. Such is life.

We had a pleasant call from Dr. S. L. Williams, of Kendallville, Ind. The Doctor is a member of the board of examiners who are here to examine those now drawing pensions for disabilities incured in the service. The other members are Dr. J. B. Hood, of Washington, Dr. W. G. Gdbrect, a professor in the Fort Wayne Medical College, and two others who are of the U. S. detective service. The Dr. expresses himself pleased at the confidence the people put in the present board, and hopes that the work done will be such as to satisfy all, by its justice and impartiality.

Minstrel Hash.

—"Oh, Romeo!"

—Cal. Houser joined the peanut brigade.

—Bill Ryan swallowed his programme.

—Frank Leas couldn't get a seat on the stage.

—That coon's mouth reminds us that navigation is open.

—Pat Murphy says, "It's good house.' Yes, it's a brick house.

—John Beard was there. "Oh, the yaller gal dat winked at me."

—Judge Jenner wanted his girl to go home when the "elephant" came on the stage.

—The ministrel show made a nice street parade. It takes a "shine" to put on "stile."

Jimmy Baxter must have got "kissed off." He only got about 20 cents worth of the show.

—"Why is a woman like an umbrella?" You can shut up an umbrella and a woman you——.

—The manager was a white man; he parted his hair in the middle—no nigger would do that.

—The colored part of the ministrel show attracted considerable attention for the young tads while on the streets.

The Minstrels.

A good audience appeared at the hall Monday evening to hear the Georgia Minstrels, and all were satisfied with the entertainment. Their jokes are new and spicy, and many movements upon the stage went to show that they had appeared to city audiences. The dancing was fine, but hardly up to the standard of a professional clog and jig. Should the company favor us again in the future with a performance we guarantee them a crowded hall.

Ball and Bat.

If Auburn is to have a base ball club the coming summer, we hope those most interested will organize the nine early in the season, and adorn the champion belt before the weather gets so warm that it makes it difficult for the players to show their skill. (Skill is good). We have the material if they will work together, to "scoop" all amateur nines who dare throw up the copper. But if the organization is carried through the season with a repetition of last year, we may look forward for more defeats than victories. Select a man with vim, one who feels an interest in this sport, to act as manager and captain. If the Courier will be allowed the privilege, it would suggest Mr. W. P. Harter to your humble consideration as captain of the "Auburn Battlers."

A Sad Affair.

A man at Elkhart, named Montgomery, abortionist, plead guilty to manslaughter in the case of the murder of Alice Titus, and was sentenced to eight years imprisonment and $250 fine. The Elkhart Review says: "The transaction ought to impress itself upon the minds of other young women of this city, who are pursuing the course that led to her death. However irksome they may regard the restraints of their parents, they will find it better to submit to them than to follow their own inclinations and seek associations which debase them, if they do not lead to awful crime. We would that all who are traveling the road that she traveled, could have seen her upturned face as she lay ready for the coffin yesterday." If we are not mistaken the writer had a short acquaintance with Alice when she was virtuous and promising, full of glee and every hope for a bright future; but like many of her sex has been led astray by the promises of some vile wretch. It's all over now, however, and upon her tombstone let it be written, "Eternal Rest."

The Pension Question.

We are glad to know that official parties are interesting themselves in the pension business. We have several parties in this place who served their time and were honorably discharged, and who to-day are disabled and in a destitute condition, that have been trying for years to get a pension and as yet have failed. Others who are apparently strong and hearty have been drawing a pension for a number of years, and have had increase of pension, back pension, and are now living an easy life with money drawn from the government treasury. As far as we are concerned we would like to see every soldier, who endured the hardships occasioned by army life, receive a pension, especially those who are the most needy; but we dnot think it right or jus to furnish capital for them to lay back on their oars, when they are capable and strong enough to perform any kind of manual labor.

—How glad I am to see you, my dear. Do you know I'm anxious to know what you are to have new this season," said a society girl to her nearest and most intimate lady friend. "Everything is to be plush. Plush hat, plush pompon, plush basque, plush dress, plush overskirt, plush everything. Oh, I assure you, I shall be a plushing beauty." How Teutonic.

—Tom Scott had a touch of the base ball fever, Friday, and while performing some difficult "catches," and some lightning motions of how the underhanded throwing should be done; a coconut, which he used as a 'bawl,' slipped from his hand and cracked a window in Hollister's restaurant. French plate glass don't cost much, about $75, and makes a very attractive back-stop.

—We publish in to-day's paper a list of the commissioners allowances, which those who are interested in the financial matters of the county can refer to. The county guardians are acting very intelligently as to all things pertaining to public interests and Mr. Rummell, superintendent of the poor farm is alive to the welfare of that institution.

—Miss Rosa Shaffer has closed her winter term of school, in Jackson township. Rosa had a large school, to be managed by a lady teacher, but she handled it in a manner satisfactory to all concerned, and leaves the neighborhood with the good wishes of all.

—We hear that one of our contractors, who is now a witness at Fort Wayne, on the Shearer & Wilson suit, recently ordered 17,000 feet of lumber to side an ordinary farm barn. This amount of lumber would have sided the whole farm.

The Corunna Cornet Band attended Prof. Calkins' dance last Wednesday evening, and played some choice selections on our streets in the afternoon.—Kendallville Standard.

THE OLD STORY.

BY ANNA B. BENSEL.

I was weeping, sad and weary,
And the night was long and dreary,
Endless seeming to my child heart
Longing for the morning light.
Pain and woe full sore were o'er me,
And the shaded lamp before me
Seemed to moan my bitter yearning,
Long ago, one winter night.

Till my mother's soft caressing
Fell upon me like a blessing,
As she told of One who suffered
Bitter throes on Calvary;
Till I hushed my throbs and crying,
On her gentle bosom lying,
While she told me of the Savior
And His death upon the tree.

Told me o'er and o'er the story
Of the Christ-child and His glory,
Of the shepherds' wondrous vision
And the star of promise bright;
Of the humble shed and manger
Cradling the holy stranger;
Of the angels, praises singing,
Long ago one winter night.

Stiller grew my heart's quick beating
As she told me of the meeting
At the tomb, one Sabbath morning,
Of the angels fair and bright.
Then, at last, the story ended,
Up to God a prayer ascended—
Ah, it all comes back so plainly
To my fevered brain to-night!

As upon my couch I languish,
Soothingly upon my anguish,
Like a star that breaks the darkness,
Or a ray of morning light;
Comes the thought of that sweet story
Of the Christ-child and His glory,
That was told to hush my wailing
Long ago, one winter night.

Ah! my burden seemeth lighter,
And the darkness groweth brighter;
Pain and grief no longer o'er me
Their dark wings of sorrow cast;
Christ, my King, forever reigneth,
And my soul no more complaineth;
Christ hath raised the veil of shadows
From my weary heart at last.

—Boston Transcript.

MY DIAMONDS.

On the 9th of May, 1876, I arrived in Austin, Texas, with thirteen diamonds in my possession, the aggregate value of which was fully $100,000. They had been sent to a certain party in New York who had agreed to carry them to San Antonio, Texas, where the purchaser, a wealthy merchant, and the owner of several ranches, lived. They were intended as a present to his only daughter on her birthday, the 10th of May. Every probable provision had been made to get them to the Lone Star State several days in advance of the "auspicious occasion," which was ment to be such a memorable one in the life of the dark-eyed beauty of the romantic old town in which she was born and reared. The first hitch occurred in New York, immeditaely after the diamonds came into the hands of Fred Barrett, the cousin of Miss Barrett, and who, it was arranged, was to deliver them in person to the father. On the very day Fred Barrett opened the wonderful gems to feast his eyes on their beauty, he was taken violently ill. As he was an athletic, vigorous man, with no bad habits, he and his friends supposed that he would be himself in a brief while, but he showed no improvement for several days, and finally sent for me.

"The doctor says I have begun to mend, but that it will be impossible for me to leave my room under ten days. According to the original plan, I would have had ample time to reach uncle's before the 10th, but if those diamonds do not start to-morrow they will be too late for the interesting cermony, and uncle would rather lose a fortune than miss such a pleasure on which his heart it set."

"Why not send them by express? It is quite safe—that is as safe as anything can be in this world."

"I have thought of all that, but the imperative order from uncle was that under no circumstances should the diamonds go by public conveyance. You know that there have been many train and stage robberies in the West and Southwest lately, and these jewels would be too tempting a morsel for some of these gentry. The long and short of it is, I want you to take charge of and deliver them to uncle himself. You have been over the route several times and know the country more thoroughly than I do." To be brief, I accepted the proposal, and, as I stated at the beginning, I reached the capital of Texas on the afternoon of the 9th of May, in the centennial year.

I am naturally cool and free from nervousness, but there was excuse for considerable worriment on my part. Mr. Barrett had been notified by telegraph that a visitor would reach his house on the night of the 10th, which would be in time for the party, but when the preceding evening found the messenger in Austin, that messenger felt it was cutting things altogether too fine for his comfort. It is fully fifty miles from the Texan Capital to San Antonio, and the stage, which left the former city early in the morning, required the entire day to make the journey. The line had been established many years, and there were three changes of teams on the route, four horses always being hitched to the heavy but powerful coach, which very rarely indeed failed to rattle into San Antonio early in the evening. With the late completion of the railroad the Stage Company had found its occupation gone.

It would have been more pleasant for me had another twenty-four hours been at my command, but it was not that which caused so much uneasiness, as the conviction that amounted to an absolute certainty that two men were following me. How in the name of the seven wonders they learned or even suspected that I had such valuable property in my custody, passes my comprehension. The utmost secrecy was used in New York, and the fiery carbon points were carefully wrapped up in a piece of chamois skin, which was securely fastened to a small belt passing around my waist, beneath my clothing, and which was not to be removed until the end of my journey was reached. A person in my situation is naturally suspicious, but I am sure I conducted myself like the majority of the passengers, who were not supposed to be in possession of as much wealth as myself. I kept a close watch on them, observing nothing to cause alarm until after leaving St. Louis over the Iron Mountain Road. I then became so well satisfied that the two sinister looking and well-dressed men were shadowing me, that I declined to retire to my berth and sat up smoking most of the time and wide awake all the way to Texarkana. At that dilapidated town I made the best effort I could originate to throw the hounds off of my trail. I thought I had succeeded for a time, but they turned up at Dallas, and when I registered at the Commercial Hotel their names appeared under mine.

Long before this I had fully concluded that they had fixed on the road between Austin and San Antonio as the one where I should part company with my diamonds and most probably with my life. The chances were so favorable on that lonely route that they merely kept on my trail or rather my company from St Louis to the capital. The situation then was that I was due at a certain point fifty miles away and within twenty-four hours, and two men were determined that my property should never reach there.

After strongly securing the door of my room that night at the hotel I sat down to decide what should be done, for there could be no mistaking the fact that the crisis was at hand. Instead of being mentally tired and worn out from continual strain to which I had been subjected, I never was more prepared for intense thought in all my life. I tipped my chair against the door, sitting with my hand on my loaded revolver, in which position I knew it would be impossible to surprise me, and still thinking and turning over all sorts of plans, I finally dropped asleep and did not open my eyes until daylight. However, when I roused up and looked around me I had fixed upon a line of action. Whether it would take me through or not remained to be seen, but I did not hesitate to follow out the line that I had laid out for myself.

The next morning when the stage with the four vigorous horses halted in front of the hotel the landlord went out and told the driver that I, who had engaged a seat on the outside, was so ill I would not be able to go with them for several days. I was stealthily watching the proceedings from the upper window, and when the heavy vehicle lumbered off it took with it the two men who were following me for the purpose of robbery. My belief was that they would leave the stage at some point on the road and wait until it brought me along when the robbery would take place. There were quite a number of passengers, and I had meditated taking several of them into my confidence, but as they were strangers, perhaps it was well that I refrained.

An hour later I sauntered down Austin avenue and came upon an open wagon, in which a farmer was climbing, as if about to start homeward. As he gathered the the lines in one hand I asked where he lived.

"At New Braunfels—a long ways from here," he answered, in a decided German accent, while he politely paused to see if I had any more questions to ask.

New Braunfels is a German settlement somewhat more than half the distance to San Antonio, and was generally reached by the stage about the middle of the afternoon.

"Are you about to go home?"

He replied that he was.

"I'll give $10 to allow me to ride with you."

He sturdily refused to accept anything, but said I was welcome, though there would be little enjoyment in the trip, as his wagon was without springs and he expected to drive quite rapidly. This suited me, however, and I took my seat beside him. He had some more business after I had placed my valise inside and we drove over the high bridge which spans the Colorado and struck off through the rich lands of southwestern Texas.

I became convinced by the style of the team behind which I was riding that we would pass the stage before reaching New Braunfels, and as I was sure my German friend was an honest fellow I made a confident of him and told him of my dilemma. I had in my possession some very valuable jewelry, and there were two men in the stage ahead who had planned to rob me. He naturally asked how that could be done, when there were over a dozen passengers besides, who were doubtless armed, while I was able to do something in my own defense.

"I see," he answered; "they have an understanding with the James boys, who will stop the stage somewhere along the road."

"The dickens!" I exclaimed, "are the James boys in Texas?"

"I saw them ride through New Braunfels last week, and we shall meet them somewhere along the road."

This was rather disquieting information, but I could only make the best of it. I drew from my valise an old coat and damaged hat, which I donned. In the hat was some froway yellow hair, which I "banged" about my forehead and ears, so that my German friend broke out laughing at my changed appearance.

"Now," said I, "let me hold the reins and you can keep the team going. If I am driving less attention will be attracted to me."

The accommodating fellow complied at once and striking the spirited horse a sharp blow he rattled off over the country at a lively gait. I was considerably disturbed, for I could feel no assurance that the not over brilliant strategem of mine had thrown my dreaded acquaintances off the scent. At the first stopping place where the conveyance changed horses, we were less than an hour behind, so we expected to gain sight of it within a short time.

And sure enough we did. Only a few miles away we saw the stage standing still still on the top of the hill, as if the driver was giving his horses a rest after the heavy pull. There were eighteen passengers as we learned, so that the four animals had an unusually heavy load. So we pushed slowly up the long incline until within a hundred feet of the motionless stage, when my German friend exclaimed:

"Great thunder! That's Jesse James!"

There was one medium sized man sitting on a small Texan pony, with his Winchester rifle cocked and pointed toward the stage. On the other side was another robber, standing close to the vehicle with a cocked revolver in each hand, while a third was superintending the spoliation of the passengers, who were passing over watches, purses and valuables, with the alacrity always displayed on such occasions.

I was so startled by the sight that I drew out to hurry by when Jesse James called to me with a frightful oath to stop where I was and wait until the picnic was over. It is needless to say I complied, and was an absorbed spectator of the robbery. The passengers joked and laughed and tried to hide their possessions in all sorts of places. The James brothers indulged in a few coarse oaths, but offered no violence and were not very exacting in their demands. They took the gold gold watches, diamond rings and such money as was passed out to them, but no passenger was entirely "cleaned out."

When they were through it was plain to me that they were disappointed and they galloped away firing their pistols over their heads, quickly vanishing in the mesquit bush. We passed the stage and arrived at New Braunfels an hour ahead. There I donned my usual clothing, compelled my German friend to accept a gratuity and waited for the stage.

It was rare enjoyment to me when the latter drove up and I entered, to study the expression of the two men who had shadowed me all the way from St. Louis, and had doubtless arranged the robbery for the purpose of making sure of the diamonds I carried with me. They never heard, and unless they come across this sketch, they will never know how it was that the man who carried this concentrated wealth, and whom they left ill in Austin on the 16th of May, 1876, stood on the porch of the hotel in New Braunfels, on the afternoon of the same day when the stage drove up and journeyed with them to San Antonio, where the property was safely placed in the hands of the owner and by him presented to his daughter that same evening.

Prohibition in Maine.

Rev. Washington Gladden in Springfield Republican.

General Dow has much to say about the success of prohibition in preventing drunkenness throught the State of Maine. Other well-informed gentlemen bear the same testimony. This may be true. Certain statistics furnished by Governor Dingley, of the great increase of crime (not including drunkenness) in Maine during the last twenty years have led me to question this conclusion. If crime is the fruit of drunkenness, it is difficult to understand why crime in the whole State should increase so rapidly if there is no increase in drunkenness. I have asked to have these statistics explained, but have yet seen no satisfactory explanation. Perhaps General Dow can furnish one. However, I do not insist on this point. Possibly in the State of Maine as a whole, leaving out two or three of the larger towns, prohibition is successful. Possibly it may be the best law, on the whole, for the State of Maine. But it must not be forgotten that we have, according to the census of 1880, in the State of Massachusetts, a population of 692,863, all dwelling in cities larger than the largest city in Maine. If we add such cities as New Bedford, Taunton, Holyoke and Chelsea, the smallest of which is Haverhill, with a population of 18,475, we have a city population of 874,974. Besides these there are a great many manufacturing towns like North Adams, Brockton and Milford, where the foreign population is large, and where the conditions are much the same as in the cities. Now, the population of the whole State of Maine is 648,945. Our chief difficulty in enforcing liquor laws is in these large cities, whose population vastly exceeds that of the entire State of Maine. The small towns give us much less trouble. In about two-thirds of all the towns in the State we have practical prohibition, for no licenses are granted. The difficulty is in the cities. Now, anything that Gen. Dow can tell us about the methods of suppressing drunkenness in the cities, we shall be glad to hear. He may, perhaps, reflect that the people of Massachusetts have had much better opportunities than he has of studying this phase of the question. Some of them have been led by their studies to have less faith than he has in the method of prohibition; I trust this difference of opinion may not be attributed wholly to a reprobate mind or a depraved heart.

Indiana Leads.

Indianapolis Journal.

But few persons are aware that Indiana is the leading State for car-building, and has the largest manufactory in the world. Yet such are the facts. The Ohio Falls Car-works, at which both passenger and freight equipments are built, employ more men than does the much-talked of Pullman Car Company. There are now in this State eight extensive manufactories, at which cars are built, and attached to four of them are foundries, which cast the wheels and all other cast iron material used in their construction. These works give employment to 5,950 men, according to the January pay rolls, the Ohio Falls Car-works leading, giving employment to 2,160 men. Next comes the Haskell & Barker Car-works at Michigan City, which have more capital invested in their works than the Ohio Falls Car Company, but give employment to a less number of men. The next largest works are located at Terre Haute; fourth, at Cambridge City; fifth, at Indianapolis; sixth, at Lafayette; seventh, at Elkhart; eighth, at Laporte. It may be said that Pennsylvania builds more cars than does Indiana, but to support this statement it would be necessary to include car-works which are owned largely and operated chiefly by the Erie and Pennsylvania railroad companies, but not independent enterprises like the car establishments of Indiana.

The Specter of the Vicksburg Siege

General Landram in a Recent Address.

I remember to have been standing on a knoll in front of my headquarters on a beautiful night listening to the fire of batteries. The moon was out in all its splendor, and the flashes that gleamed from the mouths of a hundred guns could be seen for miles to the right and left. Standing on an adjacent hill to my right a tall figure was seen clothed in white. It seemed to be that of a man at least seven feet high, but the uniform was not that of a soldier. In tones never to be forgotten and that echoed from hill to valley and from valley to hill, the words "Cease firing" was heard from his unearthly-looking figure, as though he was commanding the world and giving the order, "By kingdoms, right wheel." Summoning up all the courage at my command, I hailed him with the inquiry, "Who on earth are you?" The prompt and emphatic response was: "I am General Burbrige's orderly in my night shirt."

The Chinese embassy's cook at Washington buys canvas backs often, and when he has got the birds, chops them up carefully into mince and simmers it slowly in sweet oil.

THE KING OF SIAM.

He Does Care for His Five White Elephants—A Look at the Beasts.

Prof. ward's letter to Rochester Democrat.

"Of course I did not leave the King's palace without going to see his famous white elephants, of which he now possesses five. They are in a long block of buildings at the rear of the arsenal. Here each elephant has an entire, distinct stable appointed to its use, with the sleeping apartments of its score of grooms and feeders in one end. The stable is a large, high hall, with plain floor and walls, and at one end a small, seated Buddah image with little lamps burning in front. The great beast stands on a handsomely built pedestal, raised about a foot from the floor, with it's top just large enough to hold him. On one side of this, near the front and the rear, are two high, stout posts, gilded and otherwise gaudily ornate. To these the royal captive is chained with velvet-covered ropes by one fore and one hind leg. He stands proudly yet restlessly on his contracted throne, and lashes his trunk and sways his heavy head and tusks around in an imperious, lordly manner, trumpeting now and then until the whole hall trembles with the deafening reverberation. His keepers are very attentive, and constantly deal out to him dainty mouthfulls of boananas, pineapples, short sticks of sugar-cane, and little bundles of sweet, fresh grass, from a huge pile of these which is heaped near by. Every one of his wants is assiduously attended to; when he is seen to itch in any part of his body his royal hide is promptly scratched with a small iron, rake-like instrument, with a long handle; his eyes are reverently wiped, and he has a cool sponge bath every hour or two of day or night during the hot season. Over the door of each stable is a large, richly ornamented sign of gold letters, giving the inmate's full regal name and title. This the guide reads to you in reverently hushed breath; indeed, these names, like that of the King, it is not proper for any Siamese to speak aloud.

"Nothing can equal the veneration of this people for the white elephant; the King must have at least one as a palladium for his own life and prosperity of the empire. The real cause of this reverence for the great albino pachyderm is that he is supposed to be the incarnation either of some past or some future Buddah, and will, therefore, bring blessings on the country which possesses and cherishes so great a treasure. Time was when these beasts were duly worshiped by king and people; their stables were palaces; they were fed from golden dishes, and wore heavy gold rings upon their tusks, and were fettered with golden chains. Even now the populace fall with their heads to the ground as they are led out richly caparisoned on state occasions, while the royal officers and even the King himself always make them obeisance in passing. The finder of a white elephant is loaded with honors and emoluments, taking his place at one step among the nobles of the kingdom. They come from the Laos territory far to the north, and are brought down the river on rafts magnificently decked out and accompanied by bands of music and guards of honor. At Agutha, sixty miles up the river, they are met by the King with his entire royal retinue, who in the grandly adorned stage barges, follow the noble beast to its future home, with great parade and rejoicing.

"It is a late moment for me to state that these 'white' elephants have not at all the fullness or the depth of that color which we usually understand, or which the adjective demands. Over most of their body they have the dull, muddy, lead color common to this beast. Only in spots upon their legs and in patches on shoulders, neck and sides of head, and inside of ears the skin is of a dirty cream color, not quite pleasant to look at, besides being abundantly splashed with coarse freckles. No one would think of calling them white. One only of their number, the fifth and last one obtained, is of a faint brick red over his entire body, which gives him an old and not altogether unpleasant appearance. He is, moreover, young, lively, and good-natured, and salaams by rasing his trunk straight and high above his head to all well-dressed visitors in a way which quite scandalizes his keepers, who have taught all the others to reserve that salute solely for the King. Were he not himsel too royal to be whipped, I dare say that this merry pachyderm might soon be taught to recognize the honor reserved to royalists. White animals of all kinds—albino accidents—seem to be rather frequent in Siam, and the people of all grades have a sort of religious feeling of respect toward them. White monkeys and white magpies are kept by the nobles in rich costly cages. The donezes or priests salute a white cock which they may meet in their walks, when they would not salute a prince on like occasions.

Dancing Presbyterians.

New York Sun.

Mr. Heber Donaldson, a member of the Presbyterian church at Emlenton, in Pennsylvania, was last April cited before the Session on the charge of having "engaged in dancing on several occasions, contrary to the law and usage" of the denomination. He was found guilty of the offence, and unanimously suspended from the communion until he gave satisfactory evidence of repentance.

But Mr. Donaldson did not repent. He defended his course in dancing as entirely proper, and consistent with Scriptural teaching and example. When he appealed to the Clarion Presbytery from the action of the Session, however, his appeal was not sustained, only one member voting in his favor, to twenty-two against him. The Presbytery declared that "the general sentiment of the Church has been always opposed to promiscuous dancing, as opposed to the Word of God and the best interests of the Church." It further said that "the General Assembly has many times condemned the practice, and warned professing Christians against indulging in such amusement."

Mr. Donaldson then carried his case up to the Synod of Erie, but there also the decision was against him. Though twenty of the members voted in his favor, seventy-three refused to sustain the appeal, on the ground that the action of the church and Session "was in accordance with the constitution of the Presbyterian Church, the deliverances of the General Assembly, and the teachings of the Word of God." But Mr. Donaldson is not yet discouraged. He has taken an appeal to the General Assembly, which meets at Springfield, Ill., next May.

It is very doubtful whether that body will promptly and definitively decide his case. The question involved is one of a sort which such bodies usually avoid. Yet there is no doubt that in past years the Assembly has specifically denounced dancing as unbecoming a Christian and as contrary to the precepts of Scripture. If it takes up Mr. Donaldson's case at all, it cannot do otherwise than sustain the action of the inferior bodies, unless it is prepared to make a new rule regarding dancing, and throw overboard its past deliverances concerning the amusement.

It is known that there is little heed paid nowdays to the repeated utterances of the General Assemby against dancing, especially among fashionable Presbyterians. Presbyterian young men and maidens in New York, for instance, do not hesitate to take part in what are called square and round dances at small and large entertainments, at public balls, and at private germans. Neither do their parents refrain from giving entertainmints of which dancing, "promiscuous dancing," is the chief feature. If, therefore, the condemnation of the General Assembly was not scouted by the clergy and laity both, very many of the leading members of the fashionable Presbyterian church here would be shut out from the communion as Mr. Donaldson has been. They have acted and will continue to act contrary to the "constitution of the Presbyterian Church, the deliverances of the General Assembly," and what the latter has declared to be "the teachings of the word of God." Of that there can be no doubt. The Presbyterian record is plainly and stongly against dancing.

Tue offences charged against Mr. Donaldson are indeed light as compared with those of many fashionable Presbyterians in New York. It seems that he went to a neighboring village with a party to go up for a sleigh ride only. The dance was an afterthought. Moreover, it occured at a temperance hotel, and lasted only an hour and a half. Besides, there were "five Presbyterians and three Methodists in the party," which contained, all told, only eighteen people, "as respectable as Borough of Emlenton possesses." On another occasion he danced a few quadrilles at a "select party at our hall or opera house." It was "in no sense a ball. There were no refreshments, and we kept no late hours." Mr. Donaldson also declared that while he is no devotee of dancing, that he "has become a lover of it." The probability, nay, the certainty, must be that he is a very indifferent dancer, for perfection in that gracefull art is only attained by much practice. He "never took a dancing lesson," and is able only to walk through a quadrille with the help of the calls of the figures by the fiddler, after the fashions prevalling in the country.

Yet Mr. Donaldson is condemned and ex-communicated, with the approval of Session and Synod, while fashionable Presbyterians in New York dance not only occasionally, but also almost nightly during the gay season. Nor are they content with the old quadrilles. They think them stupid, and their feet move only to the measures of the waltz or galop, or they follow the leader through the mysterious movements of the german. Moreover, refreshments are served at the parties and balls they frequent, champagne is drunk by men and women both, and the entertainments are only just opening at the early hour at which Mr. Donaldson and his friends retired from their dances at the temperance hotel and at the opera house, where not even an ice was given to the heated revellers.

No wonder, therefore, that the excommunicated member of the Emlenton church cries out against the injustice from which he suffers. If he deserves punishment, let the ecclesiastical rod be applied to the dancing Presbyterians of New York. What is wicked in the country is wicked in town.

Mr. Donaldson, in his published defence, argues that the condemnation of dancing by the General Assembly is not a rule requiring to be enforced in the churches, but that it is only uttered as an admonition. Perhaps the point is well taken. Yet it cannot be denied that he and hundreds, perhaps thousands, of other Presbyterians indulge in an amusement which the high ecclesiastical tribunal of their Church has again and again pronounced to be "entirely unscriptural, eminently and exclusively of this world, and improper and injurious for professing Christians," and as belonging to a class of diversions "which are calculated to awaken thoughts and feelings inconsistent with the seventh commandment, as explained by our Saviour."

Let the General Assembly next May tell us definitively what are its present views regarding dancing. We ought to know whether, in its opinion, the dancing Presbyterians are behaving in away unbecoming Christians, or whether they are pursuing only an innocent diversion. One thing is certain. If an attempt is successfully made all along the line to prohibit dancing, the fashionable Presbyterian churches will close very many of their richest members, and their proportion of young people will fall off greatly.

A Pleasure Only Allowed Men.

Philadelphia Times.

One of the strangest accusations against the young woman who was arrested in New York the other day for wearing boys' clothes was that she made love to the girls. Making love to the girls is a very nice thing to do, and nearly everybody has done a little something in that line. The girls themselves rather like it, and it comes so natural for a young man to do it that it is little wonder that as soon as the girl found herself in trousers she should go off and make love to somebody. Unfortunately, however, she made love to a detective's girl, and he got jealous. That is what brought on the troubles of the young woman in trousers; it has brought a great many young men into trouble. If—but it is merely a waste of time to undertake to give advice on this subject. Boys and girls will do it, and it isn't regulated by any rules of common sense. If it were there wouldn't be half so much fun in it.

JOCOSITIES.

Why is a dog's tail a very great novelty?—because no one saw it before.

The man who has never uttered an untruth may lie at the point of death.

What fruit does a newly-married son plemost resemble?—a green pear.

When a couple make up their mind to get married it may be called a tie vote.

A proper remedy for a young lady who is short of stature is to get spliced as soon as possible.

Biblical student—Of course Ruth wanted a beau, but no one has been able to determine why she chose such a Boss she did.

What is the difference between an old tramp and a feather bed? There is a material difference. One is hard up and the other is soft down.

"How's business been with you, Brown?" asked his friend Pinery. "Not very lively," said Brown. "But you have made something, I suppose?" "Oh, yes; I made an assignment."

A member of a London club was standing on the club house steps when a gentleman came up to him and asked him if there was a gentleman with one eye named Walker in the club. "I don't know," was the answer. "What was the name of his other eye?"

He slipped quietly in at the door, but catching sight of an inquiring face over the stair rail, said: "Sorry so late, my dear; could'nt get a car before." "So the cars were full, too," said the lady, and further remarks were unnecessary.

Her lips were like the leaves, he said,
By autumn crimson tinted;
Some people autumn leaves preserve
By pressing them, and she hinted;
The meaning of the gentle hint
The lever did discern,
And so he clasped her round the neck
And glued his lips to her'n!

One of our friends advertised for a serving man, and the next day appeared a stout person of grave air, wearing enormous blue spectacles. "Have you weak eyes?" said our friend. "No, sir," said the applicant, "but I scour pots and things so thoroughly that the glitter of them hurts my sight."

Boston Courier—A young lady was noticed by her mother to be fondling and kissing a pet kitten. "Why, Mary, you have kissed that kitten more in five minutes than you have me in five years." "Don't you know why I had rather kiss the kitten than you, mother?" "No, my child." "You havn't got whiskers."

A small specimen of male humanity in a Springfield Sunday-school, lately undertook to memorize a remark of Solomon, but recited it in this way: "A wise son maketh a glad father, but a foolish son is just like his mother." A little girl in the same school rendered the golden text in this fashion: "Be ye homely as I am homely."

"Do you think, mamma," said a little one, "that Uncle Reuben is a good man?" "Why, my child, he is the best of all my brothers, and an excellent man." And will he go to heaven?" "I think so, my child. Why do you ask?" Oh, nothing much," replied the child, waking from a sort of reverie; "I was thinking what a homely angel he'd make."

The other evening a suburban debating society struggled with the question, "Is woman conducive to man's happiness?" After hearning the argument on both sides, the President rendered his decision according to the evidence, that "Woman can be conducive to man's happiness, but it fan't aften that she is." The case goes to a higher court on exceptions.

Mr. Ragbag was only twenty-three when his eldest son was born. We remember the day well. We congratulated him; but he didn't seem very jolly. Not but what it was a fine boy, and Ragbag was wealthy; so a family was no burden to him. But he said, "Good Lord, old friend, just think of it. Here at the age of twenty-three I've got to begin setting a good example!"

The Rev. Arthur Annicessed, of Utica, is a disciple of Wilde, and pronounced by his lady parishoners a very zephyr of poetic piety. His preaching is very delicate. Last Sunday he read a portion of sacred writ detailing a rehearsal of Jonah's submarine adventures. "We come now to Jonah," said Arthur, "who passed three days and three nights in the whale's—ahem—society."

Love in Chicago: "You must kiss me twice in the very same place, George, or I can never be your bride." "Are you certain of this, Myrtle? Is there no appeal from the decision?" "None whatever," answered the girl. Looking love into Myrtle's deep blue eyes, George bent over and kissed the sunny haired beauty on the right cheek, just aft of where a chunk of gum lay silently "And if I don't kiss you again we must part for ever?" he asked. "Yes," replied Myrtle. Then good evening," he said, in cold, cruel tones. "You have unwittingly released me from my vows," and with a hoarse, piratical laugh, he jumped over the front gate and was gone.

A sad affair: He was a proud old Pennsplvanian, and when Evangeline approached him on the subject of her marriage with young Augustus DeCourcy, he turned pale with anger, while the presperation stood out like soap bubbles on his high patrician brow. "Father," she pleaded, "there is nothing against him; he is of a good family; he is industrious; he never drinks nor chews nor smokes nor frequents billiard saloons, he has never been in jail." "No, but he ought to have been," fiercely exclaimed the pallid and trembling aristocrat. "This very morning I learned that he once held a position in the Philadelphia Tax Office." The fair girl, uttering a cry of horror, fell in a fit at his feet, and Augustus DeCourcey moved to Ohio.

In a railroad car the seats were all full except one, which was occupied by a pleasant-looking Irishman, and at one of the stations a couple of evidently well-bred and intelligent young ladies came in to procure seats. Seeing none vacant, they were about to go into the next car, when Patrick arose hastily and offered them his seat with evident pleasure. "But you will have no seat for yourself," responded one of the young ladies, with a smile, hesitating, with true politeness, to accept it. "Niver mind that," said the gallant Hibernian. "I'd ride upon a cow-catcher to New York any time for a smile from such jintlemanly ladies."

By Telegraph.

A Panama dispatch says:

Intelligence has just reached here of an appalling earthquake in Costa Rica. Advices thus far received state that four towns have been destroyed. These are Alajuela, Sanramon, Grecia and Heridia. In Alajuela alone, several thousand lives were lost. Those left alive there are homeless.

The loss of life has been something fearful. Thousands of inhabitants are swallowed, and the destruction of property is widespread.

From a Memphis dispatch:

The breaks on the Mississippi and Tennessee, the Louisville and Nashville, and the Memphis and Charleston Railroads, have not yet been repaired, and passengers on all three routes have to be transferred. All the lines expect to be running through trains without interruption by Wednesday at latest.

Mrs. F. A. Reynolds, a widow, aged 45 years, employed in the Cleveland hospital for the insane, drowned herself early this morning in a small creek running through the asylum grounds. About two years ago she removed from Vermont to Oberlin, where she attended college. Morbid sensitiveness appears to have been the cause of taking her own life. Mrs. Reynolds left a package addressed to be expressed to Miss Emma A. Hyde, Grand Isle, Vermont, and the following note dated Saturday, to be mailed:

MY DEAR EMMA: I send you a few books I have here, and a little money. I know that to you, too, life must often seem dreary and death better. To me it has become insupportable longer. I know that suicide is murder, but God has abandoned me, and it matters little now what I do. I have tried to pray since I have been here, but could not. Do not mourn for me, dear; but stand in your own lot and be strong. Have all the charity you can for me. Affectionately, F. A. REYNOLDS.

The water where the body was found was only three feet deep. She attended church Sunday, and taught a class in Sunday-school. uring the three months she had been at the asylum she often appeared melancholy, and spoke gloomily of her past life, as if it had been one of sorrow and struggle against adversity.

A Boston dispatch:

Sarah E. Howe, the President of the woman's bank known as Ladies' Deposit, which proved a swindle in October, 1880, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment in the House of Correction.

Mr. Vennor says: "I would warn New York and the contiguous seaboard, also the Middle States and possibly Newfoundland and the maritime provinces of the approach of a storm period on the 18th and 19th of the present month, probably with heavy rains and high winds in the former section, an' wind, snow and rainfalls in the latter."

The Czar, on receiving General Skobeleff, said: "I am displeased with you. You doubtless wished to glorify Russia. Look at the results obtained. Before your speech Russia enjoyed certain authority in Europe. Now you see her forsaken, Austria irritated, and France distant. Gladstone has his hands tied, and the Russophobist-English party triumphs at finding a foundation on which to base its invectives against what it regards as the bellicose disposition and grasping tendencies of Russia."

The Times' dispatch from St. Petersburg, says the Minister of War told Skobeleff that he was recalled for a breach of discipline, in creating disturbance and excitement abroad. General Ignatieff told Skobeleff that the Czar had nothing in particular to say to him.

A Berlin dispatch says "General Skobeleff delivered an address to a number of Russian officers, stating that the best Russian is the Czar. Europe knows, he said, what he thinks on the Slav question. His recall was only a new humiliation proceeding from the man who, with blood and iron, had founded an Empire which must be destroyed by Russian blood and iron.

MacLean, the Queen's assailant, has been committed for trial on the charge of high treason. MacLean, on being arraigned, said he would reserve his defense. He declined to cross examine witnesses. His interests were watched by a solicitor. The evidence given was merely a repetition of what is already known concerning his attempt on the life of the Queen. It was overwhelming, and confirmed the statement that his pistol was sufficiently elevated when he fired for the ball to have struck her Majesty.

A Constantinople dispatch to the Times says it is feared in official circles that war between Russia and Austria is inevitable. The question of calling out the reserve is being seriously discussed. It has at least been decided in principle that some preparatory measures should be taken. The exaggerated apprehensions of the palace party cause them to look favorably on an alliance with Austria.

A Lynn, Mass., dispatch:

The boiler in Goodwin Bros.' shoe factory exploded, leveling the building, and killing several men. The fire department was quickly called out, and immediately went to work to remove the debris from the end of the building near Exchange street. One poor fellow, badly mangled, was taken out. His first words were, "There are more in there." Soon after the dead body of John Moore, the engineer, terribly crushed, was recovered. Half an hour after another body was found. Four men, who usually came to work at 6 o'clock every morning, are missing.

The Times-Star special says the steam tow-boat Ætna exploded her boilers at three o'clock in the Great Kanawha river, three miles above Point Pleasant. Dunc Anderson, of Pomeroy, a colored fireman, was killed, and Captian Henderson and several others were severely injured. The steamer took fire and burned to the water's edge.

The Times-Star special reports that the steamer Sidney bust her steam pipe below Ravenswood, W. Va. Two persons were killed and fifteen wounded. Their names are not given.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, March, 8th.

SENATE.—The bill for a commission on the alcoholic liquor traffic was briefly considered, and laid aside. The Chinese immigration bill was discussed at length but without final action.

HOUSE.—Amendments to the rules of the House were reported from the Committee on Rules. A bill was passed appropriating $200,000 to buy the Fredman's Bank at Washington; also the Senate bill authorizing the the payment of $7,500 in aid of the Army of the Cumberland monument to President Garfield. The Senate polygamy bill was taken up, and pending the decision of the point of order that the bill must go to the committee of the whole, the Hous adjourned.

THURSDAY, March, 9th.

SENATE.—Several resolutions of inquiry were adopted. The alcoholic liq mission bill was discussed. The Chinese immigration bill was passed—yeas 29, nays 15

HOUSE.—A number of bills were reported to the Committee of the Whole. The agricultural appropriation bill, with amendments, considerably increasing the amounts appropriated, especially for the distribution of seeds, was passed.

FRIDAY, March, 10th.

SENATE.—A resolution was adopted directing the Secretary of War to use Government vessels in aid of sufferers by the floods. The alcoholic liquor commission bill, providing for a commission of seven persons, was passed—yeas, 34; nays, 14. The Bayard tariff bill was taken up and informally laid aside. Mr Vorhees introduced a bill appropriating $125,000 for the improvement of the Wabash river.

HOUSE.—The Senate resolution above mentioned, was adopted. A few private bills were passed. At an evening session, seventy-seven pension bills were passed. Both houses adjourned 'till Monday.

MONDAY, March, 13th.

SENATE.—After the usual routine business, the tariff commission bill was taken up and discussed. An executive session of three hours was held.

HOUSE—A bill to establish a railway bridge right of way over the Mississippi at a point in Wisconsin was passed. The army appropriation bill was reported. It appropriates $29,198,360. A number of new bills were introduced. Several hours were spent in filibustering to prevent a vote on the Senate bill to punish polygamy in Utah, pending which a recess was taken.

TUESDAY, March 14th.

SENATE—A joint resolution appropriating $100,000 for the relief of sufferers by the floods, was passed. The post-office appropriation bill was considered without action.

HOUSE—The Senate anti-polygamy bill was passed without amendment—yeas 199, nays 42. The anti-Chinese bill substituting that of the Senate for that of the House was taken up and discussed, without action.

The Marriage of Relations.

Alexander Dumas, in his "Memoirs of Louis XV and His Court," presents the following observations upon this subject, which are worthy the attention of law givers:

"Among men, marriage between persons too nearly related is one cause of the decay of individuals. Heroes founded all the great nations, and weak men ended them. Look at Henry III, the last of the Valois; look at Gaston, the last of the Medici; look at Cardinal York, the last of the Stuarts; look at Charles IX, the last of the Hapsburgs.

This first cause of the deterioration of races—namely, the intermarriages which are observed in all the families whose descendants we have just mentioned—is more perceptible among the Bourbons than in any other family, because nowhere else have these family alliances been more common. In fact the blood which reigned in France was considered so precious, so great, so sacred that it ought not to mingle with any inferior blood among the nobility: so that in obedience to this prejudice that the royal families of Europe should ally themselves only with their relations, the house of Bourbon was obliged to confine their marriages to the Houses of Florence, Savoy, Austria and Spain.

Thus, for instance, in going back from Louis XV to Henry IV and Mary de Medicis, Henry IV was the great-grandfather of Louis XV in five different lines, and Mary de Medicis his great-grandmother in five different lines.

Thus, in going back to Phillip III and to Margaret of Austria, Phillip III is his great-great-grandfather in three lines and Margaret of Austria his great-great-grandmother in three lines.

Thus, of the thirty-two great-great-grandfathers and great-great-grandmothers of Louis XV, we find six persons of the house of Bourbon, five of the house of Medicis, eleven of the house of Austria-Hapsburg, three of the house of Savoy, three of the house of Lorraine, two of the house of Bavaria, a prince of the Stuart family and a Danish princess.

The importance and value that a good orchard attaches to the farm can scarcely be over estimated; not only in a moral and refining influence, making the farmer and his sons proud of their calling, but behind this a continual and increasing cash income better and more reliable than a life insurance policy; besides, the satisfaction of plucking fruit direct from trees, all our own, ripe, clean and healthy, is pleasure not easily overestimated.

THE CROCUSES.

[IN MEMORIAM.]

Bright, yellow crocuses, last year
She was still here
And watched you growing,
Now scattered on her grave ye rest
Just o'er her breast,
Unknown, unknowing.

Ye must die ere set of sun,
Ere growth hath won
Its full completeness;
Yet busy bees are round you rife,
For all your life
Like her's, was sweetness.

A TEXAS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Searching for a Spindle, Shanked, Goggle Eyed Prodigal Son.

Galveston News.

A tall woman, wearing a sun-bonnet, came into the office of the chief of police, and, sitting down hard on the end of a bench, wiped her nose, snapped her eyes at the chief, and asked, in a voice that reminded one of the sharpening of a saw:

"Be you the galoot what locks folks up?"

"I regret to say that I am occasionally obliged to resort to such extreme measures with refractory persons."

"I know that: but be you the galoot?"

"Yes, madam."

"Why didn't you say so when I asked you?"

"I did."

"You didn't, sir; and if you don't treat me like a lady, I'll fold you up and sit down on you," and she snapped her eyes some more like a terrier.

"What do you want?" asked the official, looking as if he needed reinforcements right away, and plenty of them.

"I want that dirty little whelp what married my darter. I want to talk to him on business, but he evades me. If I could only get a chance to caress him once more!" and she breathed hard and gritted her teeth, until the official felt in his pocket for a police whistle.

"What did he do?"

"He told my darter that he would give 320 acres of land, with a gold mine on it, to anybody who would ampertate my jaw with a boot-jack. He said my mouth was like the gate at the Fair Grounds."

"He means, I suppose, it was never shut, I don't see how he came to make such a ridiculous comparison as that. Did you ever remonstate with him?"

"You bet I did. I drawed him across the kitchen table by the hair with one hand, while I basted him with a long-handled skillet, and you should have heard him calling me 'mother darling' and 'pet,' but Providence was agin me. His ear gave way, and he lit out before I could reason with him any more. Just as like as not we will never meet again," and she sighed heavily.

"Be calm, madam; do not excite yourself too much."

"I am calm. I like to talk about these family secrets. It calls up sacred recollections. It makes me think of my darter's fust husband. It was real fun to remonstrate with him. His har didn't give. He was game. He sassed back, but, Lord! what a time they had holding tne inquest. That was at Arkansas, before I moved to Galveston. There was some of his remains in one corner of the yard, a few more remains hanging on the fence and there was right peart of him wrapped around the axe-handle. The jury knew me, so they brought in a verdict of justifiable suicide, or homicide, or something like that. And now to think of this pesky little worthless, spindle-shanked, goggle-eyed whelp getting clear off, excepting a few pounds of har. I want you to find him for me. You can know him by the brands I made on him with the hot skillet. Wanted to ampertate my jaw, the little brassy whelp! Said my mouth was like a gate, did he?"

The official said he would hunt for him and let her know. As she went out, she snapped her eyes significently at the official, and remarked:

"You had better find that prodigal son, or thar'll be music at these headquarters."

A New Mormon Temple.

Pioche Record.

The construction of the Grand Temple of Worship now being erected by the Mormon Church at Manti, Utah, is being pushed ahead with as large a force of workmen as convenience will permit, and the walls of the building are beginning to loom up and are covered with scaffolding and derricks. We learn from Mr. D. Wilken, who has just returned from a trip out in the Manti country, that the temple is being constructed of white limestone. The building is situated on top of a mountain, a spur of the Wasatch range, that extends out in the town of Manti, and is called by the people of Utah the Mountain of the Lord. The foundation of the temple is sixty-three feet above the level of the road, and is set in solid rock; the top of the mountain having been excavated and removed, making it level, is 95 feet in width and 272 in length. From the ground to the square will be 82 feet in height. There will be two towers erected, one at the east and the other at the west corner of the building. The tower at the east corner will be 179 feet in height, while that of the west corner will be 10 feet lower, or 169 feet in height. They are 30 feet square at the base. There are four terrace walls around the mountain in front of the temple, which will average about 17 feet in height and are about 900 feet in length, and in all contain about 2,400 cords of rock as at present built, and 55,000 yards of debris has been excavated and hauled away. The stairway from the road to the upper terrace is 63 feet, and will contain 132 stone steps, 16 feet in width. In back of the terrace will be filled with rich soil, to the top of the stone-work, and trees and shrubbery planted, and the tops of the terraces are to be ornamented by neatly-dressed and cut stone, and statues will be placed at various and appropriate places. The water to supply the temple will be brought in wooden pipes from a spring situated about a mile and a quarter east of the temple, back in the mountains, and has a fall of 79 feet to the reservoir, and 188 feet from the reservoir to the lower terrace. The whole side of the mountain is to be planted with trees and flowers, and the crystal stream poured forth by the little spring, as it winds its way down the side of the mountain, will travel from root to root, quenching their thirst, thus assisting the trees to produce their foliage in the spring, the flowers to bloom and the grass to grow. The building of the temple was first commenced five years ago, and has been worked on ever since, and it is expected that it will be in such condition in about three years that it can be used, but it is estimated that it will take fully five years to complete the building. The building will be fifty feet in height, and the excavation at the east end for the basement is about forty-six feet in depth. Mr. Folsom is the architect, and as to his skill and ability as an architecturalist, the Manti Temple will speak for years after he has passed from the face of the earth. It was President Young's intention when he ordered the erection of the temple that it should be the grandest and most imposing structure erected on the American continent, and all indications point to such being the case.

Trade, Industrial and Farm Notes.

The number of sheep in Kansas has increased 200 fold within the last two years, and the wool clip this year will not fall short of 10,000,000 pounds.

Professor Beal, of the Michigan Agricultural College, has 1 000 different grasses and clovers growing, each in a separate bed, in the garden at the College.

A Liverpool circular says that nearly 900,000 barrels of American apples have been received there this winter, and that good fruit is always salable and the demand almost without limit.

Mr. W. W. Dunham, North Paris, Mo., who has forty kinds of grapes under cultivation, mentions Eumelan, Salem, Delaware, Brighton and Lady as among those to be "especially commended for superior quality."

A trial was made last season in Scotland to test the feeding value of an acre of cabbage compared with an acre of Swedish turnips for fattening sheep, and it was found that the cabbages were worth nearly $30 the most.

Soda, which is now imported at a cost of from $52 to $55, can be taken from the soda lakes of Wyoming and placed in the Eastern markets at a cost not exceeding $25 per ton. The Wyoming soda is chemically purer tnan the imported, and of practical inexhaustibility.

In Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, last season, one farmer sold his two-acres' yield of tobacco for $1,112; cost of labor, etc., $212; net profit, $900. Another farmer realized $430 an acre from three and a half acres, and another $550 an acre from one and a half acres. They think it pays.

Late estimates indicate that nearly a million acres of French vineyards have been turned to other uses, and that more than two-thirds of the remainder are more or less affected by the phylloxera. Everywhere in the wine districts windlasses are at work tearing up the shrivelled and blackened stalks of the vines to be carried away for firewood.

About 6,000,000 pounds of evaporated apples are at present exported to Europe annually. The fruit is sliced into pieces one-sixteenth of an inch in thicknes, and then exposed to the fumes of sulphur instead of drying in the sun. After drying, it is nearly as white as when first cut. The evaporated apples now sell for fifteen cents per pound in European markets.

Out of 157,588,521, the number of cattle estimated to be in the world, 35,907,791, including all kinds, were in this country at the taking of the last census. Out of 382,783 015 sheep we had 51,183,003 head. Out of 81,990,330 hogs we had 43,688,671, which would place the United States as the foremost hog country in the world, with more than one-half of the grand total.

Statistics show that the annual consumption of eggs in the United States is about 10,600,000 barrels. The poultry marketed or consumed is estimated at 680,000,000 pounds, at $68,000,000, and yet there are some that say that chickens don't pay them anyhow. If this is so, some one must be loosing money in disposing of the vast amount of chickens and eggs consumed in the United States.

It seems by the New York Produce Exchange that 8,000 barrels of eggs are sold weekly in that city, or about $4,000 000 worth in a year. Say 200,000,000 eggs, every one of which represents a day's work for some industrious hen. When the value of the chickens, ducks and game used in market is added to this the majestic dimensions of the poultry interests just begin to appear. The poultry and dairy business are most profitably carried on together, and in the North-western States the poultry product is valued at about one-third the dairy product. According to the estimates before the Northwestern Dairyman's Association the value of dairy products in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota last year was over $86,000 000, and the chickens produced $25,000,000.

Swine, as well as the finer animals, do far better if wisely and regularly fed than if served in the usual careless and wholesale way. In illustration of this, note the following experiment in feeding, made by a California farmer: On the 1st of December, 1880, he penned fourteen shoats, having a combined weight of 1,190 pounds. During the three months following he fed them 1,497 pounds of barley, boiled whole. In addition to this he gave them the skimmed milk from four cows and the house slops; and in connection with the feed about four pounds of charcoal a week. At the end of three months there was a gain of 1,700 pounds. The fact is not stated, but the natural inference is that the feed was judiciously administered, as well as carefully prepared, or so satisfactory results could hardly have been accomplished.

Married Under Difficulties.

Newport (R. I.) Mercury.

The rigorous Marriage law of Rhode Island, which has now been in operation six months, is an excellent statute, but it sometimes puts parties who propose matrimony to no end of vaxation in complying with its requirements. An incident that occurred this week illustrates this. A young man of legal age proposed to be united in wedlock to a miss of 20. The minister had informed the bridegroom-elect that all it was necessary for him to do was to file the usual intention at the City Clerk's office. The marriage was to occur on Tuesday evening, and in the morning of that day the young man appeared at the office and filled out the blank. The age of the lady was put at 20, and the City Clerk informed him that the writen consent of the father must be furnished. Here was a dilemma. The father dwells in New Brunswick, Can., and the marriage was to occur that evening. The license could not be issued, but a reception was set down for that evening, and a postponement could not be thought of. The City Clerk suggested that a reception be held, and that next morning the young folks could go to Fall River, Mass., or Stonington Conn., to be married. The reception was accordingly held on Tuesday evening, according to programme, and on Wednesday morning the interested parties proceeded to Fall River, where they were duly married. The Massachusetts law places the legal age of a woman at 18 years, and so the young woman of 20 could be married without the formal consent of the far-away parent, although there was no doubt about his willingness to welcome the young man as his son-in-law.

The Coming Encampment.

[Indianapolis News.]

It is proposed that the Indiana Legion and the Knights Templars of this city and State unite in a grand encampment on the fair grounds the coming summer. Committees from both bodies have consulted together, and many of the details are already arranged. Raper Commandery originally intended to celebrate June 24, but the idea was suggested of uniting with the State militia, and forming an encampment on a large scale. To further this intention, a committee consisting of N. R. Ruckle, J. W. Smith, A. H. Brown, Albert Gall, John Pendergast, J. T. Brush, Isaac Thalman, J. D. Steep, and H. S. Watson was appointed to confer with a committee from the Mercantile association and Adjutant General Carnahan. General Carnahan is now in the south, and will, if possible, make arrangements with the Chickasaw Guards, of Memphis, and the Porter Rifles of Nashville, to spend several days here during the encampment, which will probably be held from June 31 to July 5. Numerous other companies will be present, and it is the intention to make the entire occasion worthy of the nation holiday (July 4), and of Masonic anniversaries.

An Astonishing Bill of Fare.

Burlington Hawkeye.

The Americans set a better table for the working man than any other nation on the face of the earth. The bill of fare includes personal liberty, civil rights, self-government, free schools, social recognition, cheap lands, unparalled opportunities for improvement of his condition in life, varied industries, and a multitude of other advantages not elsewhere enjoyed.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

Something New under the Sun.

THE HOUSEHOLD GROCERY PACKAGE

Will please every household which tries it. Your Grocer will show it to you; examine it. Nothing in it but just what you want. The goods would cost you double the money, bought in the retail way. If your dealer does not keep the "Household Package," order from us a Circular and a Sample of the Goods, sent free by mail.

HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
CHICAGO.

ANOTHER NEW DEPARTURE.

THE HOUSEHOLD MEDICINE CHEST.

Is just what you want! Your druggist will show it to you. Every household needs it; you will pay twice the money and get less, somewhere else. The Chest will please you. Circular with full description of contents mailed free to any address if your Druggist does not have it on hand.

HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
CHICAGO.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

REED'S

GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practice or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thereby re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had suffered from weakness for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 12th, '79.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 22, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box No. 2 for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June [illegible].—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. [illegible] '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way, and wish one No. 2 box.

The First Mormon Sermon.

The first Mormon preacher was a man named Aldrich. I heard his first sermon, says a correspondent of the Salt Lake Tribune. When he got up in the school-house he said that he would not preach the new gospel unless Gabriel blowed his horn as a sign that he endorsed his views. Just then a loud blast of a horn was heard, and then he began his preaching. The horn business had a peculiar effect upon some of the congregation, and as it sounded night after night, just before he preached, many of the ignorant were converted. I was only a schoolboy then, but myself and other schoolboys determined to watch the place where the sound came from, and in a grove of trees, not far from the school-house, we found the Gabriel up a tree, with a fish-horn under his coat. We made him come down and found him to be a worthless fellow whom Smith had hired to toot for him.

One day when Aldrich was preaching, he blew his horn, and a lot of old women came out, thinking the fish and clam wagon was coming. We exposed the horn trick, and it was the laughing-stock of the town. We used to tell the man to get a horn that was not a fish-horn, so that the people need not rush out expecting clams.

The most astonishing thing about the matter was, that although the fraud was fully exposed, and the man who played the part of Gabriel was caught dozens of times behind hedges and out-buildings, blowing his old horn for Aldrich to preach from, there were lots of people who believed that the religion was the only true religion, and plenty people joined the church, and even gave up all their property to it.

* * *

Brooklyn Eagle: "By-the-way, we think we have discovered the original of that dialogue between Capt. Corcoran and sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B. Grattan was once asked, by a religious friend. "Do you say your prayers?" "Never," replied the great Irish orator. "What, never?" said his horrified examiner. "Well, hardly ever," answered Grattan.

HOP BITTERS.
(A Medicine, not a Drink,)
CONTAINS
HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION.
AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.
THEY CURE
All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and especially Female Complaints.
$1000 IN GOLD.
Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.
Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and try them before you sleep. Take no Other.
D. I. C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR.
All above sold by druggists.
Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y., & Toronto, Ont.

PILES
NO CURE NO PAY
BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.
OVER 3000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED BY DR BRINKERHOFF IN FOUR YEARS
CURE WARRANTED.
FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES
CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
COME BEFORE TOO LATE

A PLACE FOR YOUR DICTIONARY,
A PLACE FOR YOUR NEWSPAPERS,
A PLACE FOR YOUR PERIODICALS,
And an ornament for your house, all in one,
THE NOYES DICTIONARY HOLDER.

School Reports

AUBURN SCHOOLS.

Report of Auburn public schools for the month ending March 3, 1882.

FIRST AND SECOND PRIMARY DEPARTMENTS:

No. pupils enrolled	78
No. belonging	75
No. withdrawn	3
Average daily attendance	58
Per cent. of attendance	77
No. absent unexcused	5
No. half days absence	14
No. neither absent nor tardy	12

Priscilla Coder.

FIRST AND SECOND PRIMARY:

No. enrolled	86
No. belonging	86
Average daily attendance	68
Per cent. of attendance	80
No. half days absence unexcused	3
No. neither absent nor tardy	14

Lilly McTighe.

FIRST INTERMEDIATE:

No. enrolled	88
No. belonging	76
No. withdrawn	12
Average attendance	55
Per cent. of attendance	74
No. neither tardy nor absent	15

Letitia Coats.

SECOND INTERMEDIATE:

No. enrolled	53
No. withdrawn	7
No. belonging	46
Average daily attendance	44
Per cent. of attendance	95
No. half days absence unexcused	5
No. pupils absent unexcused	1
No. neither absent nor tardy	12

L. E. Clark.

GRAMMAR:

No. enrolled	43
No. belonging	42
No. withdrawn	1
Average daily attendance	38
Per cent. of attendance	90
No. half days absence unexcused	00
No. pupils absent unexcused	00
No. neither absent nor tardy	4

C. A. Dugan.

HIGH SCHOOL:

No. pupils enrolled	45
No. belonging	43
No. withdrawn	2
Average daily attendance	34
Per cent. of attendance	86
No. half days absence unexcused	10
No. pupils absent unexcused	2
No. neither tardy nor absent	14

W. P. Myers,
M. W. Harrison,

CONSOLIDATED REPORT:

No. pupils enrolled	393
No. withdrawn	25
No. belonging	368
Average daily attendance	297
Per cent. of attendance	84
No. half days absence unexcused	32
No. pupils absent unexcused	9
No. neither tardy nor absent	71

W. P. Myers, Principal.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

Report of school number four for the month ending March 3, 1882. Number enrolled 26. Scholars neither tardy nor absent: Clara Freeman, Lean Robbins, Miles Osbun, Bentie Lawhead, Marion Osbun and Queana Lawhead.

The friends will please accept my thanks for their acts of kindness shown me during my stay with them.

J. B. Scott.

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

Report of Pleasant View school for the month ending March 10, 1882. Names of pupils neither tardy nor absent: Charley Smith, Perry Ober, Oscar Wiant, Perry Ervin, Wilber Hawver, Etta Ober, Mary Ling, Willie Keeler. Enrollment, 29; average, 20.

Spring work has interfered with my average. J. A. Quince.

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

Report for the month ending March 15. Number pupils enrolled, 40; average daily attendance, 39. Pupils neither tardy nor absent: David Henney, Wm. Birtnet, Ezra Hartman, Spencer Bair, Cora Bair, Florence Bair and Irvin Bair. Oron Bair, Teacher.

* * *

—A Saginaw man Thursday pleaded guilty to driving his horse faster than six miles and hour, and paid $5 fine. That puts us in mind of another Saginaw man who drove what he considered a fast horse, and one day he got a friend to complain on him for fast driving and then pleaded guilty and paid the fine. Being asked why he did that he said it would add $100 to the value of his horse to have it reported that he was arrested for fast driving. "But why did you plead guilty?" "Well, the fact is I was d—nably afraid it couldn't be proved by anybody else!"—Saginaw Courier.

* * *

Mrs. Daniel Webster, who died recently of pneumonia at New Rochelle, N. Y., had lately celebrated her 84th birthday. She became the wife of the great statesman in December, 1829. In appearance Mrs. Webster was tall proportioned, with a forehead high and broad and eyes dark and full. Her once brown hair was thickly spread with gray. The remaining members of the family are the children of her daughter Julia, Samuel Appleton, and Mrs. Jerome Bonaparte.

Not a Minister.

AN AMUSING ADVENTURE OF A DRUMMER.

An Arkansas paper tells a story on John A. Meeks, a traveling man for Weil & Brother, of St. Louis. He had just stepped off a train at a small town in the southern part of the state, when he was accosted by a countryman, who asked, deferentially, "What is your name, please?"

"Meeks."

"Well, Brother Meeks, I am here with a spring-wagon, and at your service. Are you ready to go now? Where is your baggage?"

Meeks did not question the man who had addressed him, supposing him to be a merchant of the village not far distant. He had been wondering if any means of transportation would be within reach, and considered himself fortunate in securing a spring-wagon. The trip to the village was mainly characterized by silence. The driver made one or two allusions to religious matters, which Meeks answered laconically. When the spring-wagon arrived at the village, Meeks was driven to the residence of a prominent citizen, Mr. George Young, where an excellent supper was waiting. Mr. Young and his family were delighted to see the young man. Young laughingly alluded to the large trunks of his guest, remarking that the old saddle-bag days were over. Meeks smiled over a chicken bone, and affably agreed with his host.

After supper the party repaired to the parlor, where miscellaneous conversation, tempered by a religious tone, was engaged in. Finally Mr. Young, handing Meeks a Bible, requested him to read a certain chapter, which the young man did. Then Young, clearing his throat at one of the children, and nodding to another, remarked:

"Brother Meggs, lead us in prayer."

"Meggs, the deuse!" exclaimed Meeks, "My name isn't Meggs. What in thunder does all this mean, anyway? I am a St. Louis drummer—"

"What!" exclaimed Young; "Are you not the man who was sent here to preach for us to-morrow?"

"I am sent here to sell you goods, but hanged if I'll preach for anybody."

A rap at the door interrupted the conversation. A young man, fatigued and muddy, entered and introduced himself as Preacher Meggs. The mistake was then explained. The driver of the spring-wagon had taken the wrong man. Poor Meggs "hoofed" it seven miles.

* * *

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

* * *

—Good school shoes for spring wear cheap, at the Boot up-side Down. 10-3t.

* * *

—The Burch plow runs light 10-4t

Commissioners' Allowances

LIST OF ALLOWANCES MADE BY THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS AT THEIR MARCH SESSION, 1882.

EXPENSE OF POOR:

A B Matthews	$ 20 00	S Reinoehl	$ 24 75
D J Swartz	261 00	J L Kindig	31 70
Jarvis Porter	5 00	Anna Dile	9 50
W H Kiblinger	28 70	M Houston & Co	3 25
J & J A Shull	23 19	H W Coburn	11 00
Geo Wagoner	6 10	J Kahn & Co	54 23
McQuiston & R	23 50	Mary Doab	31 46
J Emanuel	43 25	Emma Testison	5 00
V M Swartz	10 00	Daniel Tomlinson	20 66
J A Provines	1 05	Charles Imus	1 25
E Webb	7 46	J E Tohmson	3 50
Miller & Getrost	48 47	J S Ridge	3 00
D A Sebring	2 50	S Olmstead	35 40
Brand & Duncan	213 12	M Apple	6 00
John Otto	6 30	J Rummel	182 48
Casebeer & M	41 60	Jacob Heisey	51 06
F W Fanning	20 75	Crane & Co	10 52
Schaab B & Co	10 50	W P Carpenter	10 00
G L Lanning	42 82	J N Chamberlain	11 75
J L Davis	25 45	Thomas Rudd	14 33
P Bashelier	2 50	J B Bennett	8 00
M Boland	3 50	H W Bowman	48 45
J P McCague	18 00	Duncan Bros	6 00
Isaac Rose	27 50	A J Ralston	26 84
Rainier & Headly	12 00	H Lehman	5 75
Hague & Raut	65	F E Davenport	29 10
J R Neaderhiser	2 50	John Shoub	4 25
W J Austin & Co	19 55	D W Jenner	3 00
J J Littlefield	23 65	Leighty & B	38 38

EXPENSE OF COURT:

A S Leas	$ 68 60	A W Allen	$ 4 00

EXPENSE OF CRIMINALS:

A S Leas	$ 270 75	Miller & G	$ 8 73
J B Casebeer	$ 14 79

EXPENSE OF ELECTION:

C K Baxter	$ 7 00

MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSE:

M Boland	$ 110 45	C McClellan	$ 10 00
T H Sprott	75	J L Davis	108 35
L J Miller	2 61	Henry Wolf	3 40
J Abright	8 00	M B Willis	4 10
John Knoder	3 50	F E Davenport	14 95

EXPENSE OF ROADS:

A S Leas	$ 33 05	H Dickerhoff	$ 10 50
G L Row	20 00	Jas Wilson	9 00
F D Oberlin	10 50	D B Bordner	9 00
Casebeer & M	14 50	A P Foltz	4 00
E Kelham	24 00	Joseph Sewell	3 00
C Bowman	1 50	John Lowe	3 00
C Parker	1 50	D Stonestreet	10 00
J S Ridge	1 50	H Rogers	10 00
J M Goetschius	3 00	W I Work	10 00
J Kirkpatrick	3 00	John S Boots	6 50
N Griffith	1 50	Wm Henderson	5 00
J N Clark	$ 5 00

EXPENSE OF DITCHES:

W Pepple	$ 1 50	J J Latson	$ 4 00
A S Leas	34 65	R S S Reed	4 00
A P Foltz	250 83	Samuel Hawver	8 00
F D Oberlin	17 50	R N Crooks	8 00
E Kelham	20 50	Wm Carr	6 00
John Shoob	7 00	S J Brandon	6 00
Wm Kennedy	11 50	Wm Whetsel	14 50
Freeman Kelley	7 50	C Sheets	11 50
R G Daniels	10 00	Joseph Wilson	10 00
D Stonestreet	8 00	Clark Parker	4 00
H Wanamaker	8 00	G W Hanes	26 00
H Dickerhoff	10 00	W L Blair	26 00

PRINTING:

C K Baxter	$ 12 25	J C Loveland	$ 20 00
J A Barns	88 40	W B Burford	773 74
C P Houser	40 70	O J Powel	52 10

PUBLIC BUILDINGS:

Morrell Bros	$ 47 85

SALARY:

J A Barns	$ 210 00	John Shoub	$ 31 50
A Robbins	461 25	F D Oberlin	31 50
L J Miller	300 00	E Kelham	31 50
A S Leas	$ 19 00

INQUEST:

J J Latson	$ 10 00	F Smith	$ 75
C B Jones	1 60	L S Ober	75

ALBERT ROBBINS, Auditor.
March 17, 1882.

SORE EYES.
DR. E. C. YETTER,
—THE—
EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,
is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries
SPECTACLES
of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:
Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box. 138. 2-tf.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE!
J. C. BOYER,
Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc., etc.
My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and Large, and for the NEXT 60 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS, GLOVES, MITTENS, NOTIONS, ETC.
At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying for you can save money by buying of me.
All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.
J. C. BOYER,
WATERLOO, IND.

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.
Manufacturers of the
Best and Lightest-Running
Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET
Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on South Main street, Auburn, Ind. 21 tf

New Meat Market
Opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best
Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.
He will be found pleasant to customers. He has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.
Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. 41tf
W. L. BRAUN.

MUSIC MONEY
$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00
THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.
Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ideas.

CARD COLLECTORS. Send a 3 cent stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO. 16-13w.

Being the only
EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE
in Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of
TAPESTRY,
BODY BRUSSELS,
AND WOOL CARPETS
At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of
HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS!
MODERWELL AND STUDOR,
Successors to
S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO
FT. WAYNE, IND.

SEED.
THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD
CORN AND WATERMELONS
CORN. Our "GIANT" Corn is a new and distinct variety, and is withal the best that any farmer ever grew. The grains are as large as the average size chestnut; the finest white dent ever grown; full, rich in starch, perfect hardy, and never failing to grow a strong and vigorous stalk, with firm, deep roots. The ears are uniform and of very large size. It will yield more than any other variety that can be raised, averaging from THREE to SIX EARS to the stalk. It is taking the place of all other varieties upon its first trial. It is matured, and can be gathered in TEN WEEKS, and grows as successfully in the North as the South.
WATERMELONS. Our "MIXON" Watermelons are the largest and finest in the World in every instance, and grow in any section of the country. Their average weight is from 75 to 125 POUNDS. The flesh is of a blood red, very solid, luscious, crisp and sugary—far surpassing all other varieties, and, although a melon of such an enormous weight, there is barely half an inch rind. They are pronounced the finest shipping melon in the World. It will pay any farmer to try a sample package.
Corn—Sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00, and $5.00 per bushel. Watermelons—Sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00. Address all orders to the
ACME IMPORTING CO.
4-tf. Athens Ga.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad

SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 1881.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 30	7 58	....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	....
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 40	11 50am
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	5 21
Jackson Lv.	7 15am	12 40 m	7 00
Hanover	7 50	12 52pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 13	9 28
Reading	8 42	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 55	1 43	10 25
Fremont	9 12	2 03	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 25
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 02	2 52	12 35am
Auburn	10 13	3 03	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 28	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 30
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55		6 25
Louisville	10 15	7 25am	7 30
St. Louis		8 40	....
Washington		9 05pm
Baltimore		10 15

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am	....	8 10pm
Washington	10 20	....	9 27
St. Louis	6 40pm	....	7 50am
Louisville		8 00am
Cincinnati	9 00	7 30am	2 20pm
Indianapolis	4 50am	11 00
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 45pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 03	3 05
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 03	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 23pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07		10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	8 25	8 20
Saginaw	9 25	10 55
Bay City	9 20	11 55am	....

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.; east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 50 a. m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 5 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 5 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 45 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S., 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 5 35 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 38 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 59, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 2 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m.; west 3 15 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 23 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7 31 a. m. 2 48 p. m. west —11 00 am m., 7 24 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 55 p. m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 & 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 5 15 a. m. 2 00 p. m.; at 3 00, 7 15 p. m. P., Ft. W. & C. east, 5 30 a. m., 3 35, 5 10, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 30, 6 20, a. m., 12 40, 3 40, 5 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r. Agent

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect December 11, 1881.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail		No2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
8 40pm	10 30am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	10 05am
[illegible]	11 30	..Bluffton..	3 10	8 53
7 47	12 38	..Hartford..	2 19	7 47
8 40	1 55pm	..Muncie..	2 17	8 50
9 20am	6 25pm	..Cincinnati..	11 10a	4 40pm
10 45pm	6 05	..Indianapolis..	11 45	4 45pm

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL, General Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west. Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881.

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y. Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 45	11 20	5 26	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 26
Sedan			7 06	2 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 20	2 40
Butler	3 25	12 10am	8 20	3 40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Chi Ex.	Pac Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 20am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 20
Sedan			5 06	10 00
Corunna	2 18		5 18	10 06
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 25	11 26
Elkhart	3 41	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 21

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:00 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage. J. R. CURTIS,

Supt. M. ch. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG, Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 22, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
Chicago lv	5 30pm	9 10am	8 45am
Walkerton Junction		12 06am	12 07pm
Milford Junction		1 24	1 20
Syracuse		1 36	1 36
Cromwell		1 52	1 55
Albion		2 12	2 10
Avilla		2 34	2 48
Garrett	10 35	2 55	3 20
Auburn Junction	10 42	3 04	3 40
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	4 24
Defiance	11 53	4 25	5 10
Deshler	12 46am	5 22	6 16
Fostoria	1 39	6 20	7 16
Tiffin	2 09	6 46	7 46
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 10	9 00

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 30pm	6 10pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 05	7 48	9 10
Fostoria	10 51	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 41	10 40
Defiance	12 50am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville		11 42	12 25pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 12am	1 06
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 33
Avilla		12 36	1 58
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 20	2 43
Syracuse		1 36	3 02
Milford Junction		1 45	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 05	4 30
Chicago ar	8 55	6 10	7 35

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv.	9 20am	5 30pm	8 30pm	9 20p
Ft. Wayne	3 25pm	9 15	11 35	5 12a
Crestline	9 05	12 40am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield
Pittsburgh Ar.	6 00am	6 57	1 10pm	6 00p

STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	9 45pm	10 40p
Mansfield
Crestline Lv.	7 15pm	2 05pm	3 05am	7 21a
Ft. Wayne	12 55am	5 55	8 40	1 05p
Chicago Ar.	5 50	10 30	11 00	7 30p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:45 am.; Warsaw, 8:55 a. m., Columbia, 9:35 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:40 p.m.; Plymouth, 6.45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE
—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
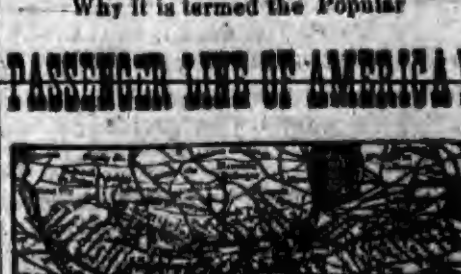
RY.

—AND YOU—
WILL DISCOVER
Why it is termed the Popular
PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the Great Cities of the West
Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.
THROUGH TICKETS
TO ALL POINTS
East, West, Northwest or Southwest
And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.
For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.
J. C. GAULT, H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen. Manager, Gen. Passenger Agent,
St. Louis.

Recorder's Off

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, MARCH 30, 1882. Number 13.

Auburn Courier.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY BY

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

D. D. MOODY

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Schaab & Beugnot's Store.

F. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will practice in all the state courts, and in the United States courts. Office on west side of Main street over Ed. Eldridge's.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates, municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 38 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor. John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

$1,000 Reward.

for any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DEBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 915 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. $1. Sold by Davenport, the druggist.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

ANNA SIMON, Adm'x.

James E. Rose, Att'y for estate.
Auburn, March 11, 1882.

Administratrix's Slae.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, will offer for sale at public outcry, at the late residence of the decedent, in Butler township, DeKalb county, Indiana, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the personal property of the decedent, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, farming implements, household furniture and various other articles. Sale to begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

TERMS: Sums of five dollars and under, cash; over five dollars, a credit of six months will be given, the purchaser giving his note, at interest, waiving benefit of valuation, with good security. ANN SIMON, Adm'x.

Administrator's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Bell, deceased, will offer at public sale, on the premises, on April 1, 1882, the following described land: A parcel of land, containing forty acres, off the east side of a tract of land containing one hundred acres, off the west side of the south-east quarter of section seven (7), township thirty-three (33), range twelve (12) east, in DeKalb county, Indiana. Terms:—One-third cash, the residue in two equal payments, at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at six per cent, and to be secured by mortgage on the land and personal security. Sale to begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

JOHN HARVEY, Administrator.
March 1 1882.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the north east quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of said section eleven and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north, thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said section, thence west on the south boundary line of said section to the place of beginning.

TERMS. One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Deferred payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

The Old Fireplace.

DEDICATED TO THE OLD SETTLERS OF THIS STATE.

Yes, the old fireplace must come down! And as I sit here alone and look into the dying embers and realize that it is perhaps for the last time, tears of genuine grief fill my eyes. Dear old fireplace—almost the last connecting link that lies between the past pioneer life and the present life of more advanced civilization. If these old bricks could speak, how much they could tell of the merry times that the little brother and sister used to have around its cheerful blaze, while mother sat near, patiently knitting the stockings and mittens to keep the busy little hands and feet warm; and of that other manly little fellow, who has gone out into the wide world alone to seek his fortune, if a mother's love and prayers could give him success, surely he would not fail. And it could tell of the merry laugh and many cheerful times, and oh! of the many times when we have sat and gazed into the glowing embers, while our hearts seemed almost bursting with anguish. God be thanked that these old bricks cannot talk, but like a good and faithful Mason, they will pass away into the everlasting future, and their secrets will be known only to the merciful Father in heaven. Farewell, dear old friend, an everlasting farewell! You had your faults, but they were few, and your virtues were many. I shall always regret your departure. No chilly looking old block stove will ever to me seem half so pleasant as thy cheerful open blaze; and as I think of thy coming and near destruction, I realize that perhaps when I get old, I, too, will be cast aside to make room for newer and more attractive friends, and I feel thankful that I ever learned to set my heart on things above and not on things of this earth, for they must all soon pass away, like the old fireplace.

MRS. B. A. DAVIS,
Hatch's Mills, Ind.

Mahogany.

This beautiful wood is brought chiefly from South America and Spain. The finest kind is imported from St. Domingo. We have all seen and heard of the beauty of mahogany wood. But we do not all know that mahogany was first employed in the repair of some of Sir Walter Raleigh's ships at Trinidad, in 1597. The discovery of the beauty of its grain for furniture and cabinet work was accidental. Dr. Gibbons, a physician of eminence, was building a house in King-street, Covent-garden. His brother, captain of a West Indiaman, had brought over some plank of mahogany as ballast, and he thought that the wood might be used in his brother's building, but the carpenters found the wood too hard for their tools, and objected to use it. Mrs. Gibbons shortly afterward wanted a small box made, so the doctor called upon his cabinet-maker and ordered him to make a box out of some wood that lay in his garden. The cabinet-maker also complained that the wood was too hard. But the doctor insisted upon its being used, as he wished to preserve it as a memento of his brother. When the box was completed, its fine color and polish attracted much attention, and he therefore ordered a bureau to be made of it. This was done, and it presented so fine an appearance that the cabinet-maker invited numerous persons to see it before it was sent home. Among the visitors was her Grace, the Duchess of Buckingham, who immediately begged some of the wood from Mr. Gibbons and employed the cabinet-maker to make her a bureau also.

Mahogany from this time became a fashionable wood, and the cabinet-maker, who at first objected to use it, made a great success by its introduction.

H. A. W.

* * *

Dakota

Is a territory double the size of England, and as large as France. All the New England states laid down on it would scarcely cover one third of it. New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland would not cover it. It is four times as large as Ohio, or Wisconsin, or Iowa. The population 200,000, of this number 40,000 live north of the 45 parallel (in what is known as northern Dakota), 25,000 in the Black Hills mining district, and the balance, 135,000 reside in southeastern Dakota.—Dakota News.

* * *

A small herd of four cattle were driven into the city to-day from DeKalb county, and will be slaughtered by a well known butcher. The combined weight of the four head was about 6,000. They were the finest specimens we have seen for many days. —[Fort Wayne News, March 22.

How Chase Became Chief Justice.

I am asked from Boston whether President Lincoln ever tendered the chief justiceship of the United States to Charles Sumner, and I answer, no! Chief Justice Taney died in October, 1864, and Mr. Sumner immediately urged the president to appoint as his successor Mr. Chase, who had resigned the secretaryship of the treasury some three months before. There was then much dissatisfaction with Lincoln's administration, and the friends of Mr. Chase were openly and secretly urging his nomination.

When Mr. Sumner came to Washington he renewed his request that Mr. Chase be appointed, and had several interviews with Mr. Lincoln on the subject. One day Mr. Lincoln suggested that he send for Mr. Chase and frankly tell him he wanted to nominate him as chief justice, and that he (Chase) would make the greatest and best chief justice the country had ever had, if he would only give up the idea of being elected president. Mr. Sumner replied that such a statement, however frank it might be, would never answer, as it would not only expose him (Mr. Lincoln) to criticisms as wanting to purchase an apponent, but it would be offensive to Mr. Chase, as an attempt to extort from him a pledge that he would never be a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Lincoln, who was quick-witted, saw the force of Mr. Sumner's argument, and pleasantly said: "Well, take this card and write on it the name of the man you desire to have appointed." Mr. Sumner wrote "Salmon P. Chase," and Salmon P. Chase was promptly nominated on the 6th of December, 1864. Sumner urged the immediate confirmation of the appointment, and, having carried it from the senate chamber, hastened to congratulate the new chief justice. As he came out of the room in which he conveyed the news, he met Mrs. Kate Sprague, who shook her index finger at him and said: "And you, too, Mr. Sumner? Are you in this business of shelving papa? But never mind. I will defeat you all!" Mr. Sumner used to relate this incident as showing how he had been rewarded for what he regarded as one of the most praiseworthy acts of his life. Beside, Mr. Lincoln was not the only candidate for the presidential chair who would lose a rival by the appointment of Judge Chase. Mr. Sumner had strong aspirations in that direction, but I don't think that he regarded the bench of the supreme court as a stepping-stone toward the White House. Had the senate found Mr. Johnson guilty on the impeachment charges, and had Ben Wade thus become president, Mr. Sumner would have been his secretary of state, and I am not sure that this did not influence Mr. Fessenden in his vote of "Not Guilty." Had General Grant offered Mr. Sumner the same position it would have been accepted, with the understanding that he was to manage the foreign policy untrammeled.—[Ben Perley Poore, in Boston Journal.

Origin of the Short-Horn.

The London Sive Stock Journal comments as follows on the only history of the Short-horn breed of cattle, lately published in book form in London by Rev. W. H. Beever:

"One is interested to learn that it was not till towards the close of the last century that systematic attempts were made to improve the breed of live stock. To Mr. Bakewell, of Dishly, who lived between 1726 and 1795, belongs the honor of having been the first to move in this direction. In former times the production of beef and mutton did not enter into the speculations of writers, or the calculations of agriculturists and it was not till a greatly increased demand for animal food came from the large manufacturing centers that farmers began to give attention to the all-important matter of breeding. After Mr. Bailey came Messrs. Cully & Charge and they were succeeded by Messrs. Colling, Mason, Taylor, Nesham, Seymour and others, by whose exertions this part of the country was vastly benefited. When the Messrs. Colling commenced operations there was undoubtedly a large store of old-fashioned material in the hands of the surrounding land-owners, notably the Rislabies, of Studley Royal. C. Colling's great move seems to have been the purchase of the cow Favorite and her daughter from Mr. Maynard, and his falling in with the historic Hubback. His other cows he picked up as opportunity offered from neighboring herds, as did his brother Robert. The great difference between the two brothers, who had so much in common, was that Robert kept all but clear of the "alloy" infusion which Charles, with such gratifying results, adopted.

A French Reporter's Trick.

One of the most brilliant feats of French reporting is the following. It happened at the time when the great Tropmann murder case was agitating Paris and France, and when everybody was eager for details.

A reporter who had the matter in hand left Paris for Cernay, where the father of Tropmann resided. He arrived, called upon the justice of the peace and the commissionaire de police, invited them to follow him to the Mairie, took his seat in the judge's chair, and there, with unparalleled audacity, ordered the guard champetre to go and bring before him the assassin's father. The officer did not say a word; the reporter had conquered them by his air and demeanor. When the father of Tropmann was brought before him the reporter interrogated him as though officially commissioned to do so. The result of the cross-questioning was that the son had written to his father on the eve and on the day of the crime. "Monsieur le Commissionaire," said the reporter, "please go to the witness's house and seize these letters." The functionary obeyed; the letters were brought, the reporter read them, and found them full of evidence of Tropmann's guilt, copied them carefully and with a solemn air. Then, with respect, he handed over the originals to the justice of the peace, asked him to seal them carefully and keep them for the furthur use of the court. The reporter put the copies into his pocket, saluted the gentlemen and left.

It was one o'clock in the afternoon, and the train that was to bear his letters to Paris would not leave before evening. If he sent his report by that train it would be too late for the morning edition of his paper. Besides, he met two other Paris reporters, who would soon learn the news at Cernay and send them on to Paris at the same time he did his report. What does he do? He goes up to his brother reporters and says: "I am dying of hunger, my friends. Let us breakfast together. You go to the tavern there and order a good Dejeuner, with plenty of wine, you know, and I'll come presently." The two reporters did as he bade them, while our friend jumped into a wagon and had himself driven to the station; after hard begging and giving money, was allowed to leave on a luggage train then about ready to start, caught a passenger train for Paris furthur on, and arrived at the office of his paper late at night. He communicated his information, and the first page, which was "closed up," was completely reset. The next morning eighty thousand copies of the paper were sold.

* * *

At the regular session of the Methodist Sunday-school of Auburn, Indiana, March 19, 1882, a committee was appointed to draft resolutions, upon the death of Lura Sheffer, who was a member of the infant class of the school. The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in his all-wise providence to remove from us by death Lura Sheffer, therefore be it

Resolved, That in her death our shool has lost a most estimable, earnest and loving member, and the infant class one of its brightest and most regular attendants.

Resolved, That while we bow submissively to the will of Providence, we tender our earnest and heartfelt sympathy to her sorrowing parents and relatives in their sad bereavement.

We leave, Lord, in Thy keeping,
Her precious dust; 'twill be
Safe where Thy saints are sleeping,
But still o'erwatched by Thee,
While the sweet bird from her prison
Soars to her Savior free.

Keep, Lord, our treasure, keep her,
Though our hearts are sore to-day;
Thou knowest while we weep for her,
We would say Thee nay;
For the free bird's song is singing
In the land of endless day.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and that they be published in city papers, also a copy kept in the minutes of the school.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

—Don't fail to see Anderson Bros. before you buy your carriages. All those holding orders for the varnishing of their buggies will come to Waterloo.
10-4w. ANDERSON BROS., Waterloo.

Town Elections.

Attorney General Baldwin yesterday gave the following opinion regarding the holding of town elections:

SIR—In reply to the question of your president of the board of town trustees, I find that March 30, 1881, (Acts 1881, p. 100), the legislature passed an act wherein it was provided that in town elections there should be but one place of voting in such town. April 21, 1881, the legislature passed the general election law, and according to section 60 (Acts 1881, p. 496) each ward is constituted a voting precinct. This section 50, being the last expression of the legislative will upon this subject, repeals the act of March 30, 1881. I find that the board of commissioners for the revision of the statutes have omitted the act of March 30, 1881, treating it as repealed by section 60. Section 60 must then be followed in all its provisions. If your town has five wards at the coming town election, each ward at least must constitute one voting precinct, but where any ward contains over 350 voters it must be divided into two or more precincts, if by such division the proposed precinct will have nearer the number of 350 voters than it has at the time of the proposed division; but no changes or divisions can be made without giving notice at least one month before any town election, either by publication in a newspaper or by properly posting notices."

What has been said in this letter refers only to town elections; the language is also applicable to city elections having a population of less than 15,000 voters. It does not apply to township or county elections.—Indianapolis Sentinel, March 21st.

The Term of County Officers.

[Indianapolis Sentinel].

Yesterday afternoon Attorney General Baldwin rendered the following opinion, which is of much interest and importance:

INDIANAPOLIS, March 20, 1882.

J. A. McKnight, Boswell, Ind.

SIR—You put this very important question: The term of our county auditor will expire November 4, 1884, the day of the state and national election. Under the constitutional amendments, shall his successor be elected next fall or in 1884? I think as a matter of safety, the successor had better be chosen this fall (1882). Suppose it is not done by the political party to which your auditor belongs, and the day of election some man causes his name to be put upon the ticket of the opposite party, or procures a few friends to vote for him and November 4, 1884, early in the morning demands the office, I doubt whether the constitutional provision "that every officer, other than a member of the general assembly, shall hold his office for such term as shall be provided by law and until his successor is elected and qualified," would apply, for his successor was elected in 1882. No prudent lawyer would allow his client to take any such risk. "Early" is as good a political maxim for the candidate as for the voter.

D. P. BALDWIN.

An Important Matter.

As there has been a conciderable number of enquiries regarding township trustees who are candidates for re-election holding the position of inspector, the Attorney General yesterday rendered the following opinion.

Henry Worcum, Esq., Kendallville.

SIR—I do not see how a township trustee who is a candidate for re-election can act as inspector of elections. Section 10 of the election law, acts 1881, p. 438, expressly provides that no inspector who is a candidate for any office to be voted for at such elections can be an inspector. By virtue of his office every township trustee is inspector of elections in the precinct where he resides.

Where such trustees is a candidate I think there is a vacancy in the office of inspector of elections, and there should be chosen an inspector according to the provisions of section 14 of that act, which provides that the voters at the opening of the polls shall choose an inspector in certain cases.—Indianapolis Sentinel, March 21st.

That poor bedridden, invalid wife, sister, mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health by a few bottles of Hop Bitters. Will you let them suffer? when so easily cured.

—The Burch plow is in steel or chilled metal. 10-4t

—No other plow holds as easy as the Burch plow. 10-4t

THE BALL OPENED.

In our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

ROOT & COMPANY

Have now opened up, and are displaying their entire spring purchase of

CARPETINGS,
CURTAIN GOODS, AND
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS,

Comprising large and choice assortments of

AXMINSTER CARPETS,
BODY BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRY CARPETS,
Extra SUPER INGRAINS,

SUPER ALL WOOL CARPETS,
DOUBLE COTTON CHAINS,
IRISH BRUSSELS,
FINE RAG CARPETS,
HEMP CARPETS,

COTTAGE CARPETS,
OFFICE CARPETS,
TURKISH RUGS,
SMYRNA RUGS,
COCOA AND
CHINA MATTINGS.

LACE CURTAINS,
NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS,
ANTIQUE CURTAINS,
SILK TAPESTRIES,
HOLLANDS, SHADES,

FIXTURES,
CRETONNES,
STAIR RODS,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
POLES, ETC., ETC.

HOUSEKEEPERS

About refurnishing their homes, are cordially inviteq to examine our stock of above goods before purchasing, as we are prepared to convince them that

OUR PRICES: Are Low.
STYLES: The Choicest
QUALITY: The Best

Offered in this section of the State

ROOT AND COMPANY.

46 and 48 Calhoun St.
FT. WAYNE, ... INDIANA

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

SMALL-POX is spreading in the Lehigh Valley of Pennsylvania.

DR. LEWIS, a Chicago opponent of vaccination, has died of small-pox.

A JEWISH rabbi at Waco, Texas, has become insane on the subject of spiritualism.

SWALLOWING a glass of hot water before meals is the latest "sure cure" for dyspepsia.

EX-GOVERNOR OGLESBY has entered the field as a candidate for Senator in Congress from Illinois.

THE Maryland Legislature has passed an act establishing the whipping-post for the benefit of wife-beaters.

CONDUCTORS by the score are being discharged from the Union Pacific Railroad for alleged dishonesty.

A COMPANY has been formed in London which proposes to deal exclusively in American railway shares.

THE late census of the German Empire shows a population of 45,234,061, being an increase of 2,506,689 in five years.

REPORTS of bank deposits in Ireland during the last year show that prosperity is increasing among the poorer classes.

MISS ARMAINDO has completed her bicycle race of 600 miles in six days, at St. Louis, with 17½ miles thrown in for good measure.

IT is said that a majority of the Committee on Woman's Suffrage in the Senate of Congress favors the abolition of woman suffrage in Utah.

SECRETARY FRELINGHUYSEN has demanded that the American citizens in British prisons, on charges of violating British laws, shall have trials without delay.

THE Committee on Territories of the Senate of Congress, is reported to be unanimously in favor of the bill for the admission of Southern Dakota as a State into the Union.

EX-SENATOR DORSEY is reported as saying that he is anxious for a speedy trial, and confident that he will be able to establish his innocene of participation in star route frauds.

A "DOWN EAST" paper thinks that "unkissed kisses" and "unthunk thoughts," are a mere matter of moonshine when compared with the mischief in politics of "unvoted votes."

THE Protestant Christian Chinamen have been relieved from taxation for religious festivals in China. They number about 15,000. The Roman Catholics secured such exemption many years ago.

A SENATE amendment to the Post-office appropriation bill restores the franking privilege in a modified form. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 45 yeas to 15 nays, and was in no sense a party measure.

FOUR alien paupers were sent back to Europe from Buffalo recently, by the county authorities. The county saves $3,000 a head by this operation. In all, the authorities have sent back twenty-five persons.

A WOODEN shoe factory at Green Bay, Wis., is kept busy supplying the demand for that article. The shoes are made of green bass wood, smoked and dried after they are made, and are sold at thirty cents a pair.

Fifty-one teachers and scholars of the Chinese Sunday school which meets at Farwell Hall, in Chicago, have sent a petition to President Arthur asking him to veto the Chinese anti-immigration bill if passed by Congress.

THE President and Cabinet decide that the finding in the Whittaker case be set aside for irregularity, and that he shall be released from arrest, but dismissed from the service on the recommendation of the West Point Academic Board. So ends that case.

THE American Woman Suffrage Association has, this Winter, forwarded to Congress upwards of 4,000 names of petitioners for a sixteenth amendment. It has also circulated 4,000 petitions for Presidential suffrage for women, like municipal suffrage, can be established by act of legislature.

THE Iowa Senate has passed the Larabee bill, which provides that a minimum tax be collected of persons engaged in the sale of wine, beer, or alcoholic beverages. It provides $50 per annum for corporated towns, $100 in cities of the second-class, and $200 in cities of the first-class, payable quarterly in advance.

A FURIOUS snow storm raged along the line of the Union Pacific railroad Saturday and Sunday, the 18th and 19th insts, stopping trains and threatening much damage from resulting floods. At Geneva, Nevada, an avalanche of snow buried three whites and fifteen Indians. Score one good guess for Venner.

INSTEAD of any attempt being made by the military authorities to prevent the trial of Mason by the civil courts, it appears that General Hancock so long ago as September 16th, directed that the attorney for the district be consulted in the matter, and if he proposed to bring Mason before the district courts he should be handed over to the civil authorities for trial, instead of being tried by general court martial.

A FEW years ago it was estimated that, owing to the escape of water from the main channel of the Mississippi river, more than 30,000,000 of the richest lands bordering it were rendered unfit for cultivation, and these "drowned lands" were unsaleable. It is thought that cost of suitable levees from Cairo to the mouth of the river would be $33,000,000.

MORE success in converting the Chinese to Christianity has been achieved in Salt Lake than anywhere else in this country. The cause lies, according to the conductors of the work, in the use of stirring Methodist hymns. Little is done in these meetings except to sing. The music, so unlike his own, enraptures the Chinaman, and after that the conversion is easy.

THE question of peace or war in Europe is the all absorbing one in that country just now, in view of the threatening situation between Austria and Russia, with reference to the revolt of the Balkan nationalities against Austrian domination. Should there be war not only Austria and Russia will be involved, but Turkey and Germany would almost inevitably be drawn into the bloody contest. But the more intelligent sentiment of Europe appears to be that war will be averted, at least for the present.

SO MANY petty larcenies have been committed by visitors to the White House, that a new rule has been made in regard to admitting strangers and the public generally. They are no longer admitted into the whole suite of rooms on the ground floor. A permit is necessary to get into any but the east room. Recently four majolica ornaments were stolen from the mantle of the green room, and the President justifiably ordered that the promiscuous crowd who frequent the White House should be confined to the east room, where there is nothing much that can be taken away, except the chairs and sofas.

THE assassination of Davis, the noted raider of Tennessee moonshiners, was deliberate and cowardly, and was made the occasion of a jollification by the murderers. Davis had been bold and efficient as a government agent, and the proprietors of illicit whisky distilleries in the mountains concluded that he must die or they must go out of business. They chose the former alternative. About twenty of them got some oysters, crackers, and other food for a meal, took along plenty of whisky, and camped on a road which they knew Davis would take that night. Concealing themselves behind a pile of logs, and laying out their rifles in readiness, they diverted themselves with eating and drinking until Davis came along. Then they riddled his body with bullets.

THE Rugby colony is not a success, but Governor Hawkins, of Tennessee, says that it may not prove a complete failure. He regards it as having been unfortunately located and badly managed. "There are 200 persons still there," he adds; "a few are Germans and Americans. The great majority are Englishmen who are not workers. Many of them are younger sons of noble or wealthy families, and, as a rule, they are thriftless and dissipated. They have no liking for the kind of work required of them, or, for that matter, for any kind of work. They spend their time in hunting and in playing billiards, lawn tennis, and in other kinds of amusements." There is plenty of fine iron ore on the land, but the colonists make no efforts to mine it. Only about fifty acres of the original purchase of 30,000 are under cultivation.

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Jay Gould has purchased $1,000,000 worth of real estate in New York city.

South Bethlehem, Pa., with a population of 4,000, has 120 cases of small-pox.

Guiteau is making nearly $50 a day by the sale of his autographs and portraits.

At Elgin, Ill., Mrs. Dora Miller became insane from attending a Methodist revival.

Crop reports from all parts of Central Illinois are very encouraging in regard to fall wheat.

The Adjutant General reports that for 1881 the militia of Illinois numbered 7,148 men.

The President has signed the bill appropriating $150,000 for the relief of the Mississippi sufferers.

Colonel Bliss promises that there shall be "no let-up" in the star-route conspiracy prosecution.

The Massachusetts Legislature has passed a bill permitting women to practice as attorneys at law.

The tide of immigration from Europe to this country, will, it is believed, exceed this year even the heavy figures of 1881.

Ellis, who made the confession regarding the murder of the Gibbons family at Ashland, Ky., now states that he lied.

A line of Bremen steamers has been chartered to bring 10,000 emigrants from that port to Baltimore at the rate of 1,000 a week.

Jay Gould denies the statement that Russell Sage and himself have quarreled regarding the conduct of the bull movement in Wall street.

Crow Dog, the Sioux Chief, is being tried at Deadwood, D. T., for the murder of Spotted Tail last August. He entered a plea of not guilty.

The Wisconsin Assembly by a vote of 49 to 43 refused to order the bill for the restoration of capital punishment in that State to a third reading.

At Lawrence, Mass., the strikers and others idle on their account number 3,000. They have refused to work at the Pacific Mill on reduced wages.

Governor Jerome, of Michigan, has issued a circular, thanking the donors to the relief fund for the sufferers by the fires in the Huron Peninsula.

At a Republican Congressional caucus held in Washington, it was unanimously agreed to oppose the bill to reduce the tax on whisky, tobacco, etc.

At Omaha the Grand Jury have found indictments against twenty of the leaders of the labor riots. Walsh, the President of the Labor Union, was jailed.

Great destruction has been caused at Milliken's Bend, where a crevasse has developed into a whirlpool, caused by meeting the back water from the Yazoo.

At Newport, Mich., a saloonist has sued the Catholic priest of the town for $10,000 damages for having in the church called him "a drunkard and a bad man."

James Fox, a blacksmith's helper in Troy, after driving in the head of a barrel with his fist, issued a challenge to John L. Sullivan to fight for $2,500 within six months.

New Orleans dispatches report that the breaking of the levee at Ship's Bayou has submerged most of the plantations in Tensas Parish, La. The water is 20 feet deep.

If the anti-Chinese bill is passed the Celestials propose to dissolve diplomatic relations between their country and this, and to discriminate against Americans trading in China.

Dr. Susan Edson denies that she furnished news from the late President's sick-room for the benefit of stock operators, but intimates that one of the male physicians did so.

At Utica, N. Y., a lunatic named Remshaw shot and dangerously wounded Dr. Gray, of the Lunatic Asylum. He believed he was an ambassador from heaven and Guiteau.

Parents at Fall River have been detected in issuing forged school cards misrepresenting the ages of their young children, so as to keep the little ones at work full time in the mills.

Minister Morton has replied to the Secretary of State with reference to the Chili-Peruvian affair, that he had nothing to do with the business of the guano and nitrate firm of which he was a member.

Father Ryan took a hand in the strike at Lawrence, Mass., denouncing from his pulpit the leaders in the movement, and urging the workmen to return to the mill. Many of his congregation left the church.

At Lynn, Mass., the explosion of the boiler in a shoe factory caused the death of six persons, and seriously injured a number of others. The proprietors were aware of the bad condition of the boiler, and will doubtless be held responsible for the catastrophe.

Elder Morgan, Presiding Elder of the Mormon Church of Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, left for Utah with 100 converts, gathered in the above states. At Nashville they will be joined by fifty or seventy-five more.

Minister Lowell has responded to the inquiries made in response to a resolution in Congress relative to the imprisonment by the British Government of Irish-Americans that, as far as he could discover, the prisoners had broken the laws, and were therefore belligerents.

General Ben Butler, counsel for the Iowa Farmers' Association in the barb-wire suits brought by Washburn, Moen & Co., has interested Attorney General Brewster in the question of the validity of the various patents, which, he believes, will result in favor of the farmers.

The reports received at the War Department estimate that there are 80,000 destitute sufferers in the flooded regions between Cairo, Ill., and the Gulf of Mexico. It is believed that an appropriation of $1,000,000 by Congress will be required before these people can again become self-supporting.

Two women of good reputation at Ipswich, Mass., have been arrested for stealing knick knacks at a charity fair. They are not likely to be prosecuted, however, as their friends threaten to proceed against the fair managers for running a lottery unless they drop the matter.

Navin, the ex-Mayor of Adrian, Mich., is found to be much deeper in the mire of embezzlement than at first supposed. As agent for a number of private citizens he is alleged to have encumbered their property and appropriated to his own use the funds thus raised.

Scoville says that he can get no counsel to attend to Guiteau's case. The assassin is sure he will be released by the court in banc in which case he proposes to leave for Europe, and, after "doing" the continent, return to the United States to lecture. Scoville thinks it would be better for the cranks of the future that Guiteau should be hanged.

It has been recently discovered that the Mexican Claims Commission at Washington have been duped by a ring of conscienceless Jews, who have, by perjury and fraud, secured awards amounting to $1,200,000 for cotton alleged to have been seized by the Mexican Government. Further payments to the ring have been stopped, and the nefarious business is to be investigated.

The Garfield Monument Committee at Cleveland, Ohio, have issued a further appeal to the public on behalf of the fund. So far they have received $100,000, of which $75,000 has been contributed by Cleveland. To make the monument a national one, they desire $150,000 more from all the States and Territories, and have every confidence that the extra sum required will be easily raised throughout the country, the pro rata from each State and Territory being comparatively small.

The pistol idiot is again abroad. Last Saturday Miss Blake, of Wooster, O., took up an old pistol, and playfully snapped it at the 2-year-old daughter of A. N. Alcock to scare her. She snapped it two or three times, when it went off, the ball entering the child's left eye near the outer edge. Of course Miss Blake "never dreamed the thing was loaded," it was so very old, you knew, but some one had slipped a cartridge in and the child was shot. It is thought, however, she will recover.

Foreign.

Chios, Greece, is again afflicted with earthquakes.

The Tunisian tribes on the borders of Tripoli have again revolted.

The Government of Denmark will send out a polar expedition in July.

In event of a war Greece proposes to remain neutral, especially with regard to Turkey.

The Russians will send an expedition to explore Northern Siberia in the summer.

The son of Herr Busch, the German author, was drowned on the voyage home from this country.

Russia desires peace, and has so instructed her ambassadors to report to foreign governments.

Russian agents in Bosnia and Herzegovina are agitating the Slavs against the Austrians.

A Chilian official paper publishes a protocol of peace with Peru on terms arranged by Mr. Trescott.

In the event of an Austro-Prussian war, it is hinted that Germany would take an active part on behalf of Austria.

It is considered certain that the French Parliament will repeal the decree prohibitive of American salted meats.

At Odessa a Nihilist printing office has been discovered and seized, and several persons connected with it arrested.

A Roman journal recommends that preparations be made by Italy to unite with Germany and Austria against Russia and France.

The scandal case in Rome, in which the Countess Lambertini claims to be the daughter of the late Cardinal Antonelli, will be retried.

The Empress of Austria did not hunt one day lately, because the weather looked threatening, but walked ten miles instead.

A memorial asking that greater leniency be shown the suspects in prison has been signed by fifty Liberal members of Parliament.

The Prussian Economic Council at Berlin, rejected the tobacco monopoly bill, but adopted one in favor of a higher tax on the fragrant weed.

In an interview with General Lew Wallace, the United States Ambassador, the Sultan of Turkey expressed the greatest friendship for America.

At Dublin, Ireland, a cannister of gunpowder was thrown into a house where several detectives lived. Property was badly damaged, but no one hurt.

The friends of Dr. Lamson, recently sentenced to death for the poisoning of his relative, Percy John, will endeavor to plead the insanity theory in his behalf.

The London Times believes that war between Austria and Russia is always a possibility, but that there is no immediate likelihood of an outbreak between those powers.

The London Daily News says that the lack of unanimity among American publishers is the cause of the suspension of negotiations of the Anglo-American copyright treaty.

Count Von Moltke, the Chief of the German army, will leave Berlin for Switzerland shortly, on furlough. This is accepted as an indication that there is no fear of war in Europe just now.

It is said that Prince Bismarck apologized to the German Parliament for not attending to national affairs, by stating that his time was fully occupied in preserving the peace of Europe.

The Queen has sent a message to Parliament asking for a provision for Prince Leopold on his approaching marriage. The Radicals, headed by Henry Labouchere, will oppose a grant.

A brace of French Canadian swindlers, by false representations, fleeced Montreal merchants of over $150,000 worth of goods, with which they fled to Chicago. A portion of the property has been seized there.

A rate collector and agent was shot and mortally wounded while driving with his family to church near Clonmellon, County West Meath, Ireland. Other members of his family were also wounded.

Skobeleff asserts that the Czar not only indorsed his Pan-Slavic speech, but in an audience with him, advised him not to withdraw a word of it. Since his return to St. Petersburg the Czar and the people have lionized him.

It is believed that the Czar has indirectly treated with the Nihilist leaders, they promising him immunity from assassination, and he extending imperial clemency to the prisoners now under various sentences.

The Costa Rica earthquake was true as regards the quake, and three churches and a number of buildings were destroyed in Cartago, but fortunately no lives were lost. The first dispatch from Panama said 8,000 persons were killed.

THE STATE.

The Evansville Majolica works have reorganized and increased their capital to $90,000. Active operations will be begun in about sixty days.

A telephone line connecting Rushville, Arlington, Carthage, New Castle, Knightstown, Dunreith, Spiceland, and eventually Indianapolis, is in course of construction, and it is said will be rapidly pushed.

The grocery of F. Moss, the dwelling of J. B. Morgan, and two other houses at New London, were burned by an incendiary on Monday. Loss about $5,000. Moss has been arrested for setting his store on fire to realize his insurance.

Elder Jacob Berkey, a Dunkard preacher, well known over the north part of this state, who moved to Texas a few years ago, was drowned near Gainesville, in that state, on the 5th inst. while crossing a swollen stream on horseback.

Wm. W. Crane, an old and wealthy farmer near Livonia, felt something about his bed that he supposed to be a cat. He arose partly up and sang out, "'Scat," when he received a terrific blow across the forehead from a club. The ruffian fled out the door, and no clew to his identity has been found.

The fruit buds of the southern part of the State are uninjured and there is a prospect of an immense crop of all kinds of fruit. Peach and plum trees in Floyd county are already full of bloom. The strawberry and raspberry plants look very promising for an abundant yield.

The jury in the case of James P. Lepecum, of New Albany, who was sued by George W. Avery, for the seduction of his wife, the damages being placed at $10,000, found Lepecum guilty but placed the damages at only one cent. Mrs. Avery confessed to her husband and committed suicide some months ago.

Timothy Russell, an inmate of the Wayne county poor-house, was found dying in the woods near Dalton, in the northern part of the county, Sunday evening. He had obtained permission of the Superintendent on Saturday morning to walk over to Dalton to see his sister. It is thought the old man lost his way in the darkness and wandered around until his strength was exhausted, and he laid down on the wet ground and died of exposure.

Miss Hermann died at the Cla county poor house, of mumps, after fasting sixty-four days. She began her long fast on January 11, since which time nothing but water has passed her lips, except on one occasion, soon after she commenced, when she took a very small piece of apple. Her hair turned entirely gray during the last three weeks. Otherwise she appeared no thinner than many living persons.

General De Witt Clinton Thomas died of dropsy at Salem, a few days ago, aged fiftysix years. He was a native of that place and a son of Judge Thomas. He was a corporal in Captain's Abraham De Witt's company, second Indiana regiment, in the Mexican war, and at the battle of Buena Vista was severely wounded by the Mexican Lancers and carried off the field by a comrad. He was lieutenant-colonel of the eighteenth Indiana, and was promoted colonel of the ninty-third Indiana regiment during the war of the rebellion. He was promoted to a brigadier-generalship, and was severely wounded and discharged on a pension. He was in the thirty battles and skirmishes.

COMMISSIONER DUDLEY has appointed Richard Duncan as Special Examiner of pension claims in Indiana.

ELECTRIC lights of 10,000 candle power, are to be placed forthwith on the tower of the court house at Indianapolis.

IT is believed by well-informed persons that the Vincennes lottery is making money for its operators at the rate of $100,000 a year.

JUDGE HARRINGTON, a leading attorney and prominent temperance worker, of Indianapolis, dropped dead in his office Monday morning.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BALDWIN, in response to inquiries, decides that where a county officer's term expires on November 4th, 1884, the day of the State and National election, it will be prudent to elect his successor at the election in 1882. In other words, in all cases where an officer's term will expire before his successor can be elected and qualified in 1884 it will be the safest policy to elect such successor in 1882. He also decides that a Township Trustee who is a candidate for re-election cannot act as an Inspector of such election.

A COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT in this State, wrote recently to Superintendent Bloss, complaining of the ignorance among teachers on the subject of history, and suggesting a reform. He says he visited a school where the teacher was ignorant of the present boundaries of Turkey. A teacher applied to him for a license. He was asked to name the present Governor of Indiana. The response promptly came, "Arthur." He was again asked how he came to be Governor, and the answer was equally prompt, "By the Greenback vote." He suggests that teachers be examined not only on text-book history, but on the unwritten history of to-day.

The fashion of adopting one particular flower and using its corresponding perfume has lost none of its prestige. Artificial flowers are still perfumed with the odor of the blossoms they imitate.

TABLE TALK.

Denver says she has 60,000.

Canada's debt is $154,000,000.

Pear buttons come from Vienna.

Red straw hats will be popular next season.

The prince of Wales drinks no wine but sherry.

At Harvard only one man in three has a perfect chest.

It cost a Cazenovia, N. Y., man $1,000 to steal a sack of flour.

Kansas has 200 Presbyterian churches with 12,044 members.

Jamica raises more fruit than her ships can bring us.

The pope has decided to send a papal delegate to Canada.

A down east florist has a camelia plantation seventy years old.

Dr. Morgan Dix has sixteen assistant ministers in the Trinity parish.

Baldwin county, Alabama, has no resident lawyer, nor has it a jail.

At Sing Sing, one thousand convicts make stoves for an Albany firm.

By becoming an Odd Fellow an old bachelor may become a grand sire.

John C. Calhoun is to have a costly monument and statue in Charleston.

It is estimated that 25,000 New Yorkers will "Yurrup" this summer.

Faber, the pencil man, gets the wood for his pencils from Ceader Key, Fla.,

Mr. Blackstock, of Jefferson, Ga., has nineteen children. Fertile stock.

The elopement of the Romeo and Juliet disbanded a dramatic troupe in Illinois.

One Michigan town has a brine vat 200 feet long, 125 feet wide and 18 feet deep.

When a man coins his own words he does not necessarily make sense of them.

The telegraph work of England has now been very largely confided to women.

Farmers of Wilson county, Kansas, will make a specialty of castor beans this year.

Maine has three Mormon churches and more than a dozen Mormon preachers.

The chief of the Cherokees is a polished gent in broadcloth, emerald shirt stud, etc.

Habits are soon assumed, but when we strive to strip them off 'tis being flayed alive.

Ten thousand plants from a Baltimore tea garden are being planted in Lolusia, Florida.

A great many men are like a rocking horse—they are always on the go, but never get ahead.

John Strauss, the waltz writer, has been engaged to conduct a musical performance in New York.

A royal college of music is to be founded in London, to which $200,000 has already been subscribed.

In Tensas and Madison parishes, La. buffalo gnats are killing the horses and mules to an alarming extent.

Benicia, Cal., whence John C. Heenan came, is now considered to be the intellectual center of California.

A photographer in Providence, R.I., has been fined $10 and cost for following his usual vocation on Sunday.

Eleven English clergymen recently exhibited their pets at a dog show, and many clergymen were among the spectators.

A Boston paper says that it never knew a detective to have a correct theory of a murder until after the culprit was caught.

Many a man, after marriage, wishes he had one-tenth of the money he had fooled away on other girls, to buy a baby carriage with.

The Christian Advocate mentions the case of an Irish girl who said she joined the Methodist church "on suspicion" for six months.

A soldier at Fort Cœur d'Alene, Idaho, caught 4,626 trout with hook and line during the year 1881. The largest one weighed ten pounds.

The city charter of Portland, Maine, which requires a candidate for mayor to have a majority of all the votes cast, has resulted in no choice ten times in past fifty years.

The Chicago exchange for woman's work reports total sales last year of $8,660; of that amount $4,987 was received for fruit, pickles and cakes, the remainder for sewing work.

One hundred thousand elephants are slaughtered every year to supply the ivory of the world. The 1,200,000 pounds of ivory used by England in a year requires a sacrifice of 30,000 of the beasts.

The new house which Mr. Samuel J. Tilden is building on the site of his former mansion, 15 Gramarcy Park, will be one of the costliest on Manhattan Island, the estimates running all the way from $400,000 to $600,000.

The scarcity and high price of cabbage the present winter should be a reminder of the increased vigilance needed in fighting the cabbage worm the coming season. Tar-water has been successfully used on these worms, currant worms, potato bugs and other insects. Put two quarts of gas tar in a pail, and fill the pail with water; stir it up well, and let the tar settle. Then sprinkle the plants with the water from a sprinkling pot. This has proven more effective than Paris green.

Young women who don't know how much influence you have over young men. If you would labor earnestly, we should not have so many dissipated young men in our land. Do not let them fill a drunkard's grave. I suppose you will say, "I am not to blame; I don't believe we have anything to do with young men's getting drunk." Think a moment. Did you ever do anything to prevent them? Did you ever go with a young man when he had been drinking a little? "I believe so." Well, did you think as much of him as you did before he drank? "No." You should have told him: "If you drink I will not go with you any more." You might have saved him from a drunkard's grave. Will you say to that young man who is attentive to you, that you do not mean to go with any young man who drinks one drop of liquor? He may shun you a few days, but he will think of it, and will make up his mind that you are right, for what woman wants a drunken husband.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The decision of the Republican caucus last night to oppose the reduction of the internal revenue tax, renders it improbable that Mr. Schufeldt's bill will get through. The reduction proposed by the committee's bill is $200,000 a day.

It is said the report of the Secretary of the Interior will show that millions of acres of railroad land grants have been forfeited, and, by act of Congress, should be returned to the people.

The rumor that Collector Robertson, of New York, will be sent abroad, and his place filled by Commissioner French, a New York Stalwart, is revived by his presence here, and is by many believed well founded. Secretary Folger is said to favor early action.

The course of the Republicans, in deciding to oppose the reduction of the internal revenue tax, continues to be subject of much comment. There is no doubt that they will be able to carry out their purpose, for they will not be strongly opposed by the Mississippi Valley representatives, who see it in the hope of large appropriations for the river.

The House resolution, demanding the production of all of Shipherd's correspondence on the Peruvian Company, is creating a stir among certain Congressmen. Important developments are expected.

St. Patrick's Day was duly celebrated by a procession, etc. All the Irish in the departments were given a holiday. The President reviewed the procession as it passed the White House.

The Senate amendment to the Post Office Appropriation bill, giving $600,000 additional to the fast mail, is likely to be adopted by the House, as an increase in the service in all sections is needed, and nobody will be willing to vote against it, save some rural members. It will shorten the time from New York and Washington to Chicago and St. Louis materially.

The Chinese bill is almost sure to pass. The sober judgment of the House is against it, but the members are afraid to make a record to hurt their standing with workingmen.

Minister Lowell's course, regarding American citizens in British prisons is stirring up the friends of Irishmen a good deal, and they will probably take some action to express their disapproval of his course.

Mr. Hewitt, of New York, says the statement published in the New York Truth to-day, that the forged Garfield-Morey letter was offered the New York Sun before it was sold to the Truth in 1880, is doubtless true, as Dana so informed him long since.

The vote taken in the House this afternoon shows the Chinese bill scarcely as strong as was supposed by its friends. Mr. Page wanted to suspend the regular order for the day (private bills) and discontinue the discussion on the Chinese bill, and thought the requisite two-thirds would vote for it. The motion was, however, voted down—67 for to 64 against.

The Senate Committee on Territories to-day unanimously instructed Mr. Saunders to report a bill for the admission into the Union of Southern Dakota. The bill provides that the census of the population of Southern Dakota shall be taken during the coming Summer, and if the population is sufficient to entitle that part of the Territory to representation in Congress, it shall be admitted as a State, the present Territorial Government to continue, and the Territory remaining to be called North Dakota.

Dr. Rush, Secretary of the Distillers' Association, is here to see what can be done about the decision of the Republicans against the reduction of the whisky tax. He finds them very firm, and there is little prospect of a change in their policy.

There is a prospect of a very lively fight against the admission of Dakota and Washington Territories, but at least Dakota will probably be admitted.

The ocean mail attachment to the Post Office Appropriation bill will meet with flat opposition in the House, but it is not improbable that it may pass.

The House will probably adopt the resolution inquiring into Mason's sudden removal to New York, thereby evading legal proceedings. The sympathy for Mason and family is very great, and subscriptions for the latter are being made up.

The Chinese Minister refuses to express himself about the Chinese bill. He leaves next month for Spain, to which country he is also a minister.

An effort is to be made to pass the bill to reimburse Virginia and Maryland the money advanced by those States to erect public buildings in Washington when the Capitol was located here in the last century.

Representative Black is in a very critical condition.

Southern Congressmen say that it will take $1,000,000 to feed the sufferers in the Mississippi valley during the next sixty days.

A prominent Republican, a close and confidential friend of ex-Senator Conkling, and who stood by the latter faithfully while both were in Congress, and who has seen Conkling almost daily of late, says Conkling does not want and would not take any office at present. He says that had the President's letter offering Conkling the Supreme Judgeship reached the latter before the nomination was made, Conkling would have declined then and the public would have known nothing about it. He says Conkling's ambition is to return to the United States Senate from New York. His plan is to devote himself to law practice, and accumulate money enough to make him independently rich by the time of the next Senatorial election in New York. Meantime, he will keep out of politics. His friends approve this policy, and this gentleman says that the talk of Conkling accepting office under the present Administration is idle.

The talk of coming Cabinet changes is revived in all quarters, and the general belief seems to be that at least one Cabinet nomination will be sent in in a few days. It is claimed by friends of William Chandler that he will be nominated to be Secretary of the Navy this week. The best information to be obtained points to Chandler's nomination. There are rumors of a coming change also in the Interior Department, but Kirkwood's friends claim that he will remain.

The Garfield funeral bills are likely to cause a good deal of interesting discussion this week. The cocktail stories are doubtless true. They were the subject of a good deal of private remark among newspaper men at the time of the funeral, but it was decided as not best to make it public at such a time.

Scoville's announcement that he thinks it best that Guiteau should be hanged, troubles Guiteau. When he read it, it threw him into a rage, and then he became quite ill for a day or two. He thinks that Scoville should be hanged, and not himself. His appetite has faded, and he may become seriously ill over it. He evidently sees that there is little hope. Guiteau's bill of exceptions will probably not be heard in court for some weeks yet.

Kasson will offer an amendment to the Chinese bill to-day, limiting the prohibition to ten years. An amendment will also be offered making the prohibition apply only to coolie and servile labor. The better judgment of the House is against the bill, but the fear of the next election will probably pass it.

Everything points to a long and painful discussion of the tariff in the House. Every mention of the subject to either side is like a red rag to an infuriated bull. Mr. Kasson will demand consideration of the Commission bill next week.

Much interest is felt in the Paris Monetary Conference next month, and action on all silver measures is delayed until the result of the conference, which depends upon the attitude of Germany, is known. The latter it is stated, will favor the coinage of silver.

The Chicago petition for the pardon of Sergeant Mason, was presented to the President, this morning, by M. E. Dickson, accompanied by Senator Logan and the Chicago members of the House. The President will do nothing for six months or a year. The fund for Mrs. Mason will probably reach $5,000.

Ex-Senator Chaffee is again talked of for the Interior Department. It is believed that Chandler will be nominated for the Navy this week.

Senator Hill is much better. He hopes to ride out soon, if the weather will permit. His physicians say the cancer is entirely removed.

Jacob R. Shipherd accompanied by his wife, appeared this morning before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. An arrangement was made that in case of objection to any evidence the committee would adhere to its custom of consulting in secret, but that no such evidence would be taken except in open session. Shipherd desired to make some explanation in regard to his non-appearance, and asserted his good faith in the matter. He desired to avoid the mortification of having another messenger sent to New York to discover whether or not he might be trifling with the committee. His reputation for truthfulness was too well established, and he did not desire to have it questioned. He then sent up to the Chairman the certificate of his physicians, and desired to be put under oath as to the facts.

The Chairman explained the position of the committee, and assured him they had now no suspicion of any trifling or discourtesy on his part.

Secretary Hunt has received a cable message from Lieutenant Harber, of the Jeannette search party, at Nischneudinsk, as follows:

"The dispatch to take charge of the Lena received. I met Danenhower here. Will report after further consultation. His five men are essential to the conduct of the search in the Lena. No other seamen can be obtained. They are in splendid condition, and very anxious to return with me. They earnestly request me to take them. Answer here direct."

Secretary Hunt telegraphed to Lieutenant Harber that Danenhower's men could accompany him if they were able and willing to go.

A lively debate is anticipated in the Utah contested seat case next Saturday, should Mr. Calkins of the House Elections Committee, who is favorable to Campbell, succeed in getting the case up. The Democrats will support Cannon on the grounds that he was fairly elected.

It is said the Chinese Legation will at once remove to Spain if the Chinese bill is passed, and official intercourse will be virtually ended. A member of the legation, a relative of the Emperor of China, says his Government would deprecate such a law. The result would naturally be the loss of commercial relations so advantageous to this country.

Mrs. Mason arrived to-day, to accept the funds raised in her behalf. The amount is about $2,000. She was surprised and overjoyed.

The action of the Cabinet in setting aside the finding of the court martial in the Whittaker case creates much excitement in army circles, and there is talk of appealing to Congress. If so, the army martinets will get thoroughly snubbed. Congress is out of patience with West Point snobbery.

Commissioner Raum reports the affairs of the revenue districts at the South much improved. There is little illicit distilling now.

The net earnings of the various Pacific railroads for the past thirteen years amount to $157,000,000.

The impression here is that Colfax will probably succeed Calkins in the Thirteenth Indiana District.

The Ways and Means Committee has directed the sub-committee to report the bill abolishing all internal taxes except on spirits, malt liquors, manufactured tobacco, bank circulation, and alcoholic medicine, reserving for its discretion a reduction of tax on cigars and special taxes on dealers, manufacturers, etc.

There is much unfavorable comment of Special Envoy Trescott's course in Chili. The propriety of his taking the position of dictator of terms is doubted, and the terms seem to have been all that Chili demanded, with no attempt to preserve the autonomy of Peru or Bolivia.

Asiatic "Honesty."

Last year Angora, in Asia Minor, was devastated by locusts, and, in order to avert a repitition of the calamity, the Governor decreed that every able-bodied peasant should, during a certain period preceding the locust-hatching season, collect locust eggs, at the rate of two pounds' weight per diem, and deliver them in person to the nearest local authorities. The minimum quantity of ova to be gathered in this manner was fixed at 1,400,000 pounds' weight, and it was prescribed that a daily fine of two piastres should be levied upon each peasant who should fail to fulfil the duty thus imposed upon him. The practical results were as follows: During the first day or two of the period appointed for the collection of the ova a few rustics brought in their quota of eggs; but the large majority of the peasantry, far too indolent to take the trouble of digging them up, compounded with the powers that be by privily purchasing the necessary quantity of eggs from the officials at one piastre per kilogram, and then making public delivery of that quantity to the employees empowered to receive it. Thus the 200 hundred or 300 kilos of eggs really collected and delivered by law abiding peasants were sold over and over again to the shirkers. These tricksters saved half the amount of their fines, the officials pocketed a piastre by each transaction, and the crop of locusts for the coming season will in all probability, turn out even finer than that which all but ruined Angora last year.

Roads and Taxes in Central America

Panama Letter in New York World.

Foreigners would be somewhat surprised to see how affairs are conducted in this country. Take the streets and public thoroughfares, for instance. A monthly tax of $252 on vehicles is collected by the junta or board for keeping the streets in order. The collection is strictly enforced. The streets are kept in an abominable condition; they are never watered, and when the members of the chain gang attempt to clean them they start in to work where people are attending to business, to the detriment and annoyance of everybody. Garbage and filth of every kind is deposited on streets which are frequented at all hours of the day, and the effluvium is enough to breed an epidemic. The roads to the savanna, the only place in the country where one can enjoy the fresh air after a day's labor in a warm climate, are almost impassable. Ruts and broken wooden bridges are encountered at every step. Complaints have been repeatedly made by the newspapers, but to no purpose. The collector continues his monthly rounds, but the streets and thoroughfares remain the same, and after half the money has been squandered, heaven knows where, the merchants and others are compelled to contribute hundreds of dollars to have the the streets put in order for public convenience.

The Female Lobbyist.

Washington Evening Critic.

The female lobbyist is to be found at the capitol from early morn till late in the evening. She understands the needs of our country better than any two statesmen in Congress. She can tell you more about the proposed ship railway across the Isthmus of Tehauntepec than Jim Eads can, and can in language more eloquent than Uncle John Roach portray the necessity of subsidizing ocean steamships. In person she is beautiful; in character and carriage dignified; in her affections tender; is pure as the snows which crown the Alpine heights, yet as melting and gentle as they are when the summer sun has taught them to flow in silent rivulets down the mountain side, giving life and vigor to the hills and valleys below.

The Fate of the Revised New Testament.

Brooklyn Eagle.

It must be a sad disappointment to the learned and self-denying scholars who, at the unfortunate suggestion of the late Bishop Wilberforce, undertook this "revision" to find that so many of their best years have been spent in bulding a house upon the sand which no one deems safe to live in. The common people refuse the far-fetched English substituted for the old familiar strains. The learned, including bishops, deans, archdeacons, canons and univerisity professors are all "down" upon the revised edition. The demand for it has ceased, and the pastrycooks seem likely to possess it instead of the booksellers.

EXPRESSIONS.

Few things are impossible to diligence and skill.

Moral decision is a virtue of the highest order.

Strive and encourage a mind and will of your own.

Little things console us because little things afflict us.

Idleness is the key of beggary and the root of all evil.

Never be persuaded contrary to your better judgment.

Want of care does us more damage than want of knowledge.

The heart has reasons that the reason does not understand.

Opportunity, sooner or later, comes to all who work and wait.

Sow good services; sweet remembrances will grow with them.

How we do love to shut our eyes to what we fear may be reality.

Choose those companions who administer to your improvement.

A miser is a man who may be truthfully described as criminally poor.

Allowing the "blues" to master you is a sure way of cutting your life short.

When a couple make up their minds to get married it may be called a tie vote.

Clothes are the best passport among strangers—character among acquaintances.

It is possible for a man to be so very shrewd that in the long run he cheats himself.

There is nothing so likely to produce peace as to be well prepared to meet the enemy.

Chapin once said beautifully: "The fatal fact about the hypocrite is that he is a hypocrite."

Put a drop of honey on your tongue before you speak, and see how easy it is to make friends.

It is wonderful to note the number of men who see the value of a thing after it is beyond their reach.

The hardest rock is made of the softest mud. Don't allow the sediment of habit to harden into vice.

Cheerfulness is an excellent wearing quality. It has been called the bright weather of the heart.

Impolitenees is derived from just two sources—indifference to the divine and contempt for the human.

Training the hand and the eye to do work well leads individuals to form correct habits in other respects.

Logic helps us to strip off the outward disguises of things, and to behold and judge of them in their own nature.

One of life's hardest lessons from the cradle to the grave is waiting. We send our ships out but cannot patiently wait their return.

A looking glass is kinder to us than the wine glass, because it reveals our defects to ourselves only, while the latter reveals them to our friends.

If you have a small salary and princely desires, remember the old saw: "Taking out often and never putting in soon comes to the bottom."

A man who is unable to discover any errors or mistakes in the opinions he formerly held, is not likely to advance very fast in the requirements of knowledge.

If you gain an advantage over your fellow-man, call it shrewd diplomacy. If your fellow-man gains an advantage over you, call it rascality. The terms are synonymous.

It is a certain sign of an evil heart to be inclined to defamation, for it ever arises from the lack of what is commendable in one's self and impatience of seeing it in others.

A Cosmopolitan College.

Notre Dame Scholastic.

Among the residents at Notre Dame University are grandsons of Daniel Boone, of Kentucky; James Otis, of Revolutionary fame and Hon. Thomas Ewing, sr.; nephews of Gen. W. T. Sherman; Major Anderson, of Fort Sumpter fame; Donn Piatt, of Washington, and James G. Blaine; a son of a Potawattomie chief; and two sons of a Peoria chief; a son of Jewish rabbi; nephews of three Catholic Bishops; a lineal descendant of John Knox, founder of Scotch Presbyterianism; collateral decendants of Fenelon, John Rutlege of South Carolina, and Benedict Arnold; a priest 91 years of age, who was a surgeon in Napoleon's army at the battle at Waterloo; an ex-artilleryman who pointed the cannon that killed Gen. Zollicofer; and ex-marine who was in the chase of the Alabama and with the Admirals Farragut and Lardner; several brothers who were soldiers in the Mexican, Crimean, and the late civil war; Indians, Creoles, Yankees and Canadians; representatives from nearly all the states and territories; Israelites and natives of England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Germany Sweden, France, Switzerland, Luxemburg, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Austria and Australia.

Tea Culture in South Carolina.

Georgetown Enquirer.

We recently had the pleasure of examining the tea plants of Friendfield Plantation, the residence of Dr. Forster's family, and the place on which is a tea nursery, the leaves gathered from which have been submitted for inspection to a leading importing house in Baltimore. The tea produced therefrom is pronounced by them to be equal, if not superior, in pungency and in strength and in richness of flavor to the finest imported article. There are now on Friendfield 1,642 tea-plants, all exhibiting a splendid and vigorous development. Some of these plants, which have been allowed to grow without pruning, are six feet high, with a circumference of ten and twelve feet.

Marriage Anniversary

Cambridge City Tribune.

Abner M. and Mary Bradbury, celebrated their sixty-first marriage anniversary at their home in this city, on Wednesday, March 8th. Out of the fourteen children born unto them, eleven are still living, and the following ten children and their families were present: William, Daniel M., Albert W., Robert B., Samuel, James, Elizibeth Harned, Caroline Russell, Martha Mudell and Emma Bradbury. Dr. A. B. Bradbury was unable to come on account of sickness.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

GET THE BEST!
RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES
LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,
MANUFACTURERS:
ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,
ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 25, 1882.
Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.
Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL BRINGS A SEED STORE
LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS
Founded 1784.
To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
MISSOURI
ILLINOIS
KANSAS CITY
ATCHISON
Leavenworth

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y
Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:
At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C. B. and Q. R. Rds.
At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.
At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.
At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.
At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.
Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.
For information not obtainable at your home office, address,
R. R. CABLE, Vice-President and General Manager.
E. ST. JOHN, General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., MARCH 30, 1882

Township Nominations.

For Trustee,
J. C. ST. CLAIR,
For Assessor,
JOHN TREESH.
For Road Superintendent
A. J. CARMER.
For Justice of the Peace
O. P. SMITH, ORIS DANKS,
WM. M. BOUGHAN.
For Constables
JEREMIAH PLUM, J. B. HOOVER
CHARLES G. SMITH,
GRANT GRISWOLD.

KEYSER:
For Trustee,
HENRY PROBST.
For Assessor,
PERRY NOEL.
For Road Superintendent,
JOSEPH LEASON.
For Justice of the Peace,
F. M. BACON
JOHN GRUBE.
For Constables,
L. J. GENGLER.

SMITHFIELD:
For Trustee,
FREDERICK GFELLERS.
For Road Superintendent,
MATHIAS SHOUDEL.
For Justice of the Peace,
F. C WATERMAN.
For Assessor,
JOHN H. HORNBERGER.
For Constables
W. H. CLARK,
WM. F. TILL.

JACKSON:
For Trustee,
WILSON S. DANCER.
For Assessor,
JONH D. FERGUSON.
For Road Superintendent,
CHARLES P. GLASIER.
For Contables,
JAMES W. McCLELLAN,
MOLETUS A. HIGH.

WILMINGTON:
For Trustee,
MICHAEL E. KRONTZ.
For Road Superintendent.
CHARLES BUNDY.
For Assessor,
O. P. NOEL.
For Justice of the Peace.
J. J. SISE, L. C. BURGET,
JACOB TATE.
For Constables,
JOHN BRITZIUS, CYRUS SMURR,
WILLIAM EDWARDS,
JAMES CHAMBERS.

FAIRFIELD:
For Trustee,
HIRAM H. SLAYBAUGH.
For Assessor:
ISAAC HELWIG.
For Road Superintendent,
JONATHAN A. GUSHWA,
For Justice of the Peace,
NATHAN CROSSLEY.
For Constable, south,
J. C. WELLS,
For Constable, north,
HENRY BURTNET.

TROY:
For Trustee,
JOSEPH BELL.
For Assesor,
O. P. LEARNED.
For Road Superintendent,
JOHN STEARNS.
For Constables,
GEORGE WISE,
DAWSON CRONINGER.

RICHLAND:
For Trustee,
T. F. FRANKS.
For Assessor,
NELSON GRIFFITH.
For Road Superintendent
J. L. SMITH.
For Constables
JOSEPH CONRAD,
HENRY GETTZ.

CLOVER-SEED is being adulterated by mixing it with Hungarian seed.

THE poet, Longfellow, died last Friday, March 27. He was born February 27, 1807.

SIX murderers were hanged in different parts of the country on Friday of last week.

THE congressional convention for this district will meet at Kendallville June 1, at 10. a. m.

IT is said that certain epicures in New Orleans pay $1.25 a pound for a particular brand of New England butter.

CADET Whittaker has been dismissed from the military academy on account of not being able to keep up in his studies.

THE six New England states consume twenty millions of bushels of wheat, but they raise only one and a quarter millions.

THERE are only thirty-three Chinamen in Indiana. Twelve of them have been naturalized and have joined the Presbyterian church.

POTATOES brought over from Scotland are sold at Indianapolis at $1.10 per bushel. There is a sufficient amount brought in to keep the market supplied.

THE last number of the Columbia City Herald has an announcement to the effect that its editor, Col. I. B. McDonald, will be a candidate for the congressional nomination.

THE fifth musical festival at Cincinnati will begin May 16, under the direction of Theodore Thomas. For those who are musically inclined, this will be a rare treat.

THE average yield of wheat per acre in this country in 1881 was only 10⅙ bushels against 13⅙ bushels for 1880. This of itself would be equivalent to a falling off of 100,000,000 bushels in the total wheat crop of 1881.

THE excursions to the sea and other points, as given by the Detroit Evening News, will begin July 1. A guide book of the trips will be sent on receipt of thirty cents. It is a sixty-four page pamphlet, and gives an account of the different trips with illustrations. Address, Detriot Evening News.

THE republican members of congress who voted against the anti-Chinese bill are now trying to explain to their constituents how their action can be reconciled with their professions of love for the dear people. They vote for high tariff because they claim that will help the poor mechanic and the factory hand; and now they are willing to see the country flooded with Chinese cheap labor to underbid the aforesaid mechanic and shop hand so that he can get no work at all. It will probably take some time to make the matter clear to their constituents.

REPUBLICANS are pretending that only a reasonable amount of money was expended in Indiana by Dorsey and the other bosses to "carry" the state. Let us see. In the light of recent disclosures we have the following figures:

Sent to Dorsey by a messenger from the national republican committee	$200,000
Raised by Don Cameron and contributed	200,000
Raised and contributed by Harry Oliver, jr.	100,000
Total outside	$500,000
Home subscriptions, estimated	50,000
Total, so far as heard from	$550,000

It is said that only about $50,000 was expended. Now the question, with some of the republican bosses, is: What became of the half million sent into the state? If not expended in "carrying" the state, where is it? Who pocketed it? It is now known that Dorsey is a thief, and was a thief at the time he was arranging conspiracies to import voters from Illinois. Did Dorsey steal the $500,000? If he did not, did he expend the entire amount to corrupt the election? Dorsey is still secretary of the republican national committee. He is the custodian of its archives. He holds the vouchers. Why not put the screws to him and make him squeal? Arthur was on intimate terms with Dorsey at the time the "soap" was being distributed. It is said that Arthur is now willing that Dorsey should go to the penitentiary. If so, the inference is that Arthur believes Dorsey walked off with several hundred thousand dollars. It is a wonderful combination of scoundrelism, by the showing of republicans themselves. The people of Indiana do not fail to make a note of such infamous practices. A great many honest, upright republicans scorn such flagitious practices. They want honest victories or none at all. They are now confronted with rascalities, from the odium of which there is no escape. If the $500,000 was used to corrupt Indiana, the crime was colossal. If the bosses stole the money, after it had been contributed, to carry out nefarious plans, the condition of the party is in no wise improved. It is a dilemma with ten horns, and grab whichever they may, the result is ignominy.—[Indianapolis Sentinel.

DURING the Garfield and Arthur campaign the employes of the great Phoenix iron mills in Pennsylvania were urged, by means of flaming circulars, to vote the republican ticket, as it promised them a high tariff and their consequent protection. They said if the democratic party won, it meant low wages and want of employment, but if the republicans were successful the employes were sure of good wages and steady work. The republicans won the day. But where are there promises to the workingman? Those same iron works have just had a strike—a big one. Their hands refused to work longer for the low wages paid, and finally struck. The company which in 1880 had such a high sense of its duty to protect its workmen and give them high wages, now turned right around when their votes were not needed and turned the men off or made them take the reduced rates. How long will it take the laboring man to learn that protection does not protect any one but the wealthy employer? There is no protection for the employe. His wishes are not consulted in the least, except when his vote is needed.

The Schools of the County.

I have waited until the winter schools closed before saying much through the paper in regard to their work during the term just passed. The bad roads and bad weather, as well as some hindrances arising from my business relations, have prevented my visiting all the schools during the winter term. But the great majority of those I have visited, were doing excellent work, and in some cases much better than I had reason to expect. There seemed to be a feeling of emulation among the teachers, and of an earnest desire to do better work than they had previously done. With such a spirit pervading the schools it will readily be seen that much good would be accomplished. Not only was this spirit of earnestness everywhere manifest, but there seemed to be a sort of "lifting up" process going on everywhere This secured a better grade of work, both in the methods used in teaching and the thoroughness of the study and drill in the branches taught. Teachers labored to make themselves better, and in this way to lead their classes, rather than send them on in advance of the teacher. With such a spirit it was to be expected that but few schools would fail. Then, too, trustees have worked harder and more intelligently than ever before to assist and encourage their teachers. They have generally visited the schools under their charge; assisting, advising and encouraging wherever they went.

This has been of great value to the practical working of the schools, and I think no thougtful person will object to the time thus spent. There is also another and most encouraging feature in the work of last winter. It is the unusual unanimity of sentiment, on the part of teachers, as to the great value of institute work. The township institutes have never been so well attended, nor has there been shown such a willingness to attend as has been the case during this term. The absence of a teacher, at an institute, became the subject of remark and was of rare occurrence. And the work done at the institutes has been more thorough, more interesting and has secured closer attention than heretofore. No doubt it has produced good results. There is also a growing tendency on the part of parents and others to be present at township institutes, and even to assist in them. Much good will be accomplished by this, as it will bring before the people the present working of this valuable feature of our school system. All these things have tended to render the winter's work a pleasant one to me, and I hope profitable to all concerned. It would be impossible in any article to enumerate those who have done much to assist me in this work, whether teachers or trustees, but I feel that their help has been valuable and am duly grateful to them for it. And it is to be hoped that the people will continue to show the growing interest they feel by continuing to attend the institutes and visiting schools whenever an opportunity occurs. They can do much to make the schools what they should be, and what they all hope they will be, at some day in the near future. Let the good work go steadily on.

JAMES A. BARNS,
County Superintendent.

Election—Candidates.

A beautiful piece of republican legislation is found in section 10 of the election law passed and approved April 21, 1881, which constitute the inspector and the two Judges of election a "board of election" and says: "No person shall be eligible as a member of the board of election * * * who is a candidate to be voted for at such election, or who is of kin to any candidate at such election. Also if either of the judges of the election should become disqualified under that act during the election, he shall be removed and another appointed." Now how easy it would be for one or more persons during election to make such judges candidatest or have candidates a person of "kin" to such judges, in order to displace them, and keep it by having such changes made every hour in the day of election. But, "of kin" means under the law, only blood relations within and including the sixth degree, and not those related by affinity or marriage. D.

Township Caucuses.

The democrats of Butler township will hold their caucus, at the school house No. 2, Butler Center, on Saturday April 1, 1882, at 2 p. m. COM.

The democrats of Concord township will hold their caucus at the schoolhouse in St. Joe, April 1, 1882, at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating township officers. COM.

THE Press gets hot over our reply to his attack on the two county superintendents, and hinted that the present official is no better than he should be. Of course, brother Baxter knows more about these matters than we do. We do not say that brother B. lies, for that would be ungentlemanly, but in view of a number of things that have appeared in the Press lately, we feel certain that the little goddess who should preside over the "truth department" of that paper has been away on an extended visit.

—The Burch plow, the king of the field. 10-4t

THE BREEDER'S GAZETTE.—This magnificent weekly comes out March 23d enlarged to thirty-two pages, and filled with the very choicest of matter pertaining to the breeding and management of all kinds of stock, from horses to chickens. On the first page is a beautiful engraving, almost equal to a steel plate, showing a group of Short-horns. Another illustration is a plan, with building specifications, of a pen for breeding swine. Among the leading articles we notice the following: The Grand Duchess Tribe of Short-horns; Millet as a Cattle Food; Winter Food for Calves; The Holstein-Dutch-Friesing Controversy; Lambs for Spring Market; The Escutcheon Theory; Polled Angus, or Aberdeen Cattle; Butter Records of Jerseys; The coming Sheep; Successful Swine Breeding; Breeds of Swine; Line Breeding Value of Different Foods; Alfalfa; Millet and Hungarian; Sires of the 2:30 Trotters; Great Trotting Blood Mares; Mathematics of Trotting Blood; How to Breed Trotters; Lampus; Indigestion; How to Detect Lameness; Habitual Colic, etc., with some six pages of interesting news items about stock and stock breeders. It is beautifully printed on the very best of paper, and is published weekly by J. H. Sanders & Co., Chicago, Ill., at $3.00 a year.

Hon. W. C. Forrey, of Fayette county is being urged by his friends to become a candidate for Attorney General before the next democratic state convention. Mr. F. is a lawyer of ability and a sound democrat.—Richmond Democrat.

Correct. The name of Hon. W. C. Forrey will be presented to the next democratic state convention for the office of Attorney General, believing, as we do, that he posesses all the elements to make a popular and successful candidate. His qualifications for the place, none will dispute, and we are certain that he can poll as many votes as any other democrat in the state. He is of unblemished character, and his nomination would give entire satisfaction to the democracy of Eastern Indiana. Is it asking too much that the democracy of this part of Indiana should have a candidate on the ticket once in twenty-five years?—Connersville Examiner.

THE BURCH PLOW.

SPECIAL REASONS WHY THE BURCH PLOW IS DEMONSTRATED TO BE THE BEST PLOW IN THE MARKET.

1st. No other plow will do the same work and do it as well with the same draft.

2nd. No other plow will work as well, both in soft and hard ground, working well in hard ground where other plows will not work at all.

3rd. No other plow holds as easy, runs as steadily or cleans the furrows out as nicely.

4th. No other plow is as cheap, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. Our steel plows are made of the best quality of cast steel, the most costly steel put into plows, possessing the best scouring qualities and wearing from two to three times as long as common steel plows. Also have the same plow in chilled metal. Call and see the Burch Plow.

W. H. KIBLINGER,
Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D . VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence. North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county—In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1882.

Mary Hennessey and James Hennessey, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to declare a lien, by Lewis R. Wasson, administrator of the estate of Phebe Monroe, deceased; and that the same will be heard and determined on the second juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 15, 1882.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 21st day of March, 1882.

JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk,
W. H. Dills, Attorney. 12-3w.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the north east quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of said section 11 and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said northwest quarter of said section, thence west on said boundary line to the place of beginning.

TERMS—One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Deferred payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security. Sale to begin at one o'clock p. m.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

STILL AT THE FRONT!

-THE-

POPULAR STORE!

-OF-

ISAAC OCHS!

Has an IMMENSE STOCK of all kinds of

DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

SAMPLE PRICES:

GOOD PRINTS - - - 5 cents
BEST SHIRTING - - - 10 cents
GOOD MUSLIN - - - 6 cents

Everything else in proportion.

Big line of Ladies' Cloaks, Dolmans, Shawls, etc.—Elegant Styles and Terribl Cheap. Men's, Boys' and Children's Overcoats and Suits. Immense Stock, and Nobody can

UNDERSELL ME!

Big line of Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps—CHEAP. Boots and Shoes Regardless of Cost. THEY MUST GO.

GROCERES--I'VE GOT THEM!

SAMPLE PRICES:

Granulated Sugar	11c. per lb.	Best Japan Tea	45c. per lb
Coffee A Sugar	10c per lb.	Choice Japan Tea Dust	22c. per lb
Coffee C Sugar	9c. per lb.	Extra Choice Gunpowder	65c. per lb
Good Brown Sugar	8c. per lb.	Good Smoking Tobacco	30c. per lb
Best Syrup	65c. a gal.	Choice Fine Cut	50c. per lb
Best Rio Coffee 18c. per lb, 6 for	$1.00	Best Plug	70c. per lb
Good Rio Coffee 15c. per lb.	7 for $1.00	Carolina Rice	8c. per lb
Arbuckle's Ariosa	18c. per lb.	Best Crackers	8c. per lb
Best Saleratus	7c. per lb.	Corn Starch	9c. per lb

Silver Gloss Starch 9c. per pound.
Everything Else in proportion.

Pay Highest Prices for Produce at the Popular Store
ISAAC OCHS.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED

The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed!"

Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of

BEAUTIFUL STYLES
—OF—
SPRING CLOTHING,

Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

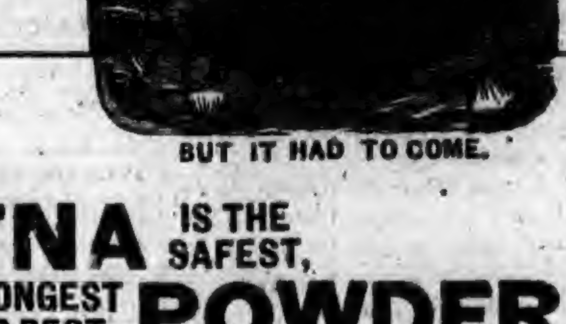
—Dealer In—

Watches,
Watches,
Clocks,
Clocks,
Castors
Castors,
Spoons,
Spoons,
Forks,
Forks,
Knives,
Knives,
Chains,
Chains,
Rings,
Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sel you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,



BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Coop the cows.

—Lots of moving.

—Vote next Monday.

—Saturday is all fools day.

—Roads are drying nicely.

—Mitch Dorlan is in town.

—Bill Latson has gone west.

—Constable Porter again (?)

—Young chickens are chirping.

—Davenport has a nice room now.

—The "little men" are playing duck.

—She didn't go out a roarin' after all.

—Mrs. Little is at Fort Wayne, to-day.

—The organ men have erected a big sign.

—Billy and Frank Bainier have gone west.

—Billy Murphy sundayed at Fort Wayne.

—Mrs. J. C. Veeley is sick with scarlet fever.

—We hear that Theo. Reed is on his way home.

—Ab. Kelly, at Waterloo, has potatoes for sale.

—They have a blacksmith shop at the Junction.

—J. R. Lanning hurt his foot badly, the other day.

—Seed potatoes for sale by Ab. Kelly, Waterloo. 13-3t.

—The Ninth street picture gallery has been moved.

—Charley Picker has been improving his property.

—Mrs. T. C. Mays left for Hot Springs yesterday evening.

—Rev. Henry Johnson has been here this week on a visit.

—Somebody April-fool us with a load of wood next Saturday.

—Snyder & Culbertson have a new span of Lexi ngton horses.

—Charley Klotz has something new in the sewing machine line.

—J. L. Davis, esq., has quite a novelty in the way of an oil stove.

—T. J. Baxter, of Smithfield, called around to see us last Saturday.

—The Press was very thin last week. Too much mind-other-folks'-business.

—Early Rose seed potatoes can be had of Ab. Kelley at Waterloo. 13-3

—Trustees of different townships are busily engaged taking the numeration.

—Walter Hartman, who broke his arm last week, is getting along nicely.

—W. J. Austin had a brother and his wife from Wabash visiting him last week.

—Mrs. A. Dawson and Miss Josie Rush were visiting at Fort Wayne, this week.

WANTED.—One or two girls to learn the milliner trade. Apply to Mrs. A. J. Little.

—Plants of all kinds at the green house, first door south of Presbyterian church. 13-3.

—Stephen Omstead, trustee of Newville township, made us a short visit Monday.

—The next term of court commences Mry 15, that being the third Monday in that month.

—Mrs. Foster, a sister of Mrs. Hartman, is here on a visit. She resides in Bryan, Ohio.

—There was quite a number of teachers in town last Saturday to attend the examination.

—Mrs. T. C. Tyger, of Fort Wayne, was the guest of Mrs. Phil. Basbelier over Sunday.

—The Wabash pay car started at Fort Wayne, the other day, with 600 pounds of silver.

O. J. Powell, of the Garrett Herald was in town Saturday last. Always glad to see him.

—Mrs. Joseph Stafford and Mrs. J. P. Ensley made our office a pleasant call last Thursday.

—Election only comes three times this year, so don't fail to turn out. Only twice in the county.

—Moody & Husselman have formed a law partnership and located up-stairs in Mrs. C. Hare's building.

—Call at the green house, south of the Presbyterian church, when you want flowers, plants, &c. 13-3t

—The personal property of the late Solomon Simon will be sold April 8th, at his residence in Butler township.

—Connersville has a man named Nicholas December. But that's nothing. Our man's name is Fred. April.

—Voters who reside in incorporated towns cannot vote for road superintendent. They can scratch that name off.

—Dr. Swartz will not move to Butler as was rumored, but will remain in Auburn, at least for some time to come.

—Under a recent ruling of the attorney general, assessors who are elected this spring will hold office for four years.

—Rev. Kelso went this week to Albion, to attend the conference of the English Lutheran church at that place.

—The Presbyterian social will be held at the church next Wednesday afternoon. All are invited.

—George Becker of Corunna, dropped in to see us Friday. He is now working in Mr. Fried's store.

—R. J. Crozier, of Columbia City, has been blowing out, not only stumps, but live trees, with Hercules powder.

—Miss Rosa Shaffer went to Pierceton Tuesday to spend a few days visiting relatives and friends in that place.

—C. M. Merica, principal of the Garrett school was in town Saturday. He says the scarlet fever is about over

—Dr. Littlefield was not the physician who attended the scarlet fever patients as erroneously stated in our last issue.

—We urge our friends to send us early reports of the election news next week so we can give a full report from all the townships.

—Dr. Kelley, of Syracuse, was visiting in this part of the country last week, and did not forget to pay his regards the COURIER.

—Old Mr. Harding, who lives near Corunna, was stricken with paralysis last Sunday, and at last accounts was not expected to recover.

—Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo, is selling a carload of choice early rose potatoes, just the thing for seed. Farmers should not fail to give him a call. 13-3t.

—The manager of the Emmett show company understands the "dead broke" dodge thoroughly. This is their game when they fail to draw a crowd.

—Veeley's cow walked up a pair of stairs into the second story of an old building, on north Main street. She was let down with rope and tackle.

NOTICE.—On and after April 1, 1882, I shall adopt the cash system, and will not trust anyone for meat after this date. W. L. BRAUN.

—The "much abused" farmer who has to pay so "much for groceries," is now receiving 28 cents a pounds for butter, and $1.85 cents a load for 18 inch wood.

—The Reform church is having a roof put on it this week. The shingles have been on the spot a long time, but there was not enough fair weather to undertake the work.

—J. R. Kling and his son Frank Kling, of Garrett, dropped in to see us last week. They soon leave for their new home in Nebraska City, Nebraska. We wish them both abundant success.

—The Indiana annual conference of the Evangelical association will begin its sessions on Thursday morning, April 6, in the Evangelical church at Waterloo. Bishop Fisher will preside.

—The McCrum farm, near Sedan, will be sold by J. M. Brumback, administrator, April 8th. All who want a good farm should watch this opportunity. See notice of sale in this paper. 13-2w.

—Miss Annice Cowan has closed her winter term of school. Her management has been very satisfactory to the parents and scholars, and she returns home with pedagogue honors of some note.

—We see by the Bryan papers that Miss Cunning ham, a sister of Mrs. E. D. Hartman expects to go to New York soon, to take a course of instruction in the system of teaching known as the Kindergarten.

—Some thieves broke open a store at Fremont, last week, and stole several hundred dollars worth of goods. They then stole a hand car and went to Hillsdale. At last accounts they had not been found.

—Eli Benzinger, of Moore's Station, went to Pennsylvania Tuesday to visit his sister, who lives near Port Carbon, in that state, and whom he has not seen for twenty-eight years. We wish him a happy trip.

—Joseph Ferrell, of Concord, has moved to Waterford, Elkhart county, and Miss Donnelly goes to reside with her brother at Sulphur Station, Texas. They all take the COURIER with them to their new homes.

—The recent election laws will add a considerable sum to the expense attending elections. In this township it will be doubled. And for the village elections in May it will be just five times as great as before.

—Bishop & Leighty, of St. Joe, have a car load of potatoes right from across the ocean, from Scotland. How is that for a great agricultural country like ours? Does the oldest inhabitant remember anything of the kind?

—J. P. Kandel, teacher in No. 3, Fairfield township, closed his school last Friday. The house was crowded with visitors all the afternoon. The exercises were reading, speaking and singing, and lasted to a late hour.

—I. O. Bachtel has put a new engine and new governor in his flouring mills The mill has been stopped for a few days to allow these changes to be made but will now be ready to run, and with these improvements Mr. Bachtel will be prepared to do better work than ever.

—John Rudolph, formerly of Auburn Junction, where he worked on Dave Cryder's section, was at home over Sunday. He is now at Reading, Mich., where he is section boss. We congratulate him on his promotion, and feel he will make a success as foreman.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that on April 1st, 1882, the firm of W. J. Austin & Co., will be dissolved by mutual consent, and will be succeeded by Austin Bro's. The new firm assumes all liabilities of the old firm, and will continue the business at the old stand of the Boot Upside Down. All accounts due the old firm must be settled either by cash or note by May 1st, 1882. W. J. AUSTIN & Co.,

* * *

THANKS.—Thomas and Malinda Brown desire to thank their kind neighbors for the beautiful quilt presented them at their residence March the 21st 1882.

—We see by the daily papers that the reports in regard to Fred. Davis' narrow escape from death by fire, last week, were all true. He had a hard fight for his life, but succeeded in getting off without serious injury. He has since written a letter home describing the occurrence very much as it was given in brief in our last issue.

The Steward concert company of Wilberforce university, will give one of their pleasing entertainments at Ensley's hall next Monday evening, April 3. The fact alone that they are laboring in the interests of the above named University, ought to insure for them a full house. Yet in addition to their singing the celebrated elocutionist, Miss H. Q. Brown, will render several fine productions.

—Daniel and Josiah Shull, sons of our old friend Henry Shull, leave today for the far west. Daniel takes a wedding trip to find a home on the far off shores of Puget's Sound, probably at Port Townsend. We wish him and his new made bride all possible happiness in their distant home. Josiah goes to Montana, where he will stay for awhile at least. He is an enterprising young man, and will win his way wherever he goes.

—J. R. Lanning moved his stock of goods to Moore's Station this week and will continue the business at that place hereafter. To his groceries he will soon add a stock of dry goods, hardware and all other articles convenient for country trade. Mr. Lanning is well known to the people of that vicinity, as indeed he is to those in all parts of the county, and we hope to see him build up a fine trade.

—There has been a nigger in town for several days cleaning chimneys. He was giving the boys some of his past life, in which he said: "I was a slave, I was. My master had three hundred pigs, and dey weighed fifteen hundred pounds a piece; dat's de truf. One of dem he had twenty years—he was de bigges of dem all. I bet you neber saw such a large hog. Dat hog, sir, would weigh five hundred pounds, an' I go my last nickel on dem figures."

—By a recent statement sent out by the attorney general, we learn that the surplus dog fund will hereafter be turned over to the school fund on the first Monday in October instead of the first Monday in March as before. All of this fund over and above fifty dollars, that remains in his hands at the above date, must be turned over to the tuition fund, and if he has several school corporations within his township, he must divide the money in such a way that each will receive its proper share.

—D. E. C. Yetter, of Butler, Ind., who makes a speciality of the eyes has without doubt treated and cured more cases of sore eyes than any other physician. His success has simply been astonishing. We have heard of cases of over twenty-five years standing successfully cured by him with his new discoveries of medicine, and we think it is advisable for everybody so afflicted to give him a call before delaying too long, and entirely losing sight for life as a great many do. 1t

List of unclaimed letters remaining in Auburn post office, for the week ending March 30, 1882. Mr. L. Boots, Miss Ethe Bair, Jacob Carper, Joe Cruse, Miss Randiad Dillon, L. D. Forshey, Mrs. Kate Surface, Franklin Snyder, Geo. H. Oberhulser, John W. Sharp, Mrs. John Montgomery, Wilbur King, Sarah A Moor, J. A. McGonagle, Chas. E. McFarlan, Allen Sherwood, John R. Sitheus Mrs. Mary King, S. H. Graybill, J. C. Gonter, J. E. Tolling, Miss Jacob Fornecler, Thomas McDowell, Fred Cushman, Mrs. Almiria Bevjer, Rhoda M. Brown, D. Bowen, Miss Della Moor, C. E. J. McFarlan, M. M. Gurley, Mrs. L. Scott.

G. W. GORDON, P. M.

—List of marriage licenses issued by the county clerk during March:

Christian Martz and Susan Lehman, E. H. Strong and Martha J. Hayford, Frank L. Rempis and Mattie M. Frager, Orlando Elliott and Eliza A. Gramling, Levi Denison and Caroline Stroh, David G. Plowe and Francis A. Bordner, Horace Platt and Sarah A. Casebeer, Eugene Carper and Ella M. Clark, Eli Heckathorn and Lydia Leaper Geo. Parnell and Sarah E. Campbell Walter S. Maxwell and Alice E. Shoub John C. Smith and Hannah J. Loutzenheiser, John M. Luce and Rosetta Barnhart, Wm. C. Lee and Mary E. Mills, George Burkhart and Ida A. Robertson, Daniel R. Shull and Emmerellea Shade, Joseph A. Kelham and Margaret L. Simon.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Freeman Kelley is considerably better.

Clark Long returned to Chicago last Saturday.

J. R. Steves took a trip over to Auburn, Tuesday.

A. S. Lees was in town awhile Tuesday on business.

R. Rothchild is in Chicago, buying their spring goods.

Ed. Long and family came up from the farm to spend Sunday.

General Blair is still making improvements on his residence.

Charley McClellan jr. spent a few days this week with his father.

Mrs. A. C. Gruhlky has a nice lot of hair goods for sale, at R. Shull's millinery store.

Dr. Chamberlain, who has been on the sick list a few days, is able to be around again.

Elknah Zerkle has returned with his family from Toledo, and they now occupy their old home.

Mrs. George Hevell, of Brimfield, died at her fathers, Mr. Echelbarger, Monday, and was buried Tuesday.

James Clifford and wife were called to Monroeville, Ohio, Monday, by the death of Mrs. C's. brother, W. S. Ruggles.

Mrs. Lizzie Kelley is one of the few women who have the courage to drive a team to town over these fearfully muddy roads.

The agricultural meeting for Thursday, April 6, convenes at one o'clock p. m. Let there be a full attendance and make the meeting a success.

Ed. Jackman has moved his meat market to Corunna, where he expects to continue the business in George McMillan's room. Mr. McMillan, we understand, is going out of the business.

We learn that there is some doubt connected with the report, that the editor of the Press wrote to Commissioner Dudley to call home his pension board, as it would "hurt the party." He has evidently got over his scare.

The greenbackers have nominated the following township ticket: Trustee, Levi S. Stoner; assessor, Calvin Kutzner; road superintendent, R. S. S. Reed; justices, Oris Danks, Wm. Wallace; constables, Elijah Hall, H. L. Shoemaker.

Mother Crawford, who was a resident of this place for many years, but has lived with her daughter at Kendallville for the past year, died at that place last Friday. The remains were brought here Saturday and buried on Sunday, Rev. Klotz officiating.

It may interest your readers to know that Joseph Daylong is now over 91 years old, having been born in Virginia January 24, 1791. His life has been an eventful one. He lived sometime in Ohio, and came to this county among the very first settlers—about 1833. He once owned a farm in Smithfield, but is now living in town, having lost it by some means; he also lived on a farm near Pleasant Lake.

ST. JOE.

Alex Donaldson, of Orangetown, has located in St. Joe,

Doc. Mitchell, of Butler, was in town Monday of last week.

Dr. Sturgis, of Huntertown, is looking for a location in this place.

Mr. Patterson, of Newville, will take possession of the drug store this week.

The firm of Leighty & Bishop have a car load of imported Scotch potatoes.

Hon. S. S. Shutt passed through town Saturday night en route home from Elkhart.

C. A. Jenkins and Fred. Johnson paid Auburn a visit Friday last. Rent had something to do with their trip.

M. E. had a very bad spell last Thursday from which he has finally recovered and has come out brighter than ever.

Jacob Dermott's plan of a union caucus does not meet with much success. The republicans do not like the way Jake divides up the officers.

George Willmot sold his spring crop of maple sugar to George Olds for 18 cents per pound. The whole amount was two pounds and four ounces.

The little boy of Mr. Conrad's, of whom we made mention last week, died last Friday and was buried on Sunday in the Spencerville cemetery. The funeral services were held in the Lutheran church at this place, Rev. Baker preached the funeral sermon.

St. Joe will be more than lively Saturday, as both democratic and republican caucuses will be held on that day—one at two o'clock and the other at three p. m. A lively time is anticipated. Both caucuses have been held off till the last day in the afternoon, so that neither party will have a chance to argue the case with the ever changing part of the voters.

VICTOR.

SUMMIT:

Mrs. Boyer has returned to Kansas.

Aaron Wolf has gone back to Kansas

Ed. Mortorff is proud. I guess it is a girl.

Miss Conrad will teach the Summit juveniles.

Samuel Mortoff will move on his farm soon.

Frank Grambling continues his visits to Summit.

Charley Bangs went up the railroad Saturday evening.

Mrs. W. H. Kynett, of Battle Creek is visiting friends here.

The republicans nominated H. D. Snowberger for Justice.

Miss Mina Rollan, of Stryker, Ohio is the guest of Mrs. Beard.

P. H. Grambling is getting out timber for a barn for C. Closson.

Mrs Henry Myers who has been visiting in York county, Penn., has come home.

CROSS CUT.

SEDAN:

Geo. Fretz is happy. It's a boy.

W. H. Crane has sold his grocery to Mr. Gonser.

Adam Husselman started for the west last week.

Squire Smith, of Waterloo, was in town last week.

Liah Guthrie and wife returned to their home in Michigan.

Andy Seydel and wife who have been spending the winter with their father returned to their home in Ohio.

A number of the young people met at Richard Fried's and passed a pleasant time, long to be remembered.

McBride and Phillips argued a few points in law before Squire McIntyre last week, for a new trial in the case of Mathews vs. Stout.

Our Squire staid at home last Saturday on purpose to unite a couple, but they failed to appear. Look 'em up 'squire. X.

FAIRFIELD CENTER.

Measles are plenty in this vicinity at present.

Frank Seiler has taken Alf. Weirich's place in the store, while Alf. is attending to a crop of measles.

Joel E. Hartman has purchased the Ensley place—a fine farm in Smithfield township—and is about to move there.

John Bear has sold his property to Dr. Rudolph. Mr. Bear and family will move to Fostoria, Ohio. We are loath to part with them, but wish them abundant success in their new home.

Wm. Nussdorfer's barn and contents burned on the 24th inst. Mrs. N. being sick, the fire was discovered in time to save all the stock. Barn and contents were insured in the Ohio Farmers. Tramps no doubt did the business.

TROY:

Spring plowing has commenced.

Mrs. Sarah Casebeer and Mr. Platt joined hands and hearts last week.

Wonder who Reuben A. Coats is going to law with that he has so much business at the squire's.

Frederick Gloy, of this township has fired an engine on a steamboat seven trips across the Atlantic.

Married, Thursday at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. E. Cole and Miss Ida Bwell. We wish them a happy and prosperous journey down the river of life.

TOM.

* * *

Surprise Party.

BEAR CREEK, IND., March 23, 1882.

There was a pleasant surprise at the residence of James Berry and his daughter, who have just begun keeping house on the farm owned by P. Layman, near the old Bear Creek church. At about 10 o'clock a. m. the neighbors began to come in with sacks and baskets filled with the necessaries of life, in the shape of wheat, corn, oats, flour, meat, potatoes, apples, butter lard and many other things too numerous to mention here, and swelled the measure to about $27.00, After all had done ample justice to a well filled table, there remained about seven basketfuls. About 3 o'clock p. m. the unexpected guests began to return to their homes, feeling like some of olden times, that it was good to be there, and that it is a christian act to help the poor. Names of those present: Mrs. M. M. Shearer, Mrs. Isabel Means, Mrs. Ann Tarney, N. J. Johnson and wife, T. Philips and wife, S. J. Tarney and wife, W. Bishop and wife, S. T. Steward and wife, L. D. Nelson and wife, P. Layman and wife, Mrs. H. Ervin, Mrs. J. Ferrel, Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Mrs. J. Gibford, Mrs. Sam High, W. S. Berry, E. Berry and others. Taking it all together, it was a pleasant time. Signed by one who was there. S. J. T.

* * *

—W. H. Kiblinger sells the Burch plow. 10-4t

—The Burch plow! The BURCH PLOW!! 10-4t

—Dr. Swartz and his wife, Mrs. Vesta M. Swartz, have their joint professional card in this number of the COURIER. We believe the services of a lady practitioner will be acceptable to a great many people, and we wish her abundant success in her chosen profession.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

Our Exchanges.

The name of Antioch, in Huntington county has been changed to Andrews.

Stories have been circulated lately that Jay Gould has been required to sell a large amount of his securities He was told of these reports, and invited several prominent financiers to meet him in his office, where he showed them in his own name $53,000,000 in government and other securities.—Indiana Farmer.

Washington county, Pa., is said to be the largest wool-growing county in the Union, and produces annually 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 pounds of wool worth in cash $1,000,000 for the wool alone besides the sale of fine sheep for breeding purposes, and mutton sheep and lambs for the meat market of the East.

The Commercial bank of New York city is the most successful financial institution in the country if not in the world. The capital is only $300,000, but its deposits aggregating $14,000,000, on which a discount business of $13,500,000, is transacted Its shareholders are paid a dividend of 25 per cent, quarterly. The stock is held at 2,000, the highest quotation of bank shares in the world.

In the boring of a well on Mr. Bronson's grounds, adjoining the state university at Urbana, Ill., a grand vein of gas was entered, which escapes with a strong and constant pressure. It will be of great value, as its illuminating qualities are said to be better than those of the gas company. It blazes high with a clear flame. There are several old gas-wells in the county which have been used for heating purposes only.

John Robbins, traveling for A. D. Brandriff & Co., a few days ago, sent one of his customers at Wilshire O., a card anouncing that he would swoop down on him about the 21st instant, and deliver a lecture on hardware. His customer who is quite a wag, immediately had a number of small bills printed, announcing that Robbins would lecture in that town on the 21st. Subject, "Hardware." When the innocent drummer arrived he found himself billed as a lecturer, from every bulletin board and dead wall in the town, and a large number of persons who were in the joke waiting to receive him. He was obliged to acknowledge himself beaten, and generously set 'em up, on condition that the matter should be kept quiet, so that it wouldn't reach this city. Of course nobody would give it away —Ft. Wayne News.

ONE MORE SWINDLE.—The Crawfordsville Journal tells of a new plan for "taking in the farmers" adopted by some of the sharpers in that vicinity. The scamps hunt in pairs and this is their game: Noticing the advertisements of stray horses or cows, one of them goes to the advertiser and asks to see the animal. His request being granted he informs the advertiser that the animal is not the one for which he was looking. The fellow goes back to his "pal," gives him a description of the animal, and the "pal" then goes to the advertiser and describes the horse or cow accurately and gets possession. Then the swindler tells the advertiser that he lives a long way off and does not want to be troubled with taking the animal home and offers to sell it for about half its worth. The advertiser generally makes the purchase, and in nine cases out of ten, subsequently has to give the animal into possession of the owner, losing the money he has paid the impostor. It ought to excite the farmer's suspicion, when the pretended owner, after coming a long distance to hunt his stray, should be willing to sell it at such a sacrifice.—Indiana Farmer.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—Sunday evening witnessed one of the most peculiar accidents that we have ever been called upon to chronicle. While a freight train was standing at the station Orra Beyes boarded it for the purpose of taking a short ride—a luxury that is too often indulged in by our boys. While running along the tops of the cars he miscalculated the distance between two of them and fell down between them. In falling he struck against the end of the car in such a manner as to throw him directly in the center of the track. Eighteen cars passed over him while in that position and the only injury received was some severe scratches and a crushed shoulder blade. When we notice that but very little room can be found between the cross ties and brake bars of the cars, we can only wonder that he came out without being crushed into a shapeless mass, and the number of chances against his falling in such a way as to keep off the rails, as he had to miss the coupling arrangement and bumpers, which only gave him a few inches in which to make the decent so as to strike between the rails. This should be another warning to those boys who persist in riding and climbing on moving trains. Orra will be around in a few days, and we venture to say will give the railroad a wide berth for awhile, at least.—Ligonier Banner

AETER THE OPERA.

B W. DAVIS.

We stood, one night, on Beacon street,
Before her family mansion,
While in my heart the throbs of love
Were struggling for expansion;
We just had left the theater,
Had heard "Il Trovatore,"
And, on the door-step, talked about
The music and the story.

She raved about the wondrous voice
Of Signor Campanini,
She praised his acting and his face,
While I stood like a ninny—
I wanted to—but why explain,
(I half suspect she knew it),
I hemmed and twisted like a fool,
And hadn't pluck to do it.

I waited long, for some excuse
My stupid brain perplexing,
And then, at length, a silence fell,
So awkward and so vexing;
But suddenly she brightened up,
This loveliest of misses—
"Oh, by the way, did you observe
How gracefully he kisses?"
—[Boston Advertiser.

JACK BRANT'S DOOM.

Waverly.

It's no use, I tell you parson, no use! You need not talk to me, for I will not listen. The keeper did not want to let you in? No wonder! Haven't I hunted every one away who dared to look at me through prison bars? They need not come to me and tell me about heaven and—don't shudder at the word—I am in torture now. The black depths of the bottomless pit could not be worse. Heaven? My Mary is in heaven. Is it likely she will want to see me coming through the shining gates with my hands all dripping with her brother's blood and her's? No, no! Don't talk to me. It was something in the look of your eyes and your white hair that reminded me of one that married us, or I would not have listened so long to you.

Crying—an old man like you, that has never done an evil in his life? I could not shed a tear if I tried. You are crying for me, you say. Listen: do you know what you are talking to? A murderer! Yes, a man that murdered his own wife and her brother, and is to be hung for it just one month from today!

Aren't you afraid to talk to me now? It isn't every day you speak to one who knows the day and hour he is going to die. Hanging is too good for me, however. Once I saw a man lynched—how they tortured him!—and it was only for horse stealing, while I—I killed my darling, my own little Mary!

Tell you about it, parson? Do you care to listen to such a wretch? Something about you makes me think of her and afraid to swear at you.

You see I was raised in the mines, a bad place for a young man sometimes; but I worked hard, and studied nights, and by degrees the company came to trusting me more than the others.

About five years ago they sent me on business into the town. It was many a mile away from where I worked, and I always stayed several days. It was there I first met my Mary.

Do you know, everytime I say her name my brain goes round as if it would burst? If it only would do so I could forget!

She was an orphan and taught school there, a dainty little lady, not fit for me. How she ever took a fancy to such a great rough as I am, I cannot tell. Loved her? God knows I worshiped her as I should Him! I would have died even to save her one sorrow.

For three years I saw her off and on not very often; sometimes maybe it would be months before I went to town; but her face never left my mind for one instant. It grew into my life and every hard day's work was done for her, until one day I grew desperate, and dropped my work and went to her, and then I asked her to marry me.

If ever a man had a taste of heaven I had that moment, when she looked up at me and said,—

"John, in all the world there is nobody I love as I love you."

Happy! Was it any wonder I thought of heaven then? She was the only one that ever called me John; I was Jack to everybody else; but she was different.

I can see her now when I brought her home—such a contrast to anything she had been used to; but she smiled so brightly and talked so cheerily—I never heard a complaint from her lips.

She was so different from other men's wives! She tried hard to be pleasent with them, but there were some of them who were jealous of her from the first.

Our house was the nearest and best kept of them all. It was wonderfull what work those white fingers could do; but then she never lolled over the gate or gossiped with the others, and that made them angry.

"Where did you get your lady wife, Jack? Ain't you afraid somebody will run off with her?" they would say, until, sometimes, only they were women, I could have knocked them down. But she only jested smiled when I told her, and kissed my rough cheek or hard brown hand.

Once or twice a letter came for her, and she always seemed white for a while. I asked her who wrote, and she only said "A friend in town."

I never would have thought of them again only for Bill Herkins, who brought one of them from the post-office.

"A fine gentleman's hand-writing, Jack," he said laughingly. "You had better be watching your pretty wife."

Bill Harkins had been my friend all my life, but never said a thing like that to me again, for he saw something in my face that made him hastily add,—

"Never mind me Jack; it was only a joke."

It came upon me so gradually, that dark suspicion! Once, when I came home suddenly from work, Mary was talking to a dark-eyed stranger, with hands, I noticed in a moment, very different from mine, white and soft. He seemed worried, but turned gracefully to me and asked his way to the nearest town. His horse was tired—could I direct him where to stay?

I informed him, and he rode away. She told me he asked her the same question; but she had a headache, and did not seem to take much interest in him, and so I did not bother her.

Some weeks after that her aunt was taken sick, and wanted her to go to town, and would I bring her? I could not refuse, so I got leave of absence and took her there; but as I drove into the station I was sure I saw the face of that stranger, and she did, too, for a startled look came into her eyes.

She only stayed a week, but I missed her! It seemed as if my life was gone out from me, and yet Satan was busy with his dark suggestions. She was tired of me; I was too rough for her; and a thousand other thoughts.

There was no doubt even to me, that she was not the same that she was the first year; and that thought wore upon me. But she came home, and I was happier than ever.

One day I had forgotten something and came back early. On my way home I broke my promise to her, and drank a glass of whisky with Bill Harkins.

From the first moment of her coming she had set her face resolutely against drinking. You see they were a wild set, and not one but what would laugh at the idea of giving it up. But she grieved if I touched it.

As I entered the door there stood my Mary, and beside her, clasping both her hands in his, stood the dark-eyed stranger. He started from her, as I came in, and went to speak; but with one bound I sprang toward him. I was so much stronger that in a moment he lay at my feet, and at the same instant there came a flash and a report; my pistol had got loose from my belt and had fallen, and he lay with his life blood flowing from him.

With a cry that is still ringing in my ears she threw herself into my arms and gasped out,—

"Oh, John, my darling, it was my brother!"

A chill went over me like the blast of snow, for there was a gurgling sound and when I looked down at her she was dead in my arms.

'Heart disease,' they said; but I murdered both. The stranger was her brother, who, years before, had forged a note. She thought he was dead when she married me, but afterward he turned up and made her promise not to betray him, even to me, until he sailed away again. He was bidding her good by then. At the inquest it all came out, for her letters were found on him and read, begging him to let her tell her husband, as the secret was killing her. In his last letter he wrote as soon as the vessel had sailed she could tell him everything.

Do you know what happened in the awful silence that followed, when I crouched down on the floor with my darling in my arms? The man that lay beside, with the film over his eyes, put his hand out to try to touch me, and gasped out.—

"Brant, poor old fellow, you did not—mean it—" and died.

Now you know all, parson. Is it any wonder that no words of yours can help me? How could I plead for pardon, when my brain is burning and reeling with despair? Go talk to the other prisoners, who have not the blackest of murders to answer for. Is it any wonder that when they said I shot him I stood up in the court and said "Guilty?"

No, no, don't talk to me! You are coming again? You need not. You can not bring them back to life. In just one month I am to be hanged, and I wish it were to-day. You want to come to-morrow to see me? It's no use, I tell you—but yes—you—may come.

A Chautuaqua in Indiana.

The Gland Park Assembly, an institution patterned after the great Chautauqua Assembly, of New York, and located on a beautiful island, in Sylvan Lake, Rome City, Noble county this state, annunces the following out line of the program for the Session of 1882.

1.—Grand Temperance and Reform Council from June 30th to July 1st. Representatives of leading reform movements of the day will be in attendance. Lectures, conferences, and discussions on all the various phases of temperance and reform work.

2.—The Sunday-school Assembly. Grand opening, Tuesday evening, July 4th. There will be in addition to the usual Normal Class, Normal Lectures, Primary Teachers' Conferences, Teachers' Study Meetings, Superintendents' Councils and lectures on Palestine, Archaeology, &c.

3.—PASTORS' INSTITUTE, with special reference to the work of the Chautauqua School of Theology, the details of which will be ready for announcement in the next number of the Assembly. The institute will open June 30th and close July 21st.

4.—SECULAR TEACHERS' CONGRESS.

The work in this department last year was not satisfactory on account of its fragmentary character, and we have decided this year to provide a full course of forty lectures, to be given by Prof. W. H. Payne, A. M., of the Michigan University. The plan of the course will be announced in the next number of the ASSEMBLY. We expect that besides this, there will be opportunities for studies in the languages, The Microscope, Elocution, Art, Music, and Kindergarten work as conducted by Mrs. M. H. Pass, of Chicago.

5.—THE MUSIC COLLEGE.

This department will be much better than hitherto. Three classes in vocal instruction will be organized:

1.—Adult and advance class, in charge of Prof. C. C. Case.

2.—Juvenile class, in charge of Prof. J. L. Kinsey.

3.—Tonic Solfa class in charge of Prof. Robertshaw, of Chicago.

There will be instruction on the Organ and Piano, Cornet and Sax-horn, Violin, Flute and other orchestral instruments. Persons interested in this department will please send their address to Rev. A. H. Gillet, Kalamazoo, Mich., and a special circular will be sent them as soon as ready.

6—THE TABERNACLE LECTURE COURSE.

As the correspondence proceeds in this department, we are confident that the program will excel in brilliancy and power anything ever presented at Island Park, or anywhere in the West. We expect that details will be perfected and ready for announcement in the April ASSEMBLY. An outline will appear in the March number.

7—THE ART SCHOOL.

Prof. Frank Beard, Esq., of Syracuse University, will this year, as last, conduct a school in Art.

NEW LECTURE HALLS.

Enough new Lecture Halls will be provided so that each department shall have its own regular place of meeting.

SPECIAL DAYS.

1. National Day, July 4.
2. Grand Opening, July 4—7:30p.m.
3. University Day, Friday, July 7.
4. Missionary Day, Sunday, July 9.
5. Children's Day—The March of the Look-Up Legion, Tuesday, July 11.
6. C. L. S. C. Day, Tuesday, July 18. Annual address by Dr. J. H. Vincent.

A Sad Tale.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"Does your Father know?"

"He does not. Thank Heaven, that sorrow was spared him."

The crickets climbed under the flagstones, and the warm south wind came in soft puffs over the meadows, bearing upon its bosom the scent of the red topped clover and ox-eyed daisies, as Rupert Redingote and Aphrodite McGuire stood by the path that led from the farm to the village of Rassilion, Macoupin County, while the swallows circled around in the fastcoming twilight, giving forth now and then little sleepy twitters as if anxious for the warmth and comfort which their nests afforded. They were to be married in the fall, these two—in the merry hard cider and corn husking time—and, although scarce three months had passed since Rupert pressed upon her pulsing lips the solemn betrothal kiss, Aphrodite trusted him with a perfect faith that was almost sublime in its passionate intensity.

"So the old man didn't hear about my getting full?" said Rupert.

"No," was the girl's response, as with a little, happy take-it-away-for-ten-cent sob, she laid her gum-filled cheek upon Rupert's breast and twined her dimpled arms around his neck—"If any one had told him it would have been a cold day for you."

"You are singing on the right key now, Aphrodite," was Rupert's reply. "If the terrible fact had come to his knowledge, he would part us forever. His position as Deacon in the church would not allow him to overlook the fault, even should his stern, Puritan nature relent. No, darling, we must not let him know of this sin of mine."

As Rupert spoke a buggy was seen coming rapidly up the lane, and as it reached the gate the horse stopped suddenly, and the man in the vehicle came out over the animal's head and fell with a dull, sickening thud into a hotbed.

The Deacon had been taking a nip himself.

A Miserable Miami.

The Wabash Courier says: On Thursday of last week Hon. Calvin Cowgill, of this city, went to Ft. Wayne and paid out several thousand dollars to the Miami-Indians living in that locality. Among the Indians paid was Mary Goodboy, who once lived in this county. As a girl Mary was noted for her extraordinary beauty, and many a dusky brave paid court to her and employed all the arts of the ardent lover to induce her to become the light of his wigwam. But Mary was quite a coquette, and, while smiling upon her would-be suitors, she declined for a long time to give one any more encouragement than she did another. But at last she met her affinity in the person of a young brave, and she gave him her heart and hand. Four children resulted from this marriage, all of whom are minors and yet living. The husband died a few months ago, and on Thursday last Mr. Cowgill paid Mary, who had been appointed guardian of her four children, thus entitling her to draw the money due them, $3,900. Dr. Thmopson, who accompanied Mr. Cowgill to Ft. Wayne, informs us that in less than an hour after Mary had been paid off she returned to the Aveline House, where the payments were being made, as drunk as a tramp who had had the freedom of a distillery for a day. She acted as if "mashed" on Dock., and her bold manner of exhibiting her affection for him caused the red blushes of shame to mantle his fair cheeks. At last, however, he succeeded in giving her the "shake," and by taking an early train home he avoided a second meeting with the warm blooded descendant of Pocahontas. The Doctor says Mary yet retains much of the beauty which made her such a famous Indian belle in her younger days, though here and there on her evenly featured face is a hard line which indicates that Mary loves her toddy too well.

A Woman on Men's Trouser.

Kate Field, who is always startling the dull ones with her novel notions, advocates in Our Continent a return to the knee-breeches of our ancestors. She says: "There is nothing whatever to be brought forward in favor of trousers, except that they serve to cover up bad legs. Men without calves, when arrayed in the broadcloth of the period are as pleasing as Appallos. But shall all male beauty be sacrificed to the calfless? Cannot art assist nature and supplement proportions akin to the meager pipe-stem? Men on the stage are no better formed than those off, yet they creditably endure the ordeal of knee-breeches.

"Moreover small clothes can easily take the place of stockings, and thus overcome the objections of the lank and lean. Here let me ask why there are undeveloped legs? Do they not indicate physical degeneracy, neglect of athletic sports by which beauty of form is attained? Might not the revival of knee-breeches lead to greater physical culture, and thereby aid in advancing the human race? To be brought face to face, or, literally, leg to leg, with deficiencies, is the first step toward improvement."

Secrets of Newspaper Men.

Toledo Telegram.

There is probably no newspaper man of experience in the country who does not hold secrets of importance in his mind which if made public, would make a sensation, but would stamp him as being unreliable, and consequently unfit for his profession. The great race for precedence in the publication of news impels him to do his utmost to outstrip his contemporaries, but a higher feeling, the dictate of honor, keeps sacred the trusts reposed. Frequently a person would like to know the authorship of certain matters published, and whether his efforts are directed to "pumping" the managing editor or the galley-boy, they are alike fruitless. Every compositor on a paper, as a rule, knows the handwriting he sets up, but if any other persons think they can learn it from him—well, let them try it.

JERUSALEM.

How It Might Have Looked at the Time of Christ—Glimpses of the Holy City.

Edward E. Hale in March Atlantic.

Everybody knows the general aspect Jerusalem now. Ordance surveys, societies for exploration, Sunday-school teachers, and artistic friends have brought pictures of it for those of us who live in thes remote corners; Jerusalem itself, be it remembered, being in the "middle of the world." Indeed, such is the ease of travel now, that it is safe to take for granted, in any considerable assembly, that some one is present who has walked in the streets of Jerusalem, has seen the Jews weeping by its walls, and can describe from personal remembrance the Mosque of Omar.

This general aspect helps us in forming an idea of what it looked like eighteen hundred and fifty years ago—of which, by misfortune, there is no description. Of the temple and its glories, as all readers know, there is avery full description; but the indifference of the ancients to the picturesque, and even to topography, leaves us to construct for ourselves the Jerusalem of the gospel time. Still, the slopes of the hills are there, the olive trees and the anemones and the cyclamens, with the rest of the spring vegetation, are there. The wood has been destroyed from the country generally by the ravages o' Islam and Islam's wars. But the neighborhood of a city as large as Jerusalem was then is never heavily wooded. The population of the city itself was then six or eight times what it is now. Such a population requires dilligent farming and market gardening in the neighborhood; so that it is probable that the country around had more farm-houses and hamlets and other aspects of habitation than it has now. But, making such allowances for changes, the traveler to-day has a right to feel that he looks on much such a landscape as the traveler coming down to Jerusalem from Jericho saw in the days of Jesus Christ. A New Englander sometimes catches a bit of landscape in his own region which reminds him, if the conditions of sky and climate are right, of those rounded hills and those rounded olive trees and closer olive orchards. I have a photograph of a piece of the "hill country" near Jerusalem, which may easily be mistaken for a home scene in Northren Middlesex or Southern New Hampshire. You have only to select a bit of rolling country, well covered with orchards, without New England houses, forests, evergreens or pines, but with a fair share of stone walls, photograph it, and place the picture in your portfolio, between a view of Jaffa and one of the Dead Sea, and even an experienced pilgrim would take it up and say, "And this is somewhere near Jerusalem."

The city was built so long ago that nobody knows when. It is on the crest line between the waters of th Dead Sea valley and those which flow into the Mediterranean. The hills on which it stands were abrupt enough to make an admirable fortress; what has been said of rounded slopes does not apply to them. Fortress it was in the days of the Jebusies, when David took it. After his time it assumed the state and importance of a capital. And this was no little state and importance when it meant a capital to which "the tribes come up three times a year." Josephus says—in what is probably an unintentional exaggeration—that at the time of the Passover a million and a quarter people assembled in it, and in tents around it. Even if this is not true, it gives an idea of what an intelligent man thought true in times immediately after Christ's visit to the city.

It is not so much a matter of regret that we have not the physical picture of Jerusalem of that day, as we have from the Gospels and from many other writings of those times good glimpses of social order there, and of men's habits of life. All this recent delving into the Talmud and kindred writings, which has taught something even to superficial readers, gives local color for any picture of gospel times. And all the photography in the world would never help us to any knowledge of Jerusalem as it was then—though we had perspectives of Herod's temple, and elevations by Herod's architects—unless we could make real the moral perspective and moral elevations of the city. In an admirable paper by Mr. Francis Tiffany, he compares this city, the head of ecclesiastical machinery, with such a manufacturing place as Lowell or Holyoke. "Imagining all the mills in Lowell one vast corporation temple; the bulk of the operatives in it priests and temple servants; the fabrics turned out creeds, treatises or disquisitions; the tenement owners dependent on pilgrims for their lodgers; the neighboring farmers finding the market for their wood, cattle, and oil in selling them for the sacrifices, or for the maintenance of those performing the sacrifice—do all this, and you have a rough but palpable working idea of Jerusalem."

Circus Apparatus and Accidents.

"Men and Animal Shows," by W. O. Stoddard, in March St. Nicholas.

The most important business after the tents are up is the formation of the "ring" and the setting up of the gymnastic machinery for the performances of the acrobats.

The ring is generally a little more than forty feet in diameter, and it looks like a rude enough affair, but its preparation calls for both care and skill. The ground for it is leveled with nicety. The barrier, a circular mound of earth of about one hundred and twenty-five feet inside circumference, is raised to a height of somewhat over twenty inches on its inner face. It must be thick, firm and strong, to bear the hard blows of a horse's feet or the sudden leaning upon it of an elephant. It must therefore, be banked, and pounded with sledge hammers, until no strain to which it can be subjected will break it down, and it must retain no looseness nor unevenness, to trip a horse or endanger the life of a rider. It is the work of a few hours only, but there is a man busy upon almost every square yard of it while it is rising.

As to the machinery for the acrobats, simple as is the appearance of the uprights and cross bars, they must be set up with especial care, so as to leave no possibility of their breaking down. The performer using them must be able to trust his appliances absolutely, or he could never have the nerve and confidence to delight the crowd at the risk of his neck. All his feats of skill and daring, moreover, have relation to the exact distances at which he has practiced them, and there must be no variation from those precise measurements in the daily adjustments of his machinery. He, or she, as the case may be, is sure enough to meet with what are called "accidents." When a "great show" recently came to the city of Brooklyn, a family group of three persons sat down together in the breakfast tent. They were acrobats of unsurpassed ability and skill. A sad-faced woman, a young man of middle size, a girl just entering her teens. There had been four of them prior to a recent performance, but the star, an older girl, the most daring of them all, had "missed her motion" in a feat of uncommon peril, and had fallen upon the receiving net. "She was but slightly injured," all were told who cared or thought to ask, but the little group at the table knew that she was dying. They performed their parts that day as skillfully as ever, though with so much more weight than usual to carry, but when the evening exhibition was over there were, indeed, but three of them. The fourth had gone forever.

Such an "accident" may come to the best trained and most experienced performer, and yet it is a mistake to suppose that acrobats are necessarily a short-lived race. The constant exercise, the enforced temperance, the out-of-doors life, amount, in fact, to a careful observance of well-known laws of health. If a professional athlete escapes the more serious disasters which are constantly possible to him, it is his own fault if he does not remain for many years a man of comfortable body.

His worst perils do not come to him in the ring, but during the long months when he is necessarily unemployed, and when he has no immediate and pressing need for careful training. For, in this interval, he is in danger of relaxing his habits of careful living, and very little over indulgence will put out of order that wonderful machine,—his body,—on the perfect conditions of which depends his power to do the feats required of him.

A Talk With Mrs. Lincoln.

An interviewer has this to say of Mrs. Lincoln, whom he met in New York, where she is undergoing medical treatment: Her pension of $3,000 a year, her friends say, is about all the means she has. From this she is obliged to meet the cost of the eminent medical service which her case demands, and to keep at hand a skillful attendant. It is not sufficient to do this. She is therefore obliged to dispense with the services of a companion, which hinders her recovery, if it be not absolutely dangerous. She did not refer to her financial condition in any way, except to express her extreme regret that this matter had become the subject of discussion in the public prints. She seems to me to bear her sufferings with fortitude and cheerfulness, and to be endeavoring to extract all the comfort possible out of the remaining days left to her. "I am so glad to see you," she said very cheerfully. "How is General Cameron? How well I know him, and what a strong, positive man he is. I like Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvanians very much. I never knew his son Don. who is now in the Senate, and don't remember ever to have seen him. General Cameron, of all those strong men that were in the Senate when my husband was President, is about the only one left. How things have changed!" "Has Massachusetts erected a monument to Sumner yet?" she asked. "I believe not," I replied. "What a shame. He was a noble man, a great character. Mr. Lincoln was very fond of him. He lived at the White House half his time. Mr. Lincoln would often say to him, 'Sumner, there is always a place for you in my house.'" Mrs. Lincoln went over the list of statesmen she knew during the days of the war, and had a kind word to say of all of them. She spoke of Washington, its society and the people she knew there, with an interest which made her conversation exceedingly entertaining. "I do not pay much attention to public matters now," she said, regretfully, "because I can not read much. The white paper seems to hurt my eyes. They are better, though, some days than others, but I try to take good care of them. I hope to be much better soon," she said, cheerfully, "and am doing my best to help the doctors. They say that if I persevere with the baths they will benefit me. I can not have much company, but I have a few good friends who will call sometimes to cheer me up. I have great faith in Dr. Sayre, my physician. I have known him a long time, and I came to New York in September to consult him."

The New Dress-Reform Movement

Mr. Edmund Yates writes in the London World as follows about the new dress-reform movement which is reported to be fast assuming the dimensions of a social craze: "I had heard and read of the 'Ladies' Dress-Reform Association,' with Lady Haberton for its high priestess; but I had no idea the reform had made any practical progress in England last week, when I actually stumbled against ladies in the new garb in the streets of London—one in Bond street and the other in Cromwell road. Well, I am bound to say I like it. To be sure, the ladies I happened to see in it were both handsome and well set-up, carrying themselves like queens. But really, in itself there appears nothing objectionable, and the dress contributes to freedom of movement, and, I should imagine the comfort of the wearer. It is for all the world like a riding habit cut short just above the ankle, exhibiting merely the extremities of the trousers. I must mention them. Only instead of the dress and nether garments being in cloth, those I saw were of a black brocaded silk stuff that fell gracefully, and looked quite ladylike. Trousers worn thus, with a long skirt over them, are very different from the loud vulgar Bloomer costume of efforts in this direction; and it is just possible that the reform may spread. But to do so it must come from above, else society will not have it on any consideration. At the Ladies' Dress-Reform Association may be seen a specimen of this 'rational dress,' as it is called. In this the trousers are very wide, with a deep flounce at the extremity, which combines with the skirt worn over them, so that in all ordinary situations no person could possibly tell there was any difference from the present dress of a lady."

JOCOSITIES.

The little boy said, as he lay over his mother's knee in the woodshed; 'Ah! there's the rubber."

"The sassyest man I ever met," says Josh Billings, "is a hen pecked husband when he is away from home."

Michigan has a man with three arms. He is the only fellow alive who can take two girls riding and enjoy it.

A New Jersey man "couldn't see any danger in smoking while weighing powder." He can't see anything now.

"Well," said an Irish attorney, "if it plaze the Court, if I am wrong in this, I have another point that is equally conclusive."

A burglar got into the house of a country editor the other nights. After a desperate struggle the editor succeeded in robbing him.

Passenjaire: Why is it that these streetboys who catch on to the cars have not been fined before?" Drivaire: "Cause they've been found behind."

Stablekeeper—"By the way, shall I put in an extra buffalo?" English blood—"couldn't you let 'ave an 'orse you know? E-er rather not drive a buffalo first time, you know.

For heroic but vain endeavors to look pleased, says a crusty old bachelor, nothing can equal the facial expression of two girls compelled to dance with each other on account of the scarcity of men.

She was plump and beautiful,
And he was much in love;
She hated him, but, woman like,
To catch him well she strove.
But then, you see,
He was—afee.

A tart compliment: "Don't you think that Miss Brown is a very sweet girl?" asked Henry. "Oh, yes very sweet," replied Jane; "that is to say, she is well preserved."

"What's the difference," asked the teacher in arithmetic, "between one yard and two yards?" "A fence," said Tommy Beals. Then Tommy sat on the rule fourteen times.

An Illinois girl found that she must either give up her lover or her gum, and after one day spent in reflection, she pressed his hand good-bye, and said she would always be a sister to him.

A man who detected a piece of bark in his sausage visited the butcher's shop to know what had become of the rest of the dog. The butcher was so affected that he could give him only a part of the tale.

"Do you like to go to Church?" said a lady to Mrs. Partington. "Law me, I do," replied Mrs. Partington, "nothing does me so much good as to get up Sunday morning and go to Church, and hear a populous minister dispense with the gospel.

Tyndall's theory that heat is simply motion in another form must be true. Strike a man and he immediately boils over. There is however, one exception to the rule: Strike a warm friend for a short loan, and he at once becomes as cold as an iceberg.

With whiskers thick upon his face,
I went my fair to see;
She told me she would never wed,
A bare-faced chap like me.
I shaved them clean, then called again,
And thought my trouble o'er.
She laughed outright, and said I was
More bare-faced than before.

Some folks they are so good themselves,
So pious and so holy,
They've naught to do but mark and tell,
Their neighbors' faults and folly.

How dear to my heart is the school I attended,
And how I remember, so distant and dim,
That red headed Bill and the pin that I bended,
And carefully put on the bench under him!
And how I recall the surprise of the master,
When Bill gave a yell and sprang up with the pin,
So high that his bullet head busted the plaster
Above, and the scholars all set up a grin.
That active boy Billy, that high leaping Billy!
That loud-shouting Billy that sat on a pin!

Schomburg, upon returning to his store on Galveston avenue, after dinner found his clerk very much excited. The clerk said that a stranger came in and, after asking and paying the price of a cravat, which was $2, picked up the entire box, containing a dozen and walked off with them. "Did he pay you de two dollar?" asked Mose. "Yes," responded the clerk. "Vell den we makes, anyhow, 50 per. cent. profit on de investment."

A young friend of mine, says Labouchere in the London Truth, was dining with his father a few nights ago. "George," said the fond parent, when they next met, "you took my overcoat instead of your own, and I regret to say I found the pocket of your coat full of cigarettes and matches." "I discovered my mistake, father," replied the son, "directly after I got outside, for I found the pocket of the coat I had on contained chocolate creams and three pairs of ladies' gloves."

The following comes from Georgia, and its accuracy is vouched for by the stenographer who took it down: Judge —— was noted for the way he got mixed in his charges to the Jury. On one occasion a case was tried before him, the point of which may be briefly stated thus: Smith brought suit against Jones upon a promissory note given for a horse. Jones' defense was failure of consideration, he averring that at the time of the purchase the horse had the glanders, of which he died, and that Smith knew it. Smith replied that the horse did not have the glanders, but the distemper, and that Jones knew it when he bought it. The Judge then charged the Jury. "Gentlemen of the Jury, pay attention to the Court! You have already made one mistrial of this case because you did not pay attention to the charge of the Court, and I don't want you to do it again. I intend to make it so clear to you that you can not possibly make any mistake. This suit is on a note given for a promissory horse. I hope you understand that. Now, if at the time of the sale Smith had the glanders, and Jones knew it, Jones can not recover. This is clear, gentlemen. I will state it again. If you find that at the time of the sale Jones had the distemper, and Smith knew it, then Smith can not recover. But, gentlemen, I will state it a third time, so that you can not possibly make a mistake. If at the time of the sale Smith had the glanders and Jones had the distemper, and the horse knew it, then neither Smith, Jones, nor the horse can recover. Let the record be given to the Jury.

Viole de Brahmine, a kind of nun's cloth, is very popularly combined with polka-dotted merveilleux in rich color.

By Telegraph.

The Republican's special from Gophier Station, on the Kansas Pacific Railroad, says: Yesterday Section Foreman Thomas Pitman, his brother and John Ebbert's, were shot by two emigrants, Thomas Wooten and James McCollum. On Wednesday the section men and the emigrants had some trouble. This morning, while the section men were at breakfast, the two emigrants entered and ordered the men to hold up their hands. The order not being obeyed immediately, the emigrants opened fire. One of the Pitmans was wounded in the shoulder, the other in the thigh, and Ebberts was wounded in the face. Wooten was shot in the shoulder by one of the Pitmans. After the shooting the emigrants robbed the section men and escaped. It is not known whether any of the wounds are fatal.

Louisville, Ky. dispatch:

The large stern-wheel steamer Montana was blown over on the dam at the head of the canal, at about eleven o'clock this forenoon, and now lies in a precarious condition, with every probability of breaking in two. The accident was caused by a blockade of coal barges at the entrance of the canal. The Montana is an 1,000-ton boat, and was on her way from Pittsburg to St. Louis with a large miscellaneous cargo.

Captain Buesen has entered a protest here. A barge is at the steamer, and a large gang of men are removing her freight. The boat has some of her hull broken, and is hogged badly just under the boiler. It is hoped she can be released before dark. It will be necessary to dock her before she can proceed on her voyage.

San Francisco dispatch:

Several Chinese women, supposed to be courtesans, who arrived on the British steamer Anjear, and were held by the authorities to be sent back to China, were brought into the Superior Court yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus. Captain Roper of the Anjear, had testified to the great laxity on the part of the American Consul (Mosby) at Hong Kong in relation to Chinese immigrants. In proof, he produced blank printed forms signed by Mosby and bearing his consular seal, the same being certificates required to be produced by immigrants, which Captain Roper stated he could himself fill in as he chose.

Marseilles dispatch:

The Crystal Palace Theater burned this forenoon. Loss 1,000,000 francs. The actors had great difficulty in escaping from the burning building.

Philadelphia dispatch:

Yesterday workmen who were clearing out a grain bin at the Pennsylvania Railroad train depot, at Thirteenth and Market streets, found the dead body of a boy about 15 years old, who had been smothered in the grain. How he got there is a mystery. He was of dark complexion and neatly dressed. He had in his pocket several letters addressed to "William Ryan, St. Peter's College, Grand Street, Jersey City." The supposition is that he ran away from home and concealed himself in a grain car and was suffocated, and was dumped into the bin unperceived.

Little Rock, Ark., dispatch:

Henry Lemans, aged 18 years, living near Augusta, became involved in a dispute with his stepmother, and when she attempted to strike him with a broom he split open her head with an ax. At the latest accounts Mrs. Lemans was in a dying condition. The boy is in jail.

Bismark, Dak., dispatch:

News has been received here of a railway wreck on the Northern Pacific. Three trains were en route east—the snow-plow, work train, and passenger train, in the order named. The scene of the accident was at the crossing of the Hart river, about thirty miles west of Mandan. The snow-plow crossed the bridge safely, but the work train, going about fifteen miles an hour, crashed through. About forty laborers were on board. The cars caught fire immediately, and two men were burned alive and seven others killed outright. Eleven others were seriously injured. The latter were placed on the snow plow and started for Mandan at 1 a. m. The passenger train was behind the work train, and narrowly escaped. The bridge was supposed to be a solid structure. Four bents were broken. The bridge was about thirty feet high. An engine came over from Mandan for physicians and assistance to attend the sufferers in the wreck. All the physicians of this place have left for the scene of the disaster. The wires are down between Bismarck and Mandan.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, March, 15th.

SENATE—The bill appropriating $15,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi levee system. The post-office appropriation bill and the tariff commission bill were severally discussed, without action.

HOUSE—A bill appropriating $291,000 for the payment of certain allowed war claims was passed. The senate bill appropriating $100,000 for the relief of sufferers by the Western floods, was amended increasing the amount to $200,000 and passed. The Chinese immigration bill was further discussed.

THURSDAY, March 16th.

SENATE—The bill for the erection of a Government building at Terre Haute, was passed. Mr. Logan advocated his whisky-tax educational scheme. The post-office appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The Chinese immigration bill was further considered.

FRIDAY, March, 17th.

SENATE.—Bills were passed providing for Government buildings at Frankfort, Ky., Jefferson City, Mo., and Minneapolis, Minn. also the postoffice appropriation bill, with amendments. The fortification appropriation bill was reported, without amendment. The tariff commission bill was further considered. Adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—Senate bills extending the northern boundary of Nebraska, and authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river were passed. The session of Saturday the 18th was for debate only on the Chinese immigration bill.

MONDAY, March 20th.

SENATE.—A resolution was passed allowing Senators Butler and Kellogg, respectively, $3,000 and $9,500 for expenses incurred in vindicating their titles to seats. The tariff commission bill was further discussed.

HOUSE.—A number of new bills were introduced. Parliamentary maneuvering for precedence to certain measures brought business to a stand still.

TUESDAY, March, 21st.

SENATE—The life-saving service bill was further considered. The military academy appropriation bill was passed, with amendments; also, several House bills of no general interest. The tariff commission bill was further discussed. Mr. Pendleton introduced a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of postmasters and other ministerial and executive officers of the Government by the people.

HOUSE—The Chinese immigration bill was further discussed. A minority report against the admission of Dakota as a State, was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Brother Gardner on Averaging.

Detroit Free Press.

"What I was gwine to remark," said Brother Gardner, as the back end of Paradise Hall grew quiet, "was to say to you dat de pusson who expects to enjoy dis life must make up his mind to strike de world on de gineral average. He who neglects to do so will meet with daily sorrow and disappintments. Doan' expect dat de man who happens to agree wid you on de weather am sartain to agree wid you on politicks. It doan' foller dat de man who agrees wid you on politicks will feel bound to accept your kind of religion. De fack dat you lend a naybur your shovel doan' bind him to lend you his wheelbarrer. He who looks for honesty whar he finds gray ha'rs will be as sadly disappointed as he who argues dat an old coat am de sign of a thief or beggar. Put faith in human natur' an' yet be eber ready to doubt.

"I expect to meet about so many mean men in de course of a y'ar.

"I expect de summer will be hot an' de winter cold.

"I expect to have chilblains in December an' shake of the ager in April.

"I expect dat a certain per cent. of dis world's populashun will lie to me, steal my cabbages, frow stones at my dog an' hit me wid a brickbat as I go home from de lodge.

"On de other hand, when I come to de average, I kin put my hand on men who will lend me money, go on my bond, speak well of me an' sot up all night to protec' me.

"No man am perfeck. He may strike you at fust sight as werry good or werry bad, but doan' decide until you average him. He may beat a Street Kyar Company an' yit be honest wid a butcher. He may crawl under de canvas to see a circus, an' yit pay his pew rent in advance. He may lie to you as to how he voted, an' yit tell de truf about a spavined hoss. He may cuss on de street, an' yit be a tender father at home. He may incourage a dog fight, an' yit walk a mile to restore a lost chile to its parents.

"Accept no man fur his fine talk—reject no man fur his old clothes; stand him out in de sunlight an' average him. You will be sartin to fin' sunthin' bad about him, but you will also be sartin to fin' sunthin good."

A Terrible Crime.

A servant girl at Stutgard, in Germany, had in the course of several years saved a handsome sum of money, which she deposited in a savings bank. One day, a few weeks ago, she drew the money and took the train for the town of Schneidemuhl, a few miles from home. She visited an old acquaintance, a butcher, and told in course of the conversation of the money she had in her pocket. The butcher advised her to wrap up the money and fasten it on her head, buried in the hair. The girl followed his advice and left for home, the way taking her over a deserted heath. Meeting a policeman she begged him to accompany her on account of her money. The policeman complied, and accompanied her the greater part of the way. Hardly, however, had he left her and turned back when he heard a piercing shriek. Hastening back, he found the girl lying dead in the street without her head, which had been carried off. As the girl had told the policeman of the butcher whom she had visited his suspicions were at once aroused, and he hastened to the butcher's house. After waiting half-an-hour the butcher came in with a bag under his arm. To the question what was in it he replied that it was a sheep's head, and threw it under the bed. The policeman left, and returned in a few minutes with some colleagues. The sack was demanded, and on being opened was found to contain the murdered girl's head.

Women's Best Advisor.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The advice of a minister is worth no more on matters outside of his peculiar province than that of any other sensible man. A woman's proper and best male confidant, when she needs one, is her husband, her father, or her brother; even a cousin, two fancy would do quite as well as a pastor, and an editor better than either, taking them as they run, for an editor could at least keep the scandal out of his paper.

Sleeves are padded to raise them above the shoulders.

THE BURDEN OF THE SEA.

T. WESTWOOD.

From deep mid-ocean in the solemn night,
No wandering sail abroad, no shore in sight,
What voice goes up sonorous through the spheres,
And what its burden that God only hears?

The burden of the sea! that infinite woe
Of ages, endless as its ebb and flow—
Endless and hopeless—hark, the mystic song!
"How long"—it seems to moan—"O Lord, how long!"

ALMOST BURIED ALIVE.

Josephine Ryman's Horrible Experience While Lying in a Trance.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

EVANSVILLE, IND., March 10.—Josephine Ryman, a fair-haired, blue-eyed young woman, is just recovering from a remarkable illness at the home of her sister, Mrs. Brown, in this place. Her parents died some years ago, and Josephine went to work in St. James, a little village near here. One Saturday night last winter she went with others to a singing school. She had not been in her seat long when she felt a very strange sensation about the head accompanied by pains in the back. She arose to her feet as if to start out of the church, when she fell in a dead faint, and was carried home. Her friends at first thought that the attack was but a mere fainting spell, and the usual restoratives were applied, but the girl continued to lie as if dead. Sunday came and went, and still there was no change. The body became colder and colder, the eyes were open and staring, the lips were apart, there was no perceptible pulse, and every indication pointed to death. Physicians pronounced life extinct. The priest was sent for to administer the last rites, and the weeping sisters and friends of the family prepared to bid Josephine the last farewell. The coffin was ordered, busy fingers began to prepare the white clothes in which to bury the corpse, and, in fact, every preparation was made for the final scene.

Thus passed Monday. On the evening of that day there was a slight change in the appearance of the body, which gave the startled watchers a faint hope that the girl lay in a trance, and this was but death's counterfeit. The body lay on its back, with arms folded, just as the attendants had placed it. There was not the least perceptible breathing; the eyes still had that stony unmeaning gaze; the face was as pallid as white marble; but the iciness of real death was wanting. The feet and limbs were not warm, but they did not have that chilly touch that is a sure accompaniment of actual dissolution. There was sufficient doubt in the minds of those in attendance to warrant caution, and so another day and night passed. On Wednesday, or the fourth day after the girl was stricken down, the priest was again sent for. After critically examining the case and consulting with the physician, he said: "It is a trance. She may come to herself, but it will be but momentary. When she relapses all will be over. She can't live." Accordingly the funeral was set for the next day. Imagine the feelings of horror which possessed this girl when it is known that she was cognizant of every word that was spoken in that room, and could see the forms of her friends and watchers about her couch. Her terrible situation is best told by herself. She said to me yesterday:

"Oh, sir, it was horrible. As I lay there on my back, stretched out on the boards, with my arms crossed and my feet tied together, with the lighted candles about my head, and could see my sisters and neighbors come and peer into my face, it was awful. I heard every word spoken. My body, limbs, and arms were as cold as ice. I thought of the agony of being buried alive, of being nailed in a coffin and lowered in the ground. I tried to make some noise, or move just a little, to let them know that I was alive, but it was impossible. I saw my sisters come in one by one and look into my face. 'Poor Josie, she's gone.' Their tears dropped on my hair, and their kisses were warm to my lips. As they turned to leave me, it seemed as if I must make an effort to attract their attention, if only by moving my eyelids. But I couldn't do it. I felt like screaming. I tried to, but I couldn't move a muscle. The priest came in, and felt my arms and wrists. He shook his head. Then he placed his ear to my heart. It was no use. He could not hear it beat. After saying a short prayer for my soul, he turned and left me, and my agony and horror were redoubled. 'Will no one find out that I live?' I said to myself. 'Must I be buried only to wake when it is too late? Must I come back to life when they put me in the vault, and all the people have gone away, only to die of fright and horror and suffocation? The thought was madness! Why doesn't the doctor do something to bring me to myself? I am not dead! It was no use. There I lay thinking and listening to every word that was said. I could hear a woman giving directions as to the making of the shroud. I heard the time set for the funeral and all. I could see every one who came to look at me. I tried to look conscious and let them know that I understood it all, but it was impossible. It is a wonder I did not die of fright and agony. I often think that I would sooner die, a thousand times sooner, than go through that experience again.

"Finally, when all was ready, when the shroud was finished, and all had left the room but two or three, some one said: 'Ain't you going to cut her hair off?' My hair was done up in long braids, and fell down my back. 'Yes,' said my sister, 'we'll cut it off now.' Then they got the scissors and came up to me. While one of them took hold of my head and turned it to one side, the one with the scissors began the cutting. I could feel the cold steel on my neck. I realized that this was about the last thing they'd do before putting me in the coffin. The woman began to clip, and in a second or two one long braid of hair was taken off and laid aside. My head was then turned the other way to allow them to get at the other braid, but this was not touched. Thank God! something in my condition, I don't know what it was, caused my sister to scream, and I was saved. The scissors dropped to the floor with a loud noise, the woman jumped back nearly scared to death, and I sat up. You should have seen that house a little while after that. I thought everybody has gone crazy. 'Venie's alive!' 'Venie's alive!' The whole neighborhood came rushing in as soon as they heard of it, and for several days there was nothing talked about but me. My folks thought I didn't know what had been going on. Little they thought that every word spoken in that room was heard and understood by me. They tried to keep everybody from referring to the fact that my shroud was bought, the coffin ordered and the funeral arranged. They made an excuse, too, for part of my hair being cut off. They told me the reason of it was that a plaster had been put on the back of my neck, and my hair got so tangled in it that it had to be cut away. I didn't say anything. One day my little brother said to me: 'Venie, you was going to be buried last Thursday, and they cut your hair off.' He never imagined that I knew more about it than he did. The recollection of those terrible days and nights will never leave me. I pray to God that I may never be called upon to pass through it again. I would rather die.

Mormon Temporalities.

The controversies in Congress over Polygamy have drawn out many facts relating to the action of the Mormon church in temporal matters which people generally do not understand. Thus, in a letter written by the Rev. J. D McMillan, of Utah, to Mr. Willits, of Michigan, a member of the Judiciary Committee, occurs the following paragraph:

The Mormon church inherits its right to control all temporal affairs. All causes, civil, criminal, and ecclesiastical, are to be brought alike before the Bishop's court, with the right to appeal to appeal to the High Council of the Church, where all justice terminates. These are not courts of record. Cases are simply brought up for trial; the presiding priest pronounces judgment, and enforces penalties arbitrarily. For instance, a man attempted to homestead a piece of land without asking the Bishop's permission. This enraged the Bishop, who at once appointed one of his faithful henchmen to reoccupy a home on the same land. A dispute arose between the two claimants, and the Bishop compelled both to appear before him. He decided at once against the lawful claimant, cut him off from the Church, and turned him over to the buffetings of Satan, which meant social ostracism and starvation for want of means of livelihood. In this particular case the man so wronged had the courage to appeal to the Land Office for redress, and obtained it. Whereupon the Bishop, on the Sabbath morning succeeding, publicly said:

"Brother——has shown himself to be an enemy to this people by ignoring the priesthood and entering as the Gentiles do. By the power of the holy priesthood which I possess I have cut him off and turned him over the buffetings of Satan, and I pronounce the curse of the Almighty upon him. His crops shall wither away and his lands shall not yield or increase, and he shall starve to death unless he repent and get baptized again to wash away the sins of his rebellion and pay up his tithing and begs pardon, and none of the saints are to show him any countenance or favor until he repents."

Even the water master of community, who is appointed by the Mayor, who generally the Bishop, is instructed to allow that man no water to irrigate his land, and as nothing can be raised from the soil without irrigation, of course the withered crops and starvation and the rest is experienced. For the sake of his suffering, starving family the man gave up his land, was rebaptized, asked pardon of the priests, and puts is neck to the yoke in silence.

A number of such cases can be easily produced. The water master is a mere thumbscrew for the Bishop, and the destinies of every man are in his hands.

A Star Actor.

A remarkable outrage was committed the other evening on Queen Anne's "mean and sooty" statue in front of St. Paul's Cathedral, London. A man of wild appearance was seen to clamber over the spiked railings enclosing the effigy. With the agility of a monkey he climbed the figures forming the base of the statue, and then, taking an axe from beneath his coat, began to hack away at the features of the royal presentment, chopping off what remained of her Majesty's nose, and smiting off the right ear. Passing round to the rear of the figure, he vigorously set to work on the back of the head, chipping the stone away in large flakes all round. Having exhausted his passion, the man calmly decended and again scaled the railings. When arrested, the prisoner explained to the police that "the stars told him to do it."

In consequence of a suicide occurring in a church in Lincolnshire, England, a solemn purification service took place.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhea, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

BOERHAAVE'S RECTAL REMEDY.
$1 00 A BOX

The knife and Ligature are the last resort for Protruding, Bleeding Piles. All Ointments and Liniments Fail. Boerhaave's Rectal Remedy makes the knife the ligature and the cautery unnecessary. It returns the Bowel, holds and heals it. The worst case of Piles will be relieved in Ten minutes.

Send us by mail, ONE DOLLAR and we will mail you a box; after using half of it, if it fails to answer the recommendation, return the other half, by mail, and your dollar will be returned at once.

No one with Rectal Troubles should be without the Rectal Remedy.

HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
Agents for the U. S., Chicago

BOERHAAVE'S KIDNEY CURE.
$1 00 A BOTTLE.

"Fifty Years and upwards" seldom fail to induce various Kidney Troubles, Urinary Disturbences, and Inflammation of the Bladder, &c., leading—how often—to 'Bright's Disease.' It will cost One Dollar, sent by mail, to try a bottle of "BOERHAAVE'S KIDNEY CURE." Relief is warranted in every case. After using half the bottle, if you think it is not adapted to your disease, mail to us the half which is left, in the original Package, and your money will be returned at once.

It has done wonders during more than fifty years of use. Bougie, Catheter and Syringe are discarded as harsh and useless. Try Boerhaave's Kidney Cure.

HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO.,
Agents for the U. S. Chicago

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

NEVER FAILS

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

REED'S

GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants every where.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAMARITAN
NERVINE.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my little girl of fits. She was also deaf and dumb, but it cured her. She can now talk and hear as well as anybody.
Peter Ross, Springwater, Wis.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has been the means of curing my wife of rheumatism. J. B. Fletcher, Fort Collins, Col.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Made a sure cure of a case of fits for my son.
E B Bolls, Hiattsville, Kan.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of vertigo, neuralgia and sick headache. Mrs Wm Henson, Aurora, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Was the means of curing my wife of spasms.
Rev J A Edie, Beaver, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of asthma, after spending over $3.0 with other doctors.
S B Hobson, New Albany, Ind.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Effectually cured me of spasms.
Miss Jennie Warren,
740 West VanBuren St., Chicago, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured our child of fits after given up to die by our family physician, it having over 100 in 24 hours.
Henry Knee, Vervilla, Warren Co., Tenn.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of scrofula after suffering for eight years. Albert Simpson, Peoria, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my son of fits, after spending $2,400 with other doctors.
J W Thornton, Claiborn, Miss.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me permanently of epileptic fits of a stubborn character.
Rev Wm Martin, Mechanicstown, Md.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my son of fits, after having had 2,400 in eighteen months.
Mrs E Fobes, West Potsdam, N Y.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of epilepsy of nine years' standing. Miss Orlena Marshall,
Granby, Newton Co., Mo.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has permanently cured me of epilepsy of many years duration. Jacob Suter,
St. Joseph, Mo.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of bronchitis, asthma and general debility. Oliver Myers, Irontown, Ohio.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has cured me of asthma; also scrofula of many years standing. Isaac Jewell,
Covington, Ky.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of fits. Have been well for over four years. Charles E Curtis,
Osakis, Douglass Co., Minn.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured a friend of mine who had the dyspepsia very badly. Michael O'Connor,
Ridgway, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has permanently cured me of epileptic fits.
David Trembly, Des Moines, Iowa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my wife of epilepsy of 35 years standing. Henry Clark, Fairfield, Mich.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my wife of nervous disease of the head
E Graham, North Hope, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my son of fits. He has not had a fit for about four years. John Davis,
Woodburn, Macoupin, Co., Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
IS FOR SALE
BY ALL DRUGGISTS

Or may be had direct from us. For further information inclose stamp for our Illustrated Journal giving evidence of cures.

Address
DR. S. A. RICHMOND & CO.,
Worlds Epileptic Institute
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoro'ly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had suffered from weakness, for 5 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 10th, '79.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 28, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box [No. 2] for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 25.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2 '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way, and wish one No. 2 box.

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.

Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of Experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE Producing affections of the blood, skin or bones, treated with success, on scientific principles, without using Mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.

YOUNG MEN and those of middle age who are suffering from organic weakness that unfits its victims for business or Marriage, permanently cured, at moderate expense.

PATIENTS TREATED by Mail and Express but where possible personal consultation is preferred, which is FREE and invited. List of questions to be answered by patients desiring treatment mailed free to any address on application.

Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss. Communications strictly confidential, and should be addressed DR. BUTTS, 12 North 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.

New Meat Market

Opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers, has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangement can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.

Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. 4tf

W. L. BRAUN.

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

Manufacturers of the

Best and Lightest-Running

Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on South Main street, Auburn, Ind. 41tf

HOME TREATMENT.

A certain cure for Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, etc. The Recipes used in my practice for 25 Years and an illustrated book of 60 pages giving full directions for self-treatment, sent free. Address DR. T. WILLIAMS, 435 E. Water St., Milwaukee, Wis.

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS

And the Best Machinery in the World for BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power! Book Free. Address LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

HOP BITTERS.

(A Medicine, not a Drink,)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,

AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and especially Female Complaints.

$1000 IN GOLD.

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and try them before you sleep. Take no Other.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

All above sold by druggists.
Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y., & Toronto, Ont.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED

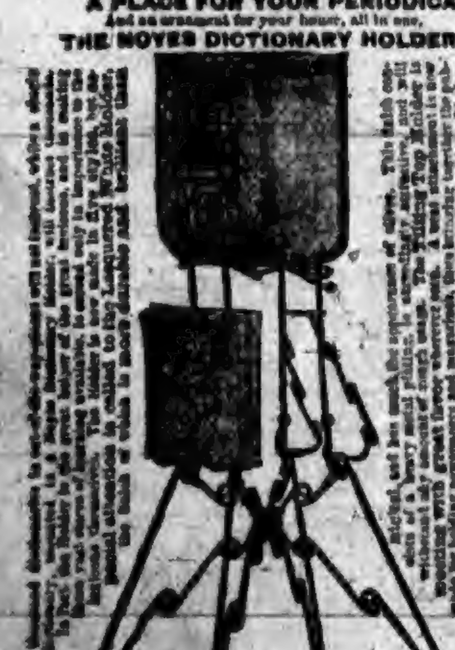
OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF

CURE WARRANTED

FISTULA, RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES, CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

COME BEFORE TOO LATE

A PLACE FOR YOUR DICTIONARY,
A PLACE FOR YOUR NEWSPAPERS,
A PLACE FOR YOUR PERIODICALS,
And an ornament for your house, all in one,
THE NOYES DICTIONARY HOLDER.



The Little Children's Watches.

An old man entered a Little Rock store, and taking from his pocket an old buckskin pouch, he emptied two coins on the counter, and then, after regarding the silver for a few moments said:

"Mister, I want to buy some goods to make a dress."

"That money is mutilated, old gentleman. This twenty-five cent piece has notches filled in it, and this fifty cent piece has been punched. You see they have been abused. I can't take them."

"Abused," said the old man. "Abused," and he took up the fifty cent piece and looked at it tenderly. "And you won't take it on account of the holes. Heaven grant that I did not have to offer it to you. Years ago, when my first child was a little girl I punched a hole in this coin and strung it around her neck. It was her constant plaything. At night when she went to bed we'd take it off, but early at morning she would call for her watch. When our John—you did'nt know John, did you? No. Well, John used to come to town a good deal."

"Where is he now," asked the merchant, not knowing what to say, but desiring to show appreciation of the old man's story.

"He was killed in the war. I say that when John was a little boy I strung this quarter around his neck. One day his watch got out of fix, he said, and he filed these notches in it. He and his sister Mary used to play in the yard and compare their watches to see if they were right. Sometimes John wouldn't like it because Mary's watch was bigger than his, but she would explain that she was bigger than him and ought to have a bigger watch. The children grew up, but as they had always lived in the woods, they were not ashamed to wear their watches. When a young man came to see Mary once she forgetfully looked at her fifty cents. "What are you doing?" asked the young man, and when she told him she was looking at her watch, he took it as a hint and went home. After that she did not wear her watch in company. Mary and the young man married. John went off in the army and got killed. Mary's husband died, and about two years ago Mary was taken sick. When her mother and I reached her house she was dying. Calling me to her bed she said: "Papa, lean over," and, taking somthing from under her pillow, she put it around my neck and said: "Papa, take care of my watch." The old man looked at the merchant. The eyes of both men were moist. "Do you see that boy out there on the wagon? Well, that is Mary's child. I wouldn't part with this money, but my old wife, who always loved me, died this morning, and I come to buy her a shroud." When the old man went out he carried a bundle in one hand and the "watches" in the other.

Complimentary Notice.

Among the new advertisements in this issue will be found one from Messrs. Rathbone, Sard, & Co., manufactures of the celebrated "Acorn Stoves and Ranges." The distinct lead which "Acorn" stoves have taken in all the markets of the world, is being emphasized each year by the fact that no live stove merchant who carefully studies the best interests considers his stock complete unless it embraces some numbers of these renowned goods. Every stove is fully warranted; and a special feature of the best grades of "Acorn" is their patent Asbestos lined oven doors for retaining the heat in the oven and economizing in fuel. The "Acorn Oil Stove," embracing many new features, has been added to the Acorn line for the season of 1882. For a fuller description of "Acorn" stoves, send for a sample copy of The Acron Times, puplished by Rathbone, Sard & Co., Detroit Mich. See their advertisements in another column. 3t

Dr. Casebeer last week removed a piece of pine wood about an inch in length, embedded in the flesh of the limb of Mrs. M. C. Smith, where it had deen carried some forty years, without material discomfort to her. The wood was found in a perfect state of preservation. It is strange how foreign substances may thus be carried in the body. Mr. Austin, a soldier of the war of 1812, was wounded in the face at one of th battles of that war, the ball lodging somewhere deep in the bones of the face, where he carried it until his death at Lima a few years ago. Just before he died, the ball slipped from its position into his mouth, and he spit it out, and had the satisfaction of seeing the deadly missile he had so long carried in its hidden recess before he expired.—Lagrange Standard.

Notice.—I will be in my office, at my residence, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. S. J. Brandon,
Oct. 11-tf. Trustee Jackson tp

—Anderson Bros. will give prices that will astonish you. Single buggies, $70; top carriages go from $90 upwards. We use second growth hickory throughout, and all work guaranteed satisfactory. We sell on time per agreement.
10-4w. Anderson Bros., Waterloo.

School Report.

School report of district number three, Wilmington township, for the month ending March 16th, 1882. Whole number of pupils enrolled during the month, 44; average daily attendance, 40; whole number neither absent nor tardy: Louisa Campbell, Minnie Lackey, Mellie Debose, Rosie Fetters, Hattie Smurr, Lusie Jennings, Ella Lackey, Hattie Moody, Clara Jennings, Elva Livergood, Laura Bechtel, Julia Lackey, Eliza Deems Willie Ocker, Willie Debose, Oliver Debose, Howard Copeland, Willie Fetters, Geo. Copeland, Harry Copeland, Hattie Campbell. The names of those who were not absent a day during a term of four months: Mellie Debose, Willie Debose, Willie Ocker, Wilmetta Hanes, Hattie Campbell, Howard Copeland, Elva Livergood, Laura Bechtel. Percent of attendance for the whole term, 90.

T. J. Baxter, Teacher

In the pockets of a drunkard who died a few days ago in the city prison of San Francisco was found a curious document purporting to be a brief autobiography of a man who began active life with more than the usual share of ambition and glory. In the worn and almost illegible pages was found the following description of the famous charge at Balaklava, the writer at the age of 16 having apparently been one of the immortal Six Hundred: "The bugles rang out their shrill calls to charge, and we went at the center of our foes. The shock was a fearful one. As we struck against the enemy a Muscovite cavalryman, with a look as black as hate on his face and his eyes blazing, aimed his lance at my heart. I parried his blow and struck his weapon down, and then dispatched him. But it must have been from him I received a wound, for at night I found my left boot full of blood, and a lance wound right under the knee-cap. In striking down his lance, the point of it entered my leg, but in the excitement of the moment it passed unnoticed. I never could tell how we ever broke through the Russian lines, but we did. When we appeared on the other side I came to my senses. Then we met another line of the enemy, but our spirits were up and we passed through them like a sheet of lightning. It was a terrific work, and our troops suffered heavily. The wound under the knee-pan was all I received during the bloody work of the Crimean campaign. It fires me up a little, even now, when I think of those times, just like an old war-horse at the sound of a trumpet; but I don't think I would care to see or go through them again. I went into that charge a private and came out a corporal, besides receiving two distinguishing marks for bravery and good conduct."

Trustee's report, Richland township, DeKalb county, for the past year, commencing June 9, 1881, and ending March 9, 1882:

TOWNSHIP FUND.
Receipts	$ 341 95
Expenditures	339 65
Balance on hand	2 30
ROAD FUND.
Receipts	526 24
Expenditures	526 24
SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.
Receipts	2355 57
Expenditures	2246 82
Balance on hand	108 75
TUITION FUND.
Receipts	2616 01
Expenditures	1066 50
Balance on hand	1549 51
DOG TAX.
Receipts	247 04
Expenditures	113 50
Balance on hand	133 54

F. F. Franks, Trustee.

An Enthusiastic Endorsement.

Gorham, N. H., July 14, 1879.

Gents—Whoever you are I don't know; but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in this world of adulteration of medicines there is one compound that proves and does all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of palsy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change; another did so change my nerves that they are now as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. Now, if you continue to manufacture as honest and good an article as you do, you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind.

2t. Tim Burch.

—The Burch plow.

—The Burch plow runs light. 10-4t

—The Burch plow is warranted in every particular. 10-4t

—Look at the Burch plow before buying. It is boss. 10-4t

—You can save twenty per cent. at Anderson Bros., Waterloo. 10-4w.

Farmers—bring in your old dry bones. I will pay you $5.00 pr ton.
S. U. Tarney.

Ab. Kelly, of Waterloo, has a car load of seed potatoes, early rose, for sale.

—The largest stock of carriages in DeKalb county, is at Anderson Bros., Waterloo.

SORE EYES.

Dr. E. C. Yetter,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

Dr. E. C. YETTER,

BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 133. 2-tf.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE!

J. C. BOYER.

Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc., etc.

My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and Large, and for the NEXT 60 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS, GLOVES, MITTENS, NOTIONS, ETC.

At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying for you can save money by buying of me.

All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.

J. C. BOYER,
WATERLOO, IND.

OZONE

—THE—

KING FORTUNE MAKER

The Only Practical Preservative of Perishable Articles, both Animal and Vegetable, Preventing Decay or Putrefaction.

Preserves Meats, Eggs, Fish, etc., indefinitely and with complete success.

EGGS can be purchased when cheapest, and preserved for any length of time, at a cost of One Mill per dozen, and other articles at same proportionate cost.

There is a Gold Mine in every County in this State for some live man.

TEST PACKAGES OF OZONE

Containing sufficient material to preserve from 500 to 1,000 dozen Eggs, sent to any address upon receipt of $2.00.

INDIANA DEPARTMENT
PRENTISS PRESERVING CO.

Address, JOSEPH BROWN,
La Fayette, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED
IN EVERY COUNTY,

Who should order a Test Package and secure County AT ONCE.

MUSIC MONEY

$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over Twenty Dollars in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The Journal is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby every subscriber receives cash prizes. Again the Musical Library, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the Journal and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send a 3-cent stamp to pay postage on premiums, to the Standard Music Publishing House, Geneva, Ohio.

Music Composers, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to Standard Music Publishing House, Geneva, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New Music

2 CARD COLLECTORS. Send 3c. stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards, photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address Sunshine Pub. House, Geneva, Ohio. BOYS send a 3c. stamp and receive by next mail a package including chromo cards. 10-13w.

Being the only

EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE

in Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of

TAPESTRY,
BODY BRUSSELS,
AND WOOL CARPETS

At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS!

MODERWELL AND STUDOR,
Successors to
S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO.
FT. WAYNE, IND.

SEED.

THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD

CORN AND WATERMELONS

CORN. Our "GIANT" Corn is a new and distinct variety, and is withal the best that any farmer ever grew. The grains are as large as the average size chestnut; the finest white dent ever grown; full, rich in starch, perfect hardy, and never failing to grow a strong and vigorous stalk, with firm, deep roots. The ears are uniform and of very large size. It will yield more than any other variety that can be raised, averaging from THREE to SIX EARS to the stalk. It is taking the place of all other varieties upon its first trial. It is matured, and can be gathered in TEN WEEKS, and grows as successfully in the North as the South.

WATERMELONS. Our "MIXON" Watermelons are the largest and finest in the World in every instance and grow in any section of the country. Their average weight is from 75 to 125 POUNDS. The flesh is of a blood-red, very solid, luscious, crisp and sugary—far surpassing all other varieties, and, although a melon of such an enormous weight, there is barely half an inch rind. They are pronounced the finest shipping melon in the World. It will pay any farmer to try a sample package.

Corn—sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00, and $5.00 per bushel. Watermelons—Sample package 25 cents, or five packages for $1.00. Address all orders to the

ACME IMPORTING CO.
4-tf. Athens Ga.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad

SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas, Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINK from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R. R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 18[illegible].

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	......
Saginaw	6 30	7 58	......
Lansing	9 25	10 25	......
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 40	11 30am
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	5 22
Jackson Lv.	7 15am	12 00 m	7 00
Hanover	7 50	12 32pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 13	9 28
Reading	8 42	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 56	1 43	10 28
Fremont	9 12	2 03	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 25
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 03	2 52	12 25am
Auburn	10 13	3 03	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 23	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 30
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55	......	6 26
Louisville	10 15	7 25am	7 30
St. Louis	......	8 40	......
Washington	......	9 05pm	......
Baltimore	......	10 15	......

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am	......	8 10pm
Washington	10 20	......	9 27
St. Louis	6 40pm	......	7 50am
Louisville	......	8 00am	......
Cincinnati	9 00	7 35am	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00	......
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 45pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 03	3 05
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 03	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 25pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07	......	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 35	8 20	......
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	......
Bay City	9 20	11 50am	......

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

Jackson.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 30 a. m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 23 p. m.; west—12 45, 5 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 00 p. m. J. L. & S., 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 8 35 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

Jonesville.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 38 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 50, 10 50 p. m.

Bankers.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 00 p.m.

Waterloo.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m; west 2 15 a. m., 1 20 p. m.

Auburn Junction.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 2:48 p. m. west—11:06 am m., 7:34 p. m.

Ft. Wayne.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m. 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 56 p. m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 6 15 a. m. 2,00 p. m.; ar. 3 00, 7 15 p. m. P., Ft. W. & C. east, 5 00 a. m., 3 35, 5 10, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 30, 6 20, a. m., 12 40, 3 40, 5 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Ft. & Pass'r. Agent

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect December 12, 1881.

SOUTHWARD. No 3 Express	SOUTHWARD. No. 1, Mail.	STATIONS.	NORTHWARD. No 2 Mail	NORTHWARD. No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 30am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	10 00am
6 47	11 30	Bluffton, J.	4 10	8 53
7 47	12 28	Hartford	3 12	7 47
8 40	1 55pm	Muncie	2 17	6 50
9 25 m	6 20pm	Cincinnati	8 12a	4 50pm
10 50pm	6 05	Indianapolis	12 00	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
Geo. B. Campbell, General Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 16, 1881.

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N. Y. Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 45	11 23	4 25	12 10pm
Corunna	3 00		6 25
Sedan			7 00	3 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 30pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Chi Ex.	Pac Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 00am	12 01am	5 00am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 30	3 05	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 30	9 25	4 50
Chicago	8 00	8 10

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:35 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:45 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage. J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to

H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 22, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C. Ex.
Chicago lv	5 30pm	9 10am	8 40am
Walkerton Junction		12 06am	12 07pm
Milford Junction		1 24	1 20
Syracuse		1 36	1 36
Cromwell		1 52	1 55
Albion		2 12	2 20
Avilla		2 34	2 48
Garrett	10 35	2 55	3 30
Auburn Junction	10 42	3 04	3 40
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	4 34
Defiance	11 53	4 25	5 12
Deshler	12 45am	5 22	6 19
Fostoria	1 30	6 20	7 19
Tiffin	2 02	6 46	7 48
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 10	9 00

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 20pm	6 10pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 25	7 45	9 10
Fostoria	10 51	8 38	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 50am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville		11 42	12 20pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 35
Avilla		12 36	1 53
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 20	2 45
Syracuse		1 36	3 02
Milford Junction		1 46	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 05	4 30
Chicago ar.	8 55	6 10	7 35

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec. 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv.	9 20am	3 20pm	4 30pm	9 20p
Ft. Wayne	3 35pm	9 15	11 55	5 12a
Crestline	9 00	12 40am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield	......	......	......	......
Pittsburgh Ar.	6 00am	6 57	1 10pm	6 45p
STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	5 45pm	10 30p
Mansfield	......	......	......	......
Crestline Lv.	7 15pm	2 05pm	3 00am	7 21a
Ft. Wayne	12 50am	6 55	6 40	1 00p
Chicago Ar.	6 50	10 30	11 00	7 30p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:15 am.; Warsaw, 8:55 a. m., Columbia, 9:15 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:40 p.m.; Plymouth, 6.45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
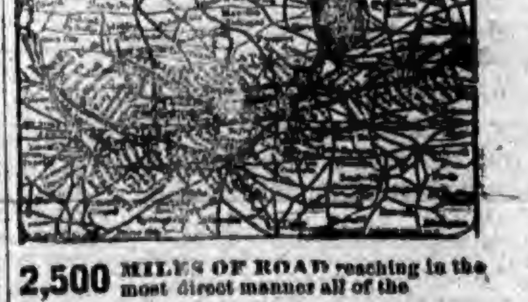
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen. Manager. Gen. Passenger Agent,
St. Louis.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, APRIL 6, 1882. Number 14.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

Vaccine Virus Points.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean recordes the presence, in that city, of Dr. Griffin, and says the prime object of the doctor's visit to Chicago was to purchase two car loads of heifers for use in the manufacture of vaccine points. He selected 91 beautiful young animals, Short-horns and Devons, and with these he will vaccinate the other 916 he has already. A statement has been published that the same heifers were revaccinated many times. This is a mistake. The animal having once been vaccinated is impervious to the influence, like a human subject. The Fond du Lac farm is one of the oldest and most extensive for the purpose in the world. To show the production, it is only necessary to state that Dr. Griffin has disposed of between 60,000 and 70,000 points within the last three days. The whole northwest, he says, is feverish with the smallpox excitement, and the disease seems to be the worst in Dakota, parts of Minnesota and northern Wisconsin, probably originally introduced by emigrants. The number of vaccine points to be obtained from one animal varies greatly; sometimes but 50 points can be obtained; in other cases, over 1,000. The cattle used are from three months to four years of age. Young new milch cows are the most susceptible and productive. The light red color is the best, and black the most objectional. The innoculation is always with the cow-pox, never by small-pox, as is stated by ignorant physicians and others opposed to vaccination. The sooner the points are used after preparation the better. The Fond du Lac farm sends its products to Turkey, China, Africa, and, in fact, to all quarters of the globe. The farm comprises but five or six acres, but is finely supplied with stables. The feed given is of the very best hay and oats. The very best stock is purchased—the calves bought yesterday came from New York state. It is impossible to get a good crop from a scrawny subject. The cattle are uninjured by the process, and can be used for any purpose after serving the farm. Dr. Griffin buys his cattle in Chicago, because there he has his pick of many, and can buy cheaper than in Wisconsin, where the roads are practically impassable at present.

Birthday Party.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP, March 25.

MR. EDITOR: Will you please allow us space through your columns to insert the following: The 23d day of March being the 76th birthday of Mrs. Elizabeth Krise, her many friends and neighbors concluded that it would be a token of respect to surprise her with a birthday party. Consequently, on the aforesaid morning, to her utmost surprise, a party of between forty and fifty of her neighbors and friends assembled at her residence with many presents and good wishes for her in the future. A very enjoyable time was the result. After chicken, cake, etc., and a social visit, the party dispersed with many thanks from Mother Krise for this mark of friendship. The following are the names of those present:

Joseph Wingard and wife, James Weeks, Mrs. Hay, John McBride and wife, Mrs. Geo. Swineford, Lizzie McBride, Mrs. J. B. Goldsmith, Delbert McBride, Mrs. Joseph Kock, Cora McBride, William Krise and wife, Cyrus King and wife, Mrs. J. Gunsenhouser, Mrs. T. D. Meese, Mrs. Thomas Ricketts, Mrs. A. Swineford, Mrs. Isaac Meese, Mrs. Henry Gunsenhouser, Elizabeth Krise, Mrs. Sanders, Sarah Meese, Dellie Krise, Allen Carter, T. Krise and wife, Aaron Nickerson, Icy Krise, L. Showalter and wife, Maggie Krise, Allie Goldsmith, Cora Krise, Maria Goldsmith, Gertie Krise, J. N. Hornberger, Manda Hullinger, Laura Krise, Mary McBride, Ada Swineford, Howard Krise, Nannie Hornberger, Charley Krise and Etta Ricketts.

Respectfully,

ONE OF THE PARTY.

Habitual Costiveness.

Is the bane of nearly every American woman. From it usually arises those disorders that so surely undermine their health and strength. Every woman owes it to herself and to her family to use that celebrated medicine, Kidney-Wort. It is the sure remedy for constipation, and for all disorders of the kidney and liver. Try it in liquid or dry form. Equally efficient in either.—Boston Sunday Budget.

* * *

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doubtless ranks first as a curative agent in all diseases of the procreative system, degeneration of the Kidneys, irritation of the bladder, urinary calculi, &c. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn Mass., for phamphlets.

Running a Rival.

THE TACTICS EMPLOYED BY JACK HAVERLY TO PARALYZE EMERSON'S MINSTRELS.

[Courier-Journal.]

A reporter met "Master" Martin, the well-known minstrel man, recently, and entered into a conversation with him:

"You may talk about the rows between circus men, said "Master" Martin, "but there never was one which compared to the fight between Hooley and Haverly in 1880."

"What fight was that?" asked the reporter.

"I will tell you all about it," was the reply. "I was with Billy Emerson's minstrels that year, under the management of Hooley, and we played all over the south. About the same time Haverly's Mastodons came south, and we were thrown into opposition to them. Will. Strickler, Haverly's manager, made a date for his minstrels in St. Louis one week before we were to appear there. This alarmed Hooley, and he telegraphed to Nat. Homer, assistant agent, to proceed to St. Louis at once and clean Haverly out. This suited Homer exactly, and he went to St. Louis with another agent and worked the town up to the top of the ladder. Every available place that would hold paper was decorated with one of our bills. In many instances they were pasted over Haverly's. A large band wagon was procured and the streets paraded every day with flying colors. Haverly did not expect this, and was not prepared to meet it, and, in consequence, his week's business was ruined, while we turned people away every night. This enraged Haverly, and he determined to get even, which he did. He telegraphed Strickler to 'hunt Hooley to the wall; follow him up and break him, if it breaks me.' Strickler was only too anxious to proceed in this way, and started his six agents after us. We only had four agents, and in consequence were laboring under a disadvantage. Strickler and his five assistants took after us and followed us all over the south. Every town our agent went to, one of them would follow and proceed to bill the town for the week after we were billed. In nearly all these towns Haverly's ministrels never intended to appear. The way [illegible] worked was a caution. As they [illegible] along the street they would [illegible] Emerson's lithograph hanging in a window, and would rush in and say to the proprietor: 'Don't go to that show; it's no good. Have you ever heard of Haverly's ministrels?' 'Yes.' 'Well, how many have you got in your family?' pulling out his complimentary tickets. The man would tell him, and be given a ticket for each member of his family, and at the same time Haverly's ministrels never intended to appear in the town, and tickets, of course, were nothing. After getting the tickets, ten to one, the men would pull down Emerson's lithograph, and hang in its place a card, saying: 'Don't go to see Emerson; wait for Haverly's Mastodon Forty." Of course, every one who had received tickets, and nearly every man in town got one, would resolve to wait and see the Mastodons, and, in consequence, our business was nearly ruined. Hooley, who was a very profane and excitable man, was greatly aroused—in fact, paralyzed, at Haverly's audacity. We would reach a town one night and have it billed, and the next day Haverly's men would be in and clean us up. I walked down the street of one little town with Homer and Hooley one day, and was greatly amused at Hooley. We suddenly came to a store, in the window of which was one of Emerson's lithographs, and just below it was the card warning the people not to go to the show, and below this was one of Haverly's lithographs. Hooley, who wore a long gray beard, began to pull it vigorously, and swear like a trooper, saying between his oath: 'Well, the loafer; look at him now where he is, and he never intends to come here at all.' He then turned to Homer and asked why he did this. Homer replied that it was because he ran Haverly in St. Louis, and he was getting even. Every town we struck it was the same way, and Hooley used to swear himself black in the face. Haverly's instructions to 'push to the wall' were carried out to the very letter, and the show broke up in New Orleans, after losing considerable money. That is the way ministrel men carry on a war, and, although it cost Haverly heavily, he gained his point."

* * *

HOW TO GET SICK.—Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise, work too hard without rest, doctor all the time, take all the vile nostrums advertised, and then you will want to know how to get well.—Which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters! 14-2w

The History of Coinage.

[New York Times.]

Before a meeting of the American Numismatic and Archæological society, held at the New York university building, Dr. E. C. West delivered a lecture on the history of coinage, describing the Lydian, the Grecian and the Roman monetary system. When barter became no longer possible with relations of commerce, money was used. Strange to say, as was shown by Dr. West, Egypt, with its advanced civilization, never coined any money before the time of the Ptolemies, and then it was undoubtedly of Greek origin. Rings were used, made of the precious metal, portable bullion as it were, which had to be weighed after every transaction.

Aryandis, a Persian satrap, in the time of Darius, endeavored to introduce coins into Egypt, the silver darics, but they were not generally accepted. It is curious to relate that this issue of coins brought about the death of the satrap, as, having aroused the jealousy of the sovereign, he was killed. The daric exhibited was a small irregularly shaped coin, with the figure of a king on it, kneeling, holding a bow and arrow; on the reverse is a simple punch mark.

In treating the subject of the Greek, Jewish and Roman coinage, Dr. West presented many interesting facts in regard to the ancient methods of banking and money lending. Usury laws were enacted. Dr. West showed the great advantages to be derived from collecting coins, as they explained not only the arts, but the history and geography of ancient times. Throughout the lecture the subject was illustrated by a series of coins, and among them was a whole series of Jewish coins belonging to the Maccabæan family, as the shekels, half shekels in silver, with copper coins. One coin struck by Pontius Pilate was among those issued by the Roman procurators. The coins of the Herodian period were also shown, bearing for emblems an anchor, a bunch of grapes, a helmet and an umbrella.

The capture of Jerusalem was illustrated by coins of Vespasian and Titus, in commemoration of the event. The revolt of the Jews was indicated by coins struck by Simon, son of Gamaliel, and Simon Barcochab. In Greek coins a fine series was exhibited, beginning with the early Phœnician coins and concluding with those of the kings of Syria. One coin exhibited was quite unique in this country, being a piece of Marium, a city of Cyprus, representing a swain. A beautiful head of Philistis, and a fine Philip were also shown. In the Roman collection, Dr. West exhibited the gold and silver coins of the Roman emperors, commencing with Julius Cæsar and concluding with Constantine Poganatus. Thoroughly familiar with his subject, Dr. West's lecture was highly appreciated by the learned society

Given up by Doctors.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George. I know hopes are good." 14-2w.

"How are You, My old Friend?"

Asked a bright looking man. "Oh? I feel miserable; I'm bilious and can't eat, and my back is so lame I can't work." "Why in the world don't you take Kidney-Wort? that's what I take when I'm out of sorts, and it always keeps me in perfect tune. My doctor recommends it for all such troubles." Kidney Wort is the sure cure for biliousness and constipation. Don't fail to try it.—Long Branch News.

Complimentary Notice.

Among the new advertisements in this issue will be found one from Messrs. Rathbone, Sard, & Co., manufactures of the celebrated "Acorn Stoves and Ranges." The distinct lead which "Acorn" stoves have taken in all the markets of the world is being emphasized each year by the fact that no live stove merchant who carefully studies the best interests considers his stock complete unless it embraces some numbers of these renowned goods. Every stove is fully warranted; and a special feature of the best grades of "Acorn" of their patent Asbestos lined oven doors for retaining the heat in the oven and economizing in fuel. The "Acorn Oil Stove," embracing many new features, has been added to the Acorn line for the season of 1882. For a fuller description of "Acorn" stoves, send for a sample copy of The Acron Times, puplished by Rathbone, Sard & Co., Detroit Mich. See their advertisements in another column.

THE BALL OPENED.

In our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

ROOT & COMPANY

Have now opened up, and are displaying their entire spring purchase of

CARPETINGS,
CURTAIN GOODS, AND
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Comprising large and choice assortments of

AXMINSTER CARPETS,
BODY BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRY CARPETS,
Extra SUPER INGRAINS,

SUPER ALL WOOL CARPETS,
DOUBLE COTTON CHAINS,
IRISH BRUSSELS,
FINE RAG CARPETS,
HEMP CARPETS,

COTTAGE CARPETS,
OFFICE CARPETS,
TURKISH RUGS,
SMYRNA RUGS,
COCOA AND
CHINA MATTINGS.

LACE CURTAINS,
NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS,
ANTIQUE CURTAINS,
SILK TAPESTRIES,
HOLLANDS, SHADES,

FIXTURES,
CRETONNES,
STAIR RODS,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
POLES, ETC., ETC.

HOUSEKEEPERS

About refurnishing their homes, are cordially invited to examine our stock of above goods before purchasing, as we are prepared to convince them that

OUR PRICES: Are Low.
STYLES: The Choicest.
QUALITY: The Best

Offered in this section of the State

ROOT AND COMPANY,
46 and 48 Calhoun St.
FT. WAYNE, INDIANA

STILL AT THE FRONT!

THE POPULAR STORE!

OF

ISAAC OCHS!

Has an IMMENSE STOCK of all kinds of

DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

SAMPLE PRICES:

GOOD PRINTS	5 cents
BEST SHIRTING	10 cents
GOOD MUSLIN	6 cents

Everything else in proportion.

Big line of Ladies' Cloaks, Dolmans, Shawls, etc.—Elegant Styles and Terrible Cheap. Men's, Boys' and Children's Overcoats and Suits. Immense Stock, and Nobody can

UNDERSELL ME!

Big line of Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps—CHEAP. Boots and Shoes Regardless of Cost. THEY MUST GO.

GROCERES--I'VE GOT THEM!

SAMPLE PRICES:

Granulated Sugar	11c. per lb.	Best Japan Tea	45c. per lb
Coffee A Sugar	10c. per lb.	Choice Japan Tea Dust	22c. per lb
Coffee C Sugar	9c. per lb.	Extra Choice Gunpowder	65c. per lb
Good Brown Sugar	8c. per lb.	Good Smoking Tobacco	30c. per lb
Best Syrup	65c. a gal.	Choice Fine Cut	60c. per lb
Best Rio Coffee 18c. per lb. 6 for	$1.00	Best Plug	70c. per lb
Good Rio Coffee 15c. per lb.	7 for $1.00	Carolina Rice	8c. per lb
Arbuckle's Ariosa	18c. per lb.	Best Crackers	8c. per lb
Best Saleratus	7c. per lb.	Corn Starch	9c. per lb

Silver Gloss Starch 9c. per pound.
Everything Else in proportion.

Pay Highest Prices for Produce at the Popular Store

ISAAC OCHS.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches,
Watches,
Clocks,
Clocks,
Castors
Castors,
Spoons,
Spoons,
Forks,
Forks,
Knives,
Knives,
Chains,
Chains,
Rings,
Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

PILES
NO CURE NO PAY
FISTULA
RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES
CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
COME BEFORE TOO LATE
BY DR A.W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE
PATENTED
OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF
CURE WARRANTED

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

THERE are rumors of war between China and Japan.

GOLD discoveries are reported in Japan, New South Wales and Queensland.

AN Indiana stone in the Vanderbilt residence is pronounced the handsomest in the building.

THE Mormons have six preaching places in London, and have been sending many English girls to Utah.

MRS. ABRAHAM LINCOLN, very greatly improved in health, has returned to her home in Springfield, Ill.

SENATOR VOORHEES voted for the tariff commission bill passed by the Senate of Congress. The vote stood, yeas, 38; nays, 15.

THE consolidation of New York and Brooklyn under one municipal government is talked about. Can two evils make one good?

THE mosquito plague is not the least of the evils imposed upon the people of the Mississippi valley by the recent and now receding floods.

THE House of the Massachusetts Legislature has passed a bill requiring manufacturing corporations to pay their employes as often as once in two weeks.

IOWA is no longer an "October State," the legislature having passed an act providing that all elections shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

IT is understood that boats on the Western lakes and the Erie canal, are contracting to carry grain from Chicago to New York at 2½ cents a bushel. The price last year was 6½ cents.

RECENT cases are noted in the medical journals of tetanus or "lockjaw," having occurred in infants on account of being bathed in too hot water. A single nurse reports several cases of the kind.

IN proportion to population there are more marriages in France than in England, but the steady decrease of the birth rate in the former country is considered very ominious by French economists and statisticians.

THE Legislature of Minnesota, as a court of impeachment, has concluded the trial of Cox, one of the Circuit Judges of that State, on charges of drunkenness and immorality. Verdict, guilty, and removal from office.

THE three great ports of the world are London, Liverpool and New York. During 1880 they reached their highest trade figures, the imports being at London about $700,000,000; Liverpool, $500,000,000, and New York, $539,000,000.

The clerical force of the pension office is to be increased by the appointment of 810 clerks at the close of the present year. They will be alloted to the states in proportion to the representative vote. Indiana will get thirty-six.

Henry W. Longfellow, the greatest of all American poets, died Friday afternoon, aged a few days over 75 years:

> Lives of great men all remind us
> We can make our lives sublime,
> And, departing, leave behind us
> Footprints on the sands of time.

THE contributions toward the Garfield Memorial Hospital in Washington, have so far increased of late that General Sherman and Senator Windom have called a meeting of the wives of Senators and Representatives to arrange for a National Board of Visitors, and select Vice Presidents.

THE Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives at Washington has agreed to a resolution directing the State Department to insist on the speedy trial of Daniel McSweeny and other naturalized Americans imprisoned in Ireland under the coercion act by the British Government.

THE Czar has refused to confirm the recommendations of the commission on the Jewish question, in favor of compelling the Jews to quit the rural districts on the grounds that such expulsion would almost ruin agriculture, and that the recommendations are generally conceived in a vindictive spirit.

MEXICO's total real estate valuation is only $330,901,888, which is less than that of Wisconsin or Missouri, and not half that of Massachusetts. Its population is about thrice that of those three States. Its exports last year were only $30,000,000, more than two-thirds of which was silver. Its total silver production for the year was $21,903,420; Colorado's, in the same time, was $14,000,000.

THE May festival at Cincinnati will consist of four night and three afternoon performances, to be given May 16-19. Among the soloists are Moterna, and Mrs. Osgood, soprano; Miss Cary, alto, and William Candidus, tenor. The programme, comprises Mozart's Requiem Mass, Handel's Destroyer Te Deum, Bach's Passion music, Schumann's Faust, and Wagnar's Meistersinger Von Nuernburg.

THE new comet discovered by Prof. Wells, of Albany, is approaching the earth at the rate of 2,000,000 miles a day. It promises to be fully as large and brilliant as the comet of 1880, and will be visible to the naked eye in about six weeks. When the starry visitor was first discovered it was 164,000,000 miles away. This comet is remarkable for its small perihelion distance. In many respects it resembles Donati's comet, 1858.

IN an interview with a reporter, the other day, Colonel Edward Richardson, of Mississippi, the richest man in the South, and the owner of over 20 sugar and cotton plantations, said that he regarded the overflow of the great river as likely to prove more calamitous in its effects upon those portions of the South than the war, not only in the destruction of property and the disorganization of labor, but in the widespread suffering which must result.

THE French savants have been examining Chicago pork with their microscopes, and the result is, that they recommend the admission of American pork with restrictions heretofore imposed upon it. They ask, however, that it be imported in whole half hogs, instead of being cut and packed in the form of "meats." A bill is to be presented by the government admitting American pork on the ground that the cheapness of these meats make them a necessity to the working classes of the country.

A FAMILY of paupers, a man, his wife and two children, who reached New York last week, have been sent back to Europe by the New York authorities. It appears that their ocean passage was paid by the commune of the Canton Berne, Switzerland, and they were sent over as a riddance. The city authorities of New York have adopted strict precautions for the prevention of such imposition by European countries. Two inspectors will in future board steamships at Quarantine, and prevent the landing of paupers, lunatics of other improper immigrants.

THE largest of all New England's financial corporations is the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, whose assets now reach $50,258,785. The position of this single institution, in comparison with Hartford's banks and fire insurance companies, is that its assets now are more than six times the combined aggregate capital of the national and State banks and trust companies of that city, and nearly five times the combined capital of Hartford's fire companies.

THE Cincinnati Price Current prints reports from the wheat crop, covering points in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Michigan, Kentucky, and Tennessee, and from a few places in other Western States, from which it makes the conclusion that the winter crop of wheat now promises an outline equal to any previous year, and if the spring sowing is an average one, the wheat crop of 1882 may be counted on as reaching 500,000,000 bushels, and chances of even larger results than the great crop of 1880.

A BILL to make the Agricultural Bureau an executive department has been favorably reported by the Senate Committee of Congress. It provides that there shall be a Secretary and Assistant Secretary, both of whom shall be practical agriculturalists; that there shall be five bureaus in the department, as follows: Labor and Industry, Education, Agricultural Productions, Manufactur and Machinery, and Transportation, and provides the transfer of the Geological Surveys from the Interior Department to the new Department. An effort will also be made to transfer the Weather Bureau to the Agricultural Department.

THE tariff commission bill which has passed the Senate of Congress provides for a commission of nine members, to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, who are to receive as compensation for their services $10 per day when actually employed, and traveling and other necessary expenses. They are to investigate all the various questions relating to the agricultural, commercial, mercantile, manufacturing, mining and industrial interests of the United States, so far as the same may be necessary to the establishment of a judicious tariff, or revision of the existing tariff and the existing system of internal revenue laws, upon a scale of justice to all interests, and are to report to Congress from time to time, and to make a final report not later than the first Monday of January.

IT seems that prohibition in Maine has a never ending battle for success, and is often defeated in the contest. Recently the liquor men in that State have discovered a new way to escape punishment for the traffic in ardent spirits. It appears that under an old decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, which has since been reaffirmed in several instances, a man may import or may buy from a bonded warehouse any liquor in original packages, and that the importation, sale or purchase of liquor in such original packages cannot be interfered with under color of any State or municipal law or regulation. It is said that the Maine liquor sellers have opened a brisk trade with Canada, and are importing whisky and brandy in the original packages and one of the tricks of the trade is to keep almost any quantity in the original package that a customer is likely to want. Congressman Dingley, of Maine, expects to appear before the Ways and Means Committee and ask aid to put a stop to this practice, which he says is rapidly increasing the use and consumption of liquor in Maine, in defiance of State law, and at the same time discouraging American producers of ardent spirits.

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

All vacancies in the interior and Postoffice Departments have been filled

Crow Dog, who murdered Spotted Tail, has been convicted at Deadwood.

The pension due to the veterans of Indian and Mexican wars prior to 1846 amount to $93,582,112.

Judge Advocate General Swaim has found mitigating circumstances in the case of Sergeant Mason.

Miss Phœbe Cozzens, the suffragist, wants the President to make her one of the Utah reorganizers.

The Supreme Court of Rhode Island has ordered the sale of the Sprague estate on the 4th of May.

Mrs. Garfield is annoyed by publishers of unauthorized biographies and portraits of the late President.

It is authoritatively denied that Mr. J. B. Haverly, the hydra-headed theatrical manager, is financially involved.

Rose Eytinge, the actress, has been granted an absolute divorce from her husband, the notorious George H. Butler.

The Socialists of Chicago propose to get up a mass meeting to symathize with the Irish and denounce Minister Lowell.

At the Vulcan Powder Factory, near San Francisco, an explosion killed eleven persons and mortally wounded four others.

Judge Advocate General Swaim has recommended to the President the pardon of Mason. He says his conviction was illegal.

Burglars robbed the post-office at Angola, Ind., of 12,000 postage stamps and then stole a hand-car, with which they rode out of town.

"Billy the Kid," a noted burglar and desperado, was taken from Minneapolis Wednesday on a requisition from the Governor of New York.

A druggist at Oberlin, Ohio, has sued an anti-whisky vigilance committee of that collegiate town for $10,000 for malicious prosecution.

At Grand Rapids, Mich., Ida Smith, aged 11, bought 5 cents worth of arsenic and committeed suicide with it because her mother had reproved her.

Richmond, Va., was visited by a $500,000 fire Sunday. One life was lost and several persons injured. Several tobacco factories were destroyed.

An Iowa crank has sent an impertinent memorial abusing President of the Senate David Davis. Strangely enough, Senator Sherman presented it in the Senate.

At Barnum's New York circus, Saturday, the performing elephant Pilot made a vicious attack on Morgan, his keeper, and would have killed him but for timely assistance.

J. M. Nash, a retired Cincinnati merchant, agrees to donate $40,000 worth of books for the new Memphis public library, and a friend of his $22,000 worth of pictures.

Colonel T. Lee Shute, a member of the staff of the Governor of Louisiana, is under arrest, charged with embezzling funds of the City Treasury of New Orleans, in which he is a clerk.

The Secretary of the Navy has received a cable message from Lieutenant Harber, of the Jeannette Search Expedition, announcing the arrival of himself and Master Scheutze at Irkutsk in good health.

D.T. Lawson has successfully proved, by his experiments with boiler explosions near Pittsburg, Pa., that they occur, not from low water, but by a sudden bursting of water into the steam.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat has purchased a steamboat and given it, together with a load of forage for stock to the State Commissioner for the relief of the sufferers in the flooded parishes.

Dispatches from the flooded Southland report a fearful amount of suffering. In Lousiana alone 7,000 persons are being supported by government rations, and the prospects for the future are very gloomy.

Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines, the famous New Orleans litigant, succeeded in clearing her son-in-law, J. Y. Christmas, on trial in the criminal Court at Washington, for the killing of W. G. Whitney, a son of Mrs. Gaines.

O'Leary attempted to walk twenty-five miles at Galveston, against five amateurs who were to come on the track in succession, and walk five miles each. At the end of the twelfth mile he abandoned the race and set out for home.

News from the submerged South continues to be of a distressing character. Steamboats are sailing over what were once wagon roads. Plantations are covered with the floods, and thousands of families are entirely dependent on government rations.

Foreign.

The Mansion House Jewish Relief Committee has received $320,000.

The Austrian Senate has passed the bill increasing the tax on petroleum.

The Pope will hold another consistory in May to create more Cardinals.

Eight hundred Jews were expelled from Moscow for not having passports.

A Russian anti-Nihilist paper proposes to use assassination to put down Nihilism.

The Czar of Russia is to be crowned after the closing of the national fair at Moscow in May.

British crops, according to the Mark Lane Express, "continue to look wonderfully well."

The British Government proposes to disfranchise certain boroughs for corrupt election practices.

By the wreck of the steamer Palton in the British Channel, eighteen persons were drowned.

Poulet won the Lincolnshire stakes (England), distancing, among others, two American horses.

Father Feehan, a priest at Rathdowney, Ireland, has been imprisoned for using seditious language

If the Austrian Emperor visits King Humbert in Rome, the Pope will not allow him to call at the Vatican.

Sara Bernhardt has been compelled to quit the stage temporarily again on account of hemorrhage from the lungs.

The French Chamber of Deputies have repealed the decree which prohibited the importation of American pork.

An Irish item: A candidate for an office in opposition to a Land Leaguer had his nose cut off by a disguised band o' patriots.

Colonel Burnaby, who started alone in a balloon from Dover, England, for France, landed safely five miles from Boulogne.

Franz Josef, Emperor of Austria gave a banquet at Vienna in honor of the birthday of the Emperor William of Germany.

France, Italy and Spain will send envoys to Morocco to insist that the Sultan redeem his pledges for better treatment of the Jews.

The race for the Liverpool spring cup was won by the American bred horse Wallenstein; Valour second, Dreamland a bad third.

At Havre, France, a life-boat, while attempting to rescue the crew of a ship in distress, was capsized, and her crew of nine men drowned.

King Humbert of Italy told the French Ambassador that he saw no cloud on the political horizon, and that his country desired peace.

A Geneva dispatch states that in consequence of agricultural depression 450 Swiss farmers will emigrate from Oberland to the United States.

Thirty Irish patriots, who attacked a farmer near Thurles, were fired upon by three policemen and fled, bearing one of their number mortally wounded.

It is believed that the Nihilists are concentrating in Moscow, preparing for an outbreak during the fair which opens in six weeks.

A London dispatch states that arrangements are nearly completed between the competing cable companies for increasing the tariff to America.

At St. Petersburg the Chief of the Nihilist Executive Committee, connected with the construction of the mine in Little Garder street, has been arrested.

The British Government has allowed Rourke, the partner of the Treasurer o Egan, to be removed from Naas Jail to Dublin, that he may transact private business.

The Governments of France and of the United States have agreed to notify the other Powers interested of the indefinite postponement of the Monetary Conference.

Mr. Foster told Parliament that the coercion act in Ireland had prevented many outrages and murders, by locking up agitators. His speech was frequently and warmly applauded.

The London Globe says the death of Longfellow is a national loss to England. A general and true appreciation was accorded him here, even at the time when America was anything but popular.

The night police force around the London docks numbers six hundred. It is believed the Fenians intended to blow up the tunnel to North Woolwich, which passes under the docks.

A decree has been issued by the Russian Government prohibiting the importation of salt pork from America, with a provison authorizing the Government to adopt whatsoever made of inspection may seem best

The Panama Canal Company, now at work, asks a protectorate by this Government. Colonel Ingersoll, the Company's attorney, says the work will probably be finished before Congress decides what to do.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, March 22nd.

SENATE—The diplomatic appropration bill was passed with amendments. The lifesaving service bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The Chinese immigration bill was further discussed.

THURSDAY, March 23d.

SENATE.—A number of bills were reported and placed on the calendar. The Indian appropriation bill was reported, with amendments, and refered to the committee of the whole. The tariff commission bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—The discussion of the Chinese immigration bill was continued. The Kasson amendments limiting the exclusion of the Chinese to ten years was rejected—yeas 100; nays 131. The bill was passed—yeas 167; nays 66.

FRIDAY, March, 24th.

SENATE—Several bills were reported. The joint resolution for printing Mr. Blaine's memorial address was adopted. The life saving service and the tariff commission bills were further discussed.

HOUSE—Private bills were considerd in Committee of the Whole, and one of them was reported and passed. An evening session was held for the consideration of private pension bills. Adjourned till Monday.

MONDAY, March 27th.

SENATE.—The tariff commission bill was further discussed.

HOUSE.—The special order of the day, being the District of Columbia bill, was considered without final action.

Man's Boasted Government.

Mrs Z G Wallace.

We see that the best results accomplished by the executive masculine element in government, are that they require a standing army of four millions and a half of men, and a thousand million of dollars annually to maintain their Government, even on a peace footing; and we, to-day, find ourselves confronted by great social problems, which men have as yet been unable to solve. Polygamy and kindred social evils owe their existence to, and derive their strength from, the unnatural position of woman and the false idea of her inferiority and subservience, and they will never be wiped out until woman's political equality is recognized, and we have a true Republic. Your only plans thus far, and the best fruits of your unaided wisdom, have been to compromise with the great social vices, attempt to regulate them through license, by which the State is to endeavor to increase her revenues, and then build penitentiaries, jails and pauper houses, in which to receive their criminals and victims. Can it be that these are to be the best results of the Christian civilization of the nineteenth century? Or may it not be possible that there is some other element in human society, which will, if recognized as a factor in Government, bring about a better state of things? Is it not, at least, worth making the trial? Matters could not be much worse. When we realize that virtue, intelligence, patriotism and a love of liberty are the pillars which support our free institutions, will not the Government necessarily suffer loss while one-half of the people regard the other half with contempt and relegate them, at least so far as political equality is concerned, to the sphere of idiots, criminals and children, thereby rendering them ignorant of and indifferent to the best interests of the Government, especially as to them, as mothers and teachers, the education of the future citizen is largely intrusted. Can we reasonably be expected to teach our sons and pupils to honor a Government which first dishonors us?

The Growth of the Beard.

New York World.

How many people remember the time when a bearded man was a great curiosity in Broadway or in Picadilly as a bearded woman would now be? Yet it was but the other day, so to speak, that a respectable merchant would have been thought out of his mind had he appeared in his counting house wearing even a pair of mustaches, much more a full beard. England and the United States were clean shaven as to the mouth and chin down to the revolutions of 1848. Mr. Labouchere in Truth says that the "first bearded member of the House of Commons was George Frederick Muntz, the Representative from Brimingham, the father of the present member. He was regarded as very eccentric, rather crazy, and a great curiosity altogether. The first bearded peer was the Duke of Newcastle Lord Aberdeen's war minister, whose beard was a consequence of his visit to the seat of war in the Crimea. Presently he sat for his portrait to Mr. George Richmond, who lamented that his beard had spoiled the finest mouth in England." To this we may add that Prince Albert was the first person near the throne in England who wore mustaches from the days of King Charles I. to our own time, and that President Grant was the first bearded President of the United States. President Lincoln simply wore the detestable all-round chin-whiskers, which take so much away from the outline expression of the human face divine.

Negro Superstition.

A writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal gives some of the current superstitions of Kentucky negroes. If a person passes through a funeral procession he will die before the oldest one in it. If a dog lies on its back and howls it presages an early death in the family. If the longest snake killed in a day's search be suspended from the tree nearest to a peach field it will bring rain. If it be necessary to turn back after starting on an errand, the consequent bad luck may be averted by making a cross in the path with the left forefinger. A stutterer may be cured by creeping up behind him unawares and knocking him down with a raw beef tongue just taken from the beast by an unmarried butcher under 21. A bloody knife, a bottle of alcohol, and a bag of live lizards are an effective outfit for bewitching an enemy; but the intended victim is often warned of the danger by an owl's screech close to his cabin. The recipient of a poisonous snake's bite drinks a pint of whisky, and then, if sober enough, kills the first black chicken with white tail feathers he can find, picks the feathers out, and burns them.

History of the Smallpox.

Smallpox arose in the very darkest period of medieval times. It first invaded England in the ninth century; it was common in Arabia in the tenth; the crusades carried it through all southern Europe; it reached Norway in the fourteenth century; in 1517 it was carried to St. Domingo by the Spaniards along with slavery, the inquisition, the rack, and a host of the other blessings; three years later it crossed to Mexico and slew three millions; it invaded Iceland in 1707, and Greenland 1733, slaying a fourth part of the residents in the former, and a large proportion of those in the latter country, and desdite all that medical skill has done and is doing to cast it from the earth it bids fair to retain its hold, in some measure, as long as popular ignorance, destitution, negligence and carelessness continue to combat the physicians and the dictates of common sense.

There may be as much courage displayed in enduring with resignation the sufferings of the soul, as remaining firm under the showers of shot from a battery.

"Tyrian purple," as it is called, is the magenta color of old.

TABLE TALK.

St. Louis has 1,800 saloons.

Niagara is to have another bridge.

Omaha will shortly be twenty-five years old.

Polka dots are epidemic among spring styles.

An easy way to close an estate is to will it to a spendthrift.

Mr. Tilden really subscribed to the Garfield monument fund.

Kalamazoo's celery crop this season is put at 12,000,000 bunches.

A false charge of stealing 25 cents drove an Illinois girl insane.

Glass eggs for paper weights are among the seasonable conceits.

Mrs. Lincoln drew $15,000 extra pension in Chicago, a few days ago.

At Cairo, Ill., a huge catfish was caught in the parlor of the hotel.

Catching whales off Delaware bay was a good business in old times.

A Massachusetts goat whipped a Newfoundland dog in two rounds.

There are more Hebrews in Philadelphia than in all New England.

Finding $5 worth of gold ore on a Georgia farm raised the price $2,000.

John Brown's daughter Sarah asks a position in the treasury department.

A Florida railway man has invented a combined headlight and danger signal.

An observer reports that most of the northern guests in Florida have gray hair.

The City of Mexico is full of Americans, nearly every hotel being full of them.

The United States treasury has abolished discounting mutilated greenbacks.

A big cast iron dog in a Sacramento store frightened away three armed burglars.

Mr. Menges killed, near Fort Meade, Fla., a few days since, six alligators at one shot.

Dover, N. H., which had seventeen shoe factories ten years ago, now has only three.

The next dodge of the tramp will be in the role of a sufferer by the Mississippi overflow.

One Hartford church is connected by telephone with the houses of 100 members of the congregation.

"Take back the heart thou gavest." He was a butcher, and she wanted liver. They don't speak now.

Mrs. A. T. Stewart is described as a little old woman who wears a brown wig and showy diamond ear-rings.

Roasting ears for dinner and ripe watermelons for desert is the present bill of fare in Manatee county, Florida.

A Mr. Pickens, of Colorado, has become the father of triplets, and has named them Grant, Hayes and Garfield.

Mr. Harry Garfield, son of the late president, is said to be engaged to Miss Lulu Rockwell, daughter of Col. Rockwell.

There is said to be a farm in Worcestershire, England, which stands in twelve parishes and pays fifty different rates.

Professor Ryder, of the United States fish commission, says that there 50,000,000 of young in a single female oyster.

A merchant in Jacksonville, Florida, advertises for 1,000 young alligators. They are wanted as pets by northern visitors.

The silver wedding of the King and Queen of Sweden will be celebrated with great pomp at Stockholm on June 6th.

New definition of a "private" secretary: One who gives away your correspondence after you are gathred to your fathers.

When a light-haired man's locks begin to turn gray he's getting on to fifty. When they beein to turn black he's getting on to sixty.

New Hampshire has a double or "Samese" male cat, and the native inhabitants think that for music it is hard to beat this Tom-Tom.

The following sentence of only thirty-four letters contains all the letters in the alphabet: "John quickly extemporized five tow bags."

A great modiste issued the following directions for wearing a new style of headgear; "With this bonnet the mouth is worn slightly open."

Bishop Harris, Methodist, recently ordained eight young men elders in Valparaiso, Chili. He left South America December 29, for Africa.

There was nothing peculiar about a recent Toronto wedding up to the point when the married couple quitted the church. Then the bride dropped her husband's arm, got into her father's carriage, and returned home alone. She refuses either to see him again or to make any explanation of her conduct.

An Italian boy was arrested in New York, charged with picking cigar stumps and old tobacco quids from the streets. When the boy was asked by the magistrate what he did with the stuff, he said that he sold it to a man who made cigarettes and plug chewing tobacco of it.

Mr. Bryce Wright has lately received a very remarkable historical stone. Previous to the fall of Delhi, at the time of the Indian mutiny and the looting which took place, this ring was kept in the treasury of the Mogul emperors for many years. The ring itself and the back of the oval shield-shaped table which is fixed to it, is most beautifully enameled with a foliated pattern red, green, blue and yellow on a white ground, the whole set in Indian gold frame work. The face, or upper surface of the the table, is composed of a floral or foliated design in green and blue enamel, having for its central ornament an engraved diamond surrounded by twelve others varying in size. The interest of the whole work centers upon this stone, it being one of the very few known diamonds that are cut or engraved; indeed, only about five are in existence, and of these it should be said that the European ones are more properly ground by the wheel than engraved by purely manual labor. The stone is the work of a Persian artist, and bears a monogram composed of two Arabic words interlocked together, making up the invocation, "O Ali!"

FROM WASHINGTON

John Russell Young, the Minister to China, called on the Chinese Minister for the purpose of arranging the preliminaries for assuming his new position.

The prospect is that the five monitors which have been lying so long half finished at the navy yards will be completed soon. The Naval Committee will report in favor of it, and Congress will no doubt make the appropriation.

The nomination of A. L. Morrison, of Chicago, to United States Marshal of New Mexico, is very distasteful to the Chicago members of the House, some of whom are outspoken in their denunciation, and say they will call on the President and tell him their feelings. The appointment is understood to have been made at Senator Logan's request.

The report that Judge Advocate General Swaim has set aside the finding in the Mason case appears to be pretty well founded. There were doubtless a number of irregularities in the trial, and Swaim's feelings naturally prompt him to some leniency toward the attempted avenger of his murdered friend.

Blanton Duncan, in a letter to Congressman Gibson, estimates the area of the overflowed district at 32,000,000 acres, and 500,000 people will be compelled to seek other lands and employment. He says it will take $10,000,000 to relieve their necessities.

The number of rumors of the probable nomination of Senator Teller for the Cabinet may be true, but it is a recognized fact here that the President has never sent in the name of anybody already heralded as to be appointed. The proposed appointment is said to be in the interest of Grant, who wants Chaffee appointed Senator to succeed Teller.

General Atkins and Captain Richards, candidates for the Freeport Post Office, are here making a fight for the office. Representative Hawk has not yet declared himself in support of either. Atkins' prospects are said to be good.

Alex. Stephens appeared in the House in his little wheeled chair, for the first time in a week or two, having been confined to his room by illness. He says the reports that he has decided to withdraw from public life at the expiration of his present Congressional term are true, and that he had decided on this course four years ago.

The bill permitting the construction of a bridge over the Missouri river at Arrow Rock, Mo., passed the House as amended in the Senate.

The bill removing the limit from the time in which distillers are permitted to continue their product in bond, and which was reported favorably to the House by the Ways and Means Committee this afternoon, is a very gratifying one to the whisky manufacturing interests of the country, and particularly to Kentucky, where there are 1,000,000 gallons in bond, the owners of which, under the present law, would be required to take it out of bond within the next two years and throw it on the market, whether at a loss or gain. This, however, relieves them to a great extent. The bill will doubtless pass, as it is felt that at least this much should be done to relieve this great manufacturing interest of some of the very heavy burdens of taxation. The bill limits the "outage," by reason of evapration, etc., to thirteen gallons per barrel.

Secretary Hunt has received a cable dispatch, dated Montevideo, stating that Rear Admiral James H. Spotts, commanding the South Atlantic squadron, died at Stanley, Falkland Islands, March 9, of apoplexy, and was buried there. He was appointed to the navy from Kentucky in 1837, and was commissioned Rear Admiral May 5, 1881.

Shipherd, of Peruvian guano fame, is "flirting" with erysipelas now, and his physician says it will be several days before he can appear.

Scoville starts for home to-morrow. The final meeting before Judge Cox of Corkhill and Scoville, to consider the bill of exceptions, will be held this afternoon. There is no prospect that the bill of exceptions will be granted.

Ex-Senator Eaton says the President thinks the term of twenty years fixed by the Chinese bill too long, and is a virtual violation of the treaty. It is probable the President will veto the bill, and recommend a reduction of the time to ten years. This would not endanger the party's prospects on the Pacific coast, and would save us the shame of a violation of the treaty in spirit, if not in letter.

The Mason fund is growing rapidly. He never did so well for "Betty and the baby."

The Democrats say they will oppose the admission of Dakota and Washington by every parliamentary means.

Guiteau exhibits much interest in reading the accounts of executions. He read the reports of the seven hangings of last Friday, and, remarking that all died without showing fear, said, "I'll die without flinching, too, if I'm executed—see if I don't." He insists, however, that he will get a new trial.

Wendell Phillips has written a letter correcting the statement made in the House that he favored the Chinese bill, and saying he utterly opposed any resrictive measures.

The committee on the Lynch-Chalmers case from Mississippi will report to-morrow in favor of seating Lynch. The report will make a hot fight in the House.

Judge Advocate General Swaim's report in the Mason case is said to favor the release of Mason on the grounds of numerous irregularities.

Mr. Reagan spoke to the House Commerce Committee in favor of his railroad bill to-day, the argument of outsiders having closed. The bill appears to be very dead.

Mr. Bingham's substitute to the Postal bill, making 3 cents postage carry ounce, instead of half-ounce, letters, is likely to pass.

There is no confidence given here to the rumor that Walker Blaine is about to marry a Chilian lady.

The fact of Teller annoucing that he had been tendered a Cabinet position leads many to believe that he won't get it. Sargent did too much boasting, and went to Germany instead of into the Cabinet.

The selection of Mr. Davis, of Chicago, as a member of the Congressional Executive Committee, is counted an excellent one here. Mr. Davis is developing much ability as an adviser of party affairs and his assistance will be very valuable to the committee.

The nomination of Mr. Rounds is very gratifying to the Illinois delegation and all concerned here. The papers this morning speak in high terms of commendation. He will doubtless be confirmed without opposition.

The receiver of the Freedmen's Savings Bank will, on the transfer of the building to the Government, declare another divided of 20 per cent.

It is said on good authority to-day, that the President will within twenty-four hours send in his veto of the Chinese bill, with a statement of his objections, that the term is too long, and a broad intimation that he will sign it if it is reduced to ten years.

A story is afloat here, in effect that Commissioner of Internal Revenue Raum, who claimed to be a stout Grant man during the campaign, was really working for Sherman, and to his secret influence Grant's defeat can be traced. Thomas B. Keogh, late Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, professes to have been shown a letter by Mr. Wheeler, ex-Collector of Internal Revenue in the Fifth North Carolina District, written to him by General Raum, asking him to use his influen for Sherman, and to elect delegates to the Chicago Convention for him. It is claimed by Grant's friends that the secret influence caused much loss to Grant in the South, and also in New York and Illinois.

Ben. Butler has refused to take the Guiteau case, and Scoville says to-day that he will probably remain in the case.

It is said the effect of Judge Advocate General Swaim's decision will be to remove Sergeant Mason from the penitentiary, and from all military jurisdiction.

Scoville now says that it is doubtful if he gets away until after the hearing in banc, as he probably will have to remain in the case.

A bill was decided upon by the House Ways and Means Committee to-day, removing the taxes on bank capital, checks, matches, and reducing the tax on rectifiers and dealers in liquors and tobacco, one-half. It will reduce the internal revenue receipts about $16,000,000. The bill will probably pass.

It seems that there will almost certainly be some Cabinet changes soon, though the nomination of Teller or Chandler is doubtful. Secretary Kirkwood is packing up, and has already sent a part of his goods home. Secretary Hunt told a friend yesterday that Beale will doubtless be his successor. Senator Teller, in the Senate yesterday, gave notice that he would speak soon on the silver question, which is taken as an indication that he don't expect to retire. It is said that Secretary Hunt is booked for the Russian mission.

Only one appropriation bill has yet become a law, and four months of the session are past.

Senor Zamacona, the retiring Mexican Minister, left for Mexico last evening, universally regretted. He was extremely popular.

Senator Sherman is said to be much annoyed at the removal of Wilson, the Revenue Collector at Louisville, and the appointment of a Grant man. He says if the Administration continues that course, he will make open war, and refuse to support its nominations. Other Senators are also dissatisfied, claiming that Logan, Cameron and Jones, of Nevada, control all the appointments.

Mr. Stephens presented a resolution in the House to-day, asking why the Speaker dismissed Mr. Hayes, an official stenographer of the House, without giving cause. The resolution was referred, Mr. Robeson objecting to the giving of unanimous consent for an explanation. Mr. Dawson, the man appointed in Hayes' place, was Grant's stenographer. The Speaker holds that while it is true that Hayes was a Democrat, and Dawson a soldier and good Republican, this is not the reason of his removal. Among other reasons was the controlling one that Hayes had outside employment on a salary for the New York Associated Press, the duties of which were often inconsistent and in conflict with those of confidential reporters of the House committees. He also holds that really all the House reporters are holding positions by consent only as a rule, and the constitution of the United States, strictly enforced, requires the House reporters to be approved by the Speaker in each Congress.

The following Democratic Congressional Executive Committee was appointed this morning: Congressman Rosecrans, of California; Flower, of New York; Randall, of Pennsylvania; Lefevre, of Ohio; Cobb, of Indiana; Thompson, of Kentucky; and Jones, of Arkansas.

The Senate Committee, consisting of Senators Davis, of West Virginia, Chairman; Morgan, Gorman, Coke, Harris, Grover and one vacancy, (McPherson having declined), expect to confer with the House Committee in a few days. The Senate Committee is in favor of leaving the management of the Congressional canvass to the House committee, inasmuch as the election is for members of the House only. It has been suggested that the Senate Committee shall, instead of forming part of the regular Executive Committee, confer and co-operate with the House Committee, and assist them wherever they can. It is now understood that Representative Flower will really have the management of the committee, General Rosecrans, it is said, being satisfied with the honor of holding the position of Chairman. He will go home and leave the direction of the canvass to Flower.

HUNTING FOR A TEXT.

How the Sensational Preacher Catches Hold of the Subject for Pulpit Discourses.

Our Continent.

The good pastor was known among his perhaps envious brethren as a "sensational" preacher. One day while he was sitting in his study, immersed in thought, with a heap of crumpled newspapers on the floor beside him, Deacon Bullit came in: After a few preliminary remarks, the pastor asked:

"Bullit, I want a subject for my next Sunday's sermon, and I cant think of a thing. Can you suggest a theme?"

"I don't know," said the deacon reflecting.

"I've been through the whole of that pile of newspaers, telegraph columns, police columns, even the advertising columns, and there is nothing striking among them."

"Let's see; you preached against the Mormons three weeks ago? That was the Sunday I was away."

"There's nothing in that. I've 'gone for' the Mormons twice since last fall. Then, you know, I preached last Sunday about the big railroad accident at Dunkard's creek, and in the afternoon I had a discourse about the big snow storm."

"Nothing more in the Guiteau case, is there?"

"No, the people are tired of it. Three sermons on that subject is as much as they can stand. Do you think I could stir things up with another discourse pitching into the city council or, say the management of the water works?"

"I don't know. Maybe you might. The last time you went for the council the church was crowded; all the councilmen came, and the collection was the largest since New Year's."

"But I couldn't repeat the story about the colored man and the mule, could I? That was the best thing in the sermon, I think."

"It brought down the house, that's certain."

"Laughed, didn't they? But I couldn't tell it again, and so I guess I won't take up councils. I have a half a notion to discuss the Panama canal question. Do you think the people would feel an interest in that? I might preach about the Panama canal in the morning and about the small-pox epidemic in the evening. The spread of the small-pox interests everybody."

"Yes; but why not devote the sermon chiefly to the history and value of vaccination?"

"It might answer. Nobody knows how hard it is to find fresh and interesting subjects. Things happen so inconveniently. Just as likely as not there will be a big fire in the city late Saturday night, after my two sermons are written, and when it will be too late to write another with the fire as a theme."

"You could extemporize about it."

"But not so well; not well. By the way, Bullitt, have you heard the rumors that Cashier Smith, of the Tenth National Bank, is a defaulter?"

"I believe there are reports of that kind afloat."

"That would be a lively theme! Suppose I take it up in a general sort of way, and make a sensation? That might do for the morning, and then I could give a blast at the variety theater in the evening. Or I could devote my evening sermon to the tariff and the morning one to the balloon expedition to the North Pole. You would be surprised how little help I get now from the newspapers. A man may skim over fifty without finding a single theme that will draw a full house and excite the curiosity of the congregation."

"Have you looked anywhere but in the newspapers?"

"N-n-no! Excepting in the report of the Board of Trade and in a couple of the reviews."

"Didn't refer to the Bible, of course?"

"Well, I'll tell you, Deacon, the people are tired of Scriptural subjects. They want something novel and exciting. Of course, it seems a little queer to throw the Bible over; but a man has to meet popular expectation, and my theory is to reach sinners one way if you can't reach them the other. That's sound, isn't it?"

Before the Deacon left, the pastor had it arranged to preach one sermon on the boiler explosion at Hackensack, and another upon the cultivation of the carp as a food fish.

Fist Fights of Statesmen.

Washington Letter in Augusta Chronicle.

Senator Lamar was knocked down the other day by coming into collision with a carriage horse. The Senator says this is the second time he was ever knocked down. The first event is thus narrated: Years ago, when he had just begun the political career that has become so glorious, Lamar had a dispute with a local celebrity at Covington, named Zacharie, familiarly called 'Uncle Jimmy.' This man was very powerful. When the war of words came on he was sitting in a chair, and Lamar confronted him erect. Knowing well enough that his only safety was in intimidating his gigantic antagonist, Lamar drew his pistol, and pointing it at the sitting man, calmly said: "Uncle Jimmy, if you attempt to rise from that chair I will kill you!" Uncle Jimmy concluded to obey, though with ill-suppressed wrath and profuse promises of future settlement.

Not long afterward, when Lamar was treating some Democratic fellow-citizens at a corner grocery to benzine or wine, he heard an exultant voice cry out behind him: "Lucius, I have got you now!" Suiting the action to the word, Uncle Jimmy let drive his muscular arm and fist, which, coming in contact with Lamar's head, caused the body to stagger and fall. Lamar arose and Uncle Jimmy precipitated his huge bulk against him like a catapult. Then the Democratic party present thought the time had come to interfere, and Uncle Jimmy was seized by sinewy grips and told to release his hold. Not satisfied with his method of doing so, he had a second peremptory admonition. At this juncture he plaintively squealed: "I ain't holding him, he's holding me." Sure enough on examination it was found that Lamar had Uncle Jimmy's finger in his mouth, and would not let it go. During the melee Lamar had seized a skillet and made quite a mess of his burly foeman's face and head. But this was the first time he had ever been knocked down, and the last time until Thursday afternoon.

General Wade Hampton says he never had but one fist-fight, and that was with a Columbia bully, who attempted to add him to the number of his conquests. "I was a good boxer," said the South Carolina Senator, "and every time the fellow rushed at me I floored him. The last lick I gave him broke his thumb. A policeman came up and arrested me. When I was pinioned the man rose up, and drew a knife, and was about to rush upon me. I asked the policeman to let me go and give me his club. He did so. Armed with that weapon, I faced the desperado, and warned him that though I did not wish to kill him I would surely do so if he advanced a step further. He took counsel of his fears, and prudently retired. I had not a scratch, but the other man was laid up for three weeks."

The Female Type-Setter.

Denver Tribune.

Of all the occupations in which a woman can engage for the purpose of making an honest living, the most thankless is that of setting type. The female compositor leads a dreary, weary life. She is never permitted to strike a fat take, she is denied the inestimable boon of setting up the thoughtful matter which eminates from the editorial room, she is never reckoned capable of handling manuscript, and the very idea of her being able to set up a display head is deemed atrocious. She is expected to hammer away at miscellaneous reprint, the only bonanza she ever strikes is solid minion, with an occasional oasis of leaded brevier when the business manager concludes that advertising is dull enough to admit of the biggest kind of type. But this is not all—no, the worst remains to be told. When the work is done for the day, it is not with the female printer as with others of the trade. She cannot adjourn to a convenient and comfortable saloon and play pedro and old sledge for the beer, or throw dice for five cent cigars, or jeff for the drinks. She must pick her way home through all sorts of weather to a dreary room and a cold bed. She has no wife to thrash, no children to scold, no furniture to break—none of those sweet luxuries which are supposed to be part and parcel of the glorious art preservative. As a class, female printers are diligent and worthy. They never "sojer," they never bother the editors for chewing tobacco, they never prowl around among the exchanges for the Police Gazette; they never get themselves full of budge and try to clean out rival print-shops; they never swear about the business manager; they do not smoke nasty old clay pipes; they never strike for more pay; they do not allude to editorial matter as "slush" or "hog-wash"—in short, they are patient, gentle, conscientious and reliable. They peg right along for seven dollars a week, dress tidily, keep solid with the foreman, and last of all, when the female compositor gets tired of her tread-mill, unceasing round of toil, she marries the best looking printer in the shop, and then she becomes a verier slave than before.

A Gilded Youth of New York.

Cincinnati Commercial.

I cannot refrain from giving you a picture of a society beau as he appeared in after-dinner costume to bid a young lady good-by before sailing for Europe. He is tall and very slender, and his chestnut hair is parted in the middle. His white vest is cut low, and his dress coat and trousers are of the freshest broadcloth. On the first finger of one large, shapely hand, sparkle diamonds, sapphires, rubies, and cat's eyes. On the other hand is a large red cat's-eye. His patent leather ties show embroidered silk hose. He enters the drawing-room with his opera hat in his hand, a jeweled match-box with his monogram upon it, and his cane with a large topaz in its head. The latter he is careful to keep in his hand, if he is unattended by his valet, although it is usual for that functionary to await him in the hall, holding coat and cane.

Loss of Eyesight through Impure Vaccine.

Fort Wayne Gazette

G. Warner, a gentleman from Antwerp, Ohio, is in the city and is a victim of impure vaccine. He says he was vaccinated ten weeks ago by Dr. A. C. McCann, of Antwerp, and, after being confined to his bed for two weeks with a badly swollen arm, his face commenced to swell in a horrible manner, which affected him to such an extent that he completely lost the sight of his left eye. He came to Fort Wayne for treatment some time since, and was under the care of Dr. Dills for a time at the County Hospital. He is now visiting his aunt, Mrs. Vincent Shaw, of 25 Smith street. His face is in a fearful condition, and the doctor is putting forth his strongest efforts to save the other eye. The unfortunate man suffers terrible agony, but bears up under his affliction wonderfully.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP,
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

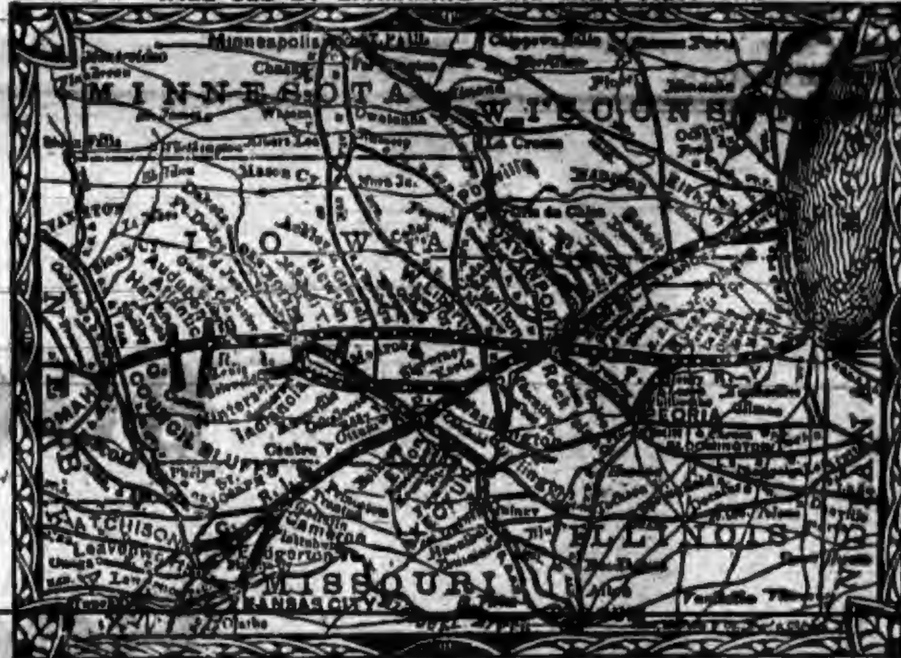
WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the BEST MACHINERY in the WORLD for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
BOOK FREE. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,
MANUFACTURERS;
ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,
ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 23, 1882.
Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.
Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL
BRINGS A SEED STORE
LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS
Founded 1784.
To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE



CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y
Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:
At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C. B. and Q. R. Rds.
At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.
At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.
At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.
At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.
Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.
For information not obtainable at your home office, address,
R. R. CABLE,
Vice President and General Manager.
E. ST. JOHN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., APRIL 6, 1882

Nine to Four.

In the result of the election as far as trustees are concerned, Franklin elects a republican trustee by 28 majority. Troy and Wilmington are also republican, the latter by a greatly reduced majority, while Union gives the republican trustee a majority of only five, a road superintendent by 81. The rest of the ticket elected being democratic. Smithfield gives her usual majority for the democratic officers. Fairfield, Richland, Butler, Stafford and Jackson hold their own at least. Keyser wheels into line with a good round majority, and we make substantial gains in Wilmington. The most remarkable results were reached in Concord and Newville. Local issues and good work resulting in electing democratic officers in Newville, by about 40 majority, the republicans getting one constable. In Concord, the democratic officers ran away ahead of their party ticket, and where a close fight had been expected our men secured a most brilliant victory. Take it all in all we have made substantial gains. We have done more than this: we have put the party in good working order, and have developed an ability to organize and work, that never was excelled, if has been equaled by the party in this county. It has proved to us the value unanimity and harmonious action. It has shown to us the weakness by which we have been giving to our opponents, the best of the county offices, when our own candidates were as good men, or better than the republicans who succeeded in getting elected. We have always had a clear majority in the county, though a small one, and nothing but our weakness and dissensions have given a single office to republicans. It is the duty as it will no doubt be the desire, of every democrat to stand as firmly hereafter, as he has done this spring, and future success will be assured.

We are under obligations to Mr. [illegible] for a late copy of the Pueblo Daily Chieftain. By this we learn that Colorado is still undergoing the troubles that have beset so many of the newly organized mining states. The rough, wild and criminal element becomes too strong for ordinary laws and courts of justice, and vigilant committees take the law into their own hands, and by force secure that justice that they dare not trust to the courts. They are now making a raid on the cattle thieves. Two men Phebus, and McGlew were lynched last Friday night. They were in jail for cattle stealing, and about midnight the jail was broken open, and the two victims taken out and hanged to a Cottonwood tree standing near. The raid was entirely unlooked for, but its quietness made it more certain and deadly. Such lawlessness is to be deplored, but as society settles down to a better basis, it is to be hoped that the laws, and not brute force may be the safeguard of the people.

THE fine passenger steamer, "Golden City" was burned at the wharf at Memphis, last Thursday morning. About thirty-five persons lost their A part of Stowe's circus, was on board and was all destroyed.

IT is claimed that General Grant is urging the president to veto the Chinese bill.

THE treasury department last week made a purchase of 771,000 ounces of fine silver for coinage.

SOUTH BEND papers are just now getting up a boom for Schyler Colfax, for the next candidate for congress.

A HARD snow storm raged at St. Johns, in New Brunswick on Monday. The harbor is still full of ice.

JUDGE BLATCHFORD, the new justice of the United States supreme court, was installed into office on Monday.

IT is claimed that the republicans of New York will run secretary Felger for their next candidate for governor.

THE new railroad at Fort Wayne, will proceed at once to haul in a sufficient amount of dirt to fill up the old canal bed.

STOWE, the owner of the show that was destroyed by the burning of the ill fated Golden City, has a number of relatives in Fort Wayne.

S. P. ROUNDS, of Chicago, is to be public printer at Washington. He is a man who understands the business, and will no doubt be a credit to the position.

THEY have caught a Yankee down in Texas, who has made a lively business vaccinating negroes with beeswax. But this benefactor of the race now languishes in jail.

THE delegation of Sac and Fox Indians now at Washington, fell in with some benevolent pale face last week, and got on a high old drunk. The pale faced brother has been arrested for his kindness.

THE Utah contested election case in congress is undecided. In the meantime both Cannon and Campbell hang around Washington, and look longingly at the vacant seat in the house of representatives.

MRS. SCOVILLE has visited Guiteau in prison. He seems hopeful, and does not appear to think the gallows will ever claim him as its own. Mrs. Scoville is represented as believing that the president will change the sentence to one of imprisonment for life.

HURLBURT, our minister to Peru, died at Lima in that country, March 27, of heart disease. A great deal has has been said during the recent Peruvian investigations as to his action in the matter of the guano claims, and he has been the subject of much adverse criticism. He was expected home soon.

CORNELIUS J. VANDERBILT committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver, in his room at the Glenham Hotel, Fifth Avenue New York, April 2. He had been in ill health for some time, and had recently returned from Hot Springs. He has generally been considered as of unsound mind, and was so regarded by his father, Commodore Vanderbilt, and his brother W. H. Vanderbilt. He will be remembered by the people of Waterloo, Kendallville and Angola, as he has at different times made acquaintance during his visits to those places.

A MAN crazed with drink, was riding on a train on the Ohio & Mississippi railroad last Wednesday, and getting into a quarrel with a fellow, passenger, drew a revolver and shot the latter, killing him instantly. The murderer jumped from the train and escaped. His body was found next day in a stream near by. He had drowned himself.

INDIANAPOLIS gave a democratic majority of over 1500 at the election this week. The good work done by the Sentinel in digging up the frauds and corruptions of the republican township officials, produced good fruit. A township trustee and an assessor, who can get rich on the wages allowed by law, have a suspicious atmosphere about them. And even republican Indianapolis, with its 5000 majority spewed them out. The Sentinel has been probing the matter for some time and deserves great credit for the able and fearless manner in which it did its duty to the people.

JESSE JAMES, the infamous outlaw and murderer, was shot dead at St. Joseph, Mo., on Monday. He had been secreted there for some time, and officers were on his track, but could not manage to arrest him, as he always carried two or more revolvers, and was an ugly customer at all times. Two of his gang were finally engaged to assist in his capture. They were Charles and Robert Ford, and have been living in the same house with him for several months. All three were, to start on a raid in a day or two, but the Fords, had made up their mind to secure the $50,000 offered for Jesse James alive or dead. They watched their chance when he was unarmed, and shot him through the head, and then gave themselves up. They will no doubt be kept in jail till the excitement dies out, and then be set at liberty. Many parties who know the James brothers well, have been to see the body, and say there is no question but he is the right man. He was living under an assumed name, and no one dreamed that he was a resident of the place. He leaves a wife and two children.

Old Settlers.

The officers and executive committee of the Pioneer Association of DeKalb county are requested to meet at the secretary's office in Auburn, at one o'clock p. m., of April 21st, to make arrangements for the annual meeting of June 15, and to transact other business.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE:

Philip Noel, Butler township; Wm. Carr, Jackson; R. Culbertson, Concord S. H. Bartlett, Newville; C. R. Wannemaker, Stafford; E. W. Fosdick, Wilmington; J. R. Cooper, Auburn; H. Willis, Waterloo; O. C. Clark, Keyser; T. D. Daily, Richland; Josiah Wells, Fairfield; J. E. Tompson, Smithfield; M. Waterman, Franklin; W. R. Emerson, Troy; Dr. J. H. Ford, president; John Butt, vice-president; Cyrus Bowman, treasurer; J. E. Rose, biographer. By order of the president.

W. H. DILLS, Sec'y.

[Other papers in the county please copy.]

New Blacksmith Shop.

J. A. Marlett has opened a new blacksmith shop at Auburn Junction, where he will be prepared to do all kinds of custom work, including farm and machine work. All who have work to do or machines to repair, give him a call at Auburn Junction. 14-2t.

The Result.

Monday's election passed off very quietly, although in most cases hotly contested. We will give the results in full next week. At present it result may be summarized as follows:

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

Trustee, James Quince, (dem.) 28 majority over Wm. Thrush, rep.; Perry Fitch and J. A. Wyant are elected justices by 41 and 58 majority over W. H. H. Cornell and Samuel Hawver. James Rowley, (dem.) has 19 over John Hall for assessor. For road superintendent, Henry L. Houser has 83 majority over Jacob Miller.

KEYSER.

Trustee, Henry Probst, 61 majority over Lyman Lockwood; assessor, Perry Noel, 87 over Devolzo Bruce; road superintendent, Joseph Leeson, 70 over Samuel Depew; Justices, F. M. Bacon 118 over Lewis Griffith, Henry Harvey 81 over Henry Gettell; constables, L. J. Gengler, 47 over Orson Tuttle, and Irvin Haag 77 over David Culver.

UNION.

Trustee, Isaac Hague, (rep.) has 5 majority over J. C. St. Clair; assessor, John Treesh, 171 over J. E. Dilgard; road superintendent, G. D. Denison, 31 over A. J. Carmer; Justices, O. P. Smith received a total of 420 votes, Oris Danks 437, Wm. Boughan 381. J. E. Shilling has a total of 371, F. W. Willis 337 and J. R. Steves 350.

FRANKLIN.

Goes republican. Trustee, Wm. Brown has 28 majority over Martin Hook; Milton Jones, for assessor, has 15 over Cyrus Platt. For road superintendent, Robert McCurdy has 8 majority over Reuben Sawvell, and Geo. B. Soule, for justice, has 29 over John Pierson.

CONCORD.

Trustee, C. H. Brown, has a majority of 89 over Solomon Shilling; justice, G. W. Woodcox, 7 over J. B. White; assessor, Moses Perry, 59 over Hugh Maxwell; road superintendent, G. W. Draggoo, has 16 over E. L. Dilly. F. Wise, democrat, and W. D. Johnton, republican, were elected constables. Mr. Johnson was the only man the republicans elected, but it is a consolation to know that he is a first-class man.

JACKSON.

Trustee, W. S. Dancer, 57 majority over A. H. Provines; assessor, J. J. Ferguson, 41 over Jeremiah Davis; superintendent, C. P. Glazier, 47 over Thomas Philips. James W. McClellan and Moletus A. High were elected constables. All democrats.

WILMINGTON.

We have no official figures, but the republican ticket was elected by majorities ranging from 24 to 50, except one justice, J. J. Sise being the successful candidate.

NEWVILLE.

Wm. Seely (dem.) was elected trustee; Sebrstian Testison, assessor, and John Cotrill road superintendent. The republicans elected one constable. This is the first democratic victory in that township for a long time.

RICHLAND.

T. F. Franks was elected trustee by a rousing majority. Assessor, Nelson Griffith; road superintendent, J. L. Smith. All democrats.

FAIRFIELD.

H. H. Staybaugh, trustee; Isaac Helwig, Assessor; J. A. Gushwa, road superintend, N. Crossley, Justice, J. C. Wells and Henry Burtnet, constables. All democrats.

STAFFORD.

Wm. Willson, trustee; Geo. Webster, assessor. All were democrats except Webster.

TROY.

W. S. Morgan was elected trustee, and John Bryant, justice. The latter is a democrat.

SMITHFIELD.

F. Gfeller, has 27 majority for trustee; M. Shoudel, 10 for road superintendend; F. C. Waterman, 17 for justice; J. H. Hornberger, 57 for assessor. All democrats.

—See here, your book account isn't worth a d—n to buy stock with.

S. U. TARNEY.

Probate Cause No. 261.

William Shutt, executor of the will of Asa Fletcher, deceased, vs. William W. Cary et al—In the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, May term 1882.

To J. Willard Fletcher, Harriet E. Austin, Henry Washburn, the unknown heirs of Milo Washburn, Herman Wilman, Louisa Olney, the unknown heirs of Minerva Welman, Maria Washburn, whose name is unknown, and Hannah Washburn, whose name is unknown, impleaded with others:

You are severally hereby notified that the above named petitioner as executor of the will aforesaid, has filed in the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition, making you defendants thereto, and praying therein for an order and decree of said court authorizing the sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and pending, is set for hearing in said circuit court at the court-house in Auburn, Indiana, on the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court, the same being the 15th day of May, 1882.

Witness. The clerk and seal of said court, this 3d day of April, 1882.

JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

14-3w.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

ANNA SIMON, Adm'x.

James E. Rose, Att'y for estate.
Auburn, March 11, 1882.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county—In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1882.

Mary Hennessey and James Hennessey, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to declare a lien, by Lewis H. Wasson, administrator of the estate of Phebe Monroe, deceased; and that the same will be heard and determined on the second juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 15, 1882.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 21st day of March, 1882.

JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

W. H. Dills, Attorney. 12-3w.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the north east quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of said section 11 and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said northwest quarter of said section, thence west on said boundary line to the place of beginning.

TERMS—One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Deferred payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security. Sale to begin at one o'clock p. m.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.

On corner east of Postoffice.

New Material of all Kinds,

—AND—

GOOD WOORK

GUARANTEED.

GIVE US A CALL!

J. M. RICE & SON.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED

The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed!"

Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of

BEAUTIFUL STYLES

—OF—

SPRING CLOTHING,

Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

BOOTS AND SHOES!

For the Spring and Summer trade at the

Boot Up-Side Down.

We can and will save the Cash Buyers 20 per cent. on any and all kinds of foot wear.

READ:

Men's Buckle Plow Shoes for - $1.00 cash | Men's Calf Boots for - - $2.25 cash
Misses' and Children's Shoes and Slippers 50—$1.50

Men's Fine Shoes bargains for cash. Ladies' Fine Shoes bargains for cash. Fine Boots and Shoes made to order by the best workmen in the county. Repairing promptly done. We ask everybody to call and examine our Goods and Prices, and you will be convinced that the BOOT UP-SIDE DOWN is the place to invest your money.

AUSTIN BROS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Easter next Sunday.

—The grass looks green.

—Gaze at Austin Bros. "ad."

—George Clark is on the sick list.

—Mark Rush is improving rapidly.

—Rev. Henry Johnson is in the city.

—James Griswold drives a new horse.

—Plenty of wood in town last Saturday.

—J. J. Beecher was in town yesterday.

—Mrs. Charley Emanuel is quite sick.

—The string band is progressing finely.

—Dr. Wilbarger went to Elkhart last Friday.

—Voters seemed to have the scratches Monday.

—Seed potatoes for sale by Ab. Kelly, Waterloo. 13-3t

—Mrs. Veeley has entirely recovered from the scarlet fever.

—J. J. Eakright, of Mooresville, was in town Friday last.

—The stone masons have commenced work on Hebel's building.

—Look at Rice & Son's advertisement on the opposite page.

—The jubilee singers will be in Garrett Saturday, of this week.

—John Leas and Miles Waterman were in town last Saturday.

—Mrs. Little has a splendid assortment of spring millinery goods.

—We noticed Dr. Emanuel, of Spencerville, on the streets this week.

—Billy Little, of Newville, was in town a short time last Saturday.

—Elsa Shaffer, of Albion, came over to see his—parents last Saturday.

—Early Rose seed potatoes can be had of Ab. Kelley at Waterloo. 13-3

—Hague thinks there is luck in odd numbers, especially the number five.

—Election was rather a quiet one, and passed off very good naturedly.

—B.L. Duncan, of the firm of Duncan Bros, Waterloo, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. A. J. Little has improved his property to the extent of a new lattice fence.

—Rev. H. J. Norris preached his farewell sermon last sunday to a full house.

—Berry Lowrey, of the Republican, came home from his recent trip on Tuesday.

—Mrs. Frank Zimmerman and Mrs. G. W. Weamer were visiting in Angola last week.

—E. J. McOscar, of Summit, has gone to Valparaiso on a temporary business trip.

—Dry goods, groceries, notions, etc., always on hand at Weirick's store at Fairfield Center. 14-tf.

—J. G. Johnson, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday in the interests of the fancy goods trade.

—F. C. Francis, of Waterloo, was in town Monday. Always glad to meet our old neighbors.

—I. O. Bechtel went to Fort Wayne yesterday, to hurry up some of the new machinery for his mill.

—Frank Myers "takes the cake" as a musician. You ought to hear him play the mouth organ.

—Porter was the luckiest man on deck. He was so fortunate as to escape being elected constable.

—C. F. Mosier, of the Bristol Banner, lightened our sanctum with his smiling contenance last week.

—Rev. Henry Johnson, is the fortunate possessor of a new baby—a son, born in this place last Thursday.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield Center, pays the highest prices for all kinds of produce. Give him a trial. 14-tf.

—No use talking, you must pay your old meat account before I can trust you any more. S. U. TARNEY.

—Peter Shull, took time to come to town Friday. He is a man who knows the value of time, and dont waste it.

—W. B. Williams, of Jackson township, will sell his personal property April 25th. He expects to move into town.

—Charlie Hoff is repairing his house near the Jackson depot, and will make it a comfortable and convenient residence.

—Mrs. J. A. Barns and daughter Nellie are in Pierceton visiting relatives. They expect to return in about a week.

—Al. Harris, a former typo, was in town Tuesday. Al. seems to think the railroad work beats upending type all to pieces.

—John Gulic, of Ohio, a relative of Mr. Mitchell, purchased the James Provines farm, in Jackson township, yesterday.

—A little child of Mr. and Mrs. D. McNabb, aged 8 months, died of brain fever last Monday, at Auburn Junction.

—Geo. Stealy, of Waterloo, was in town last Sunday. He had the misfortune of losing a very fine cameo ring while in the city.

—Frank Fisk of Smithfield was in town last Saturday. School having closed, he is now devoting his time to his farm.

—Rainier & Headley have now a fine lot of Early Rose potatoes from Michigan. Call and get some while they are going.

—The Presbyterian church had four accessions to its membership last Sunday. Communion services were also held there that day.

—Johny Hebel moved his little store to the north side of his lot this week, to make room for the new building to go up on the corner.

—The ladies missionary society of the Presbyterian church meets in the basement on Friday of this week at 3 p. m. All are invited.

—Gentlemen, how do you like the idea of having two polling places? Wait till the corporation election. Then we will give you five.

—Martin Arthur, of Kendallville but once a soldier from DeKalb county, was in town last week shaking hands with his old friends and comrades.

—Miss Mary Sprott, goes to Hudson this week to take charge of a millinery store there. The COURIER folks add their best wishes for her prosperity.

—J. M. Rice, the proprietor of the new photograph gallery, east of the postoffice, not only takes photographs, but does enlarging. Give him a trial.

—M. L. Jackman, of Franklin, is another of our live young democrats who have called on us lately and entered their names on the muster roll

—Remember Weirick's new store at Fairfield Center when you want anything in his line or have produce to sell. Give him a call and price his goods. 14-tf.

—McQuiston & Ralston have dissolved partnership, and M. F. Long goes into the business with Mr. McQuiston, the new firm name being McQuiston & Long.

—Several of our voters must have been indulging in buckwheat cakes all winter. They did nothing all day Monday but stand around the polls and scratch.

—Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo is selling his nice early Rose potatoes at $1.25 per bushel if a man takes five bushels in a lot. Ab. is ahead in prices so far as heard from.

—Herman Boozer, of Waterloo, was in town Monday. He was on his way to St. Joe, to which place he goes in the interest of the agricultural machinery business.

—B. D. Harris came home from Chicago yesterday. He was called here by the continued illness of his mother. At last accounts, she was lying dangerously ill.

—J. H. StClair, now of Concord township was in town Tuesday. He lost his vote, under the new law, but he did the thing next best, he subscribed for the COURIER.

MARRIED.—On the 28th of March, 1882, at the Lutheran parsonage, Lagrange, Indiana, by Rev. L. Rice, Mr. Daniel B. Shull and Miss Emma Shade, both of DeKalb county.

—W. A. Clark has just received a letter from Miss Frank Clark whom our people will remember as one of our former teachers. She is now in Colorado and prospering.

—While at the Presbyterian social last evening, one of the employes of this office accidently wore off a better hat than he took there. The owner can have the same by calling at this office.

—In view of the near approach of danger, we find several ownerless dogs hunting around for a master to get a tag for them. It will be a doleful game of tag too, if it isn't attended to pretty soon.

—Rainier & Headley have the nicest lot of fat beef cattle in the country. They have at present thirteen head of stall fed cattle. Don't forget the place, but go and get some of the best beef of the season.

—Charlie Bassett, of Hicksville, was in town last Saturday and attended the concert. Charley looks as if Hicksville agrees with him, and the people there treat him well. Come again when the roads are better.

—Dr. O. F. Rudolph, of Fairfield Center, dropped in to see us this week. It gives us pleasure to note the growing success of our friend Rudolph, and hope the people of his section will give him a hearty support.

—Ferguson & Elliott, granite and marble dealers, of Columbia City, have just completed and erected a fine Scotch granite cottage monument for Mr. G. A. Bishop, of Spencerville. Good work speaks loud.

—Jacob Garrison, of Waterloo, celebrated his 84th birthday by coming to Auburn and paying his taxes and squaring accounts with his old friends at the COURIER office. We wish him many happy returns of the day.

—We have received an invitation to attend the Conductor's ball at Garrett, but shall be obliged to ask the indulgence of the boys as it will be impossible for us to be there. We have no doubt it will be a most pleasant gathering.

—The McCrum farm, near Sedan, will be sold by J. M. Brumback, administrator, April 8th. All who want a good farm should watch this opportunity. See notice of sale in this paper. 13-2w.

—J. M. Rice, of North Manchester, has located in this place and will engage in the business of photographing. He will occupy the central gallery, which is now located east of the post office.

—The joke came near being on the Waterloo inspectors, who evidently almost forgot that ballot boxes were needed. They were sent up on Monday morning, and got there in the nick of time.

—J. R. Moody presented the COURIER folks with a mammouth beet last week, and it was not a dead beet either, but a very nice live one. If he keeps on raising such beets he will soon spoil the business.

—Mr. Michael Kline has returned from Corunna, where he has been working on Henry Becher's new house. Mr. Becher now has one of the very best houses in the county, both as to its arrangements and the quality of the work done.

—Emory Metz, so long employed in Fried's store at Corunna, was in town Monday. Like many of our other young business men, Mr. Metz was at one time a teacher, but has now turned his attention to something more permanent.

MARRIED.—At the residence of the brides mother, in Butler township, March 29, 1882. Mr. Joseph A. Kelham to Miss Margaret L. Simon. Rev. W. L. Meese officiated. The young couple have the heartiest good wishes of the COURIER.

—Hon. W. H. Colerick has our thanks for a fine set of books, the reports of the French Exposition of 1878. They are, as a whole much more valuable than any other puplic documents we have seen, that have been issued by the general government.

SPECIAL EXAMINATION.—There will be a special examination of teachers at Auburn, on Saturday, April 15. A request is made that only those apply who expect to teach during the spring, as the only reason for holding an examination is to supply deficiencies.

—Lewis Johnson, goes west this week, to Colorado, where under the exhilarating influence of the pure air of that climate, he hopes to regain his health. Mr. Johnson has the best wishes of a multitude of his friends here, that his brightest hopes may be realized.

—Miss Alice McKay, of Spencerville; was in town Monday. Had it been ten or fifteen years from now, when ladies have a right to vote, she would not have been allowed to go out of her township that day. There will always be some drawbacks, but we were glad to meet her.

—The ladies literary society met at sheriff Leas's on Monday afternoon, and elected officers, as follows president, Mrs. E. D. Hartman; vice president, Mrs. A. S. Leas; secretary, Mrs. A. J. Ralston; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. McQuiston; critics, Mrs. Dr. Swartz, and Mrs. Ehlers.

—Ryan Clutter, of Waterloo, passed through town last week, taking home a fine short horn bull just purchased at Churubusco. It is four and one half months old, and is one of the finest animals we have seen. The people of this county are determined to improve their stock.

—The entertainment given by Mr. Gordon's singing class last Saturday evening was a very creditable one. It proved Mr. Gordon's ability as an instructor, and spoke well for the class. There are some good voices among our young people, and it gives us pleasure to see them take pains in cultivating their talents in this direction.

—Mr. Daniel Shull gave us a shake of his friendly hand last week, before leaving for the far west. He has a long journey before him, but with the pleasant company of his wife, and his bright anticipations of future health and success, the journey will not be a tedious one. We hope to hear good news from him when he gets through.

—Our young friend, Fred. Yesbera, went to West Unity, Ohio, this week, and will look up a place to settle down permanently in the jewelry business. Fred. has been faithful in mastering a knowledge of the business under the instruction of our popular jeweler, Joseph Abright, and will be an addition to the business of any town in which he may locate.

—Mrs. R. M. Lockhart, of Waterloo Mrs. Smith, of Jackson, together with Mrs. Underhill, Mrs. Sutton and her son Robert Sutton, of Hillsdale, were visiting with Mrs. J. A. Barns, last Wednesday. Mrs. Smith is wife of "Curly" Smith, the well known conductor of the Jackson road. He is now street commissioner of the city of Jackson, and we are glad to learn is doing well.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

Serenade.

Some of our young people, knowing what an extensive ear an editor has for music, gave us a serenade last Saturday evening. We had just dropped off into the slumber known only to those who have a clear conscience and vote the democratic ticket, when the sound of sweet music gradually stole upon our senses, bringing back a return of consciousness. It also brought back a reminder that we were no longer a young man, and that these sweet strains did not come from the fair-haired damsels who used to sing under our windows (in our mind) in the days of our early manhood. Following this came the question as to what to do in the present case. Editors are not accustomed to any serenade, other than the sweet sound of the shot gun or horsewhip and the new conditions rather puzzled us. How should we treat them? We knew they didn't drink, whoever it was, and we are inclined to a strict regimen of cold water, like all true democrats. So our thoughts turned lightly to cake. This necessitated calling into our counsel, the knowledge of our better half. And by the time she was sufficiently shaken and yelled at, to produce perfect consciousness, and a satisfactory answer in the affirmative a manly figure might have been seen stealing quietly down stairs grabbing for matches, pantaloons and slippers and other of the unfeeling inventions of this wayward age. By the time most unnecessary of these were found, and the door opened, it was only to discover that the boys had quietly stolen away and were now on W. J. Austin's porch, treating his sleeping ears to "linked melody long drawn out." They didn't wake him, and after shivering in the cold moonbeams for a brief season, in costume quite as brief, the poor editor walked back into his house murmuring faintly "Oh days of my youth, how much colder you are than you used to be." But the boys have our thanks just the same.

Stewart's Jubilee Singers.

This excellent company gave an entertainment here on Monday evening to a fair house. It was a good one—much above the ordinary run of these entertainments, and of a much higher moral tone than those generally given by other troupes. They represent a good cause, as they are laboring in the interests of the Welbirforce college for colored people, situated near Xenia, Ohio. They go from here to Pleasant Lake, then to Reading, Fremont, Angola, returning to Garrett, where they give a concert on Saturday evening of this week. We think it will pay the good people of Garrett to turn out and give them a liberal patronage.

Burglary at Butler.

Last Friday night a most successful and daring safe robbery occurred at Butler. The safe of a lumber merchant there was broken open, evidently to learn more fully how the thing was done. They then broke into Diehl's jewelry store, bored into both his safes and unbolted them. All the valuable goods and money in both were taken. It is reported that the loss will be about $2,500 in watches and jewelry and nearly $200 in money. No clue as yet to the perpetrators. Mr. Diehl has the sympathy of all in his misfortune, as the loss will fall very heavily on him.

State University.

We have received a number of copies of the Daily Sentinel, containing a very interesting and exhaustive article on the State University at Bloomington. These papers are intended for distribution, and may be had by calling at this office. Teachers, parents and others interested in this excellent institution should call and get a copy and read it. It will prove interesting. 14-3w.

—A COURIER representative had the pleasure of listening to Rev. H. J. Norris deliver his last sermon to the members and friends of the M. E. church sabbath morning. Mr. Norris is a highly cultured gentleman, and possesses more than ordinary requirements as a local preacher. His manner of delivery, his gestures and his easy flow of language entitle him to an advantageous and lucrative position and we bespeak for him a fair consideration at the hands of the conference, in whose care the matter rests. He is far superior to any minister who has heretofore graced the rostrum of this temple, and it will be no easy matter for our Methodist friends to get a man in every way qualified to fill his place. As a citizen he is generally liked, and especiallly among his congregation. The COURIER, together with our citizens in general, wish him a happy and pleasant future.

FREE.—Every subscriber to this paper, who will send us the names and address of 10 or more farmers and a 3 cent stamp to pay postage, we will mail them a sample of our new mamouth corn—the finest and largest grain corn on earth—bearing 3 to 5 ears to the stalk and ripens in 60 days, with price list and terms to agents. Address, EAST TENN. SEED Co., Cleveland, Tenn. 2t.

NOTICE.—On and after April 1, 1882 I shall adopt the cash system, and will not trust anyone for meat after this date. W. L. BRAUN.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

H. Leib is having his house repainted.

Dr. Murphy moved to Leo last Monday.

The Evangelical conference convenes here to-day.

Charlie Lacy is home from Oberlin, Ohio, for a few days.

J. J. Imhoff is going to raise some of the new Russian oats.

Dr. Winslow has cut down the shade trees in front of his residence.

C. W. Gillett will occupy Dr. Murphy's residence on Center street.

The town is full of ministers, who are here attending the conference.

They are putting in a great many new ties on the Lake Shore road now.

Rev. Lacy is at Muncie this week attending the annual conference of the M. E. church.

Father McCurdy, of Butler, was shaking hands on the street with his old friends Monday.

H. D. Armstrong has resigned his position as freight agent for the Lake Shore road at this station.

Crane and Duncan are building an addition to their machine shop to make room for more machinery.

Ryan Clutter is going in for some fine short horn cattle from the herd of a celebrated breeder near Churubusco.

Mrs. Thomas Askey, of Kalamazoo, Mich., has been spending the past week with her old friends and neighbors here.

Mr. Lamport will probably go elsewhere to teach after this term, as the wages paid here are too low. We are sorry to lose him.

Rev. Bair, formerly pastor of the Evangelical church at this place, is in town attending conference and visiting his many friends here.

J. D. McAnally brags on the new stock of paint at J. D. Campbell's drug store. He is trying it on his house, and indeed it does look well.

The west precinct voted at McNally's shop near the railroad crossing. Not a very big vote, however, but we suppose they did the best they could.

Mr. Essig, of Miami county, has been visiting his uncle, J. B. Hoover, for a few days. He is a teacher in that county, and has been engaged in that business for several years.

Samuel Miller was inspector in the west precinct, as Mr. Hoover could not serve, Mr. H. was on the ticket for constable, but refused to run, and had his name scratched off of all tickets he could get at.

CONCORD.

The meeting has closed.

Mrs. L. Bradle is visiting in Newville.

Elza Speers has returned from Michigan.

Nelson Moor, has returned from Ashland Ohio.

Daniel Baker and family spent last Sunday visiting Mr. E. Speers.

Cigar treating, shaking of hands, and friendly greeting will soon cease.

Miss Nannie and Minnie Hornberger, were at St. Joe last Monday.

Miss Laura Wyatt was visiting friends in Allen county last Saturday and Sunday.

John Fetters and Israel Wyatt. have gone to Penn., to rusticate among the mountains this summer.

Wm. Simonton and wife, Daniel Welch and wife and James Johnson and wife were the guests of Jacob Baker last Sunday.

G. W. Draggoo and wife spent last Sabbath at Union Chapel, the guests of G. W. Reed. They report their Sabbath school in a flourishing condition.

Wm. Baker says he contemplates matrimony, but will have his divorce granted before his license issued. He is afflicted with the Rickets—Miss Paulina.

Last Saturday a little daughter of Noah Moor met with quite a serious accident, Her pa had fired some brush heaps, Ollie's clothes caught fire but her screams brought her pa to her aid, She is quite badly burned, and Mr. Moors hands severely burned.

ST. JOE.

Mrs. A. B. Woodcox is quite sick from an attack of lung disease.

M. E. Olds printed the democratic tickets for the election Monday.

James Malone, who has been sick for the past two months, is again able to be out doors.

A good many republicans in town last Saturday, but a great many more of the democratic faith.

W. A. Simonton presided at the democratic caucus last Saturday, and R. G. Coburn held the gavel over the heads of the republicans.

Abraham Zern, our steady old shoemaker, has been confined to his room for the past week with rheumatism, but is getting better slowly.

We noticed one or two men who would like to be somebody, making fools of themselves at the saloon Saturday night; but, then, bad whiskey makes smart men smarter.

Geo. Blacks and Alex Filley, two of our jolly sawmill men, last Friday walked six miles, cut nineteen black walnut saw-logs and were back home again before five o'clock. Alex has had sore feet ever since.

Elias Bell has gone east to recover his lost health, while L. B. Sayler holds the fort at the St. Joe bridge, the railroad company having decided that one man was enough at the bridge, and Bell did not want the job. Good-bye, darling.

SEDAN.

Mrs. Kruse is quite sick.

School commenced Tuesday.

John Henry, of Auburn, called upon our merchant one day last week.

Mart Treesh and George Schultz started for the west last Tuesday.

Nellie Hine started for Oberlin Saturday, where she intends to attend college.

Miss Jennie McIntyre spent a few days last week with her friends at Auburn.

Miss Irene Campbell, of Butler, is visiting her friend Miss Jennie McIntyre.

Miss Ella Grate has been quite sick from the effects of vaccination. She is some better at present writing.

A number of cases of measles are in town. Beware of exposing the children while vaccination is working.

Our old friend John Dewit, of Ganoe City, Mo., is back to Indiana, and intends to stay during the summer.

Surveyor Foltz and a number of ditch viewers were in town Saturday. They report favorably upon the Hine ditch. J. A. M.

SUMMIT.

Farmers are busy plowing.

Cal. Noragon was on the war path Saturday.

S. B. Mottinger is repairing Wm. F. Till's house.

The republicans have long faces since the election.

Mrs. Zimmerman moved on her farm south of town.

Miss Blanche Conrad is teaching the school in district number one.

Sol. Grier is preparing to erect a new house on his farm south of town.

Miss Belle Dagget, is teaching in number six. Success to you, Belle.

Mrs. W. A. Kyle has returned to her home in Battle Creek, Michigan.

P. H. Gramling has about completed 'Squire [illegible]'s new brick house.

Messrs. Greiler and Bohm got a car load of pine lumber from Fremont for their new barn.

Ed. H. Boyer left Wednesday for Dodge City, Kansas, with five car loads of young cattle.

QUILL.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned was dissolved on the 1st day of April 1882. All the outstanding liabilities of the late firm will be settled by the firm of McQuiston & Long, and all persons who are indebted to the firm of McQuiston & Ralston, will please call on the firm of McQuiston & Long, and settle the same—April 3rd 1882.

WM. H. MCQUISTON.
14-2w. G.C. RALSTON.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that on April 1st, 1882, the firm of W. J. Austin & Co., will be dissolved by mutual consent, and will be succeeded by Austin Bro's. The new firm assumes all liabilities of the old firm, and will continue the business at the old stand of the Boot Upside Down. All accounts due the old firm must be settled either by cash or note by May 1st, 1882. W. J. AUSTIN & Co.

Given up by Doctors.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctor gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George. I know hopes are good. 14-2w.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the Auburn post office, April 6th 1882 J. W. Bowman, James Willis Clarson, Samuel Fisher, Miss Sarah A. Morr, William Stockins, Miss Anna Talbert, S. Willard, M. D.

GEO. W. GORDON Postmaster.

MONEY TO LOAN.—The undersigned is desirous of loaning $16,000 at reasonable rates on good mortgage security. Applications for loans can be made to me at the office of James E. Rose, in Auburn.
14-tf. A. CONANT.

TAXES.—One week from next Monday, that is, April 17, is the last day for the payment of taxes. Every one should remember this, and not get caught in the delinquent list.

—Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo, is selling a carload of choice early rose potatoes just the thing for seed. Farmers should not fail to give him a call. 13-3t

—Ab. Kelly, at Waterloo, has potatoes for sale.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., APRIL 6, 1882

Nine to Four.

In the result of the election as far as trustees are concerned, Franklin elects a republican trustee by 28 majority. Troy and Wilmington are also republican,the latter by a greatly reduced majority, while Union gives the republican trustee a majority of only five, a road superintendent by 61. The rest of the ticket elected being democratic. Smithfield gives her usual majority for the democratic officers. Fairfield, Richland, Butler, Stafford and Jackson hold their own at least. Keyser wheels into line with a good round majority, and we make substantial gains in Wilmington. The most remarkable results were reached in Concord and Newville. Local issues and good work resulting in electing democratic officers in Newville, by about 40 majority, the republicans getting one constable. In Concord, the democratic officers ran away ahead of their party ticket, and where a close fight had been expected our men secured a most brilliant victory. Take it all in all we have made substantial gains. We have done more than this: we have put the party in good working order, and have developed an ability to organize and work, that never was excelled, if has been equaled by the party in this county. It has proved to us the value unanimity and harmonious action. It has shown to us the weakness by which we have been giving to our opponents, the best of the county offices, when our own candidates were as good men or better than the republicans who succeeded in getting elected. We have always had a clear majority in the county, though a small one, and nothing but our weakness and dissensions have given a single office to republicans. It is the duty as it will no doubt be the desire, of every democrat to stand as firmly hereafter, as he has done this spring, and future success will be assured.

We are under obligations to Mr. [illegible] for a late copy of the Pueblo Daily Chieftain. By this we learn that Colorado is still undergoing the troubles that have beset so many of the newly organized mining states. The rough, wild and criminal element becomes too strong for ordinary laws and courts of justice, and vigilant committees take the law into their own hands, and by force secure that justice that they dare not trust to the courts. They are now making a raid on the cattle thieves. Two men Phebus, and McGlew were lynched last Friday night. They were in jail for cattle stealing, and about midnight the jail was broken open, and the two victims taken out and hanged to a Cottonwood tree standing near. The raid was entirely unlooked for, but its quietness made it more certain and deadly. Such lawlessness is to be deplored, but as society settles down to a better basis, it is to be hoped that the laws, and not brute force may be the safeguard of the people.

The fine passenger steamer, "Golden City" was burned at the wharf at Memphis, last Thursday morning. About thirty-five persons lost their A part of Stowe's circus,was on board and was all destroyed,

It is claimed that General Grant is urging the president to veto the Chinese bill.

The treasury department last week made a purchase of 271,000 ounces of fine silver for coinage.

South Bend papers are just now getting up a boom for Schyler Colfax, for the next candidate for congress.

A hard snow storm raged at St. Johns, in New Brunswick on Monday. The harbor is still full of ice.

Judge Blatchford, the new justice of the United States supreme court, was installed into office on Monday.

It is claimed that the republicans of New York will run secretary Folger for their next candidate for governor.

The new railroad at Fort Wayne, will proceed at once to haul in a sufficient amount of dirt to fill up the old canal bed.

Stowe, the owner of the show that was destroyed by the burning of the ill fated Golden City,has a number of relatives in Fort Wayne.

S. P. Rounds, of Chicago, is to be public printer at Washington. He is a man who understands the business, and will no doubt be a credit to the position.

They have caught a Yankee down in Texas, who has made a lively business vaccinating negroes with beeswax. But this benefactor of the race now languishes in jail.

The delegation of Sac and Fox Indians now at Washington, fell in with some benevolent pale face last week, and got on a high old drunk. The pale faced brother has been arrested for his kindness.

The Utah contested election case in congress is undecided. In the meantime both Cannon and Campbell hang around Washington, and look longingly at the vacant seat in the house of representatives.

Mrs. Scoville has visited Guiteau in prison. He seems hopeful, and does not appear to think the gallows will ever claim him as its own. Mrs. Scoville is represented as believing that the president will change the sentence to one of imprisonment for life.

Hurlburt, our minister to Peru, died at Lima in that country, March 27, of heart disease. A great deal has been said during the recent Peruvian investigations as to his action in the matter of the guano claims, and he has been the subject of much adverse criticism. He was expected home soon.

Cornelius J. Vanderbilt committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver, in his room at the Glenham Hotel, Fifth Avenue New York, April 2. He had been in ill health for some time, and had recently returned from Hot Springs. He has generally been considered as of unsound mind, and was so regarded by his father, Commodore Vanderbilt, and his brother W. H. Vanderbilt. He will be remembered by the people of Waterloo, Kendallville and Angola, as he has at different times made acquaintance during his visits to those places.

A man crazed with drink, was riding on a train on the Ohio & Mississippi railroad last Wednesday, and getting into a quarrel with a fellow, passenger, drew a revolver and shot the latter, killing him instantly. The murderer jumped from the train and escaped. His body was found next day in a stream near by. He had drowned himself.

Indianapolis gave a democratic majority of over 1500 at the election this week. The good work done by the Sentinel in digging up the frauds and corruptions of the republican township officials, produced good fruit. A township trustee and an assessor, who can get rich on the wages allowed by law, have a suspicious atmosphere about them. And even republican Indianapolis, with its 5000 majority spewed them out. The Sentinel has been probing the matter for some time and deserves great credit for the able and fearless manner in which it did its duty to the people.

Jesse James, the infamous outlaw and murderer, was shot dead at St. Joseph, Mo., on Monday. He had been secreted there for some time, and officers were on his track, but could not manage to arrest him, as he always carried two or more revolvers, and was an ugly customer at all times. Two of his gang were finally engaged to assist in his capture. They were Charles and Robert Ford, and have been living in the same house with him for several months. All three were, to start on a raid in a day or two, but the Fords, had made up their mind to secure the $50,000 offered for Jesse James alive or dead. They watched their chance when he was unarmed,and shot him through the head, and then gave themselves up. They will no doubt be kept in jail till the excitement dies out, and then be set at liberty. Many parties who know the James brothers well, have been to see the body, and say there is no question but he is the right man. He was living under an assumed name, and no one dreamed that he was a resident of the place. He leaves a wife and two children.

Old Settlers.

The officers and executive committee of the Pioneer Association of De-Kalb county are requested to meet at the secretary's office in Auburn, at one o'clock p. m., of April 21st, to make arrangements for the annual meeting of June 15, and to transact other business.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE:

Philip Noel, Butler township; Wm. Carr, Jackson; R. Culbertson, Concord S. H. Bartlett, Newville; C. R. Wannemaker, Stafford; E. W. Fosdick, Wilmington; J. R. Cosper, Auburn; H. Willis, Waterloo; O. C. Clark, Keyser; T. D. Daily, Richland; Josiah Wells, Fairfield; J. E. Tompson, Smithfield; M. Waterman, Franklin; W. R. Emerson, Troy; Dr. J. H. Ford, president; John Butt, vice-president; Cyrus Bowman, treasurer; J. E. Rose, biographer. By order of the president.

W. H. Dills, Sec'y.

[Other papers in the county please copy.]

New Blacksmith Shop.

J. A. Marlett has opened a new blacksmith shop at Auburn Junction, where he will be prepared to do all kinds of custom work, including farm and machine work. All who have work to do or machines to repair, give him a call at Auburn Junction. 14-2t.

The Result.

Monday's election passed off very quietly, although in most cases hotly contested. We will give the results in full next week. At present it result may be summarized as follows:

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

Trustee, James Quince, (dem.) 28 majority over Wm. Thrush, rep; Perry Fitch and J. A. Wyant are elected justices by 41 and 58 majority over W. H. H. Cornell and Samuel Hawver. James Rowley, (dem.) has 19 over John Hall for assessor. For road superintendent, Henry L. Houser has 60 majority over Jacob Miller.

KEYSER.

Trustee, Henry Probst, 61 majority over Lyman Lockwood; assessor, Perry Noel, 87 over Devolzo Bruce; road superintendent, Joseph Leeson, 70 over Samuel Depew; Justices, F. M. Bacon 118 over Lewis Griffith, Henry Harvey 81 over Henry Gettell; constables, L. J. Gengler, 47 over Orson Tuttle, and Irvin Haag 77 over David Culver.

UNION.

Trustee, Isaac Hague, (rep.) has 5 majority over J. C. St. Clair; assessor, John Treesh, 171 over J. E. Dilgard; road superintendent, G. D. Denison, 31 over A. J. Carmer; Justices, O. P. Smith received a total of 420 votes, Oris Danks 437, Wm. Boughan 381. J. E. Shilling has a total of 371, F. W. Willis 337 and J. R. Steves 350.

FRANKLIN.

Goes republican. Trustee, Wm. Brown has 28 majority over Martin Hook; Milton Jones, for assessor, has 15 over Cyrus Platt. For road superintendent, Robert McCurdy has 8 majority over Reuben Sawvell, and Geo. B. Soule, for justice, has 29 over John Pierson.

CONCORD.

Trustee, C. H. Brown, has a majority of 89 over Solomon Shilling; justice, G. W. Woodcox, 7 over J. B. White; assessor, Moses Perry, 59 over Hugh Maxwell; road superintendent, G. W. Draggoo, has 16 over E. L. Dilly. F. Wise, democrat, and W. D. Johnton, republican, were elected constables. Mr. Johnson was the only man the republicans elected, but it is a consolation to know that he is a first-class man.

JACKSON.

Trustee, W. S. Dancer, 57 majority over A. H. Provines; assessor, J. J. Ferguson, 41 over Jeremiah Davis; superintendent, C. P. Glazier, 47 over Thomas Philips. James W. McClellan and Moletus A. High were elected constables. All democrats.

WILMINGTON.

We have no official figures, but the republican ticket was elected by majorities ranging from 24 to 50, except one justice, J. J. Sise being the successful candidate.

NEWVILLE.

Wm. Seely (dem.) was elected trustee; Sebrstian Testison, assessor, and John Cotrill road superintendent. The republicans elected one constable. This is the first democratic victory in that township for a long time.

RICHLAND.

T. F. Franks was elected trustee by a rousing majority. Assessor, Nelson Griffith; road superintendent, J. L. Smith. All democrats.

FAIRFIELD.

H. H. Staybaugh, trustee; Isaac Helwig, Assessor; J. A. Gushwa, road superintend, N. Crossley, Justice, J. C. Wells and Henry Burtnet, constables. All democrats.

STAFFORD.

Wm. Willson, trustee; Geo. Webster, assessor. All were democrats except Webster.

TROY.

W. S. Morgan was elected trustee, and John Bryant, justice. The latter is a democrat.

SMITHFIELD.

F. Gfeller, has 27 majority for trustee; M. Shoudel, 10 for road superintendend; F. C. Waterman, 17 for justice; J. H. Hornberger, 57 for assessor. All democrats.

—See here, your book account isn't worth a d—n to buy stock with.

S. U. Tarney.

Probate Cause No. 261.

William Shutt, executor of the will of Asa Fletcher, deceased, vs. William W. Cary et al—In the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, May term 1882.

To J. Willard Fletcher, Harriet E. Austin, Henry Washburn, the unknown heirs of Milo Washburn, Herman Wilman, Louisa Olney, the unknown heirs of Minerva Welman, Maria Washburn, whose name is unknown, and Hannah Washburn, whose name is unknown, impleaded with others:

You are severally hereby notified that the above named petitioner as executor of the will aforesaid, has filed in the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition, making you defendants thereto, and praying therein for an order and decree of said court authorizing the sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and pending, is set for hearing in said circuit court at the court-house in Auburn, Indiana, on the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court, the same being the 15th day of May, 1882.

Witness, The clerk and seal of said court, this 3d day of April, 1882.

John W. Baxter, Clerk.

14-3w.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the judge of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Solomon Simon, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

Anna Simon, Adm'x.

James E. Rose, Att'y for estate.
Auburn, March 11, 1882.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county—In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1882.

Mary Hennessey and James Hennessey, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to declare a lien, by Lewis R. Wasson, administrator of the estate of Phebe Monroe, deceased; and that the same will be heard and determined on the second juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 15, 1882.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 31st day of March, 1882.

John W. Baxter, Clerk.

W. H. Dills, Attorney. 12-3w.

Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James McCrum, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday, the 8th day of April, 1882, the following real estate situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the north east quarter of section eleven (11) township thirty-four (34), north of range (12) twelve, east. Also a tract of land containing thirty-three acres situated in said section eleven (11), bounded by a line commencing at the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of said section 11 and running on the west boundary line of said section to a point eighty-eight (88) rods north thence to a point sixty (60) rods east, thence south eighty-eight (88) rods to the south boundary line of said northwest quarter of said section, thence west on said boundary line to the place of beginning.

TERMS—One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months. Deferred payments to be secured by notes at six per cent interest with approved personal security. Sale to begin at one o'clock p. m.

JESSE M. BRUMBACK, Adm'r.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.
On corner east of Postoffice.
New Material of all Kinds,
—AND—
GOOD WOORK
GUARANTEED.
GIVE US A CALL!
J. M. RICE & SON.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED
The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed!"
Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of
BEAUTIFUL STYLES
—OF—
SPRING CLOTHING,
Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.
SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

BOOTS AND SHOES!
For the Spring and Summer trade at the
Boot Up-Side Down.
We can and will save the Cash Buyers 20 per cent. on any and all kinds of foot wear.
READ.
Men's Buckle Plow Shoes for - $1.00 cash | Men's Calf Boots for - $2.25 cash
Misses' and Children's Shoes and Slippers 50—$1.50
Men's Fine Shoes bargains for cash. Ladies' Fine Shoes bargains for cash. Fine Boots and Shoes made to order by the best workmen in the county. Repairing promptly done. We ask everybody to call and examine our Goods and Prices, and you will be convinced that the BOOT UP-SIDE DOWN is the place to invest your money.
AUSTIN BROS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Easter next Sunday.

—The grass looks green.

—Gaze at Austin Bros. "ad."

—George Clark is on the sick list.

—Mark Rush is improving rapidly.

—Rev. Henry Johnson is in the city.

—James Griswold drives a new horse.

—Plenty of wood in town last Saturday.

—J. J. Beecher was in town yesterday.

—Mrs. Charley Emanuel is quite sick.

—The string band is progressing finely.

—Dr. Wilbarger went to Elkhart last Friday.

—Voters seemed to have the scratches Monday.

—Seed potatoes for sale by Ab. Kelly, Waterloo. 13-3t

—Mrs. Veeley has entirely recovered from the scarlet fever.

—J. J. Eakright, of Mooresville, was in town Friday last.

—The stone masons have commenced work on Hebel's building.

—Look at Rice & Son's advertisement on the opposite page.

—The jubilee singers will be in Garrett Saturday, of this week.

—John Leas and Miles Waterman were in town last Saturday.

—Mrs. Little has a splendid assortment of spring millinery goods.

—We noticed Dr. Emanuel, of Spencerville, on the streets this week.

—Billy Little, of Newville, was in town a short time last Saturday.

—Elza Shaffer, of Albion, came over to see his—parents last Saturday.

—Early Rose seed potatoes can be had of Ab. Kelley at Waterloo. 13-3

—Hague thinks there is luck in odd numbers, especially the number five.

—Election was rather a quiet one, and passed off very good naturedly.

—B.L. Duncan, of the firm of Duncan Bros, Waterloo, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. A. J. Little has improved his property to the extent of a new lattice fence.

—Rev. H. J. Norris preached his farewell sermon last sunday to a full house.

—Berry Lowrey, of the Republican, came home from his recent trip on Tuesday.

—Mrs. Frank Zimmerman and Mrs. G. W. Weamer were visiting in Angola last week.

—E. J. McOscar, of Summit, has gone to Valparaiso on a temporary business trip.

—Dry goods, groceries, notions, etc., always on hand at Weirick's stores at Fairfield Center. 14-tf.

—J. G. Johnson, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday in the interests of the fancy goods trade.

—F. C. Francis, of Waterloo, was in town Monday. Always glad to meet our old neighbors.

—I. O. Bechtel went to Fort Wayne yesterday, to hurry up some of the new machinery for his mill.

—Frank Myers "takes the cake" as a musician. You ought to hear him play the mouth organ.

—Porter was the luckiest man on deck. He was so fortunate as to escape being elected constable.

—C. F. Mosier, of the Bristol Banner, lightened our sanctum with his smiling countenance last week.

—Rev. Henry Johnson, is the fortunate possessor of a new baby—a son, born in this place last Thursday.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield Center, pays the highest prices for all kinds of produce. Give him a trial. 14-tf.

—No use talking, you must pay your old meat account before I can trust you any more. S. U. Tarney.

—Peter Shull, took time to come to town Friday. He is a man who knows the value of time, and dont waste it.

—W. B. Williams, of Jackson township, will sell his personal property April 25th. He expects to move into town.

—Charlie Hoff is repairing his house near the Jackson depot, and will make it a comfortable and convenient residence.

—Mrs. J. A. Barns and daughter Nellie are in Pierceton visiting relatives. They expect to return in about a week.

—Al. Harris, a former typo, was in town Tuesday. Al. seems to think the railroad work beats upending type all to pieces.

—John Gulic, of Ohio, a relative of Mr. Mitchell, purchased the James Provines farm, in Jackson township, yesterday.

—A little child of Mr. and Mrs. D. McNabb, aged 8 months, died of brain fever last Monday, at Auburn Junction.

—Geo. Stealy, of Waterloo, was in town last Sunday. He had the misfortune of losing a very fine cameo ring while in the city.

—Frank Fisk of Steinfield was in town last Saturday. School having closed, he is now devoting his time to his farm.

—Rainier & Headley have now a fine lot of Early Rose potatoes from Michigan. Call and get some while they are going.

—The Presbyterian church had four accessions to its membership last Sunday. Communion services were also held there that day.

—Johny Hebel moved his little store to the north side of his lot this week, to make room for the new building to go up on the corner.

—The ladies missionary society of the Presbyterian church meets in the basement on Friday of this week at 3 p. m. All are invited.

—Gentlemen, how do you like the idea of having two polling places? Wait till the corporation election. Then we will give you five.

—Martin Arthur, of Kendallville but once a soldier from DeKalb county, was in town last week shaking hands with his old friends and comrades.

—Miss Mary Sprott, goes to Hudson this week to take charge of a millinery store there. The Courier folks add their best wishes for her prosperity.

—J. M. Rice, the proprietor of the new photograph gallery, east of the postoffice, not only takes photographs, but does enlarging. Give him a trial.

—M. L. Jackman, of Franklin, is another of our live young democrats who have called on us lately and entered their names on the muster roll

—Remember Weirick's new store at Fairfield Center when you want anything in his line or have produce to sell. Give him a call and price his goods. 14-tf.

—McQuiston & Ralston have dissolved partnership, and M. F. Long goes into the business with Mr. McQuiston, the new firm name being McQuiston & Long.

—Several of our voters must have been indulging in buckwheat cakes all winter. They did nothing all day Monday but stand around the polls and scratch.

—Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo is selling his nice early Rose potatoes at $1.25 per bushel if a man takes five bushels in a lot. Ab. is ahead in prices so far as heard from.

—Herman Boozer, of Waterloo, was in town Monday. He was on his way to St. Joe, to which place he goes in the interest of the agricultural machinery business.

—B. D. Harris came home from Chicago yesterday. He was called here by the continued illness of his mother. At last accounts, she was lying dangerously ill.

—J. H. StClair, now of Concord township was in town Tuesday. He lost his vote, under the new law, but he did the thing next best, he subscribed for the Courier.

Married.—On the 28th of March, 1882, at the Lutheran parsonage, Lagrange, Indiana, by Rev. L. Rice, Mr. Daniel B. Shull and Miss Emma Shade, both of DeKalb county.

—W. A. Clark has just received a letter from Miss Frank Clark whom our people will remember as one of our former teachers. She is now in Colorado and prospering.

—While at the Presbyterian social last evening, one of the employes of this office accidently wore off a better hat than he took there. The owner can have the same by calling at this office.

—In view of the near approach of danger, we find several ownerless dogs hunting around for a master to get a tag for them. It will be a doleful game of tag too, if it isn't attended to pretty soon.

—Rainier & Headley have the nicest lot of fat beef cattle in the country. They have at present thirteen head of stall fed cattle. Don't forget the place, but go and get some of the best beef of the season.

—Charlie Bassett, of Hicksville, was in town last Saturday and attended the concert. Charley looks as if Hicksville agrees with him, and the people there treat him well. Come again when the roads are better.

—Dr. O. F. Rudolph, of Fairfield Center, dropped in to see us this week. It gives us pleasure to note the growing success of our friend Rudolph, and hope the people of his section will give him a hearty support.

—Ferguson & Elliott, granite and marble dealers, of Columbia City, have just completed and erected a fine Scotch granite cottage monument for Mr. G. A. Bishop, of Spencerville. Good work speaks loud.

—Jacob Garrison, of Waterloo, celebrated his 84th birthday by coming to Auburn and paying his taxes and squaring accounts with his old friends at the Courier office. We wish him many happy returns of the day.

—We have received an invitation to attend the Conductor's ball at Garrett, but shall be obliged to ask the indulgence of the boys as it will be impossible for us to be there. We have no doubt it will be a most pleasant gathering.

—The McCrum farm, near Sedan, will be sold by J. M. Brumback, administrator, April 8th. All who want a good farm should watch this opportunity. See notice of sale in this paper. 13-2w.

—J. M. Rice, of North Manchester, has located in this place and will engage in the business of photographing. He will occupy the central gallery, which is now located east of the post office.

—The joke came near being on the Waterloo inspectors, who evidently almost forgot, that ballot boxes were needed. They were sent up on Monday morning, and got there in the nick of time.

—J. R. Moody presented the Courier folks with a mammouth beet last week, and it was not a dead beet either, but a very nice live one. If he keeps on raising such beets he will soon spoil the business.

—Mr. Michael Kline has returned from Corunna, where he has been working on Henry Becher's new house. Mr. Becher now has one of the very best houses in the county, both as to its arrangements and the quality of the work done.

—Emory Metz, so long employed in Fried's store at Corunna, was in town Monday. Like many of our other young business men, Mr. Metz was at one time a teacher, but has now turned his attention to something more permanent.

Married.—At the residence of the brides mother, in Butler township, March 29, 1882, Mr. Joseph A. Kelham to Miss Margaret L. Simon. Rev. W. L. Meese officiated. The young couple have the heartiest good wishes of the Courier.

—Hon. W. H. Colerick has our thanks for a fine set of books, the reports of the French Exposition of 1878. They are, as a whole much more valuable than any other puplic documents we have seen, that have been issued by the general government.

Special Examination.—There will be a special examination of teachers at Auburn, on Saturday, April 15. A request is made that only those apply who expect to teach during the spring, as the only reason for holding an examination is to supply deficiencies.

—Lewis Johnson, goes west this week, to Colorado, where under the exhilarating influence of the pure air of that climate, he hopes to regain his health. Mr. Johnson has the best wishes of a multitude of his friends here, that his brightest hopes may be realized.

—Miss Alice McKay, of Spencerville; was in town Monday. Had it been ten or fifteen years from now, when ladies have a right to vote, she would not have been allowed to go out of her township that day. There will always be some drawbacks. but we were glad to meet her.

—The ladies literary society met at sheriff Leas's on Monday afternoon, and elected officers, as follows president, Mrs. E. D. Hartman; vice president, Mrs. A. S. Leas; secretary, Mrs. A. J. Ralston; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. McQuiston; critics, Mrs. Dr. Swartz, and Mrs. Ehlers.

—Ryan Clutter, of Waterloo, passed through town last week, taking home a fine short horn bull just purchased at Churubusco. It is four and one half months old, and is one of the finest animals we have seen. The people of this county are determined to improve their stock.

—The entertainment given by Mr. Gordon's singing class last Saturday evening was a very creditable one. It proved Mr. Gordon's ability as an instructor, and spoke well for the class. There are some good voices among our young people, and it gives us pleasure to see them take pains in cultivating their talents in this direction.

—Mr. Daniel Shull gave us a shake of his friendly hand last week, before leaving for the far west. He has a long journey before him, but with the pleasant company of his wife, and his bright anticipations of future health and success, the journey will not be a tedious one. We hope to hear good news from him when he gets through.

—Our young friend, Fred. Yesbera, went to West Unity, Ohio, this week, and will look up a place to settle down permanently in the jewelry business. Fred. has been faithful in mastering a knowledge of the business under the instruction of our popular jeweler, Joseph Abright, and will be an addition to the business of any town in which he may locate.

—Mrs. R. M. Lockhart, of Waterloo Mrs. Smith, of Jackson, together with Mrs. Underhill, Mrs. Sutton and her son Robert Sutton, of Hillsdale, were visiting with Mrs. J. A. Barns, last Wednesday. Mrs. Smith is wife of "Curly" Smith, the well known conductor of the Jackson road. He is now street commissioner of the city of Jackson, and we are glad to learn is doing well.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

Serenade.

Some of our young people, knowing what an extensive ear an editor has for music, gave us a serenade last Saturday evening. We had just dropped off into the slumber known only to those who have a clear conscience and vote the democratic ticket, when the sound of sweet music gradually stole upon our senses, bringing back a return of consciousness. It also brought back a reminder that we were no longer a young man, and that these sweet strains did not come from the fair-haired damsels who used to sing under our windows (in our mind) in the days of our early manhood. Following this came the question as to what to do in the present case. Editors are not accustomed to any serenade, other than the sweet sound of the shot gun or horsewhip and the new conditions rather puzzled us. How should we treat them? We knew they didn't drink, whoever it was, and we are inclined to a strict regimen of cold water, like all true democrats. So our thoughts turned lightly to cake. This necessitated calling into our counsel, the knowledge of our better half. And by the time she was sufficiently shaken and yelled at, to produce perfect consciousness, and a satisfactory answer in the affirmative a manly figure might have been seen stealing quietly down stairs grabbing for matches, pantaloons and slippers and other of the unfeeling inventions of this wayward age. By the time most unnecessary of these were found, and the door opened, it was only to discover that the boys had quietly stolen away and were now on W. J Austin's porch, treating his sleeping ears to "linked melody long drawn out." They didn't wake him, and after shivering in the cold moonbeams for a brief season, in costume quite as brief, the poor editor walked back into his house murmuring faintly "Oh days of my youth, how much colder you are than you used to be." But the boys have our thanks just the same.

Stewart's Jubilee Singers.

This excellent company gave an entertainment here on Monday evening to a fair house. It was a good one—much above the ordinary run of these entertainments, and of a much higher moral tone than those generally given by other troupes. They represent a good cause, as they are laboring in the interests of the Welbirforce college for colored people, situated near Xenia, Ohio. They go from here to Pleasant Lake, then to Reading, Fremont, Angola, returning to Garrett, where they give a concert on Saturday evening of this week. We think it will pay the good people of Garrett to turn out and give them a liberal patronage.

Burglary at Butler.

Last Friday night a most successful and daring safe robbery occurred at Butler. The safe of a lumber merchant there was broken open, evidently to learn more fully how the thing was done. They then broke into Diehl's jewelry store, bored into both his safes and unbolted them. All the valuable goods and money in both were taken. It is reported that the loss will be about $2,500 in watches and jewelry and nearly $200 in money. No clue as yet to the perpetrators. Mr. Diehl has the sympathy of all in his misfortune, as the loss will fall very heavily on him.

State University.

We have received a number of copies of the Daily Sentinel, containing a very interesting and exhaustive article on the State University at Bloomington. These papers are intended for distribution, and may be had by calling at this office. Teachers, parents and others interested in this excellent institution should call and get a copy and read it. It will prove interesting. 14-3w.

—A Courier representative had the pleasure of listening to Rev. H. J. Norris deliver his last sermon to the members and friends of the M. E. church sabbath morning. Mr. Norris is a highly cultured gentleman, and possesses more than ordinary requirements as a local preacher. His manner of delivery, his gestures and his easy flow of language entitle him to an advantageous and lucrative position and we bespeak for him a fair consideration at the hands of the conference, in whose care the matter rests. He is far superior to any minister who has heretofore graced the rostrum of this temple, and it will be no easy matter for our Methodist friends to get a man in every way qualified to fill his place. As a citizen he is generally liked, and especiallly among his congregation. The Courier, together with our citizens in general, wish him a happy and pleasant future.

Free.—Every subscriber to this paper, who will send us the names and address of 10 or more farmers and a 3 cent stamp to pay postage, we will mail them a sample of our new mammouth corn—the finest and largest grain corn on earth—bearing 3 to 5 ears to the stalk and ripens in 60 days, with price list and terms to agents. Address, East Tenn, Seed Co., Cleveland, Tenn. 2t.

Notice.—On and after April 1, 1882 I shall adopt the cash system, and will not trust anyone for meat after this date. W. L. Braun.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

H. Leib is having his house repainted.

Dr. Murphy moved to Leo last Monday.

The Evangelical conference convenes here to-day.

Charlie Lacy is home from Oberlin, Ohio, for a few days.

J. J. Imhoff is going to raise some of the new Russian oats.

Dr. Winslow has cut down the shade trees in front of his residence.

C. W. Gillett will occupy Dr. Murphy's residence on Center street.

The town is full of ministers, who are here attending the conference.

They are putting in a great many new ties on the Lake Shore road now.

Rev. Lacy is at Muncie this week attending the annual conference of the M. E. church.

Father McCurdy, of Butler, was shaking hands on the streets with his old friends Monday.

H. D. Armstrong has resigned his position as freight agent for the Lake Shore road at this station.

Crane and Duncan are building an addition to their machine shop to make room for more machinery.

Ryan Clutter is going in for some fine short horn cattle from the herd of a celebrated breeder near Churubusco.

Mrs. Thomas Askey, of Kalamazoo, Mich., has been spending the past week with her old friends and neighbors here.

Mr. Lamport will probably go elsewhere to teach after this term, as the wages paid here are too low. We are sorry to lose him.

Rev. Bair, formerly pastor of the Evangelical church at this place, is in town attending conference and visiting his many friends here.

J. D. McAnally brags on the new stock of paint at J. D. Campbell's drug store. He is trying it on his house, and indeed it does look well.

The west precinct voted at McNally's shop near the railroad crossing. Not a very big vote, however, but we suppose they did the best they could.

Mr. Essig, of Miami county, has been visiting his uncle, J. B. Hoover, for a few days. He is a teacher in that county, and has been engaged in that business for several years.

Samuel Miller was inspector in the west precinct, as Mr. Hoover could not serve. Mr. H. was on the ticket for constable, but refused to run, and had his name scratched off of all tickets he could get at.

CONCORD.

The meeting has closed.

Mrs. L. Bradle is visiting in Newville.

Elza Speers has returned from Michigan.

Nelson Moor, has returned from Ashland Ohio.

Daniel Baker and family spent last Sunday visiting Mr. E. Speers.

Cigar treating, shaking of hands, and friendly greeting will soon cease.

Miss Nannie and Minnie Hornberger, were at St. Joe last Monday.

Miss Laura Wyatt was visiting friends in Allen county last Saturday and Sunday.

John Fetters and Israel Wyatt have gone to Penn., to rusticate among the mountains this summer.

Wm. Simonton and wife, Daniel Welch and wife and James Johnson and wife were the guests of Jacob Baker last Sunday.

G. W. Draggoo and wife spent last Sabbath at Union Chapel, the guests of G. W. Reed. They report their Sabbath school in a flourishing condition.

Wm. Baker says he contemplates matrimony, but will have his divorce granted before his license issued. He is afflicted with the Rickets—Miss Paulina.

Last Saturday a little daughter of Noah Moor met with quite a serious accident, Her pa had fired some brush heaps, Ollie's clothes caught fire but her screams brought her pa to her aid, She is quite badly burned, and Mr. Moors hands severely burned.

ST. JOE.

Mrs. A. B. Woodcox is quite sick from an attack of lung disease.

M. E. Olds printed the democratic tickets for the election Monday.

James Malone, who has been sick for the past two months, is again able to be out doors.

A good many republicans in town last Saturday, but a great many more of the democratic faith.

W. A. Simonton presided at the democratic caucus last Saturday, and R. G. Coburn held the gavel over the heads of the republicans.

Abraham Zern, our steady old shoemaker, has been confined to his room for the past week with rheumatism, but is getting better slowly.

We noticed one or two men who would like to be somebody, making fools of themselves at the saloon Saturday night; but, then, bad whiskey makes smart men smarter.

Geo. Bleake and Alex Filley, two of our jolly sawmill men, last Friday walked six miles, cut nineteen black walnut saw-logs and were back home again before five o'clock. Alex has had sore feet ever since.

Elias Bell has gone east to recover his lost health, while L. S. Sayler holds the fort at the St. Joe bridge, the railroad company having decided that one man was enough at the bridge, and Bell did not want the job. Good-bye, darling.

SEDAN.

Mrs. Kruse is quite sick.

School commenced Tuesday.

John Henry, of Auburn, called upon our merchant one day last week.

Mart Treesh and George Schultz started for the west last Tuesday.

Nellie Hine started for Oberlin Saturday, where she intends to attend college.

Miss Jennie McIntyre spent a few days last week with her friends at Auburn.

Miss Irene Campbell, of Butler, is visiting her friend Miss Jennie McIntyre.

Miss Ella Grate has been quite sick from the effects of vaccination. She is some better at present writing.

A number of cases of measles are in town. Beware of exposing the children while vaccination is working.

Our old friend John Dewit, of Ganoe City, Mo., is back to Indiana, and intends to stay during the summer.

Surveyor Foltz and a number of ditch viewers were in town Saturday. They report favorably upon the Hine ditch. J. A. M.

SUMMIT.

Farmers are busy plowing.

Cal. Noragon was on the war path Saturday.

S. B. Mottinger is repairing Wm. F. Till's house.

The republicans have long faces since the election.

Mrs. Zimmerman moved on her farm south of town.

Miss Blanche Conrad is teaching the school in district number one.

Sol. Grier is preparing to erect a new house on his farm south of town.

Miss Belle Dagget, is teaching in number six. Success to you, Bella.

Mrs. W. A. Kynett has returned to her home in Battle Creek, Michigan.

P. H Graimling has about completed Squire Showberger's new brick house.

Messrs. Greiler and Rohm got a car load of pine lumber from Fremont for their new barn.

Ed. H. Boyer left Wednesday for Dodge City, Kansas, with five car loads of young cattle.

Quill.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned was dissolved on the 1st day of April 1882. All the outstanding liabilities of the late firm will be settled by the firm of McQuiston & Long, and all persons who are indebted to the firm of McQuiston & Ralston, will please call on the firm of McQuiston & Long, and settle the same—April 3rd 1882.

Wm. H. McQuiston,
14-2w. G.C. Ralston.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that on April 1st, 1882, the firm of W. J. Austin & Co., will be dissolved by mutual consent, and will be succeeded by Austin Bro's. The new firm assumes all liabilities of the old firm, and will continue the business at the old stand of the Boot Upside Down. All accounts due the old firm must be settled either by cash or note by May 1st, 1882. W. J. Austin & Co.,

Given up by Doctors.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctor gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George. I know hops are good. 14-2w.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the Auburn post office, April 6th 1882 J. W. Bowman, James Willis Clarson, Samuel Fisher, Miss Sarah A. Morr, William Stockins, Miss Anna Talbert, S. Willard. M. D.

Geo. W. Gordon Postmaster.

Money to Loan.—The undersigned is desirous of loaning $16,000 at reasonable rates on good mortgage security. Applications for loans can be made to me at the office of James E. Rose, in Auburn,
14-tf. A. Conant.

Taxes.—One week from next Monday, that is, April 17, is the last day for the payment of taxes. Every one should remember this, and not get caught in the delinquent list.

—Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo, is selling a carload of choice early rose potatoes, just the thing for seed. Farmers should not fail to give him a call. 13-2t.

—Ab. Kelly, at Waterloo, has potatoes for sale.

FOR A' THAT.

ROBT. BURNS.

Is there for honest poverty
Who hangs his head, and a' that?
The coward-slave, we pass him by;
We dare be poor for a' that.
For a' that and a' that,
Our toils obscure, and a' that;
The rank is but the guinea's stamp—
The man's the gowd for a' that.

What tho' on hamely fare we dine,
Wear hodden gray, and a' that;
Gie fools their silks, and knaves their wine—
A man's a man for a' that.
For a' that and a' that,
Their tinsel show, and a' that;
The honest man, though e'er sae poor,
Is king o' men for a' that.

You see yon birkie ca'd a lord,
Wha struts, and stares, and a' that—
Tho' hundreds worship at his word,
He's but a coof for a' that,
For a' that and a' that,
His riband, star, and a' that;
The man of independent mind,
He looks and laughs at a' that.

A prince can make a belted knight,
A marquis, duke, and a' that;
But an honest man's aboon his might—
Guid faith, he manna fa' that!
For a' that and a' that.
Their dignities, and a' that;
The pith o' sense, and a pride o' worth,
Are higher ranks than a' that.

Then let us pray that come it may,
As come it will for a' that;
That sense and worth, o'er a' the earth,
May bear the gree, and a' that;
For a' that and a' that,
It's coming yet, for a' that—
When man to man, the world o'er,
Shall brothers be for a' that.

A HEAVY BURDEN.

"Rather a heavy burden, isn't it, my boy?"

Clarence Spencer, to whom the words were addressed, turned from the ledger and looked toward the speaker. Clarence was a young man—not more than five-and-twenty—and was bookkeeper to Mr. Solomon Wardle, a pleasant-faced, keen-eyed man of fifty, who had spoken.

"A heavy burden, isn't it, Clarence?" the merchant repeated.

And still the young man was silent. His look indicated that he did not understand. He had been for some time bending over the ledger, with his thoughts far away; and that his thoughts were not pleasant ones was evident enough from the gloom on his handsome face.

"My dear boy, the burden is not only heavy now, but it will grow heavier and heavier, the longer you carry it."

"Mr. Wardle, I do not comprehend you"

"Ah, Clarence!"

"I certainly do not."

"Didn't I call at your house for you this morning?"

Clarence nodded assent.

"And didn't I see and hear enough to reveal to me the burden that you took with you when you left? You must remember, my boy, that I am older than you are, and that I have been through the mill. You find your burden heavy; and I've no doubt that Sarah's heart is as heavy as your own."

And then Clarence Spencer understood, and the morning scene was present with him, as it had been present with him since leaving home. On that morning he had a dispute with his wife. It had occurred at the breakfast table: there is no need of reproducing the scene. Suffice it to say that it had come of a mere nothing, and had grown a cause of anger. The first had been a look and a tone; then a flash of impatience; then a rising of the voice; then another look; the voice grew higher; the reason was unhinged; passion gained sway, and the twain lost sight of the warm, enduring love that lay smitten and aching down deep in their hearts; and felt for the time only the passing tornado. And Clarence remembered that Mr. Wardle had entered the house and caught sight of the storm.

And Clarence Spencer thought of one thing more; he thought how miserably unhappy he had been all the morning; and he knew not how long his burden of unhappiness was to be borne.

"Honestly, Clarence, isn't it a heavy and thankless burden?"

The bookkeeper knew that his employer was his friend, and that he was a true-hearted, Christian man, and, after a pause, he answered:

"Yes, M[illegible] Wardle, it is a heavy burden."

"My b[illegible] I am going to venture upon a bi[illegible] [illegible]erly counsel. I hope I shall no[illegible] [illegible]"

"Not a[illegible] all," said Clarence. He winced a little, as though the probing gave him new pain.

"In the first place," pursued the old man, with a quiver of emotion in his voice, "you love your wife?"

"Love her? Yes, passionately"

"And do you think she loves you in return?"

"I don't think anything about it, I know it."

"You know she loves you?"

"Yes."

"Then you must admit that the trouble this morning came from no ill feeling at the heart."

"Of course not."

"It was but a surface squall, for which you at least are very sorry."

A moment's hesitation, and then, "Yes, I am heartily sorry."

"Now mark me, Clarence, and answer honestly. Don't you think your wife is as sorry as you are?"

"I cannot doubt it."

"And don't you think she is suffering all this time?"

"Perhaps."

"Very well. Let that pass. You know she is bearing her part of the heavy burden?"

"Yes, I know that."

"And now, my boy, do you comprehend where the heaviest part of this burden is lodged?"

Clarence looked upon his interlocutor wonderingly.

"If the storm had all blown over, and you knew the sun would shine when you next entered your home, you would not feel so unhappy?"

Clarence assented.

"But, continued Mr. Wardle, "you fear that there will be gloom in your home when you return?"

The young man bowed his head as he replied in the affirmative.

"Because," the merchant added, with a touch of paternal sternness in his tone, "you are resolved to carry it there."

Clarence looked up in surprise.

"I—I carry it?"

"Yes; you have the burden in heart, and you mean to carry it home. Remember, my boy, I have been there and know all about it. I have been very foolish in my lifetime, and I have suffered until I discovered my folly, and then I resolved that I would suffer no more. Upon looking the matter squarely and honestly in the face I found the burden which had so galled me self-imposed. Of course such burdens can be thrown off. Now you have resolved to go home with a heavy heart and dark face. You have no hopes that your wife will meet you with a smile. And why? Because you know that she has no particular cause for smiling. You know that her heart is burdened with affliction which gives you so much unrest. And you are fully assured that you are to find your home shrouded in gloom, and, furthermore, you don't know when that gloom will depart and when the blessed sunshine of love will burst in again. And why don't you know? Because it is not in your heart to sweep the cloud away. You say to yourself, 'I can bear it as long as she can.' Am I not right?"

Clarence did not answer in words.

"Am I not right," pursued the merchant. "And very likely your wife is saying to herself the same thing. So your hope of sunshine does not rest upon your willingness to forgive, but upon the inability to bear the burden. By and by it will happen, as it has happened before, that one of the twain will surrender from exhaustion, and will likely be the weaker party. Then there will be a collapse and reconciliation. Generally the wife falls first beneath the galling burden, because her love is keenest and most sensitive. The husband in such a case acts the part of a coward. When he might with a breath, blow the cloud away, he cringes and cowers until his wife is forced to let the beautiful sunlight through her breaking heart."

Clarence listened and was troubled. He saw the truth and felt its weight. He was not a fool nor was he a liar. During the silence that followed he reflected upon the past, and he called to his mind scenes just as Mr. Wardle had depicted. And this brought him to the remembrance of how he had seen his wife weep when she had failed and sank beneath the heavy burden; and how often she had sobbed upon his bosom in grief for the error.

The merchant read the young man's thoughts, and, after a time, he rose and touched him on the arm.

"Clarence, suppose you were to put on your hat now and go home. Suppose you should think on your way only of the love and blessing that might be; with this thought you should enter your abode with a smile on your face; and you should put your arms around your wife's neck and kiss her, and softly say to her: 'My darling I have come home to throw down the burden I took away with me this morning; it is greater than I can bear.' Suppose you were to do this, would your wife repulse you?"

"Repulse me!"

"Ah, my boy, you echo my words with an amazement which shows that you understand me. Now sir have the courage to try the experiment? Dare you be such a man? Or do you fear to let your dear wife know and respect you less for the deed? Tell me, do you think the cloud of happiness might thus be banished. Oh, Clarence, if you would but try it."

Sarah Spencer had finished her work in the kitchen and in the bed-chamber, and sat down with her work in her lap. But she could not ply her needle. Her heart was heavy and sad, and tears were in her eyes

Presently she heard the front door open and a step in the passage. Certainly she knew the step. Yes, her husband entered and a smile upon his face. She saw it through her gathered tears and her heavy heart leaped up. He came and put his arms around her neck and kissed her, and said to her in broken accents:

"Darling, I have come home to throw down the burden I took away with me this morning, It is greater than I can bear"

And she, trying to speak, pillowed her head on his bosom and sobbed and like a child. Oh, could he forgive her? His coming with the blessed offering had thrown the burden of reproach upon her self. She saw him noble and generous, and she worshiped him.

But Clarence would not allow her to take all the blame. He must share that.

"We will share it so evennly," said he, "that its weight shall be felt no more. And now, my darling be happy."

"Always"

Mr. Wardle had no need, when Clarence returned, to ask the result. He could read it in the young man's brimming eyes and in the joy-inspired face.

It was a year after this—and Clarence Spencer had become a partner in the house—that Mr. Wardle, by accident, referred to the event of that gloomy morning.

"Ah," said Clarence with a swelling bosom, "that was the most blessed lesson I ever received. My wife knows who gave it to me."

"And it serves you yet, my boy?"

"Aye, and it will serve us while we live. We have none of those old burdens of anger to bear now. They can not find lodgment with us. The flash and jar may come—for we are human, you know—but the heart will not be called to entertain it."

The United States Supreme Court

Philadelphia Press.

Talking of the Supreme Court is a reminder of the complaints that lawyers make about the bad manners of the bench. Arbitrary power, which its possessor expects to exercise during his life, is not conducive to politeness, and nowhere is this better illustrated than on the Supreme bench of the United States.

"What do you say, sir?" asked one of the justices the other day, to a very prominent lawyer from one of the great States of the great West.

"I say," answered the lawyer, and then he repeated a legal proposition which he had been making when he was interrupted.

"Well, sir," said the justice, "if you mean to state such a proposition, as a proposition of law, it is the most astonishing thing I ever heard of. It is worthy of the bar of——," naming the lawyer's city.

The lawyer grew angry, and defended his local bar from the aspersion, but all the comfort he received was a growling assurance that nothing personal had been intended.

The incident is only a sample of what is constantly going on in the court room. The lawyers often have a hard time in their dealing with the court, and the worst of it all is that the justices have the advantage popularly supposed to be possessed by the preachers—their hearers cannot answer back, at least, answering back might be detrimental to the interests of their clients.

Sometimes the lawyers give the judges cause enough for an exhibition of bad manners. One of the funniest scenes that the court-room ever saw was a display of temper by the usually placid Justice Bradley. Ordinarily briefs are bound in paper, and the judge was in the habit of folding up his copy with the papers for convenience of carrying the bundle. Once a magniloquent party from New Orleans made his appearance in a case involving a claim of his own. He had had his brief elegantly printed and bound in stiff boards. When his time came to speak he began reading: "When the bonny blue flag went down before the stars and stripes—"

There was a rustle of outraged dignity among the silken gowns, and each judge picked up his briefs. Justice Bradley looked at the stiff boards, and his dark face grew darker with wrath. He made a show of trying to fold up the book, and then, with an explosive epithet, which the court heard but did not heed, he ripped the book to pieces and threw it under the table. Perhaps it may not be necessary to add that the claimant did not win his case.

The bar here is looking for an outburst from Justice Gray. His reputation in Massachusetts has come here before him. His tirades against trembling deputy sheriffs and frightened witnesses have been told about over and over again. Only two lawyers in Boston have ever been able to turn the tables on him. One was Henry E. Payne and the other Sidney Bartlett.

"If your honor please," said Payne one day, beginning a motion.

"Sit down, sir; don't you see I am talking with another justice!" thundered the then chief justice.

Mr. Payne took his hat and walked out of the court room. A half hour afterwards a messenger reached his office with a note saying that Judge Gray was willing to hear him. "I am not willing to be heard," answered the old lawyer, "until Judge Gray apologizes." And apologize the Judge had to.

"Mr. Bartlett," said the chief justice one afternoon, throwing himself back in his chair, "that is not law and it never was law."

The veteran smiled, and looking over the bench said: "It was law, your honor, until your honor just spoke."

Sitting Down on a Dog.

Detroit Free Press.

A woman and a terrier dog reached the Union depot yesterday half an hour before the time of the Grand Trunk train for Buffalo, and while the woman sat down in the waiting room as the best thing she could do, the dog made a tour of the room several times and then curled up in a seat not far away to get a wink of sleep before being turned over to the tender care of the baggage man. All things were so-so when a young man with a good deal of cane and watch chain and necktie sauntered in and took a cool survey of the various females. The one nearest the dog not only had a young and pleasant face, but she was all alone. After satisfying himself of this the young man advanced, made a graceful bow and inquired:

"Beg your pardon, but do you go East?"

She nodded.

"Ah! I thought so. If you have any baggage I shall be most happy—ah—shall be most happy to—"

He had all the time been preparing to sit down beside her on the dog, and the sentence was not yet finished when he sank gracefully back. Some dogs have been sat down on so often that they do not mind it, but this terrier had always been a pampered pet, and had been given proper time to shake off sleep and get his legs under him. When suddenly burried under 140 pounds of masher his ideas must have been terribly confused, but not for long. A clock couldn't have ticked over eight times when the young man began to rise up and whoop, and he was scarcely up when he made a course for the door which upset every band box and satchel for a width of ten feet. As he went out of the door, a black object let go of him and trotted back, and it was only when the dog began rubbing himself against the baseboard to restore himself to his former round shape, that any one was able to discover why the frenzied young man had left in such a hurry.

Thad Steven's [illegible] Claimed.

Lancaster Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Most people familiar with the life of Thaddeus Stevens are also familiar with the fact that he left a peculiar will. In the event of his favorite nephew, Thad Stevens Jr, keeping sober five years he was to recive a certain amount of the estate; keeping sober for ten years longer, he was to receive a certain other amount, and, keeping sober for fifteen years he was to receive all the estate save a few small bequests. Not living up to these terms, young Thad was to receive $800 per annum during his life, and this he accepted burying his talents and his life in an instable indulgence in strong drink. In the event of young Thad receiving only $800 per annum, the residue of the estate—provided it amounted to $50,000—was to go to the founding of an orphan asylum, where all children who had lost either parent (regardless of color, creed or nationality) were to be admitted. The Hon. James P. McPherson, the Hon. A. E. Roberts and the Hon. O. J. Dickey were named as the executors. Mr. Dickey is dead, but the other two executors were about arranging for the transfer of the estate to the children's home, of this city, when Dr. Thaddeus N. Stevens, of Indiana, stepped in and filed a bill in equity which sets forth that he is entitled to the residue of the "Old Commoner's" estate because it does not reach $50,000. He claimes that he and his sister are heirs at law, and that his sister has transferred her claim to him. Able counsel has been retained by the claimant, and the case promises to be more than ordinarily interesting.

The value of cheese as a food is not properly understood in America. Beef steak free from bone is very similar in composition to cheese; both are muscle producers; beef, however, contains more than double the water which cheese contains, and, besides, the latter requires no cooking.

BRIDE OF A BRIGAND.

An Italian Who Said He Was a Count, but Turned Out a Robber.

St. Louis Republican.

Yesterday afternoon a woman heavily veiled and clad in neat fitting traveling costume, stepped into the Four Courts and asked for the Chief of Police. That dignitary's office was pointed out by a Republican reporter, but the Chief was not in, much to the disappointment of the lady, who could not conceal her agitation at the announcement. The reporter volunteered to go to Mr. Kennett's residence if the matter was important, but the woman would not hear of this, saying that she would call again. She seemed very nervous, and it was evident from her appearance that she was not of the ordinary run of callers who present themselves at the police headquarters. She was questioned regarding her business with the Chief, and, after much hesitation, she told substantially the following story:

"My name is Nellie Correggio, and at present I am living with my sister in Alton, Ill., In 1879 I lived in Boston, and attended a musical institution for the purpose of training my voice. I was then 19 years of age, and my intention was to go on the stage during the sesons of 1877-78. While in Boston I formed the acquaintance of Rocco Correggio, who professed to be an Italian nobleman. He was well educated, of polite address, and especially well versed in music. After a short acquaintance he asked me to marry him, and promised to take me to Milan and other Italian musical centers, and place me under the tutelage of the ablest professors of the art. I hesitated for two months, and then consented, and our marriage took place on January 14, 1877. In May of the same year we crossed the Atlantic, and after a short stay in London we took passage for the Continent. Early in June we arrived at Leghorn, and, after visiting Naples, Florence and Pisa, we took up our abode in Milan. My husband had plenty of money, and much against my wishes he insisted upon traveling in the most expensive manner. I was placed in the hands of Professor Ghio, of the Milan Conservatory, and studied for six months. About that time my husband told me that he was going to visit relatives in the small town of Pana, which was situated in the neighborhood of Naples. He left, promising to be back in a week. A week went by, but he did not come, and the week was lengthened into four when one day I received a letter stating that he was arrested for brigandage, and then confined in Naples. This news almost prostrated me, and, throwing up my studies, I packed a few necessary articles and took the first train for that city. I could speak Italian fluently, but being without an escort I met with many mishaps, and my appearance indicating that I was a stranger in the country, I attracted more or less attention. When I arrived at Naples, I found that I would not be allowed to see my husband, and this second blow almost drove me crazy. I went to the American Consul, and told him my story, and, through his influence, I obtained a permit to see my husband. He told me that he was innocent of the accusation, that it was the old charge, and that the crime had been comitted several years before. His bail was placed at such a high figure that I could not procure him bonds, and he stopped in prison four months. The Governor of the prison informed me that "Rocco" was undoubtely the man wanted, for he had fled the country soon after the offense was committed. He said I had been duped as well as the authorities, and that the best thing I could do was to go home and leave the man to his fate. I defended my husband from these aspersions, and once more laid the case before the Consul and asked his influence to help procure his release. He promised to do what he could, and at the end of four months the matter was fixed up and my husband was allowed to go upon the condition that he would never set foot in Italy upon pain of instant arrest. We returned to this country after a short stop in Paris, and I received an engagement at a good salary in a Brooklyn church choir.

"We lived in Brooklyn two years, and had saved nearly $2,000 during that time. Last June my husband took this money and deserted me, and I have not heard from him since. Last Summer I heard that he was in Cincinnati, and I went there, but could find no trace of him. Last week I received the following letter from a friend in Brooklyn:

"DEAR FRIEND: I heard from an Italian friend yesterday that your husband, Rocco Correggio, was in St. Louis, Mo., the gentleman stating that he had seen him on the streets of that city. We are all well and your daughter Nellie is still at the kinder-garten. Your friend,

MARY HALLAM.

"Upon receiving this at Alton I made up my mind to come over here and lay the matter before the Chief of Police, and see if he can find my husband, for I love him still. The money taken was all my own earnings, but I do not blame him so much for this as the desertion." And as the lady concluded she drew back her vail and placed a handkerchief to her eyes. She was extremely handsome, and to-morrow or Tuesday the matter will be laid before the club.

Grant as a Lover.

Keokuk Constitution.

Hearing that there was a lady living in this city who had once been courted by General U. S. Grant, and who had refused her hand in early womanhood to this noted American civil and military character, a Constitution reporter sought an interview with the lady, with very satisfactory results. The newspaper representative found the early sweetheart of Grant to be a lady considerably advanced in years, yet still large, active and buoyant, and not nearly so reticent as the General. She had not seen General Grant since 1850, she said, and then his father carried on a tannery in Portsmouth, Ohio. She once had occasion to reside for a time in the family of a farmer whose farm adjoined that of Grant's father—only a line of fence between—and it was during her stay here at this farm-house that she was courted by General Grant. It must have been in the spring time, or she says she and Grant would meet at the division fence, on each side of which were beautiful flowers.

"Ulick," said she, "would say to me 'Let's gather flowers, and see who will have the most kinds when we get through."

"You mean Grant when you say 'Ulick,'" interrupted the reporter; "his name is Ulysses."

"Yes," she replied, "we always called him 'Ulick,' and while he was courting me and wanted to marry me, father used to laugh at him and plague me, saying, 'he is the greenest looking boy I ever saw,'" and chuckling to herself she added: "And he was a green-looking fellow. I remember the last time I saw 'Ulick.' We had been buggy riding. We had alighted from the buggy, and he stood leaning one arm on the wheel of the vehicle, and looking into my face he said: 'Well, Ellen (my name is Eleanor, but they called me Ellen), if I ever find anybody that I love well enough to marry, and am so fortunate as to have a daughter, you know what that daughter's name will be.' The daughters's name is Nellie, a pretty contraction of Eleanor."

"We shall not publish your name," said the representative, "since you have been so kind and courteous to us, without permission. Can we use your name?"

Finally she remarked: "I am not ashamed of my father's name; it was Charles Brandon, and my maiden name was Eleanor Brandon. My first husband's name was John Spaulding. Further than this I will not go."

English Aristocracy's Amusements

London Letter.

The favorite amusements in country houses have been latterly bear fights and hare and hounds, not the out-door sports, or a reminiscence of gladiators—far from it. The scene is the drawing-room; the time, postprandial. Actors, men more or less—often more—flushed with wine; women, in full evening dress, flirting desperately, unceasingly, arduously with youths who steadfastly nurse their right leg and try to catch the reflection of their gardenia in the matchless luster of their shoes. Watching his opportunity, some cheerful, animated guest playfully hurls a small ornament at a "dear fellow's" head. This is the onset; promptly other missiles follow, ertages, tables, consoles are stripped of their articles of virtu, and a curious confusion follows. It is considered uncourteous in the mistress of the house to object to this destruction of her property. The housemaid is dismissed for breaking a china cup; the lords and ladies are smiled at for smashing the furniture. This is the bear fight. It has no fixed rules and no limitations.

For hare and hounds the preparations are still more simple. The lights are suddenly put out, and every man is supposed to possess a sufficiently keen scent to catch the hare he covets. In this novel chase the game rarely doubles, and soon falls a willing prey. At a second signal light floods the scene, and everyone is made judge of the success of everybody else. The escutcheons on the walls, the ancestral pictures in their frames, the armor-clad effigies in the old halls must tremble with dismay at these unhallowed sports but, could they lift their voices in reproach, one word would silence them all: "It is the fashion!"

Opening The Car Window.

Burdette, in Burlington Hawkeye.

Maybe a man feels happy and proud and flattered and envied and blessed among men when he sees a pretty girl trying to raise a window in a railway car, and he jumps up and gets ahead of the other boys and says: "Allow me?" Oh, so courteously, and she says: "Oh, if you please; I would be so glad," and the other male passengers turn green with envy, and he leans over the back of the seat and tackles the window in a knowing way with one hand, as if peradventure he may toss it airily with a simple turn of the wrist, but it kind of holds on, and he takes hold with both hands, but it sort of doesn't let go to any alarming extent, and then he pounds it with his fist, but it only seems to settle a "leetle closer into place," and then he comes around and she gets out out of the seat to give him a fair chance, and he grapples that window and bows up his back and tugs and pulls and sweats and grunts and strains, and his hat falls off, and his suspender buttons fetch loose, and his vest buckle parts, and his face gets red, and his feet slip, and the people laugh, and irreverent young men in remote seats grunt and groan every time he lifts and cry out, "Now then, all together," as if in mockery, and he bursts his collar at the forward button, and the pretty young lady, vexed at having been made so conspicous, says in her iciest manner, "Oh' never mind, thank you; it dosen,t make any difference," and then calmly goes away and sits down in another seat, and that wearied man gathers himself together and reads a book upside down—oh, doesn't he feel good, just? Maybe he isn't happy, but if you think he isn't don't be fool enough to extend any of your sympathy. He doesn't want it.

The Import of Potatoes.

New York Correspondence Utica Herald.

Potatoes from Scotland, cabbage from Holland, and butter from Denmark and Germany. How rapidly a scarcity in any part of the world starts shipments. Commerce is always vigilant, and the drouth in America gives a maket to distant producers. The Scotch potato is well liked by many of our consumers, and the imports averaged 75,000 bushels a month. They pay 15 cents a bushel duty, but this, as well as freight and commission, is met by the present high market. A Scottish vegetable house has been started here, with the expectation that this taffic will be permanent. It is probable, however, that an immense breadth of potatoes will be planted this season, and this will bring prices down to their former mark. A year ago potatoes were so dull that it hardly paid to send them here, and now they are so dear that we are glad to receive them from Scotland. Thus one extreme is followed by another. New York Consumes 10,000 bushels of potatoes every day, and hence the early crop from Florida and South Carolina is eagerly exected Potato speculators have made money, but only at the expense of suffering among the poor. There are thousands here who are almost famished, and even the well-paid working classes are pinched. How welcome to the city will be a resumption of old-fashioned prices at the potato market!

JOCOSITIES.

Though Adam's dress was a nude design,
He often would sadly grieve,
And sit on the limb of a tree and whine,
'Cause he couldn't laugh in his sleeve.

Rolling-pin is not æsthetic,
A dish-rag scarcely is divine,
A squalling kid is not pathetic,
A dirty floor is not leonine;
A drudging life is not supernal;
But flour is not a daffodil;
The weather is not alway vernal.
We have not mixed the good and ill.

The telephone has developed an entirely new school of hellocution.

When a pretty Irish girl is stolen away, they suspect some boycotter.

The shad is described as "fish that wears a fine comb for a backbone."

A lady of Oil City calls her husband Water, because he is drunk so often.

Speaking across the garden fence admits a good deal to be said on both sides.

A Dayton girl has named her deserting lover Conkling, because he voluntarily went back on sure things.

Why is the discovery of the North Pole like an illict whiskey manufactory? Because it is a secret still.

Detroit Free Press: The boy who said soda water tastes like your foot's asleep, now says Weiss beer is thawed sandpaper.

Oil City Derrick: Women's brains are smaller than men's An elephant is also larger than a mouse, yet he can't catch one.

A coal dealer recently received from a prominent shoddyite, who had been to Europe, an order for five tons of coal "delivered a la cart."

Teacher: Johnny tell me, instantly, what that word was it you just rubbed off your slate." Johnny "Please, ma'am, I was only wiping out polygamy."

What makes a man's heart glad is to wake up on Sunday morning and find a drizzling rain falling, just enough to prevent his wife from going to church and to make the fishing good.

Scientists say the best brain food is corn meal; so if you wish to flatter a scientist by some delicate allusion to his mental capacity, all you have to do is to call him a mushhead—then run.

Æsthetic wife sobbing: "Dearest, I'll see that your grave is kept green—but not one of those horrid bright greens. A nice olive grey green, with an old bronze tombstone, will look too awfully lovely for anything."

A Philadelphia boy was asked if he ever prayed in church, and answered: "Oh, I always say a prayer like the rest do, just before the sermon begins." "Indeed," responded the querist, "and what prayer do you say?" "Now I lap me down to sleep"

He—May I call you revenge? She—Why? He—Because "Revenge is Sweet." She—Certainly you may, provided though, you will let me call you Vengeance. He—And why would you call me Vengeance? She—Because "Vengeance is mine."

Asa Briggs died a few days ago at Shutesbury, Mass. Conscious of his approaching end, he desired that a certain minister living in a neighboring town shoul attend his burial service, giving as a reason: "They say he is a good hand at a funeral, and I'd like to hear him just once,"

Extract from a young lady's letter—"And do you know Maud and I are quite sure Captain Popple had taken too much champaign at the ball, for he took out his watch and looked hard at the back of it and then muttered. "Bless me soul, I hadn't any idea that it was that time o'night."

"Is there anything I can do for you, darling?" he said, indiscreetly getting his mouth in close proximity to her Grecian and highly sensitive nose, and then, as she averted her head with a shrug of disgust, hastily throwing a few fresh cardamon seeds into his mouth. "Yes," she answered, without turning round; "open the window and give me a little fresh air."

A Rara Avis.

New York Herald.

But whom have we here? Blithely tripping by the side of a tall and gallant escort appeared at the portal of the hotel a little lady, who hesitated a moment at the step of a coupe, shrugged her shoulder, said, "Oh, come along let's walk," and suited the action to the word. Far be it for any masculine pen to attempt to describe Adelinea Patti's costume. All that can be recalled is a red feather, a dark hat a seal-skin robe with different fur on the border, yellowish gloves and the daintiest boots, with real heels. She was in happy temper. Her hair was coal black, her eyes shone with health and contentment, and she did not profane the sunshine by wearing diamonds in her ears on the street and in the morning. A walk on Fifth avenue to-day means something different to Patti, the Diva, from a scamper down Bleecker street thirty years ago to Adelina, the child of poor and struggling parents. Then she had nothing but the germ of her wonderful power. To-day she has estates, villas, a castle, half a million dollars in diamonds alone, wealth that is computed in seven figures and a voice matchless this side of the gates of pearl. Then calico dresses, jet black braids of hair upon her back, flashing eyes and a gipsy skin were the possessions of one of a "lot of children." To-day she walks or drives, as suits her whim, exacts tribute from kings, and has the world of art and genius at her feet. But however this may be, she walked down the avenue looking at the houses, gazing at the people, explaining to her companion and absolutely unknown to any one whom she met for blocks and blocks.

We are not Turks.

W. P. Adkinson: It will not make woman any less refined to go to the polls than it does to the postoffice and deposit a letter, or to the exposition and hand in her ticket, or to the pump and drink with the crowd, or to the store and buy goods with the masses. God has placed woman in the world like man, with the good and the bad. She meets good men and women in stores, cars, hotels, on streets, fairs, funerals, Sunday-schools, Churches, at every turn in life; we are not Turks to keep women shut in houses.

The Boston Post tells of Massachusetts man who bought a Roman candle to light him to bed with, and who is now looking for the man who loaded it.

THE STATE.

Pofessor Peter V. Albright, a few years ago superintendent of the schools of Floyd county, is now driving street cars in Philadelphia.

Mack Welton, a colored man of Evansville, got into an altercation, and bit off the greater portion of Robert Frazier's lower lip. Previously, however, Frazier had struck him on the head with a billiard cue, inflicting an ugly wound.

J. C. Simpson, of Benton county, has filed in the clerk's office a suit against Moses Fowler, president of the National State bank of Lafayette, for $46,500 for superintending his Benton county farm from 1873 to 1878, and for raising corn and making ditches.

The Newlight and the United Brethren churches, at Veedersburg, have closed protracted meetings, which have resulted in nearly one hundred accessions to each church, and the Christian church has commenced a revival meeting, with no abatement of interest.

Cicero Watts, a young farmer of Greenfield, has received word that he is an heir to part of the celebrated Spangler estate of Germany, and will at once take steps to prove his heirship. The estate amounts to many millions. W. H. Snekell, of Kentucky, is also an heir. Their part will be over $100,000.

William Isley, a farmer, started from his home, a few miles south of Veedersburg, a few days ago, saying that he was going to see a neighbor about a half mile distant on business. He has not been seen or heard from since. He had been buying timber, and it was thought he had money with him when he left. Foul play is feared.

Edward R. Hill, long a resident of Fort Wayne, and formerly quite a large property owner, has been arrested for sending fraudulent orders through the mails. He had a desk room in a newspaper office, pretended to be a wholesale dealer in groceries, flour, etc., and was doing quite an extensive business. He is in jail in default of bail.

William Gordon, a prominent farmer of Randolph county, three and one-half miles southwest of of Winchester, was seriously, if not fatally, shot by Oliver Stetson, Sunday afternoon about three o'clock. Stetson was jealous of Gordon who at the time of the shooting was accompaning Mrs Stetson home from a neighbors. Stetson lives in Winchester, has a family, and has always borne a fair reputation. Gordon is a well-to-do farmer, and has always stood above reproach. Stetson was released on $2,000 bail.

Henry Coultice was arrested at Bourbon on two charges, one of bigamy and the other of murder. About a year ago Coultice married a young lady in Selma, Delaware county, whose family is highly connected. He afterwards eloped with his wife's youngest sister and came to Bourbon to reside. The second marriage has been anything but a happy one as a matter of course. He is known to have beaten his second wife in a brutal manner at different times. She gave birth to a child recently, and died in a mysterious manner, which caused the charge on which he was arrested. He was taken to Plymouth and lodged in jail.

THE Funeral Directors, (late undertakers), of Indiana, will hold a State convention at Indianapolis, on the 25th of May.

THE late Stoughton A. Fletcher, of Indianapolis, left a fortune of $1,000,000, apportioned by his will among his four children.

HON. THOMAS McSHEERY, editor and proprietor of the Western Citizen, of Indianapolis, has accepted a $1,500 clerkship at Washington.

CONGRESS sits down upon the ambition of Indianapolis to be made a port of delivery as well as a port of entry. The tidewater of Pogues Run is not sufficiently strong for so much port.

Dr. Hawn has reconsidered his determination not to be a candidate for re-election as Secretary of State this Fall, the Republican managers deeming it best to present the names of all the present incumbents of the State offices for re-election.

IF, as it is claimed, "an acre of fish will produce more food than five acres of ground," Indiana ought to be speedily dotted over with fish ponds. In a great many localities ground and water are both going to waste that might be utilized for this purpose. The subject is worthy the careful consideration of all who have water and ground that can be combined in fish pounds.

Farm and Workshop Notes.

An Indiana inventor has patented a straw-stacking machine.

The brown or rusty orange is sweeter and can be kept longer than the bright fruit.

Sorghum seed is readily eaten by poultry and is better for small chickens than corn.

Prices asked by American breeders of pure-blooded Polled Angus cattle are as high as $850 for cows and $1,500 for bulls.

Farmers in Southern Indiana state that the growing wheat crop looks stronger than ever before at this season.

Each year 12,000,000 heads of cabbage find sale in the Philadelphia markets, and 5,000,000 are converted into sour krout.

It is now claimed that potash in the shape of ashes, or the potash of salts, is excellent for grape vines if the fruit is defective in color.

Experiments are in progress in England for testing the adaptability of that country for the growth of American varieties of apples.

Plump and very saleable chickens can be procured by crossing a bantam rooster with ordinary common hens. They are not large but of good quality.

It is reported that a guano island has been discovered in the Gulf of California, near the Mexican coast, twenty-eight miles northwest of Point Lobos.

The Holsteins are rapidly pushing the Ayrshires aside, being hardier and better adapted for the butcher when their milking qualities are no longer desired.

If sulphur is well dusted around the sheds and hog pens it will effectually drive off lice. Dust it on the hogs, also, and leave a little in the troughs for them to eat.

A French chemist states that a hen consumes annually 374 pounds of food, of which it excretes 272 pounds, the remaining 162 pounds representing that serving for the sustenance of the body. Value of the manure twenty cents. His figures are probably too large.

"The hair tells," says an exchange, speaking of some scientific operations. We should warble that the hair tells. After a young man has been out late and comes home puffing his breath against the frosty atmosphere of morning, it is ten to one that the hair on his coat tells his wife all about it.

Fanatical Frenzy.

The Rev. D. L. Hayward was the Methodist Episcopal pastor at North Lewisburg, Ohio. In order to raise the money for a new church, he took charge of the boarding tent at a camp meeting, and conducted the business so well that $1,800 were realized. But in purely religious matters he has proved less rational. While the new house was being built he held revival services in the Town Hall, and from the start his conduct was so strange that he attracted crowds. He shouted, ran to and fro, sang wildly, and threw himself prostrate on the platform. A A number of women of the congregation fell into his extravagant ways, and the meetings grew more and more exciting. One sister threw her fashionable bonnet on the floor and rolled on it. Another hugged and kissed a male sinner whom she was laboring to convert. The pastor held a third up in his arms and blessed her. Trances and paroxysms were common. At length it was announced that Christ, in visible person, would be present on a certain evening. The community was by this time wrought up to a high pitch of excitement, and the hall was crowded. Several of the zealots declared that Christ did appear to them, and described the vision minutely. Next Hayward appointed a time for his sick wife to die. He said that he had decided to make her a sacrifice and that the Lord would raise her from the grave after three days. There was a concourse in and around the house when Presiding Elder Brewster arrived on the scene. He deposed Hayword and put another minister in his place.

Boys Will Be Boys.

An exchange says a boy will tramp 247 miles in one day on a rabbit hunt and be limber in the evening; when, if you ask him to go across the street and borrow Jones' two-inch auger, he will be as stiff as a meat-block. Of course he will. And he will go swimming all day, and stay in the water three hours at a time, and splash and dive and paddle and puff, and next morning he will feel that an unmeasured insult has been offered him when he is told by his mother to wash his face carefully so as not to leave the score of the ebb and flow so plain to be seen under the gill. And he'll wander around a dry creek bed all the afternoon piling up a pebble fort, and nearly die off when his big sister wants him to please pick up a basket of chips for the parlor stove. And he'll spend the biggest part of the day trying to corner a stray mule or a baire-backed horse for a ride, and feel that all life's charms have fled when it comes time to drive the cows home. And he'll turn a ten acre lot upside down for ten inches of angle worms, and wish for the voiceless tomb when the garden demands his attention. But all the same, when you want a friend who will stand by you, and sympathise with you, and be true to you in all kinds of weather, enlist one of these same boys.

Refusing a Benefit.

Senator Hoar in U S Senate.

I think myself that in determining the policies which shall govern our schools, the most important single question which comes before legislative bodies; in determining the policies which shall govern our civil service, which is so largely filled by women to-day; in determining the questions which concern the sale of intoxicating liquors, and all classes of questions where the sphere and the purity and morality of American citizenship are concerned, we may well, before we come to a conclusion, count the vote and ascertain the judgment and obey the wish of the women of America. Proud as I am of the history of this country, proud as I am of the history of the English race to which I belong, I do not think it has shown any absolute wisdom or inspiration in its capacity to provide for the Government of States, which enables it to look with disdain on the proposition to avail itself of feminine purity, of feminine instinct, or of feminine wisdom in dealing with the great subject with which States have to deal.

A Mystery Cleared.

Jacob Beble was murdered in a Wisconsin forest last January. He was a lumberman, and worked with a single companion. This person disappeared immediately after the deed, and was regarded as guilty of it, but could nowhere be found. Not even a trace of the fugitive was discovered, and the search was at length given up. A few days ago the widow of Beble fell dangerously ill at Neilsville, the nearest village to the place where he had been shot, and, in expectation of death, she confessed that she was his slayer. He had compelled her to dress as a man and work with him in the woods. Worn out by the heavy labor, and driven desperate by his cruelty, she murdered him. Then she hurried home, put on her own clothing, and nobody identified her as the fellow who had been her husband's assistant.

"I may differ from de religio I folks," says a colored sage, "whenus say dat I's got more respect fur de woodpecker den I has fur de dove. De dove is 'ceitful. He'll coo an' coax you into sympathy, but as soon as yer back is turned he goes ober inter de field and pulls up der young wheat. All dis time de woodpecker has been digging a worm out a tree.

Indiana.

The Chicago Times recently published a review of the progress made in in the past year in the great west, with excellent maps of the United States and of the city of Chicago. From the review we take the following concerning this State: Indiana, one of the great Western agricultural and manufacturing States, is situated east of Illinois, west of Ohio, south of Michigan and north of Kentuck.—Fully two thirds of its surface is level and undulating. The hills bordering the rivers inclose wooded bottom lands of the richest quality. The table lands of the interior are either vast level prairies interspersed with groves or hills rising from one hundred to three hundred feet. The greater part of the land in Indiana is very productive, the principal river valleys being exceedingly fertile. The climate is variable, and not unlike that of other western and northwestern States. The population has increased very rapidly, and is now placed at 1,978,362. As an agricultural State, Indiana ranks very high. The chief productions are wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, buckwheat, peas, beans, potatoes, flax, hemp, tobacco, wool, and hops. Dairying is carried on extensively and cattle and hog raising is also a large and profitable industry. The wheat crop of 1879 was placed at 47,284,000 bushels, that of 1880 at 48,400,000 bushels, and that of 1881 at 29,756,000 bushels, the falling off this year being attributable to the severe drought of last summer. The corn crop of 1879 was 115,482,000 bushels, that of 1880, 99,229,000 bushels, and that of 1881 75,950,000 bushels. Bituminous coal is found in the State in great abundance, and fuel is therefore always to be had at reasonable rates. Peat exists also in the northern part of the State. Quarries of building stone are estimated to cover an area of more than two hundred square miles. The stone is of great variety in color and grade, and of enduring strength. The Capital of the State is Indianapolis, a thrifty and handsome city of 76,000 inhabitants, and the other chief towns are Evansville, New Albany, Madison, Richmond, Terre Haute, Lafayette, Fort Wayne, and Michigan City. The latter, which is situated on Lake Michigan, is the only port of Indiana, but has no direct foreign commerce. Its internal trade, by means of its rivers, canals and railroads, is of vast extent. There are now more than five thousand miles of railroad in the State, all the great trunk lines running from Chicago and St. Louis to the east crossing its territory. These roads are intersected at frequent points by lines running north and south, so that all parts of the state are easily accessible by rail. The manufacturing industries of Indiana are very extensive, the capital invested therein amounting to more than $100,000,000, and giving employment to thousands of men, women and children. The chief branches are agricultural implements, glass, boots and shoes, carriages and wagons, railroad cars, clothing, flour, furniture, iron ware, leather, lumber, liquors, saddlery, woolen goods, and pork packing. The State has many Universities and Colleges, and a very complete and flourishing free school system, giving instruction without charge to all persons between 6 and 21 years of age. There are several thousand churches, and numerous public and private charitable institutions. There are no public lands in Indiana, but settlers may secure good farms at from $5 $20 per acre, and establish themselves in a neighborhood having all the advantages which long settlement and development bring. There are many people who are not qualified for pioneers, and many others who do not care to be. Any such who are not satisfied with their condition, will find good locations in many parts of Indiana.

Saved by a Shadow.

Philadelphia Times.

The scout was surrounded. He took in everything at a glance and determened to cut his way through and risk the chances. But the ladies represented to him that this was certain death, They could conceal him, and S—— assented. The young ladies acted promptly. One ran to the window and asked who was there, while another closed the back door, that in front being already fastened. S—— was then hurried up the staircase, one of the ladies accompanying him to show him his hiding place. All had taken place in a few moments, and the Federal troops gave sudden evidence of their estimate of S——. They fired a volley through the front door, and the bullets whistled by the young ladies. Then the door was burst in and the troopers swarmed into the house.

S—— had been conducted to a garret bare of all furniture, but some planks lay upon the sleepers of the ceiling, and by laying down on these a man might conceal himself. S—— mounted quietly and stretched himself at full length, and the young lady retired and returned to the lower floor. From his perch S—— then heard all that was said in the hall beneath.

"Where is the guerrilla?" exclaimed the federal officer commanding the detachment.

"What guerrilla?" asked one of the ladies.

"The rascal S——,"

"He was here, but he has gone."

"That is untrue," the officer said, "and I am not to be trifled with. I shall search the house. But, first, read the orders to the men," he added turning to a sergeant.

The sergeant obeyed, and S—— distinctly overheard the reading of his death-warrant. The paper chronicled his exploits, denounced him as a guerrilla and bush-whacker, and directed that he should not be taken alive; the men were expressly ordered to kill him, not to take him prisoner. This was not reassuring to the scout concealed under the rafters above. It was probable that he would be discovered, in which case death would follow. There was but one thing to do—to sell his life dearly. After ransacking every room on the first and second floors, the Federal troops ascended to the garret. The ladies had attempted to divert their attention from it, but one of them asked:

"What room is that up there?"

"The garret," was the reply.

"He may be there—show the way."

"You see the way," returned the returned the young lady, "I do not wish to go up in the dust; it would soil my dress."

"You go before, then," said the trooper, to a negro girl who had been made to carry about a lighted candle, for night had come now. The girl laughed, and said: "There is nobody up there," but at the order went upstairs to the garret, followed by the troopers. The decisive moment had come. S—— heard the tramping feet and cocked both his pistols. The light streamed into the garret, and looking over the edge of his plank he saw the garret fill with troopers. All seemed over and his discovery certain; he was about to spring down and fire, when the men growled: "Hell, there's nothing here," and went down the stairs again. The servant girl had saved him by a ruse. She had taken her stand directly beneath the broad plank upon which S—— was extended, and the deep shadow had concealed him. To this ruse he doubtless owed his life. An hour afterwards the Federal detachment left the house in extreme ill humor, and before morning S—— was miles away from the dangerous locality where he had overheard his sentence of death. S—— is now one of the leading clergymen of Virginia.

Alice Garland's Fate.

The Canadian papers say news from the Northwest Territory is to the following effect: An old and well-known Indian, who has just died, before his death made a confession which entirely cleared up what had been a painful mystery for a full half century. Fifty years ago Nicholas Garland, a pioneer, took a tract of land situated in what is now the township of Beckwith, in the county of Lanark, built a cabin on it, and proceeded to clear away the dense forest standing upon the tract. At that time he had a child named Alice. One day Alice did not return from the edge of the clearing, where she had been playing with two other children. An alarm was raised, and all the woodsmen in the country thereabout joined in a search, which lasted for many days, but resulted in no clew to the missing child, and the general verdict arrived at by the hunters was that Alice had been carried off and devoured by one of the bears with which the country then abounded. This conclusion seemed to be corroborated by the discovery of some clean, small bones a few months afterward in a deep hollow a couple of miles from Garland's cabin. They were gathered carefully together and buried by the father and mother of Alice near their home. All the people for miles around attended the funeral, which was the first ever held in this section by the whites. The loss of her child and the terrible strain of the long suspense and the gnastly discovery subsequently broke down the strong conitiution of Mrs. Garland, and she died with a broken heart not long after the funeral. Mr. Garland, after his wife's death became hard and ascetic, never referred to his trouble, never associated with his neighbors, and has ever since lived a hermit in the cabin he first built. The old Indian who died yesterday, however, says that he saw Alice on that day, when she was playing with her companions on the clearing, became fascinated with her and raised her as one of his own family. When she became marriageable she was thoroughly Indianized, and her abductor managed to have her married to one of his own sons. She is now living in Bruce county, and is the mother of a large family. She has never shown that she had any recollection of her parents or home, and appears to be happy. The dying Indian said that so well had she been cared for that he believed no one could have convinced her of her real origin or induced her to change her lot, and he added that no one but himself and the son who married her was ever made acquainted with her history. The story is believed to be true, and causes a profound sensation.

Things to be Remembered.

That parsley eaten with vinegar will remove the unpleasant effect of eating onions.

That cakes, puddings, etc., are improved by making the currants, sugar and flour hot before using them.

That lamp shades of ground glass should cleansed with soap or pearlash; these will not injure or discolor them.

That white satin shoes may be cleaned by rubbing them with blue and stone flannel, and afterwards cleaning them with bread.

That gold lace may be cleaned by rubbing it with a soft brush, dipped in rock alum, burnt and sifted to a very fine powder.

That earthy mould should never be washed from potatoes, carrots, or other roots, until immediately before they are to be cooked.

That cold boiled potatoes used as soap will clean the hands and keep the skin soft and healthy. Those not over boiled are the best.

That charcoal powder is good for polishing knives without destroying the blades. It is also a good tooth powder when finely pulverized.

That potato water in which potatoes have been scraped, the water being allowed to settle and afterwards strained, is good for sponging dirt out of silk.

That straw matting may be cleaned with a large coarse cloth dipped in salt and water, and then wiped dry. The salt prevents the straw from turning yellow.

That buttermilk is excellent for cleaning sponges. Steep the sponge in the milk for some hours, then squeeze it out, and wash it in cold water. Lemon juice is also good.

That tea leaves, used in keeping down dust when sweeping carpets, are apt to stain light colors; salt is the best in the winter, and new mown hay in the summer.

That a piece of linen cloth dipped in turpentine and wrapped around the toe on which a soft corn is situated, will give relief, and after a few days the corn will disappear.

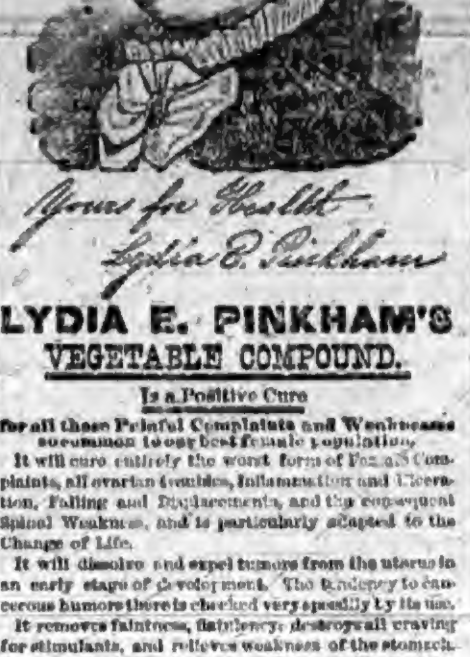
That rusty black Italian crape may be restored by dipping in skimmed milk and water, with a bit of fine glue dissolved in it and made scalding hot. It should be clapped and pulled dry, like muslin.

That the white of an egg, into which a piece of alum about the size of a walnut has been stewed until it forms a jelly, is a capital remedy for sprains. It should be laid over the sprain upon a piece of lint, and be chaged as often as it becomes dry.

That a lump of fresh lime, the size of a walnut, dropped onto a pint of water and allowed to stand over night, the water being poured off from the sediment and mixed with a qurter of pint of the best vinegar, forms a good wash for scurf in the head. It is to be applied to the roots of the hair.

Learn to say no! and it will be of more use to you than to be able to read Latin.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,



Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

☞ Sold by all Druggists. ☜

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

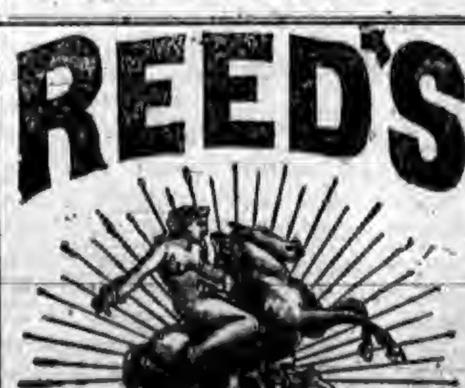
This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition. Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhoea, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

REED'S



GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague, while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be confounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAMARITAN
NERVINE

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Epileptic Fits, Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Vertigo, Hysterics, Insanity, Apoplexy, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and all Nervous Diseases. This infallible remedy will positively eradicate every species of Nervous Derangement, and drive them away from whence they came, never to return again. It utterly destroys the germs of disease by neutralizing the hereditary taint or poison in the system, and thoroughly eradicates the disease and utterly destroys the cause.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Female Weakness, General Debility, Leucorrhoea or Whites, Painful Menstruation, Ulceration, of the Uterus, Internal Heat, Gravel, Inflammation of the Bladder, Irritability of the Bladder. For Wet-sticking at Night, there is no better remedy. During the change of life no Female should be without it. It quiets the Nervous System and gives rest, comfort and nature's sweet sleep.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Alcoholism, Drunkness and the habit of Opium Eating. These degrading habits are by far the worst evils that have ever befallen suffering humanity. Thousands die annually from these noxious drugs. The drunkard drinks liquor not because he likes it, but for the pleasure of drinking and treating his friends, little thinking that he is on the road to ruin. Like the Opium Eater, he first uses the drug in small quantities as a harmless antidote. The soothing influence of the drug takes strong hold upon its victim leading him on to his own destruction. The habits of Opium Eating and Liquor Drinking are precisely what eating is to aliment-iveness, as over-eating first inflames the stomach, which redoubles its craving until it paralyzes both the stomach and appetite. So every drink of liquor or dose of opium, instead of satisfying, only adds to its fierce fires, until it consumes the vital force and then itself. Like the gluttonous tape-worm, it cries "Give, give, give!" but never enough until it own rapacity devours itself. Samaritan Nervine gives instant relief in all such cases. It produces sleep, quiets the nerve, builds up the nervous system, and restores body and mind to a healthy condition.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Nervous Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Asthma, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Syphilis, diseases of the Kidneys and all diseases of the urinary organs. Nervous debility caused by the indiscretions of youth permanently cured by the use of this invaluable remedy. To you, young, middle-aged and old men, who are covering your sufferings as with a mantle by silence look up, you can be saved by timely efforts and make ornaments to society, and jewels in the crown of your Maker, if you will. Do not keep the secret longer, until it sa[illegible] your vitals, and destroys both body and soul. If you are thus afflicted, take Dr. Richmond's Samaritan Nervine. It will restore your shattered nerves, arrest premature decay, impart tone and energy to the whole system.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

is for sale by druggists everywhere or may be had direct from us. Those who wish to obtain further evidence of the curative properties of Samaritan Nervine will enclose a 3-cent postage stamp for a copy of our Illustrated Journal of Health, giving hundreds of testimonials of cure from persons who have used the medicine, and also their pictures photographed after their restoration to perfect health. Address

DR. S. A. RICHMOND & CO.,
World's Epileptic Institute,
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE

Prof. Harris' Radical Cure

Trade Mark

FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE!

[illegible]

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

[illegible]

From a Physician and Surgeon.

[illegible]

From a Druggist.

[illegible]

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.

[illegible]

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE

[illegible]

Primitive Railroading.

PETER COOPER'S FIRST ENGINE—A TRIP ON WOODEN RAILS FIFTY YEARS AGO—THE MAN WHO RAN THE FIRST LOCOMOTIVE.

June 9th, 1881, was the centennial anniversary of the birth of "Geordie" Stephenson the father of the railroad is being celebrated in elaborate style at Newcastle-on-Tyne. The fact that the real fathers of the American railroad system are still living in hale and honored old age, and that at this season the subject has a particular interest for Americans—for never was the work of railroad development more active than at present—has induced the New York World to print the recollections of Peter Cooper and Horatio Allen.

When Peter Cooper, now 86 years of age, was asked how he became connected with the early railroad interests of this country, and to what extent, he replied that in the year 1828 he purchased three thousand acres of land in the city of Baltimore and erected thereon Canton iron works. The legislature had granted a charter to a company to build a railroad for carrying passengers and merchandise. The capital stock of the company was $50,000. The route was from Baltimore through the Patapsco valley to Ellicott, Mills, a distance of thirteen miles. The construction of the road was very simple. There were several short turns which discouraged the projectors, who thought that no engine could be built to take these curves. They had determined to abandon the road when Peter Cooper told them that he believed he could overcome the difficulty. In his glue factory at New York he had an old stationary engine with a boiler about the size of a barrel, and a cylinder three and a half inches in diameter. The whole engine could easily be moved on a handbarrow. This engine he removed to Baltimore. He took it to a carriage-maker's, mounted it upon a truck, and connected it with the wheels by an ordinary crank. The day they made the trial trip there were thirty-six men on the car and six men on the engine, which carried its own fuel and water. The thirteen miles were made, up a grade eighteen feet to the mile, in one hour and twenty minutes and the return trip in fifty-seven minutes. This, said Mr. Cooper, was the first passenger engine built in America, and the first passenger train that was ever drawn by an engine on this continent. Mr. Cooper, said that he had no correspondence with Stephenson about building his engine. The engine was entirely of his own design, and four years afterward Mr. Gwynne, of Baltimore, who had previously compared the two engines, published the opinion that Cooper's engine was a greater success than Stephenson's. Mr. Cooper's connection with railroads ceased with the completion of the engine and its trial trip; but in a few years he built a railroad eight miles in length for the transportation of ore to his blast furnace at Philadelphia. He did not build the engine, however, and from that day he has no capital interest in railroads.

Horatio Allen, who was driver or engineer of the first locomotive in America, is still living in New Jersey. In conversation with the reporter, he laughed loudly as he recalled the warning of the prophets of those days concerning the absolute folly of attempting to propel a carriage by steam along two smooth rails. Mr. Allen went to Europe in 1827, for the Delaware and Hudson canal company, to report upon the prospect of steam locomotion in that country and the propriety of begining a similar work here. While there he superintended the construction of three locomotives, one of which was built by George Stephenson and one by Foster Rastrick & Co., of Stonebridge. The only railroads then in use were designed for horse-power, and the Delaware and Hudson canal company had such a road running from Honesdale to the terminus of their canal. Mr. Allen returned to America in 1829, bringing the three locomotives with him. He immediately went to Honesdale and determined to make the first trial trip with Messrs. Foster Rastrick's engine. This was called the "Stonebridge Lion," and looked like some prehistoric monster, with its boiler sixteen and one-half feet long, on four large oaken driving-wheels, tired with iron. The boiler was of then new multitubular model, and used the exhaust blast. The cylinders were upright at the back and each side of the furnace, with connecting rods to the crank pins in the wheels. The front of the boiler slightly convex and about four feet in diameter, was entirely covered with a painting of the head of the British Lion, and hence the name of the engine, "The Stonebridge Lion." Mr. Allen said that everybody was excited at the time, and both press and people predicted that the trial would prove a failure. The track was a "snake head"—that is, the rails were wooden strips capped with iron, fastened by spikes and when the spikes wore through the iron capping it would curl up at the ends, and frequently when struck by the wheels, it was forced up through the floor of the carriage. There was a very abrupt curve in the track where it ran on trestle work, twenty feet above the Lackawaxen creek, and the prophets agreed that if the weight of the locomotive did not break down the track before it reached the trestle work, it would then surely run off at the curve. The trial trip was made on August 28, 1829, and a great many people were present. Mr. Allen stepped up and told the fireman and stoker to get off. If the thing was to be a failure, the less the loss of life the better. "I got on the engine," said Mr. Allen, turned the lever, and slowly the animal began to move. Then I went a little faster, and faster. And, sir, I didn't break down the track; it didn't run off the curve, and with a cheer to the crowd I rushed on and was hidden in the woods. This was the first time I ever drove an engine and I have never one since. I said to a friend then that the event would be a pleasant recollection in the future, but it was not for twenty years after that I thought with pleasure, that I was the first man in America to take a locomotive ride. At the time of the experiment there was a little railroad four miles long, in use at Quincy, Mass., built for hauling stone from the quarries, and the Baltimore and Ohio had completed about sixteen miles of track to Ellicott Mills; but the carriages on both of these roads were hauled by horses.

It may interest the reader to know that there are completed and in operation to-day in the United States, nearly ninety thousand miles of railroads.

* * *

Mexican Veteran.

[San Antonio Express.]

There arrived in this city a few days ago an old Mexican veteran, eighty-seven years of age, who came all the way from Monterey, Mexico, on foot. His finances were very low, and he was granted the opportunity of resting a day or two at the county poor house. Yesterday he was in the city, and started out on the road again for Waco, where he has two sons living, whom he has not seen for many years.

The old man's name is Almoras, and in conversation with Mr. John Berrera, at the county clerk's office, it was learned that he had been a soldier with Santa Anna at the storming of the Alamo, and also at the memorable battle of San Jacinto, where the Mexican chieftain was captured. In this fight Almoras was wounded in the right shoulder, and also had three fingers shot off his right hand.

He says when Santa Anna invaded Texas he had with him forty thousand 'regular' Mexican troops, well drilled and equipped for fighting. The command divided into three divisions, the largest of which came straight to San Antonio, and engaged in the celebrated battle or massacre of the Alamo, where the brave Travis, Bowie and Crockett gave up their lives for Texan independence.

After the San Jacinto defeat, when Santa Anna was flying for his life and his command scattered to the four winds of heaven, a large detachment that was getting away from the Texans as fast as possible, was crossing a wooden bridge over a bayou, when it fell and all were killed. Our hero, Alamoras, was just about to step on the structure when it fell with a crash, carrying its load of human life to a speedy grave, and thus escaped from the same fate.

Almoras is a very hearty man, sound in mind and limb, and does not seem at all fatigued from his long and laborous tramp from Monterey here, and started out on his journey to Waco in the best of health and spirits.

* * *

The Earth's First Land.

If one wishes to see the oldest parts of the world, let him go to Trenton Falls, N. J., and, after visiting the excavation made by the natural action of a mountain torrent into the ancient rocks, go to the hotel and see the collection made by the landlord, at an expense of $10,000, of specimens which prove the record of geological age so remote that no imagination can grasp it. Professor Agassiz declared the land reaching from Trenton Falls to Saratoga was the first that appeared above the sea on the creation. Here are the trilobites in great variety, all modeled in black marble, so perfectly preserved in form that the multitudinous lenses on their eyes are as apparent under the microscope as are those of living flies. Millions of years before man walked the earth these creatures lived their life, the lime stone took on their forms, and here they are! What are scarabaei and ancient intaglio or any other engraved or modeled semblance of the old life, compared to the trilobites? These creatures not only lived, but had become everlasting stone millions of years before there was a living man to see them.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

P. V. HOFFMAN.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will practice in all the state courts, and in the United States courts. Office on west side of Main street over Ed. Eldridge's.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store. Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates, municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 ly

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor. John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES AMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office, at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence, North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

$1,000 Reward.

for any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DEBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 915 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. $1. Sold by Davenport, the druggist.

HOME TREATMENT.

A certain cure for Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, etc.

The Recipes used in my practice for 25 Years and an illustrated book of 60 pages giving full directions for self-treatment, sent free. Address DR. T. WILLIAMS, 435 E. Water St., Milwaukee, Wis.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE GREAT CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

As it is for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, LIVER AND BOWELS.

It cleanses the system of the acrid poison that causes the dreadful suffering which only the victims of Rheumatism can realize.

THOUSANDS OF CASES

of the worst forms of this terrible disease have been quickly relieved, in a short time

PERFECTLY CURED.

KIDNEY-WORT

has had wonderful success, and an immense sale in every part of the Country. In hundreds of cases it has cured where all else had failed. It is mild, but efficient, CERTAIN IN ITS ACTION, but harmless in all cases.

☞ It cleanses, Strengthens and gives New Life to all the important organs of the body. The natural action of the Kidneys is restored. The Liver is cleansed of all disease, and the Bowels move freely and healthfully. In this way the worst diseases are eradicated from the system.

As it has been proved by thousands that is the most effectual remedy for cleansing the system of all morbid secretions. It should be used in every household as a

KIDNEY-WORT

SPRING MEDICINE.

Always cures BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, PILES and all FEMALE Diseases.

Is put up in Dry Vegetable Form, in tin cans, one package of which makes 6 quarts medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated for the convenience of those who cannot readily prepare it. It acts with equal efficiency in either form. GET IT OF YOUR DRUGGIST. PRICE, $1.00

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Prop's, (Will send the dry post-paid.) BURLINGTON, VT.

KIDNEY-WORT

HOP BITTERS.

(A Medicine, not a Drink,)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION.

AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and especially Female Complaints.

$1000 IN GOLD.

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and try them before you sleep. Take no Other.

D. I. C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

All above sold by druggists.
Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y., & Toronto, Ont.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE !

J. C. BOYER,

Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc., etc.

My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and Large, and for the NEXT 30 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS, GLOVES, MITTENS, NOTIONS, ETC.

At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying for you can save money by buying of me.

☞ All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.

J. C. BOYER,
WATERLOO, IND.

OZONE

—THE—

KING FORTUNE MAKER

The Only Practical Preservative of Perishable Articles, both Animal and Vegetable, Preventing Decay or Putrefaction.

☞ Preserves Meats, Eggs, Fish, etc., indefinitely and with complete success.

EGGS can be purchased when cheapest, and preserved for any length of time, at a cost of One Mill per dozen, and other articles at same proportionate cost.

There is a Gold Mine in every County in this State for some live man.

TEST PACKAGES OF OZONE

Containing sufficient material to preserve from 500 to 1,000 dozen Eggs, sent to any address upon receipt of $2.00.

INDIANA DEPARTMENT
PRENTISS PRESERVING CO.
Address, JOSEPH BROWN,
La Fayette, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED
IN EVERY COUNTY,

Who should order a Test Package and secure County AT ONCE.

MUSIC MONEY
$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00
THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 5 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ideas.

2 CARD COLLECTORS. Send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including a photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO. 10-13w.

BOYS send a

New Meat Market

Opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers, he has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.

Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. 41f

W. L. BRAUN.

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

Manufacturers of the

Best and Lightest-Running Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on South Main street, Auburn, Ind. 21 tf

Being the only

EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE

In Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of

TAPESTRY,
BODY BRUSSELS,
AND WOOL CARPETS

At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS !

MODERWELL AND STUDOR,
Successors to
S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO.
FT. WAYNE, IND.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 133. 2-tf.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad
SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas, Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 1881.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am
Saginaw	6 30	7 58
Lansing	9 25	10 25
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 40	11 50am
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	5 22
Jackson Lv	7 15am	12 00 m	7 10
Hanover	7 50	12 35pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 13	9 28
Reading	8 42	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 55	1 43	10 25
Fremont	9 12	2 03	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 25
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 02	2 52	12 30am
Auburn	10 13	3 03	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 25	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 30
Indianapolis	5 25pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55		6 35
Louisville	10 15	7 25am	7 30
St. Louis		8 40
Washington		9 05pm
Baltimore		10 15

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am		8 10pm
Washington	10 20		9 27
St. Louis	6 40pm		7 50am
Louisville		8 00am
Cincinnati	9 00	7 35am	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 10am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 45pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 05	3 05
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 03	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 25
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 25pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07		10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 56
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 35	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	10 55
Bay City	9 20	11 55am

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays, not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C., east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 30 a. m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 20 p. m.; west—12 45, 8 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 35, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A., L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 8 35 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 8 52 a. m., 2 58 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 50, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m.; west 2 10 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:21 a. m. 2:18 p. m. west—11:06 am m., 7:34 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 30 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 6 15 a. m. 2.00 p. m.; at. 8 00, 7 15 p. m. P., Ft. W. & C. east, 5 00 a. m., 3 35, 5 10, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 30, 6 20, a. m., 12 40, 6 40, 5 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W., & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to
M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r, Agent

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect December 12, 1881.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 30am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	10 05am
6 47	11 30	Bluffton	4 10	8 53
7 47	12 28	Hartford	3 12	7 47
8 40	1 55pm	Muncie	2 17	6 50
9 25	6 25pm	Cincinnati	8 15p	4 55pm
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL General Ticket Ag't.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipment! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N Y Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 30am	5 20pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	3 48	11 30	5 20	12 10pm
Corunna	2 08		6 35
Sedan			7 05	3 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 20	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 25pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Ex.	Pac Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	6 30

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage.
J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. M. ch. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to
H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

—o—

CHICAGO DIVISION.

—o—

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 22, 1882.

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
CHICAGO lv	5 30pm	9 10am	8 45am
Walkerton Junction		12 06am	12 07pm
Milford Junction		1 24	1 25
Syracuse		1 36	1 36
Cromwell		1 52	1 55
Albion		2 12	2 20
Avilla		2 34	2 48
Garrett	10 35	2 55	3 30
Auburn Junction	10 42	3 04	3 40
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	4 24
Defiance	11 52	4 25	5 12
Deshler	12 48am	5 22	6 10
Fostoria	1 30	6 20	7 18
Tiffin	2 02	6 46	7 48
CHICAGO JUNCTION ar	3 00	9 10	9 00

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
CHICAGO JUNCTION lv	9 30pm	6 10pm	8 00am
Tiffin	10 25	7 48	9 10
Fostoria	10 51	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 42	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville		11 49	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 35
Avilla		12 38	1 52
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 10	2 45
Syracuse		1 26	3 02
Milford Junction		1 45	3 15
Walkerton Junction		3 06	4 20
CHICAGO ar	8 55	6 10	7 35

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec. 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv	9 10am	5 20pm	8 20pm	9 25p
Ft. Wayne	2 35pm	9 15	11 55	5 12a
Crestline	9 00	12 40am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield
Pittsburgh Ar	6 00am	6 57	1 40pm	6 30p
STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	pm	10 30p
Mansfield
Crestline Lv	7 15pm	2 00pm	8 40am	7 20a
Ft. Wayne	12 50am	5 55		1 00p
Chicago Ar	6 50	10 30	11 00	7 30p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:45 am.; Warsaw, 8:55 a. m., Columbia, 9:45 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:30 p.m.; Plymouth, 6.45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH ST. LOUIS AND PACIFIC RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest!

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON, agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager. H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent, St. Louis.

Records

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY INDIANA, APRIL 13, 1882. Number 15.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5,00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

P. V. HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will practice in all the state courts, and in the United States courts. Office on west side of Main street over Ed. Eldridge's.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Also represents first-class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Coel's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates, municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28-1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor,

J. B. CARBEKER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M.D.

[illegible] Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of each township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

Probate Cause No. 261.

William Shutt, executor of the will of Asa Fletcher, deceased, vs. William W. Cary et al—In the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, May term 1882.

To J. Willard Fletcher, Harriet E. Austin, Henry Washburn, the unknown heirs of Milo Washburn, Herman Wilman, Louisa Olney, the unknown heirs of Minerva Welman, Maria Washburn, whose name is unknown, and Hannah Washburn, whose name is unknown, impleaded with others:

You are severally hereby notified that the above named petitioner as executor of the will aforesaid, has filed in the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition, making you defendants thereto, and praying therein for an order and decree of said court authorizing the sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and pending, is set for hearing in said circuit court at the court-house in Auburn, Indiana, on the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court, the same being the 15th day of May, 1882.

Witness, The clerk and seal of said court, this 3d day of April, 1882.
14-3w. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

MUSIC MONEY

$35.00 FOR MONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month. Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide S

CARD COLLECTORS. BOYS send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

Spring Poetry.

From off the running rivulet the icy chain is thawed,
And the flutter of the winglet of the dovelet is abroad;
The quacklet of the ducklet in the brooklet we can hear,
And the rootlet of the piglet will presently appear.

The lilacs bloom beside the fence,
And fill the goat with joy intense.

Hear the ki yi of the cur, lilac cur,
With righteous indignation all his fur
Stands up as he doth settle
For a gallop with a shudder,
With a copper-bottomed kettle
Neatly fastened to his rudder.

All the boys around him mingle,
And they shout and think it proper
As they hear the merry jingle
Of the poodle and the copper.

And they shout, shout, shout,
For they know what they're about,
And of their utter happiness there's little room for doubt.

'Tis now the rug
Resigns the bug,
The latter seeks the ugly pug,
The maiden paints upon the mug,
The little boys all try the tug
Of war; the gardens now are dug;
And now the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of hug.

Oh, luminous spring! Oh epoch of beautific efflorescence, when the dog rakes himself with his southwest foot and looks like a banjo player in action; Oh ethereal Aphrodite in flower-polonaise, flounced, tucked, turned, gored, shirred, cut on the bias permit us to drop the curtain before we compromise you.

Essay on Spring.

[New York Graphic.]

Spring is the time for sowing. In the city, women sew shirts at forty-five cents per dozen. In the city, also, the wicked sow tares and reap tears. And everywhere in the spring time men sow the wind and reap the whirlwind. Spring is a season much sung about by poets. It is a season that moves people—especially about the first of May.

It is the season for raising things. The first thing generally raised in the spring is the rent. After that comes spring radishes and greens.

Insects also come in the spring. The mosquito consults his ledger and makes out his bills for the summer. Earwigs lay in a fresh supply of legs. Domestic and household insects resuscitate themselves and crawl and bite in their little beds. All nature stirs.

Spring also stirs up the theatrical combinations and the menageries. The trained beasts and animals of all sorts are prepared to take the road. The tramp dreams of fresh fields and pastures new, lone farm houses where he may find the woman unprotected making strawberry shortcake.

Spring comes every year. It brings new clothes to some and new fashions to all—if they can afford them. Usually it brings more clothes than people can afford to buy, and fashions than they can afford to follow. Yet spring brings with it the old clothes people have worn all last winter and possibly the winter previous. These can be turned and dyed and made over; we will not say into new clothes, but in the semblance of the new.

American Newspapers in 1882.

The American Newspaper Directory, which will be issued next month by George P. Rowell & Co., of New York, will contain the names of 10,611 periodicals in the United States and territories, which is a gain of 344 in the year just passed. The number of daily papers has increased in a somewhat larger proportion, and is now represented by a total of 996 against 921 in 1881. The largest increase has been in New York —10 dailies, 29 of all sorts. Illinois and Missouri show a percentage of increase, both of daily and weekly issues. California, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, and West Virginia have fallen behind 1881 in the total number of periodicals issued. In Georgia, Maine and Massachusetts the suspensions have exactly counterbalanced the new ventures. In every state not mentioned above, and in the territories, there has been an increase.

My Good Woman.

Why are you so out of sorts, never able to tell folks that you are well? Ten to one it is all caused in the first place by habitual constipation, which no doubt finally caused deranged kidneys and liver. The sure cure for constipation is the celebrated Kidney-Wort. It is also a specific remedy for all kidney and liver diseases. Thousands are cured by it every month. Try it at once.—[Toledo Blade.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doubtless ranks first as a curative agent in all diseases of the procreative system, degeneration of the Kidneys, irritation of the bladder, urinary calculi, &c., Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn Mass., for phamphlets.

Hon. B. S. Sutton.

OF SHELBY COUNTY, FOR CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT.

[Shelby Democrat.]

We take pleasure in announcing to the many readers of the Democrat that our fellow-citizen, B. S. Sutton, has concluded to submit his name to the democracy of the state as a candidate for the office of clerk of the supreme court, subject to the decision of the next democratic state convention. So well and favorably known is Mr. Sutton to the democracy of Shelby county that any commendation on our part of his worth and merit as a citizen, an ex-official and a democrat, as well as his thorough qualifications for the high position to which he aspires, would seemingly be a waste of words and space. To the democrats of many counties in the state he is also well and favorably known as a genial and pleasant gentleman, possessing all the required elements to make him a popular, successful and efficient candidate. While Mr. Sutton is not what is termed a popular orator yet he speaks with ease, grace and force, captivating his audience by his earnestness and honesty rather than through the force of his words. His main element of strength is the pleasant and agreeable manner in which he passes through a crowd, captivating as he goes, all with whom he comes in contact. In this particular he has but few equals. In a word we can say to the democracy of Indiana that Mr. Sutton is the right man in the right place as a candidate on our state ticket, and that his genial, social qualities will add a power of strength to any ticket on which he may be placed His high personal integrity with his known zeal and ability, always point the road to success. While he has many honorable competitors to whom we can give a warm and cheerful support if nominated, yet we are free to say that the nomination of Mr. Sutton will be greatly in the interest of democratic success, which is, and ought to be, the object of all political campaigns. We can say to the democratic press of the state that Mr. Sutton possesses in an eminent degree the Jeffersonian requisites for office—honesty, capacity and qualification, and when that is truthfully said, the full measure of praise is accorded to our friend.

The Showman's Trade.

A showman, after assuring a reporter that nothing pleases the people more than something full of peril and bloodshed, gives the following accident of his career: but we don't vouch for his truthfulness—that is, not quite:

'I ran a whole season on a lion that had eaten a keeper. The people came in crowds, expecting every day to see him make a breakfast on his trainer. Was he actually dangerous? Dangerous! He ate another trainer, and then I lost him. His widder was actually in love with her husband, and she swore the animal should be killed and the people sided with her; and the beast was gettin' old, and the killin' made a paying sensation, I did it. I insisted that the husband shood have a gorgeous funeral. She sed there was nothing to bury, as the lion had eaten her husband. But ain't the dear departed in the lion? if we bury the lion, don't we bury the dear departed?"Cert," she said. And we had it, and it was georgeous. We had a persession with all our wagons in it, the regular street parade, only all our riders had black scarfs on'em, and the wagons and horses and elephants and sich were draped in black, and the band played a dead march. The widder was in an open carriage in full mourning, with a white hankerchief with a black border to her eyes, lookin' on his minatoor, there wasn't no minatoor but she held the case just the same. That night the canvass coodent hold the people, and we run that two weeks to splendid biz. When the woman got over her grief, she went into the lion trainin' herself, as "Senorita Aguardeinte, the Lion Queen." I gave her some old lions to practice on, and in less than a month she could do jest as well as the old man. She was a good woman, too. She rid in the grand entree, and rid in the halt in the desert, did the bar'l act, rid a good pad act, and is now practisin' bareback. She juggles tollable, and does a society song and dance in a side-show. When I get talent, I pay it and keep it. My treasurer changes the names of my people every season, so as to have fresh attractions. Oh, I know my biz."

—Remember Weirick's new store at Fairfield Center when you want anything in his line or have produce to sell. Give him a call and price his goods. 14-tf.

Something Moving in His Bolster.

[San Francisco Post.]

The other morning about two o'clock the night clerk at the Palace was aroused from a sweet dream of a diamond as big as a cocoanut by loud calls from somewhere in the cloud capped upper regions of that tavern. After listening for fifteen or twenty minutes to be sure there was no mistake, he crawled leisurely over the counter, and gazing up into the dim altitude of the court, he beheld the white-robed figure of a guest who was gesticulating wildly over the sixth-floor balcony, and yelling:

"I say, down there; send somebody up here, will you? There is something moving in my bolster!"

Arming himself with the usual half gallon of insect powder and the distributor used in such cases, the clerk proceeded to the room, number 9,006, accompanied by several porters.

"Oh, it isn't bugs," said the boarder, who was skating along the hall carpet so as to keep his feet warm. "It was something large, kinder like a burglar with a bad cold or something. Hello! why, its gone!" he continued, as the gas was lit in his room.

They searched everywhere—under the bed, in the closets, and even up the chimney, but the bolster could not be found. Presently one of the porters looked out of the window. There, on the little balcony outside, stood the bolster on one end.

"It's a ghost," exclaimed the guest."

"No, it isn't," said the night clerk, pointing to a pair of huge brogans that protuded from the bottom of the bolster. "It's only one of those Chronicle reporters. He took you for a 'distinguished arrival,' and crawled into your bolster to jot down anything you might say in your sleep."

"Let's go for him," said the roomer, and they made a rush for the unfortunate journalist, and despite his frantic struggles to escape from his bag, they dropped him over the rail. As he struck the street, a couple of hundred feet below, two terrible shrieks arose.

"Thank heaven!" said the guest, as he peered down into the abyss, "we have also killed a San Francisco hackman!" (Chord by the orchestra.)

"Texas Siftings."

The stage robbers out west seem to have given up their attempt to ferret out the authorities,

"There will be no more parting there," said the man when he looked into the mirror after having his hair shingled.

A most disgraceful affair recently occured in Kansas. Two prominent politicans fought a duel and neither of them was hurt.

The Louisville authorities have resolved to put down gambling and rowdyism, even if they have to arrest every policeman on the force.

We are gratified to learn that professor Tice, the weather prophet, is 80 years of age. We will soon get some weather we can depend on.

Several Texans are in jail at Leadville. We have always observed that no matter where Texans may be, they move in the very best society the place has.

A Houston paper says that the people of that city "drink St. Louis beer with preference." They drink it with preference or any other fellow who pays for it.

Talmage says "men of talent and commanding intellect are never good dancers." This is the first time we have seen any public allusions to our awkardness in dancing.

The most truthful and unobtrusive man in the community, will, in one week after he becomes the owner of a setter dog, develop into a talented, gaudy and ostentatious liar.

A Kentucky editor says "we are not responsible for the article in our inside. It was contributed by a friend," etc. In Texas it is the bar-keeper who is responsible for what is in many of the editor's insides.

Given up by Doctors.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctor gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George. I know hopes are good. 14-2w.

—Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo, is selling a carload of choice early rose potatoes, just the thing for seed. Farmers should not fail to give him a call. 13-3t.

—Dry goods, groceries, notions, etc., always on hand at Weirick's store at Fairfield Center. 14-tf.

—Seed potatoes for sale by Ab. Kelly, Waterloo. 13-3t.

Suffering Women.

There is but a very small proportion of the women of this nation who do not suffer from some of the diseases for which Kidney-Wort is specific. When the bowels have become costive, headache torments, kidneys out of fix, or piles distress, take a package and its wonderful tonic and renovating power will cure you and give new life —[Watchman.

A young man is giving himself up to the agreeable occupation of ridiculing his uncle. "Confound it, what does the old guy dye his hair in that preposterous fashion for?" is his remark just as his venerable relative enters the room. "Sir," says his uncle, in a voice conveying the idea of codicils and alterations of wills, "if men of my age are compelled to dye, it is because men of your age, sir, have no respect for gray hairs!"

Hart, the publisher of the paper "Truth,"—the journal that first published the Morey letter—has been elected a member of the republican central committee of the Empire State. The republicans wanted to hang Hart less than a year ago; but then there's no accounting for changes in this world.

According to the directory of the forty-seventh congress, there are in that body 293 members:

One hundred and ninty-five lawyers.
Ninteen professional politicians.
Three railroad officers.
One capitalist.
One clergyman.
There are sixty-five members representing the employments of the country, as follows:
Seventeen merchants.
Eleven editors.
Eleven farmers.
Ten manufacturers.
Five physicians.
Two miners.
Two mechanics.
One metallurgist.

The useful employments are still worse represented in the senate, as the following shows. There are seventy-six members, whose professions are as follows:

Fifty-seven lawyers.
Five bank officers.
Three railroad officials.
Three professional politicians.
Of the useful professions there are eleven.
Three merchants.
Three manufacturers.
Two miners.
Two general business.
One farmer.
One editor.

State University.

We have received a number of copies of the Daily Sentinel, containing a very interesting and exhaustive article on the State University at Bloomington. These papers are intended for distribution, and may be had by calling at this office. Teachers, parents and others interested in this excellent institution should call and get a copy and read it It will prove interesting. 14-3w

FREE.—Every subscriber to this paper, who will send us the names and address of 10 or more farmers and a 3 cent stamp to pay postage, we will mail them a sample of our new mammoth corn—the finest and largest grain corn on earth—bearing 3 to 5 ears to the stalk and ripens in 60 days, with price list and terms to agents. Address, EAST TENN, SEED CO., Cleveland, Tenn. 2t.

Complimentary Notice.

Among the new advertisements in this issue will be found one from Messrs. Rathbone, Sard, & Co., manufactures of the celebrated "Acorn Stoves and Ranges." The distinct lead which "Acorn" stoves have taken in all the markets of the world is being emphasized each year by the fact that no live stove merchant who carefully studies the best interests considers his stock complete unless it embraces some numbers of these renowned goods. Every stove is fully warranted; and a special feature of the best grades of "Acorn" of their patent Asbestos lined oven doors for retaining the heat in the oven and economizing in fuel. The "Acorn Oil Stove," embracing many new features, has been added to the Acorn line for the season of 1882. For a fuller description of "Acorn" stoves, send for a sample copy of The Acron Times, puplished by Rathbone, Sard & Co., Detroit Mich. See their advertisements in another column.3t

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

THE BALL OPENED

In our great

CARPET DEPARTMENT

ROOT & COMPANY

Have now opened up, and are displaying their entire spring purchase of

CARPETINGS,
CURTAIN GOODS, AND
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS,

Comprising large and choice assortments of

AXMINSTER CARPETS,
BODY BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRY CARPETS,
Extra SUPER INGRAINS,

SUPER ALL WOOL CARPETS,
DOUBLE COTTON CHAINS,
IRISH BRUSSELS,
FINE RAG CARPETS,
HEMP CARPETS,

COTTAGE CARPETS,
OFFICE CARPETS,
TURKISH RUGS,
SMYRNA RUGS,
COCOA AND
CHINA MATTINGS,

LACE CURTAINS,
NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS,
ANTIQUE CURTAINS,
SILK TAPESTRIES,
HOLLANDS, SHADES,

FIXTURES,
CRETONNES,
STAIR RODS,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
POLES, ETC., ETC.

HOUSEKEEPERS

About refurnishing their homes, are cordially invited to examine our stock of above goods before purchasing, as we are prepared to convince them that

OUR PRICES: Are Low.
STYLES: The Choicest.
QUALITY: The Best

Offered in this section of the State

ROOT AND COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.

FT. WAYNE.........INDIANA.

MY PORTION.

CARLOTTA PERRY.

Very little of gold have I,
Wealth and station have passed me by,
But something sweet in my life I hold
That I would not change for place or gold.
Beneath my feet the green earth lies,
Above my head are the tender skies.
I live between two heavens; my eyes
Look out to where, serene and sweet,
At the world's far rim the two heavens meet.

I hear the whisperings of the breeze,
The sweet, small tumults amid the trees;
And many a message comes to me
On the wing of bird, in the hum of bee,
From the mountain peak and the surging sea.
E'en silence speaks with voice so clear,
I lean my very heart to hear,
And all above me and all around
Light and darkness and sight and sound
To soul and sense such meanings bring,
I thrill with a rapturous wondering.

And I know by many a subtle sign
That the very best of life is mine,
And yet, as I spell each message o'er,
I long and long for a deeper lore;
I long to see and I long to hear
With a clearer vision and a truer ear;
And I pray with keenest of all desire
For lips that are touched by the altar fire.

Patience, oh, Soul! from a little field
There cometh often a gracious yield;
Who toucheth this garment's hem is healed.

THE HAUNTED WELL.

I am an old farmer, living in the oldest house in Oldtown. The trees about the place are the trees of the primeval forest. I have plenty of farming land, beyond their delightful shade, and the only thing new upon the place is my well. We have an ancient well with the old-fashioned sweep, but no one ever tastes the water there, though it is as cold and as clear as crystal.

I suppose the place is worth a great deal. It was valued at fifteen hundred pounds when I bought it years ago. The house is a handsome mansion; the sort of a place a gentleman retiring from business usually buys to end his days in, and city people come to see it and the grounds, and seem to be delighted. Now, when I tell you that I came into Oldtown with exactly one hundred and twenty pounds in my pocket, and that I had no idea what I should do when that was spent, you will feel surprised that, six months after, I owned this place. But I will tell you all about it. It was what folks called a haunted place, and for ten years it had stood vacant. People tried to live there, but were always frightened away. If it had only been the house, that could have been torn down but nobody would even farm the land on shares.

Twelve years before this, the proprietor had been a jealous old man, who had a young wife whom he could never permit out of his sight, if he could avoid it.

However, she was as sly as he was watchful, and she managed to flirt sufficiently to make herself talked about.

Being very pretty, she set one or two silly young fellows wild about her, and one used to follow her around, making great eyes and sighing desperately like a lover in a play.

The postmistress said that he wrote to her, and I suppose he did. And at last the news spread through the place that she had run away with him.

He was gone, and she was gone; and the old man came one morning to Lawyer Tantivy, and sold his property at a great loss to a man who had wanted it for years—a rich man, who liked to have it said that he owned the finest place in Oldtown.

It was plain that the poor old man did not care what became of him, and when he got the money he wandered away and was never seen again.

The new proprietor moved up to the great house in state, but at dawn the whole family—servants and all—returned to their old quarters.

What they had seen, or what they had not seen, it was hard to tell, but they were nearly frightened to death. The doctor was sent for the ladies, and they spoke of the most awful apparitions.

After this the head of the family and the constable spent a day and night there. They held their tongues, but those who saw them first knew that they had been well frightened, and the man put the place into the market at once.

Lawyer Tantivy privately told people that only a coward would have been frightened by rats in an old wall, and he sold it to a city man. Much the same thing happened; but this time the house was not sold again. The city man went elsewhere, and tried in vain to get rid of his bargain. It was let for the summer once, but the people did not stay a week. After a while nobody would farm the ground.

Some said they saw a woman with her throat cut. Some that they saw a man with a wound in his breast. Some both. Voices were heard; hands were felt: and there, when I came to the place, the old house stood, with moths and spiders for its only tenants.

I went up and looked at it, and then I talked to Jane. She had not a bit of superstition in her, and she agreed to what I proposed.

I went to old Tantivy and offered him twenty-five pounds a year for a four years' lease of the place, the hundred pounds to be paid in a lump.

"After that," said I, "I'll give you four hundred for the property. Wife and I are not afraid of ghosts."

The old lawyer shook his head.

"You say you've met with losses, friend," said he, "and have just one hundred and twenty pounds left? Keep it. You couldn't live in that house one week. I've tried it. I'd make a bargain with a rich man, but I'm not rascal enough to take a poor man's all."

"I'll risk it," said I. "I do it freely, but the papers must be made out fair and square—four hundred after my four years' lease."

And so I had my way. Jane and I went up to the house one day. I had nineteen pounds in my pocket and a wheelbarrow full of groceries. She carried a broom and a new scrubbing-brush. It was a wonderful, grand, dirty old place. We set to work to clean it—to drive out the insects and the rats; and we got some fresh straw to sleep on, for the beds were all mouldering away. That night at nine we lay down, with a lamp burning, and went to sleep like two tops; and I think it must have been twelve o'clock or nigh it, when Jane shook me violently. I started up, and, holding each other's hands, we both saw what had frightened her.

A man stood near the bed, a young man, with fair hair curling about his temples; his breast was bare, and we saw a great bleeding wound there. I had my pistol under my pillow, and I drew it out and looked at him.

"Go, or I fire," I said; "I'm not a fool to be tricked in this way."

Instead of obeying he slowly moved toward the bed. Jane shrieked and drew the counterpane over her head. I covered him with my pistol.

"One step more and I fire," said I.

He took the step. I fired. A shriek o' laughter followed, and there was no one there. I arose and searched the place. Every window was barred, every door locked. I unlocked one of doors, and entered the adjoining room. A great bed, with tester, and canopy, stood there, and upon it lay the figure of a woman, all in white, covered with blood. I rushed toward it, lamp in hand. Again those hollow shrieks of laughter, and nothing but the stained and yellow ticking of an old feather-bed lay under the canopy.

"Silas! Silas!" screamed my wife, who had followed me clinging to my arm. "It is all true. Let us leave the place."

"Jane," said I, "it seems to be true that this place is haunted, but we have risked our all on it. The things we have seen have not hurt us, and I propose to drive them away. I'll take you to the village, if you like, and leave you there to board, but here I stay until I beat these ghosts."

If you believe me, friend, day and night for three weeks we were haunted as people never were before—faces, voices, hands—in the house and in the field; and worse than all, we grew sick.

I sent for the doctor, who wouldn't come; and we went to him.

"You are poisoned," he said. "What have you eaten, or what have you been drinking?"

We thought it over, and I told him that we knew of nothing harmful, and that we cooked and prepared our own food.

"I never knew anyone to pass a day at the confounded house you live in without being affected in this way," said he; "even those who did not eat there. Constable Collins says he touched nothing but cold water, and he came near dying."

"It is the well, then," said I.

"They used to call it the best well in the country," said the doctor.

"It has a nasty taste now," said I; "I'll beg of my neighbors until I've cleaned it out."

And that day I began. We got better slowly, and I tried to hire two farm hands to help me with my well. Not one would be hired. I was weak from sickness, and, to tell the truth, it seemed as if the old boy himself was in the place. I was almost tired of living as I did, and feeling like a maniac; and one day I went down to the well, and sat there, wondering whether it might not be best to give up and go somewhere as farm-laborer, when I felt what seemed to be an icy hand on my head, and, looking up, saw my two ghosts, side by side. They were horrid enough, I can tell you, and they looked at me and pointed into the well; and then I heard two voices crying:

"Get us out! Get us out and bury us! The water is cold and our wounds are deep. Get us out!"

And then the truth came to me, Heaven knows how.

I went over to my neighbor's house, just able to crawl there, and I said to him:

"Mr. Jarvis, will you send one of your men to the people they ought to go to, and have the police sent up to my place? There's something in my well that ought not to be there."

Well, they came, and I was right. They took out of that well two bodies, rolled up in sheet lead. By bits of jewelry, and things of that sort, they found out that they were the bodies of the young wife of the old proprietor and the young man who used to run after her. The old man had killed them both, but he must have had help to bury them in their leaden coffins. And now people began to remember how two roofers, who had a good deal of this sheet led on hand, grew suddenly well off, and went from the place about the time the old man sold the estate, and they believed that he had paid them for helping him dispose of the bodies.

They buried them in the graveyard, and Jane and I never saw the ghosts again. The farm-land and summer-boarders brought me the price I had agreed upon for the place, and I've been a prosperous man ever since. And if you want anyone to tell you a good genuine ghost story, come to me.

Farm and Workshop Notes.

If the owner of a cow will realize that unless she pays him $50 yearly in clean cash she is kept at a loss he will soon become interested in the improvement of stock.

Horse-radish is a profitable crop to grow, as it finds sale at from five to six cents per pound unprepared. It is bought readily by manufacturers of the prepared article.

In Algeria is a school for the training shepherds. They are instructed in all that affects the breeding and rearing of sheep, including diseases and their treatment.

During the past year, from seven high grade cows and one Jersey, for three months, J. G. Embree, of West Bradford, Pa., sold butter and cheese to the value of $855 13.

Bluegrass is somewhat delicate when very young, but after it gets a good hold it usurps the soil, cleaning out all other grasses. It should not be pastured the first season.

Professor Riley thinks that immunity from the ravages of the Hessian fly may be expected for several years, as the heat and drought of last summer killed large numbers of them.

It has been ascertained that were eggs are sold by the pound that they are vary in weight from one to four ounces. The average weight of a dozen eggs is twenty-three and a half ounces.

One of the latest theories advanced is that apples are more nutritious than potatoes, and in Cornwall, England, workmen say they can work better on the fruit than on the vegetable.

During the week ending February 4 there were shipped from American and Canadian ports to England 601 live cattle, 900 sheep, 9,000 dressed quarters of beef and 2,155 carcasses of mutton.

It is proposed to prevent forest fires by regularly burning out the underbrush, etc., every autumn, while it is still so small that its burning can easily regulated, and will not endanger the grown trees.

With a population of but 25,000,000 England annually consumes 500,000,000 pounds of cheese, while the United States, with a population of 50,000,000, consumes but 275,000,000 pounds of cheese annually.

C. S. Paine, East Bethel, Vt., with a herd of eight well selected cows of common stock, made during the twelve months, ending December 1, 1881, 2,000 pounds of butter, an average of 250 pounds per cow. The average for the State is thought to be not far from 125 pounds per cow.

A celebrated French breeder, who for many years held first rank in the art of fattening sheep, when urged to divulge his secret, replied: "My secret? I have none; it is only a question of fare. Induce animals to eat abundantly of large, choice variety of well prepared food; that is all there is to it."

If you begin pruning fruit and ornamental trees and shrubbery while young, and follow it up each year, you can form just such a top as you want. If your tree needs spreading out, cut the young shoots off just above a bud on the outside of a shoot; and if you want to train upward, leave a bud on the upper side of the limb where you cut it off.

The London Live Stock Journal gives two methods of starting a balky horse: "(1) Tire your steed out by remaining perfectly quiet until he starts of his own accord. (2) When a horse refuses to draw at all, put him in a cart in a shed and keep him there until he walks out. In one instance the obstinate one was thirty-six hours in the shafts before he gave in."

The "Colorado bug," or potato beetle, is now so nearly extinct in the State where it originated that Mr. William Saunders, President of the Entomological Society of Ontario, and editor of the Canadian Entomologist, who traveled extensively in Colorado in the height of bug season last summer was unable, after diligent search in the potato fields, to find even a trace of the ten-lined pest.

The Asiatic breeds, such as the Brahmas and Cochins, if overfed with rich grain and succulent roots, will soon become too fat to be serviceable as layers. Fowls need to be well fed in cold weather, but great care must be exercised with the breeding stock in particular; if they become too fat their eggs are often infertile. Allow plenty of chopped green vegetables, such as onions, cabbages and turnips.

It is not best to breed from turkeys the first year. Persons commencing with a pair of young birds can not well avoid this, but if you are going to make a purchase do not take birds less than two years old. Some breeds attain maturity at two years, but bronze turkeys not until they are three years old. If possible select those for breeders that are not only two years of age, but that have been bred from well matured birds.

Farmers are often at a loss how to clean an old pork barrel, making it fresh and sweet. We have seen the following plan recommended: It is simply to fill the tainted cask or barrel with fresh earth; let it stand a couple of days, when this should be emptied and more earth put in. After two or three days empty this out, and to make assurance doubly sure, invert the barrel and burn under it some bits of cloth saturated with solutions of sulphur or brimstone.

The Mistake of a Night.

Chicago Inter-Ocean.

It is related of an absent-minded young lady that having been duly married, she started off on her bridal tour. The party stopped at a western city. So far so good. Some time in the night there came a succession of terrified shrieks from the room occupied by the bride and groom, and the clerks, porters and employes generally rushed up stairs, only to meet a frantic female figure, clad in white, fleeing in desperate haste from her apartment, crying: "Oh, there's a man in my room!"

The clerk rushed in and found the groom half disrobed standing in the middle of the floor, one boot on and the other in his hand, the picture of amazement. He explained that he had just come up stairs, and was in the act of undressing (his wife had previously retired) when she suddenly awoke with a shriek and fled.

"What was the matter?" asked the clerk.

"Damfino," said the husband.

Just then the bride, enveloped in a huge bedspread, procured for her by a chamber-maid, came back, looking very red and foolish, and in a half a minute she explained the mystery by saying:

"Oh, Fred, I forgot I was married, and when I awoke I was so frightened."

A Texas Product.

Texas Siftings.

To the traveler in Texas one of the strongest and most peculiar features of the landscape is the razor back hog. He is of the Swiss cottage style of architecture. His physical culture is angular to a degree unknown outside of a text book on the science of Geometry. His ears—or the few rags and tatters of them that the dogs have left—are curled back with a knowing, vagabondish air. His tail has no curl in it, but it hangs aft, limp as a dish-rag hung out of the back window to dry. The highest peak of his corrugated back is six inches above the level of the root of his tail. He does not walk with the slow and stately tread of the patrician Berkshire, but usually goes in a lively trot. He never gets fat, and from the day of his birth sometimes two years roll into eternity before he is big enough to kill. Crossing the razor back with blue-blooded stock makes but little improvement. The only effective way to improve him is to cross him with a railroad train. He then becomes an imported Berkshire or Poland China hog, and if he does not knock the train off the track the railroad company pays for him at the rate of $1 a pound; for which they are allowed the mournful privilege of shoveling the remains off the track. The ham of a country razor back is more juicy than the hind leg of an iron fire dog, but not quite so fat as a pine knot.

Lace frills are used inside of poke bonnets.

IN THE JAWS OF DEATH.

One of the Boldest Exploits of the War Recalled by Applications for Pensions.

New York Times.

The complete investigation of almost every one of the thousands of cases which come before the house committee on invalid pensions would reveal an affecting story of suffering and poverty, but in most cases the facts which would most strongly appeal for sympathy or attract attention find no place in the presentation of the legal points involved. Occasionally, however, the committee's examination brings to light pieces of history which give peculiar interest to an application. The bill granting a pension to "William W. Brown and others," recalls one of the most daring adventures of the civil war. In April, 1862, General Mitchell had advanced his forces as far south as Shelbyville, Tennessee. In the west the battle of Shiloh had just been fought, and in the east McClellan was threatening to advance upon Richmond. General Mitchell saw the vital importance of seizing and holding Chattanooga as a strategic point on the great railroad line between the east and the west, connecting the main armies of the confederacy. With Chattanooga he would gain East Tennessee. If he could burn the wooden bridges on the line between Chattanooga and Atlanta, he could prevent the advance of troops from the south while he moved down on Chattanooga with his army. He selected twenty-one men, commanded by J. J. Andrews, to undertake the desperate enterprise of penetrating nearly 200 miles south into the heart of the enemy's territory, with the intention of burning the bridges. "In the daring of its conception," said Judge Advocate General Joseph Holt, "it had the wildness of romance, while in the overwhelming results which it sought to accomplish, it was absolutely sublime." Dressed in citizen's clothes, and representing themselves to be secessionists, the soldiers of this forlorn hope set out on foot through the enemy's country by twos and threes, and after many adventures assembled at Marietta, a point on the railway north of Atlanta. They decided to take passage on some north-bound train, to overpower the guard, seize the engine, and drive on with all speed, burning bridges and tearing up the rails, leaving flames and destruction behind them. They would go through Chattanooga, and meet Mitchell as he advanced along the road north. The adventurous travelers bought tickets for different points, and on the morning of April 12 seated themselves in the same car. When a station called Big Shanty was reached the train stopped twenty minutes for breakfast. The passengers and trainmen poured into the eating-room, leaving the engine without a guard. The adventurers walked forward, and when a signal was given the passenger cars were uncoupled and, as two of the party started the engine, the remainder leaped into one of the three open cars which were still attached to it. If they had captured the the train one day earlier they might have been successful, but it was too late. The advance of Mitchell had so frightened the rebels that they had sent all the rolling stock from Chattanooga southward. As the adventurers proceeded they met many of these unscheduled trains and were greatly delayed in passing them. Andrews represented himself as a confederate officer who had impressed the train in order to carry powder through to Beauregard at Corinth, and excited no suspicion. But while he was losing time in passing the unexpected trains, the conductor who had been left in the Big Shanty eating house was not idle. Having no engine he began his pursuit on foot. He was soon lucky enough to reach a handcar, and not long after he got possession of a good locomotive which by rare good fortune had come down the road in the nick of time on a private track which extended to an iron factory. The raiders were then hotly pursued. For nearly 100 miles the desperate chase continued, until at last the captured locomotive, exhausted and shattered, was abandoned, and the captors fled to the woods. After much suffering these brave men were caught. They were denounced as spies and were dragged through the streets of Chattanooga, chained to each other by the neck. For nearly three weeks these twenty-one men were confined in a dungeon thirteen feet square, with scanty food, and without access to any other place. The horrors of this confinement were almost beyond description. For hours after their release from this dark and noisesome hole they were blinded by the light of day. Andrews, the leader, was hanged as a spy in Chatanooga. His companions were taken to Atlanta, where seven of them were tried, convicted and hanged as spies. One was given one hundred lashes. For six months some of the survivors, and for eleven months others, were constantly expecting death. Their sufferings and the indignities inflicted upon them are said to have been incredibly terrible. Nearly all of the survivors have received small pensions, either for wounds inflicted in the latter part of the war, or for disability caused by their imprisonment. Three have applied and not received pensions, and one has not applied. The prisoners were defended in the confederacy, by Judges Baxter and Temple, who assert that they clearly showed that the expedition was a military one, under General Mitchell's command, and that the men were not spies. It appears that the Confederate government did not regard them as spies, for the trial of the survivors was stopped after the execution of Andrews and his seven companions. The committee holds that they suffered an outrage in their treatment which justifies their appeal for consideration. One of them has had his pension increased to twenty dollars per month by special act. The committee recommends that all of the survivors of this daring expedition be allowed a pension of that amount.

A Queer Story.

Lucy Hooper's New York Letter to the St. Republican.

You know that I never write scandal and seldom repeat any of the stories that go the rounds of the city for many reasons, the first of them being a wholesome dread of libel suits, and the rest of them born from the generous impulses of my nature. Ahem! But there has been a little story going the rounds recently that bids fair to become a very big story soon, and yet it has the merit, if it is one, of being irresistibly funny. A lady and her husband, who have been married many years, live in an elegant home on Fifth avenue, but as there are no children they never keep but one servant, who is maid of all work and cook into the bargin. The present girl is an admirable cook, and an excellent servant altogether, such as is rarely found anywhere, and she is undeniably pretty. The lady had preferred a plainer face but at any rate, she kept her, as she was so valuable a servant, though the frequent praise her husband lavished on their household treasure vexed her inwardly, and the green-eyed monster began to ravage her heart. She did not like to send the girl away on suspicion, but she kept up a very close watch, for she felt almost sure she had heard stealthy steps upon the stairs leading to the girl's room two or three times when her husband was supposed to be at the "lodge."

One night her husband said incidentally that he had business which would keep him out very late, and told his wife she need not sit up for him. She at once saw a mouse, and determined on her course. As soon as the supper was over and the husband was gone, the lady went down stairs, and with her own hands put up a nice basket of dainties and gave them to the servant telling her to take it home to her mother, and that she had permission to stay all night. The girl was not anxious to go; in reality she preferred to remain where she was, but she found it was obligatory, and she went, though plainly unwilling.

The mistress waited a while to be sure the girl was gone, and then went up stairs to the servant's room and waited in the dark to satisfy herself. Sure enough, in about an hour she heard stealthy steps on the stairs, and directly some one came into the room and called the name of the girl. The angry wife at once lit the gas and turned it on full, and turned to upbraid her husband, but, lo! it was not her husband at all, but the owner of the house next door! They stood and looked at each without speaking, too astonished for words. At that very instant the lady's husband burst in and confronted them both, and then there was a general row. The husband had seen this neighbor leaving his house one night, and of course his suspicions were aroused, and he determined to watch. He saw his neighbor come in, and he followed him. He won't believe his wife's explanation, and the servant declares that it is all gotten up to injure an innocent, poor girl, and so the matter stands. The poor wife has gone home to her parents, and friends are trying to settle the difficulty, but the husband declares he will sue for a divorce. I don't know what moral could be deduced from such an awkward story, unless it is for neighbors not to take too much stock in other people's servant girls, for nobody except the jealous husband for one moment considers the wife to blame. She is, and always has been, thoroughly estimable.

Money Orders.

Chicago Journal.

Yesterday the American Express company put in operation its new money order system, designed particularly for the transmission of small amounts of money. Heretofore the express companies have sent money in packages at a minimum charge of fifteen cents for sums $20 and under. Under the system just inaugurated the charges are five cents for amounts of $5 and under, down to $1 (this being the limit), and eight cents for sums more than $5 and not exceeding $10. From this it is seen that the highest rate is two cents less than the post-office tolls for sums of $10 and less. The company limits the time during which payments will be made on presentation of order to three months from the date of its issue, but ample provision is made for the recovery of the money in case this requirement is not complied with. In event of the loss of the money order the company makes provision of the refunding of money. The company does not propose to pay orders at all of its 4,000 offices in the United States, but will issue orders from all. Orders will be paid at only 427 offices, and these are distributed in 19 different States, as follows: Maine, 16 paying offices; New Hampshire, 27; Vermont, 31, Massachusetts, 25; New York, 75; New Jersey, 3; Pennsylvania, 5; Ohio, 8; Indiana, 28; Illinois, 65; Minnesota, 16; Iowa, 45; Missouri, 14; Kansas, 1; Nebraska, 3; Dakota, 4. The agents of the company are now all supplied with money orders bound in small sized books, each contaning five, fifteen, twenty-five or thirty orders. Each order can be issued for the maximum amount, $10, or for five cent fractional amounts down to $1, by the use of an ingenious form of coupon attached to each order. Orders are issued payable on presentation, or only according to advice of the remitter, or to the order of a certain person in the election of the remitter. When the money is sent payable per advice of the remitter, advice cards for mailing with the order are furnished the remitter without additional charge. The company will, in order to accommodate parties frequently sending small sums of money to a distant places, sell books directly to them so that orders may be filled out by them at any time and transmitted without visiting the company's office. Should the system work satisfactorily, it is quite probable that the books will be issued for larger separate orders than $10.

A Funeral Procession in Boats.

Report of Mississippi Flood.

Little Lulu Stone died at New Madrid a few days ago. The streets of the town were submerged, but as the cemetry on a knoll was high and dry, it was decided to bury the child there. It was impossible to use carriages, and therefore the friends of the family came to the house of mourning in boats. The funeral procession is described as the saddest sight ever witnessed in the town. The first skiff contained the casket, with Senator Morrisson, the grandfather, and an oarsman; in the second boat was the stricken mother and her children, with a stout oarsman, and then came a long line of boats loaded with friends and relatives. The procession moved slowly down Main street to Water street, and thence to the knoll, where the little one was left.

Satin ribbons are losing favor.

JOCOSITIES.

Why is a certain kind of window called a bay window? Because people go there when they look out to see.

Columbus made the egg stand, but we shall never know who the great discoverer was who first made the egg nogg.

"Oh, for a better half!" said the sorrowing widower when he found a counterfeit fifty cent piece among his change.

There are plenty of women who paint and powder." "Yes, but they don't wear corsets." "No; they use something else, in getting tight."

"My daughter," exclaimed a fashionable mother. "is innocence itself. You can't say anything in her presence that will make her blush."

Great truths are often said in the fewest words. For instance, when the Indian sat down on the wasps' nest he remarked: "Heap hell!!"

And here is a Boston Sunday school boy who, when asked to stand up and "say his verse," did it thus: "Be not overcome of evil, but come it over evil with good."

The New York boy who read his verse the other day: "Keep thy tongue from evil and thy lips from girls," had no authority, perhaps, for his revised version, but the teaching was sound.

A German who had been a Lutheran, and had been sprinkled in his infancy, was asked, when he wished to join a Baptist Church, if he had not been baptized. His answer was: "Vell, now, shust a leedle."

An old couple were walking down the street the other day reading signs, when they ran across one which the old man read thus: "Johnson's Shirt Store." "Well, I declare!" exclaimed the old lady, "I wonder how he tore it!"

There is a story of Solomon not contained in the "Book of Kings." Two of his court damsels had a row as to precedence. Solomon looked kindly and said, "Let the oldest go first," and the damsels embraced, and went in together with entwined arms.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said a blundering counsel in a suit about a lot of hogs, "there were just thirty-six in the drove. Please remember the fact—thirty-six hogs; just three times as many as in that jury box, gentlemen." That counsel didn't gain his suit.

A Methodist clergyman, who had been assigned to a congregation that began to criticise his preaching, said that they only ridiculed themselves. "Because, beloved friends, if I could preach well do you think I would have been sent out here to minister to a lot of lunkheaded ignoramuses like you?"

A Buffalo paper tells of a lover who began to propose to the girl just as his horse started to run with the sleigh. Being determined to have it over with, he got the question out at the moment the sleigh struck a mile post. The girl was thrown high into the air, but as she came down she uttered a firm "Yes, Charlie," and then fainted.

Old Mr. Hazlett, of Oregon, thought he was going to die, and in order that his heirs should have nothing to quarrel over he burned $22,000 in greenbacks. He didn't die after all, and now when his heirs see him sawing wood to earn his bread, they naturally feel that they are ahead of him.

Deer in the Louisiana Swamps.

From the Naches (Miss.) Democrat.

Few persons, we imagine, had any idea of the number of deer still left in the swamps of Louisiana until they were driven from their fastness by the high water of the present season. In the immediate vicinity of Naches there have been hundreds, and we may probably be speaking within bonds when we say thousands, of these beautiful animals, which have crossed the river within the space of a few miles above and below this city. Worn and exhausted as they have been after their long swim across the swollen river, they would have fallen an easy prey to the pot-hunters, who only hunt for profit, had it not been for the extraordinary exertions of the true sportsmen of the county and humane people, who despise wanton cruelty. On Sunday last several gentlemen, in their Sunday rambles, found a number of deer that had fallen into a ravine from which they found impossible to get out. With true humanity, they went to work and dug a pathway by which the little animals could find their way out of the ravine, helped them to mount to the top of the bank, and sent them on their way rejoicing to the green woods of the the country. Instances of the same kind of humane feeling have been, we are glad to say, the rule with the people of this vicinity, while the disposition to capture and kill the deer have been the exception.

A Gipsy Queen in a Divorce Suit.

Dayton Democrat.

A petition for divorce, which promises rather sensational developments, was filed in the Court of Common Pleas to-day, in behalf of Levi Leffman. The plaintiff in his petition, alleges that his wife, Matilda Leffman, nee Matilda Stanley, is the daughter of "Sugar" Stanley, the Gipsy king, well known in most of the Western States bordering on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. He avers that he was legally married to her in Bolivar County, Mississippi, in January 1881, and that he came to Dayton, Ohio, later in the same year, with her tribe, and on the 23d of September she was given in marriage to one William Jeffrey, with whom she has been living since.

The Hotel Clerk.

Texas Siftings.

The hotel clerk is a young man who was originally created to fill an emperor's throne or adorn a dukedom, but when he grew up, there being fewer thrones and doms that there were emperors and dukes, he was temporarily forced to take a position behind a hotel register. His chief characteristics are dignity of bearing, radiant gorgeousness of apparel, haughtiness of manner and jewelry. His principle duties consist in hammering on the call bell, in handing guests the worng keys to their rooms, and in keeping a supply of toothpicks on the end of the desk.

Presbyterian blue is the very deepest and latest shade of that color.

FROM THE WIRES.

Natchez, Miss., dispatch:

Information has reached this city of the destruction of the Ralson gin, near Lake St. John, in Tensas Parish, La., by which 120 refugees lost their lives This gin was one of the largest in Northern Louisiana, and was packed to overflowing with negroes from adjoining plantations.

From a Memphis dispatch:

The Cincinnati and New Orleans packet Golden City, en route from New Orleans to Cincinnati burned at the wharf the 30th, at 4:30 o'clock. Between thirty and fifty lives were lost, principally women and children.

10 a. m.—The steamer, Golden City, of the Southern Transportation Company's line, when approaching the wharf at half past 4 o'clock, was discovered on fire by the Second Engineer, Robert Kelly, who immediately notified Brice Purcell, Sr., the pilot on watch. The boat's bow was at once headed for shore, and in four minutes afterwards she touched the wharf at the foot of Beale street, where the coal fleet is moored. A line was hastily thrown and made fast to one of the coal barges. The current being swift it soon parted, and the burning steamer floated on down the river, a mass of flames, with many of her passengers and crew aboard, who were unable to reach the shore, and were lost.

The Golden City left New Orleans last Saturday en route to Cincinnati. She carried a crew of about sixty. She had aboard forty cabin passengers, fifteen of whom were ladies, and nine children. Her cargo consisted of 300 tons, among which was a lot of jute. The fire is said to have its origin in this combustible material.

LOST PASSENGERS.

Among those known to have been lost are:

Dr. Monahan and wife, of Jackson, Ohio.

Mrs. Crary, of Cincinnati.

Miss Luella Crary, of Cincinnati.

W. H. Stowe, wife and two children.

Ollie Wood and wife, of Henderson, Kentucky.

Mrs. Anna Smith, of Massachusetts.

Miss Campbell.

Mrs. Helen Percival.

Mrs. L. E. Kouns and three children.

The books of the steamer were lost, so it is impossible to gather a complete list of the lost and saved.

All the officers of the steamer are safe, except the second engineer, Robert Kelly. He it was who first discovered the fire and gave the alarm, and remained at his post of duty until cut off by the flames, for the fire spread like lightning, and he sacrificed his life to save others.

Nearly all of the cabin and deck crews saved themselves.

Stowe's circus was taken on board at Vidalia, La. and six cages of animals and birds, together with the ticket and band wagons, and tents and horses, were lost.

Marion Purcell, one of the pilots, was in the clerks office when the alarm was first sounded, and he rushed through the cabin bursting in the stateroom doors, awakening the passengers. So rapidly did the flames spread, that within five minutes after discovering the fire, which broke out amidship, the aft part of the steamer was all ablaze. Those that were saved had to flee in their night-clothes.

When the burning steamer touched the wharf, the fire communicated to the coal fleet and the tug Oriole, which also burned.

11 a. m.—As near as can be ascertained, there were twenty-three ladies aboard the ill-fated steamer, but two of whom, so far as known, were saved.

J. H. Cronk, connected with Stow's circus, is missing, and is supposed to be lost.

John Devouse, his wife and three children, were saved and are at the City Hospital; also Senior Block. Mr. Devouse is slightly burned on the hands.

The Golden City was five years old, and cost $54,000. She was insured for $30,000 in Cincinnati companies. She was owned by Captain J. D. Hegler, W. F. McIntyre and S. C. McIntyre. She now lies sunk about three miles below here in the chute near the Tennessee shore.

When she floated off from the wharf, about twenty passengers and crew jumped aboard the barge, which floated down the stream, but they were rescued by one of the harbor boats, which towed the barge into a chute one mile below the city.

It is estimated that thirty-five lives were lost by the disaster, but at present no additional names can be learned. Robert Kelly, second engineer, and three roustabouts, are the only ones of the boat's crew that are known to be lost.

John Dreffer, steward; Peter Dreffer, cook; John Lamb, second cook; Billy Luxford, pastry cook; Mart Whalen, mess-room tender; John Hill, second mate; Charles Harvey, second watchman, and a passenger named Bloomfield were saved.

Captain S. C. McIntyre, of the ill-fated steamer Golden City, left with a party for the wreck. A diver accompanied the party, and search will be made for the dead bodies supposed to be in the cabin of the sunken vessel.

C. F. Neimeyer, of Indianapolis, who was a passenger on the boat, made his appearance on the street, badly burned on the hands and neck. He was on board when she drifted from the wharf, and was compelled to jump overboard. He was in the water for nearly half hour, and finally managed to reach the shore in an almost exhausted condition.

Joseph Smith, less than 10 years of age, was drowned in the canal at Lowell, Mass., under circumstances which led to the arrest of two boys, George Cook and Thomas Glynn, for manslaughter. Each boy accuses the other of having pushed Smith into the water because he refused to give up some trifle he had found. Another boy named Morrissey, only 7 years old, confirms Glynn's statement that Cook pushed Smith into the canal.

St. Louis dispatch:

Governor Crittenden, at the request of the police authorities, ordered out some of the St. Joseph militia last night to guard the body of the dead outlaw, as there seemed to be danger that there would be an attempt made to capture it. He has also ordered out parts of two companies at Kansas City, to serve as guards at that place. The Ford brothers, one of whom killed Jesse James yesterday, resides on a farm about two miles from Richmond, the county-seat of Ray county, this State. Robert, who did the shooting, is only about 20 years old. Their house is said to have been the rendezvous of some of the James gang, and it was there that Dick Little killed Wood Hite, brother of Clarence Hite, who was recently sentenced to twenty-five years in the Penitentiary, and is now in Prison. It is said that both belonged to the James gang at one time, but this statement does not seem to be verified. The family came from Virginia fifteen years ago and has always been considered very respectable. For some years past both brothers are believed to have been in the detective service and especially engaged in hunting out members of the James gang. Their aunt, Mrs. Bolt, is supposed to be the lady who recently had a secret interview with Governor Crittenden, at Jefferson City.

A special from St. Joseph to the Post-Dispatch says that Prosecuting Attorney Wallace, of Jackson county, and Mattie Collins, wife of Dick Little, have arrived in Kansas City. They both identified the remains of Jesse James, and Wallace will take charge of the dead outlaw's effects. The remains of James have been handsomely laid out and are now incased in an expensive casket, which is at the undertaker's awaiting the preparation of a special train which will bear them and a large party of friends and officials to the home of Mrs. Samuels, near Kearney, where the body will be buried. Captain E. Ford, a brother of Robert and Charles, arrived here this morning. In an interview he said, I have been in this thing since last Fall and tried for several months to get Charley and Bob into it. Jesse has said that if any of us went back on him he would kill us. We thought he was after us, and for that reason went into it. I knew the boys had him located, but did not know where. It was only a question of who should shoot first, Jesse or us. We tried to get him to our house, and he did come twice, but I was not at home either time, and nothing was done. I know where Frank James is, but don't propose to tell just now at least. He is somewhere East. Frank will revenge Jesse's death, and somebody connected with the affair will undoubtedly be killed. This matter is not yet ended.

Kansas City, Missouri, dispatch:

There are no new developments at this point to-day in regard to the killing of Jesse James. Governor Crittenden arrived here this morning and concluded not to go on to St. Joseph. He has ordered the officials at St. Joseph to turn over the body to his wife and mother, as it has been fully identified as that of Jesse James.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 5.—At the Coroner's inquest Mrs. Samuels, mother of Jesse James, testified that it was her son Jesse. Considerable excitement was created by her denunciation of the treachery of Dick Little.

Governor Crittenden has just arrived here. It is unknown at present what will be done with the body of the dead outlaw.

New York dispatch says:

The funeral of Cornelius J. Vanderbilt took place Tuesday morning from the Church of the Strangers. William H. Vanderbilt and wife and nearly all the members of the family were present. A delegation of the Associated Pioneers of California was also in attendance. The service for the burial of the dead was read by Rev. Dr. Deems, and at the close the remains were taken to the Grand Central Depot, where they were placed on a special train for removal to Hartford for final interment.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, March, 29th.

SENATE—Mr Pendleton favorably reported his civil service bill. The Indian appropriation bill was considered without final action

HOUSE—Mr Kelsey reported the bill for the reduction of internal taxation from the committee of Ways and Means. The tariff commission bill was further considered.

THURSDAY, March 30th.

SENATE—A resolution recommending reciprocal trade relations with Mexico was favorably reported. The Indian appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The Senate bill reducing the license fees of officers of steam vessels, was passed. A resolution ordering the printing of 90,000 copies of the population census report, was adopted. A bill was reported to carry into effect the provisions of the constitution respecting the election of President and vice-President. The tariff commission bill was further discussed.

FRIDAY, March 31st.

SENATE.—A few bills of no general public interest were passed. The Indian appropriation bill, with several amendments was passed.

HOUSE—A joint resolution was passed appropriating $100,000 more in aid of the inundated sufferers in the Mississippi Valley. Consideration of the private calendar was dispensed with, and the army appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole. It appropriates $24,706,098.

SATURDAY, April 1st.

The Senate was not in session.

HOUSE—A Senate bill to facilitate the payment of dividends to creators of the Freedman's Bank was passed. Among the bills reported favorably was one making an appropriation of $150,000 to continue work on the Washington monument. The army appropriation bill was further discussed.

MONDAY, April 3d.

SENATE—A joint resolution was passed appropriating $10,000 for a monument over the grave of Thomas Jefferson. A number of bills were introduced and reported from committee's.

HOUSE—The effort to make the bill extending the charters of National banks failed. The rules were suspended and several bills were passed among which were bills providing for the erection of public buildings at Louisville, New York, Columbus and Minneapolis.

TUESDAY, April 4th.

SENATE.—The bill giving a railroad right of way through the Choctaw nation was considered. A bill admitting articles for the Denver mining exhibition, free of duty, was passed.

HOUSE.—The army appropriation bill was further discussed. A letter from the President showed that only three American citizens remain imprisoned in Ireland, and that several have recently been released in England, while negotiations are going on for the release of the remainder, with prospects of success.

JESSE JAMES.

End of the Notorious Freebooter—Assassinated in Cold Blood by Robert Ford, a Member of the Gang.

Jesse James, the eminent bandit, whose name has been a terror to the good people of Missouri, and a cause of paralysis to railroad officials, came to a bloody end Monday, April 3rd, in his house, in St. Joseph, Mo., at the cowardly hand of Robert Ford, one of the trusted members of his gang of cut-throats and robbers. It appears that ever since last November, James has been occupying a shanty in St. Joseph, not far from the World's hotel, which he rented under the name of Thomas Howard; and, so well was the secret of his identity kept, that the news of his killing produced not much more surprise than that of the fact that he had been so long in the midst of the people, with rewards aggregating $30,000 for his body, dead or alive, and escaped detection. With his wife and child James removed from Kansas City, which had been his home for several months prior to leaving for St. Joseph.

About ten days ago James was joined by Robert and Charles Ford, and together they lived in the house rented by the former, engaged in planning a robbery of the Platte City bank, Independence, Mo., the idea being to execute one of their favorite raids while the people were engrossed by the trial of Burger, one of their accomplices in the Blue Cut train robbery, and they were to start last night. Ever since last fall, the Fords had secretly determined to kill James; they concluded he could not be taken alive, and since their arrival at St. Joseph had been awaiting an opportunity to carry the murder into execution. The opportunity arrived yesterday morning. James came into the house and laying off his clothes and weapons, turned his back to the Fords, both of whom drew their revolvers; Robert was the quicker, however, and the bullet went crashing through James' skull from the rear, killing him instantly. It was a brutal, cowardly deed, as dastardly as any the dead robber is credited with, and morally, is entirely unjustifiable. It is supposed the men were incited to the act by the hope of gaining the reward offered for him, and the expectation that they would not be vigorously prosecuted.

Immediately after the killing they surrendered and were locked up. They claim to be detectives. It is said that they were employed by Police Commissioner Craig, of Kansas City, who, with Gov. Chittenden, is alleged to have worked up the scheme which has resulted in Little's and Lamb's confessions, and now the death of James himself. The rewards offered for the members of the gang aggregate $200,000—so that the speculation will prove a good one for Craig. Ford is a young man about twenty-two years old, and looking like a verdant youth from the country. In appearance he is a mere boy, and is the last person in the world to be taken as the slayer of the famous outlaw.

After the body of the outlaw had been removed to the undertaker's, it was photographed.

He was a fine looking man, apparently forty years old, with a broad forehead, and his physiognomy was that of an intelligent as well as a resolute daring man.

The house where James lived, and in which he was killed, had the appearance of an armory. A number of guns and pistols, including a repeating rifle, a needle-gun, and navy revolvers, with a good store of ammunition, were found there. Jesse James was in the habit of wearing two belts with a brace of very fine revolvers and twenty-five extra cartridges. In a small stable near by were discovered several fine horses, the property of James.

"Cold-pressed" flannels that require no further pressing are used for dresses.

Fur Seals.

The method followed by the natives of St. Paul's and St. George's islands, off the Alaska coast, in capturing the fur seals, is curious. During the summer season the seals frequent the shores of these islands and gather on the beach in vast numbers. The younger male or bull seals are the only ones that are killed, and they are found assembled by themselves away from the breeding rookeries. The natives go down to the beach in the early morning and quietly surround a group of 100 or more seals, getting between them and the water. The seals are then alarmed with shouts and cries, and, terrified, flee inland along the only way left open. They are driven in this way to the killing place near the village on the shores of the island. Driving them is a very easy thing, although it takes them some time to accomplish the distance; but they all blunder along, stimulated by the cries of their captors. The old bull seals that may be in the drove are apt to show fight, but if they do they are allowed to drop out of the crowd, as their skins are worthless. The young ones are as easy to drive as a flock of sheep.

The seals, when finally driven up on the flats between the east landing and village, and almost under the windows of the dwellings, are herded there until cool and rested. The drives are usually made very early in the morning, at the first breaking of day, which is 1 30 to 2 o'clock of June and July in these latitudes. They arrive and cool off on the slaughtering grounds, so that by 6 or 7 o'clock, after breakfast, the able-bodied male population turn out from the village and go down to engage in the work of slaughter. The men are dressed in their ordinary working garb of thick flannel shirts the "tarbossa" boots are drawn on; if it rains, they wear their "kamlakias" made of the intestines and throats of the sea lion and fur seal. Thus dressed they are armed with a club, a stout oaken or hickory bludgeon, which has been made particularly for the purpose at New London, Conn, and imported here for this special service. These sealing clubs are about five or six feet in length, three inches in diameter at their heads, and the thickness of a man's forearm where they are grasped by the hands. Each native also has his stabbing knife, his skinning knife and his whetstone; these are laid upon the grass convenient, when the work of braining or knocking the seals down is in progress. This is all the apparatus which they have for killing and skinning.

When the men gather for work they are under the control of their chosen foremen or chiefs; usually, on St. Paul, divided into two working parties at the village, and a sub-party at northeast point, where another salt house and slaughtering field is established. At the signal of the chief the work of the day begins by the men stepping into the drove, corraled on the flats, and driving out from it 100 or 150 seals at a time, make what they call a pod, which they surround in a circle, huddling the seals one on another as they narrow it down, until they are directly within reach and under their clubs. Then the chief, after he has cast his experienced eye over the struggling, writhing kanticle in the centre, passes the word that such and such a seal is bitten, and that such and such a seal is too young, and that such and such a seal is too old. The attention of his men being called to these points, he gives the word strike, and instantly the heavy clubs come down all around, and every one that is eligible is stretched out stunned and motionless in less time, really, than I take to tell it. Those seals spared by the chief, now struggle from under and over the bodies of their companions, and pass, hustled off by the natives, back to the sea. Then the carcasses are skinned, and the pelts prepared for shipment.

The common or popular notion in regard to seal skins is that they are worn by those animals just as they appear when offered for sale; that the fur seals swim about, exposing the soft coat with which our ladies of fashion so delight to cover their tender forms during inclement winter. This is a very great mistake. Few skins are less attractive than the seal skin when it is taken from the creature. The fur is not visible; it is concealed entirely by a coat of stiff overhair, dull, grey, brown and grizzled. It takes three of them to make a lady's sacque and boa. Fitting them for the market is a tedious, costly process, requiring great skill.

As the summer wanes the seals forsake the Islands, and old and young take to the sea, and, it is supposed, spend their intervening months until next season on the fishing banks of the North Pacific.

Resisted.

One must detest the atrocity of tempting a vicious appetite by bribes, as much as one admires the fidelity that resists and conquers it. A hack-driver's resistance to temptation is thus described in an English journal:

"There is a man on this stand," said a gentleman at the West End of London, "whom you can't get to touch a drop of drink!"

"I won't believe that," said one of the company. "I'll lay a wager that I'll make him drink a glass of grog."

The man was called, apparently to take a fare. The glass of gin was offered him, but respectfully declined. dropping a coin worth five dollars into it, the tempter said. "Drink it off and the sovereign is yours."

The cabman was unmoved. A second, a third, and even a fourth sovereign was dropped in by the wretched tempter, but the driver was as firm as ever.

"No," said he, "if you fill it with gold I'll not drink. I'm a happier, healthier and wealthier man since I gave up the drink. By God's help I'll never, no, never touch it again.

American Newspapers in 1882.

The American Newspaper Directory, which will be issued next month by Geo. P. Rowell & Co., of New York, will contain the names of 10,611 periodicals in the United States and territories, which is a gain of 314 in the year just passed. The number of daily papers has increased in a somewhat larger proportion, and is represented by a total of 966 against 921 in 1881. The largest increase has been in New York—10 dailies, 29 of all sorts. Illinois and Missouri show a percentage of gain which is even greater, while Colorado leads all others in the percentage of increase, both of daily and weekly issues. California, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont and West Virginia have fallen behind in 1881 in the total number of periodicals issued, In Georgia, Maine and Massachusetts the suspensions have exactly counterbalanced the new ventures. In every state not mentioned above and in the territories there has been an increase.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

NEVER FAILS

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

REED'S

GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAMARITAN
NERVINE.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured my little girl of fits. She was also deaf and dumb, but it cured her. She can now talk and hear as well as anybody.
Peter Ross, Springwater, Wis.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Has been the means of curing my wife of rheumatism. J. B. Fletcher, FortCollins, Col.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Made a sure cure of a case of fits for my son.
E B Ralls, Hiattsville, Kan.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me of vertigo, neuralgia and sick headache. Mrs Wm Henson, Aurora, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Was the means of curing my wife of spasms.
Rev J A Edie, Beaver, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me of asthma, after spending over $5,000 with other doctors.
S B Hobson, New Albany, Ind.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Effectually cured me of spasms.
Miss Jennie Warren,
740 West Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured our child of fits after given up to die by our family physician, it having over 100 in 24 hours.
Henry Knee, Vervilla, Warren Co., Tenn.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me of scrofula after suffering for eight years. Albert Simpson, Peoria, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured my son of fits, after spending $2,000 with other doctors.
J W Thornton, Claiborn, Miss.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me permanently of epileptic fits of a stubborn character.
Rev Wm Martin, Mechanicstown, Md.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured my son of fits, after having had 2,500 in eighteen months.
Mrs E Fobes, West Potsdam, N Y.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me of epilepsy of nine years' standing. Miss Orlena Marshall, Granby, Newton Co., Mo.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Has permanently cured me of epilepsy of many years duration. Jacob Suter, St., Joseph, Mo.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me of bronchitis, asthma and general debility. Oliver Myers, Irontown, Ohio.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Has cured me of asthma; also scrofula of many years standing. Isaac Jewell, Covington, Ky.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured me of fits. Have been well for over four years. Charles E Curtis, Oakis, Douglass Co., Minn.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured a friend of mine who had the dyspepsia very badly. Michael O'Connor, Ridgway, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Has permanently cured me of epileptic fits, David Trembly, Des Moines, Iowa.

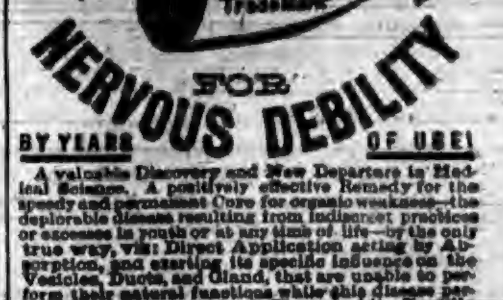
SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured my wife of epilepsy of 35 years standing. Henry Clark, Fairfield, Mich.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured my wife of nervous disease of the head
S Graham, North Hope, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cured my son of fits. He has not had a fit for about four years. John Davis, Woodburn, Macoupin, Co., Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
IS FOR SALE
BY ALL DRUGGISTS
Or may be had direct from us. For further information inclose stamp for our Illustrated Journal giving evidence of cures.
Address
DR. S. A. RICHMOND & CO.,
Worlds Epileptic Institute,
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

PROVED A SUCCESS



BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value; and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thereby re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. St. Louis, Mo.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had epilepsy from weakness, for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 10th, '78.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 25, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box (No. 2) for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 21.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2 '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way, and wish one No. 3 box.

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.

Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of Experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE Producing affections of the blood, skin or bones, treated with success, on scientific principles, without using Mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.

YOUNG MEN and those of middle age who are suffering from organic weakness that unfits its victims for business or marriage, permanently cured, at moderate expense.

PATIENTS TREATED by Mail and Express but, where possible personal consultation is preferred, which is FREE and invited. List of questions to be answered by patients desiring treatment mailed free to any address on application.

[illegible]

DR. BUTTS, 12 North 8th Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., APRIL 13, 1882

Election Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the qualified voters of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, that there will be an election held at the usual place of voting in said town on

MONDAY, MAY 1, 1882.

to elect the following officers for said town, to-wit:

One trustee first ward,
One trustee second ward,
One trustee third ward,
One trustee fourth ward,
One treasurer,
One clerk,
One marshal.

Witness my hand and the seal of said town this the 13th day of April, 1882.

{ Seal }

T. H. SPROTT,
Town Clerk

THERE is a rumor afloat, that the notorious old man Bender, the Kansas Butcher as he is called, has been captured.

* * *

A SPLENDID comet is coming this way, and according to good authority will be on hand in May or June. It will be a very large one and present a grand spectacle.

* * *

TEXAS is asking congress to help them settle the question of the northern boundry of that state. A whole county the county of Greene is in dispute and they would like to know who owns it.

* * *

THE advocates of a high tariff still assure their intelligent readers and hearers, that any addition to the cost of an article, makes it that much cheaper to the consumer. Plain case isn't it?

* * *

THE discussion of the Chinese bill has brought out the fact that nearly every nation of any importance except the United States, has prohibited them from settling within its limits or even in its territorial dependencies. But our own country having always welcomed foreigners of all kinds has hesitated to place any restrictions even on these Mongolians.

* * *

PRESIDENT ANGELL, of the Michigan university, was one of the American commissioners who negotiated the late Chinese treaty which Arthur fears will be broken if we pass the Chinese bill. Arthur takes the ground that the Chinese in making that treaty, did not contemplated, a time as long as twenty years, during which we could exclude the Chinese from this country. President Angell says, that there was no definite understanding about it. The Chinese commissioners he says, spoke of "a reasonable time," which he himself construed to mean five to ten years. Another of the American commissioners Mr. Swift, however, thinks the Chinese understood by the term a. reasonable time, a period even longer than twenty years, and that there was an understanding that thirty years, would not be considered unreasonable. So those who ought to understand the quesiton best, differ materially on these vital points. President Angell says the matter will not excite the Chinese nation at home, to any great extent, no matter which way it goes, as but a small part of the people themselves know anything about America. He says the Chinese who come here, are all from a strip of sea coast country about the size of New England, lying near Canton, and that the people of the interior care nothing about leaving their country. In fact they know nothing of the outside world.

* * *

THE Indianapolis Sentinel of last Friday has a most excellent "write up" of our state industrial school, Purdue university at Lafayette. We are sorry they try to illustrate the article by a cut that cannot be deciphered, as it gives one a very indistinct idea of what is in fact a very beautiful landscape. The buildings are fine and commodious, and stand on high ground giving a fine view of the city and a part of the surrounding country. The grounds are tastefully laid out, and arrangements of all kinds show care and ability. We advise our readers to study the article in question, as it will give all a good knowledge of this deserving institution and the work it is doing. We presume that copies of the Sentinel of April 7, can be had on application to the president, E. E. White. We append the following item of information taken from the article alluded to. "The six following schools have been organized in connection with the university: (1) school of agriculture and horticulture, (2) school of mechanics, (3) school of industrial art, (4) school of chemistry, (5) school of natural history, (6) school of mechanical and civil engineering.

By the law of 1877 the board of commissioners of each county of Indiana is authorized to appoint two students to Purdue university, who are exempt from the payment of entrance and incidental fees and the regular charges for room, heat and light. This reduction amounts to $33 a year. Sixty six of the students of the present year were appointed, representing forty-four counties."

For Congress.

We have been called on by a number of parties, including some of the candidates for the above named position, and can now sum up the congressional business with some degree of certainty as to aspiratoins at least. Judge Lowry comes first on the list, as he has been in the field the longest, and worked up his candidacy with the greatest care. He is also the best known throughout the district. Montgomery Hamilton, also of Ft. Wayne, will also be a candidate for the position. Col. I. B. McDonald of the Columbia City Herald, is the third and is quite extensively known throughout the district. There is also an understanding that our present able representative, Hon. W. G. Colerick, is willing to serve another term, but does not feel like pushing his chances, but would rather leave the matter to be determined by the people themselves. It is but due to him to say that he has served the people faithfully and well, and though a modest, unostentatious man, has proved a good representative in congress. In addition to the above, we must not omit to say, that there is in this county, a strong undercurrent among the most thoughtful democrats, that we owe something substantial to our own county, and to one of its honored citizens, Hon. S. S. Shutt, who has served us ably in the legislature, and there are many of our citizens who are strongly in favor of urging him for the position. Whether they will succeed in gaining his consent to this we cannot say, but are satisfied that our people would generally be pleased to have it so. The above are all the candidates, prospective, and even possible, as far as we have learned up to the present writing. It is safe to say that either of them would be satisfactory to the people of this county, and would make an honorable record in congress. As the convention meets the first day of June, in Kendallville, it will now be in order for the people to talk up the matter, and direct their delegates to vote accordingly, or if they have no especial choice, then send them there uninstructed, so they can cast their votes for such candidate as they deem most fit to represent this strongly democratic district.

* * *

SOME of our exchanges, of both political parties are getting rather mixed up on the question of the constitutional amendments. This is particulary the case, with the one relating to prohibtion. It is only fair to say that the question as it now stands is: Shall we send men to the next legislature, who will vote in favor of submitting the question of prohibition to the people, or shall we send men who will vote against submitting it to them? The last legislature passed a resolution in favor of doing this. If the next legislature does the same, then the question will be ready for a vote of the people. If, however, the next legislature does not vote to submit it to the people, that ends the matter, at least for the present. We for our part, are willing to submit these questions to the people, and if a majority of them wish to make the experiment, it ought to be tried. If a majority oppose the measure, it ought not become a law. We hold this to be sound doctrine. The trouble with all these constitutional amendments arises from the fact that only a small portion of the voters will turn out to the election, and then if a small majority of those who do so turn out happen to be in favor of the measure, a partisan court at once declares the amendments adopted. This is wrong. When an ordinary law, itself subject to the principles embodied in the constitution, is enacted by the legislature, the theory is that it has the backing of a majority of the votes of the state as represented by the members of the legislature. But when the constitution itself is changed, how much more reasonable it is that it should receive the assent of a majority of the people, and how ridiculous it is, to say it can be changed by the affirmative votes of a small minority. It is to be hoped that when these two amendments, now pending, shall be submitted to the votes of the people, interest enough will be felt in the matter to get out a full vote. Then if a majority of the people desire these changes, they ought to have them, and if only a minority favor them, they should not be made a part of the constitution.

* * *

THE president's veto of the Chinese bill has caused a great deal of comment. Republicans themselves are divided as to the effect it may have on the party, while the people generally seem to think his action was hasty and ill advised. He objected to the bill mainly because it put a stop to Chinese immigration for a period of twenty years. This he says is too long, and many think he would not have vetoed the bill if the time had been put at ten years only. But it is not likely that the bill can be passed over his veto, and will probably be left over till next session.

* * *

—Ab. Kelly, at Waterloo, has potatoes for sale.

Constitutional Amendments

THE OTHER SIDE.

So many of our contemporaries have been making arguments for and against prohibition, that we copy the following from the Indianapolis Sentinel of April 7, to show what at least a part of the Indiana democrats think of the matter. "An impromptu meeting of democrats now visiting the city was called yesterday at room No. 10, Grand Hotel, and the following are the proceedings of the meeting:

On motion of Judge William N. Tracewell, of Harrison county, Dr. J. W. F. Gerrish, of Jackson, was chosen chairman, and John R. East, secretary.

On motion a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiment of the meeting, and consisting of William N. Tracewell as chairman, Peter Taylor, of Warrick county, S. Dobbins, of Martin; A. J. Taylor, of Allen; W. G. Wilson, of Henry; John R. East, of Monroe, and J. W. F. Gerrish, of Jackson, was appointed by the meeting.

The committee reported, and the meeting, by unanimous vote, adopted the following:

We, the undersigned citizens and members of the democratic party and residents of the counties of the state of Indiana placed opposite our names, at a meeting held at Indianapolis, April 9, 1882, earnestly declare, protest and say:

1. We deeply regret the course and action of a portain of the democracy of Center township, and of the city of Indianapolis, in Marion county, Indiana, in attempting by resolutions, letters and speeches to forestall the action of the state democratic convention, soon to be held in the city of Indianapolis, upon the question of the submission of the proposed and now pending amendments to our state constitution.

2. We believe in the time-honored democratic doctrine that the people have the right by ballot to change, alter or amend the constitution of our state in a constitutional way; and that when amendments have been proposed, and have received in their favor a majority of the votes of one legislature, the question as to whether they shall be adopted or rejected is one that should not be withheld from the people, but that they should have the privilege of settling such questions by a direct vote thereon.

3. And we furthur declare that we now, as ever before, have full and entire confidence in the people of the state of Indiana that they will deal with the fundamental and organic law of the state in such manner as to preserve and maintain the best interests of society and free government.

And we regret any attempt, from whatever source, to prevent a submission of such amendments to the people for a direct vote thereon as unwise, despotic and contrary to the teachings, doctrines and spirit of democracy, and that such attempt meets the disapproval of a large majority of the voters of the democratic party of Indiana and will be repudiated by them at the polls.

J. W. F. Gerrish, of Jackson county; John R. East, of Monroe county; Wm. N. Tracewell, of Harrison county; Smith Smiley, of Putman county; Wm. Washgamutt, of Wabash county; C. S. Dobbins of Martin county; A. J. Taylor, of Allen county; John H. Magee, of Porter county; J. M. Toner, of Vigo county; Timothy McDermott, of Johnson county; Henry Krick, of Adams county; Wm. M. Thomas, of Wills county; G. Hazelton, of Gibson county; James A. Modesett, of Clay county; W. B. Wilson and Joseph Fivecoat, of Henry county; Peter Taylor, of Warrick county; F. F. Williams, of Johnson county; George K. Bonham, of Marshall county; R. M. Parks, of Lawrence county; B. F. Stephens, of Elkhart county; A. P. Wortman, of Shelby county; J. E. Thomas, of Adams county; D. D. Johns, of Tipton county; Wm. Durham, of Jackson county; Samuel Coulter, of Montgomery county; C. C. Finley and W. P. Huffman, of Jackson county.

RESOLVED, That the Indianapolis Sentinel and all the democratic papers in the state be and they are respectfully requested to publish these proceedings.

J. W. F. GERRISH, Chairman.
John. R. EAST, Secretary.
Indianapolis, April 6, 1882.

* * *

April Election, 1882.

The following is the vote of the different precincts on trustee, taken from the official count:

PRECINCTS.	D.	R.	G.	D. m'j	R. m'j
Butler	103	61	....	42	....
Keyser East	135	92	....	43	....
Keyser West	136	118	....	18	....
Jackson	139	92	..	47	.
Concord North	157	70	....	81	....
Concord South	98	90	....	8	....
Newville	83	43	15	40	....
Stafford	70	64	....	6	....
Wilmington North	164	142	3	23	....
Wilmington South	93	139	26	....	46
Union East Waterloo	103	106	32	....	3
Union West Waterloo	55	46	9	9	....
Union North Auburn	129	122	....	6	....
Union South Auburn	95	112	....	....	17
Richland	147	84	18	63	....
Fairfield	161	70	....	91	....
Smithfield	137	110	....	27	....
Franklin	118	143	....	....	25
Troy	36	75	....	....	39

Evangelical Conference

The Indiana conference of the Evangelical association convened in Waterloo Indiana, April 6, 1882, to hold its thirty-first annual session. Bishop J. J. Esher, of Chicago, president, while Rev. D. S. Oakes acted as secretary. Brethren from abroad present were: Rev. W. Yost, publisher of the publishing house of the Evangelical association of Cleveland, Ohio, who reports the house in a flourishing condition—able to give us $750 as our share of the dividend—Rev. R. Yeakel, principal of the Union Biblical Institute, of Naperville, Ill., and Rev. J. Berger, of the German conference. The conference was also visited by the ministers of the various denominations of Waterloo. Into the ranks of the ministry were admitted: Louis Neitzel, W. H. Mygrant and Mr. Rummig as preachers on probation. Deacon's order was granted to Geo. Frederick and elder's order to Wm. Ackerman and A. O. Raber, the ordination of which took place on Sunday. Our statistical report gives us an increase of membership of over 300 for the past year. The preachers were appointed to the various fields of labor as follows:

1. Elkhart District.—E. L. Kiplinger, P. E.; South Bend, F. F. Myer; Elkhart, (German) C. F. Hansing; Elkhart, (English) A. O. Raber; Mishawaka, H. Breshtel; Bremen, J. Hoffman; New Paris, C. C. Beyrer; LaPorte, G. Schmoll; Wanatah, A. Iwanr Rochester, H. Arlen; Twin Lakes, H. E. Overmeyer and one to be supplied; Logansport and Royal Center, J. C. Schuh.

2. Fort Wayne District.—M. Krueger, P. E.; Fort Wayne, M. Hochn; Van Wert, J. E. Smith; Decatur, J. M. Dustman; St. Mary's, I. B. Fisher; Newville, George Roederer; Huntington, D. J. Pontiors; Kendallville, J. Wales; Waterloo, A. R. Shafer; Edgerton, S. S. Albert; Defiance, W. H. Mygrant; Celina, Wm. Koeing.

3. Indianapolis District.—C. C. Baumgardner P. E.; Indianapolis, Joseph Fisher; Dayton, Ohio, M. W. Steffey; Germantown, D. S. Oakes; Ft. Recovery, B. F. Dill; Winchester, F. Launer; Bunker Hill, J. Bruckert; Noblesville, D. Martz; Wabash, E. B. Treyer; Julietta, C. Tramer; Rev. J. M. Gomer, missionary to Galveston, Texas; Rev. William Ackermon goes to Oregon, and Lewis Neitzel to Wauloo, Nebraska.

Our next session of conference will be held at Germantown, Indiana, commencing Thursday, the 29th of March, 1883.

The missionary sermon preached by Rev. Wm. Yost on Saturday evening, resulted in cash and subscription to over $500. The ordination sermon was preached by the bishop with telling effect. The friends in Waterloo and environs had a vote of thanks tendered to them for the kindness and hospitality shown to us as a conference. May the Lord of Hosts reward you richly. We wish the inhabitants of Waterloo God's speed, a bright and flourishing future full of prosperity, which no doubt will bring good sidewalks, upon which the people can safely find their way to their respective churches.

* * *

A Pleasant Birthday Greeting.

On the evening of April 5th, the neighbors and friends began to gather in, and by eight o'clock the house was filled to overflow, numbering about seventy-five, the whole affair being a secret to Mr. Jonas Wildeson. The object of the surprise being the 59th birthday of Mr. Wildeson. We had a good social and pleasant time, and all seemed to enjoy themselves the best kind. About eleven o'clock the baskets well filled with nick-nacks were brought to the front, which consisted of biscuits and butter, roasted ham, pies and cakes, etc., justice being done to the same, I assure, after which the presents were presented—some silver coins and some wearing apparel, and a very fine silver watch and chain which was presented to him by his many friends, with the following remarks by Jared F. Housel, of St. John: "Mr. Wildeson, in behalf of the people assembled, and others who are not present, I present to you this beautiful watch and chain as tokens of our friendship to you for your kindness to us in ways too numerous to mention, hoping they will be received with as grateful hearts as given. And now, Mr. Wildeson, before we close let us say: Your life, your labor and your examples have been impressed upon this community and on the morals, education and charity in the society in which you have so long lived. We have been (a part of us) playmates and schoolmates of your children; we have seen you administering to the dying wants of our loved ones, and you have mourned and mingled your tears with ours for departed dead; you have thus become a part of our community and our society. All those who are here this evening, and those for whom I speak, have received your hospitality. Therefore, may the blessings of that kind Providence which has been your friend, still continue the same, is our best wish." Mr. W. A. Feagler responded in behalf of Mr. Wildeson: "Ladies and gentlemen, it affords me infinite pleasure to be greeted by your presence and cheerful manifestations on this occasion. I can but feebly express in language the deep and heartfelt gratitude to you for your presence to-night, and for the valuable articles which you have selected and bestowed upon me as testimonials of your friendship and high esteem in which I am held by you, for which, I, in return, thank you heartily, and pray that every act in my life in the future may continue to merit your approval; and that the ties of friendship may grow stronger, and that I may never be found guilty of an act which shall detract from or betray the confidence so many of you have bestowed upon me." J. F. H

THE president last Thursday, nominated Senator Teller, of Colorado, to be secretary of the interior, and Wm. E. Chandler, secretary of the navy. The present secretary of the navy Mr. Hunt is nominated as minister to Russia. Teller was confirmed at once. The others were taken under consideration.

THE Waterloo correspondent of the Butler Record, splinters the opening wedge of the judicial business as follows:

"The Kendallville correspondent of the Steuben Republican says, A. A. Chapin is the popular candidate for circuit judge. Not so in this part of the circuit, neighbor. Everybody prefers R. Wes. McBride, whose regard for justice, and ability as a lawyer, certainly qualify him for that position.
R."

Not just so either, in this neck of woods, Mr. R. Here, and in this vicinity, J. E. is the Rose that all are praising. It isn't our triangular fight, but it looks as if this town would get the judgeship this year.

* * *

New Blacksmith Shop.

J. A. Marlett has opened a new blacksmith shop at Auburn Junction, where he will be prepared to do all kinds of custom work, including farm and machine work. All who have work to do or machines to repair, give him a call at Auburn Junction. 14-2t.

* * *

HOUSE FOR SALE.—The two-story frame dwelling just east of the lumber yard, at the Jackson depot, in Auburn. The house is in good repair, has eight rooms, a good cellar, and other conveniences. For terms, address,
15tf. JOHN ABER, Monroeville, Pa.

—McQuiston & Long are now receiving new goods and during this week and next will have their stock complete. We respectfully solicit the continued patronage of all the old customers of the house, and extend a cordial invitation to all the citizens of Auburn and vicinity to call and examine our goods and prices. 15-2t

* * *

A prescription clerk in one of the principal drug stores in this city is very much mashed on a certain young lady, and daily passes her house whistling a certain tune, which invariably brings the young lady to the front gate. It appears, however, that several young men have got onto the tune, and in consequence the young lady is frequently brought to the front door by the deceptive whistle of others, than her only true Charles Augustus. He is advised to change the air, before he can be entire happy.—News.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Elizabeth Bow deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
EMANUEL NEIDIG, Adm'r.
15-3t

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, May term, 1882, Sallie Osborn is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, for divorce by Benjamin F. Osborn and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court which commences May 15, 1882.
Witness, the clerk of said court, this 13th day of April, 1882.
15-3t JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

OZONE

—THE—

KING FORTUNE MAKER

The Only Practical Preservative of Perishable Articles, both Animal and Vegetable, Preventing Decay or Putrefaction.

☞ Preserves Meats, Eggs, Fish, etc., indefinitely and with complete success.

EGGS can be purchased when cheapest, and preserved for any length of time, at a cost of One Mill per dozen, and other articles at same proportionate cost.

There is a Gold Mine in every County in this State for some live man.

TEST PACKAGES OF OZONE

Containing sufficient means to preserve from 500 to 1,000 dozen Eggs, sent to any address upon receipt of $2.00.

INDIANA DEPARTMENT
PRENTISS PRESERVING CO.
Address, JOSEPH BROWN,
La Fayette, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED
IN EVERY COUNTY,
Who should order a Test Package and secure County AT ONCE.

ROOT AND COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.

Are now making a very attractive display of

SPRING GOODS.

—OUR—

SILK SUITS

Are represented in great variety, and cannot be surpassed in quality and finish.

—OUR—

SATIN MARVEILLEUX SUITS

Need only to be seen to be appreciated

Elegant assortment of

PARASOLS

—AND SUN—

UMBRELLAS

Embracing all the Novelties of the season.

WHITE GOODS:

TIES,
LACES,
LINENS,
CRAPES,
GLOVES,
RIBBONS,
HOSIERY,
CURTAINS,
UNDERWEAR,
EMBROIDERIES,
ETC., ETC.

The most extensive, varied and attractive assortment of

DRY GOODS

OF ALL KINDS

That we have never before been able to offer to our patrons, and at prices that must be satisfactory to the close cash buyer.

ROOT AND COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—McQuiston & Long.

—H. C. Bell is at home.

—A light snow Monday.

—Get your awnings ready.

—"More mort!"—Bumpes.

—The livery man feel proud.

—We have five Sundays in April.

—Court will convene next month.

—Tom. Scott talks of going west.

—Geo. Schaab had visitors this week.

—The business blockade is opening up.

—Our butchers do a cash business now.

—Obe Cool is improving his premises.

—This is curious spring weather, indeed.

—Men who move buildings are very busy.

—Sam. Puff will return to Texas soon.

—Coop Ralston talks of going west soon.

—The treasurer's office is crowded daily.

—Hiram Weaver is painting his residence.

—Rev. Norris has returned from conference.

—The "small pox" patient is marked lightly.

—Frank Latson, Butler, was in town this week.

—The stock law don't receive much attention.

—Dr. Matheny is re-arranging his residence.

—Sunday was a great day for pleasure riding.

—Brick yards will do a big business this season.

—Good prints for six cents, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—Next Monday closes the time for paying taxes.

—James Draggoo puts on style with a Norman colt.

—The Wabash elevator looks like a Chicago hotel.

—Have you seen her in her spring hat; Billy, boy?

—Carpenters are getting $3.00 a day at South Chicago.

—Clerk Baxter rejoiceth in the arrival of a fine boy.

—Johnny Hebel likes his new location very much.

—There will be a dance at the Junction to-night.

—Men have commenced work on the Hebel building.

—Henry Yeeborn and wife occupy rooms over his store.

—Jos. Rainier purchased a new refrigerator this week.

—Mr. Mitchell has his hoop factory ready for operation.

—The Presbyterian church was decorated Easter Sunday.

—The Harris boys have returned to their home in Chicago.

—Table linen from 25 cents to $1.00, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—Clerk Baxter is making improvements to his property.

—Lynx-eyed constables are on the track of untagged dogs.

—The streets are dusty enough to bring out the sprinkler.

—The organ store is a popular resort for lovers of music.

—P. J. Lockwood is out with his bicycle enjoying the sport.

—Mrs. A. Dawson attended the M. E. conference last week.

—Eight pounds of green coffee for $1 at McQuiston & Long's.

—Mr. Kendall is employed at McQuiston & Long's store.

—T. J. Cuppy, of Columbia City, was in town last Friday.

—Rainier & Headley are having a nice butcher wagon made.

—There seemed to be a change in church choirs last sabbath.

—The constable gets the same pay per mile as the sheriff does.

—Dried peaches, oranges and lemons at McQuiston & Long's.

—Billy Groscop is quite a horse trader as well as a farmer, etc.

—J. C. Loveland and sister, of Corunna, were in town Monday.

—The ladies are busy making their winter wraps into spring attire.

—Our manufacturers of buggies are cutting somewhat on prices.

—Is Sam. Weaver after the marshalship, or why so much hand shaking?

—A fine line of Jamestown and other dress goods at Schaab & Beugnot's. 2

—Charley Picker has received the brick contract for Hebel's building.

—Best Cheviot shirtings for 12½ cents, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—French Pete's wife has returned to town. We havn't noticed Pete around.

—A fine lot of passamenterie and cloak ornaments at McQuiston & Long's. 15-3

—Bring your butter and eggs to McQuiston & Long and get cash or trade.

—A nice lot of dress ginghams at 12½ cents per yard at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—Rev. Matthews now occupies the residence recently vacated by T. C. Mays.

—There were a number of strangers in town Tuesday from Garrett and Waterloo.

—Frank Borst and wife, of Corunna, dined with treasurer Miller over Sunday.

—There are some nice fish in Cedar creek. See Jacob Grogg for full particulars.

—Chas. Weaver has engaged himself to Austin to wrap up goods this summer.

—The best assorted lot of gent's neck wear at prices to suit, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—George Clark, who has been so seriously ill for a week or two, is slowly recovering.

—Rev. Daniells, of Columbia City, will take charge of the Methodist church here.

—The most complete stock of hats ever brought to this market, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

Bill Sthair has quite a force at work and they are making things lively in the buggy trade.

—Judge Jenner is a liberal fellow. He gives everybody a quarter of a dollar who asks him.

—The click of the hammer and hum of the saw is sounded in every portion of thriving Auburn.

—Those wanting spring clothing, can save ten per cent. by going to Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—Mrs. Beugnot, in the north end, is painting and fixing up her residence—or having it done, rather.

—We noticed old Mr. Baker, who has passed through a protracted illness, upon the streets yesterday.

—Jack Ralston and Mr. H. Martin, esq., in the ring, with sheriff Leas as referee. It was immense.

—Frank Hoff has put his team on the road and his "grocery on wheels" is accommodating the farmers.

—W. S. Purdy will accommodate all who wish to have graves dug. His residence is near the cemetery.

—Camel-hair brushes for dusting boys' hats are the latest style. Fo[r] full information see Cal. Houser.

—There seems to be some difficulty in obtaining coarse gravel, the building boom being so great in town.

—Just received a full line of Brussels and ingrain carpets at very low prices, at Schaab & Beugnots. 15-2w.

—Wm. Murphy fell from a scaffold while working at the Swineford House, Monday, and hurt himself somewhat.

—A funeral was preached at the Catholic church Tuesday, over the remains of a child whose parents reside at Garrett.

—Billy Stimely and Mark Sheets left for the west Monday—that land of gold and broad prairies. We wish them fortune.

—F. C. Waterman, of Smithfield, and Oris Danks, of Waterloo, two newly elected J. P's, were over to see us Tuesday. Call again.

—D. D. Snyder has planted some fine looking young evergreen trees, raised by G. H. McCord, that are certainly handsome.

—We are sorry to state the fact that Mrs. M. F. Long is in a delicate state of health, but better hopes are looked for by her friends.

—McQuiston & Long have just opened a new lot of black cashmeres at 65c and 75c per yard to which they call the attention of close buyers.

—Charley Smith purchased the right of Hank Wolf's constableship for a half dollar, and consequently Charley will "go it alone."

—J. M. Rice, the photographer, is getting up some nice pictures. His place is east of the postoffice, corner Seventh and Cedar streets.

—A recent letter from Prof. F. K. Blake, of Dixon, (Ill.) Normal school, represents that institution to be in a flourishing condition. Glad to hear it.

—We hear on the streets that Dr. Allyn, who went to Florida some time ago, will return soon. It Stahls the boys why he should come back so suddenly.

—O. C. Clark, of Keyser township, moved to this place last week. He expects to make this his permanent home, and our people will welcome him to our midst.

—The different towns in the county have organized their base ball clubs, and will soon open the fields of contest. Auburn will not likely be among the number.

—Mr. Balsley, of Illinois, son-in-law of A. W. Allen is in town. Mrs. B. has been here for some weeks, and the twain will return to the land of their choice this week.

—M. F. Long is now putting all his life and vim into the dry goods and grocery trade, having purchased G. C. Ralston's interest in the firm of McQuiston & Ralston. We hope the new firm will be prosperous and ask a deserving share of patronage for them from our people.

—Solomon Hoffman, brother to D. Z. Hoffman was here last week to attend the funeral of their mother. We believe he resides in Illinois.

—We are under obligations to many friends for their promptness in remembering the Courier when they came to town to pay taxes.

—Mr. Henry Shull, living northwest of town, has a sale of cattle, hogs and other personal property on Saturday of this week, April 15. Don't forget it.

—The livery stable in rear of the Swineford House lost a valuable horse last Sunday. Its death was caused by being severely kicked by another animal.

—William Showalter, now of Defiance, Ohio, passed through this place Tuesday, en route for Waterloo, where he was called to attend the funeral of a relative.

—The cemetery needs attention, and also the sidewalk leading thereto. The fences and gates are in a dilapidated condition, while many of the graves look sorely neglected.

—Black gros grain silks, satin De Lyon silk, satin griffon silk for dresses and dolmans at popular prices. Examine them before you buy, at McQuiston & Long's. 15-3t

—Nearly all the schools of the county are now supplied with teachers. The few that are without a "visible head" will not be supplied until after the next examination.

—They had a case of suicide at Butler last week. A young lady, an employe at one of the hotels, took strychnine, and died in a short time. Her name was Henderson.

—The building opposite the Auburn House, known as the Rainier property, has been purchased by Mr. Zimmerman, and will be used as an addition to his scroll factory.

—Not nine-tenths of the dogs in this place have been tagged. A number of them wear collars and trot about unlawfully, unmolested and independent. Our laws are truly "wonderful."

—Mrs. Charley Parker, of Waterloo, is at Clerk Baxter's for a short time, acting in the capacity of nurse. She has a great deal of experience and a a good reputation as a family nurse.

—Mrs. Little has received some very attractive styles in hats, flowers, etc, which are selling uncommonly low for the first invoice. Call and look at them, two doors north of the Auburn House.

—The maple trees along Main street are begining to leaf, and but a few more weeks they will be in their attractive form. Mother earth is clothed in her green foliage and beautiful flowers.

—Several window lights were broken in the Presbyterian church during the hail storm, last week. The panes are of a handsome pattern and so arranged that it will cause some difficulty to place in new ones.

—This is the season of the year when the best furniture is all piled out into the front yard, and when the head of the family goes home at noon his "darling" says: "Just black that stove while I set out a lunch."

—A number of our citizens have cleaned their streets and door yards, making them look pleasant and inviting. We hope everyone will do so, as a clean, cosy town welcomes strangers and is also more healthy.

—Modenwell & Studor, the great carpet merchants of Fort Wayne, are calling attention to their new stock of goods. Everything usually kept at a like establishment can be found, and when our people visit that city it would be well to call.

—E. Neidig, of Fairfield township, has been appointed administrator of the estate of Elizabeth Row, deceased. Mr. Neidig is one of the best known men in that township and will no doubt settle the estate to the satisfaction of all parties.

—Information is wanted for a stray black Newfoundland pup, with white breast and tip of tail, carried a broad brass collar with tag No. 189. He was taken from the Wabash depot last Monday by a dog thief supposed to live at Butler. Please leave word at this office.

—We are called upon to record the death of Ellen V. Henderson, who took the arsenic route to "that other country" last week. From the facts connected with the Coroner's inquest it is evident that she did so intentionally. Some time ago her mother shuffled off this mortal coil in a like manner.

—The Presbyterian sabbath school re-organized last Sunday with the following officers: E. D. Hartman, supt. R. Elson, asst.; Flora Hoffman, sec'y.; Lotta Osgood, treas.; Sadie Hare, chorister; Conger Little, asst.; Maud Abright, organist; Artie Miller and Frank Elson, librarians.

—Mel Tarney came near swamping their team while driving into the creek at what is known as the grave yard bridge. This place is often frequented for the purpose of watering horses and washing buggies, and those who are not acquainted with present surroundings should use caution in getting on the right road.

Obituary.

Mrs. Lydia Hoffman was born in York county, Pennsylvania, December 8, 1802. She was married to David Hoffman and resided in Adams county, Pennsylvania, until the year 1845, when she with the family moved from there to DeKalb county, Indiana, where they arrived on May 4, 1845, living in Butler township until the year 1869, when she moved to Auburn, Indiana, where her husband died August 8, 1878, after which she lived with her son until her death, which occurred April 4, 1882, her age being 79 years and 4 months. She joined the Lutheran church when young, of which she was an ever faithful member. "Be ye faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

Official Returns.

There were some errors in our last week's issue in regard to the majorities given in the different townships. They will be found corrected on the fourth page this week. Among others, we notice that Mr. Quince got 42 majority in Butler township, and Mr. Dancer 47 in Jackson. Other errors, no doubt, may be found, but have just now escaped our mind. We give the official figures this week on the vote for trustee. This, however, is like the vote on most of the other officers—no exact criterion to fix a party standing, as the vote on all officers was greatly mixed. Still be believe there is a healthy democratic gain.

—Our young friend G. R. Cote, agent of the Wabash road, at Auburn Junction, is off on a trip to Blooming, Nebraska.

—The young misses of Mary Sprott's Sunday school class will entertain the Presbyterian social next Wednesday evening. Let every one come out and encourage them in their efforts to assist the church.

—A number of trustees made their reports of enumeration to the county superintendent on Monday. So far as made, it shows a decrease in the number of persons of school age in the county.

Special Examination.—There will be a special examination of teachers at Auburn, on Saturday, April 15. A request is made that only those apply who expect to teach during the spring, as the only reason for holding an examination is to supply deficiencies.

—There was a slight snow fall in some parts of this state on Monday, April 10. The ice froze quite hard on the mornings of the tenth and eleventh, making the open peach buds look sick. But they are not probably killed, as they had not opened sufficiently.

Card of Thanks.—We, the undersigned, return sincere thanks to our many kind friends and neighbors for their sympathy and cordial assistance during the late fatal illness of Mother Hoffman. Their kindness will long be appreciated and held in memory.

D. Z. Hoffman.
Catharine Hoffman.

—'Squire, the fellow from "dark town," he who neither fears pitchforks nor Frenchmen, (how's that?) will again work for Doc. Cowan, and parties generally are hereby notified that whosoever "scares, frightens or causes dat dar black hose to see wrongfully shall hab his or her name written in letters ob blood."

—We recently received from D. P. Hale, so well known to the people of this place, samples of the work done at his Sioux City button factory. They are neat, solid and substantial specimens of work, and certainly appear equal to anything of the button kind we ever saw. The business and the work show well for the enterprise of that growing western city.

—There is a dangerous hole in the sidewalk on the north side of Seventh street that needs the attention of someone. The marshal cannot be expected to attend to such matters unless he receives equivalent for his services, and the consequences are that the town will have some damages to pay "when the moon don't shine bright."

—Suydam, who would like to have been elected police commissioner, was snowed under 1557 majority by Boland. He will now devote his time in selling Milburn wagons, which is more in his line than office aspirations.—Toledo Sunday Democrat.

The gentleman Boland referred to is a brother of recorder Roland, at this place, and from the large majority he controlled in this important contest, we may understand that he is a man of some ability, integrity and popularity.

—Our citizens will remember Bill Rickel's coach dog "Buster," and the extraordinary intelligence he possessed as an animal. Last week he fell from a shed roof and broke the femur bone of his left leg. In speaking of the affair the Rochester Sentinel says: * * One of our most eminent physicians, assisted by the owner of the purp and the editor of the Republican, splintered the fractured limb and we have reason to believe Buster will soon be able to make the rounds "on all fours." During the performance of this most difficult and scientific surgical operation, Buster lay quietly on his side with his eyes closed, suffering the excruciating pain without a groan or a tear. Buster has many friends and admirers who will be sorry to learn of this sad mishap to his dogship, and will hope for a speedy recovery.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CONCORD.

Mrs. P. Grimer was at St. Joe Thursday.

Ora Hatch is helping James Johnson to rush his farm work this summer.

Miss Josie Smith is spending a few days in Auburn before commencing her school.

Alice Draggoo left last Friday to spend a week or two visiting relatives in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Nancy Wyatt is erecting a nice barn, which will add very much to the looks of her farm.

The farmers and mechanics had a general moving about this spring, but have settled down to work.

W. B. Brown has rented his farm and will be agent for N. Ensley, of Auburn, selling agricultural implements.

Dean.

SUMMIT.

Philip Locke has moved to Michigan.

Mrs. Isaac Gramling, an aged lady is sick.

Cal. Noragon has returned from a visit to the lakes.

Sawdust ten cents a load at Samuel Mortorff's sawmill.

A little boy of J. H. Hornberger has the whooping cough.

George W. Crays has gone to Akron, Ohio, on an extended visit.

Samuel Hayman, of Michigan, is visiting his parents near Summit.

Ed. McOscar has gone to Valparaiso to emerge in the sale of books.

C. H. Bangs has a new supply of groceries and provisions. Give him a call.

R. C. Baxter is again slinging the mallet and chisel under the guidance of S. B. Mottinger.

Bangs, the Summit merchant, goes to Sedan regularly to visit his mother. That is right, Charley.

Quill.

SEDAN.

Mrs. Leydel is quite sick with erysipelas.

Kimball, of Kendallville, was in town last week.

Look out for your dogs, Henry Getts is constable.

The democrats of Sedan held the van Monday.

Mrs. Gonser, who has been quite sick with the measles, is much better at present.

Tally a clean sweep for the democrats in Richland.

The roads need the work of the road superintendent in this vicinity.

Robert Crooks and James Libson, ditch viewers, were in town Saturday.

The Dutherans held services on Good Friday, and also held their annual church election.

Mr. Gonser spent the most of last week in Toledo purchasing goods. He returned home Saturday.

Melville Gonser, who has been confined at Fairfield with measles for the past two weeks, in back home again.

A petition with the names of our prominent men in this vicinity has beee sent to J. E. Curtis, superintendent of this division, asking the repairing of our depot.

J. A. M.

ST. JOE.

King bee died last Monday.

Some fine fish are being caught in the river near this village.

Solomon's lamentations are, "Oh, that I had not been made an April fool of!"

School will commence about the first of May, with Josie Thomas at the helm.

A new Buckeye binder at M. E. Olds. Go and see it work. M. E. will show up its advantages.

C. H. Brown, our present trustee, is more than proud over the unlookedfor majority of 89. Thanks to scratchers.

The worst whipped man over last Monday's election, is J. Platto, candidate for assessor on the republican ticket in Newville township.

J. W. Dills paid his rent Friday. Jack has to much tax too pay, and we suppose he will donate some of his property to the needy to make his taxes less.

J. A. T. had the ropes all laid, as he supposed, but when the pulling time came there was no one to pull the end of the rope, and so it was left swinging in the dark.

The postmaster at this place informs us that the net proceeds of the postoffice for the quarter just ended was over $165. Four years ago it did not pay that much in four quarters.

Barney Bros. have laid in a big stock of hardware, and are prepared to give their customers the benefit of good goods and small prices. Faithful Doc. is always on hand to show you around.

Our east end friends, who were so sure that we could not get twenty votes in St. Joe, will please accept our thanks for what dirty work they did do, as it undoubtedly was the means of electing the writer. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. It certainly shows who has the most friends. Thanks to our many friends, both republicans and democrats.

WATERLOO.

H. Loib is still making improvements on his property.

E. Y. Williamson took a trip to Fort Wayne Monday.

Rev. Seist occupied the Presbyterian pulpit last Sunday.

The Germans had a ball in Haines' hall Monday night.

Bert Yant and wife are visiting friends at Vistula, Indiana.

Miss Savilla Kring was the guest of Mrs. J. Duncan over Sunday.

Miss Nannie Bensenderfer commenced school at Smithfield last Monday.

Dr. Darby and F. P. Haskins returned from their Iowa trip last week.

Mr. Duesler and wife have been visiting relatives in Elkhart county for a few days.

John Leas and W. H. Leas went to Auburn Tuesday on business connected with the Boyer estate.

Trackmaster McEnterfer and family, of Angola, spent Sunday with Mrs. M's. father, Jonathan Zerkle.

A child six years old of Geo. Sparks, of this place, died at Hudson last Sunday, and was brought home for interment.

Dr. Murphy has moved to Leo, Allen county, where he will continue the practice of medicine. We hope he will do well.

Jay Boyer is very sick. A consultation of physicians has been held, and he is considered in a dangerous condition.

Drs. Solomon and J. H. Stough, C. K. Baxter, and a number of others went to Fort Wayne Monday to attend the Stough trial.

Herman Hursh came up on the Jackson train Monday noon. They had the misfortune to come near losing their store by fire the other day.

The Jackson road is to be consolidated with the Grand Trunk of Canada. It looks as if the Grand Trunk is seeking an outlet to Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Braun returned from their visit to Fort Wayne on Monday. Mr. Braun captured a fine pair of Texas horns while there. They are beauties to look at, but would not be very attractive on the head of a wild steer in hot persuit of you, and no tree near.

We are glad to learn that Dr. Geo. Murphy has, after so long waiting, received his pension and its accrued payments, amounting in all to nearly $4,000. Dr. Murphy was first lieutenant in the 30th Indiana volunteers, and received three gunshot wounds while in the service, one of them being quite severe. He has been obliged to wait on account of some lack of necessary papers. He will get a good pension.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned was dissolved on the 1st day of April 1882. All the outstanding liabilities of the late firm will be settled by the firm of McQuiston & Long, and all persons who are indebted to the firm of McQuiston & Ralston, will please call on the firm of McQuiston & Long, and settle the same—April 3rd 1882.

Wm. H. McQuiston,
14-2w. G.C. Ralston.

—Early Rose seed potatoes can be had of Ab. Kelley at Waterloo. 13-3

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield Center, pays the highest prices for all kinds of produce. Give him a trial. 14-tf.

Money to Loan.—The undersigned is desirous of loaning $16,000 at reasonable rates on good mortgage security. Applications for loans can be made to me at the office of James E. Rose, in Auburn.

14-tf. A. Conant.

—We call attention to the new advertisement of Root & Co., in this weeks paper. This house does a large trade in Whitley, Decatur, DeKalb and other counties, showing that they sell just as they advertise.

—The new Methodist minister at this place will be Rev. W. H. Daniels who was at one time at Waterloo. Rev. Norris goes to Goshen. Waterloo gets Rev. Waltz of Lima, Mr. Lacey goes to Pierceton where was stationed about fifteen years ago.

—Holders of DeKalb county orders are hereby notified that all orders registered prior to Oct. 1st 1881 will be redeemed if presented at the treasurer's office, in said county. No interest will be allowed after date of this issue.

L. J. MILLER, Treas.

New Spring Millinery.—Mrs. Clock has just received her new stock of millinery, and has a very nice assortment of trimmings, and the latest styles in hats and bonnets. Also a fine line of laces for dress trimmings. Third door north of Abright's jewelry store. 15-4t

—The B. & O. Reading Room at Garrett will be dedicated next Tuesday evening by a public opening. This is one of the finest reading rooms in the west, and has been fitted up at the expense of the company, who donate it to the club. It will make a pleasant resort for both residents and strangers.

—John Knoder is doing some fine work in wagons and buggies. He now has a nice bran new buggy just finished and a new two-seated spring wagon nearly ready. All his own work. It will pay parties to call and see him, as he will give them a bargain. He is ready to do all kinds of wood work in his line and all kinds of repairing. Give him a call.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA

HERE AND THERE.

THE public debt was whittled away $10,462,946 during the month of March.

DIVORCED women are rigidly excluded from presentation to Queen Victoria.

OVER 10,000 persons are working in Montana on the Northern Pacific railroad.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S first reception, the other day, was attended by 10,000 persons.

THE flow of gold from this country to Europe continues, but the stream, as yet, is not very large.

THE tide of travel from this country to Europe has set in, and is expected to run high this season.

THE small-pox is again reported to be spreading at many places—notably Ft. Wayne and Cincinnati.

A NEW and dangerous counterfeit silver dollar is reported to be circulating in the Western States.

"BILLY the Kid" has been sentenced to six years imprisonment in the penitentiary at Albany, N. Y.

THE Wisconsin Legislature has repealed a law of that State, which makes insanity a ground for divorce.

A BILL has been favorably reported to the Senate of Congress increasing the pension for total disability from $50 to $72 per month.

EX-GOVERNOR MOSES, of South Carolina, has again been arrested, in New York City, for swindling, by means of worthless checks.

THE snow was over two feet deep at Quebec on Sunday night, April 2d, and the severe storm was general throughout the Dominion.

THE Massachusetts Legislature has passed a bill giving women the right to practice as attorneys, and it will be approved by the Governor.

"CROW DOG," the Indian Chief, recently convicted of the murder of his brother Chief "Spotted Tail," is to be hanged on the 11th of May.

THE Emperor of Russia has found time while dodging the Nihilists to make his Empress quarrelsomely jealous of a pretty circus rider.

THE death of Hon. Stephen A. Hurlburt, United States Minister to Peru, is confirmed. He died very suddenly at Lima, on the 28th of March, of heart disease.

THIRTY-FOUR hundred dollars are in the hands of a committee appointed in 1878 by the Kentucky Legislature, to erect a monument over Zachary Taylor's grave, but $2,000 more are needed.

THE people of Salt Lake County, Utah, have chosen fifteen delegates to a constitutional convention, of whom two are Gentiles, two polygamists, three women, and eight monogamous Mormons.

A SCHEME is said to be under consideration by the Cabinet to replace the outstanding 3½ per cent. bonds with $200,000,000 of 2 per cent. legal tender notes, which the banks may include in their reserve.

THE national debt has been reduced in the amount of $1,000,000,000 since the close of the War of the Rebellion. The total debt now is $1,600,000,000. In 1865, the total annual interest of the debt was $150,000,000, now it is only $60,000,000.

A SHIPLOAD of Irish girls exclusively, none older than 23 years, landed at New York the other day. Situations had been secured for all of them as domestic, in advance, at New York, Boston and elsewhere.

IT is proposed in Congress to provide for the compensation of United States Marshals and Attorneys by fixed salaries instead of fees. It is said that under the fee system the compensation of some of these officials, ranges from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

ARKANSAS will elect one Congressman-at-Large this year. Among the Democratic candidates for the honor is Colonel Clifton R. Breckenridge, a son of the late Vice President John C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky. He is credited with possessing as much political ability as his father.

ON the trial in a Chicago court of a juror who had been corrupted, it was discovered that a juror sitting in the case had also been tampered with, and the counsel on both sides refused to proceed before that jury. It seems that the manipulation of juries has been reduced to a fine art in that city.

SPURRED up, probably, by the action of the American Express Company, the Committee on Post Office business of the House of Congress has concluded to recommend the reduction of fees on money orders of less than $5 from ten to seven cents, and to increase the maximum money order issue from $50 to $100.

GOVERNOR MURRAY in his Utah article published in the North American Review of April, says Brigham Young wrote to the King of the Sandwich Islands a few years ago, offering to bring the "saints" to his realm on condition that there should never be any interference with their religious rites.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER ARMSTRONG has written a letter to Attorney General Brewster, recommending that the suit against the Central Pacific railroad be pressed, and that suits be instituted against all Pacific railroads for arrears of contributions to the sinking fund under the Thurman bill, and be vigorously prosecuted.

THE Secretary of the interior, in response to a resolution calling for an estimate of the amount required to pay pensions to survivors of the Mexican and Indian wars prior to 1846, estimated that $65,380,480 would be required to pay Mexican war pensions, and $28,201,632 to pay pensioners of Indian wars; aggregate, $93,582,112.

IT appears, according to a Washington special, that Guiteau has sold his old clothes to Coup's circus—the suit he wore at the time of shooting for $200, and the one he wore during his trial for $150. It is the intention of the circus man to have a model made of the late president and the assassin, and to exhibit the same "all under one tent," Guiteau being in the act of firing the fatal shot.

A CURRENT item says the electric light in New York is not what has been claimed for it. The Brush company asks for a continuance of street service 70 cents per lamp per night, while the gas companies offer their lamps at $17.50 per year, or 4-8 cents per lamp per night. This is in the proportion of one electric lamp to 14 gas lamps and the distribution and uniformity of the latter make them more desirable, the local papers say, at that ratio.

THE Chicago Times thinks "Arthur's administration thus far promises to be one of eminent respectability. It is chiefly remarkable for negative virtues. The extreme deliberativeness of the President will prevent him from approving rashly any of the schemes of robbery and plunder that will be pushed for sharp action at the close of this session. In this way it will probably commend itself more to the approval of the public than a more vigorous slap-dash policy, with a trail of subsidies and jobs to rob the Treasury following in its wake."

THERE are 20,000 barrels of petroleum oil produced in the southern counties of New York State daily, fully one-third of the total oil product of America. About one year ago only one-sixteenth was produced. It is predicted that the State of New York will furnish the world half its light within a year. Alleghany county produces 16,000 barrels of oil daily, and Cattaraugus county, 4,000. Bolivir, one of the new oil towns, within three months, has grown from 200 people to 2,000. There are now four railroads running into the place, and it promises to become a second Bradford.

THE Pond bill taxing saloons in Ohio from $100 to $300 a year, according to location, is creating almost as much of a sensation there as does the prohibition amendments in this State. The constitution of Ohio forbids license to saloons, but it is hoped that the tax expedient will pass the ordeal of the courts. More effective legislation on the subject of the liquor traffic is generally demanded by the people throughout the Union, and every experiment in that direction will be watched with great interest.

UNITED STATES TREASURER GILFILLAN says there is a pressing need of a fractional paper currency. The demands for it in small quantities are coming from all parts of the country. It is needed for transmission through the mails of sums less than $1, and for certain classes of business that have been wholly destroyed for want of this medium of exchange. The latter applies especially to certain manufactures in New England, which are sent by mail on receipt of twenty-five cents, coin being too heavy and uncertain for this light traffic. Mr. Gilfillan says a good many complaints come from newspaper publishers, who get so many postage stamps that they don't know what to do with them, the government not redeeming them. The Taesaurer claims the right to issue this fractional currency, but an appropriation to pay expenses is first necessary. He advocates the issue.

IT is said that the bill before Congress making a 3-cent postage carry an ounce instead of half an ounce is likely to become a law. If it does, it will be a law of very doubtful propriety. Its effect will be a considerable reduction of the postal revenues without any corresponding general benefit. The ordinary half ounce letter, especially by the use of light paper, answers the general demand of correspondence completely, while the ounce letter would be a benefit to only a comparative few in sending samples, business cards, and other mail matter now subject to a separate cheap postage rate. The policy of keeping the postal expenditures as nearly as possible within the postal revenues is now depriving thousands and tens of thousands of people in this country of reasonable mail facilities. Thousands and tens of thousands are compelled to go many miles to get their mail once a week. The business of other thousands and tens of thousands suffers on account of slow mails, and while these facts exist it is not wise to decrease the postal revenues for the sake of a small benefit to a comparative few. It is a case in which Congress should be just before it attempts to be generous. The plain people are not demanding that a six cent letter shall be carried for three cents, while there are so many in the land who can scarcely receive or send a three cent letter, for want of mail facilities.

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Northern Texas crop prospects were never better.

The Guiteau bill of exceptions will be presented April 24th.

The shooting of Jesse James had been planned by the authorities.

Bowan, an ex-County Judge, assassinated Alf Hayes at St. James, Mo.

There are 4,698 vessels on the North American lakes, with a total of 180,998 tons.

Guiteau says he wants a free, full pardon from President Arthur or nothing.

The Guiteau bill of exceptions will, when completed, fill two quarto volumes of 1,000 pages each.

The House of Congress resolved to allow the publication of 90,000 copies of the first volume of the census report.

Ex-Vice President Schuyler Colfax has positively declined to run for Congress in his district of Northern Indiana.

At Palmyra, Arkansas, Mrs. J M. Ballard, supposed to have been insane, drowned her three little children and herself.

General Hurlbut, United States Minister to Peru, is reported to have died of heart disease at Lima on the 28th ult.

At Pittsburg the refinery of the Standard Oil Company took fire and was destroyed, involving a loss of $175,000.

A member of the New Jersey Legislature was given $500 to vote for the passage of a railroad bill. The affair will be investigated.

The President is waiting to hear from the Supreme court relative to the legality of Sergeant Mason's sentence, before he interferes.

Burglars robbed the post-office at Angola, Ind., of 12,000 postage stamps and then stole a hand-car, with which they rode out of town.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company will pay off their entire general mortgage bonds, amounting to $19,000,000, on July 18.

Elliott, a New York pugilist, who was getting ready to have a match with Sullivan, was arrested on an old charge of counterfeiting.

President Hinsdale, of Hiram College, the life-long friend of Garfield, will, it is believed, be appointed United States Minister at Honolulu.

At Albion, Dane county, Wisconsin, Thomas Trounson, while plowing, was struck by lightning and instantly killed, together with his horses.

Truman Dunham, a prominent business man of Cleveland, Ohio, was caught in the machinery at his Linseed Oil Works and instantly killed.

A St. Joseph (Mo.) dispatch states that Charles and Robert Ford, two ex-highwaymen of the James gang, shot and killed Jesse James in that city.

A physician from Fort Wayne, Ind., claims to be able to cure small-pox in three days. He was sent to experimentalize at the Chicago Pest House.

Scoville has prepared a petition to Congress asking that the bill for paying the witnesses in the Guiteau trial be amended to include fees for counsel for defense.

Jay Gould has not got enough of Mutual Union stock to secure the consolidation of that company with the Western Union, but he has enough to control things.

General Grant's only object in visiting the Senate was to secure the return of the Japanese indemnity fund, the holding of which is "a stain upon our national honor."

A man crazed with drink, shot and killed a fellow-passenger on a train between Sparksville and Medora, Ind. He then jumped from the train and drowned himself.

A Tucson, A. T., dispatch states that a party of fifty Chinese laborers who were going to work for a railroad contractor were fired at by a party of white workmen.

It is learned that Secretary Frelinghuysen has instructed Minister Lowell to apply to her Majesty's government for a stay of proceedings in the case of Dr. Lamson, the prisoner.

By the burning of the Territorial Insane Asylum at Yankton, D. T., Sunday, four of the patients who had been rescued ran back into the flames and were burned to death.

General Swaim is reported to be the authority for the statement that Dr. Susan Edson received $50 a day for giving bulletins to stock speculators from the late President's sick-room.

The Catholic Provincial Council in session in Cincinnati promulgated a pastoral, in which some very strong language is used and some "bad newspapers" indicated, the Irish World being specially mentioned.

In Vermont women who pay taxes have the right to vote for school officers, and to be elected such officers, but it is said that only five women in the State exercised the right to vote this year.

At Hopkinton, Mass., the shoe factory of Bridges & Co., was incendiarized and burned to the ground, throwing 600 hands out of work. Thirteen residences, the Town Hall, and a church were destroyed.

Since the autum of 1878, an act closing saloons has been enforced in Ireland, and it is claimed that the result is a decrease of $15,000,000 in the amount expended for intoxicants and 22,000 fewer cases of drunkenness.

A San Francisco dispatch gives the particulars of a desperate fight at Tombstone, A. T., between a deputy sheriff and a posse of three, and two cowboys, in which two men were killed and three wounded.

Arthur Mueller, for seven years Teller of the Central Bank of Indianapolis, has fled from that city, leaving behind him an indebtedness of $30,000. He is a prominent young German and church member.

The miscreants in Missouri who made the murderous career of Jesse James possible now propose to avenge his just and appropriate death, but Governor Crittenden has given orders to the militia to protect the Ford brothers who did the shooting.

The House Committee on Elections by a vote of 10 to 2 decided in favor of seating Lynch, the colored contestant from the "Shoe-string" District, Miss., in place of Chalmers, who is now in possession. When the report is presented a lively time is expected.

Colonel Dudley says his letter concerning appointments in his Bureau has been misunderstood. He does not desire that candidates for appointments should undergo a competitive examination. What he desires is that each should be tested as to his actual qualifications for the work he will will have to do.

Cornelius J. Vanderbilt, second son of the late Commodore Vanderbilt, and brother of the railroad king, William H., suicided at the Glenham Hotel, New York, at 2 p. m. Sunday, by shooting himself, and died at 6 o'clock the same evening. Despondency, resulting from chronic epilepsy, is believed to have been the cause.

Foreign.

Ex-Dictator Pierola has embarked and left Peru.

The French newspapers publish reviews of Longfellow's career.

Emigrants are arriving at Winnipeg, Manitoba, at the rate of 1,000 a day.

The English Board of Trade has notified the Channel Company to stop boring.

Arthur Herbert, an active land-leaguer, was shot dead Thursday near Castle Island, Ireland.

At a consistory at Rome Thursday, the Pope made several appointments to German bishoprics.

That bill admitting American pork passed the French Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 256 to 216.

The Cape Assembly (at Cape Town, South Africa) have resolved to allow debate in the Dutch language.

Skobeleff, the pro-Slavic crank, has been named for a position which will take him away from Russia.

At Tunis Te Deum was sung in the French Cathedral in honor of Queen Victoria's escape from assassination.

The Calderon government of Peru is now firmly united, thanks to the statesmanship of the late Gen. Hurlbut.

The steamship Douro, wrecked off Cape Finistere by collision with the Yurac Bat, had on Board $265,000 in specie.

An influential party in England are opposed to the submarine tunnel, connecting the "tight little island" with France.

Sixty-one persons are reported drowned from the wrecks of the Spanish and Brazilian steamer in the Bay of Biscay.

The man who defrauded Mr. Evans (the American dentist at Paris) out of 1,000,000 francs has been extradited from Brussels.

Bradlaugh, the infidel contestant for a seat in Parliament, has been adjudged a bankrupt in the Court of Queen's Bench, London.

Two Egyptian Cabinet officers have been detected in a plot for the restoration of the ex-Khedive. Their heads are endangered.

At a petty session in County Galway, Ireland, a Roman Catholic priest was committed for trial on a charge of inciting to murder.

The coronation of the Czar will be attended by the Khan of Khiva with a grand retinue, and the Ameer of Bokhara will send a special embassy.

Two steamships, one Spanish, the other Brazilian, collided off Cape Finisterre, and both sank. A passing steamer rescued eighty-four persons.

The Havana municipality has awarded two American firms contracts for a municipal loan and construction of water works, involving over $9,000,000.

Hanlan, the Canadian oarsman, won an easy victory over Boyd, the Newcastle champion, on the River Tyne, in the presence of an immense multitude.

The London Times notes the fact that four months elapse before his American friends put in the insane plea on behalf of Dr. Lamsen, the murderer.

The Egyptian Governor has ordered the depot of the English Railway Company at Alexandria to be destroyed. The company will appeal to their Consul General.

In Parliament Mr. Gladstone said that there was a strong presumption that the Land League was behind the awful crimes that had been committed by the Irish peasants.

Dr. Lamson, the sentenced murderer of Percy John, has been reprieved until the 18th inst., by the British Secretary of State, at the request of President Arthur, pending evidence as to his sanity to be sent to London from America.

A sensational dispatch from Paris states that General Ignatieff has learned that Sweden and Norway are pledged to support Germany in the event of war between that country and Russia, the restoration of Finland being the reward of the Scandinavians.

THE STATE.

A toll-gate keeper of Richmond named Hocket, who has spent twenty years in trying to solve the problem of perpetual motion, has at last struck what he thinks is a solution of it and he is sinking $500 in having a machine made.

The wife of Frank Whittaker, of Aurora, eloped the other night with Davis Lepper, of Seymour, leaving her infant asleep in its cradle and a note saying that she had gone with one she loved better. Lepper has a young wife at Seymour.

Eddie Fletcher, aged five years, living with his parents on Watt street, Jeffersonville, was impaled on a picket fence on Tuesday afternoon, and so very seriously injured about the abdomen that the attending physician does not think he can recover.

George Smith, a well-known trader of Palmyra, Harrison county, has turned up missing, and has not been seen for a month. He was last seen in the woods near Palmyra. As he had a large sum of money on his person it is feared he has been foully dealt with.

On Monday, while some neighbors were gathered to attend the funeral of Lee Beeson, near Omega, Hamilton county, the house was struck by lighting, postrating several persons and tearing the metal heel-plates from the shoes of two of the ladies present. No one suffered serious injury, but it was a close call.

Mrs. Jane Grace, of Richmond, put some benzine in a boiler of water on the stove preparatory to washing up a grease spot on the floor. The heat vaporized the benzine, and it took fire, the flames shooting up to the ceiling. To save the house she seized the boiler and carried it into the yard but the left side of her face and neck, and her left arm were ternibly burned.

The anti-vaccinationists of Indiana will hold a state convention in Kokomo on April 21. Dr. Haggart, of Indianapolis, will deliver the address.

The Methodist preachers of the Indianapolis district of the Indiana conference propose to hold, at Mooresville, April 24 and 25, a jubilee or thanksgiving convention in view of the recent revival, which has resulted in 1,400 additions to the church in that district. A good program has been prepared. The corner stone of the new church at Mooresville will be laid at the same time, with appropriate ceremonies.

On Tuesday evening the residence of Wesley Mauzy, four miles east of Rushville, was blown to pieces by an explosion of sixty-one pounds of Ætna giant powder. A brother-in-law of Mauzy's by the name of Kizer, had spread a lot of the material around the cooking stove, as it seemed to be damp, and had placed the other material near by. The powder caught fire from a spark and commenced smoking, when the hired girl, the only person in the house at the time, threw a bucket of water on the flames, and started to the well for another bucketful, when the explosion occurred. She is still in an unconscious condition, and will probably die. All the household goods, clothing, and everything was torn to pieces.

HON. "BILLY" WILLIAMS has been nominated by the President as Charge d' Affairs to Paraguay and Uruguay.

THE State Bureau of Statistics reports live stock in fine condition, and the wheat and rye crops above the average. Indiana never had better prospects of a plenteous and prosperous year.

Dr. Hawn has reconsidered his determination not to be a candidate for re-election as Secretary of State this Fall, the Republican managers deeming it best to present the names of all the present incumbents of the State offices for re-election.

Live Animals Thrown into a Crater

Hilo Letter in San Francisco Chronicle.

The boast of the missionaries and their friends as to the work accomplished by them in Christianizing the Kanakas received a rude rebuff about the end of October last. Ancient Hawaiian history attributes the periodical outburst of the volcano Kilauea to the power exercised by a mythical female, the goddess Pele. From time immemorial it has been the custom whenever a volcanic eruption took place for some notable chief or chieftainess to proceed to the mouth of the crater and throw various articles of food or drink into the burning mass as a species of offering. The eruption of 1856 passed over whitout any offering being made, but the avalanche of lava which threatened to destroy the town of Hilo during last fall having assumed gigantic proportions, the natives clamored for a repetition of the old custom. Notwithstanding the remonstrances of the missionaries, and the religious advisers of the present royal family, the Princess Ruth—a sister of Kamehameha, accompanied by a number of Kanaka chiefs, came from Honolulu and ascended to the crater. Into the burning, seething mass of lava two or three dozen fowls were thrown, a couple of goats and pigs immolated. Some garlands of flowers, and a dozen bottles of whiskey, rum and Holland gin served to wash the solid matter down the insatiable maw of Pele. Strange to say, the day after this performance, which wound up with a hula-hula the lava stopped off a thousand yards from the town. The natives attributed this occurrence to the sacrifice made by the Princess, much to the digust of the gospel-spreaders, who had vainly interposed their objections.

TABLE TALK.

Sealing-wax red is a new hue.

It is Michigan's off year for maple sugar.

Florida grows twenty-seven varieties of oranges.

Winchester, Ky., has an Ornithorhynchus club.

Arabella.—No, powder will not make your hair bang.

This country eats $1,000,000 worth of popcorn yearly.

Nine per cent. of Yale graduates become clergymen.

Jeff Davis has received $21,000 from the sale of his book.

"Dried rose leaf," is the tint of pink through ashen gray.

Sweet potatoes are now grown in Maine and Michigan.

Mary Anderson is getting a steam yacht for summer cruises.

A new kind of cigar is called the atheist. It burns readily.

Mrs. Van Cott has converted six hundred sinners of Oswego.

The Bendetta is reported to be really a thing of the past in Corsica.

A new comet is coming this way at the rate of 3,000,000 miles a day.

Ninteen congressmen return themselves as "professional politicians."

San Francisco's old vigilance committee bell is a fire bell at Truckee now.

The Chinese population of Chicago is about 350; that of St. Louis about 150.

Bands of music are forbidden to play on iron bridges, even on the strongest ones.

At a Buffalo express package sale, a man got a nice cork leg for seventy-five cents.

"If I rest I rust," is a German proverb. "If I trust I bust," is the American version.

A dog weighing six pounds has more strength in his jaws than a man weighing 200.

During the season from November 1st to March 1st, St. Louis packed 316,379 hogs.

If there is anything an undertaker hates next to a cheap funeral it is a cremation.

India must have 1,000 missionaries to give one Christian teacher to 50,000 heathens.

A Paris letter says it is getting to be the style for young girls to wear their hair in curls again.

The servants at some of the watering places this summer will be uniformed in the English style.

Gladstone's father once said that his son William would "ruin his country and die in the madhouse."

They are trying to break a will in the Brooklyn court because the testator, when alive, compared Peter Cooper to Jesus Christ.

It is estimated that beef shipped direct from Texas to the London markets will, when sold at 4½d. a pound, yield a profit of 1d.

April is bonnet month, and Jay Gould and Vanderbilt are making herculean efforts to hold the money market steady.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Pullman rode through Italy in one of their own palace cars, the first ever taken south of the Swiss lakes.

Monaco, whose 10,000 inhabitants live entirely on the profits of the gaming table, has 164 priests to look after its spiritual welfare.

A correspondent asks: Can hens be made too fat to lay?" That depends on the lay. If it is to lay inside of a lonesome stomach we don't think they can.

Teacher—"And how do you know, my dear, that you have been christened?" Scholar—"Please, mum, 'cos I got the marks on me arm now, mum."

Rochester's new hotel is to be called the Flower City, and the cost of the land is expected to be $200,000. The capital stock of the company is $500,000.

A circular is said to have been sent to all clergymen of New England asking them to preach on fast day upon the sanctity of marriage, and the present state of the divorce laws.

Fifty years ago no man considered himself well equipped for adventure or travel in the far West who did not carry with him a Hawkins Rocky Mountain rifle. The maker of these trusty weapons, Samuel Hawkins, is still alive and vigorous, though it is more than ninety years since he appeared in the world. His home is near St. Louis.

A roan Jersey short horn (cross breed) cow belonging to General Howard, of Buffalo, N. Y., is reported to have given 1,787 pounds of milk in one month, and to have yielded 21¼ pounds of butter in seven days. Her feed was grass and four quarts of ground corn and oats daily. This is extraordinary, if true.

The recent death of Mr. James Wyllie, the tenant of the farm of Mossgiel, near Muchline, Ayrshire, is noticeable from the fact that he occupied for forty years the land which Burns tilled, being the second tenant after the poet and his brother Gilbert. It was while at Mossgiel that the bard wrote some of his finest productions.

Encouragement.

One cold day three small children were left at home, with many cautions to be careful.

Hardly had the parents left, ere the woodwork near the stove-pipe was discovered to be on fire, and out of the children's reach; but with wonderful activity and energy, the eldest climbed the table and put out the flames.

When the father and mother returned, they shuddered to see danger to which their dear ones had been exposed, and with thankful hearts praised them for their courage.

"How did you manage, Tommy, to reach the fire?" asked their father.

"Why," said Tommy, I pushed the table up to the wall and got on that."

"And did you help brother, Jimmy?" to the next.

"Yes, sir; I brought him a pail of water and handed him the dipper."

"And what did you do?" said the proud father to his pet, the youngest of the group.

"Well, papa," said Artie, "you see I was too small to help put out the fire, so I just stood by and hollered 'Amen.'"

FROM WASHINGTON

Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, an Iowa lawyer and temperance lecturer, addressed the committee having the bill in charge, this morning, in opposition to Logan's measure to give the whisky tax for schools. Her argument was able and eloquent, and was closely listened to.

The bills for public buildings introduced in this Congress aggregate $17,000,000. It is probable a date will be fixed in the House soon after action on the tariff bill to consider these.

The hearing of the motion to quash the Star Route cases attracted much attention to-day. The prosecution is represented by Attorney General Brewster, District Attorney Corkhill, George Bliss, R. T. Merrick and Mr. Kerr, of Philadelphia, who drew the indictments. Colonel Ingersoll represents Dorsey; ex-Congressman Shellabarger and Jeff Chandler are for General Brady. The principal grounds on which is asked the quashing of the indictments are: "First, that no crime is stated; second, the courts cannot supervise a purely executive act or inquire into the acts done by the Executive Department of the government; third, the law requires the Postmaster General to report all the reasons which controlled him in increasing the service to Congress, which he did, the action being approved by Congress, which appropriated the money required to sustain it; fourth, that the Postmaster General, and not his first or second assistant, performed the acts complained of." If the indictments are overruled for either of the reasons given, there is an end to the cases.

Alexander Stephen visited the jail and had a talk with Guiteau, having never seen him. Guiteau has gained twenty pounds since his incarceration.

The rumors that the Western Union had obtained a controlling interest in the Mutual Union are untrue; but if so, it would still have an active competitor in the Baltimore and Ohio, which now has about 25,000 miles of wire.

Captain Leathers, a well-known steamboat man, appeared before the House Committee on Appropriations this morning, to argue in favor of Captain Cowden's scheme of lowering the Mississippi by an outlet into Lake Borgne. He argued that outlets of this kind presented the only plan to prevent the overflow of the Mississippi. He claimed that the Eads jetties stopped up the mouth of the river and caused the overflow this season. This charge that the jetties are responsible for the overflow created something of a sensation, which was calmed by the showing of the fact that the Mississippi was lower below the mouth of Red river this year, with the jetties than it was in 1874 without the jetties. Cowden's outlet scheme stands but little show.

The Democrats are much stirred up at Brewster's letter, demanding the punishment of violators of the Election law in South Carolina. It is claimed to be an attempt to coerce the South into Republicanism. Senator Butler goes home to assist the Democrats in the trial cases.

Mr. Hill, of New Jersey, addressed the Postal Committee this morning in favor of the reduction of letter postage to two cents.

Huge petition for the pardon of Mason continue to come in. The President is expected to act on Judge Advocate General Swaim's decision soon. Mlle Rhea, the French actress, will give a benefit to Mrs. Mason Tuesday afternoon.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that 29 per cent. of the Illinois corn crop of last year is still on hand, and 19 per cent. of the wheat crop. The amount of grain in the country is 45 per cent. less than this time last year. The Department believes that the cotton prospects are not so damaged by the overflow as is supposed.

Guiteau continues to abuse Scoville, who is disgusted at the prospects of his having to continue in the case. Scoville proposes to get up a petition for the commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment. He thinks it would be signed by two-thirds of the Congressmen and other persons of influence.

The reports from Mexico show the rapid progress of American railroads toward the city of Mexico. An important and favorable effect on the commercial and diplomatic relations of the two countries is anticipated.

It is said that Arthur is willing that Judge Folger should retire from the Cabinet to become a candidate for Governor of New York, and he probably will be nominated.

Secretary Frelinghuysen has telegraphed Mr. Lowell the President's personal desire that Dr. Lamson be reprieved until further facts are sent.

The bill for the sale of Indian lands in Minnesota is being opposed on the grounds that it permits the purchase of large quantities of valuable timber lands by one person or corporation.

The Secretary of War has ordered 250,000 rations to be delivered to-day to the State Commissioners of Louisiana. Secretary Lincoln has received $500 from the relief committee at Yankton Dakota, for the sufferers of the Mississippi Valley, with the request that it be placed at the disposal of the Red Cross organization.

Judge Blatchford took the oath and his place on the Supreme Bench to-day. It is the first time the bench has been full for several years.

There is much felicitation over the March reduction of the public debt—the largest, with one exception, of any month. The total reduction of the public debt since 1865 is $1,000,000,000. The total debt remaining is $1,500,000,000. The interest in 1865 was $150,000,000 per year; it is now $60,000,000.

General Raum, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, leaves Wednesday for Springfield, Ill., to see if he stands any show for the Senatorship.

The public printing office is much excited over the opposition that Mr. Rounds will make many changes. Senator Anthony, Chairman of the Printing Committee, is quite indignant at not having been consulted about Rounds' nomination. The owners of electric light and presses, who have been getting a royalty for their use in the printing office, are opposing Rounds' confirmation.

Senator Hampton says he doesn't intend to bring any complaints against Senator Sherman in the Senate, the facts being before the public now.

It is said the President will recommend the removal of the disabilities against Fitz John Porter, and an honorable mustering out with the rank of Major General, but no back pay.

Secretary Kirkwood says he is preparing to leave for home this week. He expects to hold office no more forever. He has been Governor, Senator and Cabinet officer, and feels now that he may rest.

The opposition to the incorporation of the Garfield Memorial Hospital inclines those in charge of the fund to change their plans and to use the fund for a monument. Mrs. Garfield is said to favor the change.

The death of General Hurlbut, United States Minister to Peru, complicates the affairs of the Shipherd investigation, and it now more than ever probable that the bottom will drop out of the whole affair.

Guiteau says that since the bill was completed he is sure of a new trial and of final dismissal. He says Judge Cox gave way to the blood-thirsty element when he sentenced him. Communism and nihilism will ruin the country, says Guiteau, and Chicago and New York are full of American nihilists.

The Department of State has received a dispatch confirmatory of the report of the death of General Hurlbut, United States Minister to Peru.

Secretary Hunt has received a cable message from Lieutenant Harber, at Irkutsk, as follows:

Subject to your approval and my inspection, have offered 10,000 roubles for a paddle steamer for the entire summer, with guarantee, if lost, of 40,000 paper roubles. If owner accepts, may I close? If not, how much may I offer and guarantee? Season advanced. Haste necessary.

The Public Lands Committee reported to the Senate to-day a bill to increase the salary of the Commissioner of Public Lands to $5,000 per year, and to allow him an Assistant Commissioner at $3,000 a year.

The Democrats are determined to oppose the tariff commission bill, and the bill for the admission of Dakota, by all methods possible. A long season of filibustering is expected.

The veto message was sent to the Senate at 1:15 this afternoon. The report that the veto had been sent in does not create much surprise. The California members say they are sorry, as they say it will lose the Republicans the Pacific coast. Mr. Pacheco said, in speaking to your correspondent on the subject, that he was very sorry the veto had been considered necessary, as it would creat great excitement on the Pacific coast and endanger the prospects of the party. If, however, it should be passed with the ten years clause, instead of twenty, it would not be so serious a matter, and he believed it would not cause the loss of the Pacific States to the party. He thought it would pass in that form and be signed. It is not considered probable that it will pass the Senate over the veto, and if it did, it would not pass the House. Mr. George, the Oregon member, is about the most disgusted member with the veto, as the election in his State comes very early—the first among the Congressional elections—and the result in that State, it is feared, may be disastrous to him. Mr. Berry, of California, is the maddest man of the lot. He is talking in an excited way to correspondents and members, denouncing the veto as a great outrage. The sentiment on the Republican side is that the President has done his duty, and the result will not hurt the party.

The President's veto of the Chinese bill was received at 1:20 p. m., and read immediately. The President said, that after careful consideration, he returned the bill with his objections. He held that it conflicted with the existing treaty obligations and violated the faith of the nation and hoped that Congress would endeavor to find another that would meet the expectations of the people of the United States, and not conflict with the rights of China. The President maintained that neither the representatives of the United States nor China, in making the treaty of 1880, contemplated any such prohibition of Chinese immigration as that proposed in the bill. He opposed the passport system proposed in the bill as undemocratic, and said he thought it unwise to introduce such a system in this country. The passport system, he said, is falling into disuse in Europe, and besides, he maintains that experience has shown that passports are easily borrowed or even forged.

The President said that Chinese labor had been of great value in this country, and that monuments to their industry existed. They had largely built the Pacific railroads across this continent, but it might wisely be considered now whether some limitation may be put upon the immigration of the labor, but if there be too much of it in one section of the country, the same labor may be needed in another section, and the law should consider this, and make such limitation as would permit this labor go where needed.

General Chalmers will not enter the Congressional race again, as his county, under the recent redistricting, has been placed in a district having 10,000 Republican majority.

Mr. Chalmers has presented a bill in the House by which he hopes to upset the scheme by which he was put into a Republican district. The bill provides that no district in any State shall have more than 10,000 population in excess of any other district except where it would require the division of the county, and, if so, it must not exceed by over 20,000; and if it does, the members shall be elected by the old district lines.

It is said the President, the Secretary of War and the Attorney General, disagree with General Swaim, and will probably overrule his decision and confirm Mason's sentence, though the time may be reduced by the President.

The President will send a pair of very handsome repeating rifles to the Sultan of Muscat and the Rajah of Tuluban, in recognition of their services to American seamen and other courtesies. The rifles are the finest ever made here.

Senator Logan leaves for Hot Springs, Arkansas, to-morrow. Senator Chaffee goes with him. His condition is still serious.

Shipherd, of Peruvian fame, says General Hurlbut's death cannot close his mouth, as he is forced to tell the facts in self defense. He says he has documents to show that General Hurlbut was a blackmailer, and he has charges against Blaine. The dispatches to the Peruvian Minister here indicate the highest regard for Hurlbut in Peru, and through his efforts Peru is likely to recover. A monument is to be erected to General Hurlbut as a friend of the Peruvian Republic. The ex-Dictator Pierola having left, Peru is in a more hopeful condition.

The veto message is generally commented on as able and just.

It is doubtful now if the bill extending the charters of the national banks is reached this session. If not, the banks whose charters expire can reorganize under the law.

A joint resolution passed the House, giving the use of tents to the Soldiers' Reunion at Rock Island, Ill.

The Democrats say they will carry Oregon at the June election, before the Republicans can recover from the effects of the veto of the Chinese bill; but they don't claim the other Pacific States.

The House is still struggling over the Army bill. It looks as though the committee's amendment transferring the Quartermaster's claims to the Court of Claims would scarcely get through. The compulsory retirement clause will probably pass.

The general belief is that Hurlbut's measurement of Shipherd as a knave and fool, is a pretty just one. His course before the committee this morning, justifies the belief that Shipherd's innuendoes about Blaine look very much as though Blaine had refusted to comply with some of his demands and that Shipherd was trying to bulldose him.

The friends of Irishmen are much relieved by Secretary Frelinghuysen's report. It is learned in addition that two of the three American suspects yet in prison are likely to be soon dismissed.

Senator Farley has prepared a bill to restrict Chinese immigration, which he will introduce to-day. It is the same as the veto bill except that it suspends Chinese immigration for ten instead of twenty years.

Senator Miller, of California, has introduced another Chinese bill. It is the same as the vetoed bill, except that it provides for the suspension of immigration for ten years. He says he expects other modifications to be made in the committee with a view of making the bill conform as nearly as practically to the President's views, as outlined in his veto. Mr. Miller says the opponents of the Chinese immigration will press a new bill with vigor, hoping to pass it at once, and to obtain the President's approval. He says the Pacific coast people now, if they can't have what they think is right, and what they want, will accept the best law they can get. There is an impression that the President will approved a bill that suspends immigration for only ten years, but nobody seems able to state how it originated. There is no good authority which assumes to have heard the President say so, and some members of Congress, who would support the vetoed bill, express a doubt as to the President's approval of a ten year bill. They say there is nothing in his veto to indicate a willingness to approve such a measure, but, upon the impression that he might do so, a bill containing a ten-year suspension, has been introduced.

Garfield and the Government Employes.

"Emma James" in Albany Evening Journal

To illustrate what I mean, in traveling through your State last Summer, on one of the days when President Garfield was reported as suddenly worse, a gentleman and his wife seated behind me were inclined to volunteer to me various particulars about the President's family, as if to enlighten the ignorance of a less favored human being. "You appear to be acquainted with them," I said with artless interest. "Probably, then, you are from Washington." "Yes," said the man readily, "and I know General Garfield very well indeed; I have held a $1,600 place in the Treasury Department for eleven years." Sorry to disappoint him by not being wilted by his grandeur, I said I was glad to hear that a department clerk held such pleasant relations with the White House people, that I had sometimes thought in several years' observation here that our public men were inclined to disparage the employes of the Government; and in conversations with General Garfield I had criticised him in my own mind as a little more than ordinarily disinclined to appreciate them as a class. "What are the circumstances of your acquaintance with him?" I added. "Well," he said, considerably nettled and flushing to his temples, "I have heard him speak several times in Congress. That's about the extent of my acquaintance with him." That which I referred to on General Garfield's part was the incident of a chance remark he made one day in meeting me in the corridor leading to the Secretary's office, Interior Department, where for five years I was a copyist, till the strength of my right hand failed me under its double duty. "Why don't you make a letter sometime about these Department clerks?" he said, in an amused way, as a sleek, slim young man with a pen over his ear, passed us on his way from one of the record rooms to his own desk, adding: "They all look alike. They havn't any backs to their heads." "I am a Department clerk myself, General," I replied, laughing. "Oh, well, I mean the men," he said, and hurried on. It is easy to understand how a full-brained, red-blooded, successful man of authority may feel just that half-contemptuous amusement in looking at these thousands of pigeon-holed and stranded men. I could heartily appreciate what I heard the General say on another occasion, "I would rather own a dray, or even a push-cart, and make an independent living with it than to be a hanger-on in a Government position, trembling with every change of the men in power over me."

Traffic in Chinese Women.

North China Herald.

An Australian Chinaman, when anxious to have a wife of his own nation, sends a letter to an agent in Hong Kong. The following is a translation of one of these epistles: "I want a wife. She must be a maiden under twenty years of age, and must not have left her father's house. She must have never read a book, and her eyelashes must be half an inch in length. Her teeth must be as sparkling as the pearls of Ceylon. Her breath must be like unto the scents of the magnificent odorous groves of Java, and her attire must be from the silken weavers of the Ka-Li Ching, which are on the banks of the greatest river in the world—the overflowing Yank-tse-Kiang." The price of a Chinese woman delivered in Sidney is £38; but two Chinese women only cost £52; therefore the heathen Chinese import the women in couples. The importer never sees his women before they arrive, and then he generally selects the best-looking one. The other is shown around to a number of well-to-do Chinamen, and after they have inspected her, she is submitted to what may be called a public auction. At a recent sale at Sidney a young girl, aged about nineteen, was offered, and, after some spirited bidding, she was purchased by a wealthy Chinese store-keeper, whose place of business was in one of the leading towns of New South Wales, for £120. The melancholy aspect of the Celestial girl, as she went away in company with the man who had purchased her, was deplorable to the last degree.

At the Great Battlefield.

Detroit Free Press.

After looking over the battlefield of Chancellorville I went back to the brick house for dinner. During my absence a little red-headed man arrived and he was introduced by the woman as her brother-in-law. As soon as I came in he began on:

"Vhas you under Sheneral Schackson in dis fight?"

"No."

"I tell you dot vhas an awful fight, my frendt. Blood poured out shust like it vhas raining. Maybe you vhas under Sheneral Lee, up der blank road?"

"No."

"Not under Lee? But dot Sheneral Lee vhas an awful fighter. May be you vhas mit Early, or at Fredericksburg?"

"No."

"So? Vhell, dat Early he vhas a splendid Sheneral, und he like to fight all der time. I feels sure you vhas mit Early. May be you vhas mit Hooker, eh?"

"No."

"Not mit Hooker down here! Den you vas mit Sedgwick up der road?"

"No."

"Vhell, by golly! Not mit Shackson nor Lee—not mit Hooker nor Sedgwick! Vhell! Vhell! Dot peats me all over!"

Both of us fell to and began eating, and nothing further was said until the meal was finished and we had gone out to look at some old cannon wheels in the yard. Then my friend put his hand on my shoulder, lowered his voice, and said:

"My frient, if you vhas not mit Lee, nor Schackson, nor Sedgwick, nor Hooker in dis fight, may be you unt me vhas in der same blace?"

"May be so. Where were you?"

"In Canada!" he whispered.

He called 'good-by' after me as I rode away, but I wouldn't have answered him for a hundred dollars.

The man who sells four quarts to to the gallon is the best product of the Christian religion.

Extremely long-skirted, tailor-made coats are to be much worn this spring.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat, it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.,
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

GET THE BEST!
RATHBONE, SARD & CO
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES
LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,
MANUFACTURERS
ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,
ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 25, 1882.
Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.
Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL BRINGS A SEED STORE
LANDRETH'S GARDEN SEEDS
Founded 1784.
To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

Minneapolis
MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
ATCHISON
Leavenworth
MISSOURI
KANSAS CITY

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y
Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!
Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.
Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."
The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.
What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.
Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.
Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.
The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:
At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C. B. and Q. R. Rds.
At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N.-W. R. Rds.
At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.
At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.
At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.
PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.
Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.
For information not obtainable at your home office, address,
R. R. CABLE,
Vice President and General Manager.
E. ST. JOHN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
[illegible]

Funnygraphs.

Rifle practice—Pocket-picking.

A trance-action—Walking in your sleep.

Fact, really!—Some Scotchmen can live on Ayr.

If it takes ten mills to make a cent, where are the profits on a barrel of flour?

Cold weather wanted:

Here lies the man who beat the printer,
Oh, how his soul doth long for winter!
—[Whitehall Times.

Fogg says he never finishes a cigar, but he thinks "Another temptation removed from the young man of America."

That settles it: Who says it is unhealthy to sleep in feathers? Look at the spring chicken and see how tough he is.—[The Sanitarian.

A church pew was advertised for sale in Rochester, "commanding a beautiful view of the entire congregation."—[New York Commercial Advertiser.

A bride is reported to have lately said: "I told all my friends to have my name put on my presents, so that if divorced, George should not be able to claim them."

Notice at the door of a ready-made clothing establishments in one of the poorer quarters of Paris: "Do not go somewhere else to get robbed; walk in here.—[Argonaut.

"Can't you trust me," murmured Spilkens to the daughter of old Moneylender. "Not without real estate security," replied Isabella absent-mindedly.—[Keokuk Gate City.

The question is repeatedly asked: "Must the Chinese go?" Yes, we suppose they must. At least they seem to have had considerable go in them up to the present writing.

A Chicago woman while touring in Oregon, frightened off a bear simply by shaking her skirts at him. The motion probably brought her feet in view.—[Philadelphia News.

It is now claimed that Satan prevailed over Eve by imp-ortunity.—[N. Y. Herald, P. I. Has it been demonstrated?—[Commercial Bulletin. Yes, it is the latest devil-opment.

It knocks all the love out of a man to have the music suddenly stop and every man in the ball-room hear him ask his girl: "Can I hold you a little when we get home?"—[Cortland News.

"So your daughter has married a rich husband?" "Well," slowly replied the father, "I believe he has married a rich husband, but I understand he is a very poor husband."—[Burlington Hawkeye.

A man who detected a piece of bark in his sausage, visited the butcher's shop to know what had become of the rest of the dog. The butcher was so affected that he could give him only a part of the tale.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

Miss Henrietta Newcome — In answer to your question about "unkissed kisses," we may say we are prepared to unkiss any kisses we may have kissed outside the family for the last five years.—[Harvard Lampoon.

Æsthetic wife (sobbing)—"Dearest, I will; and I will see that your grave is kept green also, (reflectingly), but not one of those horrid bright colors. A nice olive gray green, with an old gold tombstone, will look too awfully lovely for anything."—[The Town.

A French newspaper informs its readers that a veterinary surgeon, residing at Charleville, has succeeded in amputating the gangrened leg of a cow, and replaced it by a wooden one. The cow, it is said, is now perfectly well, and walks easily upon the artificial limb.

They had been engaged to be married fifteen years, and still he had not mustered up resolutions enough to ask her to name the happy day. One evening he called in a particularly spoony frame of mind, and asked her to sing him something that would "move him." She sat down to the piano and sang: "Darling, I am growing old."

Bad case of consumption: "A more shocking spectacle," exclaimed the indignant old lady, "I never beheld." The simple fact was that she had surprised Julia's lover in the act of depositing his head upon Julia's shoulder, a proceeding to which the young lady was making no visible resistance. Mrs. Marrowfat has very strict notions of propriety and went on to say: "That a daughter of mine should be capable of permitting such liberty almost freezes my blood to think of. How do you explain it, Julia?" Julia suffers her parent to cool off a little and then, with a countenance as undaunted as that of the bronze gladiator on the mantelpiece, haughtily says: "Mother, you do both Frank and me an injustice. We weren't making love at all. I had complained of a pain in my chest, and he was only sounding my lungs."—[Brooklyn Eagle.

How To Get Sick.—Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise, work too hard without rest, doctor all the time, take all the vile nostrums advertised, and then you will want to know how to get well.—Which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters! 14-2w

---

NEW DRY GOODS STORE !

J. C. BOYER.

Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc., etc.

My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and large, and for the NEXT 60 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS, GLOVES, MITTENS, NOTIONS, ETC.

At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying for you can save money by buying of me.

☞ All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.

J. C. BOYER,
WATERLOO, IND.

New Meat Market

Opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers. He has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.

Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. 4tf

W. L. BRAUN.

KIDNEY WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES! WHY?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints.

SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

Eugene B. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years.

Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says her boy was given up to die by four prominent physicians and that he was afterwards cured by Kidney-Wort.

M. M. B. Goodwin, an editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was not expected to live, being bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him.

Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says that seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications was ended by the use of Kidney-Wort.

John B. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and after taking "barrels of other medicines," Kidney-Wort made him well.

Michael Coto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him "well as ever."

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

☞ It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form in tin cans, one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

☞ It acts with equal efficiency in either form. GET IT AT THE DRUGGISTS. PRICE, $1.00

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Prop's, (Will send the dry post-paid.) BURLINGTON, VT.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B[illegible]

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE WARRANTED.

OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF.

FISTULA, RECTAL [illegible] CONSULTATION [illegible] CURED

Being the only

EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE

in Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of

TAPESTRY,
BODY BRUSSELS,
AND WOOL CARPETS

At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS !

MODERWELL AND STUDOR,
Successors to
S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO
FT. WAYNE, IND.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to affect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, '32. 2-tf.

THE WOOL CORNER BUSTED

—:o:—

The Cotton Market "Ker-flum-ixed !"

Our man Nap-Em-Quick has been quietly taking advantage of the situation. If you want to see the largest assortment of

BEAUTIFUL STYLES
—OF—
SPRING CLOTHING,

Sold Regardless of Cost of Manufacture. Examine what we offer.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.

On corner east of Postoffice.

New Material of all Kinds,

—AND—

GOOD WOORK

GUARANTEED.

GIVE US A CALL !

J. M. RICE & SON, Auburn, Indiana.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches,
Watches,
Clocks,
Clocks,
Castors
Castors,
Spoons,
Spoons,
Forks,
Forks,
Knives,
Knives,
Chains,
Cnains,
Rings,
Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES !

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,
GENERAL AGT'S, ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
54 S. MERIDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

OZONE

—THE—

KING FORTUNE MAKER

The Only Practical Preservative of Perishable Articles, both Animal and Vegetable, Preventing Decay or Putrefaction.

☞ Preserves Meats, Eggs, Fish, etc., indefinitely and with complete success.

EGGS can be purchased when cheapest, and preserved for any length of time, at a cost of One Mill per dozen, and other articles at same proportionate cost.

There is a Gold Mine in every County in this State for some live man.

TEST PACKAGES OF OZONE

Containing sufficient material to preserve from 500 to 1,000 dozen Eggs, sent to any address upon receipt of $2.00.

INDIANA DEPARTMENT
PRENTISS PRESERVING CO.
Address, JOSEPH BROWN,
La Fayette, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED

IN EVERY COUNTY,
Who should order a Test Package and secure County AT ONCE.

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

Manufacturers of the

Best and Lightest-Running

Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on South Main street, Auburn, Ind. 21 tf

$1,000 Reward.

for any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DEBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 915 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. $1. Sold by Davenport, the druggist.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad

SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas, Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via. Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R. R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 18[illegible].

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 30	7 55	....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	....
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 40	11 50am
Detroit	9 50	7 05	4 05pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	5 22
Jackson Lv.	7 15am	12 [illegible] pm	7 10
Hanover	7 50	12 32pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 18	9 28
Reading	8 42	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 55	1 43	10 25
Fremont	9 12	2 05	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 25
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 03	2 52	12 25am
Auburn	10 13	3 03	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 25	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 30
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55	....	6 35
Louisville	10 15	7 25am	7 30
St. Louis	....	8 40	....
Washington	....	9 05pm	....
Baltimore	....	10 15	....

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am	....	8 10pm
Washington	10 20	....	9 27
St. Louis	6 40pm	....	7 50am
Louisville	....	8 00am	....
Cincinnati	9 00	7 35am	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00	....
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 45pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 03	3 05
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 03	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 06	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 23pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07	....	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 20	7 30am	4 30pm
Lansing	6 35	8 20	....
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	....
Bay City	9 20	11 56am	....

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 30 a. m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 38 p. m.; west—12 45, 3 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 8 35 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m., 2 30 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 59, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m; west 2 15 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 24 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 2:18 p. m. west—11:06 am. m., 7:34 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 30 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 55 p. m., west, 5 35, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 6 15 a. m. 2.00 p. m.; ar. 2 06, 7 15 p. m. P., Ft. W. & C. east, 5 00 a. m., 3 35, 8 15, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 50, 6 30, a. m., 12 40, 2 40, 6 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as [illegible]

Through tickets to all points [illegible] information [illegible] connections apply [illegible]

H. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l F't & Pass'r Agent

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipment! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N Y. Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 25pm
Elkhart	1 50pm	10 10	1 00am	1 00am
Kendallville	3 48	11 20	5 25	11 30pm
Corunna	3 58		6 25
Sedan			7 05	2 00
Waterloo	4 10	11 50	7 30	[illegible]
Butler	4 24	12 10am	8 20	[illegible]
Toledo	6 40	2 40	1 50pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Chi Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 00pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 06	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 18	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 25
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:[illegible] a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:4[illegible] p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage.

J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to

H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

—o—

CHICAGO DIVISION.

—o—

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 22, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. B. G. Ex.
Chicago lv	5 30pm	9 10am	6 45am
Walkerton Junction		12 00am	12 07pm
Milford Junction		1 24	1 30
Syracuse		1 30	1 36
Cromwell		1 52	1 56
Albion		2 12	2 20
Avilla		2 34	2 42
Garrett	10 33	2 53	3 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	3 04	3 09
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	4 24
Defiance	11 52	4 25	5 12
Deshler	12 40am	5 22	6 15
Fostoria	1 30	6 20	7 10
Tiffin	2 12	6 45	7 45
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	7 10	8 40

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 30pm	6 10pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 30	7 44	9 10
Fostoria	10 54	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 32	9 42	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville		11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 28
Avilla		12 36	1 52
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 20	2 45
Syracuse		1 34	3 03
Milford Junction		1 45	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 05	4 30
Chicago ar	8 55	6 10	7 35

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec. 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv.	9 20am	3 30pm	6 20pm	9 20p
Ft. Wayne	3 35pm	9 15	11 56	5 15a
Crestline	9 00	12 40am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield
Pittsburgh Ar.	6 00am	6 57	1 40pm	6 55p

STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	pm	10 50p
Mansfield
Crestline Lv.	7 15pm	2 05pm	am	7 25a
Ft. Wayne	12 50am	5 55	6 40	1 00p
Chicago Ar.	6 50	10 30	11 00	7 35p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:45 am.; Warsaw, 8:55 a. m., Columbia, 9:35 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:40 p.m.; Plymouth, 6.45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
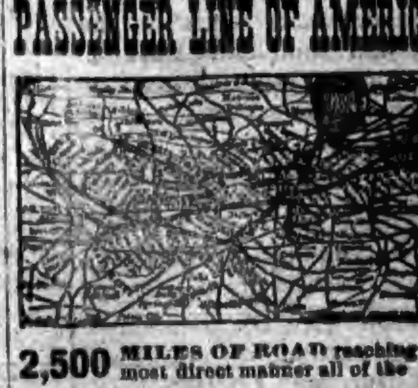
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON, Agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager.
H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent, St. Louis.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, APRIL 20, 1882. Number 16.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

P. V. HOFFMAN.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will practice in all the state courts, and in the United States courts. Office on west side of Main street over Ed. Eldridge's.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates, municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 ly

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M.D.

Drs. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey [illegible] medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D.

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence, North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.

June 14, 1881. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.

Probate Cause No. 261.

William Shutt, executor of the will of Asa Fletcher, deceased, vs. William W. Cary et al—In the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, May term 1882.

To J. Willard Fletcher, Harriet E. Austin, Henry Washburn, the unknown heirs of Milo Washburn, Herman Wilman, Louisa Olney, the unknown heirs of Minerva Welman, Maria Washburn, whose name is unknown, and Hannah Washburn, whose name is unknown, impleaded with others:

You are severally hereby notified that the above named petitioner as executor of the will aforesaid, has filed in the DeKalb circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition, making you defendants thereto, and praying therein for an order and decree of said court authorizing the sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and pending, is set for hearing in said circuit court at the court-house in Auburn, Indiana, on the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court, the same being the 15th day of May, 1882.

Witness, The clerk and seal of said court, this 3d day of April, 1882.

14-3w JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

MUSIC MONEY

$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send a 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide[illegible]

CARD COLLECTORS, send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards [illegible] Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO. 10-13w.

BOYS send a [illegible] mail a package including [illegible]

The Popular Creed.

[Charles P. Shiras, the author of the following poem, died in Alleghany City, Pa., some twenty-five years ago, at the early age of 39 years.]

Dimes and dollars! dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!
If a man is down, give him a thrust!
Trample the beggar into the dust!
Presumptuous poverty's quite appalling,
Knock him over! kick him for falling!
If a man is up, Oh! lift him higher—
Your soul's for sale and he's a buyer!
Dimes and dollars! dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

I know a poor, but worthy youth,
Whose hopes are built on a maiden's truth;
But the maiden will break her vows with ease,
For a wooer cometh whose claims are these—
A hollow heart and an empty head,
A face well tinged with the brandy red,
A soul well trained in villainy's school—
And Cash—sweet Cash—he knoweth the rule;
Dimes and dollars! dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

I know a bold and an honest man,
Who strives to live on the Christian plan,
But poor he is, and poor will be;
A scorned and hated wretch is he—
At home he meeteth a starving wife,
Abroad he leadeth the leper's life—
They struggle against a fearful odds,
Who will not bow to the people's gods!
Dimes and dollars! dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

So get ye wealth! no matter how!
"No question asked" of the rich, I trow!
Steal by night, and steal by day!
(Doing it all in a legal way).
Join the church, and never forsake her,
Learn to cant and insult your Maker;
Be hypocrite, liar, knave and fool;
But don't be poor! remember the rule;
Dimes and dollars! dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

The Thirty-Ninth Parallel.

BEDFORD, IND., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—A few miles north of here a company of United States surveyors are at present camped engaged in surveying the line of the thirty-ninth parallel of latitude. The survey was begun on the Pacific coast over two years since, and has been conducted by a number of detachments. Where one would stop work another would begin, and so on. The company alluded to commenced operations in Missouri, and will continue until they reach the eastern boundry line of Ohio. It will require another year to complete the work.

"Mother Has Recovered."

Wrote an Illinois girl to her eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney-Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her, so that she can do as much work now as she could before we moved west. Since she has got well every one about here is taking it."—See Adv.

* * *

He was asking a conductor how he managed to build a house and buy a fast horse out of his fifty dollars a month. "You see," said this noble man, "we sometimes get a way passenger who pays a quarter or a half a dollar for his fare. Well, we flip the money up—heads for the conductor, tails for the company." "But," persisted the investigation after truth, "sometimes it must turn up tails. What do you do then?" "Oh," replied the conductor, with an ineffable contempt, "then we flip it up again." So that passenger went home and sold his railroad shares.

* * *

A WORLD OF GOOD.—One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other bitters, as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old-fashioned boneset tea, that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters.—[Nunda News. 16-2w.

* * *

The quicksilver mines of California furnish more than one-half of the world's product. The estimated product for the current year throughout the world will be about the same as last year, or 115,000 flasks of which Spain and Italy are credited with 48,000 flasks, Austria 12,600 flasks, and California with 55,000 flasks.

* * *

Before the school geographies secure the information, we note the appearance of a island on the Russian coast, in the sea of Azoff, which is about one hundred feet in diameter and ten feet above the surface of the water. Its appearance was attended with a marine eruption and a fissure in the land on the shore near by.

* * *

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

Home, Sweet Home.

THE MAGIC OF MUSIC ILLUSTRATED BY A REMINISCENCE OF JOHN HOWARD PAYNE.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., April 4.—From a gentleman who just reached this city from Indian territory, the Times correspondent learned of a new and interesting chapter in the history of the life of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home." Payne was a warm personal friend of John Ross, who will be remembered as a celebrated chief of the Cherokees. At the time the Cherokees were removed from their homes in Georgia to their present possessions, west of the Mississippi river, Payne was spending a few weeks in Georgia with Ross, who was occupying a miserable cabin, having been forcibly ejected from his former home. A number of prominent Cherokees were in prison, and that portion of Georgia in which the tribe was located was scoured by armed squads of the Georgia militia, who had orders to arrest all who refused to leave the country.

While Ross and Payne were seated before the fire in the hut, the door was suddenly burst open and six or eight militia men sprang into the room. Ross' wife was seated on a trunk containing many valuable papers and a small amount of money, and at the unexpected intrusion she sprang up and screamed wildly. Ross spoke to her in the Cherokee language, telling her to be seated, as she would thus save the contents of the trunk, and, as she sat down again, the intruders told Ross that both he and Payne were under arrest and must prepare to accompany the squad to Milledgeville, where they would be imprisoned. The soldiers lost no time in taking their prisoners away. Ross was permitted to ride his own horse, while Payne was mounted on one led by a soldier. As the little party left the hovel, rain began falling, and continued until every man was drenched thoroughly. The journey lasted all night. Toward midnight Payne's escort, in order to keep himself awake, began humming: "Home—home—sweet—sweet—home," when Payne remarked: "Little did I expect to hear that song under such circumstances and at such a time. Do you know the author?"

"No," said the soldier, "do you?"

"Yes," Payne answered; "I composed it."

"The devil you did! You can tell that to some fellows, but not to me. Look here, you made that song, you say; if you did (and I know you didn't) you can say it all without stopping. It has something in it about pleasure and palaces. Now pitch in and read it off; and if you can't, I'll bounce you from your horse and lead you instead of it."

This threat was answered by Payne, who repeated the song in a slow, subdued tone, and then sang it, making the old woods ring with the tender melody and pathos of the words. It touched the heart of the rough soldier, who was not only captivated but convinced, and who said that the composer of such a song should never go to prison if he could help it. And when the party reached Milledgeville, they were, after a preliminary examination, discharged, much to their surprise. Payne insisted it was because the leader of the squad had been under the magnetic influence of Ross' conversation, and Ross insisted that they had been saved from insult and imprisonment by the power of "Home, Sweet Home," sung as only those who feel can sing it. The friendship existing between Ross and Payne endured until the grave closed over the mortal remains of the latter.

His Last Dose.

Said a sufferer from kidney troubles, when asked to try Kidney-Wort: "I'll try it, but it will be my last dose." The man got well, and is now recommending the remedy to all. "When derangement of the stomach acts upon the kidneys and liver, bringing disease and pain, Kidney-Wort is the true remedy. It removes the cause and cures the disease. Liquid (very concentrated) or dry act equally efficient.—[Am. Cultivator.

State University.

We have received a number of copies of the Daily Sentinel, containing a very interesting and exhaustive article on the State University at Bloomington. These papers are intended for distribution, and may be had by calling at this office. Teachers, parents and others interested in this excellent institution should call and get a copy and read it. It will prove interesting. 14-3w

Trying His Own Case.

HOW HE GOT ON THE JURY—AN INCIDENT IN THE NEW YORK COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

An incident that is probably without a parallel in the records of jury trials in any country, took place at the February term of the court of common pleas in this city. At a trial term, before Judge Daly, an action to recover the value of goods alleged to have been obtained on false representations, was called in its proper order on the calendar, and counsel for both sides answering ready, the clerk began the drawing of a jury in regular form. Richard S. Newcombe, law partner of ex-Judge Cardozo, appeared for the plaintiff, and ex-Judge A. J. Dittenhoefer for the defendant. The drawing of the jury progressed very rapidly, while ex-Judge Dittenhoefer was busy looking over his papers and talking to his law clerk, with his client, David, at his side. Presently, looking up and seeing that one more juror was to be obtained, and that the trial was about to begin, he turned to ask David a question, but he was gone. Mr. Newcombe a few minutes later, began the opening statement of the plaintiff's case before the twelve jurors, and in the course of his remarks attacked David's reputation as a business man very savagely. The absence of David annoyed ex-Judge Dittenhoefer very much, as he desired to have his client present to listen to the charges made by the plaintiff's lawyer, and to ask him if they were facts. He sent his law clerk out into the corridors to look for David, but he could not be found. Disgusted and annoyed, he leaned back in his chair listening to Newcombe's tirade against the defendant, and as his eyes ran along the faces of the two tiers of jurymen, he could scarcely believe his senses when he recognized his client, David, seated as one of the "twelve good men and true"—a juror on the trial of his own case. David was listening in the most careful but unmoved sort of fashion to all that Newcombe was saying about him. When Newcombe had finished his address he called his first witness to be sworn; but just then the ex-judge rose and whispered in his ear: "Dick, I don't want to go on with the case now. Can't you, as a favor to me, let it go over to next term?"

Newcombe, with evident earnestness, replied sharply: "No, I can't do it; the case has got to be tried now and here. You've been hanging it up and holding it off long enough, and my client is impatient. He wants his money, and he thinks already that I'm not pushing the case. No, it's got to go on now."

"It can't go on now," replied Dittenhoefer.

"Oh, but it can, though, and it must go on!" was Newcombe's vehement rejoiner. "I cannot agree to any postponement at this stage."

"Well, it won't go on," said the ex-judge with some show of decision in his voice. Newcombe looked indignant, but before he could say anything more Dittenhoefer's mouth was close up to his ear whispering: "Look here, now, Dick, you had better not try this case with this jury."

Newcombe looked startled, and, facing the ex-judge, said eagerly: "What do you mean—you don't mean to say you've got a friend on the jury?

"I do," said the other, "and I can depend on him to stand by my client." Newcombe turned to the jury, and with his keen black eyes scanned their faces quickly and closely, and in an instant dropped back into his chair, utterly dumbfounded, as he recognized David among them. There was a quiet laugh between himself and the ex-judge, and then Newcombe asked, "How did he get there?" "I haven't the remotest idea," replied the Dittenhoefer. "I was more surprised than you are when I saw him there." The two lawyers held a consultation with Judge Daly, and as a result the jury was dismissed, and the case went over for trial at the March term.

When David came from the jury-box to where his lawyer was seated, the ex-judge asked him why he went into the jury-box. "Why? They called my name and told the jurors to take their seats in the box, and I did so." "Don't you know better than that?" asked the lawyer. "Do you suppose you could go there and give judgment in your own case?" "I do," replied David, "because I guess I know more about it than the other jurors do."

The explanation of the affair is, that David, who is a rather illiterate Polish Jew, is a citizen, and is on the jury of the court of common pleas, and his name happened to be drawn for the jury that was to try Blumgard vs. David, without the clerk or anyone else noticing that the names of the men were identical. It is, perhaps, proper to state that at the March term trial of case David did not get on the jury, and Blumgard recovered judgment against him.—N. Y. Times.

The London Dust Man.

There he goes! A dusty gloom hangs over the roofs of great London city, a similar gloom fills my room and seems to have touched all the furniture with smoky age, and as I look down from the window into the gloomy street, I see him coming along slowly, and crying in a voice like a plea for help in affliction: "Dust-oh!—dust-oh!—dust-oh!"

When the London fog is grey we cannot see him very far off, for he, too is gray from head to foot with dust, and as he approaches us he comes out of the mist like phantom, though in reality he is a substantial, square-built, deep-chested fellow, shod with enormous Blucher shoes (the soles of which are bright with nails), and clad in a loose, blouse and trousers that are tied up about the knees. The blouse is open at the chest, and is lifted to the wrists by his big, brown hands, which are thrust in his trouser pockets, and his head is covered by a kind of hat that sailors call a sou'wester. His only ornament is a pair of ear-rings; and with his head thrown back he saunters along the street by the side of his cart, repeating in measured tones his cry, "Dust-oh-oh!—dust-oh!"

Now and then he stops at a house, and his mate—he has a mate who is as much like him as a pea is like a pea—descends into the cellar, brings forth ashes and refuse that have accumulated in twenty-four hours, and when the cart, which is a square, box-like affair, is filled he starts for home with his load.

When a queer home it is! Far on the outskirts of the city, far away from the finer streets and buildings, a large space of ground is as gray and dusty as an African or western desert, and is broken by mountains of ashes, some only a few feet high, while others are almost as high as houses,—quite as high, in fact, as the dismal little shanties on the edge of the reservation, in which the dust-men and his fellows live. Other carts and other dust-men are constantly coming and going, dumping one load and then [illegible] the load is dumped it is attacked by a crowd of men, women and children, who with shovels, rakes and hooks, turn it over and over, and raise stifling clouds of dust.

The reader may think that the collections made by the dust-men are valueless, but such is not the case.

There are more than 300,000 inhabited houses in London, consuming more than 3,500,000 tons of coal in a year, and besides the ashes from this great quantity of fuel the dust-men gather the other refuse of the houses. He is employed by a contractor, who divides every load into six parts, as follows: Soil, or fine dust, which is sold to brickmakers for making bricks, and to farmers for manure; brieze, or cinders, sold to brickmakers for burning brick; rags, bones and old metals, sold to marine store dealers; old tin and iron vessels, sold to trunk makers for clamps; bricks, oysters and other shells, sold for foundation and road building; and old boots and shoes, sold to the manufacturers of Prussian blue.

It is in sifting the different parts of a load that the men, women and children are employed; they are as busy as ants; mere babies and wrinkled old dames take a part in the labor, and all of them are so covered with dust and ashes that they are anything but pleasant to contemplate, though as a rule, they are useful, honest and industrious members of society.

"Dustie" is what the Londoners familliary call the dust-men, and only a few know in what ignorance and poverty he lives. One would think that he would work himself into a better occupation, but his family have been dust-men for generations, and the generations after him are not likely to change.

* * *

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has rapidly made its way to favor among druggists, who have observed its effects on the health of their customers. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for pamphlets. 16-2w.

* * *

NEW SPRING MILLINERY.—Mrs. Clock has just received her new stock of millinery, and has a very nice assortment of trimmings, and the latest styles in hats and bonnets. Also a fine line of laces for dress trimmings. Third door north of Abright's jewelry store. 15-4t

* * *

MONEY TO LOAN.—The undersigned is desirous of loaning $16,000 at reasonable rates on good mortgage security. Applications for loans can be made to me at the office of James E. Rose, in Auburn. 15-tf. A. CONANT.

ROOT AND COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.

Are now making a [illegible]

SPRING GOODS.

—OUR—

SILK SUITS

Are represented [illegible]

—AND—

SATIN MARVEILLEUX SUITS

Need only to be seen to be appreciated

[illegible]

PARASOLS

—AND SUN—

UMBRELLAS

Embracing all the Novelties of the season

WHITE GOODS:

TIES,
LACES,
LINENS,
CRAPES,
GLOVES,
RIBBONS,
HOSIERY,
CURTAINS,
UNDERWEAR,
EMBROIDERIES,
ETC., ETC.

The most extensive, varied and attractive assortment of

DRY GOODS

OF ALL KINDS

That we have never before been able to offer to our patrons, and at prices that must be satisfactory to the close cash buyer.

ROOT AND COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, [illegible]

EASTER-EVEN.

HARRIET M'EWAN KIMBALL.

For Easter Day, O lilies white,
Your shrined splendor keep!
But while the sweet, and waning light
Of Easter Even fades,
Amid the sacred shade,
When Sorrow comes to weep,
Nor weeps in vain,
[illegible]
And Pain its pangs in joy forgets—
There breathe your balm, sweet violets!
Dear twilight-flowers whose lovely hue,
More tender than the tender blue,
[illegible]
[illegible] tears;

"A little while!" it seems to sigh,
"An[illegible] a little while!" ye say
"The stone shall noiseless roll away;
Unseen across the midnight sky,
[illegible]
Already angels throng the air,
And twain, descending, kneel,
Veiled in awe, at head and feet
Of that new tomb whose broken seal
The wondring Morning shall reveal,
And 'He is risen!' declare."

THE THREE GREENS.

A DETECTIVE'S STORY.

Shortly after the Crimean war, an individual whose right arm was incased in splints and hung in a sling, entered a magnificent jewelry shop, the proprietor of which was a Mr. Joseph Green. The stranger had that in his appearance which is generally styled distingue; his carriage and garb revealed the military veteran, and his manners the finished gentleman. At the door halted an elegant cabriolet, and the gentility of its owner was made apparent by the plain but neat livery of the groom, and the choice trappings of the handsome blooded horse.

The stranger stated that he was desirous of procuring a complete silver table-service, rich, solid and elegant, but with little ornamentation. Could Mr. Green prepare such a one for him? The goldsmith answered, of course, in the affirmative, and showed several patterns to his visitor, who then described very minutely the style in which he wished the articles to be made, and asked by what time they could be got ready. At the same time he insisted on punctuality, saying he must use the set at a reception he would soon give at his residence in Leicester Square. Green promised to have it done in three weeks, and then the two parties discussed the terms.

The jeweller very carefully made all his calculations, and demanded £1200. The stranger reflected a few moments, then said he had determined upon getting a service at a cost of £1500, and requested Mr. Green to add as many more pieces to the set as would fix the price at the same. Mr. Green thanked the gentleman for this mark of confidence, and inquired of him to whose recommendation he owed his patronage.

"No one has recommended you to me," replied the stranger.

The jeweler looked up in surprise. The stranger, who had hitherto worn an air of dignity almost amounting to austerity, now became more friendly, and continued;

"I am a soldier. I have served for years in India, and more recently in the Crimea. At Balaklava I received a severe wound in my right arm and hand, which will perhaps disable the member for life. My patronage you owe to your parents, grandparents, and, in fact, to the whole line of your ancestors."

The jeweler was amazed and bewildered. His parents, and other ancestors, had long been dead, and could not have referred the soldier to him. The latter apparently enjoyed Mr. Green's perplexity, and smilingly continued:

"I will make myself clearer. When in consequence of this unfortunate wound,"—here a sudden twinge in his arm made him start painfully—"I was compelled to leave the service, I resolved to settle down in London. While riding out, the other day, my attention was attracted by the appearance of your splendidly-furnished shop, but more so by the name of your sign, for mine is precisely the same. To this simple circumstance you owe the present visit of Colonel James Green, of the Grenadier Guards.

The jeweler expressed his delight at the honor of being the namesake of so distinguished a warrior, and after a few more phrases of this sort the conversation reverted to the business in hand.

"May I now inform you," said the jeweller, with some hesitation, "of the conditions which must generally be complied with previous to making a sale?"

"No," said the colonel, sharply, "I have my way of doing business. You and I do not know each other; and although my order is not an uncommonly large one, still it amounts to a sum with which you cannot credit a stranger. I will, therefore, pay you £100 cash down, for surety; the remaining £1400 when I call for the service."

Mr. Green accepted the proffer with profuse thanks.

"You need not thank me," the officer interrupted. "As I remarked, I always have a way of my own, from which I never like to deviate. Now do me the favor, and take my portemonnaie from my coat-pocket; my unfortunate Balaklava wound"—the colonel again winced with pain—"has lamed my right arm and hand completely."

Mr. Green expressed his sympathy in the warmest terms, carefully pulled the portemonnie from the veteran's coat-pocket, opened it, at the latter's desire, and from four or five new £100 notes took one, which the colonel requested him to keep. Mr. Green wrote off a receipt, and placed it in the pocket-book, which he very carefully restored to its resting-place. He then assisted the colonel to enter the carriage, and the groom—Colonel Green could not drive on account of his injured arm—rapidly drove off in the direction of Leicester Square. The jeweler, though much overjoyed, was a cautious business man, and, notwithstanding the considerable deposit, proceeded to make his safety certain.

In the "War List" he readily found the name and rank of his customer, just as it had been given; and from the estate agent, who rented out the splendid mansion in Leicester Square, he had ascertained that it had recently been occupied by Colonel James Green, of the Guards, and that the latter had brought most excellent recommendations from his banker and sundry other distinguished personages.

In the course of the three weeks, at the end of which the set was to be done, the colonel often came into the shop to see how the work was going on, and always discoursed so affably with the goldsmith that the latter could not find sufficient words of praise for his genial customer when speaking to others about him. At last the service was completed. It was placed upon a large table in the counting-room, and covered with blue velvet. Punctually at the stipulated time in the afternoon, Colonel Green entered the shop, his elegant cabriolet with the blooded horses remaining before the door, in care of the groom.

The officer stepped into the counting-room, and Mr. Green, swelling with pride, removed the velvet cover from the service. The Colonel, though usually a quiet man, declared that it surpassed his most sanguine expectations, and greatly insisted upon paying the entire £1500, and also upon the jeweler retaining the deposited £100 as a douceur for the satisfaction he had given.

"You owe me no thanks my dear Mr. Green," warmly said the colonel to the delighted goldsmith. "Give me your hand and again receive my heartfelt acknowledgment for this superb masterpiece."

The jeweler's beaming countenance, on grasping his namesake's hand, can be better imagined than described.

"Now to business," said the colonel. "Be so kind as to take out my pocket-book, and count off your $1500, for I do not wish to tarry a moment before showing your chief-d'œuvre to my wife."

The jeweler hastened to comply. He took from the officer's breast coat pocket a card-case, a set of ivory tablets, and a silk purse, through whose meshes glittered some five or six sovereigns—but no pocket book. Upon the colonel's request, he then examined all of his pockets. The search was futile.

"Strange! Incomprehensible! Could I have lost it, or been robbed?" muttered the colonel, audibly, perplexed and provoked. "What o'clock is it?" he suddenly asked.

"Twenty minutes to five."

"Good! It is time enough. You must make yourself serviceable to me once more, my dear Mr. Green, and act as my secretary. You know I cannot use my right hand. Will you have the goodness to writes a few lines for me to my wife?

With these words, the colonel stepped to the jeweler's desk, on which lay some writing paper printed with the name of the firm. Taking a sheet he placed it before the jeweler, saying, "This will do. My wife knows that I am here." He then dictated, and the jeweller wrote:

"MY DEAR WIFE:—Have the goodness to send me at once £1500 through the bearer. You know where the money is kept. I am in immediate need of it; therefore do not detain the messenger, who is a trustworthy person.

"Your affectionate husband,
"JAMES GREEN."

"Thank you," said the colonel, after perusing the epistle. "Michael," he cried, stepping to the door and calling the groom, "take this letter, ride home as fast as you can, and return at once to this place with that which my wife will give you."

The groom took the letter, bowed, and quickly drove off.

Fifteen minutes, half an hour, nearly an hour passed away, and Michael did not return. The colonel waxed impatient, and wished that he had gone in person for the money. The jeweler essayed to tranquillize him, but ineffectually.

"I have always regarded the fellow as honest and trustworthy," said the colonel, "and have on several occasions intrusted him with large sums of money, though, it is true, never with as much as at this time. Fifteen hundred pounds may have proved too strong a temptation for him." Pulling out a magnificent gold watch, he continued, "I will wait just seven and a half minutes longer, for that is exactly the time it takes him to drive hither from Leicester Square."

The seven and a half minutes were gone, and the groom had not come. The colonel could contain himself no longer.

"Do me the favor, Mr. Green, to call a cab, he said, in the greatest impatience. "I shall go home myself, and will return within half an hour."

The cab was soon at the door.

"Quick to Leicester Square!" cried the colonel to the coachman. "A half-crown extra, if you drive well."

The cab drove off as rapidly as the horses could go. The goldsmith in the meantime had the service packed up, and waited for his patron's return. The clock struck six, seven, eight, nine. The colonel did not come! Something unusual must have detained him; but the jeweler felt no anxiety, for had he not still the service and a deposit £100?

Tired of waiting at last, he closed his shop at half after nine and went home. His wife, who had long been expecting him, had grown sleepy, and was slumbering peacefully on a sofa. An open letter lay in her lap. Mr Green stepped lightly to her side, intending to wake her with a kiss, when his eyes fell upon the letter.

"What is this he cried, dumfounded as he recognized his own handwriting and the letter which he had just written for the colonel.

The reader can readily guess the sequel and the connection.

True, there existed a Colonel Green who had served in India and the Crimea, and had been wounded at Balaklava, who had rented the house in Leicester Square, and who possessed a considerable fortune; but, alas! he was not the Colonel Green who had ordered the silver service. Heaven knows by what means the sharpers had gained knowledge of all the facts, and circumstances upon which they constructed their admirably ingenious plan.

The man personating the groom of course was an accomplice, and the letter which Mr. James Green had penned for the pseudo Colonel James Green was delivered by him to the jeweler's wife, who did not hesitate a minute to deliver to him the £1500, because she recognized her husband's handwriting upon the paper stamped with the name of the jewelry firm. Who the sly rogues were never came to light.

A brilliant black on iron and steel may be produced by applying, with a fine hair brush, a mixture of turpentine and sulphur boiled together. When the turpentine evaporates there remains on the metal a thin layer of sulphur, which unites closely with the iron when heated for a time over a spirit of gas flame. This varnish protects the metal perfectly, and is quite durable.

TALE OF A TRAMP.

A Chapter of Misery and Misfortune in Real Life Not Surpassed by Any Book of Fiction—A Secret Marriage that Brought Disgrace and Death to an Innocent Girl and Sank a Young Man of Great Promise to the Degradation of a Common Tramp.

St. Louis Republican.

"For God's sake, sir, will you assist me to obtain a meal and a night's lodging, for I'm actually starving in this great City of St. Louis."

Those were the words of supplication and entreaty addressed to a reporter of the Republican one evening last week at the corner of Fourth and Pine sts. The latter paused, and the speaker went on: "I have not tasted any thing for two days, although I have begged for it from door to door; and can not get even the most trivial kind of labor, though willing and anxious, God knows, to work if I can get it, no matter how menial or hard. I am not a beggar, sir, as it would seem, but I now have no other resort save to solicit assistance to appease my terrible pangs of hunger or succumb to starvation. If you can give me work I will gladly accept it, and bless you from the bottom of my heart to the last day of my life; but in the name of humanity I entreat you to help me to get something to eat."

The speaker's manner of address at once aroused the sympathy of the scribe as well as his imperative need, and, after a few words of explanation, the exhausted man was taken to the Commercial restaurant, and a substantial meal ordered. While the man was devouring with evident relish the victuals placed before him a study of his face was made. He appeared to be a man of about forty-five years of age, though the deep lines traced by time and care upon a still attractive face may have misled the closest observer. Long, dark lashes shaded a pair of dark, piercing eyes, while the contour of the face bespoke refinment. His shapely head was covered with dark hair slightly tinged with gray, and, despite soiled and tattered garments, there clung about him a certain air that spoke of and more prosperous circumstances, while his speech betrayed the gentleman, as did his manner. During the progress of the meal not a word was exchanged between the two who sat at the table. The one was engaged in satisfying the cravings of the inner man, while the other studied the external appearance of his strange companion. At last, the meal being finished and the hunger appeased, the man spoke!

BETTER DAYS

"I am greatly indebted to you, sir, for your timely charity, and if I can in any way show my appreciation I shall only be too glad to do so."

It was intimated that his appearance and language indicated that at some period of his life he was not as destitute as the present found him, and that the circumstances to which he owed his present condition might be interesting. At this suggestion he colored slightly, and, after some hesitation and considerable persuasion on the part of the writer, related the story of his checkered career. Only in one or two instances did he refuse to give names of places and dates, excusing himself by stating that the publication of his story might cause pain those whom he wished to shield from the jibes and jeers of an unsympathetic world. The story ran about as follows, the language being given so far as it can being recalled:

"I was born amid those Berkshire hills of Massachusetts, 'rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun,' immortalized in those lines of Bryant, in a quiet country village. My parents, Watson by name, were considered more than well-to-do, and belonged to the wealthy class. I was reared at the village school, and at an early age formed a strong attachment for the daughter of my father's nearest neighbor, Nellie——. I will not speak her name in full, though she is long since dead, for there are others living who would suffer keenly should they chance to see this story of a wrong committed and two lives wrecked years ago, after the matter has been so long buried within the sacred confines of their true hearts. But I will tell the story, now that you have requested me to do so, and tell it truly. Nellie was

MY FIRST LOVE.

As a school-boy I fought for her, ran her errands and brought her the choicest fruits and flowers. The years sped by and we grew strong in love and youth, looking forward to the time when the heighth of happiness should be compassed by our marriage. Nellie and myself were very anxious to be married before we were of age, but our parents refused to listen to our entreaties, saying that a year or two of waiting would not detract from the fullness of our happiness when the proper time came for us to shrae it. My father decided to make a lawyer out me, and during my nineteenth year I was sent to a preparatory college in a neighboring State. Before I went Nellie and I canvased the matter in our minds thoroughly, and strongly rebelled against being separated even or a short time. I was, of course, to return home during vacation weeks. During the last week of my stay at home previous to leaving for college Nellie and I were much together. We took long walks in calm moonlight nights, and planned how we could coax the old folks into letting me remain at home and study medicine with the old village doctor, just so as to be near Nellie. It was of no use, however. All our plans failed and the time drew near for my departure. With heavy hearts we separated, and for thirteen long weeks we never saw each other. We wrote to one another almost daily, but when vacation came I had made up my mind, with the advice of a friend, to marry Nellie clandestinely, if she would consent, for I grew desperately afraid that during my protracted absence at college I might lose her. The summer came and I returned home with high hopes. Looking back now, over the years of desolate and weary life, I can imagine that perhaps no two young people ever enjoyed themselves as Nellie and I did during the long summer days of my vacation. When it was about half gone, I broached the subject of a secret marriage to her, but at first she refused to listen to me. Poor girl! Had she only continued in the strength of her first resolution, how different our lives might have been!

"I pressed my suit with all the fervid ardor of a passionate lover, begging and pleading, until at last she consented, little dreaming that she was in assenting to my wild and romantic proposal. We arranged it all one beautiful summer afternoon beneath the shade of a noble old elm that stood in the front yard. I was to come the next evening and take her for a drive. We were to extend our drive to another State, where the marriage laws were not so strict, and where we were not known. At the appointed time the next evening I drove up to the door, and soon Nellie was by my side; but what a changed creature. She was pale as death and shook from head to foot. She told me of her fears at the step we were about to take, and urged me to give it up, but I only begged her the harder to grant my wish. To make a long story short, I will state that we were finally married that evening and returned to our homes. Nellie would not consent to retain the certificate of our marriage, which was made out in the regular order and contained our own names, for fear of detection. I must keep it and guard it well. We were to keep the marriage secret just a year, at the expiration of which it was to be made public. Is it possible for me to forget those days of joy and pain and misery? Poor Nellie! How she changed! There came into her eyes a wild, terrified look, and at a very sudden noise she started with fear. No one dreamed of our secret and we seemed safe, and we were happy in each other's love. But there came a change at last to us all, bringing death and desolating hearthstones.

SIGNING HER DEATH WARRANT

"We were parted at last with many heart aches, I to return to college and Nellie to hug her secret close during the long days of my absence. Within her heart a double secret was now locked, and I can fully realize with what misgivings she saw me depart, and what agony she suffered. I carried our marriage certificate to college with me, believing it safer than at home, where prying eyes might accidentally find it, but stern fate followed me. In the trunk where I kept our treasured marriage certificate had collected a mass of old letters from home and friends, and one day I resolved to destroy all that were not worth preserving. I sat down to the task, and as fast as these old relics were condemned I cast them into the fire. Some I burned without looking at their contents. When my work was completed I looked for our certificate, but could not find it. I ransacked my trunk from top to bottom, but it was

NOT TO BE FOUND.

A terrible suspicion flashed across my mind that I had in some unaccountable manner burned it with the rest of the old refuse letters. I grew sick and faint at the thought. Again and again did I search that old trunk through, but without success. It was gone. For days I went to my recitations in a semi-unconscious condition. I thought of writing to the minister who married us, but dare not for fear of detection, but resolved to seek him out during vacation. Neither did I dare inform Nellie of my loss. This was only the beginning of the trouble that blasted our lives. Fate seemed bent on our destruction. Before vacation came a fire that over which the minister who married us presided. The record of our marriages and deaths was kept in the study in the church, and also destroyed by the devouring flames. The minister who was old and feeble, was taken sick before I reached home, and, when I arrived, was too ill to see me. The great mental strain under which I at this time labored began to tell upon my own health, though I tried to be cheerful and happy in the presence of Nellie. Every day I called at the parsonage, but received the same reply—"too ill to see any one; come to-morrow." My vacation was a sad one to me, and Nellie was filled with an undefined dread, that was increased by my mysterious manner. I returned to the college with the information imparted to me by Nellie burning into my soul liked melted lead. I promised to return the second week and make public the fact of our clandestine marriage six months before. Here I was again doomed. During a game of ball I was unfortunately struck on the head and rendered unconscious. Friends carried me to my room.

DESTROYED THE CHURCH

BRAIN FEVER SET IN

and for four months I hovered beween life and death a raving lunatic. During my sickness what horrible events transpired! The only person who could give me the right to call Nellie my wife had died, and I had nothing to show that she was my wife. My marriage certificate was gone, the record consumed by fire and the minister dead who united us. But the worst I have yet to relate. During my sickness my letters had acumulated, and when I was able to read them they were handed me. Almost the first I opened contained a revelation that threw me into a relapse from which it took me weeks to recover. It was six weeks old when I opened it, and ran thus:

"I am soon to become a mother, but have been turned from my father's door, who will not believe one word of our marriage. Come to me at once.

"Your wife,
NELLIE."

"Well, I managed to reach home at last, only to be confronted by indignant and angry parents. My statements they would not believe, but branded me as a seducer and coward. I could find no trace of Nellie. I advertised in the papers, but without avail. Then I set out to hunt for my dear lost wife and child. It is needless to recount my wanderings. Suffice it to say that at last I found the grave that hid them both. Over the little monud I wept bitterly tears of grief and anguish at my cruel negligence in not securing proof of our marriage before it was too late, and a trusting, loving woman was driven into the cold world by stern, unforgiveng parents, without one word of explanation. Since then I have been a wanderer all over the world—sometimes a miner digging for gold, and sometimes a sailor, visiting the great ports of the globe. Since I left home I have never returned, and do not mean to. Of late I have been unfortunate. Lately I arrived in New York from a long voyage. Visiting Chicago I found no work of any account and went further west. I have wandered back here, and am as you found me to-night—destitute, but willing to work. These, sir, are the circumstances of my life."

Such was the story of this man who applied for food in the great City of St. Louis. Work he already has. The story of his life is given to the world, but none who meet him will know the depth of his misery and woe.

The Dead Desperado.

It is quit well established that the death of Jesse James was accomplished through an arrangement with Governor Crittenden and Police Commissioner Craig, of Kansas City. Governor Crittenden stated in Kansas City, yesterday, that the first meeting with Ford was at the St. James hotel there, on the 22d of February, and the arrangement by which Jesse James was to be either captured or killed was consumated. He was noncommittal as to the disposition to be made of Ford and Little, but admitted that their ultimate pardon was improbable. The Ford brothers are in jail on a charge of murder, sworn out by Mrs. James.

About two weeks ago, Jesse wrote to Dick Little that he would remain long enough to kill him, and then he and his brother would put the water between the United States and their families. Governor Crittenden says Frank James will be either captured or killed in the next two weeks.

Frank James is declared by his friends to be a helpless invalid.

The very briefest outline of the career of the James boys makes a long list of crimes. Jesse was born in Clay county, Mo., in 1845, the son of Rev. Robert James, a prominent and eloquent Baptist minister, who died in California in 1851, and Miss Zerelda Cate, of Scott county, Ky., a famous beauty. At the age of 16 he joined Quantrell's guerrillas, and took part in the Lawrence and Centralia massacres. After the war, with his brother Frank, he went to Texas. Since which time, the following robberies and crimes are laid to his gang: Russellville, Ky., bank, 1868, $14,000; Gallatin, (Mo.) bank, same year, killing Capt. Sheets, the cashier; Corydon, (Ia.) bank, 1870, $40,000; Columbus, (Ky.) bank, 1870, $200, killed the cashier; Kansas City agricultural society ticket office 1872, $10,000; St. Genevieve, (Mo.) bank 1874, $4,000; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train, 1874 $5,000; number of stage robberies in Arkansas' 1873; Iron Mountain train; Gads Hill 1874 $21,500. In attempting to capture the gang for this, John .W Wicks and Captain Hull, detectives, were killed; Kansas Pacific train, Muncie, $24,000 and a lot of jewelry; Duvall Askren, killed in Clay county, suspected of piloting detectives to the house of Mrs. Samuels, mother of the James boys. A shell thrown into the house to illuminate the interior expolded, killing Mrs. Samuel's 14 year old boy, and tearing off her right arm; Huntington, West Va., bank, 1874, $6,000; Texas Pacific train, Otterville, 1876 $25,000; Northfield, Minn., bank, 1875, attacked, the cashier killed. A fight esued between the robbers and citizens, Bob Younger and Frank James being shot, and the Younger brothers captured; Chicago and Alton train, Glendale, 1879, $30,000; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train, Winston, 1881, $50,000; Chicago and Alton train, Blue Cut, 1881, $28,000. It is estimated that the total of their robberies reached $1,000,000. Nearly all the gang are dead or in prison.

How the Gay Young Man Took in the Liveryman.

Waterbury American.

They are telling this story about town for a fact: One day recently a young man while apparently heavy with tanglefoot, presented himself to a certain liveryman and asked for a team to take a ride. "Never let teams to intoxicated parties," was the stiff reply. This blunt rebuff almost sobered the young man. It also provoked him to anger, and he went off into a profane whirlwind in the Bombastes Furiso style, ending with shaking a plethoric wad of greenbacks in the face of the astonished stable-keeper, and offering to buy the best single team in the barns. "Hitch up quick, and I'll pay you now," he said. "All right," was the reply, and a $300 team was prepared, the money paid over, and as the man drove away the generous liveryman, who was elated over a good bargain, said to the purchaser, "If you bring the team back all right you can have the money again." This ended the first act of the play. Three days after this, however, there came a climax. For then it happened that the man returned with the team and demanded that the stable-keeper look it over carefully and see it was all right. He did so and pronounced everything in perfect order. "Well give me my money and take your team back then," said the man. The stableman, who never goes back on his word, counted out the $300 promptly and returned it, and the man started to go. "Hold on," shouted the other, "you owe me $12 for the use of the team." "I never pay other people for using my own team," was the reply of the gay young man as he sauntered away and never returned.

Three Mad Cats Attack a Man.

From the Lawrence (Mass.) American.

Yesterday afternoon, as Mr. Frank A. Small was sitting at the desk in A. B. Straunard's office, in the Essex yard, three cats, which have lived about the premises for some time past, came together into the building, and suddenly springing upon the desk, made a furious attack on Mr. Small's right hand; they pounced upon him as they might sieze a rat, biting and scratching the flesh in a savage manner. So vigorous and presistent were the three animals that Mr. Small had serious difficulty in defending himself and driving them off; the cats appeared perfectly wild, seizing, climbing upon and tearing the window curtains, overturning and breaking a lamp upon the desk, with other antics, until finally, two ran out of the shop, the third hiding under a pile of lumber. M. Small covered his lacerated hand with a handkerchief, and calling two of the workmen, succeded in dislodging the secreted cat, which thereupon made a dash for a window, going out through one of the lights of glass. Mr. Small had his hand dressed by Dr. Dow. The strange action of the cats is a matter of curious speculation.

JOCOSITIES.

The difference between a blonde and a locomotive is that one has a light head and the other a headlight.

Nothing so much destroys a man's peace of mind as to hear a woman express her intention of giving him a piece of hers.

A lady in reply to some guests who praised the mutton on the table, said: "Oh! yes, my husband always buys the best; he is a great epicure."

It takes but thirteen minutes to load an elephant on a railroad train, while it takes twenty for any sort of woman to kiss her friends good-bye and lose the check of her trunk.

"Aunt Jane," said an exasperated wife, "I wish it was a custom for women to change husbands, as it is for men to trade horses." "Why my dear?" "Because if it was, I'd cheat some woman before sundown."

"Prince Leopold"—Don't pay the minister over $20. You will need all your currency the first time Helena puts her dimpled arms around your twelve-inch neck and tries to trade off two kisses for a spring bonnet.

A Philadelphia paper which offered a prize for the best letter accepting an offer of marriage, didn't award it to the one which said: "Fetch on your clergyman." They don't appreciate terse common sense in Philadelphia.

A New York broker has recently been married to a "spirit bride" by a spirit clergyman. There's a gauziness about this that is unequaled by any bridal arrangement we have learned of. Well spirit brides do not require sealskin sacques and such like.

A young man calls himself an astronomer's assistant, and says he makes his observations "on her father's front gate." One of these days he will get the declination, and her father will come out and give him the right ascension in no minutes and three seconds.

"Well, now, Joe," said Gov. Vance, "do you really believe in this election by God what you speak of?" "Deed I do, Massa Vance," said the negro seriously, with a shake of the head. "Well do you think I am elected to be saved?" "Scasely know, Massa Vance, but I nebber heerd of any one being 'lected what wasn't a candidate."

A little satire is better than a great deal of argument. It's an old story, but, like an old sermon, it can be profitably used a second time, since it is good. A venerable and sedate Quaker was standing by the side of a lady at a fashionable reception who "had nothing to wear," and who wore it. Her dress was all right at the lower end—that is, it dragged on the floor for a couple of yards, tripped up just a dozen gentlemen during the evening, who apologized politely and then retired to the smoking room, where they expressed their opinion with proper freedom, but at the upper end it began very low. "Don't you think it very cold here?" she said to her companion. "What can I put on?" The Quaker looked at her for a moment and then said quietly, "I really don't know, Sarah, what thee can do, unless, perhaps, thee put on another breastpin."

EXPRESSIONS.

Prejudice is a despot.

Blood is the brute's victory.

This world belongs to the energetic.

The really beautiful is always beyond.

The way to get a start in life is to start.

You can be decided without being offensive.

He who throws dirt must soil his own hands.

Do not despise another because of poverty.

Do not hold the opinions of others in contempt.

Seek less to be recognized as great than be great.

He who seeks for pity must be content with tears.

The wisdom of ignorance is the the folly of the world.

Working for others is the short road to opportunity for self.

Justice may frown and be loved; but it is hateful if it squint.

The one answer to all criticism, the best test of all work is—result.

Our bravest lessons are not learned through success, but misadventure.

Conversation enriches the understanding but solitude is the school of genius.

Advice to wives—Man is very much like an egg; keep him in hot water and he is bound to become hardened.

The best advertisment of a workshop is first-class work. The strongest attraction to Christianity is a well-made Christian character.

If we keep well and cheerful and the mind constantly active we never grow old. By and by we get to the end of the journey but we never grow old.

Scorn not the slightest word or deed
Nor deem it void of power,
There's fruit in each wind-wafted seed
That waits its natural hour.
No act falls fruitless, none can tell
How vast its power may be,
Nor what results enfolded dwell
Within it silently.

No one need to rise above his present situation who suffers small things to pass unimproved, or who neglects, metaphorically speaking, to pick up a penny because it is not a dollar.

A word that has been said may be unsaid; it is but air. But when the deed is done, it cannot be undone, nor can our thoughts reach out to all the mischief that may follow.

It is the habitual thought that frames itself into our minds. It affects us even more than our intimate social relations do. Our confidential friends have not as much to do in shaping our lives as the thoughts have which we harbor.

Filial affection is the corner-stone of good morals and the most essential element of order and discipline in the State. Even in the republics of antiquity the rulers were styled fathers. The very name "father" is itself a law of justice and imposes the highest obligations.

Mental emotions are as real as physical sensations. A thought is as real as a star, a sorrow is as real as a thunderstorm. Our joys and griefs are great revelations. Man has a spiritual perception whereby he apprehends the Almighty. "The pure in heart shall see God."

A FREEZING IDYL.

We stood on a bridge at evening,
Myself and the Lady Clare,
While the moon on the waters shimmered
In its mantle rich and rare.
And I swore by its silvery sadness,
By the stars in the heavenly blue,
That I loved the Lady Clare
With a love that was good and true.

But she gazed on the flowing river,
While her thoughts seemed far away,
And I saw by the moonbeams dancing
That her eyes looked cold and gray,
And on either side the mountains,
Like sentinels stern and drear,
Arose o'er the peaceful waters,
While their shadow gathered near.

"I have loved thee, Lady Clare,
These many changing years;
Thine eyes have been my polar-stars,
Thy smiles my hopes and fears.
Thou art my life, my love-light;
For thee I breathe alone:
Oh speak, fair Lady Clare,
One little word, my own!"

And then, where the moonbeams lingered
By the gently gliding stream,
I told the old, old story,
And it seemed like a happy dream.
Then she turned in her queenlike beauty,
While my heart for a moment froze,
As she whispered, "I think, good Captain
I ab getting a cold id by dose."

PARSON HITCHMAN'S SERMON.

The sun was setting, a band of orange brightness over the leafless woods. Around the door-stone the red October leaves rustled, like voices whispering mystic messages in the twilight, while on either side of a narrow gravel path the frost-bitten dahlias hung their black and wilted heads.

Rachel Hitchman gave a littleshiver as she put her shining brown head out of the door for an instant, looking vainly for Cordelia, her younger sister.

"How like the winter it seems!" she said, involuntarily. "And father out without his overcoat as usual. Not that it's of much use when has it on, for it's darned and mended, and worn as thin as a sieve—but still it is an overcoat."

Closing the door where the scent of the dead leaves and the chill frost came in like a baptismal touch, Rachel went back to the little study, at the rear of the house, where a fire of logs burned on the hearth. For Parson Hitchman was sensitive to cold, and was wont to declare that his ideas were like the current of the little brook in the woods between—they couldn't flow freely when there was the slightest suspicion of frost. And they were poor at the parsonage, and even gnarly pine-logs cost money, so that the study fire and the kitchen fire comprised the only warming arrangements that were allowed in the establishment.

By the window, seated in the deep, old-fashioned seat, with the faded Turkey-red curtains pushed away, so as to get the benefit of the last fading rays of sunset, was Cordelia Hitchman, with her old atlas in her lap by way of a desk, yellow hair wildly rumpled about her head, and white teeth nibbling the coarse wooden handle of her pen.

"Cordy!" cried the elder sister, "what are you doing?"

"How you frightened me!" said Cordelia, scrambling down from the window seat. "I thought it was papa. I came in here because it was so cruelly cold up in our room. What am I doing? I'm writing, of course. I've such an idea, Ray for a love story."

"It's no use, I'm afraid, Cordy," said Rachel, sadly shaking her head.

"But it shall be of use!" said Cordelia, impetuously. "And you know, Ray, we must earn something, if the committee have put papa's salary down. It's all very well for him to shake his dear old head and say that the young ravens are provided for; but we are not ravens, and consequently we can't dress in feathers, nor eat snails and cedar-berries. I say the committee is as mean as dirt, and I'd just like them to try the experiment of supporting three grown people on a salary of $350 a year. And if the Gossamer Magazine should pay me—. Goodness me, Ray! is that the front door?"

The rusty old latch at the parsonage was defective, the October wind blew fresh and crisp, and the consequence was that there was a general gush adown the drafty halls, a banging of doors, a flutter of Cordelia's manuscript all over the floor.

"Papa's papers, too!" cried out Rachel. Quick, Cordy, pick them up—papa does so hate to have his papers misplaced."

"Go to the door," said Cordelia. "I hear some one's voice talking with papa. I'll set things straight while you take them into the parlor."

"But the parlor is as cold as charity and as damp as a vault," pleaded Rachel.

"Serves peop'e right for coming here at this time of night," said merciless Cordelia.

But, fortunately, the guest, whoever he was, parted from Parson Hitchman on the doorstep, and the good man came cheerily in, rubbing his blue and ungloved hands.

"My girls," said he, "I think I see a glimmer of good fortune ahead—prospect of a call.

"Do you mean a call to convert heathen?" said Cordy, who had by this time hidden away the dilapidated old atlas, which was her only portofolio; "or to have your salary reduced yet another 10 per cent by the stay-at-home savages?"

"I am to preach at Waldham next Sunday," said the parson. "Always provided I can get Mr. Ross to take my place here for this once. And Mr. Meredith has asked permission to read one of my sermons.

"Give him that one about autumn leaves, papa! said Rachel, eagerly.

"No, papa," said Cordelia—"the one about the prodigal son!"

"I think, myself," replied Parson Hitchman, "that the one concerning 'Doctrine and Daily Life'——

"Oh, papa, that's a deal too prosy!" said Rachel.

"Papa, isn't the salary at Waldham $1,000, and the rent of the parsonage?" cried Cordelia.

"Children, children! don't take too much for granted," said the parson composedly. "Light the lamp, Cordelia. Bring me a cup of tea, Rachel, and leave me to myself a little while." And the parson sat down before the blazing pine logs, to warm his chilled frame and think.

* * * * * *

"So you call this man a genius?" said 'Squire Meredith, of Manor Waldham.

"Not only a genius, but, what is rarer still in these days, a consistent Christian man," said the "Reverend Robert Ross.

"But old?"

"None too old for active, exemplary usefulness."

"And a little cracked—symptoms of softening of the brain, eh?"

"Not in the least!" cried Mr. Ross, eagerly. What can you possibly mean, Meredith?"

"He gave me one of his sermons to read," replied Mr. Meredith. "The strangest jumble I ever read. Theology on one page, love and sentiment on another—jumping from one subject to another without any attempt at coherence or common sense."

"Impossible!" said Mr. Ross.

"You may see for yourself," said Mr. Meredith. "The man may possess a sort of erratic talent, but I can fancy how our sober old deacons would open their eyes to a sermon of this description, preached from our pulpit."

"Either I am dreaming or you are," said Mr. Ross, with a countenance of helpless perplexity. "Pray let me look at the sermon."

"Come up to the manor with me and I will show it to you," said Mr. Meredith. I am sorry this wild mass of incongruity developed itself, for I had really conceived quite a fancy for the man."

But when they reached Manor Waldham two girls sat there in the great reception hall, where a fire of cannel coal blazed behind the burnished grate, and a bronze statue of Minerva lifted its glittering spear on a marble pedestal in the middle of the room—Cordelia Hitchman and her sister.

Mr. Ross advanced and introduced them to the master of the manor.

"Please don't tell papa," said Cordelia, turning pink and white in a breath.

"He hasn't an idea that we have come," added Rachel. "But, oh, dear! the sermon—"

"What sermon?" asked Mr. Ross.

"And Cordy's story for the Gossamer Magazine," added she, hysterically.

Mr. Ross looked more puzzled than ever.

"They've somehow got mixed," said Cordelia, coming to the rescue. "You see, I was writing in papa's room, and there came one of those hateful blasts that are always tearing through that old house, and away went all my papers and papa's manuscript sermons from the desk; and I thought I had arranged it all right, but—"

Mr. Ross and 'Squire Meredith looked at each other and both burst out laughing.

"That accounts for it," said the latter.

"Perfectly," said the former.

And then Mr. Meredith explained to the parson's daughter how puzzled he had been over the incongruities of the parson's sermons.

The missing papers of the contribution to the Gossamer Magazine were speedily found, and replaced by the genuine theology that properly belonged to "Doctrine and Daily Life." And Cordelia and Rachel were taken into the glittering conservatories of the manor, and shown the antique picture gallery, and went home feeling as if they had caught a glimpse of the world.

"How beautiful it must be to be rich!" said Rachel, pensively looking down at the boquet of pink azalias and tea rosebuds in her hand.

"I wonder if I couldn't describe those high ceiling, superbly frescoed rooms in my next story," said Cordelia, reflectively. "I never saw anything so picturesque in my life—did you, Ray?"

While 'Squire Meredith, reading over "Doctrine and Daily Life" for the second time, saw it in quite a different light.

"There is talent here," said he, "and discrimination, in an unusual degree."

"Don't you think she is very beautiful?" said Mr. Ross abruptly.

'Squire Meredith looked up inquiringly.

"Rachel Hitchman, I meant, explained the young clergyman laughing. "I'll tell you a secret, Meredith—I am engaged to Parson Hitchman's eldest daughter."

"And I wish I was engaged to his youngest," said the 'squire. "They are the loveliest girls I ever have seen."

Parson Hitchman was duly "called" to the charge of Waldham Parish, and he never knew how near Cordelia's love-story had been to ousting him therefrom.

There is every prospect that the young lady will live a love-story before long, and that the hero will be 'Squire Meredith himself. At least, so gossip says.

Her Mistake.

Why should a young girl for the sake of amusement allow herself to be indiscreet, or to do improper things? That there is any real fun in such conduct is a mistake, and there certainly is a great deal of danger. Like all wrong doing, it leaves behind a tormenting record, and sometimes more serious results. How one reckless young miss received a lesson for her indiscretion in making advances to a stranger is thus told in the Philadelphia Mercury:

The seventeen-year o'd daughter of a respectable physician fell (or imagined she did) wildly in love with a mellow-voiced baritone in a well-known opera company. Under an assumed name she wrote him confiding and romantic little notes, and finally sent him her photograph.

The face was so lovely that it piqued the stranger's curiosity, but it was in vain that he plead for an opportunity to see her. The girl could only enjoy her escapade so long as she maintained her incognito.

Finally the baritone, noting the name of the photographer, visited his parlors and ascertained his correspondent's name. Then he wrote to her under her real name, saying that he had identified her, and she could take the choice of having her picture and notes back, and giving him two hundred dollars in cash, or he would tell a reporter of the Police Gazette the story and have the picture published. There is no likelihood that such a threat would have been carried out, but the girl was so terribly frightened that she sent him all the money she could scrape together, and the rest of the sum in jewelry.

If this cures her of making love to strange men—or to any other man—perhaps her experience was worth its price.

The funeral of the late Jesse James, the bank robber and murderer, at Kearney, Mo., was attended by an immense concourse of people. Three preachers conducted the obsequies.

Lace work in cotton goods this spring is an imitation of the various fashionable laces.

THE STATE.

The Barbed-wire and Metal-post company have purchased the ground near the junction, Crawfordsville, and will erect extensive manufacturing works.

Sylvester Minnis, a man working on a farm at the edge of Oakland City, Gibson county, was burning brush, and a tree that had caught fire fell on him, instatly killing him.

The barn of Enoch Smith, two miles east of Crawfordsville, was struck by lightning. Eight hundred bushels of wheat, eight horses and eleven head of cattle were destroyed. Loss about $6,000. No insurance.

The jury in the case of Joseph Forsee, on trial at Madison, for forging a post office money order, returned a verdict of guilty and sentenced the prisoner to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

The Milton woolen mills manufactured last year 44,000 pounds of stocking yarn, and have been compelled to add more machinery in order to meet the increased demand of their trade for trade for the coming year.

Mr. J. D Lovinger, of Madison, wil soon leave for Germany, for the purpose of procuring the extradition of "Prof." O R Halpert, who swindled him out of $1,500 some years ago. Other Madisonians suffered heavily at the same time.

A Rushville jury was out on a criminal case, and after deliberating found the defendant guilty, but before returning their verdict concluded to examine the indictment, which they pronounced bad, and consequently changed the verdict to acquittal.

The new window furnace at De Pauw's glassworks at New Albany, has been started, giving employment to an additional number of glass blowers. The demand for window glass has been unprecedented, and the glass works is manufacturing more material than ever.

Isaac and Joseph Deckard, of Daviess county, were arrested at Haselton by United States Detective Rathbone for having in their possession counterfeit coin. Isaac Deckard's residence was visited by officers and a quantity of metal used in making spurious coin was found. The Deckards have been counterfeiting for some time.

The police of Terre Haute have been notified that tramps have abducted John Fahl, aged eleven years, from the vicinity of his home, in the eastern porton of that city. The missing boy has long, light hair and gray eyes. At the time of abduction he wore gray jeans pants and white checkered shirt. The tramps are supposed to have gone east.

Mrs. Amos Lemons, nee Miss Caddie Sharpe, of Rockport, was fond drowned in a cistern at her residence, at Evansville. The indications are that she had stepped upon the cover of the cistern to reach for something and the cover gave way, precipitating her into the cistern. Her screams startled the family and neighbors, but before the cause of the alarm was ascertained she was drowned.

While some workmen were engaged in digging a ditch on Smith Ward's place, just south of Mishawaka, they exhumed pieces of the remains of a mastodon. When down in the marsh between three and four feet, they struck the remains, and secured a tusk four feet long and a part of a jaw bone containing three teeth firmly fixed in the jaw and one so loose that it was extracted by hand.

Nathanial Todd, sen., one of the oldest pioneers, a wealthy farmer and highly respected citizen, of Moore's Hill, committed suicide, by hanging, early Thursday morning. He arose abour four o'clock and went to the barn to feed his stock; not returning one of the family went to look for him a half hour later, and found him hanging to a post. Mr. Todd was aged about seventy-five years, and has been a resident of that community for half a century.

The house of W. W. Crane, an old citizen of Washington county, was entered by outlaws Wednesday night. Their purpose was robbery. They beat Mr. Crane over the head, nearly killing him. His cries frightened them away. George Lowery and his two sons are accused of the offense. They have escaped. The citizens have organized and will hang the Lowery's, if they can find them.

It is proposed at Indianapolis to establish a hospital for injured railroad men.

THE balance sheets made by experts who have been investigating the books show that the loss of the Central National Bank at Indianapolis, by the embezzlement of its teller, Arthur Mueller, is $35,000. The bank will be compelled to wind up its affairs, but it will probably be able to meet all of its obligations.

The Warsaw Republican tells of a wonderful meteor which was recently seen by a party of five men. A snow storm was prevailing when the meteor appeared, moving with inconceivable rapidity, and accompanied with a rushing, roaring noise, similar to that of a heavily-loaded train of cars at a high rate of speed. In color it was bright. When nearly overhead it exploded with a tremendous report, which was heard at a distance of eleven miles. The five men were prostrated by the concussion, and all were so blinded by the intensity of the light that some of them did not recover their sight until twenty-four hours had elapsed.

George Hazzard.

Richmond Palladium.

A number of persons have known George Hazzard personally, while a great many have heard of him, and in a manner not altogether to Mr. Hazzard's credit. He has been personally known to the writer since childhood, and though he is yet young in years, having been born in New Castle some thirty-five years ago, it must be said that his life has not been one of continual sunshine, nor his pathway always been strewn with roses. For much of this, however, he was not blameless, and from our own knowledge of his opportunities we know that it was in his power to have become a useful, honored and honorable citizen. He was a valiant soldier in the war of the rebellion, being a member of the old thirty-sixth Indiana regiment, and was severely wounded at the battle of Stone river, carrying the ball, a large sized minnie, until within the last three or four years. Recovering from this wound, and but little over age, he presented himself as a cadidate for treasurer of Henry county. He was nominated and elected, and came within only a few votes of being renominated for a second term. Retiring from the office of county treasurer he established the Citizen's bank of New Castle, which finally merged into the Citizen's State bank and is now the leading banking institution of that place. It is not necessary to go into a history of his connection with these banks, the subject being of local importance pirincipally, but quite well understood there. He was a prime mover in the organization of the first national bank of Crown Point, which concern was badly crippled by the failure of the Cook county national bank of Chicago, but which, we are happy to state, is now a well-managed and flourishing institution, and fully recovered from all difficulties under which it then labored.

His last venture in this line was the organization of the first national bank of Auburn, Indiana, from which time has dated most of the troubles which have beset him, and for alleged crime connected therewith, he was last week arrested in Chicago on a requisition from Governor Porter, brought to Indianapolis, but escaped, from the officers having him in charge, and is once more at liberty.

To give a full history of Hazzard would fill a volume, and much of it of a very interesting character. He has been arrested and in prison at Auburn, he has been behind the bars of the jail in Cass county; he has been hid from the sunshine and the clouds in the station house in Chicago; he has partaken of the hospitality of the jailor of Marion county, Ind.; and last though not the least, helped to swell the throng at the prison north, having been sent there by Judge Gresham on conviction for some alleged wrong in connection with the papers, etc., filed by him as a bankrupt.

Through the intercession of a sister, Mrs. Gear, who has never deserted him thruought all his difficulties, he was released from prison at Michigan City, reaching Chicago during the meeting of the last republican national convention, since which time he has been a resident of that delectable city, engaged for the most part, so we understand, in board of trade "bucket shop" speculation.

Conference Appointments.

Following is a list of the appointments for the ensuing years made at the session of the Norta Indiana Conference, at Muncie:

MUNCIE DISTRICT—R D ROBINSON, P E.

Muncie, F T Simpson; Albany, T Sells; Alexander, T C Neal; Anderson, J W Wilson; Anderson circuit, to be supplied; Dunkirk, P J Albright; Eaton, A C Gerard; Farmland, C E Bacon; Fishersburg, D D Powell; Fortville, J S McCarty; Hartford City, Nelson Gillam; Jonesborough, E M Baker; McCordsville, to be supplied; Montpelier, H C Smith; New Burlington, J F Fetro; New Corner, Benneville Sawyer; Northern Muncie circuit R H Smith; Pendleton, Chauncey King; Pennville, J M Woolpert, Red Key, W C McKaig; Selma, Reuben Toby; Winchester, H N Herrick; Perkinsville, A S Rogers.

FORT WAYNE DISTRICT—J B MEREDITH, P E.

Fort Wayne—Berry street, C G Hudson; Wayne street, W O Pierce; Centenary, C W Church; Third street, to be supplied; Auburn, W H Daniel; Bluffton, H J Meck; Cocesse, C H Church; Columbia City, Albert Cone; Decatur, M A Teague; Garrett, W E McCarty; Geneva, C H Murray; Harlan, H E Myers; Huntington, Milton Mahin; Huntertown, H S Cooke; Kelseyville, to be supplied, Leo, J A Lewellen; Markle, G S Clark; Monroe, D F Stright; Mouroeville, W R Jones; New Haven, J H Slack; Ossian, J L Ramsey; Poneto, Henry Bridge; Roanoke, J J Bicknell; Sheldon, to be supplied.

J S Carus, agent, and W F Yocum, president Fort Wayne College, and members of Wayne-street Quarterly Conference.

A Albro, East Greenwich Seminary, member of Wayne-street Quarterly Conference.

T W Lincoln, missionary to Utah.

KOKOMO DISTRICT—C E DISBRO, P E.

Kokomo, L A Betts; Alton, R B Powell; Boxley, A M Patterson; Bunker Hill, L J Naftzen; Cicero, T H C Beall; Elwood and Franklin, L A Beeks; Goldsmith, F G Browne; Jolietville, A G Mendenhall; Kempton, to be supplied; Logansport, Broadway, J H Ford; Union charge, M S Metts; New Britain, J J Cooper; New Waverly, T J Elkin; Noblesville, Thomas Stabler; S N Campbell, superannuated; Peru, C H Brown; Point Isabell, J S McElwee; Russiaville, C E White; Santa Fe, J B Cook; Sharpsville, F A Fish; Tipton, A S Wooten; Walton, Milton Wayman; Westfield, J W Cain; Windfall, F W Osborne; Xenia, J W Lowry.

C P Wright, agent Conference Tract Society and member of the Broadway Quarterly Conference.

RICHMOND DISTRICT—C SKINNER, P. E.

Richmond First Church, A W Lamport; Grace Church, Foster Crait; Cambridge City, Newton Wray; Cadiz, Charles Harvey; Centerville, W S Bosson; Charlottville, J N Rhodes; Dublin, James Leonard; Fountain City, E S Freeman; Greenfield, Enoch Holdstock; Hagerstown, N D Shackelford; Knightstown, J C Murray; Lewisville and Ogden, S S Cain; Lynn circuit, L C Harrison; Middletown, William Peck; New Castle, A E Mason; Philadelphia, H Woolpert; Portland, J F Rhodes; Portland circuit, J W Bowen; Ridgville, O S Harrison; Spiceland, F M Stone; Trenton, J W McDaniel; Union City, A Greenman; Whitewater, John Harrison Williamsburg, J W Miller.

J H Earp professor in Asbury University, member of Grace Church Quarterly Conference.

W F Walker, J H Pyke, Chen Te Young, Te Jui, missionaries to North China.

Charlie Bishop, missionary to Japan.

D M Brown, missionary to New Mexico.

WARSAW DISTRICT—W J VIGUS, P. E.

Warsaw, E N McKaig; Akron, J M Bush; Antioch, Madison Swadener; Bourbon, J W Lewellen; Inwood, H C Klingel; Lafontaine, T J Smith; Lagro, M S Molt; Larville, R S Reed; Leesburg, G B Work; Macy, A J Lewellen; Marion, W S Bruch; Mexico, G H Hill; Mount Etna, O V L Harbour; North Manchester, J S Carns; North Webster, M S Smith; Palestine, A J Carey; Pierceton, H J Lacy; Perrysburg, N B Petticord; Roann, C W Wade; Silver Lake, J A Tevis; South Whitley, South Whitley Circuit, David Kivet; S A Robinson; Wabash, C W Lynch; Warren, to be supplied.

L W Munson, agent Wabash county Bible Society, member Wabash Qarterly Conference.

GOSHEN DISTRICT—W. H. MENDENHALL, P. E.

Goshen, H J Morris; Albion, W B Stewart; Angola, J M Woolverton; Bristol, H M Lamport; Butler, C B Wilkinson; Corona, J W Paschall; Elkhart, E F Hasty; Elkhart circuit, J Thomas; Fremont, G W Howe; Hamilton, J G Stimer; Kendallville, J Greer; Lagrange, B A Kemp; Lima and Van Buren, D C Woolpert; Ligonier, J Erwin; Middlebury, A Lathrop; Milford, W Lash; Mishawaka, R F Brewington; Nappanee, Somerville Light; New Paris, W M Vanslick; Orland, A Currie; Osceola, J H Jackson; Valentine and Ontario, B Hunt; Waterloo, J K Waltz; Wawaka, J Johnson; Walcottville, W D Parr.

A W Greeman, missionary to Mexico.

Poland China swine carried off the main prizes at the last great agricultural fair in Denmark.

The growers of sweet corn for canning establishments recently met at Portland, Me. The low price paid by the packers of late years formed the basis for most of the talk. It was finally resolved to invite a conference of the packers to see what can be done. It was the sense of the convention that the price of sweet corn should be $2 50 per 100 pounds.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

NEVER FAILS

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

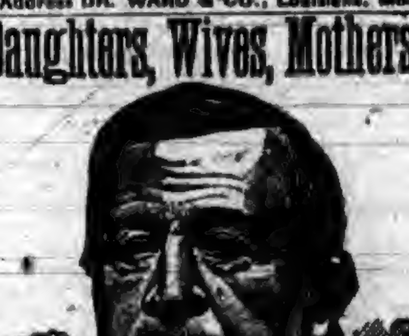
Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!



DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

REED'S

GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY
In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

[illegible] Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAMARITAN
NERVINE

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cures Epileptic Fits, Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Vertigo, Hysteria, Insanity, Apoplexy, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Diseases. This infallible remedy will positively eradicate every species of Nervous Derangement, and drive them away from whence they came, never to return again. It utterly destroys the germs of disease by neutralizing the hereditary taint or poison in the system, and thoroughly eradicates the disease and utterly destroys the case.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cures Female Weakness, General Debility, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Painful Menstruations, Ulceration, of the Uterus, Internal Heat, Gravel, Inflammation of the Bladder, Irritability of the Bladder. For Wakefulness at Night, there is no better remedy. During the change of life no Female should be without it. It quiets the Nervous system and gives rest, comfort and nature's sweet sleep.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cures Alcoholism, Drunkness and the habit of Opium Eating. These degrading habits are by far the worst evils that have ever befallen suffering humanity. Thousands die annually from these noxious drugs. The drunkard drinks liquor not because he likes it, but for the pleasure of drinking and treating his friends, little thinking that he is on the road to ruin. Like the Opium Eater, he first uses the drug in small quantities as a harmless antidote. The soothing influence of the drug takes strong hold upon its victim leading him on to his own destruction. The habits of Opium Eating and Liquor Drinking are precisely what eating is to alimentiveness, as over-eating first inflames the stomach, which redoubles its craving until it paralyzes both the stomach and appetite. So every drink of liquor or dose of opium, instead of satisfying, only adds to its fierce fires, until it consumes the vital force and then itself. Like the gluttonous tape-worm, it cries "Give, give, give!" but never enough until its own rapacity devours itself. Samaritan Nervine gives instant relief in all such cases. It produces sleep, quiets the nerve, builds up the nervous system, and restores body and mind to a healthy condition.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Cures Nervous Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Asthma, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Syphilis, diseases of the Kidneys and all diseases of the urinary organs. Nervous debility, caused by the indiscretions of youth, permanently cured by the use of this invaluable remedy. To you, young, middle-aged and old men, who are covering your sufferings as with a mantle by silence, look up, you can be saved by timely efforts, and make ornaments to society, and jewels in the crown of your Maker, if you will. Do not keep the secret longer, until it saps your vitals, and destroys both body and soul. If you are thus afflicted, take Dr. Richmond's Samaritan Nervine. It will restore your shattered nerves, arrest premature decay, impart tone and energy to the whole system.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
Is for sale by druggists everywhere, or may be had direct from us. Those who wish to obtain further evidence of the curative properities of Samaritan Nervine will enclose a 3-cent postage stamp for a copy of our Illustrated Journal of Health, giving hundreds of testimonials of cure from persons who have used the medicine, and also their pictures photographed after their restoration to perfect health. Address

DR. S. A. RICHMOND & CO.,
World's Epileptic Institute,
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

PROVED A SUCCESS
THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY
BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoro'ly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had epilepsy from weakness for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 20th, '78.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 22, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $3. Please send me another box No. 1 for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 22.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2,'79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way, and wish one No. 3 box.

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.

Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, St. Louis, Mo.

THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of Experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE Producing affections of the Blood, Skin or Bones, treated with success, on scientific principles, without using Mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.

YOUNG MEN and those of middle age who are suffering from organic weakness that unfits its victims for business or marriage, permanently cured, at moderate expense.

PATIENTS TREATED by mail and Express, where possible personal consultation is preferred, which is FREE and invited. List of questions to be answered by patients desiring treatment mailed free to any address on application.

[illegible]

DR. BUTTS, 12 North 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, IND., APRIL 20, 1882

Election Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the qualified voters of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, that there will be an election held at the usual place of voting in said town on

MONDAY, MAY 1, 1882.

to elect the following officers for said town, to-wit;

One trustee first ward,
One trustee third ward,
One trustee fourth ward,
One treasurer,
One clerk,
One marshal.

Witness my hand and the seal of said town this the 18th day of April, 1882.

Seal

T. H. SPROTT,
Town Clerk

A MAN in Georgia has already planted three hundred acres of watermelons.

LET every Democrat stand by a straight ticket May 1, at the town election.

IT will satisfy Scoville if Congress allows him $25.00 a day for defending Guiteau.

THE republican papers of Noble county are booming for A. A. Chapin for the judgeship.

REPORTS from different parts of the country indicate, that the fruit crop is not wholly killed.

THE govenor of Ohio has issued a proclamation making April 27 the Arbor day for that state.

PARNELL, the imprisoned land leaguer, has been let out on parole for a short time, to enable him to visit a sick sister.

IT is now shown that the Indians on the different reservations in the United States and territories, at agencies, now number about 146,000, and about 20,000 are scattered around remaining wild.

THERE is considerable excitement about the new gold mines that have been discovered in Montana. As yet however, they are not sufficiently developed to make it certain how valuable they may be.

THE recent discovery of paying gold placers in Virginia is awakening the old Dominion wonderfully. It appears that the precious metal has been found in quite a number of places in the mountain districts.

CAPTAIN HOWGATE, who has been in prison at Washington for some time for embezzling funds belonging to the signal service department, escaped the other day, in a manner that would reflect credit on our own George Hazzard.

SUNNY ITALY is finding her wine getting so high that her citizens can,t afford to drink it. They are now taking to beer, which they import from Austria in great quanities. They consumed about 1200 barrels of this beverage last year.

SEVERAL ministers have written letters to the president congratulating him on his veto of the Chinese bill. They base their praises on the ground that no good or effective missionary work can be done in China, and the only way to convert pigtailed natives is to bring them over here where we can get at them.

MANY counties in this state are unable to loan their school funds at the rate required by law and are compelled to let these funds accumulate and remain idle. The next legislature should arrange for a lower rate of interest, so the schools can have the benefit of it.

ARTHUR'S cabinet, now stands as follows: F. T. Frelinghusen secretary of state; Charles J. Folger, secretary of the treasury; Robert T. Lincoln, secretary of war; Henry M. Teller, secretary of the interior; Timothy O. Howe, post-master; Benjamin H. Brewster, attorney general; William E. Chandler, secretary of the navy.

ELECTION contests in congress have become so expensive of late, that members are getting tired of it. Efforts are being made to have the expense limited in all cases to a sum of not over $2000. To an outsider this would appear to be enough. It will tend to prevent contests in hopeless cases.

IT is altogether laughable to see how many republican papers have been converted to anti-prohibitionism since the April election. And then to see that it is all for principle: A republican editor never knows how big a summersault he can turn unless an election comes off while he is getting ready.

THE readjusters in Virginia seem to be losing their grip. People are getting disgusted with their plan of repudiating a part of state debt, and with their disposition to boss everything. The same state of things is now growing up in Tennessee, where there is now a hopeful prospect that the democrats will be fully united on a debt-paying platform.

DETAILS of the voyage of the Jennette on her Arctic cruise, are of the most interesting character. She was frozen fast in the ice for a year and a half, and was all the time subjected to such a strain that the pumps had to be worked continuously. This gives some idea of the hardships her men endured. She finally sank June 11, 1881. Before reaching the shore they discovered a large island which they named Bennett Island, in honor of James Gordon Bennett who fitted out the expedition. They spent three weeks in exploring the island, and then started for the mainland at the mouth of the Lena river.

THE Waterloo Press of last week in speaking of the circuit judgeship and of Mr. Chapin's candidacy, gets off the following item among the rest: "It may also occur to others that Noble county has enjoyed the judgeship most of the time for the last twenty years, and a little modesty would incline her to permit it to be passed around. * * *" Now, it also occurs to us that said circuit judgeship was passed around, and the position given to a DeKalb county gentleman without opposition, but it was not quite good enough for him and he resigned it and tried to put the mantle on his brother-in-law, also a DeKalb county gentleman, but the sign was evidently in the crab, and the scheme went back on him. And if our courts have been out of "kelter" it is the fault of the gentleman from DeKalb and not Noble county. We are not mourners, however, as it is not our funeral. We have a good many other recollections about a Steuben county gentleman occupying the bench—a new circuit, etc.,—but everybody else no doubt has similar recollections. So what is the use to mention it. So good day, sir.

"PROOF."

Sedan.

Mrs. Meeds, a widow, bought the McCrum farm.

Adam Morrison, has left Sedan, and located at Corunna.

W. H. Crane is spending a few days with his brother at Toledo.

Several dogs in town have no tags on. Are the constables doing their duty?

Solomon Reinoehl was in town Monday. Sol. has made Fairfield a good trustee.

Joe Seydel went to Ohio last week where he intends to stay during the summer.

Mrs. Bloomfield who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Treesh returned home last week.

C. R. Usie the lightning slinger at Corunna, spent Sabbath with his relatives at this place.

J. A. Campbell, of Butler, was in town Friday, looking after the insurance business. J. A. C. knows how to talk up his business and can convince you in a short time that you ought to be insured.

By order of the temperance committee, a meeting was held Saturday night at the Lake school house. The temperance people are working for the prohibitory amendments. J. A. M.

CONCORD.

H Garrett has gone for new goods.

Little Mabel Baker, is convalescent.

Jmaes Farrell, has moved his family to Lawrence county Pennsylvania.

Mr. Garrett, of Cedarville, was here visiting her son the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Luther Hash, of Auburn Junction, is visiting her daughter Mrs. H. Garrett.

Mrs. P. Kennedy, of Waterloo, is lying very sick at her father's residence near Spencerville.

Hiram Bliler, of Michigan, is here visiting friends. He will shortly leave for Dakota Territory.

G. W. Druggoo, has lost his Meinser spectacles, the finder will leave them at the store and receive his reward.

Concord township has a democratic road superintendent instead of a republican as it was stated in last week's issue of the Republican.

Last Sabbath an infant son of Orange and Ida Herrick, was buried in the Spencerville cemetery, Rev. Baker officiating minister. The young parents have the heart felt sympathy of friends and neighbors in this the hour of their sad bereavement of little Benny. Age three months, two weeks, and one day.

HEATHEN Bob Ingersoll and the Brooklyn pastor Talmage, had a religious debate in Washington last Sunday. Probably it was a scheme to advertise themselves.

A MAN in New York is going to attempt to row a boat twelve feet long across the Atlantic. He expects to follow the north part of the Gulf Stream, and so have the assistance of its current.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.—I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the bitters my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging. —H. T., St. Paul. —[Pionere Press. 16-2w

THE New Era says: "The democrats of Perry township counted in their trustee by throwing out three republican tickets headed Republican Ticket. Had the honest expressed will of the people been observed, Mr. Cunnigham would have been seated." But the Banner says the tickets thrown out had the name of the democratic trustee written on them. But it should be kept constantly before the people, that not merely three votes, but the vote of three states was once thrown out, and that too without a reason as good as the one that troubles the Era, and the result unseated the chief magistrate of fifty millions of people. But up to date, no very great number of republican editors have wept over the great wrong.

Why Not Tempt Fortune!

Especially when it costs nothing. It is a well authenticated fact that the Louisiana Lottery association have paid our citizens sixty thousand dollars and over within the past fifteen months. Knowing this to be such a fair scheme, Messrs. Sam, Pete and Max, the "Boss" Clothiers, adopt the following most liberal plan to place a fortune within reach of their army of friends and patrons. To every one purchasing Clothing, Hats, etc., to the amount of ten dollars or more, will be presented a free ticket for the next drawing in the great Louisiana Lottery. Remember their stock is at all times the largest, newest and lowest in price.

An Interesting Photograph

We have received from W. H. Brearley, of Detroit, Mich., a large photograph of a gem of scenery near the Glen House in the White Mountains, and any one who desire to inspect it will find it adorning the sanctum sanctorum of this paper. This is one of the scores of interisting places visited by the popular annual excursions "From Detroit to the Sea," via the Grand Trunk R. R. and St. Lawrence River Steamers, and indicated the character of the scenery along this popular route of summer pleasure travel. These excursions have been carried on successfully for the last six years, and are each under the personal management of Mr. Brearley, from whom a circular of particulars can be obtained by addressing him enclosing a 3 cent stamp, or by sending 30 cents for illustrated guide book.

—Bring your butter and eggs to McQuiston & Long and get cash or trade.

—Just received a full line of Brussels and ingrain carpets at very low prices, at Schaab & Beugnots. 15-2w.

—Those wanting spring clothing, can save ten per cent. by going to Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—The most complete stock of hats ever brought to this market, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—A nice lot of dress ginghams at 12½ cents per yard at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—McQuiston & Long have just opened a new lot of black cashmeres at 65c and 75c per yard to which they call the attention of close buyers.

—Black gros grain silks, satin De Lyon silk, satin griffon silk for dresses and dolmans at popular prices. Examine them before you buy, at McQuiston & Long's. 15-3t

—Holders of DeKalb county orders are hereby notified that all orders registered prior to Oct. 1st 1880 will be redeemed if presented at the treasurer's office, in said county. No interest will be allowed after date of this issue.

L. J. MILLER, Treas.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK GPILLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. tf.

CARPETS!

CARPETS! CARPETS!

RUGS!

RUGS!!

RUGS!!!

WINDOW SHADES!

IN ALL COLORS.

LACE

CURTAINS

—AT—

MODERWELL AND STUDOR'S,

CARPET HOUSE.

26 East Berry St., - Ft. Wayne

WHY NOT TEMPT FORTUNE!

ESPECIALLY WHEN IT COSTS NOTHING.

SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS!

And over paid to our citizens within a short time by the

Louisiana Lottery Association!

LISTEN! TICKETS GIVEN AWAY!

EVERY PURCHASER OF

CLOTHING,

HATS, ETC., ETC.

Amounting to ten dollars or more, presented with a ticket gratis.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.

On corner east of Postoffice.

New Material of all Kinds,

—AND—

GOOD WOORK

GUARANTEED.

GIVE US A CALL!

J. M. RICE & SON, Auburn, Indiana.

SOLID GOLD WATCHES.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFE-TIME.

SOLID GOLD
ONLY
$19.68

We have lately purchased a bankrupt stock of Watches and Jewelry, which we shall offer in our catalogue at about half the usual prices. As the stock is very large, and we wish to turn it into money quickly, we have determined, in order to arouse public interest and secure applications for our catalogue of fine goods, to make an offer of a SOLID GOLD HUNTING CASE WATCH at a price much below the cost of production. Our offer is to send by registered mail (carefully packed in a wooden box) a SOLID GOLD HUNTING CASE PATENT LEVER FULL JEWELED WATCH on receipt of $19.68. We warrant the massive cases to be solid gold and beautifully engraved as shown in cut. We warrant the movement to be a Swiss Patent Lever (which is the best movement known in the world) and full jeweled. These watches are not only the best time-keepers to be found now, but being full jeweled, will remain so and will be found as accurate 20 or 25 years hence as now, provided they have now had fair usage.

This is a startling offer, and that one cannot be made by any other firm, as the actual cost of the watches in Switzerland is about twice the price we ask for them. It must be taken advantage of at once, if at all. We make it only to secure customers for our other goods, catalogue of which will be sent to each purchaser. If any one on receiving the watch is dissatisfied, it can be returned at once and the money will be refunded. We sell all our goods on this condition, and have the largest jewelry trade of any house in America. To those who wish to see the watch before buying we offer to send C. O. D., if $1.00 is sent in advance as a guarantee of the express charges. Privilege of examination is given before paying the bill. If ordered C. O. D., however, the customer must pay all express charges, including return of money. We do not make a penny on this watch and cannot incur any expense beyond that of postage, which is provided for in the price named (19.68). If you want a watch for actual wear order this one. Watch speculators will readily see that such a watch as this which can be FULLY WARRANTED, can be sold or traded and immense profits made. The watch is really just as good as any $120 00 gold watch, and can be so represented. Do not buy brass, or composition metal watches, (really the same thing) with worthless movements, when by paying a little more you can have a solid gold watch which will be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

LADIES' WATCHES. SOLID GOLD HUNTING CASE, beautifully engraved, nickel movement, warranted good time-keepers, sent by registered mail to any address on receipt of $18.87. If not satisfied on its receipt, send it right back and get your money, C. O. D., on the same terms as the Patent Lever Watch.

Remember, we warrant these watches to be exactly as represented, and that they will give more satisfaction, and that we deliver them to you free of charge in good order, on receipt of price—or C. O. D., subject to charges, with privilege of examination if desired. Remit by postoffice order, registered letter, or bank check on New York, or send greenbacks by express.

Address plainly,

J. A. VAIL, Dealer in Jewelry,
1287 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A COMMON SENSE "SEND OFF!"

Lack of space will not permit us to explain our method in full, but we will illustrate the A B C of our business:

ATTRACTIVE STYLES. ADMIRABLE GOODS. ATTENTIVE CLERKS.

BIG ASSORTMENT. BEST GOODS. BOTTOM PRICES.

COMPARE OUR STOCK. CONSIDER THE SAVING. COME RIGHT ALONG.

Thousands of dollars can be saved the people of this vicinity by purchasing their BOOTS AND SHOES of us. We don't carry over any old stock, but slam them into a box and give the purchasers their choice at prices below cost. We do not use the papers to mislead you, but purchase this space simply to extend an invitation to every one to come and examine our stock. We have always kept the lead of our opponents by

Low Prices, Honest Goods and Square Dealing

and to-day the name of the famous

Boot Up-side Down

Is familiar in every household in DeKalb county. We have Ladies' Shoes in every style, Hightoned Shoes for the Dandy, Splendid Goods for the Laborer, Boss Shoes for the Sturdy Tiller of the Soil, and BOOTS AND SHOES for all from the Infant to the Great-grandmother.

AUSTIN BROS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Lettuce have peace.

—Nice growing weather.

—Get down your duster.

—Whet up the lawn mower.

—Peach trees are in blossom.

—Garden making is in order.

—Mark Bush improves slowly.

—Jay Van Auken is surveying.

—Our doctors seem to be busy.

—Whitewashers are in demand.

—Stock begins to feed on grass.

—Look at Austin's advertisement.

—Get the ice cream parlors ready.

—Fix up your shackling sidewalk.

—Get down the shovel and the hoe.

—Apples bring sixty cents per bushel.

—Col. Miller drives the stave factory team.

—Coop Ralston is building a new fence.

—Some of our fishermen are at the lakes

—The market is overstocked with potatoes.

—Sim. Tarney has a white rat on exhibition.

—Mich. Houston went to Hicksville, Tuesday.

—A number of colts have made their appearance.

—Are we to have a sprinkling wagon this summer.

—The Lowry heirs talk of selling their property.

—The Junction juvenile ball club has organized.

—J. H. Ehlers is around again, after a brief sickness.

—The farmers are busy getting their oats crop ready.

—The masons have begun work on Hebel's building.

—Auburn is becoming quite a point for horse trading.

—Charley Hoff has his residence about completed.

—There were no services at the M. E. church sabbath.

—Al. Weyer has come home to open up his summer work.

—D. Y. Husselman came out with the first straw hat on.

—Mr. Fleming, at the green house, has early plants to sell.

—The stave factory is running again. Also the hub and spoke.

—The weather is beautiful. We have no use for Vennor now.

—Will Charley Smith bang away at some of the tagless dogs?

—George Clark is improving slowly and will probably recover.

—Several of the newly elected trustees called on us last week.

—Now we can say with a clear conscious that spring has come.

—Mrs. Dr. Bevier, of Waterloo, made us a brief call last Saturday.

—Wheat in some parts of Ohio is said to be ready to head out.

—Don Lawrence has moved his family from Garrett to this place.

—J. C. Henry is building a porch along the front of his residence.

—Treasurer Miller, we are sorry to say, is experiencing poor health.

—J. D. McAnally and Sol. Fisher, of Waterloo, were in town Monday.

—Rev. Matthews delivered a sermon for young ladies Sunday evening.

—Men are at work on the foundation of Culbertson's new residence.

—Everybody can find employment now. There is no excuse for idleness.

—Get your spring hats of Mrs. Little. She has the best styles and lowest prices.

—Mrs. Bodine has returned and is stopping with her daughter, Mrs. D. D. Snyder.

—Charley Rainier and Charley Schrader left Tuesday for Kansas City. We drop a tear.

—The boys who were so ill during the session of the pension board, have all recovered.

—Billy Little was over from Newville, Saturday. The base ball fever is raging over there.

—Did we hear someone say gravel the roads? There never was a better time to talk about it.

—Dick Shreeves, of anvil fame, will leave this week for Fort Wayne, where he will work at his trade.

—The Democrats of Garrett held a caucus meeting last evening and nominated their town officers.

—Clothes-pin Jim has traded dray teams again, and now his pay car is drawn by a pair of grays.

—Greeley's hand has healed where Joe. Beugnot cut it. You must look out for Joe; he's been west.

—Rev. S. Kelso joined in matrimony this week, Henry Miller and Ella Strow, both of Fairfield township.

—There was someone who asked us to inform John McClellan that it is a good time to set out cabbage.

—Early Rose potatoes, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Buck Allen and Neal Decker trialed horses Monday. Oh, Buck; go off and hide thyself.

—Wm. Hyler has been unable to do any labor for some weeks, caused from a gun shot received in the army.

—A Mr. Miller, of Hicksville, Ohio, is now employed in the bakery department of Hollister's establishment.

—Sheriff Lees has a new horse that attracts attention as a roadster. It is a fine bay gelding, steps firm and carries well.

—S. W. Ralston, esq., has been cutting down the locust trees about his residence and planting young maples in their stead.

—Daniel Zeigler, of Syracuse, called to see us Monday. We are rejoiced to learn that he is prospering and likes his new home.

—There will be evening services at the English Lutheran church all next week, and communion services on the sabbath following.

—A sort of a family re-union was indulged in at Chris. Baker's residence, Auburn Junction, last sabbath. An enjoyable time was had.

—Mrs. Dr. Allen was taken sick on Monday evening and during the day Tuesday was quite ill—further than this we have not learned.

—Elmer Bumpus is acting as clerk at the Swineford house. Atwood Robinson, who has been there during the winter, will hie westward.

—Charley Klotz is a potato grower of some note. He exhibited one of this years growth the size of a hickory-nut upon the streets Monday.

—Fort Wayne has another new paper called the Saturday Item. It is a neat, spicy sheet, independent politically and we think it will "swim."

—Invitations were out this week for the friends of John W. Dills and wife, of Concord township, for this evening, the fiftieth anniversary of Mr. D's. birth.

—The county board of education, composed of the township trustees and presidents of the town school boards, meets at the county superintendent's office, Monday, May 1.

—The Junction school opened Monday. Jennie Cowan will give the little tads "pointers" how to conduct themselves so as to become lawyers, congressmen and so forth.

One of the Whitmore boys and Mrs. Bash had a little war in the north end, the other day. Whitmore retreated, owing to the size of the club that Mrs. Bash was in possession of.

—The Presbyterian social was presided over by the young ladies, Wednesday. The evening was pleasantly spent, and many praises were given the girls for their management.

—Gust. Stuts has a thorough bred rat terrier pup that killed four rats on the ground in one minute. He is named after the famous terrier "Sandy," and is highly prized by his owner.

—A brief letter from Josiah Shull, locates him at Warm Springs, Deer Lodge county, Montana, where he expects to stay at present. Let us hear from you "Joe" when you get settled.

—J. Gould passed through this place on the Wabash road Sunday. Quite a number gathered at the depot anxious to see the "make up" of this so-called railroad king, but he was slow to recognize the boys.

—There has been no clue, as yet, to the whereabouts of the Newfoundland pup advertised last week. His tag is number 189. Someone will fool around until they get themselves into trouble over this dog.

—Property owners along the west side of south Van Buren street are building a lot of sidewalk. This improvement was badly needed and will meet with approval from many pedestrains in "clay town."

—A one arm "bellows" pumped a number of drinks out of the boys Monday by giving them army talk. He is at Ft. Wayne now and as he uses printing offices for his "takes" we will put the boys on their guard.

—Several of our neighbors complain of hogs rooting up the grass in front of their lots. How does it happen that hogs are allowed to run at large? We have seen several grass plots entirely ruined by these porkers.

—The court house bell gave the alarm of fire Sunday afternoon, which hurried the pleasure walkers in the direction of the north end. The blaze came from the roof of a house occupied by John Ray, and the damage was small.

—The only log building, in our recollection, now within the town limits, stands upon south Van Buren street, and is the property of Mr. Weyer. It is a haggard looking structure and has no inviting look, yet we see it is occupied.

—Taxpaying time has gone by, and the foolish men who didn't get their lamps trimmed with greenbacks enough to supply the demands are now in mourning. We learn, however, that the taxes of 1881 have been quite successfuly gathered in and treasurer Miller is feeling that he has done his duty.

—John Zook, who slaughtered stock for Tarney last winter, was in town this week. It was rumored that John came back to take away one of our young ladies, living in the north end, but he must have postponed the matter as he purchased a single ticket on a Saginaw train Tuesday.

—The balmy days have come and the moonlight nights are here. Heads of families should see that the gate hinges are prepared to stand the pressure. And not only this but

Very soon the balmy rose
Will blossom in the dell
And linger 'twixt Cordelia's nose
And Jonathan's lapel.

—List of letters remaining unclaimed for the week ending April 19, 1882: B. E. Brown, C. Case, 2; Mr. L. Dove, Jerry Davis, W. H. Damar, John Gulick, Peter Hotte, C. R. Jones, Miss Josanna King, Mrs. Mary Nelson, Joseph Mathews, Horace Osborn, Ed. Packer, Lulu Quinn, Henry A. M. Shaffer, W. T. Smith, Martha Washington, J. W. Wilson.

—Tom & Jerry smoking tobacco, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Another brigade left for the west this week, composed of Geo. Cannon, E. Ashley, Frank Clock and several others whose names we can't spell. If every town sends west as moral and pious set of young men as Auburn does that country will be all churches and school houses in a few years. Kin Lanning goes next week.

House for Sale.—The two-story frame dwelling, on lots No. 13 and 14 in Gross & Dills' addition to the town of Auburn. The house is in good repair, has nine rooms, good cellar and cistern, has a summer kitchen and good stable. It stands just east of the lumber yard at the Jackson depot. Terms: One third down and the balance in two years, at 6 per cent. interest and secured by mortgage on the premises. Address, John Aber, Monroeville, Pa. 16-3.

—Mr. & Mrs. Bunch have strung the pile out. Mrs. Bunch told Mr. Bunch to pick up his bunch (not bed) and walk. John obeyed, as every obedient husband should do, and is now quartered at the spacious parlors of the Central. Domestic troubles happen in the best of families and after a little consideration upon the part of each they will renew old acquaintances and again pull in double harness.

—We mentioned in the Courier, a few weeks ago, that Snyder & Co., were agitating the question of adding a wagon manufactory in connection with the hub and spoke factory. We learn now that the brick have been contracted and the work of construction will proceed in the near future. The capacity of machinery will necessitate the employment of a number of men and, of course, this will benefit every business man in Auburn. Give encouragement to all manufacturing enterprises.

—"Windy Jack," who was engaged to attend Geo. Clark's horses this summer, got the g. b. (that stands for grand bounce) Saturday. Jack looked upon the wine, etc., so long that he didn't know a lemonade shaker from a smoke stack, and in arguing the matter he got too loud, and constable Smith gathered him under his wings, as a hen doth her brood. The fine and costs were only $9.75. It takes money to make the horse go, Jack.

—There is a mystery concealed in the sancto sanctorum of our neighbor print shop. The managing editor has disobeyed the command "to take up thy bed and walk." A curious spectacle met the gaze of the visitors to this establishment "early in de mornin'," and the boys in that block thought seriously of holding an inquest, but after a diligent search nothing could be found except a worn photograph and hair-pin. Cal says it was a put up job and could not be induced to set 'em up.

—A young man dropped off a local freight train, assisted by the conductor, Saturday evening. Sunday morning he was looking over the town for his baggage, which was left in the caboose. He had an honest appearance and acted like a square fellow, but he was so jam full of "red-eye," that he couldn't have found himself and baggage with the aid of a republican torch. He said he was a brother of Paul Clifford, at Waterloo, and headed for that town during the day. We all have our price.

—Seventh street is noted for her "gin mills" and sports. On this street dogs fight, roosters fight and sometimes human beings fight. Among the knockers last Saturday was Colonel Ihler. The Col. has gone back to the republican party again and to celebrate the occasion he got himself on the outside of a gallon of red-eye. The Colonel started home on a horse, but somehow the horse and the Colonel disagreed about the sitting position, and the old man gave the horse its own way. Presently the Colonel began to slide down the tail of the horse and sat on his neck in the dusty road. The horse went home—the Colonel followed —There is a proposition offered the people of Butler, Waterloo, Auburn and Garrett to connect the four places by telephone with an exchange at Auburn, made by the Midland Telephone Co., upon condition that there shall be $850.00 stock subscribed, redeemable by the company at their pleasure, with the understanding that the company shall receive the stock as pay for use of line at the rate of 15 cents for each five minutes conversation. They further propose that at the same rate of subscription they will connect these four towns with Fort Wayne. The proposition seems to be fair and our business men should consider the matter.

—Mrs. Wm. Nelson, living about three miles southeast of this place, in Jackson township, died last Thursday and was buried in the cemetery at this place on Friday. Mrs. Nelson had been suffering for about nine months from a severe case of blood poisoning or something of that nature, supposed to have its origin in medicine used in treating a small cancer on her hand. Whatever the disease or its origin may have been, she suffered greatly, but was patient and resigned to it all. We have not received any obituary notice so as to unable us to give any facts in regard to deceased. She was a lady of more than ordinary intelligence and kindness of heart, and leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss.

—A Courier reporter had the pleasure of being shown through the mammoth establishment familiarly known as the Boot Upside Down, presided over by that jovial, lively gentleman W. J. Austin, one day this week. The stock is by far the largest and finest carried by any house in the county, and the fact that is particularly noticeable to the buyer is, that everything is so neatly arranged. Each department of goods is placed separate so that standing in any part of the store one can select the goods desired. The manufacturing department is also worthy of mention. Men are busily engaged "pegging" out home work, and large bundles of leather lying about indicate thrift and enterprise in this department, however, Mr. Austin's taste and pride are mostly confined to the salesroom. He is certainly a fine business man, and being polite, affable and enterprising he has built up a large and prosperous trade among the citizens of Auburn and vicinity, and we bespeak for him a long continuance of the same, and may his ending be prosperity and fame.

—Good prints for six cents, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

A fine lot of passamenterie and cloak ornaments at McQuiston & Long's 15-3

—A cold rain yesterday.

—Is your umbrella repaired?

—Where are our April showers.

—Does Wallager draw a pension?

—The awnings are all in their places.

—Agricultural agents are on the go.

—The town trustees' report will be found in this issue.

—Uncle Isaac Cool drives the nobby single horse.

—Frank Lees is at home this week rusticating. Frank is a hard worker.

—Dr. Chamberlain, of Waterloo, was in town yesterday.

—Great numbers of fine shade trees have been planted this spring.

—We hear that there will be services at the M. E. church next sabbath.

—Try our 25c Japan tea. McQuiston & Long. 16-3

—Choice new prints and dress goods, at McQuiston & Long's.

—Good fine cut tobacco for 50c and 90 per pound at McQuiston & Long's.

—Great bargains in wall paper, window shades and rollers at Davenport's

—F. D. Ryan is having his front fence brightened up with a coat of paint.

—Good rice 8c a pound. Prunes 3lb for 25c, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Four cakes of Bell's Buffalo or Kirk's soap for 25c, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Davenport, the druggist, has the finest stock of wall paper in town. Prices low. 16-3t

—W & P plug tobacco, the best for the money, sold by McQuiston & Long.

—Table linen from 25 cents to $1.00, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—A fine line of Jamestown and other dress goods at Schaab & Beugnot's. 2

—Five cakes of good soap for 25c at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Best Cheviot shirtings for 12½ cents, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—The best assorted lot of gent's neck wear at prices to suit, at Schaab & Beugnot's. 15-2w.

—Headquarters for new designs of wall paper and window shades, at the Physicians' Drug Store,

—Call and see the new and nobby designs of window shades and wall paper at the Physicians' Drug Store. 16-2

—J. L. Davis and wife, and Cal. P. Houser and wife, attended the reading room reception at Garrett, Tuesday evening.

—Remember Weirick's new store at Fairfield Center when you want anything in his line or have produce to sell. Give him a call and price his goods. 14-tf.

—We desire to return our sincere thanks to our friends for their kindness shown us during our sickness and bereavement.

Wm. Nelson.

—You can save money by buying your wall paper and window shades of Davenport. His stock is complete, patterns elegant and prices way down. Come and see. 16-3

—Drs. Casebeer, Matheny & Humphrey have greatly improved their store with the addition of a very fine new show case, which was necessary to accommodate their increased stock of fancy goods. 16-2t

House for Sale.—The two-story frame dwelling just east of the lumber yard, at the Jackson depot, in Auburn. The house is in good repair, has eight rooms, a good cellar, and other conveniences. For terms, address,
15tf. John Aber, Monroeville, Pa.

Dead.—That famous tramp who has been such a terror to the people of DeKalb county has at last succumbed, and died at the Physicians' Drug Store.—His name was High Price and low price has taken the place, at that store, and hereafter you will do well to buy your drugs, medicines, wall paper, window shades, shoulder braces, etc., of Casebeer, Matheny & Humphrey. 16-3

—Isaac Helwig and Henry Clinesmith, of Fairfield, were in our office the other day, and brought with them a specimen bone that was plowed up on Mr. Clinesmith's land in Kansas. We think we are indebted to G. W. Downs for the specimen, and have made ourself an intimate friend of the aforesaid bone every since it was left here. It looks more like a Chinese kite than anything else we can think of. But from the many loop holes in it, and the hardness of its cheek, it may be a member of the Louisiana returning board—that is, if any of them are left at home and have not received a foreign mission or been made members of the cabinet. These thoughts lead us to the inevitable conclusion that our "Kansas bone" is the cheek and face of a buffalo. Who can decide?

We had the pleasure attending the "house warming" of the B. & O. reading room at Garrett, Tuesday evening. The room is in the second story of the machine shop and is well fitted up and furnished in splendid style—in fact the nicest reading room we ever saw. The whole arrangement does great credit to the officers and employes of the road, through whose exertions it has been fitted up. Book cases, desks for reading and writing, files for newspapers and many other conveniences fill the room. At one end stands a model engine, a complete copy of the plan of engine "501," showing the principle on which the different parts work. This enables the boys of the road to study at leisure the workings of the machinery so important to the road and to the safety of the men themselves. In short everything about the reading room is well calculated to be profitable to those in whose interest it has been gotten up. Many of the officers of the road were present and helped to make the occasion pleasant. Speeches were made, an excellent supper was served in the engine room, which had been tidied up for the purpose. The band gave an excellent music and a part of the evening was spent in dancing. We venture the assertion that no more orderly and polite assembly ever met in the county. Our thanks are due to [illegible], W. J. Frederick, B. D. Thomas and many others for courtesies.

Waterloo.

Libbie Bevier is teaching district No. 11, in Fairfield.

Phil. Plum and wife of Butler, were in town Monday.

Ernie Stough, is teaching the Ridge school this summer.

Capt. Cutter and Frank Chandler, were in Butler Monday.

Mr. Watson will occupy Dr. Murphys residence on Center street.

C. C. Blair, of Butler, was the guest of F. P. Blair Friday and Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Brevier took a trip to Auburn Saturday in the tax-paying interests.

The R. R. company have rebuilt the east half of the freight house bridg and a new cattle shute.

J. R. Walt, the new M. E. minister preached his first sermon to this congregation last Sunday.

Dr. Shepard, of Ada Ohio, was here last week having been called here by the sickness of Mrs. Wm. Brand.

R. Reiner and family left Monday for Big Rapids Michigan, their future home. May success go with them.

Rev. Lacy and family left yesterday for their new home in Pierceton. The best wishes of many friends go with them.

Misses Ida and Rosa Blair went to Garrett Monday, to attend the reception at the opening of the B. & O. reading rooms.

James McCague left Sunday night for De Moines, Iowa, where he will engage in the lumber trade with R. M. Lockhart.

Elmer Goodwin, has sold his spotted colt to Frank Bowly, of Smithfield township. Frank now has a span of these colts which will make a fine team.

A brakeman on the L. S. & M. S. R. R. while coupling cars at this station Saturday night, had two of his fingers mashed. Dr. Chamberlain amputated them and dressed the wound.

Mary Bevier is teaching school in Fulton county, Ohio. Seven miles south of the village of North Fayette. She likes her new place very well, as her aunt, Mrs. Oswald lives there, and Mary makes that her home. She gets $20, a month and is boarded. Glad to hear she is doing well.

An uncle of J. C. Brand, died at the residence of the latter quite suddenly last Friday. He had been visiting relatives here, and was expecting to take the train east at three o'clock p. m. While at the dinner table he was taken very ill and died the same evening. He lived in Ohio, and his body was taken home for interment.

SPENCERVILLE.

Hurrah for Johnson!

Mite at Mrs. Bowman's Friday night.

Wm. Fales is carpentering at Maysville.

J. A. Provines is painting his new residence.

Barney & Frick have got some new nobby advertisements.

Mr. Hymen, from Waterloo, is buying a good many horses at this place.

Messrs. Thomas Fales and Cicero Emanuel visited Mayaville last Sunday.

Prof. Wiley has returned from Butler and commenced the school Monday.

Bennie Baltz is learning the barber trade, under the instructions of C. Silberg.

That elegant residence preparing for Hon. S. S. Shutt, is now approaching completion.

Miss McKay has retired from the millinery business. Who will be our nett milliner?

Dr. Murphy, formerly of this place, has moved to Leo. We wish him all sorts of success.

William Bishop has moved to the Gibford residence, which he purchased of Thomas Murray.

O. W. Rummel made a very nice set of harness for Wm. Leighty, of St. Joe. Mr. Rummel's many friends will be glad to learn that he has secured his pension

There was a grand concert at the Lutheran church sabbath evening. It opened with a song, "Coronation," followed by a prayer by Rev. Baker, pastor of the Lutheran church. Everything was very tastefully decorated, the most conspicuous of the decorations being a large white cross directly in front of the pulpit, which was decorated with ivy, ferns and flowers. On the cross were the words: "If a man die, shall he live again?" The letters were kindly furnished by Mr. M. E. Olds, of St. Joe, for which, thanks.

Grumbler.

GARRETT.

Payday on the B. & O. this week.

The prohibition movement is gaining ground in this place.

Mr. E. A. Metz and wife of Corunna, passed Sunday in Garrett, the guests of A. Conrad.

The Garrett Sabbath school, is in a very prosperous condition. The attendance of teachers and pupils is unusually large.

Twenty six car loads of emigrants consisting of Germans, Hollanders, Polanders, Scotch and Swedes passed through this place on the morning of the sixteenth on route to the far west where they go to seek homes and grow up with the country.

Mr. R. Barcus has been appointed foreman of the road department carpenter shops at Garrett, in the place of A. Styles resigned. Mr. Barcus is a good mechanic and will, undoubtedly fill the position with credit to himself and profit to the company.

The Auburn Courier, is the second county paper on file in the Garrett reading room and library association that is sent free for one year. This shows the high appreciation of its proprietor in the good work. The Courier will alwys be welcomed by its many friends. Thanks, brother Barns.

The members and friends of the M. E. church feel well pleased over the action of the last conference in returning to them Rev. McCarty as their pastor for another year. Mr. McCarty has won many warm friends during the past year in this place, and we bespeak for him a hearty welcome and a good and pleasant time during the present conference year. [illegible] McCarty.

A. B. C.

Trustees' Report.

Report of the trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county Indiana, for the fiscal year commencing April 25th, 1881, and ending April 25th, 1882:

TOWN ORDERS ISSUED DURING THE YEAR.

F. Picker services as judge of election.	$ 2 00
John Tacoch services as clerk of election	[illegible]
R. McDougal services as clerk of election	[illegible]
E. Ashley services as judge of election	[illegible]
F. April services as judge of election	[illegible]
John Berg blacksmithing	[illegible]
Burns & Husselman printing	47 30
J. A. Barns printing	10 05
J. Fleming & Co. road scraper	[illegible]
D. S. Littlefield auditing books (employed by old board)	10 00
D. D. Moody auditing books (employed by old board)	20 10
A. M. Case special police	[illegible]
A. Umber special police	[illegible]
A. Robbins making road list	[illegible]
A. Robbins making duplicate	[illegible]
J. C. Yeeley lumber	[illegible]
I. N. Thomas lumber	[illegible]
W. A. Purdy repairing pump	[illegible]
Thos. J. B. Cool work on streets	[illegible]
A. Umber work on streets	[illegible]
Thos. Cool work on streets	[illegible]
H. Kelling work on streets	[illegible]
Sam Fretz work on streets	17 10
John Ervin work on streets	[illegible]
P. Wittmer work on streets	[illegible]
Sam Moore work on streets	[illegible]
S Poffenberger work on streets	[illegible]
G. F. Wittmer work on streets	10 00
G. S. McCord work on streets	[illegible]
John Eckenberger work on streets	[illegible]
Geo. Baldock work on streets	[illegible]
J. C. Henry work on streets	[illegible]
A. Umber work on crossings	22 25
Sam Buss work on crossings	1 75
C. Cloy work on gutter	4 25
T. P. Scott services as marshall	100 50
Thos. H. Sprott services as clerk	62 15
Chas. Beugnot services as treasurer	60 00
Isaac Cool services as viewer	[illegible]
G. S. McCord gravel	5 50
R. Elson gravel	15 00
J. C. St. Clair stone	[illegible]
John Shugar stone	1 60
M. A. Scott draying crossing lumber, etc.	25 45
G. Rhodenbaugh draying	5 00
J. Bouret hardware	2 50
John L. Davis hardware	26 12
Albert Fickes rent for pest house	75 00
Chris. Fell work on pest house	3 00
C. C. Shaffer furniture and mattress for pest house	10 00
C. C. Shaffer cash paid for wood for pest house	4 25
J. C. Yeeley work on pest house	1 50
John L. Davis stove, etc., for pest house	20 00
A. W. Allen team hire	2 50
	$ 1,246 04

PRESENT INDEBTEDNESS.

Thirteen school-house bonds not due, 5 per cent		$10000 00
Interest on school-house bonds due May 1, 1882		[illegible]
Fire bonds not due		1000 00
Fire bonds past due		[illegible]
Interest on fire bonds past due		160 00
Total bonded indebtedness		$12100 00
Outstanding orders 1876		[illegible]
" " 1877		[illegible]
" " 1878		[illegible]
" " 1879		[illegible]
" " 1880		[illegible]
" " 1881		[illegible]
" " 1882		[illegible]
Total amount of outstanding orders		$2483 [illegible]
Bonded indebtedness		12100 00
Outstanding orders		2483 [illegible]
Total present indebtedness		$ 14583 [illegible]

RESOURCES.

Tax duplicate of 1881		[illegible]
Divided as follows:
Additional special	$ 2181 91
Municipal	1700 [illegible]
Bond sinking fund	421 34
Delinquent tax of 1880		[illegible]
Cash in treasury		1696 07
Total resources providing the whole amount of duplicate is collected		[illegible]

M. Boland,
C. C. Shaffer
J. C. Henry
A. C. Wilson
D. Z. Hoffman
Trustees,

Attest: T. H. Sprott, Clerk.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the board of Trustees of the town of Auburn, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana:

The undersigned treasurer of said town submits the following report of receipts and expenditures of the different funds of said town from the 12th day of May, 1881, to April 18, 1882, to-wit:

MUNICIPAL FUND.

May 12, 1881, received from Mitchell Houston, ex-treasurer	$ 23
June 4, 1881, received of town marshal	10 30
Oct. 15, 1881, received of town marshal	41
Total receipts		$20 03

PAID OUT.

June 11, 1881, redeemed orders	$ 15 31
Oct. 25, 1881, redeemed orders	50
Total payments		$15 81
Municipal fund on hand		4 22

ROAD FUND.

May 12, 1881, received from Mitchell Houston, ex-treasurer	$ 12 80
May 31, 1881, received from county treasurer	409 25
Nov. 29, 1881, received from county treasurer	[illegible]
Total receipts		$453 90
Paid out from June 6, 1881, to April 5, 1882		441 99
Road fund on hand		$11 91

SINKING FUND.

May 12, 1881, received from Mitchell Houston, ex-treasurer	$ 87 66
June 4, 1881, received from town marshal	6 35
On hand		$94 01

INTEREST FUND.

May 12, 1881, received from Mitchell Houston, ex-treasurer	$ 2 14
June 4, 1881, received from town marshal	6 35
On hand		$ 8 49

ADDITIONAL SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.

May 12, 1881, received from Mitchell Houston, ex-treasurer	$ 196 87
May 21, 1881, received from county treasurer	1910 24
Nov. 29, 1881, received from county treasurer	108 33
Total receipts		$2215 44
Paid out July 12, 1881, in redemption of bonds		500 00
Additional special school fund on hand		$1715 44

C. Beugnot, Treasurer,
Auburn, Ind., April 20, 1882.

Liquor License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Richland township, DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said township, over twenty-one years of age, will make application to the board of commissioners of said county, at their June session, 1882, for license to retail spiritous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, at, and with the privilledge of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:

Lot no. three (3), in McMillen's first addition to the town of Corunna, in said township and county. JAMES W. GETTINGS. 16-3

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, May term, 1882, Sallie Osborn is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, for divorce by Benjamin F. Osborn and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court which commences May 15, 1882.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 18th day of April, 1882.

15-3t JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Elizabeth Bow deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

EMANUEL HEIDIG, Adm'r.
15-3t

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in [illegible] township, for the transaction of [illegible] township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.

[illegible], Trustee.

April 19, 1882.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

FISH culture is a decided success among the farmers of Pennsylvania.

ARSENIC sufficient to kill has been found in the remains of Jennie Cramer.

THE loss on the sugar crop by the Mississippi floods is estimated at 40,000 hogsheads.

A SNOW-STORM in Northern Minnesota and Manitoba, Saturday, the 8th inst., blocaded the railroads.

IT is proposed in New York City to build an aqueduct from Lake George, in that State, at a cost of $50,000,000.

A NEPHEW of Henry Ward Beecher has been arrested for obtaining $15,000 in mining stock under false pretenses.

AN investigation at St. Louis shows that the fat of dead horses and dogs is used in the manufacture of oleomargarine.

DURING the year 1881 the meat markets of Paris, France, disposed of the flesh of 9,300 horses and 400 asses and mules.

MRS. LANGTRY, the "Jersey Lily,' has contracted an engagement for an extended theatrical tour in this country next season.

PROCTOR, the astronomer, worries sleepy-heads by the announcement that 150,000,000 years from now, the days will be 1,400 hours long.

THE jury in the Richland county, S. C., election cases consists of four white Republicans, five colored Republicans and three white Democrats.

A RECENT trial in court has developed and demonstrated the fact that the titles of between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 acres of Missouri lands are tainted.

THE "old man Bender," who was reported found the other day, fails to materialize in that character, as usual, and justice still longs for the possession of the real criminal.

THE largest item of importation into this country during the seven months ended Jan. 31st was for sugar amounting to $30,527,866. Coffee came next at $26,943,324.

NAVIN, Adrian's absconding Mayor, is said to be in St. Louis, living with "Lorica," with whom he lived in Chicago for some time as man and wife, and to whose influence his downfall is attributed.

REPORTS continue to come in of the terrible destruction caused in Kansas and Michigan by last week's tornadoes. The extent and disastrous effects of the cyclones were much worse than at first supposed.

A MOB in Kansas City hung an innocent man the other day, acting under the conviction that the victim was the murderer of a popular policeman, but the real murderer has been discovered since the hanging.

THE bail of Dorsey, the accused Star Router, has been declared forfeited, and an order has been issued for his arrest. At last accounts he was at his ranche in New Mexico, where he had just sold 10,000 head of cattle.

MISS NELLIE EWING, a niece of General Thomas Ewing and General William T. Sherman, and two years ago a leading belle in Washington society, has taken the veil as a Sister of Mercy in Pittsburg, Pa.

IT is stated that the Committee on Education, of the House of Congress, will report a bill appropriating $10,000,000 for schools throughout the Union, to be apportioned according to the prevailing illiteracy.

CHARGES are made that the Holly Water Works Company sent several thousand dollars to Omaha in 1880 to influence the election, and secure the adoption of their system by the city. Prominent citizens are implicated in the conspiracy.

General Sherman wants no exception made in his favor in the new military officers' retirement scheme. General Pope is the only officer who will be affected by the forty years' continuous service clause. General Rufus Ingalls has an amended bill to propose.

RETURNS at the National Bureau of Statistics, of Washington, show that 240,537,375 gallons of petroleum and petroleum products were exported abroad from this country during the eight months ending February 28, the total value of which was $25,368,301.

THE American Board of Foreign Missions, at Boston, appeals for relief for the starving people of ancient Cappadocia and Port Phrygia, in the Turkish dominions, whose fields have been three times devastated by locusts. The people of Cesarea are dying of hunger.

SEVERAL bills on the subject of Chinese immigration, modified to meet the objections urged by the President in his veto message, have been introduced in Congress, and there is a strong probability that some one of them will be passed, and become the law.

DES MOINES, Iowa, has the largest distillery in the world. It has a daily capacity of 14,000 bushels, making 56,000 gallons of spirits each day, and requiring six store-keepers to take charge of it. When running to its full capacity it contributes to the United States $50,400 per day.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER ARMSTRONG has written a letter to Attorney General Brewster, recommending that the suit against the Central Pacific railroad be pressed, and that suits be instituted against all Pacific railroads for arrears of contributions to the sinking fund under the Thurman bill, and be vigorously prosecuted.

AN effort will be made to unite the two branches of the Methodist Church at the general conference of the church south in Nashville in May next, but it is not thought that it will be successful. The Northern branch has nearly all the wealth, and the more prominent members object to having their money drained to the South.

GENERALS SHERIDAN AND HANCOCK are not immediately affected by the retirement clause of the army appropriation bill, as Sheridan is only 55 or 56 years of age, and Hancock 59, while the retirement age is 62 years, or after 40 years of service. The latter clause strikes General Pope only, and may yet be modified in his behalf, as he does not wish to be retired.

CORNELIUS J. VANDERBILT makes bequests amounting $352,000 to personal friends and relatives, (William H. not included in the latter, however,) the largest sum, $150,000, going to Major Edward D. Luxton, besides $130,000 to his friend and companion for years, George D. Terry, to whom the residue of the estate goes.

THE English papers say that "an English subject can be imprisoned without cause, and ill-treated in any way, and there is no one to complain, but let a man once claim American citizenship and the prison doors are open, no matter what crime he has committed." The Administration is evidently asserting and maintaining the dignity and glory of American citizenship.

A NEW YORK special says: "It is estimated by leading bankers that about the middle of April $100,000,000 will be seeking investment in Wall street. The financial houses are kept busy answering inquiries of customers as to the most advisable way for idle capital to seek return. The usually ready suggestion to buy government bonds is no longer listened to.

ALL but three of the American citizens who have been under arrest in Ireland, have been released, and the negotiations for the release of all such prisoners, both in England and Ireland, are being pushed with the greatest possible energy, and with good prospects of success. While demagogues have been frothing and declaiming, the Administration has been quietly but energetically working.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE, the United States Minister to Turkey, and Hon. Walter Phelps, United States Minister to Austria, were granted a rare privilege in Constantinople, the other day—that of inspecting the Imperial treasury. They were surprised at the amount of treasure in the vaults, and the great number of precious stones displayed. Forty officials were in attendance, who opened the locks with many formalities.

THE National Mining and Industrial Exposition at Denver, Col., will be opened August 1. Forty acres of land in the most attractive suburb of Denver have been secured, a plan for the buildings has been accepted, and abundant funds to carry out the designs of the association which has the enterprise in charge are promised. As a display of all that pertains to the mining industry, this exposition will doubtless be exceedingly interesting and important.

THE Emperor William, on his 85th birthday just passed, made some serious remarks concerning himself. He recognized the fact that anyone who had reached his 86th year was far beyond the ordinary range of life, and hoped that if God granted him more days still he would not outlive himself. A long life was only to be wished for when accompanied with strength but, nevertheless, trusting in God, he entered a new year.

AN observant writer says: "About a dozen suicides are telegraphically reported in various parts of the country every day, but a careful scrutiny of the local newspapers, especially from the Eastern States, brings us to the conclusion that only a fraction of all the cases of suicide actually occurring from day to day are reported by the general telegraphic news-agencies. Self-killing is becoming more common in America that it used to be in France. Suicide is more frequent than murder, and that is saying a good deal.

The North Indiana M. E. Conference in session at Muncie, unanimously and enthusiastically passed the following:

Resolved, That the North Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Conference, representing 160,000 citizens of Indiana, do hereby express to the President of the United States their congratulations and hearty thanks for interposing the Executive veto against the so-called anti-Chinese bill. That we earnestly hope and pray that the President may ever maintain the good name and honor of the Nation in the fulfillment of treaties, and as the friend of humanity and the rights of men, irrespective of distinction, to the enjoyment of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That the Secretary of the Conference be instructed to forward by letter, to President Arthur, a copy of these resolutions.

BISHOP O'REILLY of the Roman Catholic diocese, of Springfield, Mass., has been preaching strongly against mixed marriage of Protestants and Roman Catholics. He says that a Roman Catholic woman who marries a Protestant endangers her own soul and those of her offspring, as the husband will not be likely to allow the children to be educated as Roman Catholics whatever he may promise. Neither should a Roman Catholic marry a Protestant woman, because in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the children inherit the characteristics of the mother.

THE telephone has been so improved in the East, that conversation has been carried on with ease between New York and Boston. "By a chemical manipulation of the carbon, which is still a secret, and the use of a current four times as strong as the ordinary one, handphones, as we call them, can be be made to give forth sounds as loud and articulate as the human voice itself. By using what is known as a metallic circuit—two wires instead of one—conversations have been carried on with ease over four hundred and eighty miles of country. No change whatever will be necessary in the present apparatus, except in substituting four cells for one in differently prepared carbon."

REV. DR. MAX LILIENTHAL, the eminent Jewish Rabbi, of Cincinnati, who died on the 5th inst., aged 66 years, was a conspicuous leader of American Judiasm, and was identified from the beginning with what is known as the "reform" movement. A graduate as Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Munich, a teacher in St. Petersburg until driven from that country by the order of Emperor Nicholas for the conversion of the Jews to the Greek-Russian Church, he came to America, and in 1855 to Cincinnati, where his advent was the signal for the uprising of a new Judaism. He was the moving spirit of the council which, in Cleveland, in 1856, made the first effort to modernize the old faith, and this council declared that the Talmud was not an absolute authority. He was one of the movers in the work of organizing the American Union of Hebrew Congregations, was President of the Hebrew Rabbinical Society, and one of the founders of the American College for the Education of Hebrew Ra

A WASHINGTON special to the Indianapolis Times says: "The reduction of letter postage from three to two cents, recommended by the late Postmaster General James, has taken popular hold on the members of Congress, and there is a prospect that it will be recommended by the Postoffice Committee of the House, although it is antagonized by a proposition of General Bingham, chairman of the committee, who proposes to carry letters weighing one ounce for three cents instead of three cents for each half ounce. The latter would be practically no reduction at all, and would not increase the revenue of the Postoffice Department, but would probably diminish it. The history of all practical reductions of letter postage in all countries has been to increase the revenues of the department, and no doubt exists as to the increase of our postal revenues were letter postage reduced from three to two cents for each half ounce."

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Three thousand Chinese have just sailed from Hong Kong for America.

Navin, the fugitive Mayor of Adrian, narrowly escaped arrest at Denver the other day.

Mrs. Sergeant Mason has opened a bank account at Riggs', in Washington, with $2,000.

The societies in New York for helping Russo-Jewish refugees have decided to locate them in colonies.

James H. Rainey, a wealthy young man of Columbus, Ohio, has mysteriously disappeared in St. Louis.

The same enterprising Chicago firm which hired Sergeant Mason, has also engaged "Betty" as a clerk.

A Wabash, Ind., druggist gave a little child a dose of laudanum, mistaking it for paregoric. The child died.

Remonstrances against the extension of the patent of the steam grain shovel are being made to Congress.

Owen Maloney and James Weeden, the Pittsburg pugilists, will fight on June 18 in West Virginia, for a purse of $1,000.

The cashier of the Savings Bank of Washington, Pa., is short $30,000 to $60,000, which he ventured in grain speculation.

The Ford brothers, who killed Jesse James, have been threatened with the vendetta by the banditti of Missouri and Tennessee.

Guiteau publishes a card in which he repudiates Mrs. Scoville and her attempt to secure a conservator of his person and property.

At Bloomington, Ill., a boiler-maker named Stone was found dead and putrefying in his room. A case of chronic alcoholism.

Burglars robbed the post-office at Angola, Ind., of 12,000 postage stamps and then stole a hand-car, with which they rode out of town.

Mrs. Samuels, mother of Jesse James, the red-handed highwayman, says her son "is better off in heaven than he would be here with us!"

The Italian Government is considering a scheme for a submarine tunnel between Italy and Sicily, to cost 64,000,000 lire (about $12,800,000).

A rattlesnake in Sweetwater Valley, Cal., six feet long and twelve inches in girth, with twenty-two rattles, was stung to death by a swarm of bees.

Patrick Skelly, of Hopkinton, Mass., who was rendered insane by being thrown out of employment, killed his son at the breakfast table with an ax.

Mr. Hatton, Assistant Postmaster General, has somewhat modified the stringency of his letter, forbidding postmasters from participating in politics.

Guiteau begins to despair, and fears he will have to "go," unless the President commutes his sentence. He has lost five pounds in weight since the trial.

While removing the Forepaugh' Menagerie from their winter quarters at Philadelphia, the tiger burst into the lion's cage and killed the king of beasts.

Governor Vance, of Nebraska, has issued a proclamation urging that every person in that State shall plant a tree on Nebraska Arbor Day, the 9th inst.

Jumbo, the well-advertised elephant, was landed from the steamship on which it arrived from London, and was immediately treated to a quart of whisky.

Howard Newland, of Viola, Ia., while being taken to the insane asylum by his wife, sprang out of a car window, near Marion, and lost both feet.

Further details of the Michigan tornado from East Saginaw, report the killing of a minister, severe injuries to other persons, and additional damage to property.

It is said the apportionment bill agreed to by the Democratic caucus of the Kentucky Legislature gives the Republicans a fighting chance in three or four districts.

The Rev. Ira Slater, a Baptist preacher of Cherry Valley, Ill., was arrested at Steward, Lee county, on suspicion of being a horse thief and counterfeiter. He will sue for damages.

A man named Bovine, claiming to be a minister, armed with letters of indorsement from various rural congregations in Indiana and Illinois, is playing the rascal in the vicinity of St. Joseph, Mo.

IN Vermont women who pay taxes have the right to vote for school officers, and to be elected such officers, but it is said that only five women in the State exercised the right to vote this year.

Another anti-Chinese bill was introduced into the Senate by Mr. Miller, of California, and another is to be sent in by Mr. Farley. Both make the taboo of immigration ten in lieu of twenty years.

The name of Louisa Bronson Alcott was the first registered at the voting precinct in which this popular authoress lives at Concord, Mass., at the recent election, which shows that Louisa gets up early in the morning.

SINCE the autum of 1878, an act closing saloons has been enforced in Ireland, and it is claimed that the result is a decrease of $15,000,000 in the amount expended for intoxicants and 22,000 fewer cases of drunkenness.

In order to get his elephant Jumbo into this country without paying about $4,000 customs dues, Mr. Barnum will swear that he is importing him for breeding purposes—probably with a saving mental reservation.

A singular fact in regard to the orange trees of the Riverside colony, Los Angeles, is that the trees are loaded with fruit on the side exposed to the south, while on the north side not only are the leaves withered, but there is absolutely no fruit.

Talking about ducks, it is a curious fact that these birds did not leave Lake Ontario, as usual, last fall, but have remained all winter. Whether they knew it was going to be an open winter, and if so, how they knew, is a matter that remains to be found out.

The body of a child that had been buried twenty years in the village graveyard on Main street, Lawrenceville, Pa., was recently disinterred, and found to be perfectly preserved. It resembled a wax figure, and the hair, eyebrows, and teeth were perfect.

Shortly after General Steele, in 1863, took Little Rock, a Missouri guerilla named Robert A. Crowley was imprisoned in the State House. While a captive he secreted a $100 greenback in a chink of the walls. He came to that city recently and after a short search found the bill.

The fast approaching comet will likely come within sight of the naked eye early in May. It is approaching the earth with almost lightning speed. Many have prophesied that it will disarrange all predictions of weather prophets, and that unusual weather and violent storms may be expected.

Foreign.

The Austrian Government will not tolerate Jew-baiting.

The Barcelona (Spain) merchants are regaining confidence after the labor riots.

English steamship companies are obliged to put on extra boats for the emigrant trade.

In Rome the collection of "Peter's pence" (the annual tribute to the Pope) amounted to $48,000.

A Swedish paper says that Sweden intends to invade Finland in the event of a Russo-German war.

The latest anti-Jewish outrage was the murder of a family of nine persons by the Russian soldiers.

The German police force are considering means for separating Socialists from Russian Nihilists.

An American company is still negotiating the concession of a railroad from Stamboul to Bagdad.

Irish government officials are deliberating as to whether they will recommend a continuance or a repeal of the coercion act.

The German ecclesiastical bill is at rest temporarly. The Ultramontanes will take no amendments thereto from the upper house.

The London Times notes the fact that four months elapse before his American friends put in the insane plea on behalf of Dr. Lamsen, the murderer.

De Lesseps contradics the story that the Panama Canal Company proposes to take up the Nicaraguan land concession if the American grantees abandon it.

British Columbia was visited by a tornado on Saturday, which it is feared did considerable damage on the coast. In the harbor of Victoria six men were drowned.

The Austrian and German press regard the appointment of Dr. Giers as Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs as a symptom of a policy of peace on the part of Russia.

Nothwithstanding the uncertainty in regard to the French inspection of American pork products, a quantity of bacon has been shipped from New York to Marseilles.

Only three Irish-American citizens remain in jail under the coercion act the others having been set free owing to the friendly interference of the United States government and Minister Lowell.

Patrick J. Symth, M. P. for Tipperary, in view of the outrages committed under the guise of patriotism, styles Parnell's following the "League of Hell," which, he says, has brought ruin shame and on Ireland.

Prince Gortschakoff has been relieved of the duties of Minister of Foreign Affairs by the Czar, on account of bad health and old age, but he retains the title of Imperial Chancellor and a seat in the Czar's Council.

Sarah Bernhardt, husband and all, arived in Madrid Sunday. She plays eight nights in that city for $19,000. Father Jarrett is with her, the possession of a husband not enabling her to dispense with the venerable impressario.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, April 5th.

SENATE.—A resolution was adopted calling for the number of pensioners on the rolls. New bills were introduced on the subject of Chinese immigration. The vetoed bill on Chinese immigation was taken up and failed to pass over the veto—yeas 29; nays 21.

HOUSE.—The army approppriton bill was reported from the Committee of the Whole, and passed.

THURSDAY, April 6th.

SENATE.—The Presidential count bill was considered and passed. In executive session Mr. Teller was confirmed as Secretary of the Interior.

HOUSE—The tariff commission bill was further considered. Three bills were introduced on Chinese immigration, suspending such immigration ten, fifteen and sixteen years respectively. Several new bills were reported by and from committees.

FRIDAY, April 7th.

The Senate was not in session.

HOUSE—The bill passed relieving from the charge of desertion soldiers in volunteer service during the late War on proof they serve faithful until the expiration of their time of enlistment, or until the 1st of May, 1865, but who failed to be mustered out and received honorable discharge. The tariff commission bill was further discussed. At an evening session nineteen private pension bills were passed.

SATURDAY, April 8st.

The Senate was not in session. A short session of the House was held for debate only and several buncombe speeches were made to empty benches.

MONDAY, April 9th.

SENATE—A bill amending the anti-polygamy law and fixing the salaries of the Commissioners at $5,000, was passed. The death of Representative Allen, was announced and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE—Among the bills introduced was one for the abrogation of the Burlingame treaty. A majority report of the committee on elections favored Mackey against O'Connor, in the South Carolina district contest.

TUESDAY, April 11th.

SENATE.—A bill restoring Capt. Corbin to his active list of the navy was passed

HOUSE.—A bill appropriating $50,000 for the subsistance of certain Indians, was passed. The Senate amendments to the post-office appropriation bill were considered, and the bill sent to a committee of conference.

Fruit and Frost.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.

Telegraphic reports from different parts of the State show that in the southern tier of counties the fruit is not seriously injured by frost, but further north it is feared that everything is killed. In this vicinity water froze. Much of the night was cloudy, and a light wind prevailed. The fruit trees here were in full bloom.

Madison, Wis., April 11.—The mercury fell to 24° in exposed places last night. Many fruit buds are killed, but blossoms are so profuse this season that enough will probably be left for a crop. Wheat was injured where it was jointed. Cherries and plums are safe. Early apples were damaged, and strawberries were killed.

Politeness is a wreath of flowers that adorns the world.

TABLE TALK.

Game is disappearing from Arizona.

The iceberg crop this year is immense.

Morgan county, Ga., has done away with fences.

Sumac fetches forty-five dollars a ton in Virginia.

Actions for breach of promise are rare in Germany.

Forty Chinamen make watches in San Francisco.

Umbrella making supports 15,000 Philadelphians.

Some well-to-do New Yorkers spend $3 a day on cigars.

It is decided to build the new opera house in New York.

The industry of raising geese is being introduced into Texas.

A locomotive lasts thirty years if nothing happens to it.

Niagara Falls buried a hackman the other day worth $33,000.

The wealthy Mormons have an average of twelve wives each.

Shouldn't the fish commission begin to plant some angle worms, too?

The present rage is for dark hose, dark hats and dark gloves, all matching.

Germans and English swear by God, the Latin races by the Virgin, Danes by the Devil.

Only one white woman—Mrs. Garfield's former maid—is employed at the White House.

In the recent sale of stock of the Boston Daily Advertiser the paper was valued at $225,000

A South Carolina lady has made feather fans of the value of $1,500 for a prominent New York firm.

All the original MSS. of Longfellow's works, both in prose and verse, have been preserved and bound by him.

There are 8,000 miles of telegraph wire carried overhead on the streets of Philadelphia and nearly 7,000 poles.

Moody and Sankey are drawing multitudes again in Glasgow, the city of their first great success, in revivalism.

Mrs. Sam. W. Small, wife of "Old Si," of the Florida Times, was badly burned recently in rescuing her children from a bed on fire.

The London Figaro of March 18 says that the prince and princess of Wales will, after the present season, pay a visit to Canada via New York.

It is proposed in Chicago to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of Froebel, the founder of the kindergarten system, on the 21st of next month.

A lady at Hamburg, the other day, ripped open a wool-stuffed needle cushion which she had used for thirteen years, and inside found 1,016 needles.

A Florida railroad company runs cars exclusively "for colored people;" but this is a great advance since the time when "colored people" were "niggers."

An Ia. farmer hid $500 in currency in his cellar, and the mice got at it and destroyed it, using it to make their nests. The farmer became insane at the loss and died.

The pawnbrokers in New York are greatly excited over the prospect of their shops under police surveillance and imposing largely augmented license fees.

"Temporay derangements of the mind," says Dr. Richardson, of London, "are frequently produced or increased by defects in the house inhabited by the sufferers."

A New York judge has sent to the penitentiary for six months a girl of sixteen who persisted in taking lessons in the song-and-dance business against the will of her mother.

Musical criticism: An Indian chief in Washington went to see the Ideal Opera company, when M. W. Whitney gave a particularly low note the chief said: "Ugh! him heap dug out."

Thomas Hood, driving in the country one day, observed a notice beside a fence: "Beware the dog." There not being any signs of a dog, Hood wrote on the board, "Ware be the dog?"

Denver is already getting ready to invite the national democratic convention to meet there two years hence, and promising to show the delegates everything, from the Rio Grande to Leadville.

The Boston Journal tells a good story of how in a street car a near-sighted, modest man picked up a washerwoman's dirty handkerchief and tried to pass it to every blushing young lady in the seats.

A four-year-old boy went into a saloon at Dallas City, Ill., tossed a five-cent piece on the bar, and called for a glass of beer, as he had seen his father do. Being refused the drink, he went out and smashed a window with a stone.

A prominent manufacturing firm in Massachusetts has recently subscribed for more than three-hundred copies of St. Nicholas, to be sent the children of its employees. They were paid for from a fund which had been set aside for educational purposes.

I S'll S'eep Wiv Him To-night.

Detroit Chaff.

Sometimes I believe the little ones say the best things after all. I knew a little family in Detroit who are heart-broken and sad this Saturday night. They were three last Saturday, but to-day only two are left. The tie that bound them more closely than that which the clergyman drew has lately been loosened, and the light of their lives went out with the red winter sun only the other night. The father is a railroad man, whose duties call him away from home nearly three-fourths of the time. It was his habit, whenever he was about to start for home to telegraph his wife apprising her of the fact. In these telegrams he never failed to mention the name of the little four year-old, and the dispatches usually ran as follows:

"Tell Arthur I shall sleep with him to-night."

The baby boy was very proud of these telegrams, which his mother would read over to him, and he considered the "teledraf" a great institution. The other night, when the fever had done its work and the mother was sobbing out her anguish, the little one turned calmly in his bed and said:

"Don't ky mamma; I s'all s'eep wiv Dod, 'oo know. Send Dod a teledraf and tell Him I s'all s'eep wiv Him to-night."

But the message went straight up there without the clicking of wires or the rustle of wings.

FROM WASHINGTON

The Democrats are preparing for a long struggle over the election cases and the admission of the Territories. They will use every parliamentary power possible to delay action. It is probable the Greenbackers will vote with the Republicans, as it is understood the latter support the claim of Lowe, in the Eighth Alabama District, who is a Greenbacker, to the seat. If so, the Republicans will have eleven over a quorum, and so be able to carry their measures.

Shipherd appears to be getting himself into a bad corner, and it is thought he may land in prison on a charge of attempting to corrupt officials.

Congratulations are pouring in on the President from all quarters on account of the veto. The indications are that even the Pacific coast is not a unit against it. The Democrats, desiring to make all the capital possible out of the veto, now talk of offering to pass another bill with a fifteen year clause, and so force another veto. This, they think, would insure them Oregon, and perhaps California.

J. H. Raymond, Secretary of the Western Railroad Association, of Chicago, addressed the House Committee on Patents, this morning, on the subject of extensions of seventeen-year patents, with special reference to the pending application for the extension of the steam grain-shovel patents.

The President has nominated Henry M. Teller, of Colorado, to be Secretary of the Interior; Wm. E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, to be Secretary of the Navy, and Wm. H. Hunt, of Louisiana, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Russia.

First Assistant Postmaster General Hatton's letter to the Cincinnati Postmaster, reversing President Hayes' civil service order, attracts much attention here.

It is pretty evident that Minister Lowell will be recalled soon. His course regarding American citizens imprisoned abroad is unsatisfactory to the Administration.

A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of Dr. Mary Walker for tampering with the mails. She explains that a letter addressed to her landlady was opened by her by mistake.

The Democrats will favor the Chinese bill with the sixteen-years limit, in the hope that, if passed, it may force another veto. As some Republicans will refuse to vote for the ten-years bill, the Democratic scheme may succeed. Members are not at all anxious for the bill to come up again this session, and will oppose the taking of it out of its regular order, and action may be delayed for a long time.

The comments on the Cabinet nominations are generally favorable.

There was quite a tilt between Blackburn and Robeson to-day. Blackburn charged on the floor Wednesday, that the Quartermaster's clerks had been taking fees for claims allowed, and presented receipts. To-day he offered a resolution of investigation. Mr. Robeson offered a substitute with a preamble which referred to the fact that charges had been made by a member, thus putting upon Blackburn the burden of proof. Mr. Blackburn said that while he didn't want to shirk the responsibility, he didn't propose to make himself a public prosecutor, and opposed the substitute. A long colloquy followed, during which Reed read a letter showing that the clerk referred to by Blackburn as taking a fee for getting a claim through had resigned a year before the receipt was given, and was then acting as attorney. During the colloquy there was a sharp passage of words between Blackburn and Robeson, the former charging a want of courtesy, but Robeson insisted that he had not been, or intended to be, discourteous. Finally, Blackburn accepted Robeson's preamble, which was attached to Blackburn's resolution, and the double team was thus driven through.

Mississippi members are troubled over the gerrymander of that State, which is so outrageous as probably to react and give the Republicans two or three members from the State.

Senator Butler has returned from South Carolina, evidently impressed with the seriousness of the election cases, and thinks he had better keep out of them. He says, however, that Brewster's letter united the Democracy, and healed all wounds for the present at least.

The committee examining Shipherd has determined to go to the bottom, and his apparent determination to break into jail is likely to be gratified. His letters from General Hurlbut, exhibited yesterday afternoon, show that his attack on Hurlbut's character was entirely unfounded.

The bill to reissue $25,000,000 fractional currency, will probably be favorably reported by a sub-committee, but will be slaughtered if it ever gets to the House.

Secretary Kirkwood starts for home Thursday. He will make a tour of the South for his health during the Spring.

Pitkin will probably succeed Jack Wharton as Marshal in Louisiana, as the President was anxious to find a place for him. He has been clamoring for the Mexican mission, but the President is unwilling to change.

The Illinois appointments to West Point for this year are Wesley Merritt, Henry C. Newcomer, David W. Fulton, Charles H. Martin, Henry J. Gochenour, David J. Baker, Jr. Those of Iowa are Charles E. Lyon and Harry B. Wilkins.

The general feeling in army circles regarding the bill retiring all officers at 62, is that it is unwise, as engineers and surveyors are very valuable after that time of life.

Reports from the South indicate excellent crop prospects, and an unusual tendency to diversify the products instead of confining production to two or three articles.

The arrival of immigrants at New York is likely to greatly exceed, in the next two months, anything before known.

Judge Wylie this morning decided the Star Route indictments good and sufficient. The motion to quash was overruled, and the indictments stand.

Scoville has retired from the Guiteau case on account of the prisoner's persistent abuse. Charles H. Reed goes on with the case.

Maggie Mitchell visited the jail and bought five of Guiteau's photographs, giving him five dollars for them.

The New York Mail and Express, Cyrus W. Field's paper, says that Secretary Folger will not be a candidate for Governor, and that President Arthur favors Cornell as a peace measure. Abe Hewitt is quite likely to be the Democratic nominee.

Judge Wylie said this decision would dispose of the motion to quash in the Soteldo murder case. The recognisance of Stephen W. Dorsey was declared forfeited, and his arrest ordered.

The nominations of Wm. E. Chandler, to be Secretary of the Navy, and of William H. Hunt, to be Minister to Russia, will be favorably reported to the Senate.

The House will take up the Geneva Award bill to-day. There remains some $10,000,000 of the Geneva award undistributed. The bill provides for the payment, out of the fund, of the losses by the acts of the exculpated cruisers, and the extra premiums of insurance made necessary by the presence on the seas of these Confederate cruisers.

From present indications a vote will be reached on the Tariff Commission bill at the end of next week, and the bill will pass.

A delegation from Louisiana is here urging appropriations to rebuild the levees. It is estimated that it will cost $1,500,000, to rebuild those carried away.

Mrs. Mason has a letter from her husband. His health is good. She has received some $2,000 in donations, depositing most of the sum in the bank here.

The Chinese Minister left for Spain to-day, to which he is accredited a Minister. He is accompanied by an interpreter and two attaches.

Scoville has gone to Brooklyn, where he lectures Thursday on "Guiteauism, Its Uses and Abuses." Scoville seems in bad health and much depressed. The trial has been a terrible strain, mentally, physically and financially on him.

There seems to be doubt about Dorsey's return. Ingersoll insists that he is in New Mexico, and will have him here in a few days, but some believe that he will leave the country rather than stand a trial.

The Richmond Whig predicts the election of eight Readjuster Congressmen in Virginia on a platform indorsing Arthur and his Administration.

McLane's resolution to abrogate the fifth and sixth articles of the Burlingame treaty is intended to pave the way for the passage of a Chinese bill without the violation of the treaty obligations. McLane was Minister to China under President Pierce, and basis his opinion on his experiences there.

The nomination of Lewis Buckner, to be Collector of Louisville, will be favorably reported.

The following has been furnished for publication:

To the Agent of the Associated Press:

Mrs. Frances M. Scoville, according to newspaper report, has impudently filed a petition in Chicago for a conservator of my estate. The absurdity of her pretensions is apparent from the fact that I do not live in Illinois, and have not for nearly three years; besides I am not a lunatic. This was officially decided on my trial. I have lived in Washington for over a year, and this is my legal residence. The court had better dismiss the petition peremptorily. The Scovilles are nuisances, and I want nothing to do with them.

CHAS. GUITEAU.

The national Land League is in session here. It will appoint delegates to call on the President and both branches of Congress to demand Minister Lowell's return. It is also expected that a mass meeting will be held for the same purpose, to be addressed by Congressmen and others.

Mr. Rounds assumed the duties of his office to-day, visiting the printing office, and assuring the empoyes there would be no changes of importance.

Hewitt's tariff speech is attracting much attention. It may make him a candidate for Governor of New York, and perhaps a Presidential candidate. There have been 200,000 copies distributed.

Governor Crittenden says he didn't hire Ford to kill Jesse James or offer any inducements, except to state in reply to his question what was the amount of the standing reward offered, and that he would give him the benefit of his protection. He says the death of James will end the gang's operations.

The compulsory retirement clause of the Army bill is said to be the creation of General Sheridan, who wants General Sherman out of the way; that Sheridan is the favorite of Secretary Lincoln, who recognizes his father's regard for "Little Phil," and Sheridan, Lincoln, Logan and Bragg are said to have worked the plan through. All of which must be taken for what it is worth, with a strong leaning on the doubtful side, Sheridan and Lincon not being schemers.

The Hydrographic Office has issued a new Polar chart showing the course of the Jeannette and the islands discovered.

The number of appointments in the Treasury Department during Hayes' first year was 615; under the present administration, 212. Under Hayes, one of every two applicants were appointed; under the present administration, one out of ten.

A bill was favorably reported to the House to-day to prevent national banks issuing over 90 per cent. of the face value of the bonds deposited, and when the bonds fall below par, only 90 per cent. of the selling price.

It is whispered that Secretary of the Interior Teller will probably remove Assistant Secretary Bell, Chief Clerk Lockwood, and, perhaps, Indian Commissioner Price, having had some trouble on former occasions in getting his work attended to by these worthies as promptly as should have been done.

Collision on the Lake.

Detroit, Mich., April 12.

At three o'clock this morning the schooner Thomas Parsons, upward bound, collided with the schooner Clayton Belle, on the lake, ten miles north of Port Huron. The Belle was struck on the quarter and sank in a few minutes. The second mate, John Dillon, William Sullivan and Thomas Kirwin, of the crew of the Belle, were on deck at the time and are saved, but the captain and three others are lost. They were below, but came up and got into the small boat, which was sucked under the waves by the sinking of the vessel. The names of the lost are:

Captain Frank A. Colvin, who leaves a family at New Haven, Oswego county N. Y.

First Mate Nathaniel Brotherton, who leaves a family at Battle Creek, Mich.

Dell Brotherton, his son,

The female cook, named Kiverth.

The Parson was picked up by the tug Mocking Bird in a badly damaged condition, and towed to Port Huron with the survivors of the Belle.

The Divorce Mania.

Augusta Moore says in the Evangelist: "I took up a daily paper one day and saw nineteen divorces in it. I took up another and saw five. I went to a certain church and found there, in full communion, a woman who has two husbands. I visited the house of "a leading member" in a church, and found there a minister who had divorced one wife (a virtuous woman), and is married to another. I know a minister who married a doctor to a woman for whom he had divorced his excellent wife. This was in Clinton, Ct. Time would fail me to particularize the cases of this sort that I know, and I live among the best people that there are in this world. These cases are as plenty everywhere as they are about me—indeed, much more so in many localities. A friend writes me from Clifornia that is hardly safe to say 'divorce,' so many of 'the very highest people' have two or three husbands or wives living. Now, is not this an encouraging state of things? Is it any wonder that some ministers are telling us how fast the world is growing better, how the very milennium is upon us? It is to be feared we can hardly exert just the moral influence that is needed over the Mormons until the States are reformed. Prof. Austin Phelps says: 'We are not half awake to the fact that by our own laws of divorce and our toleration of the social evil, we are doing more to corrupt the nation's heart than Mormonism, ten-fold.'"

Not an Old Man's Darling.

Louisville (Ky.) Special.

Fannie Leonard, a very fascinating woman of twenty-two years of age, was married about two years ago to a man forty years her senior. The union proved a most unhappy one, and after a few months of wrangling a separation occured. The old man tried afterward to win her back, but without avail, and finally he became so persistent that she threatened suicide if he continued to follow her. No attention being paid to this threat, last September she attempted her on life on two occasions by drowing in the Ohio. She was rescued both times, the last with great difficulty, and on promising that she would make no further attempts was released by the authorties. Since then nothing has been heard of her until last night, when she appeared at the Central Station and asked permission to stay all night. Her request was granted, and she was placed in the witness room of the City Court. This morning, just before the court was opened a strange noise was heard in her room, and the officers, on opening the door, found she had gone raving mad. She had torn her clothes nearly off, and was snapping and snarling like a mad dog. A physician was summond, and she was removed to a hospital. It is thought she can not live but a few days.

All philosophy lies in two words—"sustain" and "abstain."

Hypocrisy admits the worth of what it mimics with such care.

It is chance, that makes brothers, but hearts that make friends.

The statliest building man can raise is the ivy's food at last.

FASHION NOTES.

A handsome spring walking-suit pattern is the "Sarolta" jacket and "Nettie" overskirt made over a box-plated underskirt.

Old shawls and scarfs are brought into conspicuous use this season. The bordering is utilized in decorating all wool promenade suits.

In print goods there are a number of exquisite of patterns that are entirely new, and many of these cotton goods are preferred to cheap silks.

All wool cheviots, in minute checks are very fasionable. Suitings come in a variety of patterns. This style of goods is very durable and effective.

A beautiful costume for street wear recently imported, has the pleated skirt made of reseda faille. The velvet tunique is disposed in velvet, with revers of moire.

The combinations in materials are diversified this season in a greater degree than formerly. The greens and reds are commingled with pink, olive and blue, and outlined with yellow and creamy white.

A cream ground chintz shows a print in flowers that is very beautiful. The colors are effectively blended. Those patterns having dark grounds are preferred for street wear; the trimming should not be of a too contrasting hue.

Flowers of all kinds are wrought upon fine dress materials. This innovation, introduced this spring, is very pronounced and replete with true art elegance. Embroidered ribbons have appeared among the latest importations for this season.

Warm browns, ruby, old gold, dull china blue, red graduating to pink, straw tint deepening into bright yellow, and yellow tinged with a faint crimson hue, various shade of greens, lichen tints, and mastic shades, also grays and purples, are the mode colors for this and next season.

Dancing as a Fine Art.

Interview with a New York Dancing-Master

"What is your idea of the modern mode of support in round-dancing?"

"My idea is that, as it is seen at public balls and Long Branch hops, it is most in-elegant, illbred immodest and unnecessary. A lady who dances well and gracefully maintains her independence of motion and a perfect balance. The moment she becomes a clinging vine, and allows her head to rest on a man's shoulder, and his arm to embrace instead of support her, she shows not only a shocking lack of refinement, but of good dancing, and impedes her partner's movements as well as her own."

"What do you consider the proper support?" "The gentleman should take the lady's right hand in his left and she place her left hand upon his shoulder, the fingers appearing in front. The gentleman should rest his right hand gently upon the lady's back near the waist, and both should stand on parallel lines looking over the other's shoulder, the lady turning her head slightly to the left. Both should bend the upper portion of the person slightly, so that the shoulders should not be more than four inches apart, and the hands that are clasped should remain only a few inches from the person, not allowing the wild sticking out of arms recently adopted. In this group there is no more contact of person than a lady taking a gentleman's arm for walking. But to put the whole matter in a nutshell, the vulgar and vicious dance vulgarly and viciously, and the refined in a refined and innocent manner."

"Among what nation do you find he best dancers?"

"Forty years' observation and experience has led me to conclude that American women are the best dancers in the world. The Germans are very correct and easy, but not graceful; the English put two much struggle into it; the French are inclined to angularity; but the American women is by nature supple and graceful, learns with facility and has the vitality that takes the place of strength."

The Aquatic Bicycle.

From The Baltimore Gazette.

Quite a novel aquatic contrivance, in the shape of a marine bicycle, was placed on exhibition in the harbor at the foot of South street yesterday, by Mr. S. T. Clark, in charge of the bicycle school. It consists of two long narrow flatboats connected by iron braces, and having an elevated seat in the center. The pedals are the same as those on a road bicycle, and by a cam wheel and proper gearing actuate a propeller which imparts the impetus to the machine, while the rudder is manipulated by an ordinary handle and rod. The marine bicycle rides smoothly and swiftly on the water, and, on account of its raft-like shape, cannot easily be upset. The position of the occupant is less cramped than that of an oarsman, and the propelling power is greater, because there is more muscular power in the legs than in the arms for the use of ladies it can be converted into a tricycle, and as it is divided into air-tight compatments, its safety would seem to be assured.

A Skeleton in a Tree.

North Georgia Citizen.

Two men in the northern part of Gilmer county chased a fox to his covert, which proved to be an immense hollow trunk, charred and blackened by forest fires. It was comparatively but a huge stump, being not more than twenty feet high. The wily robber of the hennery had entered an aperture near the base of the tree, and all efforts at smoking him out had proved futile. As a last resort one of them proposed barring the fox's mode of entrance and then felling the tree. This plan was adopted, and a few vigorous strokes of their axes sent the old shell crashing to the earth, and Reynard, in trying to escape, was summarily dispatched with an ax. As they were preparing to take their departure, one of the men discerned something white glistening in the old, hollow stump, and upon examination was horrified to behold the bleached bones of a dismembered human skeleton. On closer inspection a powder horn and bullet pouch were brought to light, together with a few mouldering articles of rayment, but nothing else was found that would testify as to who the person had been.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER

DARBY'S

Prophylacti Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft, White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.,
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated,

In fact it is the great

DISINFECTANT AND PURIFIER

PREPARED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS

And the Best Machinery in the World for

BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!

Book Free. Address

LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE SARD & CO.

ACORN

STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!

Every Style & Price.

Guaranteed Unequaled

FOR

OPERATION, ECONOMY, DURABILITY and WORKMANSHIP.

Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.

Always Reliable.

POPULAR EVERYWHERE.

For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,

MANUFACTURERS:

ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,

ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 23, 1882.

Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.

Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL BRINGS A SEED STORE

LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS

To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

Founded 1784.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

Minneapolis
MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
COUNCIL BLUFFS
ATCHISON
LEAVENWORTH
MISSOURI

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, [illegible]

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa [illegible]

At DES MOINES, [illegible]

At COUNCIL BLUFFS, [illegible]

At OMAHA, [illegible]

At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, [illegible]

At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa [illegible]

At KEOKUK, [illegible]

At CAMERON, [illegible]

At ATCHISON, [illegible]

At LEAVENWORTH, [illegible]

At KANSAS CITY, [illegible]

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, [illegible]

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

For information not obtainable at your home ticket office, address,

R. R. CABLE,
Vice President and General Manager.

E. ST. JOHN,
[illegible]

Capt. Robson's Discovery.

HE FINDS A NEW ISLAND IN THE ATLANTIC, AND ON THE ISLAND SOME CURIOUS REMAINS.

Yesterday the British steamship Jesmond, Capt. Robson, arrived at this port from Messina with a cargo of fruit. He says that when about two hundred miles to the westward of Madeira his attention was called to the singular appearance of the sea. The water had a dark, muddy look, and was covered with dead fish as far as the eye could reach. They were of mullet, cod and bass. Soon after entering this field of dead fish he observed a faint smoke on the horizon nearly ahead, on the course of the vessel. Early the next morning the captain was awakened by the second officer and informed that land had been sighted in the course of the steamer. He was greatly surprised at this information, knowing that there was no land in this part of the Atlantic. Upon going on deck, however, he found that the report was correct. The dim outlines of an island, broken by mountain peaks, were visible even without the use of the glass. Above it hung a cloud of smoke. The water was more turbid than on the previous day, and the shoal of dead fish thicker. Capt. Robson deemed it advisable to take soundings, not expecting, however, to get bottom, as the charts show a depth of from 2,000 to 3,000 fathoms in that portion of the Atlantic. For some time the sounding was without result, but suddenly the line brought bottom at fifty fathoms. When about four leagues distant from the island the Jesmond came to anchor in seven fathoms of water. The island was located 28 degrees 40 minutes west, 25 degrees north. Capt. Robson determined to make an examination of the strange land, and the yawl was lowered and the captain and one of his officers were rowed to the island. A landing was effected on the low coast of the western border, where a convenient harbor was found for the yawl. The captain and several of the crew, with some difficulty, ascended the declivity.

The promontory seemed several miles in length, and joined an extensive tableau, which sloped gently back to a chain of mountains at a great distance off, from which rose light columns of smoke. The surface of the ground was covered with pumice-stone and volcanic debris and entirely destitute of vegetation. It was a desolate scene, where not a single living thing was to be perceived. The captain and his companions started on a tour inland, but soon found their progress impeded by yawning chasms. It was therefore determined to return to the beach and inspect the island from that side. While examining the base of the cliff where the rock was fractured and twisted as if in some tremendious convulsion and disclosed a bed of breccia, a surprising discovery was made by one of the sailors. On thrusting the prong of a boat-hook into the loosened mass of gravel, he dislodged a stone arrowhead. Excited by this incident, the search was continued, and other articles of stone were dicovered. A large excavation was made, and it was ascertained that the opening led between the crumbling remains of what must have been massive walls. A number of articles were exhumed, such as bronze swords, rings, hammers, carvings of heads and figures of birds and animals, and two vases or jars with fragments of bone, and one cranium almost entire. The most singular thing brought to view was what appeared to be a mummy, contained in a stone case. It was so incrusted with volcanic deposits as to be scarcely distinguished from the rock itself. Much difficulty was experienced in dislodging the sarcophagus, which was finally taken out whole and, with the fossils, transported to the steamer.

Capt. Robson would have continued this investigation, but as the aspect of the weather became less favorable, and he could not afford to spend more time at the island, he sailed for this port. He considers that the new island, has raised from the sea by volcanic action, and that the fish were killed by the poisonous gases from the volcano. The captain thinks that the new land is a section of the immense ridge known to exist in the Atlantic, and of which the Azores and Canaries are a part. He took pleasure in exhibiting the fossils and curious articles of which he was the fortunate finder. The carved heads are in the Egyptain style of sculpturing, being distinguished by the veil or hood which characterizes Egyptian figures. The urns and vases are spherical with large mouths, and upon them may be discerned inscriptions in hieroglyphics. The edges of the axes and arrow or spear-heads are blunted and jagged. The sword is straight weapon of bronze, with a cross-hilt.

"That is the mummy," remarked the captain, pointing to what the reporter had taken to be a long black stone. Scrutinizing closely the lidless case, the outlines of a human figure could be traced through the coating of smoke and pumice. It will require careful handling to remove the coating. Capt. Robson proposes to present the relics to the British museum at London upon his return to Liverpool.—New Orleans Picayune.

"A Bridal Package."

THE TWENTY MILLION DOLLARS WHICH IS HANDLED BY INSPECTORS OF THE TREASURY VAULTS.

Nearly every bridal couple that comes to Washington—and Washington is the national bridal Mecca—visits the treasury vaults. The young and invariably interesting couple want to closely inspect Uncle Sam's splendid shekels. When they enter the vault the man in charge of it, after a few preliminary words of explanation, hands down a package of notes from a shelf, and tells the bride to take it in her hands. He then explains that this package contains $20,000,000 in United States treasury notes. The young lady is delighted to go away and say that she has had so much money in her own hands. She is just too utterly pleased. The groom also wants to handle the package. They are furthur told that the notes are all of the denomination of $10,000. They constitute what is known as the "Bridal Package." Young married tourists, having heard of this package, often ask to handle it just as soon as they enter the vaults. This is all very pretty. But it is a fraud on the young people. The treasury here does not hold that amount of money. The bulk of the money is in the sub-treasury at New York. That "bridal package" is a gay deceiver. It does contain, however, notes of the denomination of $10,000, which would, in the aggregate, represent $20,000,000, if they were only signed. But they are worth no more in reality than the paper on which they are printed, being minus the necessary signatures.—[News.

Beating the Bar.

A SUCCESSFUL RUSE TO GET THE DRINKS AND CIGARS.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

"Times hev sadly changed since them days," said the tale-teller, with a sigh. "This is a generation of bums. Why, they devote more ingenuity in beatin' a bar than them men used to put in the greatest question of the day. I was jest a openin' up this mornin' when in come a couple of fellows. One of 'em says:

'Gimme a cocktail.'

'The same,' says the other.

"I mixed 'em up their drinks, and they says:

'That's all right, Mr. Barkeeper; we're workin' in the sewer.'

"I went out about an hour after, and I seen that the man-hole hadn't never been stirred. Them beats had jest muddied themselves up a little on purpose to gimme that game."

"You kin smile," he said mournfully; "but that ain't nothin' to the business they give a new bartender. I got it worst. He was from the best bar in town, and he thought himself pretty sharp, too. Ye see there's two doors to the place—one at the front and one at the rear of the bar there. Well, a fine-lookin,' well-dressed feller come in one evenin,' when things was quiet, and he says to the man at the bar:

'Gimme a drink.'

'Whisky?' says the barkeeper.

'Whisky,' says he.

'Is that your best?' he sez, looking scornfully at the bottle.

'Our best bit whisky,' sez the man; 'we've got better for two bits.'

'Well, allers gimme the best,' he sez, 'and join me, will ye?'

'We ain't 'lowed to drink on duty,' sez my man.

'Well, ye needn't be so short,' sez the feller.

"My man apologized, an' the feller sez, with one hand in his pocket, as if feelin' for the change:

'Now, gimme a cigar.'

'Bit cigar?' sez my man.

'Two bit,' sez he; 'I allers smoke the best.' An' he kinder turned round as if he wus ketchun sight o' that paintin,' an' he sez:

'Is that the great picture of Cleopatra that wus at the fair?'

'Yes, sir,' sez my man.

'Well,' sez he, 'I don't see nothin' for people to object to in that. It ain't indecent at all.'

'No,' sez my man, a tryin' to size his customer, for at first when he called for the two-bit bottle he thought he had a stray from the Palace bar, but now he made up his mind sure that he wus some feller in the business lookin' fur a good place to open a trade.

'Say,' sez the man, takin' his fingers out of his vest pocket, 'how long is this yer bar?'

''Bout sixteen or eighteen feet, I think,' sez my man, now dead sure that his last immpression wus correct.

'You kin be civil, can't ye?' sez the feller. 'If it's sixteen, say sixteen, an' if it's eighteen, say so. How wide is this place? Hold on, we'll measure it.' An' he took out a spool of thread, an' that innocent doughnut o' mine jest obligingly held one end while he measured the hull interior o' this establishment. Finally he run his thread out to the door, with my man behind the bar a holdin' his thumb on it, an' he goes outside.

"Well, to make a long story short, when the barkeeper went out after him, he wasn't to be seen, and the other end of the thread was tied to a lamp-post."

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield Center, pays the highest prices for all kinds of produce. Give him a trial. 14tf.

$1,000 Reward.

For any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DeBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 915 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. S. Sold by Davenport, the druggist.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE ONLY MEDICINE

IN EITHER LIQUID OR DRY FORM

That Acts at the same time on

THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, AND THE KIDNEYS.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

Because we allow these great organs to become clogged or torpid, and poisonous humors are therefore forced into the blood that should be expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT

WILL SURELY CURE

KIDNEY DISEASES,

LIVER COMPLAINTS,

PILES, CONSTIPATION, URINARY DISEASES, FEMALE WEAKNESSES, AND NERVOUS DISORDERS,

by causing free action of these organs and restoring their power to throw off disease.

Why suffer Bilious pains and aches!

Why tormented with Piles, Constipation!

Why frightened over disordered Kidneys!

Why endure nervous or sick headaches!

Use KIDNEY-WORT and rejoice in health.

It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form, in tin cans one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

☞ It acts with equal efficiency in either form. GET IT OF YOUR DRUGGIST. PRICE, $1.00

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Prop's, (Will send the dry post-paid.) BURLINGTON, VT.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm. To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS' FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

PILES

NO CURE NO PAY

DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S NEW SURE PAINLESS PATENTED CURE WARRANTED

OVER 3000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR. BRINKERHOFF

FISTULA, RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES

CONSUMPTION CURED

CALL OR ADDRESS TOLEDO

Being the only

EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE

n Northern Indiana, we make a specialty of handling the best and newest patterns of

TAPESTRY,

BODY BRUSSELS,

AND WOOL CARPETS

At lowest prices. We also keep a full line of

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS !

MODERWELL AND STUDOR,

Successors to

S. W. ELLSWORTH AND CO.

FT. WAYNE, IND.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE !

J. C. BOYER.

Is opening up in the Patterson Building, a stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HATS & CAPS,
BOOTS & SHOES
GROCERIES, etc., etc.

My stock of READY MADE CLOTHING is New and Large, and for the NEXT 60 DAYS I will sell goods at Fearful Low Prices, for I wish to close out this part of my stock. Now is your chance to buy goods cheap. Also a very large line of

HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS,
GLOVES, MITTENS,
NOTIONS,
ETC.

At Greatly Reduced Prices, to make room for Spring Stock. Call and see me before buying for you can save money by buying of me.

☞ All kinds of Country Produce taken at Highest Market Prices.

J. C. BOYER,

WATERLOO, IND.

OZONE

—THE—

KING FORTUNE MAKER

The Only Practical Preservative of Perishable Articles, both Animal and Vegetable, Preventing Decay or Putrefaction.

☞ Preserves Meats, Eggs, Fish, etc., indefinitely and with complete success.

EGGS can be purchased when cheapest, and preserved for any length of time, at a cost of One Mill per dozen, and other articles at same proportionate cost.

There is a Gold Mine in every County in this State for some live man.

TEST PACKAGES OF OZONE

Containing sufficient material to preserve from 500 to 1,000 dozen Eggs, sent to any address upon receipt of $2.00.

INDIANA DEPARTMENT

PRENTISS PRESERVING CO.

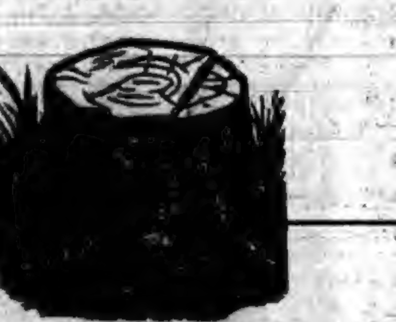
Address, JOSEPH BROWN,

La Fayette, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED

IN EVERY COUNTY,

Who should order a Test Package and secure County AT ONCE.



This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES !

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stump than with them. He knows' that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself. Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S, ÆTNA POWDER CO.

54 S. MERIDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

Dr. E. C. YETTER,

BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.

P. O. Box, 132. 3-6.

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

Manufacturers of the

Best and Lightest-Running

Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on south Main street, Auburn, Ind. 21 tf

New Meat Market

Opposite Hoff's grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers, has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m.

Farmers having stock for sale should give him a call. 6tf

W. L. BRAUN.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad

SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct Route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R R.

Time-Card takes effect Dec. 19, 1881.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 20pm	1 [illegible]am	......
Saginaw	6 20	7 28	......
Lansing	9 25	12 25	......
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 00	11 30am
Detroit	9 50	7 [illegible]	9 45pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	5 22
Jackson Lv.	7 15am	12 00 m	7 00
Hanover	7 40	12 25pm	8 05
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	9 00
Bankers	8 30	1 18	9 28
Reading	8 48	1 28	9 55
Montgomery	8 55	1 43	10 25
Fremont	9 12	2 03	10 55
Angola	9 30	2 20	11 25
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 30	11 45
Waterloo	10 02	2 52	12 25am
Auburn	10 13	3 05	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 25	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 20
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 55		6 25
Louisville	10 15	7 25am	7 30
St. Louis	......	8 45	......
Washington	......	9 05pm	......
Baltimore	......	10 15	......
NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am	......	9 10pm
Washington	10 20	......	9 27
St. Louis	6 40pm	......	7 50am
Louisville	......	5 07am	......
Cincinnati	9 00	7 25am	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00	......
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 40pm	5 50	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 05	3 07
Waterloo	1 00	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 18	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 05
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 38
Montgomery	2 05	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 30
Jackson	3 40	9 23pm	9 35am
Ann Arbor	5 07	......	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 35	8 20	......
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	......
Bay City	9 20	11 55am	......

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 30 a.m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 8 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 5 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 8 35 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m., 2 38 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m., 12 00, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 50, 11 35 p. m.; west 2 15 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 2 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 23 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 2:18 p. m.; west —11:06 am. m., 7:24 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C., leave 10 10 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 55 p. m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 4 00 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 6 15 a. m. 2.00 p. m.; ar. 8 00, 7 15 p. m. P., Ft. W. & C., east, 5 30 a. m., 3 25, 5 10, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 50, 6 20, a. m., 12 40, 3 40, 5 35 p.m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
M. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r, Agent

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect December 12, 1881.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD.
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 45pm	10 35am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	10 05am
6 47	11 30	Bluffton	4 16	9 05
7 47	12 23	Hartford	3 12	7 47
8 40	1 55pm	Muncie	2 17	6 50
9 25 m	6 25pm	Cincinnati	8 12a	4 55pm
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	6 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL General Ticket Agt.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipment! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y. Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 30am	5 30pm
Elkhart	1 20pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 46	11 20	5 24	12 10pm
Corunna	2 59		6 25
Sedan			7 08	2 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 50	7 30	[illegible]
Butler	3 24	12 [illegible]am	8 20	[illegible]
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 30pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS	Chi Ex.	Pac Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	1 00am	12 01am	5 00am
Butler	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	9 30am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 [illegible]
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 36	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 [illegible]	8 20	4 00
Chicago	8 00	8 30

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:25 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:40 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG, Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT FROM JANUARY 22, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C. Ex.
Chicago lv	5 35pm	9 10am	[illegible]
Walkerton Junction		12 05am	[illegible]
Milford Junction		1 26	[illegible]
Syracuse		1 38	[illegible]
Cromwell		1 52	[illegible]
Albion		2 12	[illegible]
Avilla		2 34	[illegible]
Garrett	10 35	2 55	[illegible]
Auburn Junction	10 42	3 04	[illegible]
St. Joe
Hicksville		3 40	[illegible]
Defiance	11 52	4 25	[illegible]
Deshler	12 40am	[illegible]	6 10
Fostoria	1 30	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tiffin	2 0[illegible]	[illegible]	7 [illegible]
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	[illegible]	9 00

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	3 30pm	6 10pm	8 00am
Tiffin	10 25	7 42	[illegible]
Fostoria	10 54	8 35	[illegible]
Deshler	11 52	9 48	10 40
Defiance	12 55am	10 40	11 42
Hicksville		11 48	12 25pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 18am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 35
Avilla		12 38	1 52
Albion		12 58	2 20
Cromwell		1 10	2 45
Syracuse		1 28	3 02
Milford Junction		1 45	3 14
Walkerton Junction		2 05	4 30
Chicago ar.	8 55	6 10	7 35

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec. 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv.	9 10am	3 30pm	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft. Wayne	2 35pm	8 15	11 55	[illegible]
Crestline	9 00	12 [illegible]am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield
Pittsburgh Ar.	8 00am	6 57	1 10pm	[illegible]
STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	9 25am	7 00am	[illegible]	[illegible]
Mansfield
Crestline Lv.	7 15pm	2 07pm	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft. Wayne	12 35am	3 55	8 40	[illegible]
Chicago Ar.	6 50	10 30	11 50	[illegible]

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:45 am.; Warsaw, 8:55 a. m., Columbia, 9:45 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:40 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 4:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:40 p.m.; Plymouth, 6.45 p. m.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager.
H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent
St. Louis.

Records

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, APRIL 27, 1882. Number 17.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & RUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to criminal practice, estates, municipal, railroad supreme court practice in Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shafer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Madison, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 26 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt, Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D.

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY PROBST, Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 18, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK GFELLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Elizabeth Bow deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
EMANUEL NEIDIG, Adm'r.
15-3t

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, May term, 1882, Sallie Osborn is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, for divorce by Benjamin F. Osborn and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court which commences May 15, 1882.
Witness, the clerk of said court, this 10th day of April, 1882.
15-3t JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

Liquor License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Richland township, DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said township, over twenty-one years of age, will make application to the board of commissioners of said county, at their June session, 1882, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, at, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:
Lot no. three (3), in McMillen's first addition to the town of Corunna, in said township and county. JAMES W. GETTINGS. 16-3t

HOUSE FOR SALE.—The two-story frame dwelling, on lots No. 13 and 14 in Gross & Dills' addition to the town of Auburn. The house is in good repair, has nine rooms, good cellar and cistern, has a summer kitchen and good stable. It stands just east of the lumber yard at the Jackson depot. Terms: One third down and the balance in two years, at 6 per cent. interest and secured by mortgage on the premises. Address, John Aber, Monroeville, Pa. 16-3.

—Remember Weirick's new store at Fairfield Center when you want anything in his line or have produce to sell. Give him a call and price his goods. 14-tf.

—Try our 25c Japan tea. McQuiston & Long. 16-3

Obituary.

William Beatty was born in Pennsylvania September the 10th, 1804, and at an early age he went Ohio, where he was married in 1829 to Rebecca Zeigler. He moved from there to Indiana, where his wife died March 9, 1864, leaving ten children. His second wife was Mrs. Rachel Thomas. He was a resident of Jackson township for 26 years, until the time of his death which occured March the 23rd 1882. He leaves a wife and 10 children to mourn his loss, he died in the triumph of the living faith.

Father is gone, yes he is gone
From the beautiful earth:
From its sorrow and all pain,
From its pleasures and mirth.

The parents whom we cherished;
And those we loved best.
Are gone to the grave
In its silence to rest.

Shall we meet them with smiles,
Yes, in the bright sunny morn,
In the tomb father lies;
To heaven his spirit has flown.

Correspondence.

MILPITOS, CAL., April 9, 1882.

MR. EDITOR: Your letter was received last night, and I was indeed glad to hear from you once more, and will try to comply with a few of your requests. But they will be but few, as I could answer but few of them in one letter, as my operations are so varied. The result of my year's work was, barley, 3,000 bushels; hay, 100 tons; onions, 1,000 bushels; tomatoes, 5,000 bushels; cucumbers for pickles, 1,600 bushels. Our apple crop was light. We always sell apples here by the box, and everything above mentioned by the pound. A box of apples is 50 pounds; plums, 35 pounds; pears, 40 pounds. Of apples, I raised 800 boxes; pears, 600 boxes; plums, 1,000 boxes; and I also dried six tons of French prunes, which I have on hand now. My strawberry crop was light—800 chests of 20 pounds per chest. Of asparagus, I had 100 tons. Asparagus always sells by the pound. I have not given you the price of the stuff, as prices fluctuate so much through a season, and I would have to refer to my report of sales, which would necessitate some time and trouble. I have given you but little information in the above, save in quantity. Now I will turn to the subject your boy no doubt has been waiting for, viz.: "The Horses." Well, about 1870, I bought a stallion from England that came at a cost of $5,000. He was a thoroughbred, a racer. I then bought two mares, the old mare first, at a cost of $3,500. The other was an untried filly, which cost $700. Those on the start I made my first two brood mares. I have now about twenty thoroughbreds, and you may think strange when I tell you quite a number of horses here from four to ten years old that never have looked through a collar, and I suppose never will. I keep about sixteen work horses which are from one-half to three-fourths thoroughbred. You speak of Membrinos and Hambletonians. Neither are thoroughbred. They are trotters. We have lots of them here—some of the best in the United States. California is now ahead of the world in young trotters. Just think of an eleven month old colt trotting to harness and sulky in 2:26. It is wonderful. I had two horses last year that lowered the running record. Our nine year old Nathan Coombs ran two and one-fourth miles in four minutes, and our two year old Inauguration ran five-eights of a mile in one minute and three seconds. I have a mare that ran for the cup three-quarters of a mile, carrying 160 pounds, in one minute and twenty-two seconds. These that I have mentioned were fast winners. You know when a boy, I was a kind of horse fancier, but lived and worked for years before I could gratify myself, and I am not yet able to do so, for without plenty of money it is useless.
WM. BOOTS.

Mrs. Polk.

President Polk's widow was born in 1803, and married Polk, then a member of the Tennessee legislature, when she was nineteen years old. She joined the Presbyterian church in 1834, and upon entering the White House in 1845 made it her first business to abolish dancing there. She kept out of politics, and was one of the most dignified, exemplary and popular women ever known in Washington. At about the time of her leaving that city her husband bought from Felix Grundy the house and spacious grounds in Nashville which were thenceforth known as "Polk Place," and there she has lived in retirement ever since his death. His grave is in the yard near the house; and with her own hands she has kept his chamber in order, with his books, table, papers and writing materials just as he left them. She inherited from her father a considerable property, and President Polk left her well provided for; but she suffered losses in the war, and now, in her childish old age is without an income sufficient for comfort.

—Early Rose potatoes, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

Carp Culture.

SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATTENDED THE EFFORTS OF THE GOVERNMENT TO INTRODUCE THIS STYLE OF FISH.

The yearly draining off of the water from government carp ponds was commenced last Saturday and was continued Monday. Results show that the season for breeding has been successful, beyond the expectation of Prof. Baird. There are now three large ponds in which fish have been cultivated. In the group at the foot of the Washington monument, another, much larger than the others, will be added the coming season, containing eight acres. This pond will be completed in a few days, when the water will be let in and a stock of about 250 large carp will be put in, which, it is expected, will materially increase the annual supply to meet the orders received constantly by Prof. Baird. The number of young carp of last year's spawn thus far taken out of these ponds, and placed in the pools on the small island by the lakes, is estimated to be about 340,000. These are the young fish hatched out last season in May, June and July, and are now of nearly uniform size, healthy, and just in a condition to be shipped. The entire number sent from this city last year by Prof. Baird was about 300,000. That number will probably be doubled this year. The large pond will be stocked this spring for the first time, and it is thought will swell the number to be distributed next year to at least 1,000,000. There are about seventy of the original fish brought from Germany still alive in the sea ponds. They are about thirty inches in length and large in proportion. Some of them weigh from fifteen to twenty-five pounds. Carp grow much faster during the first four years, while attaining the spawning age, after which the growth of the female is retarded. The young fish hatched out last May vary in length from three to seven inches.

When the lakes are drained each year all the eels and catfish are thrown out, as they devour the young carp. Dr. Hassel, who has charge of these lakes, told a reporter that last summer he put into one of the small ponds on the island, a large pumpkin weighing sixty pounds, first cutting a hole in the side of it, so that the small fish could get inside. He states that it was entirely devoured in eight days, rind and all, and during the whole time it was constantly in motion from the schools of young fish always at work upon it. They seemed exceedingly fond of the sweet morsel, and appeared to thrive on it.

The sides of these lakes, paved with stone, have to be repaved and the clay well packed at the lower edge, as every year the carp undermine the walls by burrowing and boring for small worms. One of the substances which the young fish seem to relish, is a sort of aqueous plant, always submerged, of a deep green color, and slimy. This, when seen through a microscope, is a mass of plants full of joints at regular intervals, and swarming with animalculæ all in constant motion. These are constantly devoured by the carp, and as constantly being reproduced, so that there seems to be no end to the crop of food.

As to the pecuniary success which has been attained by carp culture, thus far everything is promising. One gentleman, in one of the southern states, reports that from the twenty-five fish he received about two and a half years ago, he sold last year $600 worth of young carp from the first spawning. Dr. Hassel places the carp next to the shad in point of value as a food fish, but does not consider it equal to the salmon. The leather carp is the favorite, as it has no scales and is always thrifty and vigorous. The past winter has been quite favorable for these fish, as they have been able most of the time to feed. Hundreds of persons who have received fish from Prof. Baird give the most satisfactory accounts of success. Most of these accounts come from southern states, where the ponds are not so cold.

Dr. Hassel states that he hopes Prof. Baird's next crop will number at least a million, and he believes it will, should no accident happen to the propagating lakes. The entire area of water which will be given to carp raising the coming season will be twenty-five acres.—[Washington Star.

NEW SPRING MILLINERY.—Mrs. Clock has just received her new stock of millinery, and has a very nice assortment of trimmings, and the latest styles in hats and bonnets. Also a fine line of laces for dress trimmings. Third door north of Abright's jewelry store. 15-4t

—Tom & Jerry smoking tobacco, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

Prehistoric Mining in Michigan.

The Lake Superior mines have the advantage of producing metal free from any alloy of antimony or nickel or arsenic. In many of the mines great masses of native metal are found so large that they must be cut in pieces with chisels.

All the more important mines are situated on the ancient workings of a prehistoric race. They seem to have been ignorant of the fact that copper could be melted, for they left behind them the fragments too small to use and the masses too heavy to lift. Every day they subjected it to a temperature nearly high enough, without making a discovery which would have lifted them out of the Stone Age into the Bronze Age, and perhaps have enabled them to survive the struggle in which they perished. They must have been very numerous, and have reached the point of development where they were capable of organizing industry.

In Isle Royale, near the Minong mine, their pits, excavated to a depth of from ten to twenty feet in the solid rock, cover an area of from three to four hundred feet wide and more than a mile and a half in length. The labor expended here cannot have been much short of that involved in building a pyramid. Isle Royale is ten miles from the nearest land, and is incapable of producing food, so that all supplies except fish must have been brought from distant points. Their excavations could of course never go below the point at which water would accumulate. Their hammers, frequently to the number of several thousand, are found in heaps where they were evidently placed at the end of the season. As no graves or evidences of habitation are found, we can hardly doubt that the ancient miners lived south of the great lakes, and made yearly journeys with fleets of canoes to the copper mines. The aggregate amount of the metal which they carried off must have been very great, and it has, I believe, been generally thought that the copper implements of the ancient Mexicans came from this source. M. Charnay, in a recent number of the North American, seems to think that the Mexicans reduced copper from its ores. A chemical analysis of their hatchets would solve the question, for Lake Superior copper is so free from alloys as to be unmistakable.

The superintendent of the old Caledonia mine in Ontonagon county kindly took me to the top of a cliff where three Cornish "tributers"—miners working not for wages but for a share of the product—had cleared out one of the ancient pits in the outcrop of the vein. They had brought out a quantity of copper, and had just uncovered a large mass which would weigh certainly not less than seven tons. Many battered stone hammers lay around the mouth of the pit. The active little Englishmen, belonging to a race of hereditary miners perhaps as old as the Mound-builders themselves, had come around the world from the east to finish the work of the departed Asiatic race who reached here from the west at a time to which no date can be assigned. Not far away another party had cut down a dead cedar to make props for their tunnel. As they were putting the log in position, from its center dropped a small but perfectly formed stone hammer which had never been used. It was made from a stone found, I believe, only on the north shore of the lake. This tree was not far from two hundred and fifty years old; but as cedar is almost indestructible in this climate, it may have been dead several hundred years. The axeman said that he had found several hammers in the center of cedars. It would seem barely possible that this hammer had been in a cleft of a tree, when it was a sapling, that the wood might grow around the groove and serve as a handle. At all events, this one, which I have was certainly placed where it was—about thirty inches from the ground—by human hands, undoubtedly by the ancient miner himself, when the tree was a twig.—F. Johnson, Jr., in Harper's Magazine for May.

Kidney Diseases.

Kidney diseases afflict the greater part of the human race, and they are constantly on the increase, but where the virtues of Kidney-Wort have become known, they are held in check and speedily cured. Let those who have had to constantly dose spirits of nitre and such stuff, give this great remedy a trial and be cured. In the dry form it is most economical, in the liquid the most convenient.—[Philadelphia Press.

—Bring your butter and eggs to McQuiston & Long and get cash or trade.

The "Gen. Armstrong" Claim.

The passage of the act to pay to the heirs of the owners, officers and crew of the brig "General Armstrong" some $70,000, recalls an interesting bit of history.

September 26, 1814, the American brig General Armstrong, of 230 tons, carrying seven guns and ninety men, commanded by Captain Samuel C. Reid, put into the neutral harbor of Fayal, Azore Islands, for water, and while there was attacked by the British ships, Plantagenet and Rota and the brig Carnation, carrying altogether 136 guns and 2,000 men. In the subsequent engagement, which lasted all night, the British lost 300 men, killed and wounded, while but two Americans were killed and seven wounded. The Armstrong was so badly disabled that Captain Reid scuttled and deserted her, whereupon the British burned her.

The British fleet was detained several days in repairing damages, and this delay prevented them from taking part in the battle of New Orleans, for which port they were bound, thus giving victory to the Americans. Captain Reid presented a claim against Portugal for relief of men and officers, which was the subject of diplomatic correspondence for forty years; caused the withdrawal once of our minister to Portugal; was submitted to Louis Napoleon, who decided against it because the claimants were not given opportunity to present evidence; was passed upon favorably by the court of claims, whose decision was reversed upon a technicality, and senate and house committees have many times reported in its favor and never against it, and it has been passed by one house or the other, but yesterday it passed the house, having already passed the senate, and the heirs of Captain Reid are anxiously awaiting the president's signature in order that they can draw from the treasury $70,739, the amount allowed in the claim.

"Two Tollar."

There was a slight blaze on the roof of a house on Russell street a few days ago, and when the insurance adjusters went up to make their survey they found that about two dollars would cover all the loss.

"Two tollar," exclaimed the owner, when he heard the decision, "I can't take no two tollar."

"But you see for yourself that a dozen shingles and an hour's work will make good all damages."

"Gentlemens, you doan' put me off like dot. Vhen my vhife finds dot we vhas on fire she screams bolεece, und murder, und falls down sthairs. Would you let your vhife fall down sthairs for dot sum? If so, I goes home mit you und sees der fun."

"We do not insure husbands and wives, but buildings," was the reply.

"I know; but mein oldest poy he runs for der fire-box und falls a picket fence oafer und breaks his good clothes all to pieces. Two tollar! Dot doan' bay me for goming op here."

"Yes, but we can only pay for actual damages."

"Dot's all I vhant. Who stole my dog vhen my house vhas on fire? Dot dog ish gone, und he vhas ten dollars wort."

"We didn't insure the dog."

"Und maybe you don't insure dem 'poys who sat on der fence und called out: 'Dot ole Dutchman's red nose has set his house on fire!' Do you expect I take such sass like dot for two dollar? Und vhen der firemens come here dey break mein clothes lines down mit der ladders, und spill wasser all oafer my carpets. Two dollar! Vell, vell! you go right avhay from here, und I takes dot old insurance policy und steps him into der mudt!"—Detroit Free Press.

A WORLD OF GOOD.—One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other bitters, as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old-fashioned boneset tea, that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters.—[Nunda News. 16-2w.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

—McQuiston & Long have just opened a new lot of black cashmeres at 65c and 75c per yard to which they call the attention of close buyers.

ROOT AND

COMPANY.

44 and 46 Calhoun St.

Are now making a [illegible] display of

SPRING GOODS.

—OUR—

SILK

SUITS

Are represented in great variety, and cannot be surpassed in quality and finish.

—OUR—

SATIN MARVEILLEUX SUITS

Need only to be seen to be appreciated.

Elegant assortment of

PARASOLS

—AND SUN—

UMBRELLAS

Embracing all the Novelties of the season

WHITE GOODS:

TIES,
LACES,
LINENS,
CRAPES,
GLOVES,
RIBBONS,
HOSIERY,
CURTAINS,
UNDERWEAR,
EMBROIDERIES,
ETC., ETC.

The most extensive, varied and attractive assortment of

DRY

GOODS

OF ALL KINDS

That we have never before been able to offer to our patrons, and at prices that must be satisfactory to the closest cash buyer.

ROOT AND

COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

THE Ohio Legislature was in session three months.

CHINAMEN have organized a Masonic Lodge in Boston.

THERE were 122 business failures in this country last week.

IT is believed that the session of Congress will extend into July.

IT is expected by his physicians that Bishop Bowman will recover.

PATTI has contracted her notes for next season for fifty concerts at $1,400 each.

A MYSTERIOUS and fatal disease is creating a panic in portions of Pennsylvania.

IT is estimated that the robberies of Jesse James and his gang, aggregate about $250,000.

THE labors of Harrison, the revivalist, in Cincinnati, are credited with 1873 conversions.

A NEW Chinese giant, exhibited at the museum in New York, is eight feet six inches in height.

AFTER a long contest, Miss Ada C. Sweet has been reappointed as Pension Agent for the Chicago district.

IT is shown in the pending tariff discussion that one half of the $85,000,000 worth of silk goods used annually in this country is manufactured here.

IT is said that there is a growing sentiment in Congress in favor of the suspension of the coinage of silver dollars.

IN Seneca, Kan., all the saloonatics have given up their government licenses, and their places are closed as nuisances.

THE poet Longfellow was a Republican, and the only office he ever held was that of Elector on the Republican Presidential ticket some years ago.

THE New York dog show is in full blast, with over 1,200 purps on exhibition. They should pass resolutions of sympathy for the hard fate of their kindred in Indiana.

LATEST reports from Western Michigan, Northern and Central Indiana and Central Illinois, agree that the fruit crops have been very seriously damaged by the recent cold weather.

THE circus men have a new attraction. One of them purchased the two horses of "angel" Jesse James for exhibition, and of course every circus in the land will have the genuine original pair of steeds.

THE wife of Senator Mahone was welcomed home by her husband on her recent return from Europe by a gift of a set of diamonds valued at $40,000. What a jewel of a husband the little Senator must be!

THE Republicans of the Indianapolis district have unanimously nominated Hon. Stanton J. Peele, the present incumbent, as their candidate for Representative in Congress.

BISHOP GILMOUR, of the Roman Catholic Church, took part in a recent public meeting in Cleveland looking to the suppression of the liquor traffic, and enforcing a proper observance of the Sabbath.

THE recent conference of polygamous Mormons in Utah resolved to send out 200 missionaries, of whom seventy-two will go to Europe, and the remainder operate in this country. Polygamy is defiant and aggressive.

THE Canadian Senate has passed a bill legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister. Its opponents give notice that they will appeal to the Governor General for a veto to the Queen to disallow the bill.

HORACE GREELEY devoted the better part of his life to fighting the Democratic party, but died a Democrat. His eldest daughter, recently dead, had been a Protestant nearly all her life, but was an ardent Catholic when she died.

THE worst storm of the season of snow and wind is reported in the Black Hills region of Dakota and Wyoming Territories, having been in progress for several days, and doing great damage. On the 17th of April the snow was two feet deep on the level.

MR. JACKSON, the Immigration Superintendent at New York, says the arrivals indicate an immigration of nearly a million this year. Through the efforts in Europe of the agents of new railways, a vast tide is being turned toward the Southwest.

INDICTMENTS have been found against two members of the Ohio Legislature for accepting bribes, and against the lobbyist who did all the bribing. All three of them were sent to jail until bail had been furnished for their appearance for trial.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has submitted the question of holding a Congress of the independent countries of North and South America next November, in Washington City, to the judgment of Congress, and proposes to be guided in the matter by the conclusions of that body.

THREE thousand dollars reward is offered for the recovery of the little son of W. W. Dickinson, abducted last November from a small town in Wisconsin. He was traced to Manassas, Va., where he was seen dressed as a little girl and cared for by a woodchopper.

ACCORDING to the New York press, the returns indicate that the general business interests of the city for the first three months of the year are on a good basis. The sales are much larger than for the same time in 1881. Prices have generally tended upward, so far, at least, as all manufactured goods are concerned.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER ARMSTRONG has written a letter to Attorney General Brewster, recommending that the suit against the Central Pacific railroad be pressed, and that suits be instituted against all Pacific railroads for arrears of contributions to the sinking fund under the Thurman bill, and be vigorously prosecuted.

The Vienna Presse says that trustworthy merchants from Moscow report that eighty workmen, employed on the Uspauski cathedral, were arrested on Holy Saturday in consequence of the discovery of a mine under that edifice, in which it is intended that the ceremony of the coronation of the Czar is to take place.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH advises the British government to handle the Irish with a firmer grip, and recommends the abolition of the jury trials in agrarian cases, the collection of the fair rents by summary process, suspension of representation of the rebel districts, suppression of the muderous press, and special legislation concerning foreign emissaries.

GOVERNOR PITKIN, of Colorado, has appointed George M. Chilcott, of Pueblo, United States Senator, to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Teller's transfer to the Cabinet. Mr. Chilcott was a delegate in Congress from Colorado some years ago, before it became a State, and subsequently was a Representative in Congress.

The Italian railroad laborers who engaged in a riot at Fort Plain, New York, the other day, seem to have had a great provocation. Many of them had nothing to eat for several days after they were discharged, and no money to buy anything because they were not paid. Heartlessness or injustice on the part of employers is generally at the foundation of labor strikes and riots.

WASHINGTON is given a bad name as a very unhealthy place, on account of the frequent attacks of sickness upon members of Congress and visitors, attributed to malaria, even in midwinter, but it is believed by those who are familiar with the secrets of social life in that city that if whisky drinking, poker playing and other dissipations were abandoned, complaints of malaria would rarely be heard.

A MILWAUKEE special says: The man who "bunkoed" Charles Francis Adams out of $16,000 was Gilbert Fitzgerald. He was raised in this city, and has many wealthy relatives here. He was appointed to a government position in Washington a few years ago by Senator Matt Carpenter. About a year ago he "bunkoed" a Milwaukee banker out of $5,500, but was compelled to disgorge the greater part of it, and that is the biggest trick he was known to have "turned."

AT Cleveland, Ohio, during the auroral display of Sunday, several persons were much affected by the prevailing electrical conditions, particularly those troubled with nervous disorders. Rev. O. L. Binkley, pastor of Prospect street M. E. Church, was prostrated in the pulpit while praying, by what was at first supposed to be paralysis. Ladies fainted in churches during service, and people complained generally of strangely oppressive sensations, similar to those attendant upon earthquakes.

THE Woman's Silk Culture Association of America, will soon present Mrs. Garfield, the widow of the late President, with a piece of home-spun silk dress goods, the intention being that the goods shall be of American production in every respect. The silk was grown in the United States, and all the processes of manufacture are to be done in this country. The silk, as finished, is of extraordinary weight. The color is black, and the background of the design, which appears in raised figures, is satin. The figure is a combination of the patterns of Tefalle and Irish lace. The silk is twenty-two yards long, and of the usual width of dress-goods.

THERE is a new phase of home-rule agitation in Scotland. A convention of the Scottish burghs at Edinburgh has adopted unanimously a scheme for home rule, which contemplates that all legislation affecting Scotland alone shall be effected by a national assembly of Scotchmen, chosen triennially by the burghs and counties. All laws passed by this assembly are to be subject to the veto of the British Parliament and crown. The convention makes no complaint against imperial rule, but asks the establishment of the local legislature in the interests of better home government.

THE foreign trade figures of the port of New York, for March, bear testimony to the depressing influence of speculation and "corners." With ocean freights way down, and vessel agents in some cases paying for the privilege of carrying grain as ballast, exports, exclusive of specie, were more than $10,000,000 behind those of the same month last year. The value of exports (including $4,550,000 specie) was $29,929,501, and of imports $45,888,584—of which less than half a million was specie. Speculation has put, and holds, grain and cotton up to figures at which they cannot be exported. The foreign demand for these staples is supplied from other sources, and the United States is paying for its imports in gold and keeping its abundant products.

AN occasional instance of scrupulous honesty glitters like a huge diamond of the first water in the midst of the defalcations, adulterations and frauds which make a reeking muck of the business world in these degenerate days. Such an instance is described as follows: In 1878, John McAvery & Co., agents for the Duchess Iron Company, in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on account of the depression in the iron trade, were compelled to make an assignment. A compromise was effected whereby the creditors received 20 cents on the dollar. Since then the iron business has prospered, and the firm has made money. Recently they sent a circular to their creditors stating the circumstances, and inclosing a check for the balance, with interest from the date of compromise. This is really what they ought to have done, as honest men, but how few there are who would have done as they did!

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

The English steel exports to this country are increasing.

Eighty families of Jewish Russians have sailed from London for this country.

Three thousand Chinese have just sailed from Hong Kong for America.

Oscar Wilde will spend the summer with Henry Ward Beecher and Julian Hawthorne.

The opium habit was what ailed Dr. Lamson, the American who murdered Percy John.

A special from Lexington, Ky., says one-half the peaches in that vicinity are unhurt.

General Fitz John Porter is preparing another petition to Congress for reinstatement.

The latest reports from the fruit-growing districts are not nearly so bad as at first feared.

A negro at Fort Wayne, Ind., shot and killed a tramp because he refused to drink with him.

The Secretary of War has ordered the distribution of 200,000 more rations at New Orleans.

A Chicago firm was fined $100 and costs for manufacturing spurious Worcestershire sauce.

Thomas Allen, of St. Louis, who died the other day, leaves an estate estimated at $15,000,000.

Thirteen seniors of Yale College have been suspended indefinitely for hazing three sophomores.

The death of Judge E. R. Porter, it is said, will necessitate a rehearing of the Sprague divorce case.

Lexington, Ky., has put in a bid of half a million for the removal of the State Capital to that city.

The choice of seats at the Cincinnati May Musical Festival, was sold to A. Burkhardt for $75 premium.

The prospects for a fine wheat crop in Illinois, gathered from reports made April 1, were very encouraging.

Several thousand dollars worth of beer was spoiled at Grand Forks, D. T., by the overflow of Red River.

R. W. Stubbs, Mayor of Polk City, Iowa, was shot and instantly killed, early Saturday morning by burglars.

Clara Brooks, a little girl of 11 years, jumped the rope 300 times last Monday, at Cincinnati, and is now dead.

In the House the Senate bill was passed, which appropriates $10,000 for a monument over the grave of Thos. Jefferson.

The Irish have commenced "boycotting" in America. The victim is a Grand Juryman at Turner's Falls, New York.

By a vote of 18 to 12, the Board of Harvard College declared its unwillingness to train female doctors in its medical school.

Exports of bread stuffs during the month of March amounted to $11,404,785, or ten millions less than in March last year.

Major Emil Frey, a veteran of the Eighty-second Illinois Volunteers, has been appointed Swiss Minister at Washington.

Miss Lizzie Barton, who has just served a term for horse-stealing, is in love with Patsy Devine, who is to be hanged May 10.

Shipherd, the Peruvian manipulator, declined to state the names of the directors of the Peruvian Company or of its stockholders.

The Crab Orchard Springs property in Kentucky, has been sold to Stanford parties for $22,535. It cost Isaac Shelby, Jr., $164,000.

AN Iowa paper nominates Ex-Secretary Kirkwood for President in 1884. The suggestion may be worth considering at the proper time.

Burglars robbed the post-office at Angola, Ind., of $[illegible] postage stamps and then stole a hand-car, with which they rode out of town.

John F. Slater, of Norwich, Conn., has decided to create a fund of $1,000,000 to give the freedmen the advantages of Christian education.

Father Healy, priest of St. Patrick's Church, Lawrence, Mass., and treasurer of the new church building fund, has disappeared with the money.

"Mambrino King," said to be the finest horse in the world, has been sold by Dr. L. Herr, of Lexington, Ky., to C. J. Hamlin, of Buffalo, for $15,000.

Thompson and Ruth, President and Cashier of the Washington (Pa.) Savings Bank, have been arrested on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the creditors.

The new (Garfield) Christian Church at Washington, to cost $40,000, will be commenced at once. The West will be asked for $15,000 to complete the amount.

An indignation meeting which was to have been held in Chicago to protest against the imprisonment of Irish-Americans in England, fizzled for want of an audience.

In Vermont women who pay taxes have the right to vote for school officers, and to be elected such officers, but it is said that only five women in the State exercised the right to vote this year.

President Arthur promised to attend the opening of the National Mining and Industrial Exposition at Denver, Col., Aug. 1, unless prevented by public business of emergency.

A tornado visited Saline county, Mo., Tuesday afternoon, destroying a large portion of the town of Brownsville, killing eleven persons, and ruining a number of farms in the vicinity.

The grand jury at Philadelphia returned nine bills of indictment for voluntary manslaughter against Joseph Harvey, owner of the Randolph mills, which burned last spring with great loss of life.

Since the autumn of 1878, an act closing saloons has been enforced in Ireland, and it is claimed that the result is a decrease of $15,000,000 in the amount expended for intoxicants and 22,000 fewer cases of drunkenness.

Captain Fred Normen, who crossed the Atlantic in the Little Western, the smallest vessel that ever made the passage, is now preparing to go across in a boat twelve feet long, four feet wide, and from two to two and a half feet deep.

A four-year-old son of Mrs. Dickerson, visiting Representative Hubbell, of Michigan, was abducted at Washington, on Friday afternoon. It is thought the man who took him has gone South with him.

At St. Joseph, Mo., the Ford boys, who murdered the bandit Jesse James, were tried and convicted of the crime and were sentenced to death. Whereupon Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, granted them an unconditional pardon.

Five thousand French employes, representing every trade connected with the manufacture of iron, struck against the proposal of the masters to deduct forty centimes on every 100 francs of wages, to be applied to the payment of the insurance premiums of the men against accidents.

John Land, the man who made a so-called "confession" at Kansas City, implicating several parties in the Blue Cut train robbery, which confession he subsequently recalled, was arraigned on a charge of perjury. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Foreign.

There were 531 outrages reported in Ireland last month.

The Boston steamship Manitoba is ashore at Greenock, Scotland.

A strong case is being made for the insanity theory for Dr. Lamson.

The Italian Parliament has passed a literary and dramatic copyright bill.

The Brazilian Emperor's family have been robbed of jewels valued at $100,000.

The people on the Labrador coast, both Canadians and Indians, are in a state of starvation.

At Sunderland, England, an explosion in a coal mine caused the death of thirty-five persons.

France has addressed a note to the Powers, asking for a reopening of the Monetary Conference.

On her way to Nice, the ex-Empress Eugene was met at Paris by a number of well-known Bonapartists.

The Canadian Parliament is considering a bill to prevent the employment of Chinese by railway contractors.

A plot to murder the Egyptian Minister of War was discovered, and the ringleaders were arrested at Cairo.

Spain is suffering from an unusually long drought. The government is helping the Andalusian peasants with work.

Baroness Burdett-Coutts bade Jumbo a friendly good-by, going to the dock to give him his final dose of English buns.

On Sunday the Temple Theater at Bolton, Lancashire, one of the largest places of amusement in England, was destroyed by fire.

O'Brien, the editor of the United Ireland, has been unconditionally released from prison, and Rev. Higgins released on bail.

The coronation of the Czar, which will occur in August, will cost 10,000,000 rubles (about $7,500,000) and will last two weeks.

At Paris thieves robbed the Post-office of letters, mostly from abroad the contents of which are estimated to be worth $1,000,000.

Lord Salisbury, the leader of the opposition, wants more privileges for Irish tenants and severer measures against the Land-League.

The Canadian Government has received a proposal from Captain James B. Eads for the construction of a serviceable harbor at Toronto.

It is related that an English artist has photographed swallows on the wing, and fixed the reflection they threw on a pond in passing over.

General Melikoff has been summoned to St. Petersburg, to advise measures for securing the personal safety of the Czar during his coronation.

The Catholic clergy of Cashel, Ireland, held a meeting and resolved to do their best to prevent the shooting of women and children in future.

A Vienna dispatch states that three persons who were ascending the Alps on Easter Sunday perished. Their bodies have not been recovered.

The London Times notes the fact that four months elapse before his American friends put in the insane plea on behalf of Dr. Lamson, the murderer.

The Turkish commission, presided over by the minister of marine, to examine the different proposals for supplying torpedoes, selected General Berdan's proposal.

The latest case of the "prayer cure" reported from St. Catharine's, Ont., where a Miss Atkins, a Quakeress, claims to have been cured of a tumor by divine interposition.

The London Times thinks that the union of Peru with Chili as the republic would be preferable to the intolerable relation which binds them together at present.

THE Jeannette survivors expect to arrive at St. Petersburg May 1. Private advices received at Salem, Mass., report the party in satisfactory condition as regards health.

The Sultan of Turkey is so slow in settling the Russian indemnity that the Ambassador from that county threatened to leave Constantinople, and the Sultan was obliged to conciliate him.

The cruel murder of the sister-in-law of Mr. Smythe, a prominent landlord, by Irish patriots, has aroused the indignation of the Queen's subjects. The authorities will seek to bring the assassins to justice.

A dispatch received at Vienna announces that eighteen Nihilists have escaped from Kara, in North Siberia, and that among them was Mikaleff, an accomplice in the assassination of Gen. Mezenthaff.

At a plowing match in Scotland the other day, a prize being offered to the plowman who had been a total abstainer for the longest period, was won by a man who had tasted nothing since dinner time that same day.

A letter from Cairo says that war is openly declared against all Europeans engaged in official functions in Egypt. The Arab papers advocate the absolute expulsion of the Europeans from the public service.

The German minister of worship has confirmed the election of Prof. Biendt as rector of the University of Griefswald, which election the Reactionaries maintained was illegal because Prof. Biendt is a Jew.

When remonstrated with by the American Government for expelling American Jews from Russia, the Imperial Minister of Foreign Affairs reminded the American State Department of the present aspect of the Chinese question here.

Farm and Workshop Notes.

One million six hundred thousand acres are devoted to beet cultivation in Europe.

It is now estimated that the deficiency in last year's hog crop will reach 1,000,000 head.

Common salt is a special manure for asparagus beds when used with rich barnyard composts.

The Manchester, a new variety of strawberry, is said to be better adapted to sandy soils than most others.

Encourage the little wrens to building suitable boxes for them. They are invaluable as insect destroyers.

Fruit is a regulator of the system. It will keep the blood in order, the bowels regular and tone up the stomach.

Orchard grass is very early in growth and furnishes good hay. It starts out fresh immediately after each mowing.

The best of Jerseys are being brought to this country. It would not be a surprise if the Jersey breeders resorted to us for cattle after we have further improved them.

In rotating vegetables, the land should not be used for crops having similarity to those preceding them. Cabbages, for instance, should follow peas, and celery follow cabbages.

A spoonful of Paris green in a pail of water is recommended for killing canker worms. It should not be sprinkled over plants of which the leaves are eaten, such as lettuce, etc.

Red raspberries should be set two feet apart in rows, and, when kept well worked the first year, they will fill up and form a continuous hedge of plants good for ten years or more.

Certain varieties of evergreens, such as arbor vitæ, are furnished with a thick mass of roots. These should be cut away somewhat, in order to admit of close contact of soil round the base on the plants.

A New York chemist declares that the refuse fat of a pork house in that city is sent to artificial butter factories. He has also found in oleomargarine horse grease and other refuse such as is used in making candles.

Soft coal ashes are used to prevent the ravages of the currant worm. They are scattered thickly around the currant and gooseberry bushes, care being taken to keep the bushes well supplied with them as long as there is danger.

A good polish for walnut wood is to mix two parts of good alcoholic shellac varnish with one part of good boiled linseed oil, and apply with a pad of woolen cloth. Rub briskly till the polish appears, using only a little at a time.

TABLE TALK.

The æsthetics speak of work as labure.

Tennyson has been a laureate for 32 years.

Sour kraut is peddled in Philadelphia streets.

The lightest shade of green is called lichen.

Long Island has over a hundred trout ponds.

General Butler is a firm believer in the Chinese.

A vase was sold for $11,500 in London the other day.

Proctor Knott aspires to the governorship of Kentucky.

Cin-sonata is the musical way of pronouncing that city.

Colored waiters are getting scarce in New York restaurants.

The Texas cattle drive of this season is estimated at 800,000 head.

The New York cotton exchange building will cost $800,000.

Rome, Ga., taxes traveling retail salesmen fifty dollars a month.

A $30,000 statue to John C. Calhoun will soon be erected at Charleston, S. C.

A landlord expects 2 per cent. more rent where the street is called an avenue.

Senator Vest, of Missouri, started in life as a reporter for a Louisville newspaper.

The Masonic temple at Adrian, Mich., was sold at auction for $20,000. It cost $80,000.

Virginia has a greater number of green pea vines than were ever before planted.

Charles D. Williams has been postmaster at Nacoochee, Geo., for fifty-one years.

The Pennsylvania railroad's summer excursion book will be very handsome, costing $21,000.

Fogy says his minister preaches anything but the Bible. He merely goes to it for a pre-text.

The Wisconsin legislature adjourned after a session of eighty days, in which 340 bills were passed.

General Stoneman, the famous cavalry commander, is talked of for governor of California.

A black Guiteau fired sixteen, shots at the President of San Domingo, lately, but without effect.

Ex-Postmaster General Key, of Tennessee, is lecturing in the south on "Our Yankee Cousins."

A piano an hour is the present product of the manufactory of Messrs. Chickering & Son in Boston.

The late Jacob Abbott found time to write 180 books, besides magazine articles, addresses, etc., innumerable.

The London fashion favors albums in which there are photographs of hands, and palmistry becomes the season's rage.

Barnum, it is said, would pay Jay Gould $1,000 a night to ride around the ring on Jumbo, and show his $53,000,000 of securities.

"Stubborn clients build fine houses for lawyers," was the sage remark made at a legislative hearing in Connecticut the other day.

It is estimated that in Great Britain 378,151 persons are engaged in underground work, conducted in galleries extending 58,744 miles.

Boston pays more per capita for the education of her youth than any other city in the union. Cincinnati comes next and Chicago third.

Four acres of land adjoining the Royal river at Yarmouth, Maine, slid into the river last week with trees and brush all standing upright.

The first part of Mr. Founde's biography of Carlyesle, covering the first forty years of his life, is very favorably received in England.

In Paris the bride who is past her youth does not wear pearl gray or lavender, these hues belonging to the widow who marries again.

During 1881 there were 13,630 deaths in Chicago.

Paris decides against flat sleeves with a puffed elbow.

The large old-fashioned polonaise has been revived in Paris.

Aleck Stephens has never entered the senate chamber at Washington.

Vennor, the Canadian weather prophet, is laid up with rheumatism.

Switzerland is about to pass its first patent law.

The patent rubber tip on pencils yields an independent income.

The cottage President Arthur has engaged at Long Branch has forty rooms.

In his 32 years' service an engineer on the Reading railroad has traveled 1,497,600 miles.

The Baldwin works celebrated the golden wedding of their first locomotive, November 23.

A human devil at Central park garden threw a lighted cigar down the throat of the buffalo caged there, causing the poor brute intense pain.

Atlanta men are working up a southern Chautauqua, or centeral camp-meeting ground, for all benevolent institutions of the south.

Pianos afford a new field for amateur painters, and their smooth, fine surfaces are freely decorated with striking but simple designs.

At a house where they do a great deal of fancy work and keep a white poodle, an innocent gentleman asked: "Who knit the dog?"

The Rev. Hirman P. Arms, who died at his home, in Norwich, Conn., a few days ago, was pastor of the First Congregational church for fifty years.

Anna Dickinson is said to look not a bit queer or strong-minded on the street. She dresses fashionably in silk and velvet, wears a poke bonnet and is very stylish.

Tichborne claimant is sawing wood and unloading timber in the dockyard at Portsmouth. He weighs about 16 stone, as against 25 when he was first sentenced, but is in good health.

Although American butter has established an excellent reputation in Europe, where it is relatively as high as the best brands of home manufacture, the epicurean citizens of Brazil do not accord it the same position. In Rio Janeiro the Danish and French butter has the preference, though persons who have tested the different qualities in that country assert that the preference is simply one of prejudice.

FROM WASHINGTON

It is the growing impression that the tariff will be the prominent party issue in the next campaign. The discussion, besides showing a wide divergence of views, has brought the question more prominently to the front as an issue than for years. Only two speeches in the house favored party lines. Dunnell, who favored free trade, and Upson, of Texas, who favored the Kasson bill and moderate protection.

Secretary Chandler will assume the duties of his position as Secretary of the Navy Department next week. He will advocate vigorous work to increase the navy.

The Chief Clerk of the Agricultural Department left for Chicago and St. Louis to purchase seeds for the over flowed region, under the recent appropriation.

Colonel Ingersoll has a dispatch from S. W. Dorsey that he will be here Monday. He wants an early trial.

The Delaware and Maryland peach crop is reported to be badly injured by the recent freeze.

The compulsory retirement bill is quite popular with the army. A petition was signed by a thousand officers asking its passage.

As several of the affidavits sent to England regarding Dr. Lamson, the convicted poisoner, will arrive too late, Secretary Frelinghuysen has cabled the substance of them, urging Mr. Lowell to deliver it to Earl Granville. Mr. Brewster, the Attorney General, thinks the new evidence very important.

The reports of the prospective removal of Secretary Lincoln seem to be entirely unfounded. The statement that army officers dislike him because of his overbearing manner, is denied. They say he is extremely courteous to all, and have no occasion to complain of him.

The reports from the Arapahoe and Cheyenne Indian Agency, where an outbreak is anticipated, show that the Indian Agent has borrowed 400 head of cattle and will thus be able to feed the starving Indians and bridge over the danger until the appropriation reaches him.

John M. Hubbard, of Chicago, who was appointed Agent at Seal Island, Alaska, has declined. The salary is $2,950 and $800 for expenses.

It is stated on good authority that Consul Carter, of Venezuela, will be recalled, and John Baker, of Illinois, his predecessor, returned.

It is also stated on good authority that Judge Taft is to be made Minister to Austria. This seems to be quite well founded.

Minister Lowell will not now be recalled, as it will look too much like yielding to clamor.

Walker Blaine has been recalled, and will probably tender his resignation on arrival.

The free-trade Democrats are making strenuous efforts to have the coming political campaign conducted upon the issue of tariff reform, but this is stoutly opposed by protectionists not only, but by others of the party, who, though themselves in favor of the tariff reform, are unwilling to make it an issue. Some of the party leaders who advocate making tariff reform prominent this year, with the view of fighting the next Presidential campaign upon it, are provoked at the disposition manifested to avoid this issue. One of these, a prominent member of Congress, said to-day that he had no hopes of Democratic success until the party declare itself upon distinctive principles; that he was in favor of the party planting itself squarely upon tariff reform, and of saying to those who do not agree with this issue, that they had better get out of the Democratic party. He said: "As long as one-half the Democrats in Congress continue to vote against the other half on questions in which the people are mostly interested, he will never succeed."

The escape of Captain Howgate, who yesterday slipped from the custody of a bailiff while visiting his family, is the principal topic of conversation to-day. No doubt too much leniency has been exercised by the officials in his case for months past. It is not probable that Howgate will be seen in this country again. Nellie Burrill, "the woman in the case," is still missing, and probably either joined him or preceded him to the place agreed upon. She has been in the habit of visiting him in the jail and spending hours of consultation with him. She was there Wednesday and had two hours' consultation with him in the Warden's office. Great indignation is felt at the loose manner in which so notorious a criminal and violater of social decency has been handled.

It is believed by many that Howgate is still hiding in the city. It is probable a large reward will be offered for his arrest in a day or two, as detectives are doing little now.

Scoville is more despondent than ever. His lecturing seems to have been a dead failure. Much sympathy is felt for him here, and it is not impossible that his petition to Congress for payment as counsel for Guiteau may receive some attention.

Florence, the actor, will be here next week to consult the President about an appointment abroad which has been asked for him. Those in a position to know say that his prospects are good.

Judge Taft, of Cincinnati, will probably be nominated Minister to Austria. The salary is $12,000 per year.

The Republican, the official organ, urges the passage of the Chinese bill, as modified, before the arrival of the 2,000 Chinese now en route to San Francisco. It will allay public feeling and prevent a possible riot. The bill will probably pass, under a suspension of the rules Monday, and be pushed through the Senate and signed.

The Secretary of War directed 200,000 more rations to be issued to New Orleans. The President and party returned this morning.

It is stated on pretty good authority that Howgate is en route to Cuba, thoroughly disguised. There is little doubt but that his escape was planned by the woman, Nellie Burrell.

Scoville writes to the Judges of the court in banc that he has concluded to continue in the Guiteau case, though he recognizes the fact that Guiteau is violently opposed to him. "Charley" Reed thinks that Guiteau's book will sell largely.

An attempt will be made to get up the Utah case, Tuesday, but it will probably be unsuccessful Cannon holds that his case is much strengthened by the recent act making polygamy a crime, as he is not living in polygamy, having but one wife here, and it is to be supposed that he will obey the law. At least he cannot be excluded on the ground that he is not obeying it.

Letters from Senator Logan report his improvement. He will return early in May.

Mr. White, of Kentucky, in a speech in the House on the Tariff bill, attacked the revenue system, and particularly the bill extending the bonded period, saying that it would greatly benefit the large distillers, but would injure the little ones. In speaking of the bill having been urged in committee by the late Marshal of Louisiana, Colonel Wharton, he said Wharton had a bad record, but yet was appointed by "His now retired Excellency, the late imbecile from Ohio, and confirmed by a Democratic Senate."

The withdrawal of A. T. Stewart & Co. from business creates much surprise here. It is believed here that Judge Hilton's snub of the Jews is largely the cause.

The reports that Lincoln will succeed Lowell as Minister to England is without the slightest foundation. There is no prospect of an immediate recall of Lowell or the removal of Lincoln from the Cabinet.

The figures of the nationality of New York's population, just completed, shows 200,000 of Irish birth and 165,000 Germans—one third of the total population.

Secretary Hunt has received a dispatch from Hoffman, Charge d'Affaires at St. Petersburg, under date of March 31, inclosing a letter from Chief Engineer Melville, dated January 31, and written at a point on his way to the mouth of the Lena, 334 miles beyond Yakutsk. Hoffman says:

"The Governor of this part appears to have shown much good will in sending your orders of January 15, to Melville as Estafette had been ordered and paid for to Yakutsk only. The speed with which it went through is quite remarkable. Lieutenant Danenhower telegraphs me, under date of January 28, from Krasnojarsk, about 4,600 versts from St. Petersburg, that he may be expected here about April 20. Chief Engineer Melville, in the letter referred to, says he has every reason to hope to find De Long and his people."

Secretary Folger has approved the appointment of Camden O. Rockwell, of Missouri, brother-in-law of President Garfield, as Deputy Collector at the port of New York.

The expense of administering the Land act thus far is £9,000. The reductions of rent made by the Land Commissioners are estimated at £30,000.

Rear Admiral John Rodgers is seriously ill of Bright's disease.

The motion in the case of Sergeant Mason was called up in the United States Supreme Court this afternoon, and counsel for the Warden of Albany Penitentiary stated that his client had not been yet placed in possession of the papers in the case. The Chief Justice, with his consent of the Attorney General, then announced that the further hearing would be postponed, and the case would be placed at the end of the assigned case. It will not be reached now before the end of the present term of court.

The Post (Democratic) says the Republican Executive Committee was more united at its recent meeting than it has been for a long period. It views with alarm the prospects of Republican success in the South.

The reports of the prospective removal of Secretary Frelinghuysen are unfounded.

Ex-Senator and ex-Minister Christiancy has returned to Lansing, Mich., which will be his future home.

A letter has been received at the Navy Department from Melville, of the Jeannette, in which he says he believes De Long's party and his books, papers, etc., will be found.

The discussion on the printing appropriation to-day showed that the cost of printing for Congress runs up into the millions annually, the present deficiency being nearly three-fourths of a million.

The sub-committee of the Committee on Banking and Currency to-day reported a bill to the committee to discontinue the coinage of silver dollars.

In the Criminal court the consideration of the Star Routes case was resumed. Ex-Senator Dorsey made his appearance in court. Mr. Williams, for the defense, filed a motion calling upon the government to furnish a bill of particulars, describing in detail all the papers and petitions alleged to have been forged, the false affidavits made, and other information which, the defense claims, should have been included in the indictments. After some little argument, the forfeiture of Dorsey's recognizance was stricken from the record.

The prosecution resisted the motion for the bill of particulars, and a long argument ensued. At its conclusion Mr. Bliss asked that the court decide as early as possible whether the Government will be required to furnish a bill of particulars, and then Mr. Merrick called for the arraignment of Stephen W. Dorsey, who entered a plea of not guilty, and the court adjourned.

The President in his message to-day recommended an appropriation of $2,000,000 for restoring the Mississippi river levees, instead of $1,000,000 heretofore recommended.

Bently and Jones, the revivalist, visited Guiteau and prayed with him. This is the first movement of this kind, except one by a colored minister. Guiteau welcomed them, but evidently didn't appreciate their reference to his approaching end.

The President's message relating to the levees of the Mississippi river is regarded as an extremely shrewd stroke to gain strength in the South, and will be the key note for the Republicans in Congress to manifest a liberal policy toward the South.

The President took his children to Annapolis, Md., to-day, to view the monument to Commander Herndon, the father of the late Mrs. Arthur. Captain Herndon, it will be remembered was the commander of the vessel Central America, and lost his life by heroically remaining with the vessel until she sank, September 12, 1857.

Officials of the German Government here are gratified at the information that their Government is about to lay a cable between Emden, in Germany, and Valentia, in Ireland, to connect with the Anglo-American cable and which will be used for American business.

The report of the committee on the Garfield sickness is commented upon as quite satisfactory. It does not include the questionable expenses of Congressmen to the funeral. This has been already paid in the bill granting Sergeant-at-Arms Thompson $8,000 for expenses of the trip.

A Reformed Man.

It has been supposed in Iowa that the Flynn recently appointed to a consulate in Germany was John J. Flynn, formerly of the Stuart Locomotive, and later of the Greenfield Transcript and Dubuque Times. Such an impression is wrong. The Denver Tribune gives the history of the Chicago Flynn, who has the consul's commission as follows:

Two years ago Flynn was a reporter in St. Joseph. His habits were very dissolute, and he was generally regarded as an undesirable character to have around a newspaper office. One day he married a very pretty St. Joseph girl and the girl's parents refused to recognize the marriage, keeping the girl locked up at home till Flynn promised to give her up. Flynn wound up his career in St. Joseph by getting uproariously drunk and and being immured in the calaboose, from which he contrived to make his escape between two days. He made his way to Chicago, and once there, he determined to brace up and lead a respectable life. He spent a brief season in an inebriate asylum, and then entered the employ of the Chicago Evening News, at that time a struggling institution. His fine abilities soon asserted themselves; and step by step he fairly won his way to the editorial control of the paper. Then he went back to St. Joseph, claiming his young wife, and she was restored to him among the congratulations of all. Now he is appointed to the Foreign Consulship, and there is none who will not rejoice at his good fortune. Mr. Flynn's career illustrates what determination can accomplish even when bad habits seem to have doomed a man to irredeemable ruin.

Taking Time by the Forelock.

Detroit Free Press.

At the battle of Groveton, Stonewall Jackson tried an experiment which nearly frightened a federal division out of their boots. Bars of railroad iron were cut up into foot lengths and fired from some of his heaviest guns, and the noise these missiles made as they went sailing through the air a sort of cross between the shriek of a woman and the bray of a mule. The federals listened in wonder at the first few which banged trough the tree tops, and presently one of the pieces fell just in front of a Pennsylvania regiment. A captain stepped forward to inspect it and after turning it over he rushed to his colonel with the news:

"Colonel, them infernal rebs are firing railroad iron at us!"

"No!"

"They are, for a fact!"

"Captain, advance your company to that ridge and the minute you find Jackson is getting ready to fire freight cars at us send me word. I don't propose to have my regiment mashed into the ground when it can just as well be decently exterminated in the regular way!"

EXPRESSIONS.

There are no footprints backward.

Fidelity is seven-tenths of business success.

Better bend the neck promptly than to bruise the forehead.

The more virtuous a man is the more virtue he sees in others.

Nothing so buttresses character as a great victory over a great foe.

An ill reason lessens the weight of the good ones you gave before.

A fool may have his coat embroidered with gold, but its a fool's coat still.

That man shall be immortal who liveth until stoned by another without fault.

Every cloud has a silver lining. The boy who has the mumps can stay away from school.

The great battle-fields of the world are in the hearts of men; the great struggles are within.

Mankind are always happier for having been happy once; the memory of happiness is happiness.

If the stream in which you wish to drink is muddy, go higher! the fountain is clear.

"He has a Florentine, fourteenth century frenzy," said the æsthete as he beheld the man with the jim-jams.

A good deed is never lost; he who shows courtesy reaps friendship and he who plants kindness gathers love.

Some men smoke for dyspepsia, some for toothache, corpulency, etc. Smoke will cure most anything. It will cure even a "ham."

What help is a comrade's bugle blast
When the peril of Alpine heights is past?
What need the spurring pæan roll
When the runner is safe beyond the goal?
Nay, if thou hast a word of cheer,
Speak it while I am alive to hear.

"A man would be a heap better off ef he was as particular 'bout de whisky he drinks as he is 'bout de water," remarks an observant old darkey.

The golden harvest lies in the future, not in the past. The true eden is to come. Out of seemingly chaotic elements God is evolving His kingdom of righteousness and joy and peace

The tale of Divine pity was never believed from lips that were not felt to be moved by human pity.

One of the mistakes in the conduct of human life is to suppose that other men's opinions are to make us happy.

He is self-poised who is able to keep his equilibrium when he is the victim of scandal and the petty annoyances of life.

True happiness never flows into a man, but always out of him. Hence heaven is sometimes found in cottages and hell in palaces. Heaven itself is more internal than external.

None come so near being "independent" as those who make their own fortune. None are so heavy a burden to the world as those who wait for luck to make them rich, or complain that they were not born so.

J. Ruskin: Was any woman, do you suppose, ever the better for possessing diamonds? But how many have been made base, frivolous, and miserable by desiring them? was ever man the better for having coffers full of gold? But who will measure the guilt that is incurred to fill them? Look into the history of civilized nations; analyze, with reference to this one cause of crime and misery, the lives and thoughts of our nobles, priests, merchants, and men of luxurious life. Every other temptation is at last concentrated into this: pride and lust, and envy and anger, all give up their strength to avarice. The sin of the whole world is essentially the sin of Judas. Men do not disbelieve their Christ, but they sell Him.

Masculine and Feminine Morality.

Elizabeth Blackwell, M. D.

I could never understand the opposite systems of weights and measure which have been establised for guaging morality among men and women. The strictest among us allow that a young man should sow his wild oats; but who ever admited the same necessity in the case of girls? We say that man should have amusements—his clubs, cigars, horse races, flirtations and liquorings; but supposing our women and girls came to us reeking of tobacco? Supposing they addicted themselves openly to nips of grog and absinthe when their spirits were low? Supposing they sat down to quiet rubbers of whist or ecarte, gambling away their household money to while off the dull hours?

We demand so much excellence of our women that the worst of them are still better than the average men. I have known some women who were social outcasts, and who in point of heart, conduct and general moral rectitude, might have furnished stuff for the making of upright gentlemen. They had fallen once, it is true, but what a fearful penalty they had been made to pay for that one slip, while, by comparison, the kindred penalties of men are so slight.

If a young man gets mixed up in some disgraceful entanglement, breaks a heart, and throws a young girl on the streets after having ruined her life, people say of him, compassionately by and by, "He was so young when he did it, and now he has turned over a new leaf;" but if an inexperienced girl, a mere child of sixteen or seventeen, comes to harm through a moment's weakness, born of too much love and over confidence in her betrayer, who ever thinks of pleading her youth as an excuse? Who ever urges seriously that a girl has "turned over a new leaf?"

The Misrepresented Mole.

Who is there among dwellers in the country who has not seen dead moles hanging on sticks in the field, or has not heard of farmers paying money for their capture? A correspondent, however, suggests that farmers may have been making a serious and cruel mistake. "I have had," he says, "a field of wheat full of moles all the year without doing it the least possible injury; but, on the contrary, I verily believe that up to harvest they did my crop good. Again, it is said moles eat seed corn, but this is a great mistake, for I have examined the stomachs of scores, but never found a single grain of corn in one of them. I believe 60,000 bushels of seed corn are annually destroyed by wire-worms." The mole, of course, is a great enemy of this subterranean pest.

—It will be noticed that our page is set solid this week, and although we have considerable space taken by advertisers, the usual amount of reading matter is given our subscribers.

—There is nothing so judicious as advertising. The Newfoundland dog that was advertised in these columns last week, had strayed over to Leo, Allen county, and was brought back Monday, in answer to the notice we gave for his whereabouts, three days after the paper was published.

—List of unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice for the week ending April 26: J. W. Brown, Miss Kate Boyer, Mrs. Laura Billman, Mrs. Bele H. Briggs, Mrs. Isabell Brown, J. W. Bowman, B. B. Barnes, W. T. Bush, German Baptist church care of J. F. Kramer, James Donaldson, Jakob Klein, M. Melaughy, Geo. W. A. Smith and W. H. Whiteside.

—Worth Coats and Miss Alice McKay were married at the home of her parents, in this place, last Thursday. Our readers will remember her as one of our most faithful and sprightly correspondents. We hope "Rustic" will not forget the COURIER in the happiness of her wedded life, but will rusticate somewhere in this county, where she can be heard from. We wish them both all happiness and all our force give thanks for a supply of nice cake.

—It is almost impossible for a lady to walk along Seventh street in the evening without having her ears assailed by [illegible] obscene remarks that can [illegible]

GREAT GERM DESTROYE

DARBY'S

Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL-POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.

Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.

Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.

To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.

Catarrh relieved and cured.

Erysipelas cured.

Burns relieved instantly.

Scars prevented.

Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevente

Ulcers purified and healed.

Gangrene prevented and cured.

Dysentery cured.

Wounds healed rapidly.

Scurvy cured in short time.

Tetter dried up.

It is perfectly harmless.

For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED

Cholera dissipated.

Ship Fever prevented by its use.

In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.

An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.

Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.

Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great

DISINFECTANT AN [illegible]

PREPARED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE. ↓
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,

MANUFACTURERS

ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,

ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April [illegible]

Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.

Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL BRINGS A SEED STORE

LANDRETHS' GARDEN SEEDS. Founded 1784.

To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

Minneapolis
MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
IOWA
ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
KANSAS CITY

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.

At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.

At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.

At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)

At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; [illegible]

At KEOKUK, with [illegible]

At CAMERON, with [illegible]

At ATCHISON, with [illegible]

At LEAVENWORTH, with [illegible]

At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS [illegible] COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, [illegible]

[illegible]

R. R. CABLE, [illegible]

E. ST. JOHN, [illegible]

Auburn Courier.

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

THE Ohio Legislature was in session three months.

CHINAMEN have organized a Masonic Lodge in Boston.

THERE were 122 business failures in this country last week.

IT is believed that the session of Congress will extend into July.

IT is expected by his physicians that Bishop Bowman will recover.

PATTI has contracted her notes for next season for fifty concerts at $1,400 each.

A MYSTERIOUS and fatal disease is creating a panic in portions of Pennsylvania.

IT is estimated that the robberies of Jesse James and his gang, aggregate about $256,000.

THE labors of Harrison, the revivalist, in Cincinnati, are credited with 1373 conversions.

Old Settlers.

April 21, 1882. A majority of the executive committee and officials of the DeKalb county Pioneer association met at the office of the secretary, and a motion was carried to hold the next annual meeting June 15, at Auburn. O. C. Clark, was appointed to select speakers for the occasion. J. E. Rose, was chosen a committee on transportation by railroads. Dr. J. H. Ford was appointed as general superintendent, and with the following persons, viz: E. D. Hartman, T. D. Gross, O. C. Clark, J. A. Barns, C. P. Houser, J. W. Baxter, L. J. Miller and J. E. Rose were authorized to devise and carry out all means and measures that he or they may deem necessary to secure and accomplish the object of the association, and for the comfort, convenience and enjoyment of all who may attend the next annual meeting of the society. On motion Messrs. H. Willis, J. E. Thompson and P. B. Nimmons were appointed to confer with the officers of the Northeastern Agricultural Society in regard to the admission of the old settlers to the annual fair at Waterloo, and that they report at our next annual meeting on June 15.

J. H. FORD, President.
W. H. DILLS, Secretary.

Cor[illegible] was cut out

An Anniversary.

As stated in our last issue the fiftieth anniversary of the birth day of John W. Dills, of Concord, was celebrated at his residence last Thursday, April 20, at which his commodious farm house was filled to overflowing by his neighbors and personal friends, although it was by his wife and a few others, intended for a surprise to him. John took in the situation of affairs a day or two in advance, and as a consequence very meekly and quietly submitted to the inevitable. A more enjoyable occasion could not even be imagined and it was after the "wee sma' hours" had arrived before the company even desired to disperse. Presents were not expected but in fact ignored for the occasion, yet a large rocking chair, a marble top center table and a bag of fifty silver coined dollars were smuggled into and left at his house.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Wilson D. Widney, deceased,—Oliver H. Widney, administrator,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of May, 1882, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 23rd day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
17-2w.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

J. A. Boozer, is rushing about, as full as full of business as ever, and evidently anticipates a good summers work.

Emma Fisher started to her school on Monday. She teaches at No. 5, in Butler township.

Lowenstein and Rothschild are looking out for a big summer trade.

Anderson Bros. are making some fine work now. They have their ware room full of new carriages.

F. W. Willis has added a new fence to his property which is, quite an improvement.

J. G. Boyer, is having a boom in business and proposes to keep it up.

J. A. Shull has been on the sick list some time with a severe cold.

R. Stevens, who has been lying quite low, is reported some better.

Joe Stamets is helping Day Bros. in a sale of agricultural machinery this summer. They start their new wagon this week.

Mrs. Aaron Ash was taken to the asylum at Indianapolis on Monday. Herson Alan had charge of her. It is hoped that under skillful treatment, she may recover her reason.

Geo. Walker is putting a new coat of paint on his house and barn and making other important improvments.

The north bound morning freight train, had its engine off the track at this station last week. That switch seems to be unlucky.

Billy Fisher was on our streets the other day, but he is still looking very poorly.

Miss Bateson is filling up her store with bran new millinery goods. Give her a call.

ST. JOE.

O. H. and town life do not agree.

Dr. Sager, of Hicksville, would like to locate here.

Dr. Sheffer, of Kendallvill, has located here. The Dr. comes well recommended.

Chaney & Leighty, have their meat market in running order.

M. E. Olds, is building an addition to his store room. Enlargement means prosperity.

A shooting affray on the streets of our sister village, of Spencerville, caused some little excitement the fore part of last week.

John Long a fruit tree peddler was fined $10 and cost by Esq. Barney, last Tuesday, for assault.

A. B. Shell, was in the same boat on Wednesday, and was let down with a fine of $15 and cost. To much whisky and late hours did the work.

Some of the Newville whisky bummers paid a visit to one of our saloons Saturday night, and did not leave until nearly two o'clock Sunday morning. From the amount of noise they made they must have been full and overflowing. We withhold their names for this time but you will be wanted about court time next month.

Some low down sneak thief while prowling around Friday night, took it into his Guiteau like head to destroy the shade trees that were set out this spring. The cowardly sneak managed to girdle and destroy fourteen or fifteen of the best ones. What caused the cur to stop there is not known but we know that if he could have been caught he would now want a new underpinning.

SEDAN.

Squire McIntyre and daughter went to Auburn Saturday.

We noticed John Henry with his notion wagon in town Saturday.

Mrs. Crane, returned from Toledo Saturday, where she has been visiting.

Henry Miller and Miss Ella Strow, have agreed to take each other for good or bad. They were married at Auburn, the 18th.

Mr. Cooper and his son Charles went to Fort Wayne, last week for more new goods.

The farmers in this vicinity have finished their sowing and are getting ready for planting.

Nelson Griffith, the assessor, was around last week, looking after the county's business.

Mr. Hine has been putting shade trees around his house. Mr. H. is bound to make his premises as attractive as possible.

Miss Almine Blucher, who has been staying at Avilla, the past winter is back home again.

W. H. Crane is visiting his uncle at Burr Oak Mich. He goes to Toledo from there where he intends to clerk for his brother who is in the grocery business.

Mr. David Delong, came very near having a serious accident last week. His team ran away from his boy while dragging in the field. Fortunately no damage was done except breaking the harness.

J. A. M.

GARRETT.

The "house warming" at this place panned out well. So say all who attended.

It is feared that the cold weather the past week has damaged the fruit in this part of the county.

Henry Nagle has purchased the lot adjoining his property and is making some substantial improvements on it, which will add considerable to his already neat little residence.

The new passenger engine, No. 537, being rebuilt at the Garret shops, will be on the road in a few days. Charley Babbitt is the lucky engineer who will conduct her over the iron rail.

Brakemen's ball at the DeKalb House tonight.

Mr. Jenkins, paymaster on the B. & O. road, distributed about $12,000 among the employes at this station the 21st inst. This amount will make business lively in this place for another month.

The infant class in the M. E. sabbath school has an average attendance of about forty pupils, and under the management of Mrs. F. M. Bacon, is truly a model class, Mrs. B. appears to know just how to manage the little folks so as to keep them wide-a-wake and interested in the work.

The democratic caucus for city offices in this place resulted in the nomination of the following gentlemen. Trustee first ward, H. Moody; second ward, Jos. Singler; third ward, Frank Bembower; treasurer, B. Hunsel; clerk, Henry Schnitzer; marshal, Henry Houser. This is a good ticket and we trust that the democrats will see to it that the entire ticket is elected.

William Anderson, engineer on the transfer between Kingston and Chicago, on the B. & O. R. R. died very suddenly at Kingston, on the 22, while going to his engine, of heart disease. Mr. Anderson was a good and trusty engineer, respected by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He leaves a wife and many warm friends who mourn his loss.

Charley Livensperger, a young man, helper in the boiler shop at this place, is lying very sick with typhus fever for some time past, and of late his recoverery has been considered very doubtful. A subscription was passed around by the boys in the shop and the handsome little sum of ten dollars, was raised in a short time for his benefit. This amount was paid to his widowed mother who was very grateful, and will undoubtedly long remember the act of kindness.

A. B. C.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Ephraim C. Handy, deceased,—George W. Swartz, administrator,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 17th day of May, 1882, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 25th day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
17-2w.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Samuel Tarney, deceased,—Peter High, executor,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of May, 1882, and show cause, if any why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 23rd day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
17-2w.

Notice of Settlement.

Notice is hereby given, that the administrator of the estate of Timothy R. Dickinson, deceased, has filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, his account current with the estate of said decedent, and that the same will be heard by the DeKalb circuit court on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1882, the same being the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court. Creditors, heirs and legatees of said decedent, therefore, are hereby notified to appear in said court on said day, and show cause why such account should not be approved.

Witness, My name and seal of said court, at Auburn, this 23rd day of April, 1882.
[SEAL.] JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

THREE THOROUGHBRED

IMPORTED STALLIONS

The horses so well known throughout the county, owned by George Clark, will stand for mares this season as follows:
Mondays and Tuesdays at Corunna; Wednesdays and Thursdays at Waterloo; Fridays and Saturdays at Auburn.
It is not necessary to give a pedigree of these stallions, as their record is established. Those desiring colts from these horses will call in rear of A. W. Allen's livery barn on the days named. JEFFERSON CLARK, Manager.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Daniel Till, deceased,—John C. St. Clair, administrator—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of May, 1882, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 23rd day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
17-2w.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of William J. Wyatt, deceased,—Elmore Y. Wyatt, administrator,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of May 1882, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 23rd day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
17-2w.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Levi Nelson, deceased, —Daniel Tomlinson, administrator,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of May, 1882, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 24th day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
17-2w.

Notice of Settlement.

Notice is hereby given, that the administrator of the estate of Elisha W. Beard, deceased, has filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, his account current with the estate of said decedent, and that the same will be heard by the DeKalb circuit court, on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1882, the same being the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court. Creditors, heirs and legatees of said decedent, therefore, are hereby notified to appear in said court on said day, and show cause why such account should not be approved.

Witness, My name and seal of said court, at Auburn, this 23rd day of April, 1882.
[SEAL.] JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

Notice of Settlement.

Notice is hereby given, that the administrator of the estate of Sarah A. Daugherty, deceased, has filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, his account current with the estate of said decedent, and that the same will be heard by the DeKalb circuit court, on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1882, the same being the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court. Creditors, heirs and legatees of said decedent, therefore, are hereby notified to appear in said court on said day, and show cause why such account should not be approved.

Witness, My name and seal of said court, at Auburn, this 23rd day of April, 1882.
[SEAL.] JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

Notice of Settlement.

Notice is hereby given, that John Leas, executor of the will of Joseph Boyer, deceased, has this day filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, his account current with the estate of said decedent, and that the same will be heard by the DeKalb circuit court, on Wednesday, the 17th day of May, 1882, the same being the third judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court. Creditors, heirs and legatees of said decedent, therefore, are hereby notified to appear in said court on said day, and show cause why such account should not be approved.

Witness, My name and seal of said court, at Auburn, this 25th day of April, 1882.
[SEAL.] JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

WHY NOT TEMPT FORTUNE?
ESPECIALLY WHEN IT COSTS NOTHING.
SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS !
And over paid to our citizens within a short time by the
Louisiana Lottery Association !
LISTEN ! TICKETS GIVEN AWAY !
EVERY PURCHASER OF CLOTHING,
HATS, ETC., ETC.
Amounting to ten dollars or more, presented with a ticket gratis.
SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.
On corner east of Postoffice.
New Material of all Kinds,
—AND—
GOOD WOORK
GUARANTEED.
GIVE US A CALL !
J. M. RICE & SON, Auburn, Indiana.

SOLID GOLD WATCHES.
THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFE-TIME.

SOLID
GOLD
ONLY
$19 65/100

We have lately purchased a bankrupt stock of Watches and Jewelry, which we shall offer in our catalogue at about half the usual prices: As the stock is very large, and we wish to turn it into money quickly, we have determined, in order to arouse public interest and secure applications for our catalogue of fine goods, to make an offer of a SOLID GOLD HUNTING CASE WATCH at a price much below the cost of production. Our offer is to send by registered mail (carefully packed in a wooden box) a SOLID GOLD, HUNTING CASE PATENT LEVER FULL JEWELED WATCH on receipt of $19.65. We warrant the massive cases to be solid gold and beautifully engraved as shown in cut. We warrant the movement to be a Swiss Patent Lever (which is the best movement known in the world) and full jeweled. These watches are not only the best time-keepers to be found now, but being full jeweled, will remain so and will be found as accurate 20 or 25 years hence as now, provided they have now had fair usage.

This is a startling offer, and that one cannot be made by any other firm, as the actual cost of the watches in Switzerland is about twice the price we ask for them. It must be taken advantage of at once, if at all. We make it only to secure customers for our other goods, catalogue of which will be sent to each purchaser. If any one on receiving the watch is dissatisfied, it can be returned at once and the money will be refunded. We sell all our goods on this condition, and have the largest jewelry trade of any house in America. To those who wish to see the watch before buying we offer to send C. O. D., if $1.00 is sent in advance as a guarantee of the express charges. Privilege of examination is given before paying the bill. If ordered C. O. D., however, the customer must pay all express charges, including return of money. We do not make a penny on this watch and cannot incur any expense beyond that of postage, which is provided for in the price named (19.65). If you want a watch for actual wear order this one. Watch speculators will readily see that such a watch as this which can be FULLY WARRANTED, can be sold or traded and immense profits made. The watch is really just as good as any $100 00 gold watch, and can be so represented. Do not buy brass, or composition metal watches, (really the same thing) with worthless movements, when by paying a little more you can have a solid gold watch which will be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

LADIES' WATCHES. SOLID GOLD HUNTING CASE, beautifully engraved, nickel movement, warranted good time-keepers, sent by registered mail to any address on receipt of $13 87. If not satisfied on its receipt, send it right back and get your money, C. O. D., on the same terms as the Patent Lever Watch.

Remember, we warrant these watches to be exactly as represented, and that they will give more satisfaction, and that we deliver them to you free of charge in good order, on receipt of price—or C. O. D., subject to charges, with privilege of examination if desired. Remit by postoffice order, registered letter, or bank check on New York, or send greenbacks by express.

Address plainly, J. A. VAIL, Dealer in Jewelry, 1237 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A COMMON SENSE
"SEND OFF!"
Lack of space will not permit us to exdlain our method in full, but we will illustrate the A B C of our business:

ATTRACTIVE STYLES.
ADMIRABLE GOODS.
ATTENTIVE CLERKS.

BIG ASSORTMENT.
BEST GOODS.
BOTTOM PRICES.

COMPARE OUR STOCK.
CONSIDER THE SAVING.
COME RIGHT ALONG.

Thousands of dollars can be saved the people of this vicinity by purchasing their BOOTS AND SHOES of us. We don't carry over any old stock, but slam them into a box and give the purchasers their choice at prices below cost. We do not use the papers to mislead you, but purchase this space simply to extend an invitation to every one to come and examine our stock. We have always kept the lead of our opponents by

Low Prices, Honest Goods and Square Dealing
and to-day the name of the famous
Boot Up-side Down
Is familiar in every household in DeKalb county. We have Ladies' Shoes in every style, Hightoned Shoes for the Dandy, Splendid Goods for the Laborer, Boss Shoes for the Sturdy Tiller of the Soil, and BOOTS AND SHOES for all from the Infant to the Great-grandmother.

AUSTIN BROS.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Cool nights.

—Vote Monday.

—May parties come next.

—Hang up the hammock.

—H. Yesbera has visitors.

—Get out the croquet set.

—Eggs still bring 12 cents.

—Coop Ralston is painting.

—The Hebel block looms up.

—Hank Altenburg is at home.

—See the horse advertisement.

—A new clerk at Allen's livery.

—Spring fever days have come.

—Trade was dull last Saturday.

—Wood has come down in price.

—Delicate girls carry a parasol.

—Tom. Scott is at Bryan this week.

—Frank Lees has gone on duty again.

—Ice houses will be opened this week.

—The court house yard looks beautiful.

—O. C. Clark went to Waterloo, Monday.

—Hod. Kircher has an assistant barber.

John Robbins was home over Sunday.

—Get ready to work out your road tax.

—Elsa Shaffer was home over Sunday.

—Turn out at the election next Monday.

—The Angola Journal has a power press.

—The new methodist minister has arrived.

—Charley Constable Marshal Smith. Whew!

Scott Bros. will run out a new dray to-day.

—There will only be one voting place Monday.

—Our April showers all came at once yesterday.

—Dave Hampton started on the road Monday.

—Butcher Braun has purchased a new horse.

—Holly Lawrence, Garrett, is in town this week.

—Harry Rannier is learning the harness trade.

—W. E. Eldridge talks of visiting at home soon.

—Harry Bush is trimming carriages for Obe Cool.

—There will be a party in the west end to-night.

—Jack Little will drop down on us in a few weeks.

—Mike Gallagher, of Corunna, was in town Monday.

—Mrs. Gordon is conducting the picture gallery.

—Mrs. Sherm. Hollister has been very sick this week.

—Young shoats are said to be scarce in the market.

—Jim. Everly "rubs down" George Clark's horses.

—Berry Lowrey made a trip to Chicago, Saturday.

—The temperance question is beginning to "bile."

—Commissioner Kelham was on the streets Tuesday.

—Advertising is the pole that knocks the persimmons.

—Joe. Ruffner has taken unto himself another bride.

—Steel & Son are now alone in the painting business.

—Daniel Gonser was in town this week on business.

—Trustee Hague went to Waterloo, Monday, on business.

—Ex-marshal Scott is now working at the carpenter trade.

—Stop on your way from labor at noon and vote Monday.

—A horse and buggy is a luxury at this season of the year.

—Guess we will not say anything about spring this week.

—D. D. Moody had a legal argument at Garrett, the other day.

—A young man named White sundayed with Jim. Culbertson.

—John Shugars' oldest son is assisting in the treasure's office.

—The treasurer turned his books over to the Auditor Tuesday.

—Strangers are located in Ward's building repairing furniture.

—Mrs. W. H. McQuiston is visiting friends in Chicago, this week.

—Mr. Miller, of Hicksville, O., is engaged at Hollister's as baker.

—Rev. Johnson, of Grand Haven, Mich., was in town this week.

—We are under obligations to J. A. McIntyre, of Sedan, for favors.

—Prosecutor Peterson went north on the Saginaw Tuesday morning.

—John Rush and wife are boarding with the family of W. E. Rush.

—Dr. Allen, on south Main street, is making an attractive door yard.

—The county dog "Dixey" has taken up his abode with Ed. Eldridge.

—A special train went north on the Jackson road yesterday morning.

—The boys all remember Al. Wells. He is now marshal of Warsaw, Ind.

—Hon. S. S. Shutt passed through here Monday on his way to Elkhart.

—Jep Orr passed through this place on his way to Corunna, last Saturday.

—The new Oscar Wilde jewelry at Abright's.

—Our drive well men are working in Steuben county.

—Mr. Gilford is assisting his son in the plastering trade this summer.

—Charley Smith will do well by you, boys. Give him a vote Monday.

—Miss Ida Cunningham, of Bryan, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. D. Hartman.

—G. C. Shaffer is at Albion this week looking up the interests of his business.

—Relatives from abroad are visiting in the family of E. Baker, east of town.

—The constables don't carry a very big string of dog scalps in their belts.

—Elect Geo. Lanning. If he is defeated we will have a suicide to write up.

—Miss Frankie Ryan and Mrs. G. C. Ralston took a trip to Waterloo, Monday.

—Sam. Weaver and Frank Strebe have formed a partnership in a barrel of fish.

—The court house janitor is asking the commissioners to buy a new lawn mower.

—One of the horses belonging to the stave factory has an ugly gash out in its hip.

—Treasurer Miller has been at Corunna taking in taxes for the past several days.

—The Auburn postoffice is an immense institution. It takes three hands to run it.

—Give Obe Cool a full vote. If he is beaten he will go off and kick himself full of holes.

—Elmer Bumpus, clerk at the Swineford, is cultivating a very nice little too too mustache.

—G. H. Forkner, formerly a resident of this place, has opened a grocery store at Albion.

—Men from Clark's saw mill, south of town, were loading Wabash cars with lumber Saturday.

—Anice Cowan drills the juveniles in English language two miles west of town this summer.

Abright, the jeweler sold five clocks on Monday, and has plenty more of the same kind left.

—Miss Alice Depew, of Altona, called on us Tuesday. She intends to teach again this summer.

—Parties must order the constables to kill any dog before this officer will do so. That's law.

—A. P. Foltz' oldest boy tried his face against the hardness of a crowbar, and the lad was outdone.

—Wes. Weyer has been talking all winter about going west, and will probably start this week.

—You can't eat enough in one week to last you a year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

Wm. Fleming, who worked at Yesbera's last winter, is now under the guiding hand of Gugerli.

—Johnny Cool, who is now at Battle Creek, Michigan, running an engine, was in town over Sunday.

—Look out for your pet poodle and flop-eared hounds. The double barreled officer is on their track.

—Peter Fisher, the jolly clothing man, of Waterloo, called on us Saturday and had a pleasant chat.

—Cyrus A. Crabill and Miss. Rosa Walter, of Jackson township, were married by Rev. Mease April 20th.

—We hope the new board, whoever they may be, will have style enough about them to pay the marshal.

—John McClellan says his cabbage will be ready in October, and at that time he will set up the oysters.

—Wes. Weyer should "pull down the blind," and not give the boys so much laugh at his and her expense.

—We learn by Rev. Mease that his son Orrin is now at work in a factory at Mishawaka, where he is doing well.

—Frank Culbertson has taken back the horse he sold to old Mr. Rant. It was too spirited for the ash business.

—W. P. Myers, principal of our public schools, attended the state convention of teachers held at Toledo, last week.

—Sewing machine agents, organ clerks, egg hucksters, lightning rod swindlers and tin peddlers are now on the road.

—Mrs. Philip Plum, of Butler, is in town visiting relatives. She made a brief call on her old neighbors of the COURIER.

—Mrs. J. J. Martin returned from her visit to Whitley county last week. They will soon move to their new home in Albion.

—A burglar got into the house of a country editor in Michigan. After a terrible struggle the editor succeeded in robbing him.

—If Mich. Houston has not got enterprise enough to repair that hole in his sidewalk, will he please sell out to someone who has.

—Rev. W. H. Daniels joined in wedlock, sabbath last, Frank M. Tuttle, of Pleasant Lake, and Miss Dora Lower, of Union township.

—Josie Rush will not teach school this summer. It is rumored that Josie will oversee a household in the vicinity of Spencerville, shortly.

—Fred. Davis came home on Monday. He has been taking quite an extended trip lately, having just made a trip to the city of Washington.

—Johnny Picker has been having his jaw tied up in the remains of a calico apron for several days. An aching tooth caused the trouble.

—Doc. Ryan is learning the painting trade under the supervision of himself. His advertisement will appear in the New York papers after harvest.

—Mrs. Scoville went east on the B. & O. last Wednesday evening, on the fast train. She was on her way to Washington to see her brother, Guiteau.

—Young Groscup and Ludwig received all the western experience they needed in a very short time, and both have returned to the old home again.

—B. Goodman, says he don't have to cut down on prices in order to get work.

—We are receiving new subscribers every week. Parties should come in and take the paper before the fall campaign comes up.

—The attention of contractors and those contemplating building the coming season, is called to the advertisement of Hughes & Humphrey in this issue.

—A juvenile base ball club has been organized. It will be remembered that this club carried the belt last season, and are quite confident of doing so this summer.

—There will be a normal school in Auburn this summer. Details are not yet settled, but we make this statement in reply to several who have asked about the matter.

—A. W. Bear and J. M. Brumback are in town, helping survey the new Cedar Creek ditch. J. J. VanAuken is doing the surveying as surveyor Foltz is engaged elsewhere.

—J. J. Walter has now moved to Albion, where he goes to engage in the sale of agricultural implements. Joe. is a number one man, and will make his business boom.

—We noticed a young lady on south VanBuren street, perched upon the house-top cleaning a chimney under the directions of her "fellah." This girl takes the cranberry tart.

—We had a lively skirmish in one of our saloons last night. There were more hard names than hard knocks, hence there were no funeral obsequies to celebrate this morning.

—John Baker, of Corunna, formerly of this place, dropped in to see us this week. John is a good workman and gets lots of blacksmithing to do, still he turns longingly to Auburn.

—Joseph Hyman shipped a car load of horses from Waterloo, Saturday. Mr. H. purchased a number of horses at this place and speaks highly of the stock raised in DeKalb county.

—Billy Little, the Newville shoepegger, left that burg this week to return no more. He will follow the latest scheme now indulged in by the Auburn boys, and move west in box-car style.

—The editor of the Corunna Headlight is special correspondent for the Toledo Daily Bee. At least the "ring" of the items remind us very much of our able friend Joe.

—Corunna has a night watch. That town needs watching, as some of these fine evenings Oscar Wilde will pass through there and carry the burg off in his overcoat pocket.

—Constable Smith was marching about town with a rifle on his shoulder, the other day. Does this officer know that "it's five dollars fine for shooting inside of the corporation?"

—Sarah Bernhart has married a Greek gentleman. Their united capital will foot up $1,200,000. Just think of that, boys. There is some style to that kind of marrying, if there is no beauty.

—Our people should be prepared to meet burglars. A safe was blown open at Edergton, the other night. It looks very much as though a gang of professional theives were working in this vicinity.

—Uncle Tom. Cool has engaged himself as a wagon maker for the coming year. He is now busy making dashboards and fancy wagon tongues over a pattern that was sent him from the old country.

—J. G. Johnson, the popular millinery goods dealer, was in town Monday. He prolonged his visit here to enable his wife, who was with him, to visit her relatives at this place. We are pleased to see that he is prospering.

—Rev. W. H. Daniels, the new pastor of the M. E. church, preached his first sermon here last sabbath. He does not come as a stranger among us, as he had made many acquaintances in this place while in charge at Waterloo.

—Mr. Umber, at the scythe snath factory, has a large number of young chickens. Whether he is raising them for the market or not we do not know, but are confident that Fatty will find a market for them next fall if he is alive and 'earty.

—Sherm. Hollister called our attention, the other day, to a young lady who was walking leisurely along covered with a large umbrella, and it hadn't rained for three hours previous. She was probably thinking of her Gwarge and forgot herself.

—John Bear, of Fairfield, was in town last week, on his way to Fostoria, Ohio, where he expects to have his future home. He is a brother of A. W. Bear and the family once resided near Fostoria. Mr. B. is a worthy man and we are sorry to lose him.

—The Sioux City Daily Journal contains the following announcement: "D. P. Hale was made glad on Tuesday morning by the advent of a son, weight 10¼ pounds. All well." Now, Dan., we didn't think that of you. There must be something in the climate of the far west.

—It is reported that George Sowers, a trustee at LaOtto, has absconded with the township funds amounting to $4,500. George was beaten at the last election for this office and having squandered the above amount it behoved him very much to "get up and git." Creditors in other business transactions are also left by the slippery trustee.

—In speaking of Rev. Daniels the Columbia City Herald says: "Our Auburn friends will find Bro. Daniels to be a gentleman of more than ordinary abilities as a minister of the gospel, a true gentleman, a good citizen and devoted christian. We wish him, his family and his charge long life and success."

—William Murphy has been at the poor house this week and next week he will go to jail. But wait. At the former place he painted the inside of the entire building, papered, whitewashed, and otherwise improved the looks of this institution. While he is at the latter place a similar transction will be performed and these two public buildings will be ready to welcome gentle spring.

Young people beginning housekeeping, should go to Abright's for their clocks, and all other articles in his line that they may need. You can't start in life without a time piece.

"Dog Days"

The constable shot a female dog belonging to Mrs. Jos. Davis, in the south end, last Friday. There are other dogs that need shooting as well as this woman's did, and the constable should not listen to the "whines" of every body but consider the matter and use his own judgment in the case. This was a valuable dog and did considerable in assisting this poor family to get a livelihood.

"Coming Again."

John Bunch and wife have "sized" up their faults and concluded to let bygones be by-gones. They went together last Friday, and are now as joyful as a pair of colts in a green pasture. The trouble came through a business transaction, in which Mr. Bunch was to go with a show company and Mrs. Bunch run a dress making establishment this summer at Home City. It was wealth they were after.

Naughty Boys

Some mischievous boys entered the basement rooms of the Presbyterian church last Saturday evening, and literly turned things upside down. The furniture was misplaced and other devilishness performed that there was no fun in nor nothing cute about. Boys of this disposition should be thoroughly handled by their fathers, assisted by a substantial branch from the tough side of a weeping willow.

The Caucus.

The democratic caucus was held last Monday evening. No general notice was given, but the ticket nominated, however, could have been no better, and we hope everything will be satisfactory at the election. The candidates are as follows: Charles Smith, marshal; Obe Cool, treasurer; Geo. Lanning, clerk; W. H. McQuiston trustee first ward; A. J. Ralston, trustee third ward, and E. Berry, trustee for the fourth ward.

The Election.

Next Monday our citizens will be called to the ballot box to elect a corporation ticket. We hope to see a full vote polled and every democrat stand firm and true to their ticket. We will have no trouble in electing our men if each one does his duty. From appearances, both at present and since the April election, little, if any, interest has been taken in the one next Monday. Heretofore the marshalship was sought after, but Auburn, sweet burg, cannot afford to pay anything to this officer, and the consequence is that it will be a hard matter to get anyone to accept it if they are elected.

Temperance Mass Meeting.

The temperance people of this county are invited to meet at Ensley's hall, Auburn, Ind., May 6, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of effecting an organization in the interests of the prohibitory constitutional amendments. All churches, Sunday-schools and temperance societies are urged to send at least one delegate. If you are not interested in the object come out hear, see and get interested. A conference meeting will be held previous to the organization in which all are invited to participate. Short speeches will be made, and we hope to see a grand outpouring of all who love the temperance cause.

COMMITTEE.

The Sprinkler.

We are informed by B. L. Williams that it is almost impossible for him to raise enough subscription to pay for running the sprinkling wagon this summer. This sprinkler is not only a public convenience, but is more or less beneficial to the merchants. It saves the accumulation of dust on their stock and keeps their show windows clean, rendering them more attractive and saving lots of labor for the "weary" clerks. Is Auburn losing instead of gaining enterprise, and shall we go back to the style of twenty years ago? Thrift and ambition have been leading us onward for a number of years, and we hope the spirit will be manifested in the future to all enterprises of a public good. Give us the spinkler by all means.

Barber's Convention

This would be a splendid time to open a revival meeting. Our barbers have held a convention (Toad in the chair) and passed resolutions not to shave on Sundays. Bill Edgerton's speech was sublime and affecting. He pictured out the terrible fate of those who labored on the Lord's day, and convinced the assembly that the beautiful gates ajar would instantly close when this army of tonsorial artists shall go marching up at Gabriel's command. Geo. Grund was sick and could not be present, but Sam. Pommert signed the article of "independence" for him. All those who want to get barbered must be on hand between the hours of six p. m. and three a. m.—they don't shave on Sunday.

Talk of Organizing.

A few months ago Auburn had a good band, and the boys were advancing in their different parts remarkably well. The citizens, as well as the members, began to fell interested and "strut" proudly in the anticipation of a thoroughly organized brass band. But when our hopes were the brightest all of a sudden she collapsed, busted higher 'an kite; and since then nothing has been said or done to establish a new organization. At present, however, some are agitating the question of getting up another band, and if a situation can be procured for a baker, who will play the e-flat horn, the band will again amuse Mr. Swineford and the guests at this popular hotel. Auburn should have a good band, and as we have the material, horns and music let the enterprise be crowded forward and every citizen in the place contribute something to encourage it.

—B. Goodman, says he left jour work at an average of $80 per month and in 1874 came to Auburn, his first five years he did not make expenses. To-day as well as the past he is working almost every day and night, he has not forced his way in any job without the consent of the owner, contractors or both parties.

—Joseph Abright has just received a lot of the new Oscar Wilde jewelry, the nicest designs ever seen in this place. Call and see for yourself.

That Horse Swap.

"The saddest thoughts of word or pen
Is the terribleness of these men."

Last week Noel Decker and a "retired conductor" from Garrett came over here to trade horses with Buck Allen. Buck had a pair of Texas ponies that suited their taste very much. They had a horse which they recommended to be a splendid driver and as gentle as Mary's little lamb. He gave the span of ponies for the loudly praised animal, and this horse is one of the kind that is "too numerous to mention." He takes the cake from any horse that ever looked through a collar. This horse can kick the eave-troughs off a three-story building without an extra effort, and tumble the best rider on record when he makes up his mind to do so. The trade was such a clear case of swindle that Decker and his pal, fearing the law, gave the ponies back, and now Buck can put his hair up in gimlets and ride to and fro over Cedar street, a wiser and a richer man.

Obituary.

Died peacefully at his home in Sacramento, Cal., Tuesday evening, April 4, 1882, Egbert B. Mott, jr., oldest and dearly beloved son of Mary W. and the late Hon. E. B. Mott, of Auburn, Indiana. From his earliest childhood an obedient and devoted son, an affectionate, sympathizing brother, a faithful, considerate friend, he became in manhood a loyal, patriotic citizen, an upright, energetic and able business man, a tender husband, a loving and judicious parent. To a very unusual memory, he united a vivid imagination, a quick sense of humor, a sound and discriminating judgment, and the habit of logical deduction strengthened by intimate acquaintance with the best authors. A man of fixed principles and decided opinions, he never hesitated to contend earnestly for them, yet, while from his mental stores he drew argument, anecdote or repartee, his conversation was characterized by such winning courtesy of manner as charmed even those whom he opposed. His letters were remarkably bright and genial, carrying with them the same atmosphere of tender, unselfish interest in all that concerned the welfare of his friends, which made personal association with him so delightful. Charitable in word, thought and deed. He bore no malice or hatred in his heart, and never wilfully inflicted a pang upon any human being. Loyal to duty in every relation of life, those who knew him best, valued most highly the simple integrity, the rare unselfishness, the noble generosity which lifted his nature above the lower plane of ordinary lives. At the time of his death, Mr. Mott was secretary of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company, to the affairs of which he was devoting all his energies. Unsuspected by any human being except himself, the end drew near. He came home from San Francisco on Saturday evening, April 1, "to die," he said. His condition was a surprise to every one. Heart, lungs, kidneys were all affected. With cheerful resignation he acquiesced in the Divine will, and to his last peaceful breath showed the same endearing qualities which made the influence of his whole life as beneficent as the dews of heaven. God's mercy made his path "very smooth and easy," and with no severe pain or distressing weakness, he went peacefully to his rest.

Of Mr. Mott's family in Indiana, his aged mother, one brother and a sister survive him. In Sacramento he left a beloved wife, two sons and three daughters, one little son having preceded him to the next world. To all these, their loss is irreparable. They never suffered a grief which his loving sympathy did not have power to alleviate, until the last fatal pang, which, stilling his faithful heart, pierced theirs also.

Many friends came from a distance to unite with the citizens of Sacramento in paying the last attention to him who was for the first time unresponsive. The floral tributes were many and of rare designs, "and his grave was literally covered with flowers."

J.

DIED.—April 12, 1882, Mrs. Margaret Nelson, aged 61 years, 1 month and 15 days. Mrs. Nelson was born in Westmoreland county, Pa., February 26, 1821. When about two years of age, her parents, Joseph and Margaret Williams, removed to Richland, the present site of Ashland county, Ohio. She was married to William Nelson, December 31, 1850, and in the spring of 1851 together they removed to De Kalb county, Indiana, where she remained until her death. She was the mother of eight children, five of whom survive her. At the age of twenty-one, she united with the Evangelical Lutheran church and remained a devoted Christian until called from the church on earth to the church triumphant. She was a loving companion, an affectionate mother and kind neighbor, and was held in high esteem by all who knew her, as was attested by the large concourse of people assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to her memory. During her protracted illness she bore intense suffering with a patience and resignation rarely witnessed, and her last intelligible words to her family were, "Put your trust in God. He is our Savior, our staff and our guide." Though her life seems to have been an unusually happy one, and her home was ever the welcome abode of the weary itinerant, she was called from her mission of love on earth to roam the amaranthine bowers of purity—the abiding place of the pure in heart and such as love His coming. Death severs to unite, unchains to bind; and, although we may no more receive her friendly greeting or listen to her words of kindly counsel, we hope to meet her again on the Golden Strand.

H E.

Notice of Dissolution.

The partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned in the harness business under the firm name of Sheffer & Rush is this day dissolved by mutual consent, and Wm. Sheffer is authorized to settle up the business of said firm.

W. SHEFFER.
S. H. RUSH.

I will continue the business at the old stand. Thanking my friends for their patronage in the past, I respectfully solicit a continuance of the same.

WM. SHEFFER.

Auburn, Indiana, April 24, 1882.

FAIRFIELD CENTER, Ind., April 19, 1882.

J. W. SWAYSGOOD: You can state through the papers if you wish that I have this day been called on by T. F. Sawyer, your state agent, who adjusted my loss very satisfactory, and gave me a draft for the full amount of my claim—$712.00—which leaves me still another friend to advise our neighbors to patronize you and the old Ohio Farmers' Insurance Co., as this money has been paid within a month from the time of the fire, which I think should be satisfactory to any reasonable man.

WM. NUSBORFER.

LOST.—A long brown vail. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

Any kind of work done in the metal line. The only shop in the county and the eleventh in the state where galvanized iron fronts, cornices, window caps etc, are made to order. No extra draftsman, to lay out patterns to whom high salaries are paid or no charges made for drawing, as in the case in all these shops. Any thing in the metal line made to order by B. Goodman.

—It will be noticed that our type is set solid this week, and although we have considerable space taken by advertisers, the usual amount of reading matter is given our subscribers.

—There is nothing so judicious as advertising. The Newfoundland dog that was advertised in these columns last week, had strayed over to Leo, Allen county, and was brought back Monday, in answer to the notice we gave for his whereabouts, three days after the paper was published.

—List of unclaimed letters remaining in this postoffice for the week ending April 26: J. W. Brown, Miss Kate Boyer, Mrs. Laura Hillman, Mrs. Bela H. Briggs, Mrs. Isabell Brown, J. W. Bowman, B. B. Barnes, W. T. Bush, German Baptist church care of J. F. Kramer, James Donaldson, Jakob Klein, M. Melamphy, Geo. W. A. Smith and W. H. Whiteside.

—Worth Coats and Miss Alice McKay were married at the home of her parents, in this place, last Thursday. Our readers will remember her as one of our most faithful and sprightly correspondents. We hope "Rustic" will not forget the COURIER, in the happiness of her wedded life, but will rusticate somewhere in this county, where she can be heard from. We wish them both all happiness and all our force give thanks for a supply of nice cake.

—It is almost impossible for a lady to walk along Seventh street in the evening without having her ears assailed by oaths and obscene remarks that can only issue from the lips long since given to slang, vulgarity and profanity. Not only this but a lady has to run a gauntlet of rough, ill-visaged looking men stationed along this street. If the saloon men would place their pop-boxes and beer kegs at the rear of the buildings, where they properly belong, these crowds would not collect and ladies could have the same privilege on this thoroughfare as other citizens have.

—Mr. E. B. Mott, whose recent death in Sacramento, is given in his obituary in this number, was well known to many of the older citizens of this place. He went to California in 1852, when a mere lad, but soon rose to an honorable standing among the people of that state. At his funeral, and acting as pall-bearers, were Hon. John F. Swift, one of the late commissioners to China, and ex-senator Newton Booth, who will also be remembered as an Indianian, he having attended the well known old Washington Academy at Salem, in this state.

An Interesting Photograph.

We have received from W. H. Brearley, of Detroit, Mich., a large photograph of a gem of scenery near the Glen House in the White Mountains, and any one who desire to inspect it will find it adorning the sanctum sanctorum of this paper. This is one of the scores of interesting places visited by the popular annual excursions "From Detroit to the Sea," via the Grand Trunk R. R. and St. Lawrence River Steamers, and indicated the character of the scenery along this popular route of summer pleasure travel. These excursions have been carried on successfully for the last six years, and are each under the personal management of Mr. Brearley, from whom a circular of particulars can be obtained by addressing him enclosing a 3 cent stamp, or by sending 30 cents for illustrated guide book.

B. Goodman says he has done some simple work that the parties were told they could not do it, or could it be done any place else. Say you fellows I did the work they wanted, and the same kind when I was at my trade some eight months, nearly fifteen years ago, and can do work that they have never seen and the less ever able to accomplish yourselves, when seen. In conclusion will say any time you are ready to beat the drum now I am ready with thee, and can walk away from you on work and prices.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.—I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the bitters my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging. — H. T., St. Paul. — [Pioneer Press. 16-2w

DEAD.—That famous tramp who has been such a terror to the people of De-Kalb county has at last succumbed, and died at the Physicians' Drug Store.—His name was High Price and low price has taken the place at that store, and hereafter you will do well to buy your drugs, medicines, wall paper, window shades, shoulder braces, etc., of Casebeer, Matheny & Humphrey. 16-3

—B. Goodman, says he has no boys to do the work, does it all himself and guarantees every inch of his work, or has he ever left a job go out of his shop that could not be done in first class style as has been the case with a competitor of mine.

—Drs. Casebeer, Matheny & Humphrey have greatly improved their store with the addition of a very fine new show case, which was necessary to accommodate their increased stock of fancy goods. 16-2t

—B. Goodman, says when he gets hard up for work he is not looking or sneaking around to take work or do it for less when the contractor has the job of letting and had let it to others. "Live and let live."

—You can save money by buying your wall paper and window shades of Davenport. His stock is complete, patterns elegant and prices way down. Come and see. 16-3

—Black-gros grain silks, satin De Lyon silk, satin griffon silk for dresses and dolmans at popular prices. Examine them before you buy, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3t

—Headquarters for new designs of wall paper and window shades, at the Physicians' Drug Store.

—Call and see the new and nobby designs of window shades and wall paper at the Physicians' Drug Store. 16-3

—Five cakes of good soap for 25c at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Great bargains in wall paper, window shades and rollers at Davenport's.

EVER-DAY HEROES.

S. D. [illegible]

Oh, yes! they are all around us,
And in every walk of life;
Heroes the best, that stand the test
In many an unmarked strife;
Heroes of home, of shop, of farm,
And at duty's call alone,
Though unaware of honor's share,
And by noisy fame unblown.

From a flame-girt loft window
Wild faces and hands entreat
Vast crowds agape, that no means can shape,
For aid from the icy street;
When a bootblack climbs an adjacent pole,
And swift from its peak impels
A rope of wire down the wall of fire,
And the cry, They are saved! upswells.

High swaying his danger signal,
The under-paid switchman speeds
O'er the quivering ridge of a broken bridge,
That to death and destruction leads,
To sink, as the thundering train slows up,
O'er taxed, in the headlight's glare,
While but few can know what to him they owe,
Then [illegible] he should be dying there.

O, yes! they are all around us,
And to instance their deeds were vain,
So hidden away in the crowds are they,
In the paths obscure and plain;
From those whose chivalry, unesteemed,
Through a lowly lifetime shines,
To such in the route whose acts stand out
From the rest like starry signs.

And nothing is lost, though hidden,
That springs from heroic seed;
In that larger force, and the higher course
That are shaped from a single deed,
The environment of a mass of men
May brighten and spread space,
Till the deeds shall throng all paths along
To the glory of all the race.

FOUND OUT.

"I wish I could do something for you Mr. Clare," said Imogen Lee softly, "you do so much for me!"

The young clergyman smiled. It was not in human nature not to be flattered at the wistful earnestness of this pretty young creature with the black eye brows and soft dark eyes, the pink cheeks and round chin, just indented by a dimple. Miss Lee's minature drawing room was the prettiest and most restful place in the world, and its portieres of dark-blue plush, its stand of love-birds, wax-bills, and Java sparrows, its open boudoir piano, and the vase of cape-jasmines, which filled all the air with sweetness; and Imogen herself was the fitting empress of this fairy domain, daintly picturesque in her blue silk dress and the blue flowers in her hair.

"You are doing a great work for me, Miss Lee," he said, "when you visit the poor and sick in my district, and constitute yourself my representative at the many places I have not time to attend."

"Oh, but I mean something for you yourself," persisted Imogen. "To wear—or to use—or to do decorate that little octagon study of yours that I have such a curiosity to see. Of course you have dozens of slippers, and pen wipers enough for a whole pen factory, and ash trays and smoking jackets, and all that sort of things; but" her eyes brightening with a sudden inspiration, "do you wear a smoking-cap? I'm sure one would be very becoming to you."

"I never had one," said Mr. Clare, laughing. He knew she was making a fool of him, but the process was very pleasant and he did not object to it.

"Oh, you must have one," said Imogen, clasping her pretty hands. "And I'll embroider it myself. Tell me, now, which is your favorite flower!"

"How can a man decide such a bewilderment of beauty?" he asked dreamily "But I think I have always liked the gold-blossomed mimosa best.

"A sensitive plant in a garden grew,
And the sweet winds fed it with silver dew'.

Somewhere—I am not certain where—I have seen a wreath of mimosas embroidered in gold and emerald," he added thoughtfully.

"And you like it?" said Imogen, nodding her head archly. "Well, your taste shall be consulted; And now here comes the tea—real orange-scented Pekoe—just such as you like!"

Mimosas? They had no such pattern at the fancy emporiums. They had never heard of the flower, some of them. They had never seen it embroidered. An ugly, tufty little bossom, which would produce no effect at all. For their parts, they would recommend daisies, or pomegranates, or passion flowers. Nowhere could Miss Lee find the design she wanted.

And consequently, when she turned off from the brilliant thoroughfare into the squalid streets where vice, poverty and starvation rally their innumeration army, to visit the poor of St. Winifreda's Parish, her heart was not by any means in her work.

"These poor people are all lonesome," said she to herself, all the stories are just alike, and the rooms smell so close and sickening, and there is always bread and molasses or half-eaten apples on the chairs. I hate the poor, and I don't see why I should be compelled to seek after them. There's no real way of helping them. Do what you will for them to-day, they're just as badly off to-morrow, and will be to the end of the chapter. And when I am once Mrs. Fernando Clare I'll declare war against the whole thankless tribe and generation of 'em!"

Miss Lee was short and brusque in her [illegible] that day. She told Mrs. Purgill that it was all her own fault that Purgill had got drunk and been carried off to the station-house. "You keep your rooms so dirty that he can't stay in 'em!" said she. She cut short the Widow Mellick's detail of her woes with "Well, well, I've heard all of this before. If you talked less and worked more, you'd be able to support yourself." She declined to supply tea and snuff to old Mrs. Dodge. "You are getting to be a regular beggar," said she. "Don't you know that you ought to think of your Bible more and of your tea less."

At last she came to Mrs. Hyde's, the pale young widow of the [illegible] sea-captain.

"Not up yet?" she said tartly. "[illegible] a little too lazy, [illegible] less, [illegible], Hyde. You can't exactly expect to spend all your time on the sofa, like a fine lady."

"I am not yet able to walk around much as yet, Miss Lee," said Mrs. Hyde, coloring. When she had confided her trouble to the young rector of St. Winifreda's, she had not expected to be taken to task for idleness and lack of thrift by any sharp-tongued young woman.

"But this will never do," said Miss, Lee. "You must go up and go to work. Poor people can't afford to indulge in [illegible] lady whims. St. Winifreda's won't support you for ever!"

Mrs Hyde bit her lips.

"I have only had twelve shillings from the parish," said she, "and—"

But at this minute Miss Lee, whose keen black eyes had been wandering around the apartment, uttered a little cry of pleased surprise.

"Oh, what a beautiful violet velvet cap," said she. "That one, I mean, hanging against the wall, with the little yellow star of flowers on it, and the feathery green leaves."

"They are mimosa," said Mrs Hyde.

"Mimosas!' Miss Lee drew a long breath. It was to her excited mind exactly as if heaven had opened, and some good angel had flung down into her arms the possession she most coveted in all the world!

"It is all that I have left of my poor husband," said Mrs. Hyde. "It was a piece of Persian embroidery given to him in Cabul—he only wore it a few times, and——"

"I'll give you five shillings for it," said Miss Lee, feeling mechanically for her pocket-book.

Miss Hyde bit her lips.

"It is not for sale," said she. "Nothing would induce me to sell it!"

"Then you must be very ungrateful," said Imogen, "after all we have done for you! I don't believe in people who put false sentiments before reason and common-sense!"

Mrs. Hyde was silent.

"I don't mind if I say ten scillings," said Imogen. "Come, if you are really so very poor ten shillings ought to be an object to you."

"Poor as I am," said Mrs. Hyde with dignity, which quelled even the parish visitress of St. Winifreda's, "I am not yet poor enough to endure unprovoked insults. I have stated my determination, and I shall adhere to it. I wish you good afternoon."

And Imogen, feeling herself politely turned out, flounced from the room with burning cheeks and flashing eyes. She had hardly got down to the house, however, before she missed one of her gloves.

"Six-button," she said to herself," and the newest shade of myrtle-green. I can't afford to lose it!"

So, unwilling enough, she went back.

Mrs. Hayde was not there. She had dragged herself from the calico-covered lounge into a neighbor's room at the summon's of a terrified young mother, whose child was in a fit—but the myrtle-green glove lay close to the chair which Imogen had so recently occupied. She caught it up, rather relieved not to have to face the dignified young widow again and glanced hurriedly at the wall by the window where the violet velvet smoking-cap had hung.

When Mrs. Hyde returned in about fifteen minutes, the nail was empty. The pretty wreath of mimosa was gone.

* * * * * * *

"I hope you will like it," said Imogen, with her pretty head drooping, her eyes cast down. "It is all my own work; I designed it myself."

"It is beautiful,' said the young clergyman, as he looked at the violet velvet cap, with its circlet of rare Eastern embroidery, its binding of gold cord and golden tassels. "But——"

He stopped abruptly. Where had he seen one so exactly like it before?

Everyone knows how impossible it is to locate these Will-o'-the-wisps of the brain. And Mr. Clare left off trying for the present.

"It was very kind of you to think of me," said Mr. Clare. "Bless me—two o'clock all ready. And I have an engagement at a quarter past."

And he bade Miss Imogen Lee goodbye, and went off with the little rose perfumed paper-box in his hand.

"Really," said Imogen with a pout, "I think he might have displayed a little more enthusiasm. And after all the trouble I had too!"

Mrs. Hyde was sitting in his little reception parlor when the young man entered it—Mrs. Hyde, pale, slight and looking unusually interesting in her deep mourning dress.

"I have come to thank you for all your kindness, Mr. Clare," said she, "and to tell you that I have now opened a little school in Court-street, by the aid of which I hope to support myself for the future."

Mr. Clare looked kindly down upon the sweet white face.

"But are you sure that you are well enough?" said he.

"I cannot endure always to be dependent," said Mrs. Hyde, blushing. "And—but oh, Mr. Clare, pardon my seeming abruptness, but where did you get that velvet cap?"

For in his absent pre-occupation Mr. Clare had taken the velvet mimosa cap out of the rose-scented box and hung it on one of the antlers of the deer's head over his mantel.

"It was a present from one of my parishioners," said he—"Miss Imogen Lee."

"Mrs. Hyde bit her lip. "Do you know where she got it."

"She embroidered it herself," said unconscious Mr. Clare.

"Pardon me," said Mrs. Hyde thoroughly aroused and indigant by this time; and she told Mr. Clare the true history of the wreath of mimosas.

"Then it was in your room that I saw it," said the rector with a long breath. "but who could have believed that Imogen Lee would be guilty of a crime—yes, a crime—like this!'

He went to the young lady, and talked gravely to her that afternoon. Imogen had never been so impressed in her life,—and yet she knew that her chance for the young clergyman's affections was over. He could have forgiven any fault but deceit.

"I suppose he will marry Mrs. Hyde now," thought Miss Lee bitterly. "Widows seem to carry a peculiar spell with them!"

Imogen was right. He did marry Mrs. Hyde, finally. But Imogen Lee had herself to thank for it. Before the episode of the violet velvet cap Mr. Clare had never had his attention called [illegible] to the young sea-captain's widow.

"But when I once got fairly acquainted with her," he said, "I could not help admiring her."

And Imogen Lee does no more parish visiting for St. Winifreda's now.

A Convict's Life.

One of the staff of the Crawfordsville Journal paid a visit to the Nothern Prison last week, and in an interesting article describing the institution gives the routine of a convict's daily life:

A convict's daily life is, if anything, monotonous, not excepting Sunday. At half-past five o'clock in the morning the convicts are awakened by the ringing of a large bell, and after a sufficient time allowed for dressing, the lever that locks all the cells is drawn, and the men forming into line march to the messroom, where breakfast is awaiting them. Each convict carries his own knife and fork. Talking is prohibited at meals, as at work. Breakfast consists of coffee or tea, meat, potatoes, and good wheat bread. Many prisoners by making what is termed "overwork" are enabled to buy butter or molasses. Such purchases they carry in little tin pails. The tables are not decked with tablecloths, and napkins are unknown, but the dishes are neat in appearance and always scrupulously clean. Pepper, salt and vinegar are always to be had. The convicts sit on long benches, and when all have finished eating they arise at a signal by the Deputy Warden and are marched to their respective workshops, when the labor of the day commences. Work is carried on in the shops until 11:50, when the Steward pulls a cord that blows a whistle, and then labor is suspended. At 11:55 another whistle is blown, and the respective gangs of convicts are marched out of the shops to dinner. The men are marched immediately to the shops as soon as dinner is over, and go to their tasks. Supper is served at 5:40, and good tea and bread are served. At 6 o'clock the convicts are marched from the supper table to the cell houses and locked up. An account is then taken, and if all the prisoners are present or accounted for the big whistle is sounded, the cells are locked for the night and the day's labor is ended. The prisoners can have candles in their cells and pass the time in reading or writing until 9 o'clock, when a bell is rung and all lights must be extinguished. In cold weather the cells are heated by steam pipes, and the ventilation is always perfect.

The Apple Crop of the State.

Indianapolis News.

The bureau of statistics has some curious and interesting figures on the apple product of Indiana, and while in some respects they seem very inconsistent at first glance, a careful analysis of the statements and circumstances under which they are severally made, show after all, that the two statements are both approximately correct. The estimated apple product, by the bureau, was 35 302 180 bushels, yet this was only an average of 5.4 bushels per bearing tree reported, while it is not uncommon for good trees to bear twenty bushels. At this rate, six acres of orchard will produce as many bushels as 100 acres of wheat land. Any one who has observed the piles of apples in orchards of a fair fruit year will not doubt the above figures. For the report of 1881, the question is again asked by the assessor: "How many bushels of apples did you raise last year (meaning in 1880)? the sum of these answers foot up only 6,986,698 bushels, or less than one-fifth of the amount produced by the trees, for it must be borne in mind that the first figures are what the trees produced, and the latter is what the farmers saved, or put up for winter or marketed. About one-fourth to one-third of the apple crop falls and rots on the ground. One-half to two-fifths of the remainder is made into cider and fed to live stock, while some more is dried and canned, so that, allowing for what has been forgotten at the time of reporting the following spring, and the number who fail to answer the question, margin enough is allowed to credit the first statement of 35,992,180 bushels. It is notorious that a large per cent of the fruit crop goes to waste every year of plenty, and by efficient drying and canning and otherwise preserving, could and should be saved. How many boys are in the house of refuge for stealing from apple trees, the fruit of which was doomed at last to go to waste.

Heat and Ice-Water.

If any of the miners who work in the Comstock mines have ever read "Paradise Lost," they must have been reminded of Milton's lines:

"For hot, cold, moist, and dry, four champions fierce, strive here for mastery."

There are some points where the workmen encounter a temperature of one hundred and fifteen to one hundred and twenty degrees, and their thirst becomes excessive. No ice-water is too cold to be swallowed with a relish. Indeed, it often does not satisfy, and the miners chew and swallow lumps of ice. Yet it does not hurt them. They often swallow such quantities of ice-water that their stomachs will not retain it.

The temperature of the station where they go to cool off is about one hundred degrees. This temperature—which would almost roast a surface man—appears cool to a man who has come from a place where the thermometer marks one hundred and ten to one hundred and fifteen degrees.

Where the temperature is ninety the man will feel so cold as to shiver. Often at the cooling-off station the perspiration will cease, and the men will begin to feel very uncomfortable.

On leaving and going back to where the temperature is from one hundred and fifteen to one hundred and twenty, as the perspiration begins to start, there is for a minute or two an intolerable itching over the whole body.

As each closed pore reopens, it produces a tingling sensation. However, as soon as there is a free flow of perspiration all this trouble ceases, and the man feels quite comfortable, and so remains until the whole body—blood, flesh and bones—again reaches a tembeature of from one hunderd and ten to one hundred and twenty, when he becomes wild for ice-water and ice.

A Discriminating Simian.

Laramie Boomerang.

Mr. Brodie, of Pittsburg, Pa., is the possessor of a monkey, purchased of an old sea captain some years ago, and the animal has got a good deal of sense, as the following little incident will show: Mr. Brodie gets the Times of this city and also the Boomerang. When the pet from the tropics is told to bring either of these papers to Mr. Brodie's mother, he knows which is which and brings the one desired. When he gets the times for the old lady, however, he very thoughtfully brings her spectacles also. This shows that even the brute creation can distinguish between a clear, legible print and that which is the reverse. We do not make any comment on this little incident, but simply give the bare facts. When a paper gets so dim typographically and editorially that a bobtail babboon from a heathen land begins to notice it, there ought to be a reform.

LAW vs. JAW.

"You are old," said the youth, "and your jaws are too weak
For anything tougher than suet;
Yet you finished the goose, with the bones and the beak—
Pray how did you manage to do it?"
"In my youth," said his father, "I took to the law,
And argued each case with my wife;
And the muscular strength which it gave to my jaw
Has lasted the rest of my life."

HOSPITAL FIGHTERS.

The Brave Exploit of a Handful Men who Wanted Active Service.

Indianapolis Journal, by Dr. J. W. Hervey.

After the Union troops occupied Nashville, it became necessary to guard the railroad from Louisville to that point, as Forrest, Morgan and Vandorn, with a large cavalry force, were constantly burning bridges, tearing up track and taking supply trains, which endangered the army very much. The history of these bold dashes upon this line, and the amount of injury done to our army, is familiar to all who have kept posted on the subject; yet, many incidents connected with the men who did guard-duty have never been written, and some which have been were not fully stated.

We had charge of the sick and wounded, during the summer of 1863, from Gallatin to Edgefield, on the banks of the Cumberland river, opposite Nashville. Among the men who did guard duty was a detachment of the Fiftieth Indiana Volunteers and the Seventh Pennsylvania Cavalry. Many of the men belonging to the Fiftieth were old Mexican veterans. It was very difficult to get many of them to do camp, guard or any duty about camp. They were most of them old men, and would go to the guard-house, in some instances, rather than do camp duty or drill. To avoid duty they would report sick every morning at surgeon's roll. Many who were not old soldiers soon learned the same trick. Being short of men, it was determined to put all the men not necessarily confined in hospital in a stockade at Edgefield Junction to guard the bridges on the railroad at that point. This they were very willing to do, for they had some hopes of getting into a fight. They said they enlisted for the purpose, and not to drill or do camp duty; that they had been drilled enough; they were brave 'men' and would leave the hospital to get into a fight every time.

Morgan soon found out that the stockade was defended by a few dirty-looking troops, who never drilled and who had been sent there from the hospital. He determined to come upon them and scoop them up, as they called it, at some time that suited his convenience. If I have not forgotten, it was about the time the paymaster was to be down the road that he undertook to carry out his designs. He expected to take the stockade, burn the dridge and take the 4 o'clock train from Louisville and rob the paymaster. He supposed this would be an easy job; that he would surprise the men and gobble them up before they could be organized and put in fighting trim.

Major Alkain, of the Fiftieth, was in command of this hospital brigade, as he called his forces, consisting, I think, of only sixty or sixty-five men. The Major had served in Mexico, and he was not the kind of a man to be surprised. Morgan attacked him about 1:30 in the afternoon, with something near 1,000 of his choice forces, and made an attempt to storm the stockade. He was repulsed, with considerable loss. Part of the men guarded the entrance with fixed bayonets, while the others kept up a steady and destructive fire from the port-holes, and but few shots missed their aim. After several attempts to storm the stockade, with disastrous consequences, Morgan drew off to a piece of woods and put sharpshooters up trees to shoot above the timbers, or to take deliberate aim at the port-holes. The Union men saw the maneuver, and commenced picking the Johnnies off the trees. The fight lasted, as near as I remember, about two or two and a half hours, when Morgan made a hasty retreat, leaving his adjutant and sixty men dead upon the field, and the wounded he took with him, most of them, so that we do know the entire number of the disabled. Many were found dead along the line of the march afterward. By the time the train arrived this band of brave men had whipped Morgan, without the loss of a single man, and the greenbacks went into circulation on the next day.

As soon as General Nelson heard of this, one of the bravest fights and most complete victories for the size of it during the war, he had medals of silver made for every man engaged in the fight, with the name of each one stamped upon them; after which he visited the stockade, called the men out in line, made a speech to them complimenting their bravery, and then presented each with a medal weighing over one ounce of pure silver. Some of this fighting brigade are yet alive, and if this report does any of them injustice, or if any of the statements are wrong, I assure them it was not intended. I write from memory, and was on the spot a few minutes after Morgan withdrew. I think my report is correct in the main.

P. S.—I forgot to state in the proper place that Morgan, after failing to storm the stockade, and before he went to the wood, set three large hay-stacks on fire for the purpose of smoking and burning the brave boys out, and they were desperately scorched and nearly blinded by the effects of the smoke.

Madame, the Heathen.

The correspondent of the Philadelphia Times writes from Washington as follows: At the Chinese Legation, one of the handsomest residences in the city, lives a lady of rank in that country, the wife of the present Minister Chen [illegible] Ja. She lives in as strict seclusion here in the national capital of our free country as if still in the capital of her native land. Even here she must obey the national law which compels women of her rank to keep within their homes. She has never been out since she removed from the Arlington Hotel, where her husband and his suite were until the legation was made ready for their occupancy, which was before the middle of January.

While the names of the wives of other gentlemen of the Diplomatic Corps who are married, and the names of the wife and daughter of Mr. Bartlett, the American Secretary of the Chinese Legation, appear always on the offical diplomatic list published by the State Department, the name of the Chinese Minister's wife is not thereon. She receives no company at all, and must not be allowed to see any man except her husband. Consequently, she being alone with her Chinese women attendants, has no opportunity to learn English. She is the fourth wife (the other three, I hear, are living in China,) and she, it is said, was permitted to accompany her husband on his travels because she is the youngest and comeliest of the number. I hear they have not been married long. She is under 25 years of age.

The Chinese Minister visits and attends parties daily, and although he as yet knows no English no one seems to enjoy society more than he. Through his interpreter, who always accompanies him, he talks merrily with ladies. He thinks Miss West, the British Minister's young daughter, very bright, because she has memorised some Chinese phrases taught her by the interpreter, and repeated them to him. Two Philadelphia ladies at a recent reception kept up an animated conversation with him through the interpreter, and he laughed heartily over some of their sallies.

As no one below the grade of a Minister or Charge d'Affaires is ever invited to dine with one of our Presidents, the Chinese interpreter could not accompany the Minister to the dinner at the White House, and thus, where all the languages of the civilized world were spoken, he was the only one present who did not understand any of them. The Japanese Charge d'Affaires who attended (there being no Minister here now to represent that nation) communicated with the Chinese gentleman in writing on this occasion, though he could not speak his language. The Chinese Minister did not appear to feel lonely at the dinner, but ate and drank heartily, and as he closely watched the others about him committed no faux pas. He afterward told the President that he thought the wine very good and he enjoyed it.

How to Apply the Soda Remedy in Burns and Scalds.

Popular Science Monthly.

It is now many years ago that the author of this paper, while engaged in some investigations as to the qualities and effects of the alkalies in inflammations of the skin, etc., was fortunate enough to discover that a saline lotion or saturated solution of the bicarbonated soda in either plain water or camphorated water, if applied speedily, or as soon as possible, to a burned or scalded part, was most effectual in immediately relieving the acute buring pain and when the burn was only superficial, or not severe, removing all pain in the course of a very short time having also the very great advantage of cleanliness, and, if applied at once, of preventing the usual consequences—a painful blistering of the skin, seperation of the epidermis, and perhaps more or less suppuration.

For this purpose, all that is necessary is to cut a piece of lint, or old soft rag, or even thick blotting-paper, of a size sufficient to cover the burned or scalded parts, and to keep it constantly well wetted with the sodaic lotion so as to prevent its drying. By this means, it usually happens that all pain ceases in from a quarter to half an hour, or even in much less time.

When the main part of a limb, such as the hand and fore-arm or the foot and leg, has been burned, it is best, when practicable, to plunge the part at once into a jug, or pail, or other convenient vessel filled with the soda lotion, and keep it there until the pain subsides; or the limb may be swathed or encircled with a surgeon's cotton bandage previously soaked in the saturated solution, and kept constantly wetted with it, the relief being usually immediate, provided the solution be saturated and cold.

What is now usually sold as bicarbonate of soda is what I have commonly used and recommended; although this is well know to vary much in quality according to where it is manufactured, but will it be found to answer the purpose, although Howard's is most to be depended on, the common carbonate being too caustic. It is believed that a large proportion of medical practitioners are still unware of the remarkable qualities of this easily applied remedy, which recommends itself for obvious reasons.

Western Missouri Barbarism.

From the New York Herald.

Reports from the scenes around the remains of the outlaw, Jesse James, throw bright but unpleasant light upon some sections of Western society. At least one noted desperado, with a select party of friends, dropped in to view the remains, and nobody molested him, although the Sheriff who effected the outlaw's death was present with his deputies. The remains were carried to the bedside of the outlaw's brother, who was lying at the the point of death, but who, nevertheless, was able to indulge in some touching remarks. The Sheriff who had been chasing the redoubtable Jesse had an informal chat with the dead man's mother, and, although the old lady used some hard language, public sympathy seemed about equally divided between her and the Sheriff. Among the six pall-bearers were at least three who had taken part in the work of hunting the outlaw down, and the burial service began with the hymn, 'What a friend we have in Jesus!" Mr. James' children, like good children everywhere else, say their prayers every night, and among other petitions, they always put up one that their Uncle Frank, who is no slouch in the outlaw business, may be saved from the officers of the law. As every one above mentioned was in most serious earnest, the question naturally arises as to how much security there is for life and property in a country where a dead ruffian is held in higher regard than any living man in the neighborhood could hope for.

There are ninety halls in Michigan owned by the Granges. One of them is valued at $3,000, another $2,000, several at $1,500 each, thirty-eight at $1,000 and over, the balance ranging from $200 to $900 each.

A Spanish company of bull-fighters has arrived at Vera Cruz, and will travel through the country showing the natives how they kill bulls in Spain.

JOCOSITIES.

A lady says a good lawn dress should wash well. What else is a good lawn dress fit for?

The reason that a baggageman recently hurled himself from a fourth-story window was that he was insane and thought he was a trunk.

An elderly minister, at social party where the young people were dancing, being asked if he danced, replied: No, I am not educated on that end.

"I declare," said Julia, "you take the words right out of my mouth." "No wonder, they are so sweet," said Harry. The day was set that week.

The meanest man on record sent through a post office presided over by a woman, a postal-card on which was written: "Dear Jack: Here's the details of that scandal." And then the rest was Greek.

"How are you getting a long?" asked a widow of her late husband, who appeared to her at midnight as a ghost. Ghost: "Very well, indeed—much better than during my twenty years married life on earth." Widow: (delighted):—"Then you are in heaven." "Oh, no."

"Edward, what do I hear—that you have disobeyed your grandmother, who told you just now not to jump down these steps?" "Grandma didn't tell us not to, papa; she only came to the door and said: 'I wouldn't jump down those steps, boys;' and I wouldn't think she would—an 'old lady like her!"

A young man who thought he had won the heart and now asked the hand in marriage of a certain young widow, was asked by her, "What is the difference between myself and Mr. Bakley's Durham cow?" He naturally replied, "Well I don't know." "Then," said the widow, "you had better marry the cow."

Husband, dear husband, come home to me now,
The garden needs spading for peas,
The boys should be picking up stones in lot,
And you should be trimming the trees,
When will you get through with bills and resolves,
Stop talking of license and rum,
Of railroads and bridges and other such things,
And 'tend to your business at home.

Mr. Editor: Tell me why colonel
Is spelled in a stile so infolonel?
Shed one ray of light
On a sorrowful wight
Who for years has subscribed for the "Jolonel,".

One by one the roses fall;
One by one the cablers go;
Mince pies fade away in spring;
Boys begin to play base ball.
When the gentle summer comes,
With its wealth of blooming flowers,
Then a picnic gently sprouts,
In the sylvan dells and bowers.

The Brighton (England) Dolphin, viewing society at the seashore, has the following:

"A red or green plush young girl,
A Russian hare muff young girl,
A little fur capery
Æsthetic drapery,
Ten acre hat young girl."

"Dose chillen of mine, said an old First Ward colored man, 'am gittin' too high minded goin' to de public school. Guess I'll go ober to de alley back ob de grocery an' git 'lasses or fo' bar'l hoops. I'll edicate 'em a little myself."

"Let's illustrate it," hiccoughed a political orator. "It's beautiful. You see, an old farmer comes to town loaded with new wheat, an' he goes home loaded with old rye."

Translated from the Omnibus: Lady—"It is just awful—two washbasins and neither is clean!" Cookess—"O, my lady, that is the housemaid; I wash myself the whole day not!"

Class in history: Teacher—"Who was the first boy?" First boy—George Washington." Teacher—Next."Second boy—"Adam." First boy (indigantly)—"I diden't know you meant furigners."

Henry Ward Beecher told Burdett the other day that, as old as he is, he can not overcome his stage fright for a few moments when he goes on the platform. We don't blame Hank for feeling a little shy, says Bill Nye. If we had established the reputation he has, we would go on the stage disguised as a rain-water barrel or a wooden Indian.

A Texas Youth's Complaint.

Texas Siftings

There was a disagreeable scene over at the Palmer mansion last night, between Col. Floyd Palmer and his son William. Bill Palmer is an Austin boy of the modern type, who always tells his parents just what he thinks about them, regardless of their feelings. Not long since he wanted to celebrate his birthday with one of his youthful companions, so he applied to his father for an adequate appropriation. Col. Palmer, who is a close relation of William's, being his penurious father, responded with a quarter of a dollar, which bore about the same proportion to the need and expectation of Bill as did Galveston's Congressional appropriation to the one she applied for.

Billy looked at the quarter, sneered at it, and finally said to the author of his existence:

"That's a mighty slim appropriation to celebrate his thirteenth birthday of an Austin boy on; but still I dont reproach you. You are not to blame for my birthday."

"What do you mean, sir?" whooped the now thoroughly aroused father.

"I mean just what I say. If mother hadn't married such a close relation as you are, I wouldn't never have have had any birthday to celebrate, and I would be all the better off. She is the one who is to blame. She should have married a man of more liberal views, and then my father would have afforded me the means of celebrating my birthday in accordance with my social status.

Two Fat Queens.

London Letter to Inter Ocean.

There are some of Victoria's loyal subjects who say that there is no doubt that her Majesty is altogether too fond of beer, porter and sherry, and that to the frequent imbibing of these gentle potions she owes the color of her nose and the ugly spots which mar the texture of her queenly complexion. Queen Isabella of Spain is an extremely large, coarse-looking woman, without the slightest trace of true nobility in face or carriage. To see her in decollette dress at the opera, waving the fan before her red face, and gazing complacently at her big fat arms loaded with jewelry, is enough to make one shudder.

FROM THE WIRES.

Found Dead.

Moline, Ill., April 14.

Nels Cederberg, an old hermit, who lived on Rock river, and subsisted by fishing, was found dead in his skiff, entangled in some drift wood to-day. He had probably been dead several days. His dog was seen in the boat Tuesday last, but was compelled by hunger to abandon his master and swim to shore.

Clarinda, Iowa, April 14.

An old man named Montgomery, who has lived here for some time, apparently very poor, was found dead this morning at his house. On examination $2,700 was found sewed up in small quantities in his clothes.

Storms in Louisiana.

New Iberia, La., April 15.

There is general destruction in this parish; a violent storm is blowing from the Northwest, which has continued since the night of the 12th. Houses have been torn to pieces, and the fences are gone. Everything that was saved from the flood is now destroyed, and great distress prevails. Immediate relief is needed. The storm swept away forty houses at Fausse point. At least 1,500 persons are left homeless, without means of support or shelter.

Morgan City, La., April 15.—Wednesday night's storm destroyed two negro churches, several dwellings, and two or three warehouses at Atchafalaya, Cypremort, and other points in the neighborhood. At Pendely station stores and dwellings were carried away.

Financial Crash.

A Buffalo, N. Y., dispatch.

The First National Bank has closed its doors. A large number of drafts issued to live-stock dealers, drawn on the Fourth National Bank of New York on the 4th instant and since that date, were yesterday dishonored in New York. The extent of the drafts unpaid cannot be ascertained now, but it is thought to be large. The failure will seriously affect a large number of cattle-dealers, who sent their drafts in payment for stock sold by them. It is believed that the depositors will be paid in full.

Jennie Cramer's Murderers on Trial.

New Haven, Conn., April 18.

The trial of Walter E. Malley, James Malley and Annie Kearns, alias Blache Douglass, charged with the murder Jennie E. Cramer, opened in the Superior Court, this afternoon, before Judge Granger. The court assigned ex-Judge Wm. B. Stoddard and E. C. Dow to defend Blanche Douglass. It is expected that some days will be consumed in impaneling a jury.

Another Mining Horror.

Sunderland, Eng., April 18.

An explosion occurred to-day in the Blockhouse colliery. It is feared that twenty-three persons are killed. Seven have been rescued, badly burned.

Another Cyclone.

Sedalia, Mo., April 19.

A terrible cyclone visited this section last night. At Brownsville, twenty-eight brick business buildings were completely wrecked. The section house, which was about 100 yards from the depot, was blown across the track and riddled to atoms. Mrs. John Halpin and six children were occupants of the structure at the time, and they were carried with it and suffered injury more or less. Mrs. Halpin's right arm is broken, her scalp lacerated in several places, and her shoulder dislocated. A number of farm-houses in the vicinity of Brownsville are reported to have been blown down.

The total number of persons wounded and injured foots up over 150.

The City Hotel block is a complete wreck, nothing being left but a pile of bricks, mortar and debris. The body of a farmer named Matt Williams was taken from the ruins at 1:30 this afternoon. His head was mashed to a pulp.

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—The Post Dispatch special says: At Montrose, Henry county, last night, the storm entirely demolished the Baptist and Christian Churches, and did more or less damage to twenty other buildings. The Farmers' Institue school building was struck by the cyclone. There were thirty-five children in the building, and the wind carried the structure entirely away. The children in some instance were carried a long distance and a number of them were seriously hurt. The damage to the town will be nearly $20,000

At Calhoun, Henri county, a pottery building was blown in and a large amount of stock damaged.

Specials from Jefferson City say the damage at Brownsville will sum up $150,000.

THE STATE.

The Indianapolis Central Bank has closed. This is caused by a loss of $30,000 through the dishonesty of the late teller, Arthur Mueller.

While Mrs. Julius Beyers, of Butlerville, was attending the funeral of her husband, thieves forced an entrance into her house and robbed it of every thing of value.

Notre Dame university, near South Bend, claims the largest bell in the United States, (17,000 pounds) and the largest and best chime (twenty-three bells) of any college on this hemisphere.

Wm. Miller, of Knightstown, was hauling saw logs, and as he was passing through a bridge he leaned forward to evade the top of it, but was caught and crushed in such a manner that he died the same evening.

John Bodewald, an old citizen of Allen county, killed himself by putting a rifle ball into his abdomen, during a fit of insanity. He was sixty years old and leaves a wife and nine children, two of whom reside in Indianapolis.

The Supreme Court has decided that Mrs. Ellen V. Walton, accused of being a party to the murder of her husband, should be let to bail. It is said that the citizens of Greensburg are gratly incensed over this decision.

One day last week, says the Attica Ledger, a woman living a few miles south of town, whose name we could not learn, went to a neighbor's leaving her six months' babe sitting on the floor with a piece of dried beef in its hands. The house cat took possession of the beef, and the smell on the babe's fingers caused it to commence eating them. The two first fingers were badly lacerated, and the cat was still at work when the mother returned. The child is not seriously injured.

The Greenfield Democrat says: "Some days ago, at the funeral of his father, a son wanted the silver plate, marked "Our Father," removed from the casket, saying that he did not want that much silver buried. This same son, when asked for two silver half dollars to be placed over his father's eyes to close them, said that if he let them go he wanted some one to be responsible for them. He marked the money, so he could indentify it. This remarkable individual lives east of this city.

During the year ended September 4th, 1881, 14,446 pensioners in this State were paid the aggregate sum of $2,045,634.

The Central National Bank at Indianapolis turns out to be badly insolvent, so much so that it is believed that the depositors will not receive five cents on the dollar.

The fact that an outrage was perpetrated upon the child of Ed Pritchard, at Kokomo, is established beyond a doubt by the revelations of a microscope. The chain of circumstantial evidence points with almost equal certainty to Long, the man who was lynched for the crime, as the perpetrator of the outrage, and if lynching ever could be entirely justified it would be in just such a case as that was.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

Wednesday, April 12th.

Senate.—Two bills of no general interest were discussed and p

House.—A number of bills were introduced and reported. The tariff commission bill was further discussed

Thursday, April 13th.

Senate.—Bills were passed to adjust an old claim; to rectify certain duties on coffee; the Indian Territory railroad right-of way bill; the House bill appropriating $50,000 for the subsistence of certain Indians; the printing deficiency appropriation bill; to authorize a bridge across the Mississippi river; to establish an assay office in Omaha.

House.—Bills were passed to ratify an agreement with certain Indians; and the Senate bill appropriating $10,000 for a monument over the grave of Thomas Jefferson The tariff commission bill was further considered.

Friday, April 14th.

Senate.—Mr Voorhees delivered an address on the protection rights of American citizens in foreign countries, to which Mr. Sherman briefly replied.

House.—The day was spent in the consideration of a bill on private callendar, and the bill was finally killed by striking out the enacting clause.

Saturday, April 15th.

The Senate was not in session.

House.—The tariff commission bill was further discussed.

Monday, April 17.

Senate.—A number of bills were reported and introduced. One bill of no general interest was passed. The bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi river, and $1,000,000 for the improvement of the Missouri river, was considered and laid over.

House.—A resolution to meet one hour earlier each day was adopted. A number of bills were reported and introduced. A motion to suspend the rules and provide for night sessions was not agreed to. A motion to suspend the rules and make the National Bank charter bill a special order, failed for want of a two-thirds vote. After a fierce battle and commotion the rules were suspended and the bill prohibiting Chinese immigration for ten years was passed—yeas, 201; nays, 37.

Tuesday, April 18th.

Senate.—A message from the President recommended an additional appropriation of $1,010,000 for closing the gaps in the Mississippi levees. A bill to ratify a treaty with the Crow Indians, ceding a portion of their reservations in Montana was passed; also, the agricultural appropriation bill. It appropriates $414,780. The Mississippi and Missouri river improvement bill was discussed.

House.—A bill was reported appropriating $465,000 to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for printing and binding for the current year. The Utah contested election case of Campbell vs. Cannon was considered

Self-Salting Beef.

A new process of preserving meat has been introduced into England, in which, instead of steeping the carcass in an antiseptic, the preservative chemical, boracic acid, is introduced into the live animal, and by the action of the heart is sent through the blood vessels and capillaries into every part of the body. The animal is first stunned, whereupon its left jugular vein is laid bare and the liquid injected after which it takes about two minutes for it to go through the whole vascular system. Meat treated in this way can be preserved at ordinary summer temperature for five or six weeks.

Several business men of New York having identified ex-Governor Moses, of South Carolina, as a swindler, his picture has been placed in the rogue's gallery.

THE KOKOMO LYNCHING.

A Letter from Mr. Pritchard, the Father of the Little Girl Whom Long Outraged.

Chicago Herald.

The card that appeared in yesterday's Herald was evidently the joint production of a mistaken correspondent and a physician already in his dotage, or else prompted by a morbid desire to create a sensation by championing the innocence of the miserable wretch who paid the penalty of his infamous crime on Maine street bridge by hanging.

Six of the oldest and best doctors of the city examined my little child, and pronounced it an attempt to outrage before the villain who did it was known or arrested. On Tuesday after it was done, Dr. Williams, of Grant county, was called in to see her. He is a physician of twenty-one year's experience, and at the head of his profession. He said that, a few years ago, he was called to examine a little girl six years old, on whom an outrage had been committed by her father. On his testimony that man was sent to State's prison for twenty one years, but yet there were not near the evidences that the deed was done, that there were on my little girl over forty-eight hours after the outrage.

More than that, the chain of circumstances that gathered around the villain from Sunday morning to Monday night was such as to fasten the crime upon him beyond any shadow of doubt. He was seen going into the house—was identified as the man by parties who saw him. The two garments speak volumes. The little child was terribly bruised on the back, the hips and the back of the head—injuries that were not discovered until Monday, when she was so stiff as to not move her limbs without an utterance of pain.

The card in yesterday's Herald does not reflect credit on the man who wrote it. As to the opinion of Dr. Armstrong, I will say that his most intimate friends have for over a year past been more solicitous concerning his mental condition than they have about this case. Also it is but justice to add that the evidence of six reputable doctors against one recognized crank in the profession ought to satisfy the most skeptical. Aside from any opinion of the medical men, there was testimony enough to convince any sensible person of the act having been done. Would to God any doctor could tell me that my little girl was not outraged.

As to the man himself, aside from this deed. At twelve years of age his father toook him from one saloon to another in Franklin, Ind., exhibiting him as a prodigy in drinking whisky and profanity. At sixteen he attempted to rape a little German girl ten years old near that place, but was prevented by the timely intervention of other parties. At sixteen he was sentenced to the House of Refuge for robbing a saloon; at twenty-one sentenced to the Southern prison for stealing a horse, and at the time of committing the outrage here he was just ten days out of the Northern prison, and had in his possession a stolen horse, a stolen watch and a pair of stolen boots—all of which property was indentified and returned to its rightful owners. A correspondent from Franklin stated that, while his crime excited surprise, yet his violent death had been predicted by those who knew him.

Now let those who want to gush, slop over on this record. The people here, however, think the man justly hanged.

Ed Pritchard.

Sculptors' Stories.

[Chambers' Journal.]

Sculptors who execute busts often hear droll things said. Here are two anecdotes taken from a French newspaper: A sculptor had produced the likeness of a celebrated personage, in whose biography it is mentioned that he regarded architecture as a very secondary art. The son of this personage visited the artist's studio for the purpose of examining the bust, when, after considering it with the air of a connoisseur, he said: "Could you not express more clearly his contempt for architecture?"

Another time it was the husband of a beloved deceased wife, who came to see her bust. "Pray, study it well," said the artist; "it is only in the clay, and I can still alter it." The widower looked at it with the most tender interest. "It is her very self!" he exclaimed; "her large nose—the sign of goodness!" Then, bursting into tears, he added: "She was so good! Make the nose a little larger!"

The above seems capped by the personal recollection of a correspondent, who writes as follows: "Quite fifty years ago—for it was at the time that the exhibition of the Royal Academy was held in Somerset House—I was paying a visit to the room, devoted to sculpture. There were but three or four persons in the room, and the silence was complete, until it was broken by the exclamation of a girl of about 14, who was evidently under the care of a motherly sort of a woman of about 50 years of age. 'Oh, there's Lord—B!' cried the young girl; 'how like!' pointing to a bust which was, in truth, an excellent representation of a well-known statesman. 'Like!' retorted the elder personage in a tone of ineffable scorn—'like! Why, don't I know his face as well as I know yours, and isn't his nose always twitching!'"

Agriculture in America.

Most prominent among the factors that have contributed toward the extraordinary development and prosperity of agriculture in the United States is, unquestionably, the great native fertility of soils, as yet unexhausted in the newer States and Territories, which are thus enabled to pour out upon the East and upon Europe the accumulated soil treasures of many ages. That these cannot hold but forever, or even for many years to come, is an inexorable law of nature; and the steady diminution of production per acre in the States east of the Mississippi River, resulting in their increasing in ability to compete in the growing of cereals with a newer State, has long given warning that the experience of the Old World is being repeated on the new continent, and that the old and ever-recurring question is upon us of maintaining profitable productiveness by means of systematic culture and return to the soil.

Whether this question shall be allowed to assume the aspect of the menace that annually confronts the European agriculturist,—"No manure, no crops,"—or whether an ounce of intelligent prevention shall forestall the heavy burdens that will otherwise rest upon the coming generation and its industries, is the issue that must largely be determined by enlightened government action, in the face of the already inveterate bad habits of the vast majority of American farmers, that are, as usual, promptly adopted by the European immigrant. The ravaging of the virgin soils by cropping without change or even the slightest attempt at returns, followed by the "turning-out" of the "tired" land, and, too often, by the washing away of the surface soil from the hard plow sole formed by shallow tillage, not uncommonly resulting in the definitive ruin of the land for agricultural purposes, is repeated more or less in every newly settled region. Deserted homesteads, and melancholy old fields scarred with gullies, mar the face of the land in the rear of the pioneer farmer, and impose upon his steadier successor a heavy tax, in the way of reclamation, on soils that, if rationally cultivated, would not have felt the need of manure for scores of years. For the want of the most rudimentary knowledge of agricultural facts and principles, the planters of the South have for three-quarters of a century wasted nine crops of cotton for every one made, by failing to utilize the chief product of their fields—cotton seed—for returns to the soil, which needs but little more to maintain its full productiveness forever. Such a crying evil as this would hardly have been allowed to exist so long in any country less averse to the least semblance of paternal government, without something more than the faint warnings and remonstrances uttered from time to time in the periodical press, or in government documents. The great perfection attained by agricultural implements for large-scale culture, under the hands of American inventive skill, serves but to add to the rapidity with which the process of soil devastation is carried forward into new fields.

A Wife's Practical Joke.

Burlington Hawkeye.

A Burlington man recently wedded a young wife. The lady became enthused over Will Carleton's tale of the elopement of a handsome young woman with a "handsome man," and determined to try the same thing herself. She wrote a neat little note, stating that she had left home with a gentleman whom she had dearly loved before she had met her husband, and that he need not trouble himself to look for them.

Then she called in her younger brother and went calling with him, arranging to return and hide where she could witness her liege lord's dismay when he came to read of her flight. She from her place of concealment saw him enter, saw him look all around in surprise at her absence, and finally saw him discover the note. He opened and read it, while her heart beat high with excitement in anticipation of the breaking out she expected to hear.

The poor fellow finished the cruel missive, tore it up and threw the fragments on the floor, and then, without a moment's warning, drew a pistol and fired point blank at his breast, and fell without a sign of life to the carpet.

With a terrified scream the woman was at her husband's side in a moment, lifting his head, rolling him, shaking him, turning him, and hunting for blood, all the time shrieking for her William to speak to her, to forgive her, to only look at her. William lay motionless, however, and the neighborhood, aroused by the shot and screams, came flocking in to learn of the excitement, when suddenly, when a score or more had gathered, the dead leaped up from the floor as well as ever, at which the wife fainted away. She soon revived, however, and then it all came out that the younger brother, being in sympathy with William, had let him into the scheme, and he had chosen that mode of punishing his joking wife. She jokes no more, but her husband has compromised on a pony phaeton to keep peace in the family.

American Women the Best Dressed.

From the London Daily News.

American women are unquestionably the best dressed nowadays. Why it should be so is a question too profound to enter on here. Much and subtle analysis would have to be expended on that problem. One explanation which seems to lie on the surface may be that while deciding with authorities on questions of taste, and fully competent to judge them, they bring to the business a certain originality of conception and national freshness of idea which pervades the result, making it not only charming in itself but exactly suitable to the wearer. American women—those at least who visit Europe—have generally the pull over the English women in money matters, and, as we said before, they not only have the money to spend, but like spending it on dress. But besides that, there is a discernment of the fitting, a happiness of choice, which they bring to, rather than find in, the studies of the high art of dress. High art, by the way, is woefully wanted just now to ward off certain deformities the feminine part of human race is threatened with. Tight lacing, a vice always lying in wait, is now openly advocated and enjoined. The waist is to resemble in roundness and harshness the mainmast of a ship, only it must not be thicker than a spar. High, square shoulders are "in;" and the ladies whose graceful sloping lines were once the admiration of the world, now insert hoops of whalebone in their sleeves, to preserve unbroken the straight line from the neck to the top of the arm.

Masonry in France.

To be a high Mason in France is a matter of much time. They are not allowed to climb the ladder to preferment in a few weeks or months, to its topmost round, but have to wait with patience until they have progressed in knowledge before taking an advanced step in each instance. Hence all, or nearly all, those who have attained to the chapter, council or consistory are men of solid habits, of high moral principle, who practice what they profess, and have reached and passed the middle of the stream of life. To be a master mason there is to have obtained an honorable distinction which is not to be despised, and a master is looked up to by an apprentice with respect far greater than one in a similar position would show a 33° in America.

The blessed work of helping the world forward happily does wait for perfect men.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

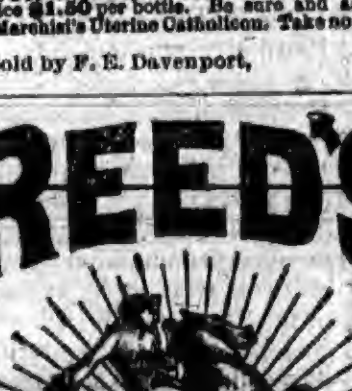
Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhea, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

REED'S



GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

[illegible] Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAMARITAN
NERVINE.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my little girl of fits. She was also deaf and dumb, but it cured her. She can now talk and hear as well as anybody.
Peter Ross, Springwater, Wis.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has been the means of curing my wife of rheumatism. J. B. Fletcher, Fort Collins, Col.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Made a sure cure of a case of fits for my son.
E B Ralls, Hiattsville, Kan.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of vertigo, neuralgia and sick headache. Mrs Wm Henson, Aurora, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Was the means of curing my wife of spasms.
Rev J A Edie, Beaver, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of asthma, after spending over $3,000 with other doctors.
S B Hobson, New Albany, Ind.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Effectually cured me of spasms.
Miss Jennie Warren,
740 West Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured our child of fits after given up to die by our family physician, it having over 100 in 24 hours.
Henry Kner, Vervilla, Warren Co., Tenn.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of scrofula after suffering for eight years. Albert Simpson, Peoria, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my son of fits, after spending $2,400 with other doctors.
J W Thornton, Claiborn, Miss.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me permanently of epileptic fits of a stubborn character.
Rev Wm Martin, Mechanicstown, Md.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my son of fits, after having had 2,500 in eighteen months.
Mrs E Fobes, West Potsdam, N Y.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of epilepsy of nine years' standing. Miss Orlena Marshall,
Granby, Newton Co., Mo.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has permanently cured me of epilepsy of many years duration. Jacob Suter,
St. Joseph, Mo.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of bronchitis, asthma and general debility. Oliver Myers, Irontown, Ohio.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has cured me of asthma; also scrofula of many years standing. Isaac Jewell,
Covington, Ky.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured me of fits. Have been well for over four years. Charles E Curtis,
Osakis, Douglass Co., Minn.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured a friend of mine who had the dyspepsia very badly. Michael O'Connor,
Ridgway, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Has permanently cured me of epileptic fits,
David Trembly, Des Moines, Iowa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my wife of epilepsy of 35 years standing. Henry Clark, Fairfield, Mich.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my wife of nervous disease of the head
E Graham, North Hope, Pa.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cured my son of fits. He has not had a fit for about four years. John Davis,
Woodburn, Macoupin Co., Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
IS FOR SALE
BY ALL DRUGGISTS

Or may be had direct from us. For further information inclose stamp for our Illustrated Journal giving evidence of cures.

Address
DR. S. A. RICHMOND & CO.,
World's Epileptic Institute,
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY.

BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thereby re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had epilepsy from weakness, for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 18th, '79.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 22, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another [illegible] for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 21.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will cure him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2, '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way, and wish one No. 3 box.

DR. BUTTS
DISPENSARY.

Established 1847 at 12 N. 8th Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

THE Physicians in charge of this old and well known institution are regular graduates in medicine and surgery. Years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases have made their skill and ability so much superior to that of the ordinary practitioner, that they have acquired a national reputation through their treatment of complicated cases.

INDISCRETION OR EXPOSURE [illegible] of the blood, skin or bones, treated with success on scientific principles, without using mercury or other Poisonous Medicines and at moderate expense.

YOUNG MEN [illegible]

PATIENTS TREATED [illegible]

OZONE
—THE—
KING FORTUNE MAKER

The Only Practical Preservative of Perishable Articles, both Animal and Vegetable, Preventing Decay or Putrefaction.

[illegible] Preserves Meats, Eggs, Fish, etc., indefinitely and with complete success.

EGGS can be purchased when cheapest, and preserved for any length of time, at a cost of One Mill per dozen, and other articles at same proportionate cost.

There is a Gold Mine in every County in this State for some live man.

TEST PACKAGES OF OZONE

Containing sufficient material to preserve from 500 to 1,000 dozen Eggs, sent to any address upon receipt of $1.00.

INDIANA DEPARTMENT

PRENTISS PRESERVING CO.

Address, JOSEPH BROWN,
La Fayette, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED
IN EVERY COUNTY,

Who should order a Test Package and secure County AT ONCE.

CARPETS!
CARPETS! CARPETS!

RUGS!
RUGS!!
RUGS!!!

WINDOW SHADES
IN ALL COLORS.

LACE
CURTAINS
—AT—
MODERWELL AND STUDOR'S,
CARPET HOUSE.
36 East Berry St. - Ft. W

SORE EYES.
Dr. E. C. Yetter,
—THE—
EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

Is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 188[illegible], for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He [illegible]

SPECTACLES

[illegible]

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box 1[illegible]. 3-tf.

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.
Manufacturers of the
Best and Lightest-Running
Wagon

NOW IN THE MARKET

Nothing but first-class material is used, and consequently the work is warranted. Repairing of all kinds done promptly. Shop on [illegible] Main street, Auburn, Ind. 21 tf

New Meat Market
[illegible] grocery store, where he will keep at all times the very best

Beef,
Pork,
Bologna,
Stuffed Puddings,
Etc.

He will be found pleasant to customers. He has a good Refrigerator, and his customers can always feel sure of getting cool, fresh meats. Any one making previous arrangements can get their meat on Sunday by calling for it from 8 to 9 o'clock a. m.

Persons having stock for sale should give him a call. tf

W. L. BRAUN.

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway.

Condensed time-card in effect Dec. 18, 1881.

STATIONS.	GOING EAST.
Chicago Lv.	3 30am	8 30am	3 30pm	9 30p
Ft. Wayne	2 30pm	2 15	11 35	5 15a
Crestline	9 25	12 45am	4 30am	10 20
Mansfield	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pittsburgh Ar.	6 00am	6 57	1 40pm	6 3p

STATIONS.	GOING WEST.
Pittsburgh	8 00am	7 00am	pm	10 5?p
Mansfield	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Crestline Lv.	7 15pm	2 01pm	am	7 a
Ft. Wayne	12 30am	8 35	5 40	1 ??p
Chicago Ar.	6 30	10 30	11 00	7 30p

NOTE: Accommodation train leaves Plymouth daily, except Sunday at 7:15 am.; Warsaw, 8:15 a. m.; Columbia, 7:35 a. m.; Ft. Wayne, 10:15 a. m.

Accommodation train leaves Fort Wayne daily except Sunday, at 4:00 p. m.; Arrives at Columbia 5:45 p. m.; Warsaw, 5:50 p.m.; Plymouth, 6:8 p. m.

Paved with Extinct Stars.

In a recent scientific paper Sir John Lubbock says: "Like the sand of the sea, the stars of heaven have ever been used as effective symbols of number, and the improvements in our methods of observations have added fresh force to our original observations. We know that our earth is but a fraction of one out of at least 75,000,000 worlds. But this is not all. In addition to the luminous heavenly bodies, we can not doubt that there are countless others, invisible to us from their great distance, smaller size, or feebler light; indeed, we know that there are many dark bodies which now emit no light or comparatively little. Thus in the case of Procyon, the existence of an invisible body is proved by the movement of the visible star. Again I may refer to the curious phenomena presented by Algol, a bright star in the head of Medusa. This star shines without change for two days and thirteen hours; then, in three hours and a half, dwindles from a star of the second to one of the fourth magnitude; and then, in another three and a half hours, reassumes its original brilliancy. These changes seem certainly to indicate the presence of an opaque body which intercepts at regular intervals part of the light emitted by Algol. Thus the floor of Heaven is not only "thick inlaid with patines of bright gold," but studded also with extinct stars—once probably as brilliant as our own sun, but now dead cold, as Helmholt tells us that our sun itself will be, some seventeen millions of years hence."

Another Boom for Indiana.

Plain Dealer: In 1879 the wheat crop of Indiana placed her in the front rank as the first state in the Union for wheat. In 1882, if appearances are not deceitful, the state will again walk off with the honors. A few weeks ago the prospect in northern Indiana was not the brightest, but other sections of the state reported favorably and the general average was considered good. Since then the condition in this section of the state has changed, favorable weather bringing forward the wheat rapidly, and now, from one side of the state to the other, the fields are green and rich-looking, and the earth is rolling in fatness. With another large wheat crop this year, business in the state will receive a boom that will place us on a secure financial foundation that will endure for years to come.

* * *

General Longstreet, who commanded the confederate brigade that held the rebel lines before Petersburgh at the time General Grant fired the mine beneath it, gave us the following account of the affair: The upburst of earth at the explosion was accompanied by a terrific noise. At the same moment, there opened along the entire federal line a tremendous fire of artillery. The heavens were darkened with dust and smoke. A panic ensued, and, looking around him, General Longstreet found his had disappeared; not a soldier to be seen. He knew that they had not been killed, but that, in the panic, they had found shelter. Reviewing the position, he rode his horse to a prominence overlooking the field. Deliberately he dismounted, ungirthed his saddle, adjusted its cloth, resaddled his horse and mounted. From out their hiding-places, then, came his men, one by one, then in [illegible], till, in a short time, no word having been spoken, no command having been given, there, silently, in companies and in regiments, was reformed his broken command. He gave the word to retire, and carried off his battalion in good order.

* * *

Elkhart Monitor: At noon to day, while engineer Jack Cummins was at dinner, two boys, one white and one colored, boarded his engine for the purpose of having some fun, playing fireman and engineer. They took their respective stations and assumed their respective duties. The amateur engineer opened the throttle and backed the engine into a car and that car into three more, throwing them all off the track and wrecking them badly. A closed switch turned the engine upon a side track, thus avoiding collision with other trains. The engine finally brought up against the backing post. The boys hastily left the scene of their experiments and it is not known conclusively who they are.

* * *

Kendallville Standard: By a recent letter from our old-time friend, J. F. Radcliffe, formerly of this place and Waterloo, we learn that he is prospering finely at his home in Hersey, Mich. He owns 200 acres of land, runs a printing office, has a nice home in the town, is justice of the peace, express agent, etc. The good part of it is, that he is out of debt. Rad's many friends in Kendallville, and DeKalb county, will be glad to learn of his prosperity.

* * *

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has rapidly made its way to favor among druggists, who have observed its effects on the health of their customers. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for pamphlets. 16-2w.

A pound of Cotton.

The New York Journal of Commerce has a correspondent who asks "how far a pound of upland cotton would extend if each filament were placed end to end? In other words, what is the maximum fineness of cotton yarn mathematically? How many filaments of middling uplands could be laid side by side within an inch? Or what is the diameter of each filament? I would like to know the same as to Sea Island cotton." And in replying says that "a pound of middling upland cotton would extend on an average, each filament being laid end to end, about 600 miles. Forty years ago yarn was spun at Houldsworth's mill, at Manchester, No. 460 fine, and out of a single pound of cotton, of course finer than upland, a thread was made about 230 miles in length. For the exhibition of 1851 another Manchester spinner made from a pound of cotton a thread of 332 miles and 1,120 yards. Still finer threads have since been spun, but we have not the exact dimensions. The fibers of cotton are flat, and the surface is not straight, but twisted. From 500,000 to 3,000,000 could be laid side by side within an inch, according to the fineness and the way the fibers were adjusted." According to the foregoing estimates, the filaments of forty-one pounds of cotton, laid end to end, would reach around the world.

* * *

CUTTING STONE WITH STONE.—It has been held by some archæologists that various sculpturings could not have been cut without the use of iron tools; but others have of late years succeeded in reproducing similar markings on granite slabs, using solely stone implements; and in doing so they found that diorite and other such tough stones cut the granite better than flint. This corresponds with the practice of the stonecutters of the present time, whose steel tools for cutting granite are of a much softer temper than those they use for cutting sandstone. The great sculptured stone of Montezuma, in Mexico, is a striking proof of the extent to which granite can be sculptured with stone implements. Gama, in his work describing this stone, states that 10,000 Indians were employed in transporting it to the city of Mexico, where it was sculptured by thirty workmen with stone axes.

* * *

MONEY TO LOAN.—The undersigned is desirous of loaning $16,000 at reasonable rates on good mortgage security. Applications for loans can be made to me at the office of James E. Rose, in Auburn.
14-tf. A. CONANT.

Affection of a Dog and a Cat.

The strange friendship that is often formed between animals of different species finds a good illustration in the actions of a dog and cat belonging to a family residing on the east side of the river. The dog is an intelligent specimen of the brown spaniel breed, and the cat is an ordinary maltese of the feminine gender. During the winter the cat and dog occupy the same bed in the kitchen, the latter drawing himself together after the manner of canines, and the former nestling into the space between the dog's legs and head. In this manner the cat's body is concealed from sight, her head projecting form the—to her—comfortable bed. Early in the morning the dog leaves the cat and goes to another room for a short nap. When the members of the family arise the cat arises also, and, seeking out the dog, proceeds to wash his face. The dog lying down, the cat takes her position in front of him, and by means of her fore paws and tongue makes the dog's toilet in good shape. If the latter attempts to get up before his face is nicely washed, the cat gently fastens one set of claws to the dog's ear, and holds him until the toilet-making is complete. The facial expression of the canine while undergoing the tonsorial treatment of his feline friend is a study, and has proved a great source of amusement to the family and to friends who have chanced to see the performance of the two animals.—Rochester Union.

James Bird, of Perry's Victory.

A recent gale uprooted a tree on Presque Isle, and the roots dragged up two skeletons. The owner of one James Bird, who "died on Lake Erie's distant shore," has been the subject of sentimental poetry all through Pennsylvania for the last seventy years. During the war of 1812 James Bird and Ed. Rankin were buried at the spot over which the tree grew and flourished. Bird's death was poetized, and he was considered a hero and martyr, falling beneath a dozen bullets a moment before his pardon arrived. He was tried and shot for desertion.

How to Get Well.

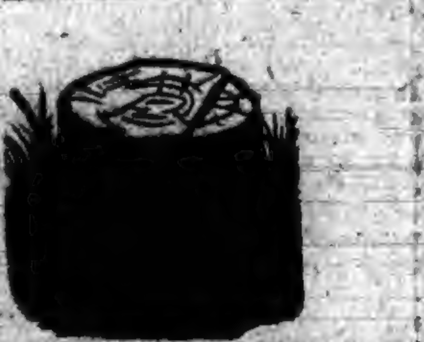
Thousands of persons are constantly troubled with a combination of diseases. Diseased kidneys and costive bowels are their tormentors. They should know that Kidney-Wort acts on these organs at the same time, causing them to throw off the poisons that have clogged them, and so renewing the whole man. Hundreds testify to this.—[Pittsburgh Post.

JOS. ABRIGHT,
—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,		Castors Castors,
	Clocks, Clocks,
Spoons, Spoons,		Knives, Knives,
	Forks, Forks,
Chains, Chains,		Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sel you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.



This Looks Pretty Solid.

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER
IN THE WORLD FOR
REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,
GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
51 S. MERIDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

HUGHES & HUMPHREYS
SLATE ROOFERS,

First Premium on Ornamental Work.
All Work Guaranteed Water Proof. } FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B[illegible]

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALID'S FRIEND and HOPE," and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco, and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE GREAT CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

As it is for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, LIVER AND BOWELS.

It cleanses the system of the acrid poison that causes the dreadful suffering which only the victims of Rheumatism can realize.

THOUSANDS OF CASES

of the worst forms of this terrible disease have been quickly relieved, in a short time

PERFECTLY CURED.

KIDNEY-WORT

has had wonderful success, and an immense sale in every part of the Country. In hundreds of cases it has cured where all else had failed. It is mild, but efficient, CERTAIN IN ITS ACTION, but harmless in all cases.

It cleanses, Strengthens and gives New Life to all the important organs of the body. The natural action of the Kidneys is restored. The Liver is cleansed of all disease, and the Bowels move freely and healthfully. In this way the worst diseases are eradicated from the system.

As it has been proved by thousands that is the most effectual remedy for cleansing the system of all morbid secretions. It should be used in every household as a

KIDNEY-WORT

SPRING MEDICINE.

Always cures BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, PILES and all FEMALE Diseases.

Is put up in Dry Vegetable Form, in tin cans, one package of which makes 6 quarts medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated for the convenience of those who cannot readily prepare it. It acts with equal efficiency in either form. GET IT OF YOUR DRUGGIST. PRICE, $1.00 WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Prop's, (Will send the dry post-paid.) BURLINGTON, VT.

KIDNEY-WORT

MUSIC MONEY
$35.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Fester's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $25 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send a 3-cent stamp to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

2 CARD COLLECTORS! Send a stamp and receive by return mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards, photograph, picture & chromo.

BOYS send a 3-cent stamp for mail a package including 6 no cards.

Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO. 10-13w.

Sixth Season DETROIT EVENING NEWS' EXCURSIONS
From Detroit to the Sea,

Via Grand Trunk R. R. and St. Lawrence River Steamers, through the THOUSAND ISLANDS and FAMOUS RAPIDS, to MONTREAL, WHITE MOUNTAINS, and SEA SHORE at PORTLAND, ME., near Boston; thence back to Detroit, via Quebec, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, will leave Detroit July 5, 20 & 27.

$30.00 for the round trip of over 2,000 miles.

Special trains on the G. T. R. R., and special Steamers on the St. Lawrence River.

Each tour personally conducted by W. H. BREARLEY, of the DETROIT EVENING NEWS.

All tickets good to September 3d.

Send 3-cent stamp for circular.

A superb new Illustrated Guide Book, with descriptions and information, over 40 maps engraved especially for this edition, and a perfect copy of an oil painting, in 10 colors, of Glen Ellis Falls (near Glen House) for the first page of cover, will be sent to any address for 30 cents. Address W. H. BREARLEY, Office Detroit Evening News.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S NEW, SURE, PAINLESS METHOD PATENTED

OVER 3,000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR. BRINKERHOFF. CURE WARRANTED.

FISTULA, FISSURES, ULCERS, CONSTIPATION CAN BE CURED

[illegible]

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881.

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 35am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 45	11 30	5 30	12 10pm
Corunna	2 55		6 25
Sedan			7 05	2 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	[illegible]
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	[illegible]
Toledo	5 40	2 40	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 25pm	2 20	4 30pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 40	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 10	10 30
Kendallville	2 30	3 00	5 35	11 30
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	6 35	4 20
Chicago	7 00	8 [illegible]

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m. and arrives at Toledo at 10:30 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:00 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:30 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and baggage checked to passengers and baggage. J. H. CURTISS, Supt. [illegible] Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to [illegible] ARMSTRONG, Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT [illegible] JANUARY 22, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & O. Ex.
Chicago		8 30pm	9 10pm	8 00am
Walkerton Junction		[illegible]	[illegible]
Milford Junction		[illegible]	[illegible]
Syracuse		[illegible]	[illegible]
Cromwell		[illegible]	[illegible]
Albion		[illegible]	[illegible]
Avilla		[illegible]	[illegible]
Garrett	10 35	[illegible]	[illegible]
Auburn Junction	10 46	[illegible]	3 40
St. Joe		[illegible]	[illegible]
Hicksville		[illegible]	[illegible]
Defiance	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Deshler	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Fostoria	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tiffin	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Chicago Junction	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Fostoria	10 54	[illegible]	[illegible]
Deshler	11 58	[illegible]	10 00
Defiance	12 56am	[illegible]	11 40
Hicksville		11 48	12 30pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 20	12 ??am	1 20
Garrett	2 45	12 32	1 35
Avilla		12 36	1 52
Albion		12 58	2 30
Cromwell		[illegible]	2 48
Syracuse		1 30	3 02
Milford Junction		1 45	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 00	4 [illegible]
Chicago ar.	[illegible]	5 30	7 [illegible]

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad.
SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest, including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas, Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Direct route to Baltimore and Washington via Auburn Junction and the B. & O. R. R.

Time card takes effect Dec. 19, 1881.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 35pm	7 35am
Saginaw	6 20	7 55
Lansing	9 25	10 25
Grand Rapids	10 20	5 00	11 35am
Detroit	9 50	7 00	6 35pm
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 40	[illegible]
Jackson Lv.	7 15am	12 00 m	7 00
Hanover	7 50	12 35pm	7 40
Jonesville	8 15	12 55	8 00
Bankers	8 20	1 12	8 30
Reading	8 42	1 22	9 15
Montgomery	8 55	1 40	10 05
Fremont	9 12	2 00	10 35
Angola	9 30	2 10	11 05
Pleasant Lake	9 40	2 20	11 40
Waterloo	10 02	2 52	12 35am
Auburn	10 12	3 02	7 35
Auburn Junction	10 17	3 22	8 00
Arrive Ft. Wayne	11 15	4 20	9 00
Indianapolis	5 20pm	10 50	5 20pm
Cincinnati	8 35		7 30
Louisville	10 15	7 35am
St. Louis		8 45
Washington		9 00pm
Baltimore		10 15

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Leave Baltimore	9 10am		8 10pm
Washington	10 20		9 35
St. Louis	6 40pm		7 50am
Louisville		8 00am
Cincinnati	9 00	7 25am	2 10pm
Indianapolis	4 30am	11 00
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 40pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 08	3 20
Waterloo	1 00	6 21	4 00
Pleasant Lake	1 20	6 51	4 30
Angola	1 30	7 05	5 20
Fremont	1 46	7 22	5 50
Montgomery	2 00	7 40	6 15
Reading	2 15	7 53	6 40
Bankers	2 27	8 05	7 05
Jonesville	2 42	8 20	7 35
Hanover	3 07	8 47	8 20
Jackson	3 40	9 25pm	9 25am
Ann Arbor	5 07		10 54
Detroit	6 20	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 20	7 20am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 20	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	10 55
Bay City	9 20	11 50am

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C. east—12 40, 5 00, 7 15, 9 30 a. m., 3 45, 4 05, 9 23 p. m.; west—12 45, 3 50, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 35, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 20 a. m., 5 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 10 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 5 35 a. m., 12 30, 5 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S. east 5 53 a. m. 3 55 p. m.; west 9 40 a. m. 12 30, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S. east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m. freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 3 30, 11 35 p. m. west 2 15 a. m., 1 30 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 3 44 a. m., 3 20, 10 24 p. m.; west, 2 00 a. m., 12 45 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m., 2:49 p. m.; west—11:06 am. m., 7:31 p. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 10 a. m., 5 30 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m. 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 5 30, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 & 05 p. m. G. R. & I. [illegible] Ft. W. leave 6 15 a. m. 2 00 p. m.; ar. 3 00, 7 15 p. m. P., Ft. W. & C. east, 5 00 a. m., 3 35, 5 00, 9 00, 11 41 p. m.; west 12 30, 6 30, a. m., 12 40, 3 35, 6 35 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Rec'r Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l F'r & Pass'r Agent

$1,000 Reward.

for any case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated or Protruding PILES that DeBING'S PILE REMEDY fails to cure. Prepared by J. P. Miller, M. D., 918 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. None genuine without his signature. Send for circular. All druggists or general stores have it, or will get it for you. Sold by Davenport the druggist.

Recorder

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, MAY 4, 1882. Number 18.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line [illegible] cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. Jones' store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections. Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. bank room, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. [illegible] in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Auburn, Indiana.

WILLIAM H. BECKER, Attorney and Counselor at law. Special attention given to [illegible] practice, estates, municipal, railroad [illegible] supreme court practice in Indiana, [illegible] New York and other states. Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEMMING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and [illegible]. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Auburn, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite R. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 23 ly

HUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor [illegible], Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES INUS, Proprietor.

J. R. CASEBEER, M. D.

T. G. MAHENEY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Drs. Casebeer, Maheney and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and [illegible] business. They are prepared to answer every [illegible]. Office at the Physicians' Drug Store, [illegible].

D. J. SWARTS M. D. VESTA M. SWARTS M. D.

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence, North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swarts at home from four p. m. to six p. m. [illegible] on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swarts speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY PROBST, Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee. June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. WILLIAM S. DANCER, Trustee. tf

April 18, 1882.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK OPLIGER, Trustee, April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

Liquor License.

NOTICE is hereby given to the citizens of Richland township, DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said township, over twenty-one years of age, will make application to the board of commissioners of said county, at their June session, 1882, for license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a less quantity than a quart at a time, at, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit: Lot No. three (3), in McMillan's first addition to the town of Corunna, in said township and county. JAMES W. OPLINGER. 16

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of William J. Wyatt, deceased,—Elmore Y. Wyatt, administrator,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the [illegible] day of [illegible], and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares. Witness, The clerk of said court, this 23rd day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk. 17-3w.

Final Settlement Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Levi Nelson, deceased, —Daniel Tomlinson, administrator,—to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of May, 1882, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares. Witness, The clerk of said court, this 24th day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk. 17-3w.

Notice of Settlement.

Notice is hereby given, that the administrator of the estate of Elisha W. Beard, deceased, has filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, his account current with the estate of said decedent, and that the same will be heard by the DeKalb circuit court, on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1882, the same being the first judicial day of the May term, 1882, of said court. Creditors, heirs and legatees of said decedent, therefore, are hereby notified to appear in said court on said day, and show cause why such account should not be approved.

Witness, My name and seal of said court, at Auburn, this 22nd day of April, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk. [SEAL.]

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The democracy of the 12th congressional district are hereby notified to meet in delegate convention, as ordered by the democratic congressional committee of said district, at Kendallville, Noble county, on

THURSDAY JUNE 1ST, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of organization, the appointment of committees, the nomination of a candidate for congress, and the transaction of such other business as may be necessary to perfect the work of the convention. The basis of representation fixed by the committee, will consist of one delegate for every 200 votes cast for the democratic candidate for governor in 1880, and one vote for every fraction of 100 and over.

The following is the apportionment of delegate votes to the several counties in the district, in said convention:

COUNTIES.	VOTES.	DELEGATES.
Allen	7444	37
DeKalb	2530	13
Lagrange	1374	7
Noble	2926	14
Steuben	1290	6
Whitley	2402	12
Total number of delegate votes		89

Necessary to a choice, 45 votes.

The congressional committee is requested to meet at 9 o'clock a. m., prior to the convention, meeting on the day and at the place fixed for the holding of said convention.

CHARLES A. MUNSON, Chairman.

E. W. BROWN, Secretary.

LONE JACK, Mo., Sept. 14, 1879.

I have been using Hop Bitters, and have received great benefit from them for liver complaint and malarial fever. They are superior to all other medicines. P. M. BARNES.

Mr. S. C. Martin captured a litter of eight wolf cubs last Sunday, accidentally running upon them while viewing his crops. He delivered them to the county on Tuesday at five dollars a head.—[Valparaiso Vidette.

A good story is told of the students of an institute which is located in the New England States. A year or two since, just before lent, the principal of the school lectured the boys upon the propriety of abstaining from some accustomed article of diet during lent, and desired each one to write the name of the article upon a slip of paper, and hand them to him the next morning at the opening of the school. The papers were handed in, and upon every one was written the significant word "Hash."

A Healthy State.

People are constantly changing their homes from east to west and from north to south or vice versa, in search of a healthy state. If they would learn to be contented, and to use the celebrated Kidney-Wort when sick, they would be much better off. The whole system can be kept in a healthy state by this simple but effectual remedy. See large advertisement.

Work on the creamery building has been commenced, and it is expected to be ready for business by May 1. It is situated just west of Dr. McConnell's. The main building will be 20x40, one story and basement, and there will also be an engine house about 12x16. The establishment will be managed by J. B. Boon, late of Independence, Iowa, who has had a large amount of experience in the business. It is expected the cream from at least 500 cows will be collected. There will be six routes and the collectors will drive out about ten miles. Cans in which to place the milk will be furnished the farmers at a nominal price. These cans are about eighteen inches deep and eight and a quarter inches in diameter. A glass gauge near the top shows the thickness of the cream which will be paid for by the inch, the price varying according to the price of butter in the New York market. Two inches of cream will make a pound of butter. We trust that the creamery will be liberally patronized, for we are certain that the owners of cows will find it much more profitable than to try to convert the cream into butter themselves.—[Steuben Republican.

Blood Will Tell.

Having arrived on the Fort Wayne fair grounds, with forty Short Horn Kentucky cattle, consisting of the fashionable and popular families: Young Mary, Rose of Sharon, Desdemona, Lady Jane, Frantic, Fashions, Rosamonds, Stattella, Rosemary, Anabella, Ianthia, Beauty, Flora, Ruby, Snowdrop, Pansy, Emma, Cleopatra, Adelaide, Arabella, White Rose. All highly bred out at top of pedigrees with Oxfords and Dukes, crosses. Sixteen of which are young bull ready for service; twenty-four cows and heifers, several with young calves by their side. All of which I will sell low according to blood and breeding. Will keep constantly on hand representatives of the best bloods of Kentucky. Farmers please call and see me. D. T. STANTON. 15-2w

Franklin Items.

[Last Week.]

MR. EDITOR: How is it that Franklin cannot find an itemiser for your valuable paper? I have looked "frequently if not oftener" for news items from this corner of the vineyard, but to no purpose; and, if acceptable, I will "semi-occasionally if not oftener," jot down items of news, with occasionally a digression on fancies, opinions, etc. This undertaking may continue until some one better qualified for the task takes up the faber.

Jay B. Boyer's health continues poor. One day this week, the doctor—Brown, of Hamilton,—concluded it was not necessary to continue his visits, but the next day he was sent for again.

Oliver Boyer, of Kansas, is here waiting on his brother Jay.

We have met the enemy and they are not ours.

The old Boyer place, on the Waterloo and Hamilton road, in section 17, has finally passed into the hands of strangers. Peter Boyer, with his son Joseph, lately deceased, settled on this place in 1836, and it has been owned by the family until it was sold lately, by the executor of the will of said Joseph. The purchasers are Oscar Taylor and M. J. Waterman. While speaking of the Boyer place, it might not be improper to say that Peter Boyer died, or was killed in 1838. He with Elijah Waterman had been out to the prairies, the Egypt of those days, for corn, and bought some young apple trees, and in returning Mr. Boyer fell from his load, and the injuries received by the fall caused his death. The trees bought at that time were set out, and produced the old orchards on the Boyer and Waterman places.

The northwest part of this township has been sorely afflicted the latter part of winter and early spring. There has been much sickness and several deaths. The sickness has been lung fever. Those who have died were Mrs. Ira Nelson and two of her children, Daniel Stambaugh, Eli Clark, and lately, in the same vicinity, in the edge of Steuben county, a daughter of William Thrush.

Andy VanWagoner's wife is enjoying very poor health.

The aged Mrs. Philip Mann, Sr., has become entirely helpless and speechless. She is with her son Edwin.

The past has been rather a mild winter, but there has been some cold spells that has made it a regular "shiver de freeze," with youngsters whose parents could not save enough out of their daily wages of seventy-five cents, after buying sufficient food to keep the wolf from the door, to pay the eight per cent. tribute to the manufacturing nabobs in order to procure blankets to keep them warm.

Oh, for a Jackson, a Benton, a Wright to meet those leeches, instead of our temporizing Hendricks and Vorhees.

Cal. Thurston, the veteran teacher, who had lately built a large bank barn on his farm near the Center, has thrown up the sponge and moved to Butler and gone to railroading.

J. A. S. (Alex) Hammond has built a large bank barn.

Oscar Taylor has been having some extra fixings (as our old friend Hutcheson would say, "fub dubs,) put on his porches.

Alfred Kepler has commenced work on his new brick house. The walls for the cellar are now being built.

The wheat on the ground looks rather poorly in this township, but the farmers must pay tribute to the manufactories "allee samee.

John Taylor has bought back the old Edward Taylor place. John is one of our most thrifty farmers.

It is believed that the late hard freezes have killed at least a portion of the cherries and peaches.

Oat sowing is about over.

That energetic farmer, Jeff Betz, says he has all his oats sown and a large share of his corn ground plowed.

M. Brown continues on the Andy Smith place another year.

James A. Hammond has bought and moved on a farm near the old Dirrin school-house. He is a son of Eli Hammond.

James Kelley, Jr., son of Thomas Kelley, has left this township and moved down on the old Richmond place near Newville.

F. T.

—You can save money by buying your wall paper and window shades of Davenport. His stock is complete, patterns elegant and prices way down. Come and see. 16-3

Additional Local.

—The election is over.

—Hank Leah has made a mash.

—A favorite exclamation—A lass!

—Nature's tailoring—A potato patch.

—A powder-mill—A duel with pistols.

—A bad policy—One that has expired.

—The real yellow fever—Greed for gold.

—Can a pretty woman be a plain cook?

—Try our 25c Japan tea. McQuiston & Long. 6-3

—Early Rose potatoes, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—When is a cat like a tea-pot—When you're teasin it.

—Billy Little talks of starting a shoe shop here again.

—Now the fair sex can clean house with some comfort.

—Five cakes of good soap for 25c at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—When is a woman as cold as ice—When she is a scold.

—Jem a Jerry smoking tobacco, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—At last gentle spring has wiggled out of the lap of old winter.

—Good rice 8c a pound. Prunes 3lb for 25c, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Great bargains in wall paper, window shades and rollers at Davenport's

—Jerry Lowrey, local editor of the Republican, was at Waterloo Sunday.

—Bring your butter and eggs to McQuiston & Long and get cash or trade.

—Four cakes of Bell's Buffalo or Kirk's soap for 25c, at McQuiston & Long's. 16-3

—Davenport, the druggist, has the finest stock of wall paper in town. Prices low. 16-3

—Go and see Weirick's new stock of dry goods, groceries, etc., at Fairfield Center. 16-tf

—New goods! New prices! Everything new at Weirick's store, Fairfield Center. 16-tf

—Headquarters for new designs of wall paper and window shades, at the Physicians' Drug Store.

—Call and see the new and nobby designs of window shades and wall paper at the Physicians' Drug Store. 16-3

—Beck Allen and VanAuken, from [illegible] Lake, traded ponies. If you want to drive a good team, ask for the "Yata."

—Farmers, look to your interests, and sell your butter, eggs, etc., where they will do you the most good—at Weirick's, Fairfield Center. 16-tf

—Remember Weirick's new store at Fairfield Center when you want anything in his line or have produce to sell. Give him a call and price his goods. 14-tf.

MONEY TO LOAN.—The undersigned is desirous of loaning $16,000 at reasonable rates on good mortgage security. Applications for loans can be made to me at the office of James E. Rose, in Auburn. A. CONANT 14-tf

NEW SPRING MILLINERY.—Mrs. Clock has just received her new stock of millinery, and has a very nice assortment of trimmings, and the latest styles in hats and bonnets. Also a fine line of laces for dress trimmings. Third door north of Abright's jewelry store. 15-4t

DEAD.—That famous tramp who has been such a terror to the people of DeKalb county has at last succumbed and died at the Physicians' Drug Store.—His name was High Price and low price has taken the place at that store, and hereafter you will do well to buy your drugs, medicines, wall paper, window shades, shoulder braces, etc., of Casebeer, Maheney & Humphrey. 16-3

—Dr. Brinkerhoff, whose advertisement appears in another column, has made the following appointments for March, April and May, viz: Defiance, Russell House, March 3 and 31, April 28, May 26; Bryan, Fountain House, March 7, April 4, May 2 and 30; Kendallville, Best House, March 9, April 6, May 4; Ft. Wayne, Mayer House, March 10, April 7, May 5. tf.

HOUSE FOR SALE.—The two-story frame dwelling, on lots No. 13 and 14 in Cross & Dills' addition to the town of Auburn. The house is in good repair, has nine rooms, good cellar and cistern, has a summer kitchen and good stable. It stands just east of the lumber yard at the Jackson depot. Terms: One third down and the balance in two years, at 6 per cent. interest and secured by mortgage on the premises. Address, John Aber, Monroeville, Pa. 16-3.

THE wife of Senator Brigham used to tell a pleasant story of the time when her husband was trying to get votes in the Pennsylvania legislature. He gave a dinner party to a number of the members, one of whom managed to break a plate—one of an exquisite set of sevres of great value. The unhappy guest fell into an agony which Mrs. Brigham at once soothed by saying, with a careless air: "It is of no sort of consequence, for this ware is exceedingly brittle, and breaks very easily; just look"—and to illustrate her statement she took up another of the priceless plates and placidly broke it into bits with a knife. Fresh plates were brought, and the clumsy member was so pleased and relieved that, as soon as might be, he voted for the husband of this woman of tact.

School Report.

Report of Auburn public schools for the month ending April 7, 1882:

FIRST AND SECOND PRIMARY DEPARTMENTS.

No. enrolled	[illegible]
No. belonging	[illegible]
Average daily attendance	[illegible]
Per cent. of attendance	[illegible]
No. Half days absence unexcused	[illegible]
No. cases corporal punishment	1
No. neither absent nor tardy	8

Lilly McTighe

FIRST AND SECOND PRIMARY.

No. enrolled	73
No. belonging	68
No. withdrawn	4
Average daily attendance	55
Per cent. of attendance	81
No. absent unexcused	6
No. half days absence unexcused	18
No. neither tardy nor absent	16

Pricilla Coder.

INTERMEDIATE.

No. enrolled	68
No. belonging	65
Average daily attendance	62
Per cent. of attendance	95
No. neither tardy nor absent	18

Letitia A. Coats.

SECOND INTERMEDIATE.

No. enrolled	32
No. belonging	30
No. withdrawn	1
Average daily attendance	[illegible]
Per cent. of attendance	[illegible]
No. half days absence unexcused	[illegible]
No. absent unexcused	3
No. neither tardy nor absent	7

Laura Coats.

GRAMMAR.

No. enrolled	48
No. belonging	45
Average daily attendance	40
Per cent. of attendance	95
No. half days absence unexcused	5
No. absent unexcused	4
No. neither absent nor tardy	11

C. A. Dugan.

HIGH SCHOOL.

No. enrolled	30
No. belonging	34
No. withdrawn	4
Per cent. of attendance	[illegible]
No. half days absence unexcused	6
No. pupils absent unexcused	3
No. neither tardy nor absent	7

W. P. Myers.

M. W. Harrison.

CONSOLIDATED REPORT.

No. pupils enrolled	342
No. belonging	281
No. withdrawn	11
Average daily attendance	257
Per cent. of of attendance	93
No. half days absence unexcused	46
No. pupils absent unexcused	19
No. cases corporal punishment	1
No. neither tardy nor absent	54

W. P. MYERS, Supt.

The Nation.

Since its consolidation with the New York Evening Post, has increased its facilities in every department, enlarged its size to twenty-four pages, and added many able writers to its previous list. It is now pronounced by many able readers to be better than ever before.

Established in 1865, the Nation was a pioneer in this country as a weekly journal of literary and political criticism of the highest order, conducted free from the control of party or interest of any sort. Despite a precarious support during the first few years, it has held to its original aim, and has long been a recognised authority at home and abroad. Its editorial management has been unchanged from the first, and its projectors intend that with the present facilities, the Nation shall become more than ever before the medium of the ablest thought of the time.

The form and style of the paper are chosen with a view to the most suitable shape for binding, and a set of the Nation preserved, bound, and indexed, makes the most complete and dependable record of current events of importance in the political and literary world available for the American public. The subscription has been reduced to $3 per annum. Specimen copies sent on request. Address the Publisher, 210 Broadway New York. 16-3.

THE Scots have lately unveiled a statue of Burns at Dumfries, but in the same city they permit his granddaughter, the only child of the poet's eldest son, to struggle in poverty. A recent visitor to a Dumfries church found Mrs. Burns and her daughter dusting the pews. The greatgranddaughter, Jean Armour Burns, is an interesting girl of about sixteen or seventeen years, and bears a striking resemblance to the poet.

ROOT AND COMPANY.

46 and 48 Calhoun St.

Are now making a very attractive display of

SPRING GOODS.

SILK SUITS

[illegible]

SATIN MARVEILLEUX SUITS

Need only to be seen to be appreciated

Elegant assortment of

PARASOLS

—AND SUN—

UMBRELLAS

Embracing all the Novelties of the season

WHITE GOODS:

TIES,
LACES,
[illegible]
CRAPES,
GLOVES,
RIBBONS,
HOSIERY,
CURTAINS,
UNDERWEAR,
EMBROIDERIES,
ETC., ETC.

The most extensive, varied, and attractive assortment of

DRY GOODS

OF ALL KINDS

That we have never before been able to offer to our patrons, and at prices that must be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

ROOT AND COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, ... INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

THE President of the New York City Council is a saloon-keeper.

WASHINGTON gossip "books" Hon. James N. Tyner for a foreign appointment.

IMMIGRANTS are arriving in this country at the rate of over 70,000 per month.

AT a recent date there had been 2,000 cases of small-pox in Cincinnati, since January 1st.

A TWO-YEAR OLD baby and its mother were found beastly drunk in Boston, the other day.

THE friends of General John A. Logan are seriously alarmed about the condition of his health.

THE Chicago Driving Park Association offers purses aggregating $52,000 for its summers races.

A NEW monster steam barge has been chartered at Chicago to carry 100,000 bushels of wheat to Buffalo, New York.

A MOVEMENT has been inaugurated in Philadelphia against pew renting, which is almost universal in the churches of that city.

THE council of the Russian Empire has been instructed to draft a law defining the position of Jews in that country.

A COMPANY composed of Chinamen has been organized and is preparing to furnish San Francisco with its water supply.

THERE seems to be a fair prospect of the reduction of letter postage from three to two cents, at the present session of Congress.

THE first day of the new Sunday law in Cincinnati produced only eight [illegible], the smallest number on the [illegible] for many years.

THE official investigation into the accounts of the late State Treasurer of Arkansas—now Governor Churchill—shows a deficiency of about $125,000.

A JURY has been secured in the Jennie Cramer case, at New Haven, Conn., and now it is strongly hinted that one of the jurors is "fixed" for the defense.

EX-SENATOR DORSEY traveled all the way from New Mexico to Washington to meet an order for his arrest, and pleads not guilty to the Star Route indictments.

GOV. CRITTENDEN, of Missouri, expresses the belief that Frank James, brother of saint Jesse, is dead, and all the rumors about "vendetta" and "vengeance," are mere sensationalism.

THE death of Mr. Darwin without the discovery of the "missing link" between man and his antecedent monkey, leaves the life work of the great scientist incomplete, if not inconsequent.

THE speculating President and the principal stockholder of the plundered and collapsed First National Bank of Buffalo, N. Y., have been arrested on the charge of misappropriation of the bank's deposits.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S grave on every pleasant Sunday, is visited by thousands of quiet people. The sentinels still pace about the vault, the bronze doors of which are thrown back, revealing the coffin.

THE Senate of the Massachusetts Legislature has figured the matter down to a fine point, and decrees that there shall only be one saloon for each 1,000 inhabitants in the cities and towns of the old Bay State.

JAMES G. BLAINE, Thomas Ewing, of Ohio, and Senator Davis, of West Virginia, have formed a syndicate to purchase the Washington and Ohio Railroad, which is intended to be a short line between Washington and Cincinnati.

A THIEF stole from the Senate chamber at Washington the old Bible—a venerable relic—which had been in use for the swearing in of Senators for the past fifty-three years. It is thought that a relic hunting crank committed the theft.

FOLKS around here probably have cause to be grateful to Vennor, the weather fraud, as he predicts a cold, wet summer for considerable portions of the South and West, and this section may be included in the sure failure of his prediction.

THE cyclone which was recently reported in Mississippi, swept through portions of Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina, doing great damage and attended by a considerable loss of life. Fifteen persons wear killed at Monticello, Miss., and thirty seriously injured.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S faculty of talking a great deal without saying much is humorously portrayed by a Senator who stayed with him until 2 o'clock in the morning talking about a matter of interest, and afterwards said that "Arthur learned lots, but I didn't find out a thing."

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER ARMSTRONG has written a letter to Attorney General Brewster, recommending that the suit against the Central Pacific railroad be pressed, and that suits be instituted against all Pacific railroads for arrears of contributions to the sinking fund under the Thurman bill, and be vigorously prosecuted.

IN the United States Circuit Court of Charleston, South Carolina, the Grand Jury returned a true bill against David James Winn and Henry J. McLaurin, Commissioners of Election for Sumter county, on an indictment charging them with refusing to count three of the polls in Sumter county.

IF a New York special dispatch can be credited, the name of Vanderbilt has been sunk to lower depths of disgrace by the death of Samuel Carr, uncle of the hundred millionaire, in the Brooklyn poor house, at the age of 73 years. The Vanderbilts seem to have literal "hearts of gold" which are utterly incapable of human feeling.

IT is claimed that the proposed Congress of the North and South American governments, which has attracted so much attention recently, and the holding of which now depends upon the decision of the Congress of the United States, was suggested some years ago in the Senate by Roscoe Conkling.

LEWIS SWIFT, the Rochester astronomer, says the present comet is approaching us at the rate 1,500,000 miles a day, and is already four times as bright as when first discovered, though still telescopic. He believes it will prove one of the brightest ever seen in our times, and will be visible in full sunshine after a few weeks.

THE value of pure short-horn cattle is still far beyond that of any other breed. At a recent sale in Chicago, the fourth Duchess of Airdrie brought $7,100; the second Marchioness of Kirklington, $8,525; the ninth Duchess of Hilhurst, $8,500; the tenth Duchess of Hilhurst, $7,100; the eleventh Duchess of Hilhurst, $4,700; the eighth Duke of Hilhurst, $3,025.

THE committee of investigation appointed by the Cotton Exchange of New York, to examine into the charge that American cotton shipped to Europe last year was adulterated with sand, to increase its weight, reports that the frauds complained of arose solely from the wet picking season of last year, when the staple was more or less sandy.

BUSINESS is lively in St. Louis judicial circles. The judge of the Criminal Court is physically disabled, the clerk of the court is under indictment for embezzlement, the bailiff is in the same fix for slandering the police authorities and the circuit prosecutor is fighting the gamblers, who are trying to have him arrested for performing his duty.

THE canvassers of Sumpter county, S. C., indicted for neglecting and refusing to count the votes of three precincts of the county, pleaded guilty in the United States court. They were released without sentence, Judge Bond saying all the government wanted was to vindicate the law. Jos. Bates, indicted for voting more than once was acquitted.

JACOB BADGER, a wealty retired merchant of New York, was supposed by his acquaintances and relatives to be a bachelor until after his death, when a woman claimed that she had lived with him in Brooklyn as his wife for thirty-five years, he bearing the name of John Baker. The New York Court of Appeals has just sustained her claim to dower interest in his estate valued at $135,000.

HALLETT KILBOURN, who was awarded $100,000 by a jury, at Washington last week, as damages for having been imprisoned by order of the House of Representatives, for refusing to answer the questions of a Congressional investigation committee, made a nice thing of it, provided he gets the money. He was in custody forty-five days, and is awarded at the rate of $2,222.22 a day. This award is very decidedly "too two."

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that Hon. John C. New is acting vigorously to protect clerks in the Treasury Department from the money sharks, of whom they are at times compelled to borrow money. The custom of some of these brokers has been to charge 10 per cent. a month, and, in case of nonpayment, to go to the Treasury and try to have the sum due stopped on the pay rolls. Mr. New has given the brokers notice that they will hereafter have no protection from the officers of the department.

AS REGARDS the new comet, it is learned from correct data prepared by those in charge of the National Almanac at the Government observatory at Washington, that its nearest approach to the earth will be in the latter part of May. The comet will reach its perihelion June 12. It will not be visible to the naked eye before the 10th of May. It gives indications of being very large. It will first appear in the north, about 30° above the horizon, about 5 o'clock in the evening. The increase of brilliancy will probably be very marked from May [illegible] to June 12.

IN a scathing criticism of such popular heroes as Sergeant Mason, "Betty and the baby," and Jesse James, the Indianapolis Journal pays just tribute to Robert Kelly, the brave pilot of the steamer Golden City, and concludes with earnest protest and warning as follows: "Having in one month canonized a dead assassin, lionized a living pretender, and ignored a hero who nobly perished in the discharge of duty, it would seem that the American people are leaving little on record to excite a love for the good and true, while teaching the oncoming generation to applaud lawlessness when crowned with a glamour of false glory. It may be we are sowing the wind to reap a whirlwind. We may rest assured that these pernicious lessons will not be lost; neither may we expect to escape the consequences of national folly."

THE committee of the House of Congress appointed to audit the expenses of the illness and death of President Garfield, has reported a bill which appropriates for the relief of Lucretia R. Garfield $50,000; less any sum paid the late President Garfield on account of his salary as President. It pays Dr. Bliss, $35,000, Drs. Agnew and Hamilton, $15,000; Drs. Rayburn, Boynton and Susan Edson, $10,000 each; William J. Crump, $8,000; to the Secretary of the Navy, $10,882, for expenses, etc.; Wm. R. Spears (undertaker), $1,835; to C. N. Jones, of Elberon, $1,912; and to various merchants and others sums varying from 5 cents to $1,000. It provides that when Surgeon-General J. K. Barnes be retired form active service, he is placed on the retired list with the rank and pay of Major General. It further provides there shall be added to the medical corps of the army one surgeon, with the rank, pay and emoluments of Lieutenant Colonel, and authorizes the President to promote James J. Woodward to that position.

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Ex-Senator Dorsey is in poor health.

The small pox is spreading at Atlanta, Ga.

An earthquake shock was felt at Fredericksford, Texas.

Dr. Max Lilienthal, of Cincinnati, left an estate worth $100,000.

Iowa will vote on the prohibition question on the 27th of June.

The Connecticut Prohibitionists have put a ticket in the field.

A water spout flooded Garner, Miss., doing considerable damage.

Three thousand Chinese have just sailed from Hong Kong for America.

A free religious convention will be held in Chicago May 10th and 11th.

The direct cable between Germany and the United States is open for business.

The horses in Chicago are suffering from an epidemic disease similar to pinkeye.

Four hundred horses have died in Chicago in the past two months from epidemic influenza.

Spinal meningitis prevails at Springfield, Ill., and vicinity, and several deaths are reported.

Governor Cullom is declared to be out of the race for the Senatorship to succeed David Davis.

Monticello, Miss., was destroyed by a tornado Sunday, ten persons being killed and many injured.

The wife and daughter of Nana, the Chief of the Apaches, have been arrested at Fort Stanton.

The wife of B. Pierce, of Dallas, Texas, strangled her three children and then hung himself.

Gualleyesville, A. T., is reported to have been burned by the Indians, and thirty-five persons killed.

Sunday night's frost killed the cotton in some parts of Tennessee and Arkansas, necessitating replanting.

The Virginia Readjusters will issue a pronunciamento announcing their adhesion to President Arthur as a leader.

In New York a machine has been invented which will facilitate the separation of gold dust in placer mining.

Mr. Charles Garfield, a cousin of the late President, is an applicant for the Marshalship of Idaho.

William Calhoun is in jail at Mexico, Mo., for hitting Billy Patterson. The blow proved fatal.

Fish eight or ten inches long frequently get into the stand pipes of elevators in Chicago, and block the valves.

Harrison, the Evangelist, was compelled to cancel his engagement at Tiffin on account of physical exhaustion.

Sullivan, the pugilist, appeared in the dock of the Police Court in Boston Monday as the result of an affray in a saloon.

The Governor of Iowa offers $5,000 reward for the apprehension of the murderer of Mayor Stubbs, of Polk City.

Judge Gary fined a number of Chicago gamblers in sums varying from $100 to $500. They all gave bond and appealed.

The Hartford Life and Annuity Insurance Company has been refused permission to operate in the State of Missouri.

Henry Alwardt, a prominent merchant of Little Rock, was found dead in his bed room, having died of hemorrhage of the lungs.

The Mayor of Long Island City was taken into custody on Sunday, charged with having embezzled $113,000 of the city's funds.

At Greenfield, Mass., a party of bridge builders took possession of the town, committing many outrages and killing one man.

The Illinois State Board of Agriculture has arranged for a series of agricultural institutes in the Congressional districts of that State.

Indictments have been returned against thirty-eight citizens of Barnwell county, South Carolina, for violating the election laws.

Circulars offering a reward of $6,000 for Howgate have been issued. They contain a good photograph in description of the fugitive.

The Apaches at San Carlos Agency, A. T., are on the war path. The territorial officers and military are prepared for them.

Arizona dispatches give rumors of excesses committed by the hostile Indians, who are being closely pursued by the military.

Lake City, Minn., was visited by a destructive fire early Saturday morning. Loss about $250,000. Insurance about $100,000.

Deputy Sheriff King, while attempting to arrest a horse thief named Bond, at Freeman, Ill., was shot and mortally wounded.

Burglars robbed the post-office at Angola, Ind., of 12,000 postage stamps and then stole hand-car, with which they rode out of town.

Twenty-five houses in Carrollton, a suburb of New Orleans, were ruined by a tornado on Wednesday, and fifteen persons were injured.

The body of Lizzie Hardy, of St. Joseph, Mo., aged seventeen, who disappeared on the 16th of December, was found in the river the other day.

Mr. V. Davis, Superintendent of the United States Mint at New Orleans, is alleged to have been guilty of fraud on the government involving large sums.

An unmarried woman named Ella Heck, has been arrested at Ottawa, Ill., on a charge of murdering her newborn twin babes in the town of Dayton.

A Bohemian named Mosig has been arrested in Texas for having forged $100,000 worth of bank paper in Austria two years ago. He will be extradited.

An ordinance for allowing a new gas company to operate in Chicago who would supply cheaper gas was voted down by a majority of the City Council.

The United States steamer Iroquios, now at Mare's Island, is to be sent to the relief of the crew and officers of the search steamer Rodgers, in the Arctic circle.

The "Low Church" Episcopalians of Bloomington, Ill., are petitioning Bishop Seymour to repress the High Church tendencies of their Rector, Father Simpson.

Four masked men blew the outside doors off the safe of the Farmers' and Drovers' bank, at Somers, New York. They were defeated by time-locks on the inner doors, and got nothing.

Miss Phoebe Couzins, of St. Louis, the suffragist, has secured a number of influential Missourians to indorse her application to the President for a seat in the Utah organizing commission.

Tom Smurr, a married man with grown-up children, was up for hearing on Wednesday, at Lancaster, Ohio, before Judge White, charged with raping Mary Shuttleworth, an 11-year old girl.

Judge Wylie has granted the motion to quash the indictment against Riedell, one of the Star Route conspirators, on the ground that the full name should have been set out in the indictment.

In Vermont women who pay taxes have the right to vote for school officers, and to be elected such officers, but it is said that only five women in the State exercised the right to vote this year.

Eau Claire, Wis., lost sixty-three residences and stores by fire, communicated by sparks from a river steamer. The loss is $250,000, half of which is insured.

Graham, inventor of the rocking or tilting of the sickle-bar in harvesters, has won a victory over the McCormick and other companies for infringement of his patent. The damages will be very heavy.

Horse Shoe Canyon, A. T., was the scene of a fight Sunday between Indians and Indian scouts and troops. The Indians were repulsed, but the troops lost seventeen men, eleven of whom were whites.

Depere, Wis., was destroyed early Sunday morning by fire, which originated in a saloon, where a man who was intoxicated was burned to death. The loss was $180,000, with insurance of about $48,000.

The wife of Rev. S. J. Gray, a colored preacher of Lexington, Ky., recovered a verdict for $1,000 against the Cincinnati Southern Railway Company for refusing her admittance to a lady's car on a first-class ticket.

SINCE the autumn of 1878, an act closing saloons has been enforced in Ireland, and it is claimed that the result is a decrease of $15,000,000 in the amount expended for intoxicants and 22,000 fewer cases of drunkenness.

Five hundred and fifty bricklayers, of Canada, have been engaged to work in Pullman City, Ill. They are paid $65 to $80 a month, for a six-months' term, and furnished transportation to and from their destination.

THE House of Congress has settled the Utah contested seat by declaring it vacant. Pending the action, seventy-nine of the Democratic members manifested their sympathy for polygamy by voting to seat Cannon.

THE newspapers in Wisconsin are urging the propriety of applying the Logansport plan of requiring all persons sentenced to imprisonment in the jails of that State, to be employed in breaking stone for use on the public highways.

In Cincinnati the saloon-keepers and whisky dealers held a meeting to devise ways and means to fight the Smith liquor bill, which requires the closing of saloons on Sunday. At Columbus and Toledo, Ohio, the new law will be obeyed.

THE high-toned circles of the city of Denver, Col., have the biggest kind of a sensation. The wife of Lieutenant Governor Tator, worth his millions, has instituted a suit for separate maintenance, charging gross marital infidelity on his part.

The Republicans of Oregon have nominated M. C. George for Congress and F. B. Moody for Governor. The platform demands the abrogation of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty, and denounces the veto of the anti-Chinese bill.

THE dress pattern made for Mrs. Garfield by the Woman's Silk Culture Association of the United States, contains twenty-two yards of brocaded satin. It was made from fifty pounds of cocoons, presented from fourteen States, and weighs fourteen pounds.

A dispatch has been received by the New York Herald from Irkutsk, Siberia, announcing that the search steamer Rodgers had been burned and sunk and that Lieutenant Berry, and the officers and crew are at Tiapka, near Cape Serdze, in need of immediate relief.

Wm. Stull, who shot Mrs. Sommers, near Georgetown, Ohio, Sunday, was cornered in a dense woods, near Franklin, by the Sheriff of Columbiana county, and killed himself rather than surrender. His dastardly crime created the greatest excitement, and had he been taken alive he would have been lynched.

A most diabolical outrage is reported as having been perpetrated near Fremont, O., on Sunday. Theodore Morske went to town to attend church, leaving a son aged 11, and a daughter aged 9, at home. During his absence a strange man appeared at his house. He scattered a lot of loose powder on the ground and compelled the children to stand on it. He then touched it off, the flash setting fire to the children's clothing and burning them in a shocking manner. It is thought the boy's eyes are destroyed. There is no clew to the perpetrator of the hellish deed.

Foreign.

Cetewayo will soon visit England.

A book printed in 1457 sold in London for $3,950.

The dreaded Asiatic plague has appeared in Persian Kurdistan.

Under Ignatieff's orders 500 Nihilists have been arrested in Russia.

By the West Stanley, Eng., colliery explosion, twenty persons were killed.

H. R. H. the Princess Louise is expected to arrive in Canada the latter end of May.

A Bombay dispatch states that twenty regiments of natives of the Anglo-Indian army will be disbanded.

Another murder is reported from Ireland. A bailiff of Lord Leconfield, who had been guilty of serving writs, was the victim.

Herculo Huob, a clerk in the Quebec post office, has been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for stealing money letters.

The London Times notes the fact that four months elapse before his American friends put in the insane plea on behalf of Dr. Lamsen, the murderer.

A London newspaper states that the Irish-American "suspects" will be allowed to return to the United States this week.

Lieutenant Danenhower, with a portion of the crew of the Arctic steamer Jeannette, have arrived at Ordenburg, all in good health.

Threats have been made to blow up the government buildings in Glasgow, because of the arrest of a prominent member of the Scotch "No-rent" party.

A number of prominent persons, ex-Cabinet Ministers, and army officers, have been arrested at Cairo, in connection with the plot to assassinate Arabi Bey, the Egyptian Minister of War.

Smith, who is implicated in the extensive postoffice robbery in London, was about to start for St. Petersburg with $15,000 worth of plunder when he was rearrested with two accomplices.

The French Cabinet Council approved the De Lesseps scheme for cutting a canal through the land which divides the Gulf of Gabes from the salt marshes north of the Great Desert of Sahara. It will cost 65,000,000 francs.

Chili, according to a Washington special, had for an object in the war with Peru the annexation of Tarapaca, in which the guano and nitrate deposits are located. It now transpires that the prize is not nearly so valuable as anticipated.

In an interview between Mr. Lowell and Mr. Foster, the latter renewed the offer to release the Irish-American suspects provided they left Ireland and remained away during the operation of the coercion act. The suspects now claim that they are Americans; but it is asserted that several of them were never out of Ireland.

The trial of McLain, the man who fired at Queen Victoria, was held at Reading, Berks (near Windsor Castle). Lord Chief Justice Coleridge presided, and Mr. Montague Williams defended the prisoner and pleaded insanity for him. The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty, on the ground of insanity."

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says 1,000 Jews who had settled in Moscow have been expelled. Prince Dolgouski, Governor of Moscow, in replying to a deputation who waited upon him, said he was powerless to aid them, having received direct orders not to assist them in any manner whatsoever, and he must obey.

TABLE TALK.

Organs were first used in church [illegible] A. D.

Richmond, Va., doesn't employ one-half of her water power.

Frogs' legs make a delicate and restorative soup for invalids.

Of the 3,735,686 people in Scotland, 231,606 speak Gaelic.

Three quarters of the buildings now put up Detroit are of wood.

The Peruvians will find that our new minister, Partridge, is game.

Seven New York firemen died last year from exposure on duty.

Two trains with but a single track, two boilers that burst as one.

Chinese leave a string of young clothes amateurs in their wake.

Esthetes say the plug hat will be as extinct as the mastodon by 1900.

St. Louis beef is selling at Hot Springs for thirty cents a pound retail.

At Iowa balls, "change partners" is thought to stiff; they say "git yer gal."

Over 7,000 pictures have already been sent into the Paris salon this year.

There is a fresh air mission, a flower mission and an ice mission in St. Louis.

In Candelaria, Nevada, the water company sells water at five cents per gallon.

The salaries of West Virginia's supreme court judges are $2,250 per each annum.

Steel works, to cost $400,000, are to be erected in Batesville, Arkansas, during this year.

Of the four Misses Kollocks of Wisconsin, three are doctors and the other is a clergyman.

Judge Blatchford is said to be the wealthiest man that ever sat upon the supreme bench.

"Mr. Chairman," shouted a delegate in a Florida convention, "I evaporate what I said before."

The difference between a blond and a locomotive is that one has a light head and the other a head light.

"Self-raising flour is a wonderful invention. See how much plowing and harvesting and manure it must save.

Twenty Methodist churches of the New York East conference have removed their indebtedness within a year.

In Paris gardens the rhubarb or pieplant is raised for ornament, its green leaves and red leaves growing with the peonies.

A frisky colt shied so violently, at Harrison, Mich., as to break the neck of the young man who was holding the halter.

Rochester University has just received a gift of $100,000 for the purpose of adding a ladies' department to the institution.

The business of catching muskrats, the skins of which are sold for fifteen cents apiece, is carried on extensively in New York.

It was Sydney Smith who retorted upon some one who had called him an every-day man: "Well, if I am an every-day man, you are week one."

Mr. O'Sullivan, M. P., has introduced a bill into parliament by the terms of which no spirits can be drank in England until they are a year old.

Professor in psychology—"Can we conceive of anything as being out of time and still occupying space?" Musical student, thoughtfully—"Yes, sir; a poor singer in a chorus."

"Doctor" is part of the name of Garfield's Dr. Bliss, he having been named "Doctor Willard" Bliss in honor of the physician who presided at the natal matinee when the infant Bliss arrived.

The English magazinists continue to analyze the life of Carlyle, a man about one of whose points of greatness all persons seem to agree; he was brave enough to shut his door in the face of bores.

In Pittsboro, North Carolina, last week, Mr. Dallas P. Drake was married to Miss Tiny Sparrow.

General Beauregard has been engaged for some time on a book about the war, and his MS. is now almost complete. The work covers his whole military career. It is not conciliatory in tone. It assumes throughout the fundamental justice of the confederate cause.

Count Geza Zichy, the one-armed Hungarian pianist, is about to give a series of concerts in London, by invitation of the Prince of Wales. He plays in public only for charitable purposes, and has thus earned and distributed to the poor $80,000 within the past two years.

An exchange states that a curiosity has been discovered in the Gulf of Mexico. It is a harbor in the open gulf some fifteen miles from the land. A kind of oil is thown up, and resting on the surface of the water forms a thick scum, the effect of which is stated to be so great that even in the most severe storm the sea is comparatively smooth in this spot. This is so well known that when a storm approaches small vessels run for the "oil pond" as it is called, and ride out the gale in safety.

Off-Hand Way to Measure an Acre.

Few farmers know the size of their fields or how many acres they contain. A field of the writer's, before it came into his possession, had been plowed and reaped by contract for fifteen acres. It is desirable, in fact indispensable for good work, that a farmer should know how many acres each field contains, for otherwise he cannot apportion seed or manure for it, nor can he tell how much time it would require to be plowed. A measuring cord should be part of the furniture on every farm. To make one, procure seventy-seven feet of strong rope, one inch around; make a loop or fasten a ring or a bar at each end, and make these precisely sixty-six feet apart. This is four rods. Then tie a piece of red red rag in the center. One acre of ground will be a piece four of the cords (chains) long and two and one-half wide, equal to sixteen by ten rods, making 160 square rods to one acre. The advantage of the ring or loop is that one person can measure alone by driving a stake in the ground to hold the rope while he stretches it out. The rope should be soaked in tar and dried, which will prevent it from shrinking when wet.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Chairman of the House and Senate appropriation committees say the indications are that Congress can adjourn by June 15. The naval appropriation bill will likely take the most time, as there will be opposition from the Democrats [illegible] improvement of the navy.

Nelly Burrill, who planned Howgate's escape, and was supposed to have gone with him, has reappeared here, probably to throw the officers off the scent or gain information of their views. The reward offered will be of little effect, as it is accounted too small by the detectives.

The Civil S[illegible] Committee has reported a bill creating a Department of Agriculture, with its head a Cabinet officer. The bill will probably pass, as the majority of the members like to please the farmers.

The President has nominated Alphonso Taft, of Ohio, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Austria; William L. Dayton, of New Jersey, Minister resident of the United States to the Netherlands; Nicholas Fish, of New York, Minister resident to Belgium, and John M. Francis, of New York, Charge d'Affaires to Portugal; J. P. Wickersham, of Pennsylvania, to be Charge d'Affaires to Denmark; Adam Badeau, of New York, to be Consul General to Havana; Harry L. [illegible], of New York, to be United States Consul at Prescott.

The [illegible] to complete the iron-clads now lying unfinished at the navy yards will probably not succeed this session. Mr. Robeson is not succeeding [illegible] in his efforts in vindication of his career in the Cabinet.

Minister Taft will be confirmed at a very early day, and probably without opposition.

It is probable that Senator Mitchell will take Teller's place at the head of the Pensions Committee.

It is not impossible that the Navy Department may conclude to wait for the Iroquois to be got ready, as the news from the Rodgers crew shows that they are not suffering for food. The crew saved three months' food when [illegible] burned January 1, and with what they can obtain from the natives it is thought they will not suffer.

It is probable Cobb's bill in regard to unearned railroad lands will be reported to the Committee of the Whole without recommendation of any sort, as there's a little ill-feeling between the various committees as to which should consider it.

The Senate adopted Vance's resolution creating a special committee of three to investigate alleged revenue frauds in North Carolina, with power to sit during the recess of the Senate and send for persons and papers. It is alleged that the revenue officers of North Carolina have engaged in frauds for election purposes, and that the revenue has been diverted from its proper channel. It is also charged that the revenue officials of that State are arranging to help along the anti-Democratic movement this year, and the intended investigation may, so it is said in some quarters, break this up.

The National Republican, which is supposed to speak for the administration, is urging active work in the contested election cases. It is probably that some interesting proceedings will take place in Congress during the next few weeks.

Representatives Flower and Hardenburg, Democrats, have succeeded in gaining sufficient Democratic pledges in favor of extending the charters of national banks to insure the passage of the bill.

A delegation is here urging a tax on white-wine vinegar manufacturers, claiming that they make a gallon of whisky to every five gallons of vinegar.

Ex-Secretary Blaine goes on the stand Monday, and it is expected he will put the finishing touch on Shipherd. Mr. Blaine leaves for Europe about th[illegible] month.

The verdict in the Kilbourne case causes a sensation among Congressmen. It will probably be appealed to the Supreme Court, and, if sustained, the sum will be paid by Congress. The verdict was rendered on the sixth anniversary of Kilbourne's discharge from jail by Chief Justice Carter.

John G. Thomson, the ex-Sergeant-at-Arms, is a good deal stirred up over the verdict. Many Congressmen are opposed to paying the damages assessed on the ground that Thompson made a weak defense, virtually permitting the case to go by default, under the supposition that Congress would pay.

The new cable connecting Emden with the Anglo-American cable system at Valentia, enabling messages to be transmitted directly between Germany and America, was opened to-day with the following message from the German Emperor to the President of the United States:

"I am very happy to express to you, Mr. President, by the first direct telegraphic transit between Germany and America, my satisfaction on the completion of work by which the friendly relations between both nations will be furthermore enlarged."

The following is President Arthur's message in reply to Emperor William's greeting on the opening of the direct communication by telegraph between Germany and the United States:

To His Majesty William, Emperor of Germany:

I have received with much satisfaction, as the first dispatch over the new line of telegraph between Germany and the United States, Your Majesty's kind message. In common with all peoples of the United States, so many of whom still speak the German tongue in their homes, I share in the pleasure which Your Majesty expresses at the opening of this new line of communication, and in the faith that it will serve to promote the friendly relations which we desire, and which it will be my aim to preserve and increase.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR,
President United States.

Guiteau seems entirely satisfied with Charles H. Reed as counsel. Mr. Reed to-day asked two weeks to prepare for hearing, which was granted by the court.

The Zuni Indians, on leaving, took sacred water from the ocean, and shells to be ground into sacred meal. They also took away everything given them, even to a scrap of paper containing a name.

The fact that Secretary Folger's letter to the Senate Finance Committee opposes the extension of the bonded period of whisky, will hardly prevent the passage of the bill in the Senate. The general sentiment of the party is that the extension of the bonded period is the least that can be done to relieve this industry from the burden of taxation.

The bill for the improvement of the Potomac flats has been laid over by the House Committee, to see how it strikes the Senate when it comes up there.

The Kilbourne-Thompson verdict is still the subject of much comment. Congressmen avow openly their unwillingness to pay the damages assessed, and assert that Thompson didn't make sufficient effort to protect himself and Congress. It is not improbable the verdict may be set aside on grounds of excessive damages and one of $25,000.

It is generally felt to-day that Blaine came out triumphant in the Shipherd affair. Belmont's attack upon him is recognized as indirectly the work of Blaine's political enemies in his own party. Blaine is evidently coming out of the investigation in excellent shape.

The Supreme Court in banc decided to hear the argument on the bill of exceptions in the Guiteau case on Monday, May 8. That portion of Scoville's letter announcing his withdrawal from the case was read.

The talk of Lawrence as the prospective successor of Congressman Keifer has little foundation. His position as First Comptroller of the Treasury is better than that of Congressman, and if he has any ambition outside of that, it is to succeed Foster as Governor. He has been in Congress and had all the glory to be made there.

There is little hope of the recovery of Admiral Rodgers. His condition is very critical.

Congressman White, of Kentucky, is enthusiastic over his vindication in opposing the bill for the extension of the whisky bonded period. Secretary Folger's letter takes practically the same views which he had the nerve to speak out, in spite of the caucus decision in favor of the bonded period.

The Agricultural Department, says it doesn't think the fruit is injured by the recent cold weather. The Commissioner of Agriculture is packing seeds for the people in the overflow district. The packages will be sent out in the mails.

It is pretty evident that the bill extending the bonded period must be amended before it can pass the Senate, by reducing the amount allowed for leakage, and, perhaps, limiting the period in which whisky may remain in bond.

It is possible the Mississippi river bill will pass the Senate as it now stands.

Hillyer and Sunderland, of California, have brought suit against the real estate pool of which Kilbourne was the head, and whose refusal to produce his books caused his imprisonment. They claim they have been defrauded by the company, and this suit may compel the production of the books which Kilbourne refused.

President pro tem Davis of the Senate created a laugh at his own expense in the Senate this afternoon. The Japanese indemnity fund bill was up, and, being objected to, it was agreed that it might go over without prejudice. President Davis, said: "That goes over without prejudice. Call the next case." For the moment he apparently thought himself back on the bench once more.

All the Republicans in the House to-day voted to take up the Lynch-Chalmers case. The matter had been pretty thoroughly talked over last night, and an agreement reached by all concerned. One reason for the consent of the Tariff-bill men to take up these cases was the fear that if they pushed their objection too far it might result in the hostility of Southern Republicans to the bill, and it does not carry any very heavy majority at the best. Nearly all the Greenbackers voted with the Republicans in regard to the election cases, as it is understood the Republicans will vote to seat one or more contesting Greenbackers. Even Jones, the Texas Greenbacker, who has a seat on the Democratic side, voted with the Republicans, and was seen over on the Republican side this afternoon in consultation with Robeson, presumably on matters connected with the election cases.

The arguments in the Mason case are closed, and a decision will be given May 8. The court adjourns at that date until October, so if the petition is granted, the case will not be heard before fall. Mr. Lyddy, Mason's counsel, is very sanguine, and thinks he will get a verdict. If the prayer is granted, it will require the warden of the Albany penitentiary to bring Mason here for a rehearing of the whole case by the Supreme Court on its merits.

A good deal of opposition is developing to the bill extending the bonded period. The National Republican, which is supposed to represent the Administration's views, has a long editorial this morning opposing the bill, and urging that enough has been given the distillers now.

General Hazen, of the Weather Bureau, is causing an examination into the causes and results of the overflow of the Mississippi, and will present an exhaustive report.

The silk dress pattern to be presented to Mrs. Garfield by the Woman's Silk Culture Association, arrived to-day, and will be placed on exhibition in the rotunda of the Capitol. It is entirely of American production and manufacture.

The Interior Department has information that many railroad companies are in the habit of abusing their privileges greatly regarding the use of timber along the lines in the West, taking advantage of the privilege given them to obtain timber for adjacent roads. They have been in the habit of going as much as a hundred miles from the road to take it.

The Senate has passed a bill appropriating $50,000 for the erection of a public building at Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Senate Committee on Commerce will to-morrow take up the nomination of Worthington to be Collector of Customs at Boston, and they expect to act upon it. Senators Hoar and Dawes will appear before the committee and make arguments against Worthington's confirmation. The burden of their argument will be that Worthington would convert the Custom House and its patronage into a political machine, and that the people of Massachusetts are opposed to that. Representatives Bowman, Harris and Norcross, of Massachusetts, and ex-Senator Boutwell will make arguments in favor of Worthington. Hoar and Dawes mean to carry their fight into the Senate, but, unless they get very considerable Democratic aid, they will be defeated and Worthington confirmed. The present indications are that most of the Democrats will vote for confirmation.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, April 19th.

SENATE—The Mississippi River improvement bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—The Utah contested election case was considered. The minority report in favor of seating Cannon, was rejected—yeas, 79; nays, 123. The majority report declaring that neither contestant was entitled to his seat, was adopted without division.

THURSDAY, April 20th.

SENATE—Bills were passed for the sale of Indian lands in Nebraska and Kansas; also, the House printing deficiency appropriation bill. The Missippi river improvement bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—The Senate bill appropriating $100,000 for a public library building in Frankfort Ky., was passed. Fifty-eight committee reports were presented. The tariff commission bill was further considered.

FRIDAY, April 21th.

SENATE—Several bills were reported favorably including the bill to aid in the establishment and support of common schools. The bill to protect the manufacture of salt in the Territories was passed. The Mississippi river improvement bill was further discussed. Adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE—The bill to provide relief for Congress and the Departments in the adjustment of claims was discussed. At the evening session twenty private pension bills were passed.

SATURDAY, April 21st.

The Senate was not in session.

HOUSE—A bill was passed authorizing the erection of a light on the Chicago waterworks crib. The bill providing for the judicial ascertainment of private claims was amended to death, and finally laid over.

MONDAY, April 24th.

SENATE—A number of bills were introduced. The Mississippi improvement bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—Bills were passed appropriating $60,000 for the removal of obstructions from Hell Gate, New York harbor; for the muster and pay of certain officers of volunteers; to increase the police force of the District of Columbia. The latter bill caused a red-hot political wrangle among the talking members.

TUESDAY, April 25th.

SENATE—Bill to permit grain from Canada to come free in the "States" to be ground, was passed; also, the bill appropriating $8,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The House Chinese immigration bill was taken up and discussed, without final action.

HOUSE—After some unimportant routine business, the House refused to consider the Lynch-Chalmers contested election case and took up the resolution concerning the imprisonment of American citizens abroad. A substitute for the resolution was adopted without division.

One hundred and sixty acres of land will be given to the person securing the largest number of articles for exhibition at the Florida State fair.

Farm and Workshop Notes

There are forty-five creameries in Iowa; all established since 1872.

No system of farming is complete that dispenses with clover as a rotation crop.

A horse's hoof is of the same nature as horn. A hot shoe makes the hoof brittle instead of tough.

It is getting rather late for onions. They do not thrive if overtaken by hot weather before getting rooted.

Melons, cucumbers, and squashes are cultivated in the same manner, but they should never be planted near each other.

An amateur botanist in Wisconsin is said to have prepared 939 specimens of flowering plants, all of which have been identified.

A strong cement is made by dissolving caustic lime with boiling hot water. When dry mix with white of egg to a thick paste. It sets instantly.

No class of real property is appreciating in value so rapidly as forest land or well wooded areas. They will also be rich legacies to future generations.

The flour made from sorgo seed is nutritive and healthy, and many Western experts claim that in the near future it will be largely used for human food.

The coffee plant has the general appearance of a cherry tree. It grows to a height of twenty or thirty feet, but in the course of culture is kept cut down to five or six feet.

An old orchard can never be made young again, but by good care, pruning and cultivating it can be made to bear a fair crop until a young orchard can be set out and brought into bearing.

It is not proper to keep ducks and chickens in the same yard. The broad bill of the duck enables it to gormandize, and, being a voracious feeder, it is likely to deprive other fowls of their share of food.

Salsify, or vegetable oyster, is cultivated the same as carrots or parsnips, and is considered by many as a luxury. It is used for soup, boiled, or can be sliced and fried in butter, when it makes a fair substitute for oysters.

The following formula is a good one for a tobacco fertilizer: Ammonia, 6 per cent; phosphoric acid, 8 per cent.; potash, 3 per cent.; plaster, 50 per cent. Plaster may be put in in any desired quantity.

A German paper says that a roof can be made fire-proof by covering it with a mixture of lime, salt and wood ashes, adding a little lamp-black to give a dark color. This not only guards against fire, it is claimed, but also in a measure prevents decay.

Paint, to last long, should be put on early in winter or spring, when it is cold and no dust flying. Paint put on in cold weather forms a body or coat upon the surface of the wood and becomes hard and resists weather, or an edged tool, even like slate.

Waterproof muslin is better for coverings to chicken coops in cold weather than boards, and it admits heat from the sun. To render fabrics waterproof dip them into water which contains one-fifth of its bulk of soap in solution. Let the cloth dry and then immerse in water containing 20 per cent. of sulphate of copper in solution.

Impure Water.

In an article on drinking water the British Medical Journal says: "America is suffering in a very marked degree from the pollution of drinking water. The water of Newark, Jersey City, and Hoboken has become suddenly noticeable for the highly marked flavor of carbolic acid, indicating that the pollution of that particular water supply was of an especially chemical nature. Boston is suffering from what is described as a striking peculiarity of its water. It contains albuminoid amonia in considerable quantities, which is due in part to the pollution of a few manufacturing towns, and in part to a growth of algæ. Another source of pollution of the Boston water is Pegan brook, which flows through a town of 10,000 inhabitants, almost entirely devoted to the dressing of leather and and the manufacture of shoes. Philadelphia and New York also, it appears, receive their water from polluted sources. The feeders which empty themselves into Croton lake, the principal reservoir of the New York water, pass through a settled country, with numerous tanneries, factories, etc., along their banks. Under these circumstances it is not surprising that apollinaris water is stated to have become so general a favorite in the United States that its consumption there as a daily table water equals that of Great Britain."

Starting a Newspaper

In a recent sermon, Mr. Talmage said: On the theory that anybody can make a newspaper, inexperienced capitalists every year are entering the lists, and it is a simple statistic that there is an everage of dead newspapers every day of the year. The average of newspaper life is five years. Most of them die of cholera infantum. It is high time it were understood that the most successful way of sinking a fortune and keeping it sunk, is to start a newspaper. Almost every intelligent man during his life is smitten with the newspaper mania; start a newspaper or have stock in one he must or die. But let me tell you, oh man, that if you have an idea on any moral, social, political or religious subject, you had better charge on the columns already established. Do not take the idea so prevalent that when a man can do nothing else he can edit a newspaper. To man and to propel a newspaper requires more realities than any business on earth. If you feel called on to start a newspaper, take it for granted you are threatened with softening of the brain.

Bob Jackson was missed from Winnepeg, having last been seen going away from a bar-room drunk. After a week he was found dead, with his feet and ankles imbedded in frozen earth, and his body leaning against a fence. He had stepped into deep mud, and, too incapacitated by rum to extricate himself had stood there until a cold snap fastened him.

It is better to yield a little than quarrel a good deal. The habit of "standing up," as people call it, for their little rights, is one of the most disagreeable and undignified in the world.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX
ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed,
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER
CURED

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore-Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA
PREVENTED

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.,
Dangerous effluvias of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AN RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the BEST MACHINERY in the WORLD for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
BOOK FREE. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES.

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,
MANUFACTURERS;
ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,
ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 21, 1882.
Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.
Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL
BRINGS A SEED STORE

LANDRETH'S
GARDEN SEEDS

Founded 1784.
To every man's door. If our SEEDS are not sold in your town, drop us a Postal Card for Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Prices. Address D. LANDRETH & SONS, Philadelphia.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

Minneapolis
MINNESOTA
WISCONSIN
MISSOURI
Atchison
Leavenworth
Omaha
Council Bluffs

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y
Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any [illegible] hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.
At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.
At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.
At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.
At PEORIA, with [illegible]
At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.
At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.
At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.
At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.
At DES MOINES, with [illegible]
At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.
At OMAHA, with [illegible]
At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with [illegible]
At OTTUMWA, with [illegible]
At KEOKUK, with [illegible]
At CAMERON, with [illegible]
At ATCHISON, with [illegible]
At LEAVENWORTH, with [illegible]
At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.
Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.
For information not obtainable at your home ticket office, address,
R. R. CABLE, [illegible]
E. ST. JOHN, [illegible]

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, MAY 4, 1882

We see in this country about one million postal cards a day.

The Rev. Blakemore, of the Middlebury Record, is out as a candidate for congress.

The democrats in Whitley county, are in a disgraceful wrangle. Too much leader.

Guiteau's case will be heard by the Court in Banc May 8th. Scoville has quit the case.

Snow fell in considerable quantities last week in the northern parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Fort Wayne gets an appropriation for a government building to be erected there. It is to cost $50,000

Emerson, the poet and Essayist is dead. His death took place at his home in Concord, Mass., last Thursday.

It has been ordered that the recent war of words between Blaine and young Belmont, be stricken from the records.

Belmont, the member of congress, is a son of that August Belmont who has been so long a prominent man in New York financial circles.

There were about one thousand Odd Fellows in attendance at South Bend last week to celebrate the 63d anniversary of Odd-fellowship in this this country.

There was a democratic convention in Albion last Saturday to select delegates to the congressional convention that meets in Kendallville June 1st.

Landreau, the man who figures prominently in the Peru investigation, is United States consul at Santiago, in Cuba. He claims about a thousand millions from Peru.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Molloy well known to the editorial and temperance people, have been divorced by the Laporte courts. The matter is a surprise to those who know them.

If Arthur and his friends keep on increasing their capacity for strong tipple, there will be no need of a prohibitory amendment. There will not be enough whisky left to go around.

There will not be any great changes in the tariff soon, if we are to judge by present appearances. If the bill authorizing the creation of a tariff commission passes, the chances are that a majority of its members will be high tariff men, and if it does not pass, it will probly get no attention at all.

Some unknown persons of the city of New York, have been sending infernal machines to prominent and wealthy citizens of that place. Cyrus W. Field, W. H. Vanderbilt and John M. Davenport are among the number thus honored. No one has been seriously hurt so far, but they came near setting Mr. Field's house on fire. It seems that the intention is, not to kill, but to burn these gentlemen out.

Newspapers throughout the country are commenting on the recent quarrel of Blaine and Belmont. While they are divided as to the merits of the quarrel, it is generally, agreed that Blaine's style of bullying every one, with whom he comes in contact has received a wholesome set back. This is all the more favorably received, when the fact of Belmont's youth is taken into consideration. He is comparatively a young man, and is serving his first term in congress.

The high tariff organs of this country, are still making the assertion that the tariff cheapens all articles on which it is laid. While we do not suppose any one believes this, we would like to have them tell how ten cent cloth will be cheapened by putting on it a tax of five cents. That is, we believe that ten and five are fifteen, while they wish their readers to believe that ten and five are eight. We venture to say their readers don't believe them.

Senator Blair of New Hampshire, whose name has been so frequently mentioned by Shipherd in connection with the Peru-Chili matter now under investigation, has appeared before the committee, and read the following general statement: "I know nothing of the membership of the Peruvian company except President Shipherd. I do not know of any member of either house being in any way whatever connected with it, except myself, and my connection with it was purely as counsel, with no pecuniary interest whatever in the company, and with no expectation whatever of pecuniary reward." He added as far as he knew, the claims of Landreau, and the schemes of Shipherd, had nothing whatever to do in shaping our South American policy.

Election in Butler.

The following persons were elected at the corporation election in Butler on Monday: Democrats, J. J. Wilkinson trustee in the first ward; S. G. Stone in the second, and A. J. Baxter clerk; of republicans, L. J. Diehl was elected treasurer, and George Spacht marshal. The result is very gratifying to our friends of Butler, especially so to our good friend Simon Ochs, who enjoys anything in the shape of democratic success, most heartily.

The funeral of Ralph Waldo Emerson, at his home in Concord on Sunday, was a most imposing and solemn affair. Extra trains were run from Boston and other neighboring towns, and some of our most eminent literary men, like Holmes, Curtis, Cooke, Sargent and General Banks were prominent figures in the procession.

By a report from the Indiana Bureau of statistics we see that the wheat crop of DeKalb county, for this year, as rated at 72 per cent of what it usually is at this season in any year. Oats is stated at 101 per cent., showing that the crop is good for the time of year. Of, course, the intelligent farmer knows that while some favored localities have a good stand of wheat this spring, in other places the crop is nearly a failure.

For the advancement of the cause of woman Suffrage in Indiana, and for the purpose of submitting and discussing plans and methods for securing the ratification of the woman suffrage amendments by the next legislature, and its ultimate approval by the votes at the polls, it is proposed to call a mass meeting in the city of Indianapolis, May 10, 1882 of the women of the state who want to vote. Reduced rates on railroads and at hotels have been secured, and the committee in charge of the meeting hope for a good attendance.

Although the builders of this Union begin by erecting such ridiculously small states as Rhode Island, Delaware, Connecticut and Massachusetts, thier successors in the business have rushed to the other extreme and admitted a number of states, any one of which would easily swallow up the whole of the original thirteen. Beginning with Arkansas, there are twenty-four new States and territories, ten of which are more than one-third larger than Ohio, ten others more than twice as large, and one, Texas, about seven times larger. The latter, carved up into states the size of Rhode Island, would give us a Union with two hundred and eleven little Rhodies.—Times-Star.

Last Thursday there was an exciting scene in the committee on Foreign Relations, before which Mr. Blaine was giving his explanations in regard to the Shipherd business in the troubles of Peru and Chili. Mr. Belmont had been questioning him in regard to the nature of the instructions he had given to our representative, Trescott, who was sent to assist in settling the difficulty. Blaine said that Belmont had purposely misquoted his instructions to Trescott and must apologize. This Belmont refused to do. Blaine said the other was no gentleman, and Belmont called him a bully and a coward. They were both called to order and made to stop the disgraceful scene.

The House of Representatives at Washington was the scene of a disgraceful row on Saturday last. At the conclusion of the debate on the contested election case of Lynch and Chalmer from Mississippi, and just as a vote on the question was about to be taken, about one third of the members on each side arose and began a regular old jamboree of howls, motions and points of order, with the intentions on one side, of preventing a vote and on the other a determination to bring on a vote at once. The speaker rapped in vain for silence. The howling mob of statesmen paid no attention to him but kept on firing his shot at each other for some time. The principal speech was made by Representative Calkins of this state, and at its close a vote was finally taken which resulted in seating Lynch, the republican contestant. It was however, some minutes before the excitement subsided.

In a story which comes from St. Louis there is a valuable lesson for persons of the male persuasion who contemplate suicide. A young man walked to the middle arch of the big bridge, tied his legs together with a piece of twine, and jumped into the river. The mistake he made was in tying his legs. The would-be suicide shot down like an arrow and disappeared. But he soon reappeared, and despite his frantic efforts to sink himself, he remained on the surface. The legs of his pantaloons imprisoned a fair quantity of air and made a first-class life-preserver. The inflated breeches served another purpose too; for when the captain of the tug, which speeded to the rescue, skillfully threw a grappling hook at the floating man it caught firmly in the most conspicuous part of his apparel, and he was pulled on board heels first.—Times-Star.

Committee Meeting.

The central committee of the democratic party met at the court-house on May 2d, 1882, Wm. L. Blair, chairman presiding. On motion, L. D. Britton was chosen secretary, who declined, thereupon W. H. Dills was chosen such secretary.

The townships and precincts were called, and all responded.

On motion of Mr. Britton, it was resolved to select delegates to the congressional, judicial and joint representative conventions, and that all be upon the same basis; that is, of one vote for each two hundred votes given for governor in 1880.

On motion of Mr. Walters, it was resolved that the committeemen select the delegates from each township.

On motion of Mr. Dills, it was carried that the several townships and precincts be represented in said conventions, and be entitled to votes therein as follows:

Butler, Jackson, Concord, Wilmington, Waterloo, Richland, Fairfied, Smithfield and Keyser, each one vote; Auburn precinct two votes; Newville and Stafford one vote, and Frankin and Troy one vote.

And thereupon the following names were selected as delegates to the several conventions, viz:

Butler—Congressional, W. L. Work; judicial, Jas. D. Rowley; joint representative, Wm. Merica.

Jackson—Cong., Wm. Carr; jud., C. Sheets; joint rep., John Cool.

Concord—Cong., Sol. Barney; jud., J. W. Dills; joint rep., Wm. Shutt.

Newville—Cong., G. H. Munn; jud. B. F. Blair; joint rep., Wm. Seeley.

Stafford—Cong., Jacob Christoffel; jud., Jos. Wilson; joint rep., John Shoub.

Wilmington—Cong., E. Treenan; jud., A. J. Baxter; joint rep., C. S. Stoy.

Richland—Cong., L. D. Britton; jud., J. M. Goetschius; joint rep., M. Franks.

Fairfield—Cong., J. M. Brumback; jud., John Potts; joint rep., Moses Deetz.

Smithfield—Cong., F. Kelly; jud. Jas. W. Clark; joint rep., M. P. Harker.

Franklin—Cong., Jos. Sewell; jud., T. H. Tomlinson; joint rep., Jacob Stutz.

Troy—Cong., B. F. Cornelius jud., John Strauss; joint rep., Leverett Williams.

Keyser—Cong., B. D. Thomas jud., J. W. Wagner; joint rep., W. Teeters.

Waterloo—Cong., B. F. Duncan jud., O. P. Smith; joint rep., John Bu[illegible].

Auburn—Cong., Jacob Walburn, J. J. Vanauken; jud., W. H. Dills, Guy Plumb; joint rep., D. Y. Husselman, M. Houston.

On motion of J. B. Hoover, Michael Boland was chosen chairman of the central committee for the next two years.

On motion of L. D. Britton, the following preamble and resolution was adopted, to-wit:

Whereas, DeKalb county will not this year present the name of any person as a candidate for congress, and whereas, we heartily endorse and approve the course of our present member of congress, the Hon. W. G. Colerick; and, whereas, we have no presonal preference for the several persons whose names have been suggested for the honors of that high office, we do, as a just recognition of the life-time efforts and services for the democratic party, rendered by the Hon. Robert Lowry, and the gallant race he more than once made in the face of an overwhelming majority,

Resolve, That our representatives and delegates to the congressional convention at Kendallville on June1, next, be instructed to vote as a unit for the Hon. Robert Lowry as our cadidate for congress.

On motion of Mr. G. H. Munn, the following resolution was adoped, to-wit:

Resolved, That in case of vacancies in the delegates to the congressional, judicial and joint representative conventions on June 1, next, the majority of delegates present shall fill such vacancies from other democrats of this county, and in the absence of such, the delegates present vote for the whole county.

Mr. Blair then vacated the chair, and Mr. Boland, the newly-elected chairman, took his place.

On motion of Mr. Hoover, the thanks of this committee and the democracy of this county are hereby extended to Wm. L. Blair, our late chairman, for the honorable and active service for the party for the last two years, which was carried.

On motion of Mr. Tresh, J. A. Barns was chosen secretary of the committee for the next two years.

On motion of Mr. Daniel Tomlinson, F. Kelly, J. Koontz, J. D. Beard and C. C. Walters were appointed a committee to designate the day of holding the county convention, who thereupon reported the second Saturday of June, next, as such time; and on motion of A. J. Baxter, said report was accepted, adopted, and the committee was discharged.

Adjourned.

M. Boland, Chairman.

W. H. Dills, Secretary.

Commencement at Butler.

The commencement exercises of the Butler High school last Friday evening were well attended. In fact there were more people present than could be accommodated. The exercises were highly interesting, although the graduating class was small. There were but two in the class—Miss Detie Bolan and Mr. Jay C. Oberlin. The Alumni exercises included essays and orations by members of the class of "78," "80" and "81." The order of exercises was as follows:

INVOCATION.

Graduating Exercises, class of 1882.—Essay, "Day-break," Detie Bolan; oration, "Moral Courage," Jay C. Oberlin; music.

Alumni Exercises.—Essay, "Industry, The True Source of Wealth," Hattie Hanes, class '81; essay, "Indulgence of a Spirit of Censure," Eva Mason, class '81; music; essay, "No Excellence Without Great Labor," Irene Campbell, class '80; oration, "The Modern Good," James B. Boyle, class '78; music; toasts by citizens and friends; music; presentations of diplomas by principal; music; benediction.

The orations and essays were good, and showed care and thought in their preparation. Miss Bolan at the close of her essay was made the recipient of a handsome boquet. Her friends were highly pleased with her effort. Mr. Oberlin, though somewhat rapid in his utterance, produced some fine thoughts; Miss Hanes' essay was especially rich in good ideas; Miss Mason's was well read and scholarly; Miss Campbell's was bright, pointed and well read, but part of its effect was lost by reason of the confusion made by boys going down stairs just then. It is the same sort of unruly boys that will somehow manage to mar every gathering of this kind. Mr. Boyle's oration was in excellent taste and well delivered. Then followed remarks and responses to sentiments. Rev. D. F. Kain responded in a few well selected remarks to the "High Schools of our Land;" Dr. Dodge, of the Record, on "True Education;" Mr. Hosser, of the Auburn Republican, made a good hit on "Hoosier Instructors," and Supt. Barns responded briefly to the sentiment, "Schools and Scholars of Indiana." Rev. Mr. Oviatt, in talking up the subject of "Public Opinion," turned most happily into another train of thought, and presented Mr. Hubbell, the principal of the school, a fine, gold headed cane. The presentation was a complete surprise to the recipient. For once Mr. H. was so taken back that his usual readiness and ability to express his thoughts with fluency and ease forsook him. He rallied, however, and thanked the donors in a few well chosen words. The diplomas were then given to the graduating class. The exercises were interesting throughout and well appreciated, being interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. The room was tastefully decorated, and all the preparations and methods of carrying them into effect were well done and successfully carried out.

A Republican Straw.

The school children who have been studying "political economy," and who have been taught to revere the name of Longfellow, may not be aware of the fact that Longfellow was a staunch Republican. It is a fact that most of the great and good men are Republicans.—[Ligonier Leader.

We do not wish to cast a shadow of reflection on the fair name of the poet. But children, when studying "political economy," and hunting for the great and good men of the Republican party, must not forget Chas. Julius Guiteau, Col. Brady, Boss Shepard, Capt. Howgate, Secretary Dorsey, Lize Pinkston, and E. G. Thompson.—[La-Grange Democrat.

Enumeration, 1882.

The following table shows the enumeration of children of school age in the different townships and towns for 1882. The enumeration of 1881 is also given, and the gain or loss of the different corporations during the past year:

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	1881	1882	G'n.	L's.
Butler	234	260	26	....
Keyser	253	244	....	9
Jackson	483	516	33	....
Concord	409	526	27	....
Newville	270	266	....	4
Stafford	200	198	....	2
Wilmington	544	532	....	12
Union	391	372	....	19
Richland	605	599	....	6
Fairfield	546	535	....	11
Smithfield	487	478	....	9
Franklin	409	416	7	....
Troy	299	290	....	9
Auburn town	564	567	3	....
Waterloo town	534	514	....	20
Butler town	374	434	60	....
Garrett town	418	381	....	37
Total	7080	7109	145	128
Net Gain	.....	.....	18	....

Attachment Notice.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county—Before John Finch, a justice of the peace, for Richland township.—Frederick G. Fried vs. Humprey E. Chilcoat.

Now comes the plaintiff and files his complaint herein together with an affidavit that defendant is not a resident of the state of Indiana. Notice is hereby given to said defendant that unless he be and appear at my office on the 28th day of June 1882 at nine o'clock a. m. in Richland township in said county and state and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in his absence.

Witness, My hand and seal this the second day of May 1882.

John Finch,
Justice of the Peace.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.

C. H. Brown, Trustee.

TOWN ELECTION.

The following table shows the vote of the election on Monday. Democratic candidates were: Treasurer, I. N. Cool; clerk, George Lanning; marshal, C. C. Smith; trustee first ward, W. H. McQuiston; third ward, A. J. Ralston; fourth ward, E. Berry. Republican candidates were: Treasurer, C. Bengnot; clerk, George Zimmerman; marshal Thomas Hallam; trustee first ward, William Shoffer; third ward, J. J. Littlefield; fourth ward, Solomon Shearer:

WARDS.	Treas.		Clerk.		Marshal		Tr. 1st.		Tr. 3rd.		Tr. 4th
	D	R	D	R	D	R	D	R	D	R	D	R
First ward	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	34	[illegible]	[illegible]
Second Ward	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	24	[illegible]	[illegible]
Third Ward	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	15	24	[illegible]
Fourth Ward	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	15	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	19	17	11	12	[illegible]
Fifth ward	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	36	[illegible]	[illegible]	20	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]	169	156	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	162	182	141	162	[illegible]
Majority	....	[illegible]	13	....	[illegible]	....	[illegible]	....	41	....	....	1

WHY NOT TEMPT FORTUNE?

ESPECIALLY WHEN IT COSTS NOTHING.

SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS!

And over paid to our citizens within a short time by the Louisiana Lottery Association!

—o—

LISTEN! TICKETS GIVEN AWAY!

EVERY PURCHASER OF

CLOTHING,

HATS, ETC., ETC.

Amounting to ten dollars or more, presented with a ticket gratis.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.

On corner east of Postoffice.

New Material of all Kinds,

—AND—

GOOD WOORK

GUARANTEED

GIVE US A CALL!

J. M. RICE & SON, Auburn, Indiana.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER IN THE WORLD FOR REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

SOLID GOLD WATCHES.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFE-TIME.

SOLID GOLD
ONLY $19 65/100

We have lately purchased a bankrupt stock of Watches and Jewelry, which we shall offer in our catalogue at about half the usual prices. As the stock is very large, and we wish to turn it into money quickly, we have determined, in order to arouse public interest and secure applications for our catalogue of fine goods, to make an offer of a Solid Gold Hunting Case Watch at a price much below the cost of production. Our offer is to send by registered mail (carefully packed in a wooden box) a Solid Gold Hunting Case Patent Lever Full Jeweled Watch on receipt of $19.65. We warrant the massive cases to be solid gold and beautifully engraved as shown in cut. We warrant the movement to be a Swiss Patent Lever (which is the best movement known in the world) and full jeweled. These watches are not only the best time-keepers to be found now, but being full jeweled, will remain so and will be found as accurate 20 or 25 years hence as now, provided they have now had fair usage.

This is a startling offer, and that one cannot be made by any other firm, as the actual cost of the watches in Switzerland is about twice the price we ask for them. It must be taken advantage of at once, if at all. We make it only to secure customers for our other goods, catalogue of which will be sent to each purchaser. If any one on receiving the watch is dissatisfied, it can be returned at once and the money will be refunded. We sell all our goods on this condition, and have the largest jewelry trade of any house in America. To those who wish to see the watch before buying we offer to send C. O. D., if $1.00 is sent in advance as a guarantee of the express charges. Privilege of examination is given before paying the bill. If ordered C. O. D., however, the customer must pay all express charges, including return of money. We do not make a penny on this watch and cannot incur any expense beyond that of postage, which is provided for in the price named (19.65). If you want a watch for actual wear order this one. Watch speculators will readily see that such a watch as this which can be FULLY WARRANTED, can be sold or traded and immense profits made. The watch is really just as good as any $150 00 gold watch, and can be so represented. Do not buy brass, or composition metal watches, (really the same thing) with worthless movements, when by paying a little more you can have a solid gold watch which will be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

LADIES' WATCHES. Solid Gold Hunting Case, beautifully engraved nickel movement, warranted good time-keepers, sent by registered mail to any address on receipt of $18.87. If not satisfied on its receipt, send it right back and get your money, C. O. D., on the same terms as the Patent Lever Watch.

Remember, we warrant these watches to be exactly as represented, and that they will give more satisfaction, and that we deliver them to you free of charge in good order, on receipt of price—or C. O. D., subject to charges, with privilege of examination if desired. Remit by postoffice order, registered letter, or bank check on New York, or send greenbacks by express.

Address plainly,

J. A. VAIL, Dealer in Jewelry,
1327 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—"Don't you know me?"

—Another frost yesterday morning.

—Ice on May 2d. How is that for a mild winter?

—O. H. Widney, of St. Joe, was in town this week.

—The Normal school will begin sometime in July.

—The brick work on the Hebel building is nearly done.

—The court-house is proud with its freshly-painted stairs.

—Chris. Baker is authorized to collect taxes in his township.

—Only fifteen teachers attended examination last Saturday.

—Ryan Clutter, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday on business.

—Give Murphy a call when you want fine work in kalsomining.

—Judge Lowry was in town last Monday looking over the ground.

—Fred. Yesbera spent the sabbath with his friends in this place.

—A new invoice of choice patterns in wall paper, cheap, at Willis' Book Store.

—For the best assortment of wall paper, call on Willis, at the Book Store.

—C. K. Baxter, of the Press, was at the funeral of George Clark last Sunday.

—Billy Little quitted the last long enough to help work off the COURIER this week.

—David Maxwell, one of the solid men of Wilmington township, called on us Tuesday.

—Miss Annie Teeters is teaching school in the Cattell district, northwest of Altona.

—Wagons for all the boys in the county, at the very lowest prices, at the Book Store.

—N. McIntyre, of Sedan, was in town Tuesday and did not forget the COURIER folks.

—Five voting places in a town the size of Auburn made business pretty thin on Monday.

—Only one member was absent from the meeting of the County Board of Education Monday.

—A. J. Little has adorned the grounds around his residence with a new and tasty fence.

—Graining, painting and papering done in a neat and artistic manner by Canon & Cowhick.

—Commissioner Kelham and wife were in attendance at the funeral of Mr. Clark Sunday last.

—Mrs. A. J. Little left for the east yesterday to purchase her summer stock of millinery goods.

—Don't forget that you can get your pictures framed in the best style, for the least money, at the Book Store.

—Lay aside the little ballot;
Paste it gently on the wall;
Put a mourning border 'round it;
You can't vote again till fall.

—Window curtains and fixtures can be bought for less money at the Book Store than any other place. Call and see.

—Quite a number of new buildings are going up in town, and the sound of the saw and hammer is heard in the land.

—We publish this week a statement of the enumeration of school children of the county, which will be read with interest.

—W. S. Purdy & Co. are the best well men in the county, having the first and only three and a half foot well auger in the state.

—Joseph Bell, one of the most enterprising young farmers of Troy township, called in while here this week. Always glad to see him.

—Mrs. Mary Boyer is at present visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walsworth, a few miles east of town. Her health is greatly improved.

—Rev. Mr. Winter, of the Reform church, and Rev. W. H. Schultz, pastor of the Reform church at Denver, in this state, were among our callers Saturday.

—Jefferson Seery, of Smithfield, is now a resident of Concord township. He moved to the latter place some two months ago, and will devote his time to farming.

—Frank Culbertson is putting up a nice residence on North Jackson street, which will add greatly to the beauty of that part of town, as well as to Frank's personal comfort.

—Wm. Murphy is at the head of the faculty in the matter of painting, graining and kalsomining. Business hours from 7 a. m. till 8 p. m. Consultations on business in his line solicited.

—Dr. Z. W. Shepherd formerly of this county advertises to be in Waterloo Tuesday and Wednesday, May 9 and 10 for medical treatment of all who desire his services in chronic diseases.

—Canon & Cowhick are prepared to do all kinds of work in their line such as painting, graining and papering. Mr Canon makes graining a specialty, and Mr. Cowhick makes carriage painting and work in that line, his particular study.

—T. F. Franks and Manoah Franks were in town last Thursday. They were accompanied by their father, Peter Franks, now eighty-five years old. The old gentleman is a resident of Wayne county, Ohio, and has been visiting his sons in this county. T. F. Franks accompanied his father home.

—Wm. Murphy is kept constantly busy these days. Kalsomining, whitewashing, paper-hanging and such other work as comes in his line. An inspection of his work will satisfy the most fastidious lady, that "neatness follows in his path." Give him a call when you need work in his line.

—In the town electon at Waterloo, politics was as usual ignored. A light vote was cast, the total being 203 or about 50 to 75 short of a full vote. J. B. Hoover was elected marshal by 30 majority. J. C. Boyer trustee of 2nd ward and J. A Shull for treasurer were elected without opposition.

—George Clark, one of the most prominent and best known farmers of this section, died last Saturday morning and was buried on Sunday. His funeral was at the Presbyterian church. Rev. W. H. Daniels, of the M. E church, officiated. The attendance was very great. Over 450 persons were in the church and many could not get in.

—We see by the papers that Miss Ida Carpender has been confirmed by the senate as postmistress at Butler. This is certainly, a compliment to a worthy lady, and insures to the people of Butler a continuance of the good management that has characterized her administration of the affairs of the office heretofore.

—We see by a dispatch to the Fort Wayne papers, that the delegation from DeKalb county is solid for Judge Lowry. This is a slight mistake, as some of the delegates prefer some other man, and will not follow instructions. We say this merely to set the people right on the real position of the delegates from this county.

—"The Glades of the Alleghanies" is a handsome and interesting book, giving full description of the famous summer resorts—Deer Park and Oakland—situated in the heart of the Alleghany mountains. This book will be mailed free to any one making application to W. E. Reppert, passenger agent of the B. & O. road, Columbus, Ohio.

—A Greenback meeting will be held in Winslow's Hall, in Waterloo, Ind., on Thursday, May 11, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of arranging for a camp meeting to be held at some place in this Congressional district. Greenbackers and all who are in favor of reform are invited to attend. Good speakers will be in attendance. Turn out. By order of State Central Committee.

J. D. MCANALLY,
Township Committee.

—A CARD.—Permit me to extend to the neighbors and friends of my late husband, George Clark, and myself, my humble and heartfelt thanks for their many acts of kindness, attention and solicitude so generously given during his long and fatal illness. In an especial manner would I also thank the choir for their services at the funeral, and the pall-bearers and old family friends for their sympathies and services on that sad occasion in burying my dead.

MAGGIE CLARK.

—We took the liberty the other day to inspect the improvements recently made on the residence of W. H. Kiblinger Esq. of this place, and feel free to say he will have one of the nicest and posiest homes in the place. The papering and painting were done by Canon & Cowhick and show great artistic skill and ability. The outside work in graining the doors is in walnut imitation, and the inside work is to represent butternut grain. The papering is in fine taste, and we congratulate our friend "Kib" on having so cosy an abiding place.

—The retirement of S. J. Brandon from the trusteeship of Jackson township after a faithful service of four years, recalls to mind the misfortune he met with during his first year. We allude to the robbery of the funds in his hands. In the fall of 1878, Mr. Brandon, in common with several other trustees, drew out the public money on deposit in the First National bank at this place as it was feared that the losses the bank was likely to sustain in the Hazzard matter rendered it unsafe for depositors. Soon after this, on the 10th of October, his house was entered during his absence and the money, amounting to $504.36, stolen. Every possible means was taken to discover the thief, but without success. Nothing has been heard of the money or the thief to this day. Mr. Brandon had to replace the money out of his own pocket. The loss, to a man in his circumstances, is a very heavy one, but he has replaced the money to the last cent. An effort was made in the last legislature to have him released from the payment of this loss. It went through the house, with but little opposition, and was ready for a third reading and final vote in the senate. But from some cause was not called up. Every committee to which it was referred, reported favorably, and recommended its passage, but it was not reached. As above stated Mr. Brandon has made the loss good, and we make this explanation to set the public right in the matter.

Twenty-first Anniversary.

A pleasant party gathered at the residence of Wm. McIntyre, cashier of the First National Bank, last Thursday evening. The occasion was the twenty-first birthday of his son, Henry. The house, though large, was packed full of the friends who had gathered from far and near to be present on the occasion. It was intended to be a surprise, but Henry had snuffed the danger afar off, and was therefore not greatly taken aback when he saw his friends come trooping in. The evening was passed very pleasantly in a social way, the conversation being interspersed with charades and similar amusements. At an appropriate hour all partook of a generous supper. Then followed a short season of dancing, and the company retired to their homes after a most enjoyable evening. Quite a number of Mr. McIntyre's young friends from Sedan were in attendance.

Another Youthful Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. S. Dancer, trustee of Jackson township, DeKalb county, came to the city to report to Sheriff Cosgrove that his son James, thirteen years of age, had left his father's farm on Thursday last, and it was believed had come to Ft. Wayne from Auburn on a Fort Wayne and Jackson freight train. The sheriff ascertained that the lad had an aunt living at 69 Fourth street, and detailed Deputy Sam Miller to go there and to other points where information might be gathered. So far the search has been in vain. Mr. Dancer is a benevolent looking gentleman, and states that from the uniform kindness the boy received he is at a loss to divine the reason of his running away. The boy is described as rather undersized for his age, has blue eyes, and is fair, but his face is slightly freckled. He wore a heavy plush cap, blue shirt and an ash colored coat. Mr. Dancer's postoffice address is Auburn.—[Ft. Wayne News April 27.

Mr. Dancer informs us that the boy ran off April 20, and up to date he has received no news from him. Papers in this section of the country are requested to make a notice of the matter, and any information may be sent direct to Mr. Dancer at this place. No reason is known for the boy's strange freak.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wright, of Fairfield township, celebrated their golden wedding and Mrs. Wright's birthday April 27th. The intention was to celebrate on the 26th, but circumstances prevented some from meeting on that day. Mr. and Mrs. Wright were married in the State of New York in 1832, and emigrated to Indiana in 1835, where they since have lived. The four children and their families all met for the first time at their aged parents' home since they left to do for themselves. All the grand-children were there except Mr. Elsworth Wright, of Colorado. The children, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Gonser, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ringer, Mr. and Mrs. Park Sebert, Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, seventeen grand-children, two great-grand-children, Mrs. Ezekiel Brown, sister of Mrs. Wright, distant relatives, Mrs. Emily Wright, Mrs. M. Odell, and Mr. I. Wright and family were present. Forty-five dollars in gold was presented to the parents by the children. A tea set and other valuable presents were made by the grand-children. An ample repast was prepared by Mrs. Sebert and Mrs. Ringer. The grand-children enjoyed themselves by having a taffy pulling and plenty of warm maple sugar. All enjoyed themselves, and will long remember the 50th anniversary of their parents. May the snows of age fall light upon their heads, is the wish of all.

Birthday Party.

April 25th, 1882, came, and with it came the friends and neighbors of Geo Johnston. By nine o'clock they began to arrive, and continued to come until the house was filled, there being about fifty present. It was the 63d anniversary of his birth. He was taken by complete surprise, but bustled around and made them as comfortable as possible. The bell rang out the tidings that dinner was ready, and the friends repaired to the house and found awaiting them tables well spread with the choicest of pies and cakes, roasted chicken, etc., which the ladies are capable of preparing on such occasions. Ample justice was done to the many good things prepared, after which a good time was enjoyed by all present. A collection was taken up, and all responded promptly; money was raised and a chair was purchased and presented to Mr. Johnston by the many friends present. His estimable lady also received a nice set of glass dishes, and other presents were also presented. Those present were John Leighty and lady, Samuel Lawhead and lady, Franklin Herrick and lady, Bennett Leighty and lady, John Davis and lady, Evans McFadden and lady of Waterloo, Chas. Widney, William Shutt, Mrs. Henry Jenkins, Mrs. John Engle, Mrs. William Balls, Mrs. Gus. Hull, Mrs. Dead Grile, Mrs. Robert Davis, Mrs. Geo. Metcalf, Mrs. Gill Barbeen, Mrs. Jacob White and others, which time and space will not permit mentioning. The time passed away pleasantly until five o'clock, when your correspondent, with many others, retired to their homes, feeling that it was good to be there, hoping that Mr. and Mrs. Johnston may live to enjoy many such occasions.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

OBITUARY.

Died, at his residence in this place, on Saturday, April 29, 1882, after a long and painful illness of typhoid pneumonia, George Clark, aged sixty-one years, five months and seven days.

Mr. Clark was born in Richland county, Ohio, and in early manhood removed to this county and settled upon his home residence near Auburn Junction, where he lived over thirty years, from whence he removed to this place only last fall. By his industry and frugality in farming and stock raising, he became from a poor young man one among our most well-to-do citizens, and as showing his forethought and manner of using his family and property, only three months ago he distributed to his children over twenty thousand dollars worth of real estate, reserving for himself and his now widow a liberal competency.

Being a man of more than common liberality, with a large, warm heart, of undoubted integrity and honesty, enterprising, and sparing neither time nor money in the improvement of live stock in our farming community, the poor of his neighborhood and the people of our county have lost a true friend and benefactor, whose place will long be vacant.

The funeral services of Mr. Clark were held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Daniels, the pastor of the M. E. Church in this place, of which Mr. Clark was a member, officiating. The church, although a large one, could not accommodate more than half who attended, and the concourse of people, many of whom came from distant parts of the county, was among the largest ever witnessed in our city.

The afflicted widow and children have the heartfelt sympathy of our whole community.

May he rest in peace. W. H.

County Board of Education.

The board met in the office of the county superintendent at 10 o'clock a. m. Monday. Though some were late, all finally answered to their names except one. The following is a list of those present: Butler township, Jas. Quince; Keyser, Henry Probst; Jackson, W. S. Dancer; Concord, C. H. Brown; Newville, Wm. Seely; Stafford, Wm. Willson; Wilmington, Henry Crooks; Union, Isaac Hague; Fairfield; H. H. Slaybaugh; Smithfield, Frederick Gfeller; Franklin, Wm. Brown; Troy, W. S. Morgan; town of Auburn, John Treash; town of Waterloo, J. N. Chamberlain; town of Butler, H. S. Madden; town of Garrett, C. Reyher; absent, T. F. Franks, of Richland township. The forenoon session was occupied in miscellaneous work, including an examination of transfers for school purposes, arrangements for township institutes, and a discussion of similar matters pertaining to the school work of the different townships. At the afternoon session, the adoption of a new spelling book was discussed at considerable length. A motion was made to adopt Patterson's Common School Speller. Every trustee but one voted in favor of the measure, but as a unanimous vote was necessary in order to make a legal adoption, the motion was lost. A motion to re-consider was afterwards carried and was followed by a motion to postpone action thereon until the September meeting, which, being carried it was left over to that time, to be brought up then if thought best, as unfinished business. After a few remarks of a general nature, the board adjourned. The meeting was one of unusual interest, and the proceedings throughout were characterized by the best of feeling.

The Election.

But little interest was manifested in the election by many of our citizens. Hence the vote was a light one, as will be seen by the tabular statement in this issue. One cause of this was the new arrangement of voting in five different places, which occasioned some dissatisfaction as well as some confusion. But it is clear that this was the only legal course the board could take as the law is plain on the subject. There are so many contingencies that may arise that no other course would have been safe. Of course the extra expense is to be regretted, but the fault is in the law, and not in the town officers.

An Extraordinary Offer.

There are a large number of persons out of employment in every county who could be making from $100 to $300 a month working for us. There are many who have employment who could make a much larger amount by obtaining the agency of their county of an article of great merit that will sell well in all well-to-do families, and pay a profit of over 100 per cent. One agent in Pennsylvania sold 32 in two days and made over $60 clear. Any man with energy enough to call and show our invention can make $1,500 to $3,000 a year. We only want one good man in each county, to whom we will give the exclusive sale. The business is pleasant, permanent and profitable. We wish to hear at once from those who are out of employment, or desire to get better. Send stamp and address and receive our large descriptive circular, giving full information.

BENNER MANUFACTURING Co.,
116 Smithfield Street,
18-3t Pittsburgh, Pa.

—New goods! New prices! Everything new at Weirick's store, Fairfield Center. 18-tf

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Mrs. C. R. Reed spent Sunday with friends at New Era.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knott were visiting in Auburn last Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Crane visited friends at the county seat on Tuesday last.

Born to the wife of E. Trout April 27th, a daughter weight 9½ pounds.

Mrs. Coe, the mother of H. E. Coe, died Monday night, at his residence.

J. Imhoff has put a new roof on his house on Union street, occupied by F. P. Day.

J. B. Hoover came out of the race for marshalship again with flying colors as usual.

Milo Brate of Butler, was visiting the family of Geo. Blair a couple of days this week.

Jacob Saltzman has the contract for the stone work on Culbertson's new residence in Auburn.

C. R. Reed closed his second musical convention at New Era Saturday evening and returned home Monday.

Those who are having their residences painted this week are R. M. Lockhart, J. Shull, Geo. Shoner and W. B. Duncan.

Orson Edge has gone to his school, No. 9 in Jackson township. We are pleased to learn that his foot is getting so he can use it.

C. W. Gillett has moved to his new place, west of the Jackson depot. He has put up a new fence, and otherwise improved his property.

The election Monday resulted as follows: For councilmen, J. C. Boyer, W. B. Duncan and A. L. McEntarfer; marshal, J. B. Hoover; treasurer, J. A. Shull; clerk, E. T. Brysland.

Mrs. Coe, mother of H. E. Coe, is lying dangerously ill. Mr. Coe has been obliged to be absent from his school to attend at her bedside. Dell Clutter took charge of his department during his absence.

BUTLER.

Rev. D. F. Kain has been in ill health for some time, but is improving.

Butler is everywhere showing signs of life. Improvements are going on and greater ones are contemplated.

Brother Weamer and his wife attended the commencement exercises, and were looking as bright and happy as ever.

We had the pleasure of meeting our friend F. H. Shoub, now cashier in the new bank at butler. He likes his new business very much.

J. B. Boyle is succeeding well in the law practice, and, with increasing years and experience, will no doubt be an honor to the profession.

Dr. Dodge and Mr. Garrison, of the Record, were in attendance at the commencement exercises. The doctor made a brief speech in response to one of the toasts.

Dr. and Mrs. Bolan were well pleased with the appearance and success of their daughter Desie in her graduating exercises. Mrs. B. took a mother's pride in assisting to make everything a success.

Phil Plum, night yardmaster of the Lake Shore road, is on the sick list, but we hope there is nothing serious. Mr. Shook, the day yardmaster, performed his duties during his sickness.

Miss Josie Thomas was agreeably surprised on Friday. Her scholars made her a present of a nice easy chair. Miss Thomas makes teaching a success wherever she is, and this compliment to her ability and kindness in her chosen profession was well deserved and gratefully received.

SEDAN.

Mrs. Park Sebert is on the sick list.

Remember that Gonser sells cheap.

C. H. Bangs was in town last week.

Mr. Gonser pays the highest price for produce.

The Sunday school elected new officers Sunday.

Mrs. Seydel, who has been quite sick, is around again.

Mr. Chaney's dog went the way all dogs must which have no tag.

Mrs. Ella Grate is tending the depot and postoffice while her brother is away.

Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder returned from Ohio Saturday, where they have been visiting.

Dr. A. B. [illegible] has left Butler and located at [illegible], where he intends to practice. There is an opening for a good doctor in Butler now.

J. W. Bateman is canvassing the county in the interest of the Johnston Harvester Company. Mr. B. has a good machine, and it would pay farmers to examine it before buying.

The Richland township Sunday school institute was held here Saturday. A number of Sunday school workers from abroad were present. A good and profitable time was had, and all went away feeling stronger in the Sunday school work. J. A. M.

CONCORD.

Mrs. C. A. Jenkins has been quite ill for a few days.

Mrs. L. Thrush has returned to her home in Auburn Junction.

Henry Baker will soon have his new Buffalo scales in running order.

W. B. Brown is a wide awake agent. He is at work both early and late.

Ira Ricketts and F. H. Grimes are doing a good business in the lumber trade.

We are glad to record the fact that Mrs. Jacob Baker is regaining her health.

We noticed James Culbertson driving over the country last Friday and Saturday.

Lyman Knight is lying dangerously ill. Dr. Johnson, of St. Joe, is his attending physician.

Last Sabbath Miss Ella Culbertson became Mrs. Frank White. We congratulate. Success.

I. H McClure, wife and little daughter Halla, of Ft. Wayne, were the guests of G. W. Draggoo last week.

Our Sabbath school was reorganized last Sunday. Great interest is manifested in officers, teachers and scholars.

Notwithstanding the rain showers of last Monday afternoon, there was an old time barn raising at Mrs. Nancy Wyatt's. Over one hundred people took supper there. No accidents to complete the May day party.

GARRETT.

Judge Carpenter's health has been very poor lately.

David Ocker is the new landlord at the Sargent House.

Dr. Barr chief inspector of the B. & O. relief association, is in the city looking after the interests of the association.

Garrett is to have a new blacksmith shop, on Cowen street. A. M. Haines from St. John, is the principal manager.

Certain would be democrats here turned a double summersault and flopped square into the republican traces last Monday.

It is the current report than John W. Garrett president of the B. & O. R. R. with other officers of the road will be at Garrett the coming week.

H. M. Poul has returned from Creston Iowa where he has been working for a short time. Mr. Poul does not speak very favorably of that part of the west, and thinks Garrett is not the worst place there is after all.

William Galloway, foreman in the machine shops has moved into the Prouty Building on Cowen street, formerly occupied by Mr. Riegel, he having removed to Springfield, Mo.

The city election in this place passed off quietly last Monday. The republicans elected the three trustees, clerk and treasurer, while the democrats elected Henry Houser marshal by 28 majority. But for a few disappointed office seekers the entire democratic ticket could have been elected.

The entertainment given at Hunsel's Hall on Saturday evening, was well patronized. The characters Tim Gleason and Rose Cranberry were greeted with frequent applause and with the occasional longing look from the assistant manager from behind the curtain, were the attractions of the evening. A. B. C.

THE EASTERN MARKETS RANSACKED!
—THE—
CHOICEST BARGAINS SELECTED!

THE bulk of their goods brought away and piled up pile upon pile in Isaac Ochs' Popular store, Auburn, Indiana. Immense assortment and Tremendous Bargains in every department.

DRESS GOODS in all the latest styles and Fabrics from the cheapest to the best.

STAPLE DRY GOODS corded up, and marked at prices way below anybody else's. Must sell.

NOTIONS AND FANCY GOODS.—Elegant line Trimmings, Curtain Laces, Lambrequin Goods, Fringes, etc.,—Splendid assortment.

HATS AND CAPS

the latest styles in Fur, Wool and Straw, to suit everybody.

CLOTHING

for boys and children. The largest stock and best assortment ever brought to DeKalb County, and at Wholesale prices. See my stock before you buy. I will save you money.

CARPETS.

Largest stock in Northern Indiana. Body Brussels, Tapestry, Ingrain, Hemp and Rag,—Latest patterns and at prices that defy competition.

TRUNKS.

Valises, etc. Everything at bottom prices. An investigation is solicited. If good goods and low prices will be an inducement—I must sell all I've got. But I can buy more.

☞ HIGHEST prices paid for all kinds of Grain.

100,000 POUNDS OF WOOL WANTED

Dont forget the Popular Store of ISAAC OCHS, Auburn, Indiana.

THE LONG JOURNEY.

When [illegible]
In the valleys and mountains of life,
And the road has grown dusty and [illegible],
And [illegible]
We [illegible]
[illegible]
And [illegible]
To travel the journey again.

For [illegible]
And [illegible]
While [illegible] of laughing and [illegible],
And [illegible] of the [illegible]
All bright [illegible] we remember—
How little we thought [illegible]
But now we are looking and longing
To [illegible] again.

But vain [illegible] is sighing,
Our course must be forward and on;
We can [illegible] back on the journey,
We cannot [illegible].
Let us hope, then, as onward we travel,
That [illegible] the plain,
That our road be beside the sweet waters,
Though we may not begin it again.

For existence forever goes upward—
From the hill to the mountain does rise,
On, on, o'er invisible summits,
To a [illegible]
Strive on, then, with courage unshaken—
True labor is never in vain—
For [illegible]
No mortal can travel again.

THE CAPTAIN'S BODY GUARD

Our Continent.

"Well, yes," said my host, Captain Stanley, as brave a soldier as ever drew a saber, "I have seen some hard times since I have been out here and so have we all. A man in our profession can't pass five years of his life on the plains without getting some hard knocks, I tell you."

We had just finished a late supper, and having drawn our chairs about the wide fire-place, had filled our pipes preparatory to indulging in a social smoke. There were a dozen of us in the room, all except myself wearing Uncle Sam's "honored blue." I was at that time correspondent for an eastern paper, and had been ordered to the frontier to write up the campaign which General Crook was about to undertake against the Cheyennes who had broken away from their reservation. Finding that a detachment led by Captain Stanley, the commander of Fort Frasier, was expected to bear the brunt of the work, I joined my fortunes with it, accompanied it on a perilous scout of 1,400 miles, and we had but just returned to the fort.

We had got back, too, just in time to escape what Western men call a "blizzard." And what is that? It is an old-fashioned New England snow storm a dozen times intensified. The wind blows as if it would sweep everything before it, the cold is so cold and piercing that one shivers over the hottest fire, and the air is filled, not with snow, but with sharp needles of ice, which seem to threaten destruction to every living thing exposed to its fury. We were all snugly housed, our jaded horses were munching their barley in their warm stables, the sentries were standing grim and silent in their boxes, and those of us who were fortunate enough to have no duty to call us out into the storm, spread our hands over the cheerful wood fire and congratulated ourselves on the safe ending of our tedious scout.

I said there were a dozen of us in the room; but I must not forget to mention Captain Stanley's body guard, four magnificent Scotch deer hounds, which lay stretched out before the fire. They were large shaggy animals, with immense bone and muscle, and bore on their bodies numerous evidences of the battles through which they had passed. They were terrible fighters, and the ease with which they could overtake and pull down an antelope was surprising. They accompanied us on the scout, and I could not tell why it was that they were treated with so much kindness and consideration by every member of the company. On this particular night I was to find out.

"How the wind blows!" exclaimed a young Lieutenant from his seat in the chimney corner. "I declare it will tear the stockade up by the roots."

"Yes, it is a wild night; and I hadn't been on the plains as long as you have, Jack," said the Captain, addressing himself to the Lieutenant, "before I was called upon to face just such a storm as this without shelter of any kind, except what was to be found in the hills and under circumstances that were calculated to freeze the blood in the veins of the bravest man that ever stepped. Those hours of horror turned my [illegible] and made me an old man before my time. I can not recall them without shuddering."

The Captain puffed vigorously at his well blackened brier root for a few minutes, and after making sure that it was well lighted continued:

"I always was fond of horses, dogs, and guns, and I can scarcely remember the time when I did not own some of the very best. My pointers could not be beaten, my pony would take a fence almost as well as any of my father's thoroughbreds, and my little fowling-piece was sure death to any bird that got up within any reasonable distance. When I left home to go to West Point it almost broke my heart to part frrm my pets; but my uncle, who was an ardent sportsman, assured me that if I would pass a creditable examination at the end of my school term, he would present me with a pack of dogs that would more than take the place of the ones I left behind; my father, a veteran of the Mexican War and a great admirer of cavalry, told me that if I would fit myself to enter that branch of the service, he would give me the finest horse in his stable, and my mother said she would give me another. Encouraged by these promises, and ambitious to distinguish myself in my chosen profession, I worked hard and stood among the first five at the end of the course. Here are the dogs my uncle gave me," said the Captain, his stern face softening as he gazed almost lovingly at the splendid animals before him, "and the horses—well, one was killed during a fight on the Sweetwater, and the other—poor Gipsy! She was my mother's gift.

As soon as I received my commission I was ordered to report to the commanding officer at Fort Scott for duty. The officers were all lovers of the chase, and at the sight of my horses and hounds they received me with open arms. In company with the neighboring ranchmen we hunted almost constantly; there was little scouting to be done, for the Indians were quietly settled on their reservation, and when winter came and the first snow covered the ground, the sport we had [illegible] antelope was simply mag[illegible] one morning, while I was returning to the post with a freshly killed antelope slung across my saddle, I noticed that my eyes burned and that the surface of the snow, from which the bright rays of the sun were reflected with almost dazzling brilliancy, seemed to be covered with floating specks. Now and then something that looked like a distant chain danced across the range of my vision, and this would be followed by multitudes of miniature pin wheels and sky rockets. I knew that the glare of the sun on the snow had affected my eyes, but I thought nothing of it, for I was foolish enough to believe that it would wear off in time.

"When I reached the fort I found there was a runner from the Red Eagle Agency who had brought information which rendered it necessary that a courier should be sent with dispatches to Fort Morris. The dispatches were ready and the Colonel was waiting for me. I changed horses, received my instructions and set out at once with my Henry rifle slung at my back, and my hounds trotting along before me. For two or three days I had noticed a suspicious bank of clouds hanging in the northern horizon, and the Colonel had warned me to make haste, for a storm was brewing. Acting upon his advice I pushed forward as rapidly as possible, shading my burning eyes with my hand, and now and then calling to my dogs, which seemed inclined to turn about and give battle to a pack of gaunt and hungry wolves that was following along behind me. I saw with no little uneasiness that although the south wind was blowing very strongly, that threatening bank of clouds in the north was rising rapidly against it. The Arctic King was coming in his might, and I knew that the storm would overtake me long before I could reach my destination. I began to feel timid. I did not like the persistency with which those famine breeders hung on my trail. There was something ominous in it.

"Just before dark I reached my camping ground. It was a sheltered nook among the hills, bare of snow, and there was a spring of good water close by. After putting the blankets on the mare and feeding her, and making her as comfortable as I could for the night, I built a fire under the lee of a rock, and with my dogs around me sat down to my supper. Just then the war of the elements began. With a roar and a rush that were terrific, the advance guard of the Arctic forces struck the south wind and drove it back. Then there was a lull, such as sometimes occurs in battle when the opposing forces are gathering themselves for a decisive effort, and with another mighty roar the final onslaught was made. The air was literally filled with ice. It grew colder and colder every minute, and my fire seemed to give out no heat. I could not look at the blaze, for the pain in my eyes had increased until it was almost unbearable. Finally I wrapped my blankets around me and lay down to sleep.

"How long I slumbered I do not know. I was awakened by one of my dogs, which came up and licked my face, and I started up and threw off the blankets. It was pitch dark. The blizzard was still raging fearfully, and the wolves had approached so close to my camp that I could hear the patter of their feet as they ran about among the scrub oaks, and my faithful dogs now and then gave a growl to warn them off. A stamping among the brutes told me that my mare was rendered uneasy by their presence, and I thought I would go out and speak to her. I looked toward the place where my fire had been kindled, but could not see a single coal. It had burned itself completely out. Groping my way on my hands and knees to the pile of fuel I had gathered before going to sleep, I picked up a stick and began poking around for the coals. Presently a sharp stinging sensation in my hand told me that I had found one. I could feel the pain, but I could not see the coal, and yet it must have been a live one, or else it could not have burned me. With trembling hands and a terrible sinking at my heart, I took out a match and lighted it. I could distinctly hear it burning, but I could not see the blaze, although I held the match until my fingers were scorched. Then I dropped it, and with a scream of terror jumped to my feet. Great Heaven! I was snow blind.

"With the experience I now have I know that my situation would have been desperate if I had been in full possession of my sight; as it was I gave myself up for lost. I was parlyzed with horror, and for a time I could not move. The actions of one of my dogs aroused me. He bounded forward and began a terrible battle with one of the wolves. With another cry of terror I groped my way back to my bed, and catching up my rifle succeeded after a terrible struggle in placing myself on the top of the rock. By this time the battle between my dogs and the wolves was in full progress, and a fierce one it was too. I fired shot after shot into the air in the hope of frightening the famine-breeders, but they were rendered too desperate by hunger to fear the smell of gunpowder. How earnestly I prayed that my noble dogs might succeed in fighting off their savage foes. I shouted to them words of encouragement to which they had never failed to respond during a hunt, and finally I knew that they were gaining the victory.

"They drove the wolves away from me but the ravenous animals were not to be cheated. They turned their attention to my horse. I fairly cried as I stood their sightless and helpless, on my rock and listened to the struggles of the frightened beast as she strove with desperate energy to break her fastenings. To my great joy she succeeded, and with a shrill neigh of terror set off up the valley. I heard her hoofs clattering over the bare ground and the snarls and yells of the savage pack as it followed close at her heels, and then all was still.

I called my faithful guardians, and each one answered to his name by a joyful bark, all except Major, whose reponse was a mournful whine. Poor fellow! He had been severely handled.

"I did not delude myself with the hope that I had seen the last of the wolves. I knew that my steed, fleet and enduring as she was, would in the end be overtaken and torn in pieces by her tireless pursuers, and that having whetted their appetites they would return in sufficient numbers to overpower my guards and make an end of me. I had always prayed for a soldier's death, and the thought that I must give up my life in this horrible way was agonizing.

"I can not tell how long I stood there waiting for the wolves to come back and put me out of my misery, for I was dazed with terror. I fell into a sort of a stupor from which I was aroused by a bark from one of my hounds, and—I knew every note uttered by those animals as well as I know the sound of my own voice—it was a bark of welcome. Help was near. My first feeling was one of amazement, and before I had recovered from it I heard a rifle shot and then another and another. The whole pack broke out into a joyous baying. I cocked my rifle with my benumbed hands and fired all the remaining cartridges in the air. I tried to shout, but could not utter a sound. My head reeled and I fell from the rock.

"I remained a full month at Mr. Butler's hospitable rancho, before I was able to return to the post. He and two of his neighbors had been out after black-tails and were caught in the blizzard, but knowing that they must reach home or run the risk of being snowed up in the hills they boldly faced it, and a fortunate thing it was for me that they did so. They saw the wolves devouring my mare and took the back trail expecting to find my mangled body. When they discovered me lying there behind that rock surrounded by my bleeding hounds no words could express their astonishment. Close by there were seven dead wolves and three disabled ones that were trying to crawl off. These they shot. That these dead and wounded members of the pack were not devoured by their comrades was owing to the fierceness with which my brave dogs fought them. They were badly cut up, but they received the same kind nursing that I did, and here they are as ready for a fight as they ever were. Do you know now why everybody in the fort thinks so much of my body-guard, Harry?"

I thought I did.

Jumbo Meets His Fellows.

New York Tribune.

As Jumbo passed along he was greeted with uplifted trunks. He returned the salute and shook trunks with the party in a friendly but rather bored manner. After exchanging civilities with Jumbo, an elephant would run his trunk along the monster's back. One ill-bred little elephant, not used to good society, gave his tail a pull just as he got past, and then looked innocent, and appeared to be searching intently for peanuts in the saw-dust. There was no sign of fear among the elephants, and Jumbo seemed to consider the whole thing "an awful bore, you know," until he came to the elephantine damsel Baby. When he saw her he stopped, and reaching out his trunk just touched her and drew it back again all the time looking at her in a most interested and loving manner. It was evidently a clear and decided case of love at first sight. Baby was very naturally thrown into an extreme flutter of excitement, but she managed to keep up a decent appearance of coyness. She finally consented, however, to shake trunks with her admirer, and after awhile allowed herself to be caressed, even going so far as to return her lover's endearments. The other female elephants present were scandalized, and wound their trunks together, as if saying: "Oh, the bold faced thing, did you ever!"

Jumbo was walked up and down the line several times, the elephants doing their best to attract his his attention as he passed, but he had eyes only for Baby, and when at length they were all started around the track, that giddy damsel ran on ahead, disdaining to walk with the others, so proud was she, apparently, of her gigantic lover. When Jumbo was finally led out of the ring to his stable, he cast a long, lingering look over his shoulder that gave evidence that he had ceased to mourn for his English Alice.

White House Conservatories

Providence Journal

The White House conservatores, under the charge of five gardeners, are forced their utmost all of the time to provide the decorative plants and flowers for the regular use. In the rose-house built for Mrs. Hayes, some 200 blossoms are cut each day, but for extra occasions other government green-houses are levied upon, as at the last state dinner 900 roses were used on the tables alone, besides the oceans of violets and heliotropes over which the primrose ships sailed. A few orange and lemon trees are kept in the hot-houses, and a month or so later the grape-vines produce their immense clusters of fruit. The White House conservatory has the most complete collection of double geraniums in the city, and some of the finest cinerarias, or cape asters, in the country, the most of the flowers measuring an inch and a half and two inches across their disks of shaded purple and white. The matter of flowers is now a social necessity that no one dares to disregard, and the florist's bill about matches the caterer's on any great occasion. A Jacqueminot rose costs as much as a beefsteak, and if the lily-lunching æsthetes live a la carte, there is no economy in their craze.

What Iowa Girls are Taught.

At the Iowa agricultural college every girl in the junior class has learned to make good bread, weighing and measuring their ingredients, mixing, kneading, and baking and regulating her fire. Each also has been taught to make yeast and to bake biscuits, puddings, pies, and cakes of various kinds; how to cook a roast, broil a steak and make a cup of coffee; how to stuff and roast a turkey, make oyster soup, prepare materials for other soups, steam and mash potatoes so that they will melt in the mouth, and, in short, to prepare a first-class meal, combining both substantial and fancy dishes, in good style. Theory and manual skill have gone hand in hand. Vast stores of learning have been accumulated in the arts of canning, preserving, and pickling fruits, and they have taken practical lessons in the details of household management, such as house furnishing, care of beds and bedding, washing, ironing, care of the sick, etc. The girls, we are informed, are also thoroughly grounded in science, mathematics and English literature. If there is anything that challenges the unlimited respect and devotion of the masculine mind it is the ability in woman to manage well her own household.

WIVES AND HUSBANDS.

The Latter Not Responsible for the Former's Misdoings—Interesting Decision of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire.

Boston Herald

Up in New Hampshire Mrs. Harris and her husband sued Mrs. Webster and her husband because the latter had spoken slanderous words of the former. Mr. Webster demurred, saying he had done no wrong, and didn't care to be brought into court because his wife was alleged to have used her tongue too freely, and the Supreme Court has sustained the demurrer. The decision, which involves the rights of married men as well as the wrongs of married women, is long and interesting. Judge Foster, who drew it, discusses the changes which have taken place in the legal relations of husband and wife, and the responsibilities therefrom arising.

Under the English common law the wife could neither sue nor be sued apart form her husband. The old doctrine was that "man and wife are the same flesh." Herein an old writer said: "The common law shaketh hands with divinitie," as illustration, says Judge Foster, "of the habit of presenting every established fact which is too bad to admit of any other defense, as an injunction of religion." So, under the common law, the married woman's contracts were void, her legal personality being extinguished. Petruchio has said:

> "I will be master of what is mine own:
> She is my goods, my chattels; she is my house,
> My household stuff, my field, my barn;
> My house, my ox, my ass, my anything."

As Judge Foster states it, the woman being thus utterly within her husband's control, his cattle, his "ox," he became personally and solely answerable for her torts, as for the trespasses of his other domestic cattle; and, of course, the law could pursue no other consistent system than that which declared all her acts absolutely void. Such was the social and legal status of a married woman centuries ago; and the change of her condition before the law seems to be much less in England than in New Hampshire. The influences of Christianity and a more highly diffused and higher system of moral and religious education have gradually ameliorated woman's social condition, and elevated her to the state of dignity and importance she possesses to-day. Like all the changes of advancing civilization, this change has been very gradual, but it has been a steady march from slavery to freedom. Herbert Spencer says that in the United States women have reached a higher status in the social structure than anywhere else, and Judge Foster adds that it is equally true that in many of the States, certainly in New Hampshire more than any where else, have the legal distinctions between the sexes been swept away. He continues:

"Thus, by progress in the same direction, by changes religious, socil, customary, legislative and judicial, the rule of the common law has been abolished and obliterated; and it is no longer possible to say that in New Hampshire a married woman is a household slave or a chattel, or that in New Hampshire the conjugal unity is represented solely by the husband. By custom and by statute the wife is now a joint master of the household, and not a slave or servant. The rule now is that her legal existence is not suspended. So practically has the ancient unity become dissolved and dissolved that the wife may not only have her separate property, contracts, credits, debts, wages, causes of seperate action growing out of a violation of her personal rights, but she may enter into legal contracts with her husband and enforce it by any suit against him.

What follows? Simply that, since the wife's property is not her husband's her earnings are not his, her legal subjection to him no greater than his to her, no reason remains for holding him liable for her wrong-doing any more than making her responsible for his. So when the court came to pass upon the case before it, the question being why Mr. Webster, an innocent man, should be held responsible for the torts of Mrs. Webster, the court was obliged to say that, having done no wrong, neither he nor his property could be holden for any act of his wife, and, "that the husbands of these female parties are strangers, in law, to the proceedings, and that the demurrer should be sustained." In New Hampshire, then, if nowhere else, the hen-pecked husband can sit quietly and watch the triumphal progress of the female suffrage movement and all other movements. If he does lose a little something he also gains. His wife is not his "slave," as she might be if he lived in some more conservative States, but if she lets her tongue run at its highest rate of vibration against her neighbors he cannot be sued. Happy Mr. Webster. Unfortunate Mrs. Harris.

The Decatur County Mob.

Indianapolis Journal, April 23d.

The people of Indiana are again brought face to face with the reality of mob law. For the second time this month has a crowd of enraged men take the law into its own hands and execute summary justice upon a presumed criminal. Between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning, masked men broke in to the Greensburg jail, and taking Oscar M. Garrett from one of the cells, hanged him to a tree. The history of his offense, as generally accepted, is as follows: Garrett had for a number of years been criminally intimate with a Mrs. Walton, the liaison being the subject of general talk in the neighborhood. Walton had some knowledge of the true state of affairs, but was, it seems, unable to rid himself of his wife or her paramour. On the night of the 7th of January last Walton was assassinated while sitting by his fireside, the murderer firing through a window. The perpetrator of this crime proved to be a negro named Adam Frasier, who, upon being arrested, confessed the deed and declared that he had been instigated to its commission by Mrs. Walton and Garrett, who wished to rid themselves of the only obstacle between them and their desires. He afterward said Garrett had nothing to do with it, but that Mrs. Walton alone had persuaded him to the murder, and had left the shutter open and arranged the lamp near her husband, so he could see to take a deadly aim. But what seemed to place Garrett's complicity with the crime apparently beyond question was the fact that when he heard that Frasier had confessed he attempted suicide by shooting. This is a brief history of the case up to the time that all three of the supposed guilty parties were arrested. About a month ago Garrett was brought to trial at North Vernon, on a change of venue. There, after a legal trial, he was acquitted by a jury composed of citizens of Jennings county. The verdict was received with unbounded astonishment, as it was almost the universal opinion that the very least penalty he would receive would be a life sentence. He was released, but was afterward arrested on a charge of arson, and was in jail awaiting trial when the mob wreaked their vengeance upon him.

This case is very different from the Kokomo affair in several important particulars. Long's offense was the most heinous in the calendar of crime, and was committed, or attempted, on a mere babe. It was a crime for which Indiana laws afford no suitable penalty. With the enormity of such an outrage fresh upon their minds, and with the knowledge that the courts of justice were powerless to inflict suitable punishment, the infuriated populace broke in upon the villain and speedily dispatched him whose revolting atrocity had forfeited all claim upon mercy and delay. With Garrett, the case was different. Even admitting all charged against him up to the time of the murder, there is a possibility that he had nothing whatever, directly, to do with it. But be this as it may, he had met all the requirements of law and a sworn jury, after a full investigation of his case, declared that his guilt was not clearly proven. And not only are the two crimes widely different, but the two lynchings are very dissimilar. That at Kokomo was done in the white heat of passion, when reason was well nigh wrecked in the storm of indignation against such an unnatural wretch. That at Greensburg was wrought out with cold-blooded deliberation, and after the law had had its way without, so far as it appears, any unfair hindrance.

Tom Corwin's Canvass.

Anecdote by General Garfield.

When Corwin was nominated for Congress he had no more idea of an election than the dead. But he went out to canvass on horseback, through the settlements, from log cabin to log cabin and solicit votes. His competitor was almost sure of his election, for the district was strongly with his party. One night Corwin stopped at a log hut where all the family, etc., slept in one room and lived in it, after the simple habits of that day. The occupant was a Democrat and Corwin said he never dreamed of getting his vote. But that night as they gathered around the fireside, he asked the fellow if he knew Mr. ——, his competitor. "Well," replied the farmer, "I rather guess I do—I'll never vote for him." This was a sensation to Corwin. He was now on the trail to find something that might prove beneficial in his canvass—something that he might use at his next meeting to set the house in a roar. "May I ask your reason for not voting for him?" said Mr. Corwin. "I am sure Mr. —— is a good old Locofoco." "Wall," drawled the old man, "you see it was this way: He was here one night just as you be to-night, and mam and I went into that bed right here. Afore he got in he stooped down as if he was gwine to pray. 'Hisht!' sez I, 'mam, our congressman is kinder pious.' Jist then he opened his saddlebags, and I peeped out to see what it was, and I'll be goll darned if it wasn't a shirt, and into it he clim and popped into bed, and jist like an old woman for all the world. You and I," droned the farmer, "Mr. Corwin, works hard all day in our old shirts, and they is all fired sweaty sometimes, but we thinks nothing of sleeping in them. But that darned cuss is so aristocratic that he hes to put on airs and kerry his wife's shirt along with him and sleeps in hit, durn him. I'll never vote for no such man." Tom had it. He slept little that night. Next day day he went forth on his errand of drumming up a crowd for his night meeting. Night after night he told the yarn to crowds who serenaded it with yells of laughter. Tom carried the district and went to Congress. While Tom Corwin was telling that very story, and just as it reached the climax and was on his feet vociferating that comical speech about the shirt, his head drooped a little, his countenance turned ashy and he started to fall, but I caught him in my arms, and so Tom Corwin died.

Poor Pay For a Pair of Legs.

Boston Post.

A case is expected soon to come to trial in this city, before the United States Court, in which a young man sues the Grand Trunk Railway, of Canada, for damages for cutting off both his legs several years ago. He was going West with his father's family at the time, and the road offered to pay $1,300 cash or to educate the boy and then give him a place in its service. The father accepted the latter offer and the boy was sent to school for two years. He was then taught telegraphing, and then became one of the most expert operators on the line. He was paid $30 per month, but others doing the same work received $40. The young man applied for an increase, but was refused, and left. He now brings the suit for damages, alleging that the agreement at the time of the accident was made without authority, and that, even if it was valid, the terms of the contract have not been fulfilled. He claims that two years' schooling does not constitute an education, and that $30 a month does not make a living. He has secured General B. F. Butler as counsel.

An Intelligent Jury.

Texas Siftings.

Johnson L. Colt has more self-conceit than Oscar Wilde and Charles Francis Adams combined. Not long since one of the Sifters, while taking a ride out in the suburbs, came across "Jud" Colt, as he is familiarly called, hiding behind a tree.

"What are you doing out there?" we asked.

"I am afraid the Sheriff will put me on the Jury in the big land case."

"But you are exempt because you are a fireman."

"I know that, but I'm afraid they will take me anyhow. I heard one of the lawyers in the case say he was going to have an intelligent Jury if it took the last man in Austin."

[illegible]

If it takes a small boy twelve years of age twenty-two minutes to bring in six small sticks of wood, how long will it take him to walk a mile and a half to see a circus procession.

Barnum will not permit Jumbo to be taught how to imbibe a barrel of catawba cobbler through a section of gas-pipe. But if the pampered beast ever gets a sniff of American mixed drinks, there will be a riot.

Old Abram's wisest remark: "Et de descendants of de rooster what crowed at Peter was to make a noise every time a lie is tole dare would be such a noise in de world dat yer couldn't hear de hens cackle."

The Texas Christian Advocate says that thousands of good men are spoiled by marrying the wrong woman. The women who marries thousand of good men must be very wrong, and no wonder the good men are spoiled.

A refined lady of this city, describing the illness of a neighbor who was afflicted with lung trouble, said the doctor called it new-mown-hay. She is a probably relative of the lady, who complained of "a terrible Nashua in the stomach."

A man in passing a country churchyard, saw the sexton digging a grave, and inquired: "Who's dead?" Sexton: "Old 'Squire Bumblebee." Man: "What complaint?" Sexton (without looking up): "No complaint; everybody satisfied."

"Mr. Schlimhaus, I hear you have had an interesting occurrence at your house this morning; not twins again, I hope?" "Mine gracious, I hopes not; but I do not know so pretty well about dot, for I hear dot doctor say dot Mrs. Schlimhaus she might haff a relapse some more already."

"And so you love June better than any other month," she said, gazing at the young farmer the from blue abysses of her soft, dreamy eyes. "Beautiful, leafy June, with its roses and its song-birds and its fragrance ladened zephyrs?" "Yes," he replied, nonchalantly. "It's the best month to wean calves."

Uncle Nace and Aunt Sukey, his wife, were out on Austin avenue buying some things a few days ago. The old woman bought a handkerchief, the color of which did not suit Uncle Nace, and he said angrily: "Yer has made a poor choice. Your hain't got no taste." "I know I has bad taste, but de first poor selecshun I made was when I tuck you."

There had been a seeming coolness between the lovers. One day Emily's schoolmate ventured to refer to the subject and asked her: "When did you see Charley last?" "Two weeks ago to-night." "What was he doing?" "Trying to get over the fence." "Did he appear to be much agitated?" "So greatly," returned Emily, "That it took all the strength of papa's new bulldog to hold him."

Interpretation of motive: A Sunday school teacher was exhibiting his specimen pupil to a company of visitors, and in the course of some questions propounded to elicit evidence of the child's precosity, asked: "Now tell me, why does the Lord love your mother, Samuel?" "'Cause she's a sinner." "Very good; and why does she come to Church on Sunday?" "'Cause she has a new bonnet almost every week."

"I am not an astronomer," remarked old man Jones to his wife the other night, coming in off the porch, where he had interrupted the moonlight festivities of his daughter and her young man. "I am not an astronomer, as I said before, and I cannot explain it, but I am sure I saw the son rise a few minutes ago, and it is now midnight." Then he looked reflectively down at the toe of his boot, and sent the girl off to bed.

Curiosities of Trade.

Providence (R. I.) Journal.

The demand for eye-stones has fallen off very largely, but they are kept still, and in considerable quantities. The eye-stone will clear the eye. There is no doubt about that, but its movements are regulated by its shape and by a formation on the flat side or base of the stone, similar to a blade in a turbine water wheel. The whole resembles a shell just begun—before the cavity was formed, but are not. The stone is composed of lime, and vinegar or any acid by its action upon it causes motion. The stones are found on the seashore on the Pacific coast. Sailors gather them by the quart, and vend in trade centers. The price is 10 cents.

Bloodstones are also called for, not the kind known to seal rings and sleeve buttons, but glass stones or beads of the color of blood dark red. These are worn to prevent the nose-bleed, although the old plan to prevent namely, to keep the nose out of other persons' business, is in use still and works well. With a string through the glass bead and the string around the owner's neck the liability to nose-bleed is removed. The bloodstones, some of them, come from Germany.

Rattlesnake oil will unlimber joints afflicted with certain lamenesses, as all other oils or preparations will. It is called for often, and the buyers may get rattlesnake oil and they may not. It is said to be a business of considerable importance in North Carolina, to capture rattlesnakes and from the fat to produce the oil. At all events, rattlesnake oil is sold, and it is supposed to cure marvelously. Skunk oil is another cure-all for certain maladies.

Fools and Their Money.

A St. Joseph special says: The personal effects and household goods of Jesse James, the dead outlaw, were sold yesterday at 2 o'clock at the old home in the south part of the city. A very large crowd of people assembled on the ground, and when the auctioneer began the bidding was decidedly lively. About $10 worth of old rubbish brought almost $200. The outlaw's dog, a very common animal, brought $15; the chair on which he was standing when shot, $5; five other plain cane chairs, $2 each; a half-dozen stone china plates, $1 each; a half-dozen saucers, 50 cents each; knives and forks, $1 each; an old wash-basin, $4.75; the duster the outlaw was brushing off the picture with at the fatal moment, $5; a worthless jack-knife, $6; an old satchel, $21; a wash-stand, $11; a crippled revolver, $17; a pair of old mits, $2. Many other articles brought similar prices.

FROM THE WIRES.

The Times-Star's Greensburg, Ind., special says: A mob of fifty masked men at 3 o'clock this morning called on the jailer at this place, and by choking him tried to get the keys, but failed. They then knocked in the jail door, took out G. M. Garret, hung him to a silver maple tree ten feet from the jail, and left, after placing the following placard on his body: "This is greeting to the Jennings county jury." Garrett had been acquitted in Jennings county, where his case was taken on a change of venue, of complicity in the assassination of Mr. Walton by a negro, named Fraser, and after acquittal had been arrested on another charge. There are fears that the mob will next hang Fraser and Mrs. Walton.

A dispatch from Kansas City says: "A passenger from the West reports that the east-bound passenger train on the Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe road, was ditched last Sunday night near Rincon, N. M., and that five heavily armed men attempted to rob the express, but got into the baggage instead of the express car, and before they could rectify their mistake and get into the right car, the train men and passengers appeared in such numbers that the robbers fled. The engine and baggage and express cars were thrown from the track. The fireman was killed, and the engineer and Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger badly wounded. The express is supposed to have had $200,000 in silver from the Arizona mines, bound for New York, and it is thought the would-be robbers were informed of the fact by telegraph at Rincon, and that they belong to the band of desperadoes which has been committing all kinds of depredations in New Mexico and Arizona for months past.

New York dispatch says:

William Sindram was hanged this morning in the yard of the city prison for the murder of his landlady, Mrs. Margaret Crane, in January, 1881. The criminal met his fate with fortitude, and never showed any signs of fear from the moment the hangman called upon him until the black cap was drawn over his eyes. He was swung into eternity at 8:33. The procession emerged from the prison, led by Sheriff Bowe and Under-Sheriff Stevens. After them walked Dr. Morgan, praying aloud, and immediately behind him came the prisoner, walking firmly, having on either side a Deputy Sheriff. Sindram was calm, and nodded to those he knew, as he passed on his way to the gallows. The hangman's assistant was nervous, and forgot to lower the cap until reminded to do so. Sindram's face twitched, but he merely said, "Hurry up." Pulling the cap down with a jerk, the assistant stepped in front of the peep-hole, and when Sheriff Stevens gave the signals, it could be seen by the hangman, and it was many seconds before the difficulty was discovered, and the signal again given, when the body shot up in the air five feet and settled back six inches, the arms and legs twitching convulsively. In six minutes after the pulse ceased to beat.

Salem, O., dispatch:

On Sunday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock, Mrs. Calvin Summers, living a mile and a half southwest of Georgetown, while milking, was shot and terribly wounded by a young man named William Stull, a farm laborer. The villain went to the barn where she was working, and said: "Good morning." She replied, "Good morning; you're early." He made no reply, but at once drew his pistol, when she said: "Oh, don't; don't shoot me." He said: "You are the cause of part of my trouble, and I am going to kill you," and commenced firing, shooting three times, the first shot striking her in the small of the back, cutting the spinal marrow and paralyzing the lower part of the body. The second shot struck back of the left armpit, passing forward under the skin and was cut out near the breast-bone. The third and last shot struck her about three inches above the right knee on the inside. She died yesterday. The villian succeeded in making his escape, but people are scouring the country in hope of capturing him. No cause can be assigned for this terrible crime, other than the victim discharged him this spring.

The Cleveland Herald's special from Canton states that about sunrise this morning, William Stull, the Georgetown murderer, was cornered in a dense woods near New Franklin, fourteen miles southeast of Canton, by the Columbiana county Sheriff and his posse of deputies, who had been following him since Sunday. Finding escape impossible, he drew the revolver with which he murdered Mrs. Summers and fired two shots into his head in quick succession, producing instant death. The excitement is intense in Stark and Columbiana counties.

Joliet, Ill., dispatch:

It is useless longer to attempt to disguise the fact that this city is terribly afflicted with small-pox, the number of cases having rapidly increased within the past few days. Some thirty cases are reported this morning. All the schools and churches have been closed, and no assembling of people is permitted. The Board of Health, the city authorities and the physicians are doing their utmost to isolate the premises where small-pox cases are known to exist, and to check the further spreading of the pestilence. Many citizens have left the city, closing up their houses until all danger is past. The community is panic stricken, and not without good cause. Everybody is being vaccinated, and it is hoped that the worst is over.

THE STATE.

The farmers of Rush county are pasturing their wheat fields, on account of the havoc played by the freeze.

A rod of iron belonging to the Webster saw mill, at Richmond, at which the explosion occurred last month, has been found firmly imbedded in a tree a quarter of a mile from the scene of the accident.

Joseph Bogardus, a farmer, living near Lafontaine, Wabash county, has skipped out in company with Susie Grant, an eighteen-year-old girl, and a sister-in-law of Bogardus, leaving his wife to get a divorce.

Letta Skinner, a young lady of eighteen years, daughter of Major Skinner, of Valparaiso, has been restored to speech after a silence of eight years. Her voice failed her in a single night, and is coming back gradually.

Word has been received at Crawfordsville, that the body of J. M. Griffin, the absconding trustee of Sugar creek township, Montgomery county, had been found near Humbolt, Kan., and identified. The report, however, has not been confirmed.

Early Monday morning the large and fine barn of Jefferson Flora, in Heth township, Harrison county, was burned. Thirty-eight head of blooded sheep, and all Mr. Flora's farming impliments, were destroyed in the flames. Loss, $3,800, with $1,800 insurance. Incendiary.

William Kahn, a Madison butcher, slaughtered a steer the other day, around whose tongue he found firmly fixed an iron ring, which was once one the handle of a large pair of scissors, and could not be moved forward or backward. This animal was fat and had apparently suffered little inconvenience from the iron loop on its tongue.

James Ferrel, postmaster at Somerset, Wabash county, believing that, by virtue of his office, he was authorized to perform the marriage ceremony, married a couple, whose names are Jacob Lamb and Electa Seward. The contracting parties were very green, and as no one who was empowered to act was in town, they innocently went to the postmaster, who, to all intents, made them one, and the blunder was not discovered until next morning.

Gaar, Scott & Co., of Richmond, have received orders through a prominent New York house, from the director and manager of the estate of His Majesty the Emperor Franz Joseph, of Austria, and of Prince Furstenburg, for their grand gold medal separator, of large size, for the requirements of these estates, which are located in the upper grain producing portion of Europe, Hungary.

THE woman suffragists of Indianapolis, are asking the nomination of two prominent ladies as candidates for School Commissioners of that city.

A STATE Methodist Convention will be held at Indianapolis, June 27-29, to celebrate the semi-centennial of the Methodist Conference organization in Indiana.

APPEARANCES indicate that the military encampment at Indianapolis in July, will be "the biggest thing of the season." Among the many organizations inclined to "be there" are the famous New York Seventh, the Washington Light Infantry and the Washington Commandery, Knights Templar.

A SALOON-KEEPER at Warsaw was fined $700 and the costs, the other day, for violating the law and keeping a disorderly place. He couldn't pay, and hence will be compelled to serve out his penalty in jail, which will require two years and thirteen days of his valuable time. He could earn the cost of his board on a "stone-pile."

The Turkish Way.

One day the Sultan's Prime Minister came to him with an anxious face and said:

"Oh, Sultan, we are short for cash. What can we do?"

"Raise the taxes, oh, catiff."

"But the people can pay no more."

"Then we will increase the duty on imports."

"We can't, for we have no imports to increase on."

"Then make another European loan."

"It is impossible. We can not pay the interest on the loan we have already made."

"Are the crown jewels in soak."

"They are, oh, Sultan."

"Have we nothing to mortgage or sell?"

"Nothing, oh, great ruler, except our sacred honor."

"Then go and sell that, you ass! A Prime Minister with any fodder in his head would have thought of that in the first place!"

Autograph Quilt.

Denver Tribune

A Leadville lady is getting up a novelty in the line of an autograph quilt, which she proposes to raffle off for the benefit of Mrs. Sam Townsend, the widow of the officer shot the other day. She has sent a square of cloth and a pencil of indelible ink to all the American celebrities, with the request that they return the same with their autographs, and sentiment indorsed thereon. The result has been flattering, as she has amassed already quite a collection. Some of the returns have been witty, and some fraught with good common sense.

THE EAGLE AND THE SERPENT.

WM. CULLEN BRYANT.

A serpent saw an eagle gain,
On soaring wing, a mountain hight,
And envied him, and crawled with pain
To where he saw the bird alight.
So fickle fortune oftentimes
Befriends the cunning and the base,
And oft the groveling reptile climbs
Up to the eagle's lofty place.

A TRIFLE SCANDALOUS.

A Triangular Trouble in Washington in which a Beautiful Widow Figures Prominently.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The first faint odors of a scandal way up in society are just beginning to percolate through the veil of secrecy that surrounds it, and set the tongues of all the old gossipers wagging as only the sneerwells and backbiters of society can gossip.

The dramatis personæ are a gentleman of marked prominence in official life, a government clerk, and a dashing New York widow. The latter made her debut in Washington society late last autumn. She was a beautiful woman of 28, a perfect brunette, and so wonderfully fascinating that not only the men, but the women as well, worshiped at the shrine of her beauty. She brought letters of introduction to well-known people, and society at once opened its arms to her. A few months ago she moved to a swell boarding house on ——— street, where the two gentlemen above mentioned resided. The former is married and has the reputation of being a model husband. That is, he did have, but he enjoys the proud distinction no longer. The government clerk is an ordinary chap, as such people go. He belongs to the boating club of this city, and is quite an athlete. From the first the widow regarded him with favorable eyes, but to the surprise of everybody, the clerk, so far from reciprocating, treated the widow so cavalierly that many of her admirers regarded it as unparalleled rudeness.

But if the clerk was unimpressionable, the official was not, and his fondness for the widow became so apparent that loud and frequent were the curtain lectures that ensued when he and his wife retired for the night. One night, shortly after midnight, sounds were heard proceeding from the direction of the widow's room. At first it was a dull thud, followed by the overturning of tables and chairs, and ending at last, in a series of piercing screams.

